There was no possibility of utilizing Temple Bar, and those who opposed its removal could not even set up the plea that its destruction would be an act of Vandalism, a profanation of a work of art. It was not a "thing of beauty and a joy for ever." It was absolutely ugly, and it has puzzled many to account for the construction of such an inartistic building by the great architect who designed the noblest edifice in the city of London—St. Paul's Cathedral. We can sympathize with the great efforts made by Sir JOHN LUBBOCK, M. P., who fought so long and so earnestly in getting the House of Commons to pass a bill for the preservation of ancient monuments and historic castles and towers, abbeys and churches. The hand of time had wrought grievous work among them, and until within the last fifty odd years, when their beauties began to be extolled by the tourist, and their old walls and chambers and cloisters repeopled and restored to life by the historian and the historical novelist, they were the prey of every rustic vandal who had a cow-house to build or a stone wall to repair. Strange to say, even men of culture and refined taste were not loath to lay impious hands on the walls of the most magnificent architectural edifices. Did not the greatest of historical romancers, (he who has done more than any other in this country to "bring back into clear reality" their past history and people them with romantic associations which will live fresh in the pages of his immortal works when they have crumbled into dust,) carry off from Melrose Abbey beautifully carved stone-work to adorn the walls of Abbotsford? In the court-yard of Ludlow Castle, whose hoary and impregnable walls, after long centuries of border warfare, re-echoed the noble strains of "Comus," there is annually held a fat-pig show! Kenilworth, whose associations are of equal historic interest, the sad and tragic fate of AMY ROBSART, mingling with royal revelries in honor of the greatest of England's Queens, is a show place for fleecing tourists and breeding sheep and cattle. Many of the fine old baronial piles have been restored and again retenanted by the representatives of the historic families who built them, or by wealthy Lancashire cotton-spinners, Birmingham manufacturers, and London bankers, whose wealth has outweighed barren titles. The great majority, however, of the old castles and "keeps" are fast crumbling to dust, and in another century or two the world will know most of them no more.

The demolition of "Old London" has gone on at a terribly rapid rate within the last forty years. A disciple of CHAUCER would find it almost impossible, without a well-posted guide, to get at even the site of "The Old Tabbard Inn," in Southwark, and although "The Mitre" still exists in Fleet street, it is not the Mitre whose walls rang with the jocund merriment of SPENSER, JONSON, KIT MARLOWE, SHAKESPEARE, and the intellectual giants of the Elizabethan era. The rapid growth of London, and the attendant widening of old and construction of new streets, to say nothing of railways within the city bounds, have literally demolished "Old London." The grand old Tower still stands in all its gloomy, sombre glory, and will, probably, for centuries. The destroying hand of time has dealt gently with Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral still rears its noble dome and stands intact, an imperishable monument of the genius of WREN. But other historic buildings and places exist only in name. And now goes old Temple Bar, the most useless and ugliest of the "historic landmarks" of London. When it ceased to be a convenient place for displaying the heads of "traitors," "Ichabod, Ichabod," should have been written over the entablature. The removal of the "Bar" will effect a real improvement and be a lasting boon to the City of London.

LONDON THEATRICAL SEASON.

THE DRAMA OF JANE SHORE—AN HISTORICAL CHARACTER—PRODUCTION OF A FRENCH PLAY—OTHER AMUSEMENTS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 7, 1876.

The theatres are now open for the Winter season, and some novelties have been produced. One of these is an "historical drama," as it is called, by Mr. W. G. Wills, the author of "Charles the First" and other plays. It is entitled "Jane Shore," after the heroine, but the ideal character which Mr. Wills presents under this name is not historical, but a fancy of his own. It is known that the real Jane Shore was a very disreputable woman, who abandoned her husband, a London goldsmith, and her son, in order to become one of the mistresses of the debauched Edward IV. and enjoy the power and luxury attaching to such a position, and that on the death of the King she went over to Lord Hastings, a former gallant of her own. She lived to a good old age, and did not die in a ditch, as the legend runs, though she had to beg for subsistence, according to Sir Henry More, who saw her in the early years of Henry VIII. Mr. Wills, however, endeavors to clear the reputation of his heroine by suggesting that she was forced away from her husband, whom she dearly loved, and to whom she would gladly have returned, and that, in fact, she was a persecuted saint and martyr. Strict historical accuracy, however, in a play is not of much consequence, and Mr. Wills has certainly produced a very touching portrait of the fair penitent. His blank verse is spirited and flowing, and he contrives to introduce some effective situations, which are fully done justice to by Miss Heath, a former favorite of the London stage, who has of late years confined her performances to the country, but has now reappeared in town as Jane Shore. There is a controversy among the critics as to whether she is not rather too statueseque and stagey for modern taste; but there can be no doubt that she represents the character with much pathetic grace and sweetness. The main fault of the piece is its extreme dismalness. The agony of Jane Shore when rejected by her husband, after being driven from court, and afterward the persecutions of the ruffianly attendants, who are appointed to follow her about, and not allow anyone to give her food, and who are continually striking her and pushing her about, is much too prolonged, and becomes unpleasant. The piece, also, should be in four instead of five acts. Still, as an experiment in providing original dramatic writing of a high tone and poetical character for the stage, it is satisfactory. The audience is consoled by an after-piece by the Martinettis, American pantomimists, in a droll ballet.

At the Prince of Wales', the manageress Mrs. Bancroft—the Miss Marie Wilton of other days—seems to be at her wits' end what sort of entertainment to go in for, now that the interest of Tom Robertson's pieces is exhausted by continual repetition. She has at different times tried various plans. Shakespeare, Sheridan, Charles Reade, Yates have been taken up, but none have answered very well. This time she has given up English dramatists as hopeless, and has gone to the French for a play. Sardou's "Nos Intimes" is, no doubt, in its way, a very effective piece; but, then, it is a very French piece, both in its social characteristics and moral tone; and no amount of dressing, or cutting out, or changing French names for English ones, will get rid of its original character. Hence "Peril," as the English version is called, is simply a good play spoiled. The characters are neither English nor French, but a bastard compound; and while some of the worst improprieties of the original are toned down or omitted, the spirit and vitality of the story are lost. It is champaign dosed with water—a poor and sickly potation. There is, however, a strong cast, including Kendal Arthur Cecil, W. Younge, Bancroft, and Miss Madge Robinson (Mrs. Kendal,) Miss Buckstone, and Miss Leigh Murray, who all do their best. There are amusing passages in the piece, but as a whole it is dull and unsavory. Mr. Barry Sullivan is drawing good houses at Drury Lane in Colley Cibber's "Richard III." He is rather commonplace in his acting, but speaks out well, so that all can hear the words—a rare merit in English actors. At the Olympic there is a revival of a melodramatic French piece ("Le Bossu") under the title of the "Duke's Device." Mr. W. G. Gilbert, whose "Dan'l Druce" is being acted at the Haymarket, has written some humorous verses for the "Princess Toto," "a good, new, and original opera"—so the play-bill says—the music being by Mr. Clary. The melodies are light and pleasant, and the literary humor also seems to be appreciated. On Saturday next Mrs. John Wood reopens the St. James with "an eccentric comedy" entitled "Three Millions of Money," written by Mr. J. Lyster and Mr. Joseph Mackay—names as yet unknown to fame—and in which Mrs. Wood, Mr. George Clarke, and Mr. Honey are to appear. "Henry V." is still going on at the Queen's Theatre, but the upholstery and "supers" are found to be decidedly overdone.

PEACE OR WAR IN EUROPE.

THE GREAT POWERS TRYING TO DISAGREE.

ENGLAND'S PEACE OUTLOOK—RUSSIA'S ULTIMATUM—A SIX WEEK'S ARMISTICE DEMANDED—ATTITUDE OF THE AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT—GERMANY'S POSITION DEFINED.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A story that the British Cabinet, at its meeting on Thursday last, decided to occupy Constantinople with 50,000 troops, supported by a heavy fleet, the instant that Russia invades Turkish territory, and that if Germany, Austria or France should oppose this step, it would be the policy of Great Britain to occupy Egypt, was set afloat here yesterday by a Bohemian, who unsuccessfully offered it for sale at two guineas to the newspapers and news agencies, and who stated that he received it from Lord John Manners. The best evidence that England does not look to hostilities is found in the prorogation of Parliament.

The article in yesterday's Times, which stated that the Cabinet at its meeting Thursday night did nothing that can justify fears of British participation in the war, and that England is not called upon either by the text of treaties or by moral obligation to interfere, was unquestionably an official communication.

A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Paris says: "It is stated here that England has replied to Russia that as she has already supported a six months' armistice she cannot now recommend one of six weeks, but she will not oppose it. No power appearing willing to take the initiative, the question rests between Turkey and Russia. A solution can thus only be looked for at Constantinople. Diplomatic circles here still hope for a pacific settlement."

A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Vienna says: "Russia has presented to the Porte an ultimatum embracing in substance the following points: First, a six weeks' armistice unconditionally; second, administrative autonomy for Bulgaria, Bosnia, and Herzegovina; third, the execution of reforms under the supervision of Commissioners named by the great powers, and to be protected by an armed foreign force."

A special dispatch from Vienna to the Standard says: "Two large clubs of the Constitutional Party in the Austrian Reichsrath, the Club of the Left and the Club of the Progressionists, held a sitting yesterday on the questions to be put to the Ministers respecting the attitude of the Government upon the Eastern question. The majority of both clubs declare against any intervention, occupation, or annexation whatever. Some objections as to the competency of the Reichsrath in foreign affairs, hitherto reserved to the deliberation of the Austro-Hungarian delegations, were overruled."

The Pall Mall Gazette in a leading article says: "We have no faith in the negotiations nor in the reported understandings between the powers, and do not believe any of them have abated their pretensions, laid aside their jealousies, or modified their policy." The article concludes as follows: "The least sanguine view is at present the safest. We shall do wisely in believing there is not yet any such concert or understanding between the powers as may insure Europe against the worst consequences of a war between Turkey and Russia." However, all the Continental bourses to-day showed the same—or a greater—recovery as the London Stock Exchange, evidencing that returning confidence which the Pall Mall Gazette warns its readers against.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The National Zeitung states that Germany has defined her position upon the armistice question as follows: She is indifferent whether an armistice of six weeks or six months is granted. Therefore her interposition with the object of bringing about an understanding between the powers on this particular question can avail little. But, on the other hand, Germany never fails to recognize that the object to be arrived at is the restoration of an understanding between the powers with the view of procuring a durable peace.

THE SCIENCE OF DIPLOMACY.

MEETING OF AMBASSADORS—THE ENGLISH PROPOSAL URGED UPON THE PORTE—THE SIX MONTHS' ARMISTICE—FRESH DELIBERATIONS AT THE DIVAN EXPECTED.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople says: "The Ambassadors of the powers met yesterday at the residence of Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador. It is believed they agreed upon common action for procuring an understanding with the Porte regarding an armistice and conditions of peace."

A special dispatch from Berlin to the Pall Mall Gazette says: "The report is current here that the powers have again collectively urged the Porte's unconditional acceptance of the English proposals."

To-day's dispatches necessitate a serious modification of previous views in regard to the Eastern question. By the confession of the Times' Vienna correspondent he was mistaken about the powers which had declared their acceptance of the six months' armistice. Neither Austria, France, nor Italy had notified the Porte of their adhesion to that proposal, though none had objected to it. England alone, therefore, took formal action in its favor. The effect of this is that all the powers except England remain in a position to urge the Porte to concede the Russian demand. On the other hand, it seems certain that Russia has not the support of either Germany or Austria in the contemplated movement against Bulgaria. The announcement that the Czarowitch will visit the Courts at Vienna, Berlin, and London seems to indicate that Russia is best acting to act separately. Anyhow the mission of Col. Desishkoff, the Czar's Adjutant, to the Emperor of Austria fared no better than that of Gen. Sumarakoff and the weight of the evidence seems to show that the other powers have, like England, taken up an expectant attitude in the face of Russia's warlike preparations, for we have also a contradiction of the Russo-Italian alliance from several quarters including an inspired Reuter dispatch from Rome, which says: "Contrary to rumor, Italy, up to the present, maintains an attitude of reserve." Prince Bismarck is still at Varzin, the Emperor of Austria, and Count Andrassy are at Pesth, and the Russian Court at Livadia. At Belgrade it is declared that the Czar's return to St. Petersburg will be the signal for the entry of a Russian Army into Bulgaria.

A Reuter dispatch from Vienna says: "Intelligence received here states that the Russian War Minister has ordered the concentration of ten Army corps. The Grand Duke Michael Nicolajevitch, a brother of the Czar, will take command, and it is said his staff has already been formed."

The Pesther Lloyd says: "Peace, even now, is still possible; but war between Turkey and Russia, which cannot remain localized, is probable."

A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople says: "Friday's article in the London Times, and the statement that England was averse to rendering military assistance to the Porte, have produced considerable impression here. It is certain that after the Sultan has received Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador, there will be fresh deliberations at the Divan."

A Reuter dispatch from Vienna says: "The Ministerial Centre Party of the Austrian Reicherath today laid on the table an interpellation signed by 112 members, declaring that an understanding between Austria and Russia on the Eastern question is indispensable."

THE CONTENDING FORCES.

A TURKISH GARRISON HELD AS PRISONERS OF WAR—EFFORTS OF THE SERVIAN ARMY—MONTENEGRO EVACUATED.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A Reuter dispatch from Ragusa says: "Metino has capitulated to the Montenegrins, who hold the Turkish garrison of 400 men as prisoners of war. The Montenegrins have also taken the guns and ammunition of the Turks."

In the Servian camp, according to the Times Vienna correspondent, the idea of peace is scouted. Fighting continues before Saltschar. The Servians, under Gen. Doctorff Gen. Tchernayeff's new chief of staff, are endeavoring to drive the Turks from their positions there. The Servians considerably outnumber the Turks, but have not effected anything yet.

A Reuter dispatch from Ragusa says: "Dervish Pasha has evacuated Montenegro. The levy en masse which he recently ordered in Albania proved fruitless, only 300 men responding."

A dispatch from Belgrade says Gen. Tchernayeff has transferred his head-quarters from Deligrad to Kaonik.

AMERICANS IN TURKEY.

POSITION OF THE PROTESTANT MISSIONARIES—WHY AMERICANS DO NOT APPEAL TO THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a long statement which it says is by a person fully entitled to speak on behalf of the whole body of American missionaries in Turkey. The writer says: "The Protestant missionaries do not hesitate to say that the Turkish Government affords better assurance of religious liberty than some forms of Christian rule which might replace it. The missionaries have such dread of Russian ascendency that they have requested me confidentially to lay before the German Government certain proofs of Russian intolerance, and to solicit Germany to secure from Russia guarantees of religious liberty before consenting to the dismemberment of Turkey, or Russian occupation. The missionaries appealed to Germany because America's policy of non-intervention in European affairs precludes her treating the question by diplomacy.

EUROPEAN FINANCIAL NEWS.

CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT ON THE LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE—THE MINCING LANE MARKETS.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—There has been much excitement on the Stock Exchange this week, at one time amounting to a panic, and despite a brisk recovery on Thursday and Friday prices generally are lower on the week. The recovery was assisted by buying orders from the Continent. The principal declines on the week are: Italian, 4¾; Austrian, 4; Turkish, 1 to 4; French, 2½; Egyptians, 2¾ to 3; Peruvian, 1½ to 2; Uruguay, 3½ and Brazilian, 1 to 2. Consols have shown very important changes, and have fallen 1 9-16 to 1 13-16. Even American Governments have not escaped the general depression. The funded loan has fallen 1¼, and the others ¼ to ⅝. American railways have generally advanced, except Illinois, which has declined 2. All English railways are lower on the week, the decline averaging about 2½. Miscellaneous shares have also declined. The markets to-day were quiet, and the majority of stocks fractionally improved.

In Mincing lane a few speculative markets have been affected by this week's political crisis, but the changes generally have been unimportant. The usual course of business has been but little interrupted, and the latest news being considered more pacific, the market closed rather firmer. There has been an active demand for saltpetre, resulting in higher prices. Cotton maintains about last week's quotations. Some decline has been accepted for coffee, including plantation Ceylon, but at Friday's sales business in the latter was brisker. At the Dutch sales on Wednesday, good coffee fetched full prices, but low and ordinary grades receded. The sugar market has shown much animation, closing at six pence to a shilling per hundred weight dearer on the week. Speculation in low sugars has revived; shipments to America continue and refined has risen six pence to one shilling, and six pence per hundred weight since last Friday. The prospect of a short beet-root crop has also influenced the upward movement here. Tea remains quiet; importers will not sell at a reduction. Rice cargoes meet with more inquiry. Spice is quiet.

PIRACY IN FLUSHING BAY.

A SCHOONER BOARDED BY MASKED THIEVES—THE CREW AND A PASSENGER ROBBED AT THE MOUTH OF THE PISTOL.

Capt. J. S. Brown, of the schooner Joseph Marsh, of Port Jefferson, Long Island, called at Police Head-quarters last evening and gave information of an outrageous robbery which had been committed on board his vessel by Sound pirates. He stated that on Friday, about 11 o'clock P. M. his schooner, bound from New-London to New-York for orders, was anchored in Flushing Bay, off College Point. There were on the schooner besides Capt. Brown George C. Campbell, the mate; William Satterlee, the cabin-boy, and William L. Hunt, of Port Jefferson, a passenger. After everything had been made secure Capt. Brown, the cabin-boy, and the passenger retired, leaving Campbell, the mate, on anchor watch on the deck. His attention was soon attracted by a strange noise, and looking up he saw a number of men climbing over the side. Before he could recover from his astonishment he was surrounded by the men, several of whom seized him very roughly. He was pushed down into the cabin, whither seven of the men followed him, one remaining on watch on deck. The men were fully armed with revolvers, and their faces were hidden by handkerchiefs. Campbell resisted, but one of the pirates put a revolver to his head and threatened to blow his brains out if he occasioned any trouble. The noise of the scuffle awakened Capt. Brown, who, on looking up from his berth, saw the mate driven into one corner of the cabin at the muzzles of the pirates' pistols. The Captain was soon lost sight of from his berth, when three of the pirates seized him and threw him back.

The Captain, who is a very powerful man, broke away from his assailants, and sprang out of the berth. He was, however, seized and overpowered, and thrown back again. A blanket was then procured by one of the stoves, and this was thrown over his head, and he was distinctly informed that if he made any further resistance or attempted to give an alarm he would pay for his temerity with his life. Under these circumstances he remained quiet. Leaving the rest of the gang in the main cabin, two of the pirates entered the room in which Mr. Hunt, the passenger, was sleeping. They told him that if he remained quiet no harm would be done to him, but death would surely follow any attempt at resistance. The thieves then searched his clothes, taking $100 in greenbacks and a gold watch and chain valued at $150. They attempted to despoil him of a ring which he valued very highly as a memento, and in their haste broke it, the stone falling out on the floor of the cabin, where it was subsequently found. Meanwhile, those of the gang who had remained in the Captain's cabin made a thorough search of the place. They obtained from the Captain's pocket-book $33, and took $7 from the mate. They also took a shot-gun belonging to the Captain, and a suit of clothes, the property of the cabin-boy. The pirates spent half an hour on the vessel and searched it most thoroughly, but took nothing except what is mentioned above. They then placed Hunt and the cabin-boy, in the cabin with the Captain and the mate, and locked them in. At midnight they went away after cutting adrift the yawl of the schooner, in that way effectually avoiding pursuit. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning Capt. Brown and his companions succeeded in bursting open the door of the cabin, and at daylight hailed a passing tug-boat and were towed to this City. None of the victims of the robbery at any time during their stay on board the schooner saw the faces of their spoilers, and therefore cannot give any description of them that would prove of value to the detectives. Capt. Brown is of the opinion that he might perhaps identify one of the gang, who appeared to be quite a youth and who has a scar over the left eye. The thieves, it is supposed, came from the Long Island shore in a row-boat, and no doubt used muffled oars, as the first intimation of their arrival received by the mate was the noise made by them in scrambling over the side of the vessel.

THE SINGLE SCULL CHAMPIONSHIP.

BOAT RACE BETWEEN SCHARFF AND MORRIS—THE FORMER THE WINNER.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.—The single scull race between Billy Scharff and Evan Morris, said to be for $2,000 and the championship, took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock. In the betting Scharff was the favorite, several pools having been sold last night at $15 to $25 in his favor. The contestants had been in active training at their quarters on the Monongahela, and both were in prime condition. Scharff weighed 155 pounds and Morris 160. The course selected was on the Monongahela River. They started opposite Salt Forks Station, went two miles and a half up the river to the turning-boat opposite Miller's landing, and then returned. This course is nearly three-eighths of a mile longer than the Brown-Coulter one, and is 300 yards further up the river. The Referee and judges accompanied the men over the course. The weather was all that could be desired. Extra trains were run and an immense throng was present. The race was won by Scharff by one length. Time—32m. 35s.

THE WEATHER.

PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—1 A. M.—For the Middle States, rising or stationary barometer, northerly winds, shifting to warmer south-west or south-east, and clear or partly cloudy weather.

AMUSEMENTS.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

GENERAL MENTION.

We regret to announce that Mr. Stephen Fisk is dangerously ill from gastric fever.

The Slavin's "Georgia Jubilee Singers" will give a concert at the Grand Opera-house, to-night.

The San Francisco minstrels announce their regular entertainment for every evening of the week.

Mr. Richard Smetz announces three symphony concerts at Steinway Hall, the first of the series being set down for Nov. 11.

The second public rehearsal of the Philharmonic Society may be attended at the Academy of Music, on Friday afternoon next.

A new sketch by Mr. Harrigan, called "The Bold Hibernian Boys," will be part of this week's programme at the Theatre Comique.

The maintenance of "The Two Orphans" upon the programme of the Union Square Theatre is the only fact to be cited in connection with this house.

"Baba" is still the attraction at Niblo's, and seems to lose none of its potency by the increase of public acquaintance with its bright and artistic scenes.

"Sardanapalus" will to-morrow enter upon the seventh week of its run at Booth's Theatre. A new ballet incidental to the tragedy will be produced on Oct. 30.

The production of "Ching-Chow-Hi," an adaptation of an operetta by Offenbach, is promised for to-morrow at Kelly & Leon's Twenty-third Street Opera-house.

"Little Nell and the Marchioness" will be the attraction at the Olympic Theatre throughout this week. Miss Katie Putnam personating the principal character in the drama.

"Sweethearts" and "Tom Cobb" will be acted at the Park Theatre throughout this week. The favorable impression produced by these pieces on the night of their first representation has been deepened by their repetition.

The company at the Eagle Theatre this week will include the Misses Beaudere, Messrs. Wild and Richmond, and many popular artists. "Dodging a Wife," "The Baby Elephant," and "Send him to Wallack's," are the titles of the principal elements of the programme.

"Life" is to be kept upon the boards of the Fifth Avenue Theatre until further notice, and, but for the fact that some new pas and costumes are soon to be introduced into the piece, the fact of its steady attractiveness would be the single one requiring reference in this place.

The run of "Forbidden Fruit" at Wallack's Theatre is to extend to Nov. 8, only. On Nov. 9, Mr. Boucicault's successful adaptation is to make way for "The Shaughraun," in which, besides Mr. John Gilbert and most of the artists concerned in the original distribution of roles, Miss Rose Wood and Mr. Stevenson will appear.

Mr. George Wood has retired from the management of Wood's Museum, and Mr. W. E. Barnes succeeds him. Mr. J. B. Studley is to act at Wood's every evening this week, "Buffalo Bill" being the play; on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons, "Rip Van Winkle" is to be the dramatic attraction of the house.

The season of opera bouffe at the Academy of Music commences to-morrow evening when "La Jolie Parfumeuse" will be represented. This work will be repeated on Tuesday night and on Wednesday afternoon, and, on Wednesday evening, when the last performance of the series will occur, "La Fille de Mme. Angot" will be the attraction.

Mr. Fryer's third operatic concert is to take place at Booth's Theatre, this evening. Among the elements of an excellent programme are noticeable "Connais-tu le Pays," "Adelaide," and "Katheen Mavourneen," by Mlle. De Belocca: Wieniawski's "Faust" fantasia, by M. Sauret; two piano pieces, by Mr. Satter, and a harp fantasia, by Mme. Marezek. The Ninth Regiment Band will supply the orchestral music.

Mr. Thomas gives two concerts at Steinway Hall this week, the first occuring on Monday, and the second on Wednesday evening. To-morrow a "Beethoven programme" will be interpreted, the Seventh Symphony being its most important number. Wednesday, the music will consist of selections from Wagner's works, and several excerpts from "Die Walküre," and "Siegfried" will be executed, together with the introduction and finale of "Tristan und Isolde."

Mr. Barnum's enterprise in projecting and carrying to completion a great Centennial show is attended with that ample measure of success which it deserves. When Mr. Barnum undertakes anything he is never likely to let it languish for lack of energy, and hence the present entertainment follows in the prosperous groove of its predecessors. He offers to the public an exhibition of considerable magnitude and diversity, and of decided excellence in all its departments.

The wonders of the Aquarium continue to bring together large crowds day and evening. The hermit crabs and other shell-fish recently placed in the small tanks, and the additions made to the specimens of salt and fresh water fish in the large receptacles, are much admired. The white whale seems already to have become much more reconciled to his new home in the circular tank, and frequently remains on the surface of the water for several seconds at a time; he may therefore be seen to much better advantage than before. The seals and sea-lions also attract much attention.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Franz Weber, organist of Cologne Cathedral, is dead.

Mlle. Heilbronn has just appeared at St. Petersburg in "La Traviata."

The Colonne concerts at the Paris Châtelet recommence on the 29th of October.

Offenbach has written a one-act operetta called "Pierrette et Jacquot," for the Bouffes-Parisiens.

"The Duke's Motto," under the title of "The Duke's Device," has been revived at the Olympic Theatre, in London.

Herr Henneikindt, who was, as Signor Inchindi, famous at the French Opéra no less than fifty-three years ago, is just dead at the age of sixty-nine.

M. Léo Delibes' ballet of "Coppelia" was announced to be brought out at the Imperial Opera of Vienna on the 4th, and will be succeeded by that of "Sylvia."

An English version of "The Flying Dutchman" has been brought out at the Lyceum Theatre, in London, Mlle. Torriani singing Senta, and Mr. Santley Vanderdecken.

A letter from Paris states that Mme. Patti has signed an engagement for the Paris Grand Opéra for the season of the Exposition Universelle. She will create the rôle of Pauline in M. Gounod's "Polyeucte," which will be represented during that year.

M. Saivayre, the author of the "Bravo," which is to be performed at the Paris Théâtre Lyrique at the beginning of the coming year, has just terminated the score of the "Fandango," a ballet the libretto of which is signed Meilhac and Halévy, and which is to be brought out at the French Opera this Winter.

Mrs. John Wood has been forming her company for the St. James, which she opens with comedy and opera bouffe on the 14th of October. Mr. Charles Warner and Mr. George Clarke are said to be both engaged, and also Mr. George Honey, who has been too long absent from the London stage. Mr. George Clarke will play the Americus in Mr. Lyster's version of "Les Trente Millions de Gladiator."

A piece in one act, the "Sauveteur," by MM. Jules Noriac and Philippe Gille, music by Offenbach, has been read at the Bouffes Parisiens. The principal parts are intended for M. Dunbray, Mme. Aline Duval, and the two sisters Grézoire. Offenbach having heard one of these ladies at Vienna, advised M. Comte to engage her at once, but on application being made she returned the answer that they always made a joint engagement, and so both are to come to Paris.

The London Telegraph says of "The Princess Toto," just brought out at the Strand Theatre: "Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Clay, writer and musician, were just the partners to whom the public might fairly look for a lively entertainment, and so, when it was whispered about that the 'Princess Toto' was extremely popular in the provinces, and when it was seen that Mr. Clay took his seat in the orchestra, expectation ran high. Unfortunately, as the play went on it was found that Mr. Gilbert had been dozing, and that Mr. Clay showed few signs of inspiration. Regarded as a humorous production, the 'Princess Toto' is certainly not up to Mr. Gilbert's standard." The music, according to the same authority, is graceful, but the reception of the piece was not cordial enough to warrant confidence in its durable attractiveness.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON.

BALANCES IN THE TREASURY—THE IRISH CENTENNIAL ADDRESS—REDEMPTION OF NATIONAL BANK NOTES—NAVAL ORDERS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The President has approved the commission of William T. Hughes, of Illinois, to be agent for the Indians of the Grand River, (Standing Rock Agency,) in Dakota.

Several days ago President Grant, by written communication, informed Hon. Messrs. Parnell and O'Connor Power that the Centenary Address of Irish subjects of Great Britain should be presented through the British Minister, and not, as was proposed, directly to him. The course of the President was in accordance with the etiquette usually observed on such occasions, without regard to any reflections in the address on the Government of Great Britain.

The balances in the Treasury at the close of business to-day were as follows: Currency, $13,229,346; special deposit of legal tenders for the redemption of certificates of deposit, $39,690,000; coin, including $32,210,100 in coin certificates, $71,273,106; outstanding legal tenders, $368,494,740.

The Treasury now holds $337,289,800 in bonds to secure national bank circulation, and $19,155,000 to secure public deposits. United States bonds deposited for circulation for the week ending to-day, $609,000; United States bonds held for circulation withdrawn for the week ending to-day, $360,000.

National bank circulation outstanding—Currency notes, $322,870,952; gold notes, $2,099,180. The receipts from internal revenue to-day were $561,504 81, and from Customs $433,207 25.

The following were the receipts of national bank notes for redemption for the week ending to-day, as compared with the corresponding week of last year:

	1875.	1876.
New-York	$1,022 000	$1,607,000
Boston	763,000	832,000
Philadelphia	132,000	769,000
Chicago	723,000	61,000
Cincinnati	52,000	38,000
Miscellaneous	44,000	742,000
Total	$3,336,000	$3,477,000

The receipts for to-day were $773,387.

Master William M. Wood is ordered to temporary signal duty at Washington; Ensign W. C. Babcock to examination for promotion; Lieut. Commander G. K. Haswell, Lieuts. E. B. Thomas and Henry R. Baker, Passed Assistant Engineers H. C. Beckwith and Caleb E. Lee, Boatswain H. E. Barnes, Gunner B. P. Allen, Carpenter J. G. Thomas, and Sailmaker William Rogers are ordered to physical examination by the Retiring Board; Lieut. James W. Carlin, to the Michigan, at Erie, Penn.; Lieut. Elliot J. Arthur, to the training-ship Monongahela, at Baltimore; Commander William P. McCann is detached from duty as Inspector of the Eleventh Light-house District on the 1st of November, and placed on waiting orders.

THE MOVEMENTS OF SITTING BULL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The following telegram was received at the Indian Bureau this morning:

FORT PECK, Montana, Oct. 13, 1876, via BISMARCK, DAKOTA.

To the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.:

Messengers from Sitting Bull's camp report that the entire hostile camp has crossed the Yellowstone at the mouth of Big Horn River, en route for this place. They claim to want peace. What course shall I pursue toward them?

THOMAS J. MITCHELL, Indian Agent.

After consultation with Gen. Sherman, instructions were telegraphed to Agent Mitchell this afternoon, as follows: Inform Sitting Bull that the only condition of peace is his surrender, when he will be treated as a prisoner of war. Issue no rations, except after such surrender, and when fully satisfied that the Indians can be held at the agency, make early preparation to defend the agency stores and property. The military will co-operate as far as possible.

S. A. GALPIN, Acting Commissioner.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

ALBANY, Oct. 21.—The new Capitol investigation was continued to-day. H. H. Martin, one of the Water Commissioners, testified that Eaton superintended the work in the years 1874 and 1875, for which he received in commissions $9,450. Alonzo Coon, a bricklayer, testified that in his opinion work on the new Capitol was not properly done. Three other workmen testified to the same effect, saying their instructions were that it was quantity not quality that was wanted. The building experts of New-York who examined and reported against the work, will be examined on Nov. 8, next, to which time the investigation was adjourned.

IMPROVEMENTS IN BUILDING—FIRE-PROOF DWELLINGS.

A new feature in the building interests of the City the present year is the introduction of absolutely fire-proof structures for dwelling purposes. A fine private residence on Fifth avenue, and the Rockingham Apartment Hotel, corner of Fifty-sixth street and Broadway, an elegant building, have been constructed fire-proof throughout. This has been done by the use of iron for floor beams, with brick and fire-proof blocks for partitions, the filling between the beams of fire-proof composition blocks, upon which the ceiling is directly laid in plaster, without the intervention of lath or wood. There is no question about the utility and positive benefit to the City of such thorough and substantial work in building, and a weekly journal, in alluding to the Rockingham, highly compliments its details of construction, especially the absolute protection against sewer gas and odors by a new and perfect system of plumbing, drainage, and ventilation, says that many of its apartments are already rented by parties who have watched its construction, and adds that such structures "are greatly improving upper Broadway, and at no distant day this boulevard will equal Baron Haussmann's best in Paris."

TRIAL OF BURGLARS FOR MURDER.

The trial of Charles Oschwald and Thomas Ryan for the murder of Officer J. Stanley Brock, the policeman, in Newark, N. J., was resumed before Judge Depue in the Essex County Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday. Some testimony was taken as to the disposition made of Officer Brock's pistol, and of the condition in which it was found, and Mr. Horace Bedell and his family identified some articles produced in court as those which had been taken by the burglars. James Fussel testified that he lived next door to Mr. Bedell's house; his window overlooks Mr. Bedell's front door; on the morning of Aug. 3 he heard two pistol shots in Bedell's house; saw a man thrust his head out of the window and look cautiously around; then another man put his head out; both men came out, carrying a bag; he called to them and they looked up and he saw their faces plainly, it being broad daylight. Mr. Fussel identified Oschwald as the man who came out first, and Ryan as the man who followed. The men went away and soon officer Brock, wounded and bleeding, staggered out. The case will probably be closed on Tuesday or Wednesday.

ROW IN A DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

A disgraceful row occurred on Friday evening in the rooms of the Hardenbergh Battery, a Democratic Club, on Grand street, Jersey City. The members had assembled to await an announcement of the result of the Democratic Congressional Convention then in session. When it was declared that Hon. A. A. Hardenbergh had been renominated, a discussion ensued as to the merits of the candidate. The debate became heated, and four of the party set upon Patrick Lillis, a fellow member, and beat him unmercifully. John O'Rourke, a Democratic politician, and one O'Connor were arrested for the assault, and were put under bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury.

PIANO AWARDS.

GEORGE STECK & CO. IN THE FIRST RANK AT THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION AT PHILADELPHIA, 1876.

George Steck & Co. have been awarded the Grand Medal and Diploma for Grand, Square, and Upright Pianos, by the unanimous report of the Judges and the Centennial Commission "for greatest power, pleasing and noble quality of tone, pliable action, and solid workmanship. Shows novelty of construction in an independent iron frame and placing strings in three tiers." At the World's Fair at Vienna, 1873, George Steck & Co. also received the only gold medal.—Evening Express.

"SEE WHAT A GOODLY OUTSIDE FALSEHOOD HATH."

The Parisian Diamonds are not real gems; if they were they could not be sold so cheap; but their "goodly outside" makes them pass current as real everywhere. For sale only at Humphrey's jewelry store, No. 779 Broadway, opposite Stewart's, New-York.—Exchange.

SEE HERE, STRANGER!

If you want to enjoy a luxury, try a bath, either in the new, elegant Turkish, or in the marble Russian Vapor Department, at No. 7 West Twenty-fourth street, opposite Fifth Avenue Hotel. There is nothing equal to them. Open until midnight. Sunday until 6 P. M.—Commercial.

POND'S EXTRACT.—THE VEGETABLE PAIN DESTROYER. There is no pain or ache it will not abate, no bruise or burn it will not extract the agony from.—Advertisement.

THE HIGHEST AWARD granted any exhibitor by Centennial Exposition is given the ELASTIC TRUSS Co. for SILK ELASTIC TRUSSES. Sold only at 683 Broadway.—Advertisement.

NINE OUT OF TEN of the odd sensations in the various parts of the body which annoy many persons are traceable to weakness and the irregularities which its begets. Bodily comfort is the accompaniment of healthful vigor and it will assuredly return when UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is employed to vitalize the system and restore regularity to the organs of digestion, evacuation and secretion.—Advertisement.

DYEING AND CLEANING.—French black, seal brown, dark green, blue, and all fashionable colors, dyed at Lord's Central Office, No. 860 Broadway, corner 17th st.; branch offices, No. 701 6th av., corner 40th st., No. 111 8th av., near 15th st.—Advertisement.

Probabilities.

For the Eastern and Middle States, a decided spell of weather, followed by a heavy squall from the juveniles for one of those elegant boys' suits at RAYMOND'S Clothing-house, corner Nassau and Fulton.—Advertisement.

A Case of Consumption and one of Whooping-cough Cured.—The following, from a highly respectable gentleman, speaks for itself:

KEYPORT, N. J., May 20, 1868.

GENTLEMEN: This certifies that I was for many years afflicted with a disease of the lungs, until I became so weak that it was with difficulty I could walk. My cough during this time was very severe, causing me frequently to raise great quantities of blood, attended with profuse night sweats. After using various remedies to no purpose, I was advised to try WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. I did so, and before using the first bottle I was entirely restored to perfect health and strength. I would also mention that this Balsam cured a little girl of mine of a severe attack of whooping-cough, when a few bottles were given over by the physician and all other remedies had failed.

JOSIAH HOFF.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

No. 14 WARREN ST., NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

Wm. F. Kidder & Co., No. 83 John st., N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN: I take pleasure in stating that HOLMAN'S AGUE AND LIVER PAD has cured me perfectly. I was suffering with chills and fever very severely and have not had another chill since I wore the pad. Yours respectfully, PERRY B. BLOOMFIELD.

A Card to the Ruptured.—Dr. MARSH, the inventor of the celebrated RADICAL CURE TRUSS, and who has been established so many years at No. 2 Vesey st., Astor House, has not opened an office on town, and has nothing to do with any establishment other than his old office, No. 2 Vesey st. S. N. MARSH.

Dyeing and Cleaning.—The EMPIRE DYEING AND CLEANING CO. call for and deliver goods. Work surpassed by none. Offices—No. 93d Broadway, near 22d st.; No. 196 6th av., near 14th st.; No. 276 8th av., near 24th st.; Rossmore Hotel, Broadway and 42d st.

Don't Lose Your Hair.

CHEVALIER'S LIFE FOR THE HAIR restores gray hair perfectly, increases its growth rapidly, and makes the hair beautiful. Sold by all druggists.

Electricity, the great disease destroyer and health restorer, applied by Dr CRAMBERLIN, No. 7 west 14th st.

Everdell's, No. 302 Broadway, Elegant Wedding and Ball Cards, Orders of Dancing, Foreign Note Papers. Established 1840.

Rupture.—The Victor Truss, No. 3 Vesey st., Astor House, is the only one that never fails to satisfy. No understrap.

Holmes' Burglar Alarm Telegraph, No. 571 Broadway. No family can afford to be without it.

Use Brummell's Celebrated Cough Drops. The genuine have C. H. B. on each drop.

A $3 Felt Hat $1 90. Silk Hats $3 80, worth $6. No. 15 New-Chambers st., up stairs.

To Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain, and cures wind colic.

MARRIED.

CORNELL—LAMSON.—On Thursday, Oct. 19, at the Church of the Messiah, by Rev. Mr. Alger, ROBERT CLIFFORD CORNELL to ADELINA HELEN, daughter of Charles Lamson, all of this City.

DODGE—TALMAGE.—In Brooklyn, Thursday, Oct. 19, by Rev. A. P. Van Nest, D. D., Mr. FRANCIS E. LODGE to Miss MADALEN TALMAGE, daughter of Hon. T. Van Pelt Talmage. All of that city.

LYON—ROLLHAUS.—On Tuesday, Oct. 17, at the residence of Mr. P. Rollhaus, Jr., by Rev. A. C. Wedekind, JAMES G. LYON to AMANDA ROLLHAUS, all of Brooklyn.

O'BRIEN—HAZMAN.—On Thursday, Oct. 12, at the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, WILLIAM J. O'BRIEN, of Boston, to ADELAIDE LOUISA HAZMAN, of New-York.

DIED.

AYRES.—In Brooklyn, on Thursday night, Oct. 19, of pneumonia, G. LISCOMB AYRES, M. D., in the 61st year of his age.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral on Sunday, Oct. 22, at 2:30 P. M., from his late residence, No. 198 Montague st., Brooklyn.

DE GROVE.—On the evening of Oct. 21, M. E. DE GROVE, in his 83d year.

Funeral from the Church of the Atonement, corner 17th st. and 5th av., Brooklyn, Tuesday, the 24th, at 3 P. M. Members of Clinton Commandery, K. T., of Brooklyn, and the Veterans of 1812 respectfully invited.

ELWELL.—On Friday, Oct. 20, at the residence of her grandson, David C. Austen, No. 374 Franklin av., Brooklyn, MARY ELWELL, in the 83d year of her age.

The relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from St. Paul's episcopal Church, corner of Marcy av. and Penn st., Brooklyn, E. D., on Sunday, Oct. 22, at 4 o'clock P. M.

FOSTER.—On Friday, Oct. 20, 1876, EDWARD DODD, youngest son of Joseph and Josephine Foster, aged 8 years and 2 months.

Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend the funeral on Sunday, at 2 o'clock P. M., from No. 1603 Walton st., Lafayette, Jersey City, N. J.

HILYARD.—On Friday, Oct. 20, JAMES HILYARD, formerly of this City.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral on Third Day, Tenth Month, (24th,) at 2 o'clock P. M., from his late residence, Rancocas, Burlington County, N. J.

HOPPS.—On Friday evening, LEWIS HOPPS, in the 44th year of his age.

Relatives and friends of the family, those of his brother Clark S. Hopps, and the members of the Lincoln Club of the Seventh Assembly District, are respectfully invited to attend the funeral at his late residence, No. 135 West 15th st., on Monday, the 23d inst., at 12 o'clock. Remains will be taken to Beach wood Cemetery, New-Rochelle, for interment.

The members and friends of the Lincoln Club are respectfully invited to meet at the club rooms on Monday, Oct. 23, at 11:30 A. M., to attend the funeral of our late member, LEWIS HOPPS, from his late residence, No. 135 West 15th st.

HUNTER.—At New-Rochelle, on Saturday, Oct. 21, JOHN ALEXANDER, only son of A. Banks and Maria Hudson, in the seventh year of his age.

Notice of funeral hereafter.

KELLOGG.—On Oct. 20, No. 63 Madison av., after a short illness, LUCIA BUTLER RHODES, third daughter of the late Charles and Harriet Denison Rhodes, of this City.

SANDERSON.—E. L. SANDERSON, at 5 o'clock Saturday, Oct. 21.

Funeral services at his late residence, No. 83 Fort Green place, Brooklyn, Monday, Oct. 23, at 4 o'clock P. M.

THIEBAUD.—On the 20th inst., JULIUS S. THIEBAUD, M. D., in the 49th year of his age.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral at the church of St. Francis Xavier, 16th st., on Monday, the 23d inst., at 10 A. M., without further notice.

VAN SCHAICK.—Oct. 19, at the residence of her brother, Clarence G. Mitchell, No. 228 West 38th st., ANNA, wife of Peter C. Van Schaick, of Throgg's Neck, Westchester, and daughter of Jesse W. Mitchell.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral at St. Peter's Church, West Chester, on Monday, 23d inst., at 3 o'clock P. M., without further notice. Carriages will be in waiting at Mott Haven to meet the 1:50 P. M. Harlem train from Forty-second Street Depot. The remains will be taken to Kinderhook for interment.

DRY GOODS.

CLOTHS.

Arnold Constable & Co.

Have now open an extensive and choice selected stock of PLAID and STRIPE ENGLISH and SCOTCH SUITINGS,
SCOTCH and ENGLISH CASSIMERES,
ELYSIAN, SARDINIAN, and FUR-BEAVER OVERCOATINGS,
BASKET and DIAGONAL COATINGS,
MELTONS, "CARR'S" celebrated manufacture.
NEW DESIGNS in
BLACK and COLORED MATELASSE CLOTHS, specially adapted for LADIES' WRAPS, CLOAKS, &c., &c.
New Colorings in AMAZON CLOTHS.
ENGLISH and DOMESTIC WATERPROOFS.
LAMBSKIN and FANCY WHITE CLOAKINGS, for CHILDREN'S WEAR.
BLACK and COLORED ASTRACHAN CLOTHS.
EXTRA QUALITY SEAL SKIN CLOTHS.
ENGLISH DEVON KERSEYS, for LIVERY OVERCOATS.

Broadway, corner 19th st.

Arnold, Constable & Co.,

Broadway, Corner 19th Street,

Are now exhibiting the FINEST and MOST EXTENSIVE Stock of Fall and Winter Materials to be found in the City, and at the

VERY LOWEST PRICES,

viz.:

PLAIN COLORED FAILLES,
In Evening and Street Colorings.
SILK AND VELVET BROCADE,
BLACK SILKS, all the popular makes.
BLACK AND COLORED
ALL SILK, and SILK AND WOOL DAMASSE, and MATELASSE.

"LYONS"

BLACK CLOAKING VELVETS,

COLORED VELVETS;
qualities suitable for
JEWEL-CASE MANUFACTURERS, TAILORS,
MILLINERS, DRESS TRIMMINGS, &c., &c.
DRESS GOODS,
MATELASSE ARMURES, all wool and silk and wool.
ROYAL ESTERMENES,
SILK AND WOOL DAMASSE,
"JACQUARD CASHMERES."
PLAIN AND FANCY CAMEL'S HAIR CLOTHS,
DAMASSE, SATTEEN AND NEIGE CLOTHS, and a large variety of other
PLAIN AND FANCY WOOL FABRICS, adapted for
HOUSE AND STREET GARMENTS.

RICH LACES,

IN SHAWLS, SETS, SCARFS, HANDKERCHIEFS, BARBES, and TRIMMINGS
FOR WEDDING PRESENTS, &c.
THE LATEST NOVELTY,
COLORED SILK AND WOOL PERSIAN LACE
FOR TRIMMING COSTUMES.
FINELY EMBROIDERED
INITIALED, SCOLLOPED, HEMSTITCHED
AND FANCY COLORED BORDERED HANDKERCHIEFS.
PARIS AND HAMBURG EDGINGS AND INSERTINGS,
RUCHINGS, PLAITINGS, &c.

Hosiery and Undergarments

of every description
FOR LADIES, GENTLEMEN, AND CHILDREN.

Bed and Crib Blankets,

ARCTIC AND EIDER-DOWN QUILTS,
MARSEILLES QUILTS, COMFORTABLES.

Flannels,

WHITE, COLORED AND FANCY.
All grades and the best makes.
New designs in EMBROIDERED FLANNELS for INFANTS' SKIRTS.

Broadway and 19th st.

LORD & TAYLOR.

FURS. FURS.

TO THOSE WHO INTEND PURCHASING FURS, WE WOULD ADVISE AN EARLY CALL, AS THEY WILL THEREBY SECURE THE VERY BEST SELECTION.

NEW SEAL SACQUE

is the most desirable in the market. It is made of FULL FURRED SEAL OF SUPERIOR QUALITY, AND THE SHAPE FITS TO THE FIGURE WITHOUT SEAM IN THE BACK.
Our Seal Sets of MUFF AND BOA, for ladies, commence from $15 each.
Our Ladies' MINK SETS commence from $15.
Our Ladies' LYNX SETS commence from $7 50.
Our Ladies' BLACK MARTEN SETS commence from $16.

CHILDREN'S SETS

commence with us as low as $1 each.
REAL SEAL SKIN CAPS as low as $2 50 each.
We show a great variety in FUR TRIMMINGS, commencing from 30c. per yard.
Special attention will be given to the REPAIRING of FURS and to the RELINING of MUFFS and SACQUES.
SEAL SACQUES made to order to fit any size at short notice.

GRAND, CHRYSTIE, AND FORSYTH STS.
BROADWAY AND TWENTIETH STREET,

CARPETS.

PRICES REDUCED.

George E. L. Hyatt,

271 and 273 Canal, through to 31 Howard st.,

now offers at retail, at reduced prices, new stock of carpets, as follows:

AXMINSTERS, BODY BRUSSELS,
VELVETS, TAPESTRY BRUSSELS,
3-Ply Ingrain Carpets, Oil Cloths, Rugs, and Mattings.

MILLINERY.

MME. NATALIE TILMAN, late of 9th and 16th sts., now of No. 1,256 Broadway, between 31st and 32d st.)

FLOWERS, MODES, ROBES.

N. B.—Bridal wreaths and veils a specialty.

LACES AND EMBROIDERIES DONE UP like new; also fine lace curtains most beautifully restored; is thoroughly responsible; established 1862. WILLIAM R. DAVIS, No. 189 Lexington av.

MARIE TILMAN, OF PARIS,

Offers a unique assortment of latest finest Paris millinery; Virot and Tuvee's bonnets of rare elegance. No. 423 6th av., near 26th st.

MME. HARTLEY, NO. 947 BROADWAY and No. 177 5th av., has just received a case of French bonnets, which she will open on TUESDAY, 24th inst.

MARBLE MANTELS.

GRATES AND FENDERS.

The largest assortment of Grates and Fenders ever offered in this market, finished in every style. Low and Half Low Down Grates, with dumping attachment, a specialty. A large variety of Gas Logs, fancy nickel-plated Andirons, Fire Irons, Coal Vases, Folding Screens, &c. Liberal discount to the trade. Old grates altered to low or half low down. CONOVER, WOOLLEY & CO., No. 368 Canal st., New-York.

MARBLE and MARBLEIZED MANTELS at greatly reduced prices; also, monuments, head-stones, pumsters' and furniture slabs, marble counters, and tiling. A. KLABER, 134 & 136 East 18th st., near 3d av.

WATCHES, JEWELRY, &C.

MONEY ON DIAMONDS, FURS, &c.—Diamonds, watches, jewelry, silver-ware, camels' hair shawls, seal sacques, silks, laces, &c., bought and sold on commission at a very small advance. GEORGE C. ALLEN, Jeweler, No. 1,190 Broadway, near 29th st.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY REPAIRED by first-class workmen. GEO. C. ALLEN, No. 1,190 Broadway, near 29th st.

DRY GOODS.

Stern Brothers,

SIXTH AVENUE AND TWENTY-THIRD ST.,

WILL OFFER

MONDAY MORNING A LARGE AND ENTIRELY NEW ASSORTMENT OF

LADIES' & CHILDREN'S CLOAKS,

OF THE LATEST
PARIS AND BERLIN DESIGNS,
CONSISTING OF
ALL WOOL BEAVER AND BASKET CLOTH, MATELASSE AND PLAIN CLOTH, SACQUES, CLOAKS, AND DOLMANS,

TO WHICH THEY DIRECT THE SPECIAL ATTENTION OF THEIR

PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC,

AS THE STYLES AND GENERAL SUPERIORITY OF FINISH WILL BE FOUND TO BE UNEQUALED AND THE PRICES EXCEEDINGLY LOW.
A LARGE STOCK OF

CHILDREN'S CLOTH CLOAKS

FOR ALL AGES AND VARIETY OF STYLES.

INFANTS' MERINO CLOAKS, entirely new designs, very cheap.

LADIES' MORNING ROBES

OF FLANNEL, CACHMERE, CLOTH, and REPS, in great variety from $3 25 upward.
LADIES' CLOTH AND FELT SKIRTS,
new designs, from 75c. upwards.

SPECIAL BARGAINS

IN

IMPORTED UNDERWEAR

opening of five cases our own importations.
SPLENDID IMPORTED HAND-EMBROIDERED CHEMISE
at $1 25, $1 50, $1 75, $2 25.
A GREAT REDUCTION FROM FORMER PRICES.
NIGHT ROBES, DRESSING SACQUES, DRAWERS, &c.
proportionate low prices.
Our entire assortment of our own make.
LADIES' AND CHILDREN'S UNDERGARMENTS.

INFANTS' WEAR,

including a large stock of finest

LACE UNDERWEAR

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.
WILL ALSO OFFER THIS WEEK DECIDED INDUCEMENTS IN THEIR MILLINERY DEPARTMENTS,
SILKS, VELVETS, AND SATINS,
RIBBONS AND NECK-WEAR,
PASSEMENTERIE TRIMMINGS,
HOSIERY AND MERINO WEAR,
HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS, and several cases of

Finest Parisian Fancy Goods

AND

FANS,

WELL WORTHY OF INSPECTION OF LADIES WHO DESIRE TO SEE THE MOST ARTISTIC DESIGNS, FINISH, AND GENERAL COMBINATION OF MATERIALS AND COLORS OF PARIS HAND WORK.

STERN BROTHERS,

SIXTH AVENUE AND TWENTY-THIRD ST.

ALL-IMPORTANT!

HEALTH AND ECONOMY!

LADIES' WATERPROOF DOUBLE CORK-SOLED BOOTS, from $5 50.
MISSES' WATERPROOF DOUBLE CORK-SOLED BOOTS, $5 00.
CHILDREN'S WATERPROOF DOUBLE CORK-SOLED BOOTS, $4.
These prices cannot fail to be regarded with extraordinary public interest, for they place within the reach of all luxurious and health-preserving boots that heretofore could only be obtained at double the prices.
We would also call attention to our SUPERIOR $3, $4, and $5 WALKING BUTTONED BOOTS for LADIES and for CHILDREN, at $2 and $2 50, which for style and workmanship, surpass anything sold in this City at the prices.
For the prompt and proper execution of fine custom work we are provided with the best mechanical skill.

LORD & TAYLOR,

BROADWAY AND TWENTIETH ST.

PALAIS ROYAL,

14TH ST. AND BROADWAY.

GRAND OPENING,

MONDAY AND TUESDAY,

OCT. 23 AND 24.

WE WILL EXHIBIT ON THE ABOVE DAYS THE CHOICEST SELECTION OF NOVELTIES, IMPORTED FOR THE OCCASION FROM

Paris, London, Vienna, &c.,

CONSISTING OF RICH FANS, SHELL,
JET, IVORY, SILVER FILLAGREE, AND CONCHA SHELL JEWELRY,
OF THE CHOICEST DESIGNS.
P. S.—JUST OPENED, 500 DOZEN BOTTLE-GREEN AND NAVY-BLUE

Palais Royal Kid Gloves,

IN TWO, THREE, AND FIVE BUTTONS.

BANKRUPT NOTICES.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of ELIJAH H. TALLMADGE, composing and as one of the firm of TALLMADGE & CO., bankrupt.—In bankruptcy.—A warrant in Bankruptcy has been issued by said court against the estate of Elijah H. Tallmadge individually, and as and composing the firm of Tallmadge & Co., of the County of New-York, of the State of New-York, in said district, adjudged a bankrupt upon the petition of his creditors, and the payment of any debts and the delivery of any property belonging to said bankrupt, to him or to his use, and the transfer of any property by him, are forbidden by law. A meeting of the creditors of said bankrupt, to prove their debts and choose one or more Assignees of his estate, will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy, to be holden at No. 129 Fulton street, in the City of New-York, in said district, on the eleventh day of November, A. D. 1876, at twelve o'clock M., at the office of Edgar Ketchum, Esq., one of the Registers in bankruptcy of said court.
OLIVER FISKE,
Marshal—Messenger.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of WILLIAM DEGRAAF, bankrupt.—In bankruptcy.—A warrant in bankruptcy has been issued by said court against the estate of William Degraaf, of the County of New-York, of the State of New-York, in said district, adjudged a bankrupt upon the petition of his creditors, and the payment of any debts and the delivery of any property belonging to said bankrupt, to him or to his use, and the transfer of any property by him are forbidden by law. A meeting of the creditors of said bankrupt to prove their debts and choose one or more Assignees of his estate will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy to be holden at No. 152 Broadway, in the city of New-York, in said district, on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1876, at one o'clock P. M., at the office of Henry Wilder Allen, Esq., one of the Registers in Bankruptcy of said court. OLIVER FISKE, Marshal—Messenger.

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE THAT ON THE 15th day of August, A. D. 1876, a warrant in bankruptcy was issued against the estate of WILLIAM T. HARDENBROOK of the City of New-York, in the County of New-York and State of New-York, who has been adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition; that the payment of any debts and delivery of any property belonging to such bankrupt to him or for his use, and the transfer of any property by him are forbidden by law; that a meeting of the creditors of the said bankrupt, to prove their debts, and to choose one or more Assignees of his estate, will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy, to be holden at No. 302 Broadway, in the City of New-York, Room No. 6, before Isaac Dayton, Register, on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1876, at twelve o'clock M.
OLIVER FISKE, United States Marshal,
as Messenger, Southern District of New-York.

DRY GOODS.

LORD & TAYLOR

WILL OFFER THIS WEEK IN

DRESS GOODS

Full lines of MATELASSE, all colors, in 27 inches, at 59c. to $1 50; in 48 inches, at $1 50 to $4.
Full lines CAMEL'S HAIR, in the new Russian green and other choice colors; single width from 75c. to $1 50, double width from $1 to $3.
Rich silk and wool DAMASSEE, in the most beautiful effects, from $1 50 to $3.
BLACK CASHMERES, all wool, French, in all the qualities, from 75c. to $2.
The fullest and most complete display of dress goods in CARDINAL COMBINATIONS, in all the grades and makes from the popular lines, at 25c. to the richest goods made.
Scarlet and black and blue and black FRENCH PLAIDS from 30c. to $1 25 per yard.

CHEAP GOODS

For EVERYBODY IN THE PLAINER FABRICS, VERY PRETTY, USEFUL, AND ECONOMICAL, IN GREAT VARIETY.
ROMOAINE MATELASSE, at 20c.
CASHMERE POPLINS at 25c.
SHEPHERD CHECKS at 15c. and 20c.
MIXED AND PLAID SUITINGS at 12½c.
WINCEY SUITINGS, BELGIAN POPLINS, ALPACAS, &c., &c., &c.

SAMPLES OF GOODS, AND CATALOGUES OF LADIES', MISSES', AND CHILDREN'S FURNISHING GOODS SENT FREE ON APPLICATION TO ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY. ORDERS FOR GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION CAREFULLY FILLED WITHOUT CHARGE, AND GOODS PACKED AND FORWARDED TO ANY DESTINATION.

BROADWAY AND TWENTIETH ST.,
GRAND AND CHRYSTIE STS., N. Y.

FINANCIAL.

VERMILYE & CO.,

BANKERS

16 and 18 Nassau st., New-York.

DEALERS IN ALL ISSUES OF GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
NEW-YORK CITY
AND BROOKLYN BONDS,
BUY AND SELL ON COMMISSION
RAILWAY STOCKS, BONDS, AND GOLD.

INTEREST ON DEPOSITS.

WASH'N R. VERMILYE, DONALD MACKAY
JAS. A. TROWBRIDGE, LATHAM A. FISH

KOUNTZE BROTHERS, Bankers, 12 Wall St., New York, draw Bills on England, France and Germany; issue Letters of Credit available throughout the United States and Europe, and make transfers of money by telegraph and cable. Investment orders executed in the Exchanges of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco. Approved Securities for sale.

Detroit, Monroe and Toledo R. R. Co.'s

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

DUE 1906. Interest Seven Per Cent., due February and August. Total issue, $924,000 on 62 miles of road, WITH NO OTHER DEBT OF ANY DESCRIPTION.

PRINCIPAL and INTEREST GUARANTEED by the LAKE SHORE AND MICHIGAN SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

A LIMITED AMOUNT FOR SALE BY

CHASE & ATKINS, Bankers,

NO. 18 BROAD STREET, N. Y.

6 & 7 Per Cent. Stocks

OF THE
CITY OF NEW-YORK,
(Maturing 1878 to 1904,)
FOR SALE BY
GEO. K. SISTARE,
NO. 24 NASSAU ST.

8 and 10 Per Cent.

FIRST MORTGAGE GAS-LIGHT COMPANY AND RAILROAD COMPANY BONDS. ALSO SAME CHOICE 7, 8, AND 10 PER CENT. MUNICIPAL CITY AND COUNTY BONDS, FOR SALE BY

Albert H. Nicolay & Co.,

NO. 43 PINE ST., NEW-YORK.
N. B. INVESTMENT SECURITIES OUR SPECIALTY TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

DELAWARE BRIDGE COMPANY,

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
TOTAL ISSUE $350,000.
Interest 7 per cent., payable April and October.
PRINCIPAL DUE OCT. 1, 1915.

A portion of the Delaware Bridge is under lease to the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad Company, (United Companies of New-Jersey,) for 995 years, at an annual rental of $24,500.

For sale by DAVIDSON & JONES,
Nos. 59 and 61 Wall st.

HOTCHKISS & BURNHAM,

(Members New-York Stock Exchange.) Commission Stock Brokers, No. 39 Broad st., New-York.
Stocks, Bonds, and Gold bought and sold on margin, or for cash. Branch offices in Fifth Avenue and Windsor Hotels, connected by our private telegraph lines. Accounts solicited.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,

NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE COMMERCIAL and TRAVELERS CREDITS AVAILABLE in all PARTS of the WORLD.

$72,000 TO LOAN ON CITY IMPROVED real estate at six and seven per cent; only principals need apply. Address LOAN, Box No. 172 Times Office.

AT REASONABLE RATES.—MONEY ON LIFE and endowment insurance policies, mortgages, and other securities. Insurance of all kinds effected with best companies. J. J. HASBROCK & CO., 119 Broadway.

$658,000 TO LOAN ON GOOD PROPERTY. No money at 6 per cent. PAUL P. TODD, No. 145 Broadway.

HARLEM GAS STOCK WANTED BY W. B. SCOTT & CO., No. 24 Pine st.

DIVIDENDS.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, STATE TREASURER'S OFFICE, LANSING, Aug. 16, 1876.

ALL SIX PER CENT. STATE BONDS DUE in 1878, 1879, and 1883, will be redeemed at par and accrued interest after this date at the American Exchange National Bank, New-York.
WM. B. McCREERY, State Treasurer.

THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK, NEW-YORK, Oct. 20, 1876.

A DIVIDEND OF THREE AND ONE-HALF per Cent., free of taxes, has been declared on the capital of this bank, payable on and after Nov. 1.
The transfer books will be closed from this date, and reopen on the 2d November. E. WILSON, Cashier.

THE NOVEMBER COUPONS OF THE REAL ESTATE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, guaranteed by the Mercantile Trust Company, will be paid at the office of the company, Equitable Building, No. 120 Broadway, on the 1st day of November next.
LOUIS FITZGERALD, President.

THE COUPONS OF THE BLEECKER Street and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company Bonds due July 1, 1875, January and July 1, 1876, will be paid on presentation at No. 158 West 44th st. by
JOHN M. HARLOW, Trustee.
NEW-YORK, October, 1876.

SAVINGS BANKS.

NOTICE.—MANUFACTURERS' AND BUILDERS' SAVINGS BANK.—On and after TUESDAY, Oct. 24, 1876, the undersigned will pay twenty per cent. to the creditors of the above bank, at the office of Butcher & Butler, No. 802 3d av., in the City of New-York.
Oct. 20, 1876. WM. A. BUTLER, Receiver.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

$2,000 AND SERVICES OF A GOOD business man in any good paying business, wines and liquors not included. Address HONOR, Box 261 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, 1,257 BROADWAY.

FLORIDA!—COMPLETE HISTORY, LARGE MAP, nature's orange groves; all in FLORIDA. NEW-YORKER, No. 34 Park row, 10 cents.

DRY GOODS.

SPECIAL

Announcement.

Paris, Berlin, and London

GARMENTS,

Of Latest Styles in Shapes, Materials, and Colors.

A. T. Stewart & Co.

WILL OFFER ON

MONDAY, Oct. 23,

AT SUCH REDUCTION of PRICES as WILL ENABLE LADIES who PREFER a FOREIGN-MADE ARTICLE to PROCURE THEM at REASONABLE PRICES.

These Garments

HAVING BEEN PURCHASED for the PURPOSE of OBTAINING MODELS for STYLES, and having served their object, are NOW OFFERED at PRICES LARGELY LESS THAN the COST OF IMPORTATION. THEY INCLUDE the ENTIRE PURCHASES and IMPORTATIONS of the PRESENT SEASON, and CONSIST of

Latest Novelties

In Silks, Damasse, Velvet,

Camels' Hair, Serge, &c.,

SUITABLE FOR EVENING, DINNER, RECEPTION, and PROMENADE DRESSES for LADIES, MISSES, and CHILDREN, in an ALMOST ENDLESS VARIETY of the NEWEST FABRICS and COLORINGS.

Broadway, 4th av., 9th & 10th sts.

MILLINERY

A. T. Stewart & Co.

ARE NOW OFFERING an UNUSUAL GRAND DISPLAY of

French Millinery,

COMPRISING
Ostrich Plumes, Tips, Ponpons,
Beaded Coque Bandeaux,
And Crown Pieces,
Impean and Coque
Breasts and Wings
OF EVERY STYLE,
Rich French Flowers
IN MONTURES, ROSES and BUDS.
Bridal Sets and Veils,
Floral Garnitures
FOR WEDDING and EVENING COSTUMES, ARRANGED to ORDER.
French Felt Hats,
NEWEST SHAPES and COLORS in GREAT VARIETY.
French Hats and Bonnets,
TRIMMED and UNTRIMMED, VERY ELEGANT, from the CELEBRATED HOUSES of VIROT, TUVEE, GEORGETTE, and OTHERS, at a GREAT REDUCTION from FORMER PRICES.

Domestic Hats and Bonnets

THEIR OWN MANUFACTURE, of EQUAL ELEGANCE in DESIGN and VARIETY.

Crape Hats and Bonnets

ALWAYS on HAND or MADE to ORDER at SHORT NOTICE.

Broadway, 4th av., 9th and 10th sts.

LORD & TAYLOR

BOYS' CLOTHING

IN
THE NEWEST FABRICS AND LATEST STYLES.

BOYS' SCHOOL AND DRESS SUITS, PLAY AND KILT SUITS,

IN EXTENSIVE ASSORTMENT.
ULSTER AND SACK OVERCOATS IN FUR, BEAVER, CHINCHILLA, AND OTHER CLOTHS.
ALSO,
BOYS' FELT AND CLOTH HATS AND CAPS FOR FALL AND WINTER WEAR.

GRAND, CORNER CHRYSTIE, NOS. 83 AND 85 FORSYTH STREET, AND BROADWAY AND TWENTIETH STREET.

GREAT REDUCTION

IN GOOD BOOTS AND SHOES.

BROOKS'

LADIES', GENTS', MISSES', and CHILDREN'S BOOTS AND SHOES. THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT OF THE BEST FINE WORK AT LOWER PRICES THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THE CITY. ORDERED WORK A SPECIALTY. HANDSOME AND EASY FITS GUARANTEED.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF

Ladies' Fine Walking Button Boots, $3, $4, and $5.
Misses' and Children's Button Boots, $2 and $2 50.
Boys' fine Calf Double Sole Button and Congress Boots cheap.
Brooks' Patent Cork Sole Boots and Shoes recommended by all physicians. Awarded the highest premium at the great Centennial Exhibition.

1,196 BROADWAY, COR. 29TH ST.

FALL NOVELTIES.

SILK FRINGES AND HEADINGS.
HAND-MADE WORSTED FRIAGES.
BASKET MOHAIR BRAID, IN ALL NEW SHADES, WITH SILVER AND GOLD.
RIBBONS, LACE SCARFS, INFANTS' EMBROIDERED AND TRIMMED CAPES.
BREAKFAST CAPS, &c., &c.

MILLER & GRANT,

NO. 879 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

ICE-CREAM.

HORTON'S ICE-CREAM.

Made from PURE ORANGE COUNTY CREAM, appreciated for its purity, richness, and certainty of being delivered in good order. Churches, fairs, strawberry festivals, &c., supplied at 25 Cents Per Quart.

Nos. 305 4th av., 1,284 Broadway, and 75 Chatham st.

FUSSELL'S ICE-CREAM.—CHURCHES AND Fairs 25 cents per quart. Charlotte Russe by the dozen or quart. Special attention to out-of-town orders.

DRY GOODS.

James McCreery & Co.,

BROADWAY AND 11TH ST.,

WILL EXHIBIT

On Monday, Oct. 23,

IN OUR

CLOAK AND SUIT DEPARTMENTS

ELEGANT IMPORTED NOVELTIES,

AS WELL AS A LARGE STOCK OF OUR OWN MANUFACTURE,

At Prices to Suit the Times.

ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

FINE MILLINERY GOODS

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, INCLUDING

FRENCH PATTERN BONNETS, FLOWERS, FEATHERS,
RIBBONS, &c.

FURS! FURS!

SEALSKIN SACQUES

A SPECIALTY,

IN ALL SIZES.

NOVELTIES IN SILKS.

DRESS GOODS, LACES,
HOSIERY and GLOVES,
SHAWLS and INDIA GOODS.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF

CHENEY BROTHERS'

Colored Gros Grain Silks,

$1 50. Former Price, $2.

A.

TRADE L MARK.

FREDERICK LOESER & CO.'S

Brooklyn Mammoth Establishment.

Fine Goods at Popular Prices.

Dress Goods,	Silks,	Ribbons,
Millinery,	Laces,	Gloves,
Corsets,	Hosiery,	Underwear,
Fancy Goods.	Buttons,	Notions,

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing,

Corsets, Skirts, &c.

House-keeping Goods,	Flannels,
Made-up Lace Goods,	Ties,
Hemming Embroideries,	Ruchings,
Wedding Outfits,	Shawls,
Infants' Outfits,	Cloaks,
White Goods,	Worsteds,
Passementeries,	Velvets,
Toilet Articles,	Furs,
Holiday Goods,	Toys.

Our FASHION LIGHT, published monthly, contains choice reading matter and gives all the latest information on fashions. It will, on application, be mailed free of charge. Orders from the country solicited and filled with great care and dispatch. Orders from $10 upward forwarded on our expense when prepaid by money-order or draft.

FREDERICK LOESER & CO.,

FULTON, TILLARY, AND WASHINGTON STS.,

BROOKLYN.

SPECIAL OPENING.

WILSON & GREIG,

NO. 771 BROADWAY, CORNER OF 9TH ST.,

Will offer on Monday their new FALL and WINTER FASHIONS in CLOAKS and COSTUMES, among which are many exclusive novelties not to be found in any other house.

LADIES' AND CHILDREN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

WEDDING TROUSSEAUX and INFANTS' WARDROBES, MISSES' and CHILDREN'S CLOAKS and DRESSES in entirely new styles.
NOVELTIES in new MATERIALS for costumes and over-dresses.
NOVELTIES in CLOTHS and CLOAKINGS, such as are used in the Paris garments.
SILK and FUR-LINED CLOAKS, in entirely new shapes.
New styles in GALLOONS, BRAIDS, FRINGES, BUTTONS, &c., in wool and silk.

MOURNING GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

NOVELTIES in BLACK FIGURED SILKS for CLOAKS.

FURS, FURS, FURS,

Twenty-five per cent. cheaper than regular fur stores.
FURS altered, cleaned, and repaired, and any article made to order.
DRESS-MAKING. Latest fashions received.
Ladies' own materials made up.
Our entire stock of IMPORTED COSTUMES at much less than their cost price.

TO THE ECONOMICAL.

All our last year's COSTUMES, IMPORTED and our own manufacture, will be sold at an immense sacrifice. Although not of the latest fashion they are of fine material, well made, and surprisingly cheap.

WILSON & GREIG.

LORD & TAYLOR

CLOSING-OUT SALE OF ENGLISH PRINTS,

YARD WIDE, FORMER PRICE 25c., now selling at 12½c.

Grand, corner Chrystie, and Nos. 83 and 85 Forsyth st.

GUNOUT, FROM PARIS, LATE WITH Auguste Petit, No. 7 Rue de la Paix.—Just received, Parisian hair nets for the front hair; also invisible crimps, made with real natural hair, and curls. No. 7 Union square.

DRY GOODS.

KINZEY'S.

FALL GOODS FROM AUCTION GOODS LOWER THAN EVER OFFERED.

3,000 Yards Colored Silks. Reduced from $1 50 to 50c. yard. KINZEY.
Colored and Black Silk Velvets. Feathers and Flowers very low. KINZEY.
Fine Felt Hats and Bonnets. Trimmed French Bonnets. KINZEY.
Bargains in Gimps and Fringes. Passementerie Gimps reduced to $1 piece. KINZEY.
Silk Trimming Velvets 5c. yard. Best Narrow Silk Velvets 10c. piece. KINZEY.
Bargains in Ribbons. 25,000 Yards all the new shades. Four inches wide, this season's Importation, worth 75c. at 25c. yard. KINZEY.
12,000 Yards all silk basket patterns. And Serges in black, wide widths, 25c. yard. KINZEY.
Cord Edge Ribbons, 2c., 5c., 6c. yard. All Silk No. 9, 12 and 16 at 10c. yard. KINZEY.
Bargains in Real Laces. Real Guipure Laces 12½c. to $1 25. KINZEY.
Real Yak Laces from 10c. up. Valenciennes Laces 2c., 5c., 8c. up. KINZEY.
Bargains in Lace Ties and Scarfs. Cardinal Laces worth 25c., 10c. yard. KINZEY.
Linen Collars and Cuffs 5c. and 10c. Lace Ruches 15c., 19c., 25c., 31c., up. KINZEY.
Cheapest lot of Handkerchiefs in New-York, in Ladies', Misses', Gents' and Boys', examine them. A Line of Silk Handkerchiefs at 25c. KINZEY.
Ladies', all linen, good quality, 6c. Ladies' all linen, better, at 8c. KINZEY.
Hem-stitched, Embroidered Initials, 12½c. Very Rich Embroidered Hem-stitch, 50c. KINZEY.
All Linen Colored Borders, 6c. Gents' Linen Colored Borders, 15c. KINZEY.
Gents' All Linen Hemmed, 12½c., 15c. All Linen Hem-stitch, 13c., 15c., 18c. KINZEY.
Gents' Cashmere Mufflers 25c. up. Large lot o. Silk Handkerchiefs, 25c., 39c. up. KINZEY.
Underwear — Great Bargains in Ladies', Misses', and Infants' Muslin Underwear, Chemises, Drawers Sacques, Skirts, Night-Dress, &c., prices way down. KINZEY.
Ladies', Misses', and Boys' Fine Merino Underwear at 50c. KINZEY.
Gents' Merino Underwear, 42c. up. Gents' Furnishing Goods, very low. KINZEY.
Ladies' and Children's Hand-knit Woolen Goods, every style. KINZEY.
Bargains in Towels, 8c., 10c., 12½c. up. Fine Damask Napkins from auction. KINZEY.
10,000 yards Rich, Embroidered Curtain Muslins, at 19c. yard. KINZEY.
Glove Department, Immense Bargains. 80,000 Pairs Ladies' Two-button Dollar Kid Gloves, Opera, Black, Modes, and all the new Fall colors, reduced to 50c. pair. KINZEY.
White Kid Gloves, at 31c. pair. Gents' Kid Gloves at 63 a pair. KINZEY.
Real Kid, One Button, 25c. pair. Lot soiled, Two buttons, 25c. pair. KINZEY.
Gents' Double-stitched Dog Skin Gloves, new Fall shades, reduced to 75c. pair. KINZEY.
Broadway Kid Glove, Two Buttons, warranted 75c. Cushman Kid Glove, Two Buttons, warranted, 97c. KINZEY.
Real Kid Gloves, 2, 3, 4, and 6 Buttons. Boys' and Misses' Dog Skin Gloves, 50c. KINZEY.
Fine French Cloth Gloves, 25c. pair. Lined Winter Gloves at low prices. KINZEY.
Toilet Articles, Soaps, Perfumeries, Powders. Toilet Waters, Brushes, Combs, Mirrors, Pomades, &c. KINZEY.
Allcock's Genuine Porous Plasters, 10c. Fine Imported Soaps, 5c. per cake. KINZEY.
Bronzes, Silver-plated Ware, China and Glass Goods, Dressing Cases, &c. KINZEY.
Dolls, Toys, Games, Fancy Boxes, Baskets, Swiss Goods, Frames, &c. KINZEY.
Porte-monnaies, Bags, Belts, Straps, Card and Cigar Cases, Albums, Stationery, &c. KINZEY.
Hosiery Department filled with lots of the cheapest Hosiery ever offered in New-York in Ladies' Misses', Gents', and Boys'. KINZEY.
Misses' Fleeced Cotton Hose, 10c. per pair. Misses' Striped Cotton Hose, 10c. per pair. KINZEY.
Ribbed Cotton Hose, Colors and Whites, 10c. per pair. KINZEY.
Fancy Striped Wool Hose, 15c. per pair. KINZEY.
Misses' full regular Striped Hose, 25c. pair. Extra English full regular Hose, 31c. pair. KINZEY.
Ladies' Fancy Hosiery, 17c., 20c., 25c., pair. Ladies' Hose, plain colors, 17c. per pair. KINZEY.
Ladies' full regular Balbriggans, 25c. Ladies' Merino Striped Hose, 35c. KINZEY.
Gents' English Half-hose, 15c., 20c. per pair. Gents' Merino Half-hose, 20c., 25c., up. KINZEY.
Full assortment of Ladies' and Misses' Fancy and Plain Cashmere Hose at prices below cost of importation. KINZEY.
In our Notion Department everything very low. Pins, 2c. per paper; Best Needles, 5c.; Tapes, 1c. and 2c.; Machine Silks, 3c. per spool; Hooks and Eyes, 1c. per card; hair pins, 1c. per paper; buttons, 2c. and 3c. dozen; scissors, braids, cottons, Tapes, Silks, Worsteds, Buttons, &c., all under price. KINZEY.

WILLIAM KINZEY,

Nos. 767 and 769 BROADWAY,

CORNER 9TH ST.

LORD & TAYLOR

SILKS.

$500,000 Worth of Colored and Black Silks at Last Year's Prices.

THE LARGEST, CHEAPEST, AND BEST SELECTED STOCK IN THE CITY.

The latest colors and shadings in COLORED SILKS for EVENING, DINNER, and STREET WEAR, from $1 25 and $2 per yard and upward.

BLACK SILKS of the leading makes—Guinet, Bellon, Bonnet, Cachemire Royale, the Lord & Taylor family brand, (so favorably received heretofore,) and the Cachemere de Granlee 60 inches wide—for cloaks.
Guiveroand's INDESTRUCTIBLE CACHEMIRE-FINISHED BLACK SILK, for street wear, at
$1 50, worth $1 80.
$1 60, worth $2 00.
$1 85, worth $2 25.
$2 00, worth $2 50.
THESE GOODS WILL BE SOLD AT FULLY 20 PER CENT. LESS THAN THE SAME QUALITIES CAN NOW BE IMPORTED.

SAMPLES OF GOODS AND CATALOGUES OF LADIES', MISSES', AND CHILDREN'S FURNISHING GOODS SENT FREE ON APPLICATION TO ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY. ORDERS FOR GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION CAREFULLY FILLED WITHOUT CHARGE, AND GOODS PACKED AND FORWARDED TO ANY DESTINATION.

BROADWAY AND TWENTIETH ST.,
GRAND, CHRYSTIE, AND FORSYTH STS.

MUSICAL.

REMOVAL.—ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY pianos and organs, grand, square and upright, new and second hand, of SIX first-class makers, including Steinway's, Waters's, and Chickering's, will be sold at extraordinary low prices to close out the entire stock previous to removal to our new store, No. 40 East 14th st., Union square. Music at half price, some at 2 cents per page. Instruments to let from $3 to $6 per month. Great inducements to teachers and dealers.
WATERS & SON, No. 481 Broadway.

A FINE ASSORTMENT OF FIRST-CLASS Pianos-fortes for sale at very moderate prices on easy and reasonable terms at HAINES BROTHERS, corner of 2d av. and 21st st.
A few pianos that have been used a little very low.

STEINWAY, CHICKERING, WEBER, AND Sohmer first-class new and second-hand pianos for sale or rent, and rent allowed to purchase. FORTY SIX MODELS. No. 547 Broadway.

DRY GOODS.

Johnson Bros. & Co.,

UNION SQUARE.

We have received per late steamers several cases of PARIS NOVELTIES in

Millinery Goods,

Dress and Cloak Trimmings,

French Flowers and Feathers.

NEW STYLES IN

Sash and Bonnet Ribbons,

TRIMMED HATS,

THE HOUSEHOLD.

THE MARKETS WELL SUPPLIED.

The markets are full of all the edibles in season. Poultry is plentiful, and there is a good supply and large variety of game. Among the new things in game are quail and canvas-back ducks. Hares and rabbits have been arriving for some time but are not yet very popular articles of diet. The venison offered for sale is of very good quality, and venison steaks are as cheap as "porter-house." Fish are very abundant and the housekeeper can now buy as good as ever were caught at low prices. Wealthy epicures can buy lake fish of all kinds—salmon, trout, and the pampano, and everybody can revel over a dish of excellent fried porgies at small expense. Apples are plentiful, and this is a good time for provident people to buy them by the barrel for Winter use, as they are likely to be dearer in a few weeks. Cranberries are also cheaper now than they will be a little later. Pears are still to be found in the markets, and grapes in large quantities. The little "Delaware grape," as it is called, is the favorite of the majority of people, but there is a large minority who prefer the Concord, which is of greater size, or the Catawba, Isabella, and Diana. Quinces, which make the best kind of preserves, are in good supply and low in price, some of the finest that can be bought in the City come from California. It is not difficult to find excellent butter fresh from the dairies of this State, and prices for it are reasonably low. The cheese now arriving is of the Fall make, and is milder flavored and better than any that has been sold here for some time. If you get poor cheese from your grocer's, it is not because there is not a plenty of good in the City. Irish and sweet potatoes are cheaper than they will be next Winter. The price of meats remains about the same as for some time.

RECEIPTS.

COOKING POTATOES.—Potatoes and all vegetables, in place of boiling, should be cooked by steam, else they must be more or less water-soaked. The simplest and cheapest steamer is easily had by having a steamer made to fit the large iron kettle that every kitchen has. The steamer, of tin, made to fit the kettle, the sides fitting down, say one inch, a snug, perfect fit; one inch from the rim is a bottom with holes cut in it half an inch in diameter and one inch apart. The steamer, like a basin with straight or perpendicular sides, nine inches deep, a tin cover to fit perfectly tight, the cover made to run up higher in the middle two or three inches. This steamer can be made for $1 50, probably. When stewing fruit, put it in an earthen dish; set dish and all in the steamer. The fruit then does not waste its flavor as when stewed with water. Steam puddings, instead of boiling, if you would retain the flavor.—EXPERIENCED HOUSEKEEPER.

BOILED POTATOES.—But few cooks put upon a table a pasty boiled potato that is fit to be taken into the stomach. This rule, if followed, makes a potato not only palatable, but digestible: Peel and put into cold water say one dozen peachblow potatoes, and let them stand an hour (longer will not hurt them); wash them out of the water and put them into boiling water enough to cover them in a saucepan with a close-fitting cover; throw in a tablespoonful of salt, and let them boil half an hour; turn off the water, and stand the saucepan on the back of the range or stove for five or ten minutes, keeping the cover tightly closed, as herein lies the secret of having a potato look like a snow-ball. Serve in a covered dish, and keep them covered until wanted for the table. Most cooks lift the cover off the saucepan to let the steam escape. This makes the potato heavy and indigestible.—MRS. M.

STEWED POTATOES.—Take steamed or boiled potatoes which are thoroughly cooked, but not hard in the middle; cut them as thin as possible without breaking; put them in a shallow pan; cover with milk; when thoroughly hot through and through, stir them, so that they will not stick or burn, as milk burns very easily; for potatoes enough for six persons, have ready one teaspoonful of wheat flour, mixed smoothly with a little cold water, as it for starch; add this when the milk is hot; mix all thoroughly; let it cook five or ten minutes slowly after the flour is added. At the last minute before serving, salt properly and add one tablespoonful of sweet butter. If kept on the fire very long after the salt is added, the milk will curdle. This should be remembered in making clam or oyster soup when milk is used.—SARATOGA.

POTATOES "A LA MAITRE D'HOTEL."—Boil ten middle-sized ones; cut in slices of a quarter of an inch thick; put in the stew-pan half a pint of milk or the same of broth, a little salt, pepper, grated nutmeg, and a tablespoonful of fresh chopped parsley; then simmer on the fire; when boiling add a quarter of a pound of fresh butter and the juice of half a lemon; let well for a few minutes; when each piece is well covered with the sauce, dish up high in the centre, as they must appear light.—A. T. W.

SWEET POTATOES, I.—Cut them in thin slices, and fry like Irish potatoes; be careful not to cook them too much, as they will be too hard.

SWEET POTATOES, II.—Peel and cut in quarters, and fry until the edges are brown. If the roots are very large, cut into eighths.

SWEET POTATOES, III.—Peel and cut into halves, quarters or eighths, and bake with beef or veal, putting them in the bake-pan at the base of the meat.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING.—Beat to a cream a pound of sugar and one pound of butter; boil and mash fine two pounds of potatoes; beat the potatoes by degrees into the butter and sugar; add five well beaten eggs, a wine glass full each of wine and brandy, and one of rose water, two teaspoonfuls of mixed spices, and half a pint of cream, and bake in a crust.

SWEET POTATO PIE.—To one pound of potato, baked and sieved, and one-half a pound of butter, three quarters of a pound of sugar, one pint of milk, and six eggs; flavor with nutmeg and a wine glass full of brandy; line the dish with a crust and bake carefully.

FIRST RATE COFFEE.—Take a coffee-cup of the best Java coffee, browned to the color of chocolate, (not scorched,) ground not too fine, and mix with it the shell of an egg. Put this into a coffee-pot or boiler, (which is as clean as the cup you drink from,) and pour over it one quart of boiling water, stirring as you put the water in; boil slowly for fifteen minutes; then stand the boiler on the back of the range for ten minutes to settle; turn all coffee off from the grounds at once into an urn or coffee-pot, that can stand upon the stove to keep hot. Coffee loses the flavor by standing on the grounds longer than half an hour, and should be very hot to be good. Put into the cup a teaspoonful of "American condensed milk" and some boiled milk, and turn the coffee into it. No French coffee is any better.—MRS. M.

COFFEE CUSTARDS.—For six cups, measure out four cupfuls of boiled milk, put it in a basin with one cupful of very strong coffee, add five yolks of eggs and one ounce and a half sugar, mix well and strain, fill the cups with the mixtures, skim off carefully all froth from the surface, put them in a flat stewpan with boiling water to half the height of the cups, put the stewpan with five coals on its cover over a slow fire for fifteen minutes. The water should only bubble slightly. When set let the custards cool in the water, wipe the cups off and serve.

COFFEE CAKE.—One cup of brown sugar, one cup of butter, one cup of strained coffee, one cup of molasses, three eggs well beaten, one pound of raisins, two cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking-powder.—MRS. B.

"PUT AU FEU."—Two pounds of the shin of beef make four quarts of soup. Put the beef into four quarts of water. Let it heat or boil thoroughly once; then skim it. Make a bouquet of a little thyme, one laurel leaf, a little parsley, a clove of garlic, two leeks, all tied together; a little celery, half a parsnip, two or three small carrots, one turnip, one onion stuck with two or three cloves; add also two or three pepper-corns. Put all these ingredients in immediately after skimming. When the soup is half done, put into it a tablespoonful of boy-salt. To make soup for dinner at 5 o'clock put it on at 8 o'clock in the morning. After it has well boiled, or boiled up once and been skimmed, draw it away from the strong heat, and let it simmer slowly all day. The kettle or pot in which it is to be prepared must be of clay, a clay resembling that used in our country for common flower-pots. It must be tempered by thoroughly rubbing it with garlic a day or two before using. These pots are generally large, holding from a gallon to two, and are provided with a tight fitting cover. Of this clay are also fashioned marmites or saucepans, in which syrups are boiled. Everything cooked in them has an air of perfect purity, and is free from the taste of metals.—E. B. L.

JULIENNE SOUP.—Take one carrot; if long, cut it lengthways in thin strips, and the strips afterward in small pieces; one large onion, a turnip, some cabbage, one leek. If you cut your vegetables yourself, add one potato. One vegetable of each kind is enough. Put your vegetables in a saucepan with one quarter pound of butter—not on the range where it is hottest, for fear of burning. Cover the pan and stew one and a half hours. Add a little bouillon every little while as the vegetables sink to the bottom of the pan. When cooked strain your bouillon over the Julienne and serve it hot.—E. B. L.

TO CLEAR SOUP.—Let it cool; then beat up the whites of two or three eggs; stir them into the cold soup with the broken shells of the eggs; set the soup over the fire and keep stirring until the scum rises. Let it boil four or five minutes, then take it off; set it aside until it settles; then strain it and serve hot.—E. B. L.

POTAGE WITH PATE D'ITALIE, OR FINE MACARONI.—After the bouillon is strained and put on the fire again to heat, and when cooking very fast, drop into it a spoonful of paté for each person. If the paté is first boiled in water it is apt to stick together. It is therefore better to boil it in the bouillon fifteen minutes.—E. B. L.

POTAGE AU PRINTEMPS.—The bouillon must first always be clear. Take green peas, carrots, and turnips cut into the form and size of peas; boil each kind separately and salt them; when ready to serve put the vegetables into the soup tureen and pour the bouillon over them; when the vegetables are soaked, strain them and lay them on a cloth until ready to serve.—E. B. L.

SOUP MAIGRE.—Soak white dried beans over night; the next morning put them on to cook in boiling water; add salt and a clove of garlic; when the beans are cooked strain them through a colander into a saucepan to heat again, adding a quarter of a pound of butter.—E. B. L.

PICKLED OYSTERS.—One hundred large oysters, one pint white wine vinegar, one dozen blades of mace, two dozen whole cloves, two dozen whole black peppers, one large red pepper broken into bits. Put oysters, liquor, and all, into a porcelain or bell-metal kettle. Salt to taste. Heat slowly until the oysters are very hot, but not boiling. Take them out with a perforated skimmer, and set aside to cool. To the liquor which remains in the kettle add the vinegar and spices. Boil up fairly, and when the oysters are almost cold pour it over them scalding hot. Put in a jar, cover the jar in which they are, and put away in a cool place. Next day put the pickled oysters into glass cans with tight tops. Keep in the dark, and where they are not liable to become heated. I have kept oysters thus prepared for three weeks in the Winter. If you open a can, use the contents up as soon as practicable. The air, like the light, will turn them dark.—BOB.

ORANGE SALAD.—Peel one dozen oranges and cut in slices; put them in layers in a glass dish, sprinkling each layer plentifully with sugar. Squeeze over this the juice of half a dozen oranges, and pour over all a glass of curaçoa. Sweet oranges are best with little or no sugar. Brandy or wine may be used instead of curaçoa, but is not so good. This dish is better if prepared some hours before served.—PARIS.

GOOSEBERRY WINE.—Put three pounds of loaf sugar into one gallon of water, boil and skim it, and when it is nearly cold put in six quarts of ripe gooseberries that have been well mashed; let this stand two days, stirring it frequently. Steep half an ounce of isinglass in one pint of brandy for two days, then beat with it the whites of four eggs until they froth and add to the wine, stir up and strain through a flannel bag into a cask or jug, fasten it up as to exclude the air, let it stand six months and bottle for use, adding two or three raisins to each bottle.

LIQUID PUDDING SAUCE.—Beat one egg and one cup white sugar to a froth; make ready a very thin bat er with one cup and a half of water, and a piece of butter half the size of an egg; pour this batter boiling hot over the egg and sugar just as it goes to the table; flavor to taste. Beat while mixing the boiled butter and sugar.—S. C.

VEAL LOAF.—Take a piece of butter the size of an egg, three pounds of raw veal, one heaping teaspoonful of salt, one of pepper, and two raw eggs. Chop the veal fine and mix all together, and put in about two tablespoonfuls of water. Mold this into a loaf, then roll it in eight tablespoonfuls of rolled crackers, and pour over it three tablespoonfuls of melted butter; place in a pan and bake two hours. To be sliced off when cold.—MRS. B.

PLAIN FRUIT CAKE.—One cup of sweet milk, one cup of brown sugar, half a cup of molasses, half a cup of butter, three cups of flour, half a pound of raisins, one cup of currants, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of cloves, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one nutmeg, two eggs well beaten, two teaspoonfuls of baking-powder.—MRS. B.

LADY CAKE.—The whites of four eggs, two cups of powdered sugar, half a cup of sweet milk, one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking-powder.—MRS. B.

HOP YEAST.—Three large potatoes, one large handful of hops; put in a small bag; put the potatoes and hops into two quarts of water and boil down to one quart. Take out the bag of hops and potatoes, mash the potatoes fine and throw back into the boiling water; stir flour into this while hot until it is quite stiff; let it stand until it is nearly cold, then put in one cup of yeast, half a cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, and half a tablespoonful of ginger; set in a warm place to rise; when light put in a corked jar and place in a cool place.—MRS. B.

TO CLEAN GILT FRAMES.—When the gilt frames of pictures or looking-glasses or the moldings of rooms have specks of dirt upon them from flies or other causes, they may be cleaned with white of eggs gently rubbed on with a camel's-hair pencil.—MRS. J. J. C.

STAINS OUT OF MARBLE.—One gall, one wine-glass of soap lees, one-half wine-glass of turpentine, all made into a paste with a little pipe-clay. Spread the marble with this, which should not be removed for several days. If the spots are not then removed, a second application will generally be sufficient.—MRS. J. J. C.

STAINED PIQUE.—To remove peach or other fruit stains from pique take one handful of chloride of lime, four quarts boiling water, one lump sal soda size of egg. Strain all and bottle. For use dilute with water.—MRS. J. J. C.

QUESTIONS.

How do bakers give the shiny appearance to buns?—L. C. S.

Please give a good receipt for stewing tripe.

I should like a receipt for a stiff cranberry jelly.

Will some one give a receipt for Welsh rarebits and golden buck?—W. B. S.

Will some one tell me how to blanche almonds? I want the entire process. Whether they are blanched green, (as they are gathered,) or as they are brought at the grocer's, and why they are blanched at all? Does it improve them.—MRS. J. J. C.

I would like a receipt for lettuce salad, vermicelli pudding, and lobster croquette.—MRS. J. J. C.

What will take moth out of an ostrich feather?—D. B.

Is there any way of taking mackerel-oil out of black silk?—L. C. S.

Will you give a receipt for taking folds and creases out of silk velvet.

Please give a receipt for coloring kid gloves black and brown.—SUBSCRIBER.

What will take a stain made by ice-cream out of plum-colored silk?—A SUBSCRIBER.

Will some lady reader of the "Household" column give some suggestions for neat and inexpensive curtains for sitting-room windows, with their approximate cost?—A BACHELOR.

How early in the Fall should plants be taken indoors?—YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER.

THE PARADISE OF MONEY-LENDERS.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "India must be the paradise of money-lenders. Some years ago a Christian capitalist advanced the sum of £5 on the personal security of a Eurasian coreligionist employed as a writer in a Government office. The interest was originally only seventy-five per cent. per annum, but as nothing had been paid at the end of two years the debtor gave a promissory note for the amount then due, and undertook to pay 120 per cent. for the future. Three years went by without any payments being made, and then a fresh capitalizing operation was effected. About that time the debtor's salary was increased, and he at once set aside a moiety of his pay for the purpose of reducing his debt. In this he succeeded so perfectly that at the time of his death, a few years later, he owed no more than £100. Quite recently, no further back indeed than last August, a Hindoo money-lender successfully sued another mild Hindoo in the Small Cause Court for £4, being the balance due on a sum of £8, the outcome in two years of an advance of £2, the interest being calculated at the rate of seven and a half farthings per rupee per diem. How much this would amount to per annum is one of those questions which might be relegated to Mr. Babbage's calculating machine. These two cases, however, illustrate the general poverty of India, and the infinitesimal character of its internal and, so to speak, popular trade. In some of the remote hill districts coined money is still regarded as a curiosity to be worn about the person, business being conducted on the old principle of barter. It is not very surprising that in a country where every ryot is in debt, and where the interest on personal loans varies from 75 to 300 per cent, the land should be rapidly passing into the hands of money-lenders and usurers. Though not matter for surprise, it is certainly matter for regret."

A FRIGHTENED HUNTER.

The Calais (Me.) Times says: "Samuel Spaulding, of Springfield, while hunting in the vicinity of that town recently, encountered the devil face to face. This he persistently and with trembling declares. In corroboration of his testimony there is a collateral fact. Whereas he formerly passed a great part of his time in the woods with his gun, he now secludes himself at home, barely venturing from his premises. All questioners obtain from him the same statement, accompanied by a description of his Satanic majesty. For many years the story has been periodically revived of some strange creature in the woods, near Springfield, and numberless have been it as far distant as the head of Musquash stream; but Mr. Spaulding is the first man bold enough to declare that it is the devil. If his story is true, and his manner and character are in his favor, he had a very near view and might have bagged the creature, had he not been afraid to fire his gun. If it was really the devil, there are many who will never forgive him his remissness."

SHOCKING SCENE AT A GRAVE.

The Scranton (Penn.) Republican says: "A shocking scene occurred at a funeral which took place in one of the suburbs of this city a few days ago. There was a large attendance, and the immediate relatives of the deceased were so overcome by sorrow that the burial was left to the care of some friends who volunteered their services in paying the last sad tribute to the dead. Numbers gathered around the grave to see the coffin lowered, but the men having charge were so intoxicated that it was clumsily done. Before the first spadeful of earth was thrown on the coffin one of the party fell into the grave and could not extricate himself. A companion, no better off than he, attempted to rescue him, but he also fell into the grave, and there both struggled in vain until some of the sober attendants, who were shocked and justly indignant at the occurrence, lifted the drunken pair out, and pushing them aside, kept them away."

BEAVERS IN VIRGINIA.

The Petersburg (Va.) Index-Appeal says: "Citizens of Chesterfield report that beavers have recently returned to that county in large numbers, and cause much annoyance by their operations. They have also made their appearance in large numbers in Cumberland and adjacent counties, and along the tributaries of the Appomattox River. A great many of them have been caught in traps at different points. Many years ago beavers were very numerous in this county, but of recent years they have almost disappeared. Their reappearance on their old feeding grounds causes surprise."

MILITARY GOSSIP.

Major George W. Sauer, of the Third Regiment Cavalry, celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary as a member of the National Guard by a call at Germania Assembly Rooms last Wednesday evening.

Company A, Twenty-third Regiment, Brooklyn, Capt. J. G. Story commanding, will contest at Creedmoor for the "Nevada Badge" on Saturday next. The company is under orders to assemble at the armory for this purpose at 11:30 A. M., on that date.

The several companies in the Thirteenth Regiment, Brooklyn, will drill as follows: Companies B, F, and D on Mondays, Nov. 13 and 20; Companies I, A, and H on Wednesdays, Nov. 15 and 22, and Companies C, E, and K on Friday, Nov. 17. Assembly on each occasion at 7:45 P. M.

The second contest for the eight "marksman's" badges took place at Conlin's Gallery last Tuesday. The winning scores were as follows: J. B. Blydenburgh, 45; L. V. Sone, Fred. Kessler, 42; H. D. Blydenburgh, 41; T. C. Banks, 40; F. C. Dominick, 39; C. E. Blydenburgh, 38; W. H. Hastings, 37.

Some time ago a marker named John McDade, employed at Creedmoor Range, had one of his eyes shot out during the practice of the First Brigade, Gen. Ward commanding. As the man was poor, a subscription was started for his benefit, and already $25 has been paid him by the Twelfth Regiment. A similar amount is expected from each of the above regiments in the brigade—the Fifth and Twenty-second Regiments.

The Sixty-ninth Regiment, Col. James Cavanagh commanding, paraded for inspection last Monday night at the State Arsenal. The men looked neat and soldierly. Major D. D. Wylie, of the Third Brigade, mustered the command, as follows:

	Present.	Absent.	Total.
F. and S.	18	1	19
A	31	16	47
B	49	16	65
C	56	15	81
D	50	32	82
E	51	6	57
F	70	17	87
G	47	6	53
H	52	18	70
I	47	0	47
K	30	10	40
Total	511	137	648

The Fourteenth Regiment, Col. James McLeer commanding, will parade for drill and instruction at the armory in fatigue uniform on Thursday next, at 8 P. M. Field and Staff will report to the Colonel; non-commissioned Staff to the Adjutant at the same hour. This command will assemble at the regimental armory for inspection and muster on Monday the 30th inst., at 7 P. M. The books and papers of the regiment will be inspected immediately afterward. At a special meeting of Company F, held on Friday evening, Private Francis D. Stellenwerf and Corp. Thomas Terhune were elected Sergeants, and Privates William Granger, Vernon Franze, and Stephen Wade were promoted Corporals. This company, under the Indian name of the "Red Cloud Guard," will give its annual ball on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

The Seventh Brigade, Fifth Division, Nyack, Brig. Gen. James H. Blauvelt commanding, will parade in full uniform for inspection, muster, and review, at White Plains, on Saturday next, the one hundredth anniversary of the battle of White Plains. The commandants of the Twenty-seventh Regiment and Sixteenth and Nineteenth Battalions, are directed in orders to report to the Brigade Commander, at the Standard House, Nyack, at 10:45 A. M. on the day named. The Brigade Staff will report, mounted, to the Assistant Adjutant General, at 10:30 A. M., and 9 P. M. the brigade will pass in review before Major Gen. James W. Husted, commanding the Sixth Division, on Chatterton Hill, the site of the old battle-ground a century ago. Charles F. Hawes has been appointed First Lieutenant and Aid de Camp on the staff of Gen. Blauvelt.

The trophy presented by Messrs. Baker and McKenney as the second prize in the Inter-State match, at the late Fall prize-meeting of the National Rifle Association, will be contested by the members of the New-York State team, exclusive of the reserves, at Creedmoor next Saturday. The distances covered will be 200 and 500 yards; ten scoring, with two sighting shots at each distance. The members of the team belonging to the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Regiments will shoot at Syracuse during the Sixth Division matches, at such time as may be prescribed by Col. James Manning, Inspector of Rifle Practice in the Sixth Division, who will supervise the practice. In the absence from Creedmoor of Col. Wingate, General Inspector of Rifle Practice, the senior officer of the First or Second Division present, will superintend the firing.

The Washington Grey Cavalry having completed their season of rifle practice, have just been receiving their rewards. Lieut. A. T. Decker took the first prize, a silver-plated water-pitcher and tray; Sergt. David Wilson having made the greatest number of "bulls-eyes" during the season, received a silver-plated butter-dish. The same gentleman also made the highest aggregate during the season and was awarded a silver-plated cake-basket, presented by Major Daniel D. Wylie, Inspector of the Third Brigade. G. E. Pasco received a silver-plated soup-tureen for having recorded the second highest aggregate score. At the last quarterly meeting held at the armory on Tuesday evening, Sergt. David Wilson, Captain of the team of this troop in the late Fall prize-meeting of the National Rifle Association, received a pair of gold sleeve-buttons from the team in recognition of his services. As the inspection of the troop will take place on the 30th inst., the third annual troop match will be postponed from that day to a time to be hereafter designated.

The Eighth Regiment, Col. George D. Scott commanding, paraded for inspection and muster last Thursday evening, equalizing in nine companies of sixteen front. A dress parade and review by Gen. Varian were first executed, after which the regular muster took place as follows:

	Present.	Absent.	Total.
F. and S.	18	1	19
Band	30	10	40
A	31	16	47
B	49	16	65
C	66	15	81
D	50	32	82
E	51	6	57
F	70	17	87
G	47	6	53
H	52	18	70
I	46	0	46
Total	510	137	647

Quartermaster Sergeant A. C. Baxter has been tendered the position of Second Lieutenant in Company G. The regiment will give a series of concerts during the coming Winter, on a grand scale, with its new band. Capt. Kennedy was presented with a handsome silver set by the members of his company last Thursday evening.

The Seventy-first Regiment, Col. Richard Vose commanding, paraded for inspection, muster, and review at Tompkin's square, last Monday afternoon. The regiment was in full fatigue uniform, and the field and staff officers were mounted, in accordance with a special order from Gen. Vilmar, and presented a fine appearance. The command was equalized in eight companies of sixteen files front for review, which, both in line and passage, was conducted very creditably. The several companies mustered as follows:

	Present.	Absent.	Total.
F. and S.	6	4	10
N. C. S.	5	1	6
Band	40	0	40
Company C	40	10	50
Company G	55	3	58
Company D	70	26	96
Company E	45	4	49
Company F	34	9	43
Company A	47	12	59
Company H	31	26	57
Company K	73	4	77
Company L	48	9	57
Total	494	108	602

The Creedmoor Rifle Guard, an association comprising the markers and employes generally on the range of the National Rifle Association, celebrated its third anniversary at Creedmoor last Monday. The programme of amusement included a shooting match, a banquet, and lastly, a ball. At 10 A. M. the members assembled at the Century Hotel—the residence of the Treasurer, Capt. John Klein—and marched down to the range, preceded by a drum corps and standard-bearers, carrying the national colors and a transparency bearing the title of the association. The match was at 200 yards, off-hand, two sighting and ten scoring shots. The prizes were in proportion to the entries, thirty-nine in number, the highest being $20 in cash, and the others comprising such substantial trophies as barrels of flour, kegs of lager, boots, groceries, &c. The winning scores were as follows: A. Spencer, 36; J. Waltere, 28; J. Grasmar, 28; P. Klein, 28; M. Gues, 28; J. Dawson, 27; M. Cornelia, 26; A. Klein, 23; E. Cox, 22; R. Milloy, 22; J. McGloin, 21; J. Weil, 20; J. Kohler, 20; N. Hutchman, 19; P. Wacher, 18; C. Scharf, 18; L. Rose, 18; G. Pipe, 18; W. Springer, 13; T. Koerber, 18; C. Vogel, 16; A. Graff, 15; C. Rose, 14; A. Arnelins, 13; C. Mentzle, 11; A. Finn, 11; P. Opper, 11; J. Klein, Jr., 10. At the close of the contest the party marched back to the hotel, where the prizes were distributed, after which a substantial dinner was enjoyed, and the lady friends of the valiant marksmen having arrived, dancing commenced and was prolonged until daylight.

The Eleventh Regiment, Col. Frederick Unbekant, commanding, paraded for inspection, muster and review, last Wednesday. It seems strange that a regiment could improve so greatly in two weeks, but in this instance the regiment appeared to have changed its entire complexion; the marching in review was excellent; the review in line was fine, the men standing firm in their places; and in the passage, good alignments, perfect salutes, and a proper maintenance of distances characterized the ceremony. As on the two previous days, Gen. Vilmar was present, attended by his staff, and besides receiving the review, accompanied the inspecting officer in the performance at his duty. The General is a close observer of military order and discipline, and no considerations of economy or private business have any weight with him in the performance of his duty as a military officer. The Eleventh having formerly been under his command he manifested a close interest in the muster, which was as follows:

	Present.	Absent.	Total.
Field and staff	16	----	16
Band	29	----	29
A	47	34	81
B	41	3	44
C	41	4	45
D	38	8	46
E	35	10	45
F	45	28	43
G	40	9	49
H	48	10	58
I	41	11	52
K	48	15	63
Total	469	132	601

The Seventh Regiment, Col. Emmons Clark commanding, will parade in full uniform, with knapsacks, overcoats rolled, and white gloves, next Tuesday evening, for annual inspection, muster, and review. Assembly will be at 7:45 P. M. In compliance with brigade orders, Commandants and First Sergeants of companies will be present at the armory for the inspection of company books and records by the Brigade Inspector, on Wednesday evening next at 8 o'clock. The announcement is made in orders of the promotion of Second Lieut. James L. Price to the Captaincy of Company H, and First Sergeants John R. Andrews First Lieutenant, and John A. Tackaberry Second Lieutenant of the same company. Private John J. Drummond has been expelled from Company B, and the action is approved in orders at regimental head-quarters. Company C formally took the new position on the right of the regiment last Wednesday evening. The event was duly commemorated by a supper after the regular drill of the evening. Commissary Sergt. Louis B. Rader read an interesting history of the company to its members, which was duly appreciated. The vacant position of Lieutenant Colonel in this command is the subject of much interesting gossip, and as yet no candidate has been definitely selected. Since Capt. Casey has declined positively to become a candidate, Capt. Allison is spoken of favorably. Capt. Allison is an energetic officer, and in the control of his company has shown his ability to command a regiment. It is to be hoped that the Board of Officers will elect him unanimously. Major George Moore Smith is an excellent officer, but he is well satisfied with his present position, and does not aspire to higher honors.

The Ninth Regiment, Col. James R. Hitchcock commanding, paraded for its annual inspection and muster on Tuesday last at Tompkins Square. As its band had been inspected on the occasion of the division parade, it was reduced to twenty-one members, that number being considered sufficient for the short time it was required. The field officers and all but two of the staff were mounted, a ceremony not usually observed in inspections, and the order issued by Gen. Vilmar requiring the field and staff officers of the three regiments in his brigade to be mounted was variously commented on as expensive and unnecessary. The command was greatly improved by its observance, however, and neither Col. Hitchcock or any of his officers regretted it afterward, for it was certainly a vast improvement over the usual manner of conducting inspections. The fears expressed that the regiment would not turn out as strong on the day time as they would have been able to do at night were happily dispelled, and will be seen by the returns, where only ninety-two out of 896 men were absent. The review was well conducted, the regiment being equalized in ten companies of twenty-six files front. The only error in the ceremony was a small loss of distance by the last two companies in line. The several companies mustered as follows:

	Present.	Absent.	Total.
F. and S.	7	—	17
Band	50	—	50
A	112	—	112
B	37	16	53
C	62	1	63
D	93	4	97
E	64	3	67
F	101	14	115
G	96	3	99
H	47	6	53
I	70	12	82
K	55	33	88
Total	804	92	896

The Seventy-first Regiment is unfortunate in possessing a turbulent element, formed from the members of the lately disbanded Company A. These men were assigned to various companies in the regiment, and Capt. Des Marets was rendered supernumerary. The latter had, on various occasions, conducted himself in a highly offensive manner, not only to his commander, Col. Vose, but to other officers who might be ordered to attend to business, in connection with his company. He allowed his company to run in debt to a large amount, which has never been wholly liquidated, and when, prior to the disbandment, a committee consisting of Major McAlpine and Capt. Vantine, two estimable gentlemen, was directed to examine his books, they were rudely repulsed and insulted. Since the disbandment, Capt. Des Marets has steadily refused to recognize the order issued by Col. Vose, rendering him a supernumary officer, until last week, when a climax was reached, and probably any further interference with the regiment on his part will terminate unhappily for himself. On the occasion of the inspection he visited the armory and undertook to receive recognition as commandant of Company A. Col. Vose directed Lieut. Col. Chaddock to read to the Captain the original copy of the order from general head-quarters rendering him supernumerary, and this was done, consequently he has now no excuse for giving further offense. The delnded men formerly under his command suffer most from this officer's folly, as, being privates in the regiment, they are still subject to regimental discipline, and every court-martial reduces the purses of one or more of them. While the Adjutant was making his organization for inspection last Tuesday, Private Montgomery, formerly First Sergeant of Company A, answered the First Sergeants' "call," and reported for "Company A." He was ordered to join the company to which he belonged, but when the company was being mustered at Tompkins square he, with two equally fractious Corporals, refused to answer to their names until they were forced to do so by the Inspector. The next disturbance was caused by Capt. Des Marets, who claimed that three men were mustered as "present" who were substitutes for the parties to whose names they had answered. As there was a doubt in the matter Col. Vose ordered that the names be crossed off the roll of "present" rather than incur any risk of false muster. The matter will, however, receive further consideration hereafter.

RIFLE SHOOTING AT CREEDMOOR.

COL. FARWELL WINS THE "GEIGER" BADGE—THE CONTEST FOR THE TROPHY OFFERED FOR RAPID SHOOTING.

The sixth competition for the "Geiger" bull's-eye badge, and the third contest for the "rapidity and accuracy" trophy, were the matches shot at Creedmoor yesterday. The Geiger badge was contested for at long range, commencing at 10:30 A. M., and the other was shot in the afternoon at short range. There were only four entries in the "Geiger" match, and the trophy finally went to Col. Farwell upon the largest score ever made for the prize—thirty-four out of a possible forty-five bull's-eyes. The first match for this trophy took place in April, when Major Henry Fulton was the successful competitor. In the two succeeding matches Col. Farwell was the winner. Mr. L. Weber won it in July. In the month of August Mr. Isaac L. Allen carried off the badge, and in September the match was laid over owing to the excessive amount of shooting in that month. Following are the conditions and scores:

Open to all comers; distances 1,000, 900 and 800 yards; twenty shots at the first, fifteen at the second, and ten at the last distance; no sighting shots; to be held by the marksman making the highest aggregate score at the three ranges:

LIEUT. COL. W. B. FARWELL.

1,000—3 5 5 5 0 5 5 5 5 5 5 4 5 5 5 4 5 4 4 5 4 5...88
900—5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 3 5 3 5...71
800—5 4 3 5 5 5 5 5 5 5...47—206
Number of bull's-eyes, 34.

R. RATHBONE.

1,000—2 5 3 5 4 5 4 5 4 3 4 5 5 5 5 3 5 5 5 5...87
900—3 3 5 5 4 4 4 5 5 4 5 5 5 4 4...65
800—4 4 5 5 5 4 5 5 5...47—199
Number of bull's-eyes, 26.

HOMER FISHER.

1,000—2 5 5 4 2 3 5 5 5 3 5 4 5 5 4 5 4 3 5 5...84
900—R 4 5 5 5 5 5 4 4 5 4 5 5 0...61
800—5 5 5 0 4 5 4 5 5 5...48—193
Number of bull's-eyes, 28.

G. L. MORSE.

1,000—3 0 0 4 0 4 4 5 5 5 5 3 3 3 3 5 4 3 0 3...60
900—4 5 0 3 3 4 5 5 5 4 4 5 5 3 4...69
800—0 4 3 5 5 5 5 5 4 5...41—160
Number of bull's-eyes, 16.

The match for the badge offered for the encouragement of rapid shooting, was commenced at 3:30 P. M., but a heavy mist prevailed at the time, and only a small number of entries were taken. The conditions and leading scores were as follows:

Open to all comers: distance, 200 yards; position, standing; any rifle, magazine guns to be used as single loaders only; two sighting shots, to be fired consecutively; competitors to fire as many shots as possible in thirty seconds, and to have two chances; the aggregate score made in both rounds to be counted; entrance fee, fifty cents: one-half the entrance money to be divided among the three highest scores as follows: half the money to the winner of the trophy, two-sixths to the second highest score, and one-sixth to the third highest score.

	First Chance. No. of Shots.	Hits.	Second Chance. No. of Shots.	Hits.	Grand Total.
J. E. Stetson	11	9	33	14	13	40	73
T. G. Bennett	11	9	31	11	8	20	60
A. B. Andrews	8	8	27	8	8	22	60
T. E. Addis	8	8	17	9	9	28	45
W. Robertson	9	7	24	10	4	10	34

The wind was highly favorable for shooting during the entire day, blowing from right to left across the line of fire. The fluctuation was very slight, and the only unpleasant feature of the day's sport was the drizzling rain, which fell at intervals.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

SALES AT THE STOCK EXCHANGE—OCT. 21.

SALES BEFORE THE CALL—10 A. M.

100 Del. & Hudson	76	100 N. Y. C. & Hud	104½
100 do.	76	200 do.	104¾
200 do.	73½	50 Central of N. J. c.	37½
500 do.	75	200 do.	37½
100 do.	74½	300 Mich. Central	47¼
200 do.	75	200 do.	47⅜
150 do.	74	26 do.	47⅝
400 Western Union	71½	100 do.	47⅝
300 do.	71	100 North-western	40
100 do.	71	100 do.	40
200 do.	70⅞	100 North-west. Pf. c.	63¼
100 do.	71	200 do.	63⅜
300 Erie Railway	71⅜	200 do.	63⅝
200 do.	70⅞	100 do.	63¾
100 do.	70⅞	200 Rock Island	102¼
100 do.	71	100 do.	102¾
1500 Lake Shore	60½	200 Del., Lack. & W.	78¼
1000 do.	60⅝	525 do.	78
1400 do.	60¼	300 do.	77⅞
600 do.	60⅜	100 do.	77⅝
1000 do.	60

TRAVELING IN BOSNIA.

MEETING THE SERVIAN PRETENDER.

CROATS AND THEIR COSTUMES — AN OPPRESSED NATIONALITY—A MYSTERIOUS STRANGER AND HOW HE WAS RECOGNIZED—PERSONAL DESCRIPTION OF THE PRETENDER — A SPYING SERVANT — PRIESTLY GREETINGS—SPECTACLES AND BACKGAMMON.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BANIALOUKA, Bosnia, Thursday, Sept. 14, 1876.

The Austrian Police was remarkably vigilant in the inspection of the passports of every one who got on or got off our boat at any stopping place. Not a few were turned back, and one, a stowaway in a coal bunker, was collared and marched off ignominiously to the office of the Commissir, where we left him. I was told that he was a "patriot." I am certain that he was dirty enough to occupy that dignified position, and he had no papers, which appears to be prima facie evidence to the fact. His incarceration, however, attracted no sympathy from his fellow passengers, the only remark which I heard being that he was lucky not to have been taken on the other side, where he certainly would have been hanged. A number of new faces came on board at Brod, principally Croats, fine, stalwart fellows with long, pendulous mustaches, deep-set, dark eyes, and a look of mingled ferocity and cunning about them which seemed to indicate that they meant to get the best of you somehow. All were in their national costume of blue or scarlet jackets, without sleeves, overflowing white tunics reaching to the knee or ancle and confined at the waist by a broad belt of parti-colored leather wrought into quaint patterns and bristling with weapons, of which I was pleased to see they were immediately relieved. Across the shoulder passed a species of baldrio supporting a wallet—torba—of red worsted, ornamented with tassels; this is supposed to take the place of a pocket, although some who were exceedingly swell had a pouch sewn on the outside of their coats, from which protruded a foot or more of a delicate pink silk handkerchief. Loose linen trousers, sometimes fringed, were either tucked into boots of red or yellow leather, or else fell over their feet, either naked or imprisoned in their native sandal, the opanka. As the night was chilly, many had slung on their surinas, or mantles of colored cloth prodigiously embroidered in blue or scarlet. With this almost Oriental gorgeousness their costume offers a strange contrast, it being nothing more than the billy cock or wide-awake felt hat of America and England. And this is no modern innovation, but with another cone-shaped, brimless thing of straw, used by the poorer peasantry, has been worn in Croatia for centuries. With them were a few Turks, only distinguishable by their difference of head-gear, and two or three Bulgarians, a blot in feature and attire upon the gay colored picture. There is quite a number of this "oppressed" nationality along the shores of the Save and Danube, whither they come as agricultural laborers, returning to their own country as soon as they have scraped together a little money. Great drunkards, yet industrious and thrifty withal, they are despised by Croats and Turks, and it must be confessed that neither their habits nor their appearance are calculated to win them much sympathy. Coarse brown close fitting jackets and trousers, generally patched and ragged, and surmounted with a mantle of sheep-skin and a cap of the same material, form an unfavorable contrast with the gaudy bravery of the Croatian dandy. They can converse without the aid of an interpreter with all the southern Sclaves, but their wintry dress, so out of keeping with the climate of their native province, which is the home of the roses, is suggestive of a different origin. And a glance at their dish-shaped faces, high cheek bones, and flattened noses swelling out into a bulbous-like protuberance, will show their descent from those hideous barbarians the Ougri, who, following in the wake of Hunnish Attila, ravaged the Byzantine Empire in the fifth century, and whose name, slightly modified, has become a term of opprobrium in the jargon of Western Europe.

A PERSONAL ADVENTURE.

Among this motley crowd came one traveler in European dress, followed by a servant in livery leading a brace of fine pointers and carrying a gun case. He was got up with all the neatness of a Vienna gentleman, and wore a red ribbon in his button-hole. He was too quiet to be a Frenchman, and had none of the slop-shop style of the Servian, and in short was a mysterious stranger whose apparition evidently much astonished Herr Schrām. Passing us with a slight bow, he dived down into the cabin, whence he presently returned, and approaching me asked in excellent French for a light for his cigarette, which he drew from a cornetted case. "We are almost compatriots," he remarked, pointing to my button-hole, "it not in blood, at least in sentiment, and I think that we met once before under the tri-color, at Bordeaux in 1871." In a moment it flashed across me that this was the man whom Austria and Turkey are seeking to play off against Milan Obrenovics; "And you are—" "Mr. Zoritch, if you please, for the present," he hastily broke in as I was about to give him his name. "Simple Mr. Zoritch, on my way to Carlovatz, where there is some good boar-shooting." Then he turned to Mr. Schrām and said something to him in German, whereupon that gentleman bowed most respectfully and the conversation became general, and was kept up until the small hours of the night. Prince Petrus Karageorgevitch is a man of some five and thirty years of age, dark in eye and hair and complexion, rather above the middle height, and sparely although well built, without the characteristic of enormous hands and feet usually found among his countrymen. His face is rather expressive of determination than of amiability, and has at times a worn, haggard look which would seem to justify the accusation that he has led a very "fast" life; according to Dr. Gābler, of Prague, his former tutor, the chief features of his character are a violent temper and great determination," qualities," said the learned gentleman, who was by no means fond of his former pupil, "which I should like to see possessed to an equal degree by Milan Obrenovic." Prince Petrus was born in Servia, but owing to the vicissitudes of his family fortunes, has been educated in Switzerland and France, and has necessarily acquired a great deal of foreign polish. After the vote of the Skuposhtijna, excluding the Karageorgevitches from the Servian throne, on account of their alleged participation in the assassination of Prince Michael, the young man took service in the French Foreign Legion, and behaved very creditably in Africa. Later, during the Franco-German war, he reentered the French Army, and, for his gallantry, received the Cross of Knight of the Legion of Honor. Whatever be his vices and foibles, and opinions are much divided on this point, Petrus has shown himself, for courage at least, a worthy scion of the stock of old Black George, who first, in 1804, raised the standard of liberty against the Turks. In the month of September, 1875, he sold off a great portion of the vast wealth which his grandfather had wisely invested, beyond the reach of Servian confiscation, in Austria; raised and equipped a band of 2,000 volunteers, and entered Bosnia, where he defeated the Turks in a sharp fight, near Boyna, on the 10th of October. Under the assumed name of Zorritch he kept the field with success until the middle of July of this year, when, upon the proclamation of Prince Milan, as Gospodar of Bosnia, he formally with, drew from all participation with the insurrection. Since then, at a moment when party feeling began to be aroused in Servia on account of the pusillanimity of its Prince, he lived for a short time at Kubin, an Austrian town on the Danube, opposite Semindria, whence he issued his proclamations to the people of Belgrade. The partial success of the Servian arms, and the influence, now predominant, of the extreme Russian party, has again caused him to retire into private life. His well-known anti-Muscovite policy has gained him the good-will of the Hungarians, by whom his pretensions to the crown will be supported; and his present boar-hunting expedition to Carlovatz is probably only a cloak to his real designs. That he is destined to play a prominent part in his country's future, I am convinced, for he will either overthrow the weak actual ruler by a revolution, should a humiliating peace be imposed by foreign diplomacy, or else, should the autonomy of the Slavonic provinces be established, as has been proposed, he will be the Prince designated by Austria as best fitted to rule as Gospodar of the vassal State of Bosnia. In any case, that Petrus Karageorgevitch will consent to remain the puppet of either Turks or Austrians, any longer than will perfectly suit his own ambitious views, I do not believe, while I am equally certain that were he at present on the throne, either there would have been no war with Turkey in 1876, or the Servian army would be now arranging for its winter quarters at Sofia. In conversation I found him clever and well-informed on military and social topics. Generally he was moderate in his appreciation of events "at home," as he always spoke of his native land. But there was a vein of bitterness thoughout and he could scarcely control his temper when he uttered the names of Ristics, ce sale intrigant) as he called him, and of Tchernayeff, "that tool of the Russian orthodox party whose spread would culminate in the adoption of nihilisme." His contempt of Prince Milan was almost good natured: "He is only a speaking fat doll," he said, "who does what the Princess Nathalie bids him, and she only acts according to orders given through the editors of the Ruski Mir. He is not even a direct descendant of old Milosc, but only a collateral. His grandfather Jephram never would go within a league of an armed Turk, and this gentleman treads worthily in his footsteps."

A USEFUL SERVANT ENGAGED.

The dawn was breaking when we came in sight of the tulipped-topped churches of Ait Gradiska, and the taper minarets of its twin sister, Berbir, which once, when under Christian rule, had formed a suburb of the Croatian town. All was hurry and confusion now, for this was the terminus of the steamer's journey. The Prince shook hands with me, and went on his way—a very roundabout one, it appeared to me, if his destination really were Carlovatz. I put myself under the obliging wing of Herr Schrām, and visited the Commisair and the Turkish Vice Consul, by both of whom I was most courteously treated. The latter, evidently a co-religionary of my guide, offered at once to find me a servant, for my Irish henchman had broken down with the ague, and was now probably shaking at Belgrade. Of course, I knew that this was only an indirect plan for putting a spy upon my movements; but as I also knew that my attendant would on that very account be civil and obliging, I did not take the high moral ground, and so eagerly accepted. Thereupon Andreas Nikolesch was sent for, exhibited his papers, which were excellent, and was then and there engaged at a florin per diem and his victuals. He had been in the Austrian Army at Milan; spoke Italian fluently; (by the way, all the Croats are remarkable linguists;) stood nearly six feet without his boots; carried three or four pistols and as many knives in his belt, and had that cheery-looking nose which betokens a partiality for strong liquors. He assured me that he had many friends on the other side; would be very proud of a chance to kill an accursed Wlach, as his countrymen call the Greeks, and that he was deeply disgusted that the Austrian authorities should waste so much money on this scum of fugitive Rayahs. I was scarcely prepared for so early an exhibition of Christian feeling, although I knew its bitterness in and about Bosnia, and saw more of it at an hour or two later in the streets of Berbir, where two priests of different communions, meeting in their parochial rounds, first spat upon the ground and then called each other pāsa vjérro—"religion of a dog." My papers duly in order, and my breakfast taken in the eating-room of a dreadful place called the Golden Lamb, which was redolent of garlic and stale tobacco smoke, I strolled into the Platz while waiting for the departure of the ferry-boat. But it was neither a market nor a feast-day, so that I cannot speak authoritatively as to the brilliancy of the Croatian peasant-woman's costume, which is said to be very picturesque. A few elderly females were selling undersized grapes and pears, and scowling hideously at some Bulgarian horticulturists who had a better assortment of the same articles, and twenty or more wretched-looking Bosnian refugees were asking alms and apparently receiving none; from which I argued that there was some difference in their respective interpretations of the Holy Scriptures. I was right glad then to be summoned by Andreas on board at the boat, from which, fifteen minutes later, I set foot upon Turkish soil in the midst of a scurvy crowd of peasants and porters, who quarreled eagerly for the honor of "miscreants," alias Bashi-Bazouks, who were very civil and would, for a small consideration, have served as an escort of honor, which I declined with thanks. They were not at all formidable to look at and were wretchedly, armed with old-fashioned flint-lock muskets and yatagbans. They were serviceably mounted on native ponies, but I am not enthusiastic over Bosnia's equine productions, which are uncommonly plain about the head and shambling in gait. Much satisfaction was expressed by one detachment of "miscreants," a name which, with my reader's permission, I will adopt in future, whom I treated to coffee and tobacco at Roubinje, where I stopped to lunch on fried eggs, sour bread, and rancid cheese, the usual traveler's fare in these parts. I doubt somewhat their sincerity, it is true, but they certainly did propose that I should take command and go after the ghiaours as their leader. So my ride was an entirely uneventful one, and when I reached the long, straggling town of Baniaiouka I was obliged to confess that I neither had seen nor done aught worthy of record.

AN INTERVIEW WITH A TURK.

One of my Zaptiehs had gone on in advance with my letter of introduction to the Caimakan, who was waiting in his Divankané to receive me. His Kenak was a fine stone building hard by the citadel, now almost a ruin; and Riza Ali Pasha merits a description. He is short and squat, and about sixty years of age, and he wears a fez, like all officials, and unlike the natives, with whom its introduction by Mahmoud II. was the cause of a petty insurrection in 1827. Of course, he also wore spectacles—no Turkish civil functionary who respects himself does not wear spectacles, not because these "gig-lamps" are really of any use, for, in three cases out of five their rims are fitted in with bits of window-pane, but because they are supposed to impart an air of gravity and wisdom to their possessor. Certainly they do give them the strongest possible resemblance to a fat owl, taciturn but reflective. The chief hobby of my worthy host, of which I had been forewarned, was his past military career, which, in reality short and inglorious, he liked to impress upon you as being most brilliant. He swore that he remembered the Delibacki of the Syrian Irregulars at Kara, called me his "brother in arms," and insisted upon my supping with him. As to lodging at the Khan, such a thing was not to be thought of; there was a "Christian hound," named Diakovich, who had a good house, and there, and there only, should I be billeted. So Diakovich was sent for, and came cringing in, and salaamed humbly, and expressed his appreciation of the honor, and then went out hating me in his inmost soul. It appears that Riza Ali is not a nice man to thwart; he has never been accused of any gross outrage, but he has a disagreeable way of beating people with his slipper and shying crockery at the servants whenever he is out of humor. While waiting for the banquet—which I may as well dispose of at once by saying that it was profuse, if not choice, and was not eaten with our fingers, but with orthodox knives and forks—we had the usual coffee and tobacco, and I ventured to ask about the political affairs of his Sandjak. It was raising a tempest in a tea-pot, indeed, this indiscretion of mine, and the old man fairly foamed with rage. "Those accursed swine! Scum of Sheitan, whom may Allah confound, and may dogs defile their mother's graves!"—spitting rapidly on the ground between every two words. This torrent of vituperation went on for five minutes, when he appeared to be much relieved and quite easy in his mind, as though he had done his duty, and once again became quite pleasant and chatty. He knew little or nothing beyond the limits of his province, and he had quite enough to do there. But he meant to send out a cavalry force after a band of insurgents who were somewhere along the road to Travnick, and as that was in my direction I would do well to accompany the detachment, which would be under a very "good man," Osman Agha. To refuse would have been to incur suspicion, so I signified my glad acceptance, although in my heart felt a little uneasiness. I had known the enemy's leader, Despotovich, in Belgrade, after his dismissal from the Servian Army, and I felt sure that if this ex-Colonel of the Russian Guards could keep his hands together, and if the Osmanli were not in better form than those whom I had met during my morning's ride, we should have a bad time. However, there was no alternative, and so I determined to go, and, it the worst came to the worst, trust to my horse, which would probably be a good one, as my host had promised to mount me from his own stables. I was influenced in this decision by the reception of a telegram, for Baniaiouka rejoices in a telegraph station, which will oblige me to curtail my present visit to Bosnia and return in a few days to Paris, and naturally I wish to see as much as I can. It was quite 9 o'clock before I could get away from the Konak, for Riza Ali has the universal fondness for backgammon, the only amusement, by the way, in which the Turks like to be noisy. Then I was escorted by half a dozen Kavasses with lanterns to my lodgings, where I was met by the original Diakovics, male and female, who received me with sour faces, which proved too clearly that I was an unwelcome guest. The younger ones smiled outwardly, but no one made a move to show me my room until Andreas called them names and handed them my valise to carry. After this there was more civility, which, indeed, became servility as soon as my Croat had kicked their beds out of my chamber and told them that "his Bey was not in the habit of sleeping among swine." From that moment my position was firmly established. In the East courtesy and authority rarely go together, and these people had been simply seeking by their own incivility to find out what was my social status.

A KIDNAPPED BOY RETURNED.

The Montreal Gazette, on the authority of the Police of Chaboillez square, tells the following interesting story: "A young man named Louis Berrand applied at the Chaboillez Police Station yesterday morning regarding a place called 'St. George,' to which he said he wanted to go seek his parents. He stated that he had just arrived via Quebec, after an absence of seventeen years, during which he has traveled in many lands. At the age of ten years, on the day of his first communion, he came to this city with his father, from one of the parishes lying south from Montreal, in an open boat, landing opposite a monument, which must have been Nelson's. In the afternoon he and his father returned to the boat, intending to proceed homeward; but his father having forgotten a parcel, started to get it, leaving him alone and telling him he would not be long. While his father was away three sailors came alongside in a boat and took him away with them to a ship from Holland, which set sail the next morning for Brazil. After a sojourn of about fifteen days in that country, he was taken to several places in Europe, where he remained several years. He ceased to be treated well in England, and soon afterward set sail for New-York. He then went coasting. After an absence of seventeen years, during which he made several ineffectual attempts to escape from different vessels on which he served, and for which he was invariably punished, he reached Quebec a few days ago. The man is now twenty-seven years of age. He says he remembers the name of the concession he lived in was Ste. St. George; but he does not remember the name of the parish. He is sure, however, that it lies some distance south of the St. Lawrence River. His father's name is Louis Bertrand, and his mother's Louise Collin. He also remembers that his mother came from Quebec. The young man gave a description of the cure of St. Jules, Rev. Mr. Duerer, whom, he says, he knew. Several parties who were acquainted with the reverend gentleman state that the description given by the young man is correct. He further stated that the name of the next neighbor to his father's house was Lemieux. The strangest thing in connection with this affair is that, after such a long absence, he can still speak his native tongue with the same facility and accent as if he had never been out of Lower Canada."

ON SHORT ACQUAINTANCE.

The Pittsburg (Penn.) Gazette of Friday says: "On Tuesday morning Louisa Bred arrived at the Union Depot, in this city, from Newark, Ohio, on her way to Beaver Falls, where she purposed becoming a domestic. At the depot she met Morritz Meyer for the first time in her life. He made himself generally agreeable, and learned where she was from and where going. When, toward evening, Louisa was about to start for Allegheny, Meyer wound up his attentions by proposing that they get married. She consented and they went before a Magistrate, whose name or place of business they afterward forgot, and were united in matrimony. After the ceremony they proceeded to the Federal street depot to look up her baggage. While the husband was making himself busy in many ways in her behalf, William Toerner happened to come along. Toerner is acquainted with Louisa's brother in Newark, and has a slight acquaintance with Louisa herself. When he saw this strange man make himself so extremely busy with her affairs, he mentally concluded that he had designs upon her, and assuming the rôle of champion, demanded to know what business he had with the lady. Louisa took Morritz's part, but Toerner would believe neither of them, and the result was a scene of a lively description. At this juncture Officer Selfridge appeared and arrested all the parties. Louisa told her story to Mayor Phillips, but when the latter asked to see her marriage certificate Meyer told him that he had burned it up from fear of getting into trouble. His excuse was in one sense not bad. A marriage certificate has brought trouble to many a man. The trio were locked up for the night, each one occupying a cell alone, and yesterday morning the Mayor discharged them, with a word of advice to Louisa that she had better allow her brother's friend to send her back home until she is better acquainted with her new and singularly acquired husband."

THE MONETARY COMMISSION.

The Richmond (Va.) Whig of Friday says: "The United States Monetary Commission, authorized by act of Congress now in session in New-York, have, through its Chairman, Hon. John P. Jones, Senator from Nevada, invited Hon. R. M. T. Hunter, who, as a representative of Virginia at the Federal capital, was the author of a report in relation to the standard of values that gave him a great reputation as a financier, to attend the meetings of the commission, and to give them the benefit of his views upon a subject that is of such vital interest to the country. We trust it may be in Mr. Hunter's power to accept the invitation."

AN HONEST PENNY.

The Galesburg (Ill.) Press says: "Talking about smallness, we were told a fact this morning which is about as small as we have heard for some time. A lady from this city who was traveling alone from here to Chicago, asked a certain lawyer of this city, who was also on the train, if he would get her a cup of coffee at Mendota. This student of Blackstone did as requested, paying ten cents for the coffee and charging fifteen cents for it, taking five cents commission for his gallantry."

THE FASHIONS.

WHAT IS AND WILL BE WORN.

NEW COMBINATIONS—FRESH CONFECTIONS —ECONOMICAL STYLES—BONNETS AND MINOR ARTICLES—A MARVELLOUS DRESS.

Faconne in small figures, and striped goods combined with damassé, are to be extensively employed. Bronze color and navy blue will be worn, even to excess, and foreign manufacturers can scarcely satisfy the demand for these colors. They are not suited to brunettes, but there are many combinations which can be resorted to, though not quite so fashionable, by ladies who bear in mind that the art of dressing consists in wearing what is most becoming. There are new shades of brown and gray. It is rumored that short skirts for walking will be worn this Winter. Suits called skating suits will be made of white cloth and velvet, trimmed with furs, with short skirts plaited in the back. Long trains will no longer be seen sweeping the streets, but will be reserved exclusively for the parlor. It is desirable that this fashion should meet with general approval, and thus do away with a most inconvenient and extravagant style. A long armure polise will also be worn for skating purposes. The felt hat must always be in the color of the suit.

Beige suits will be worn as last Winter. These suits can easily be renovated with a fur border. Cachemire de l' Indo, beige trimmed with beaver, and black fur with white spots will continue in favor. White spots in fur will be the prevailing style. All kinds of fur will be worn, including skunk, but in deeper bands than formerly. As yet not much has been decided concerning velvet confections; it is even thought that velvet will not be used for the purpose this season; this, however, is not settled.

In confections there are various shapes. The redonde made of velvet trimmed with sable is suitable for the evening, but is not considered stylish for street wear for young ladies. Most of the confections are long and full. The paletot lined and bordered with fur is still in vogue. The paletot cuirass cut in sacque shape, reaching to the knees and closing down the front with two rows of buttons, is the garment most worn by Parisian ladies. There is also a new model called "Douairiere;" it is very full, the fronts are straight, and the back and sleeves are dolman shape. A round flat skirt is sewed to the under part of this dolman, which does not fall lower than the front of the garment, to which it is fastened in the side seam. It is trimmed with narrow galloon and handsome fur. The "Montenegro" paletot is also very pretty. The fronts are like the ordinary paletot, with this exception, that the piece on the right side is cut in a point and taken over to the back, where it is tons, thus drawing in the plaits. The back of the paletot has a Watteau plait, opened about the middle of the back and fastened by a velvet button. Around the garment over the hem is very narrow velvet. The velvet turns over in front and forms revers. The sleeves are trimmed with velvet cuffs; below the cuffs is a narrow plaiting, and through the centre of the cuffs a ribbon; a bow is on the outside. On the lower part of the garment is a square velvet pocket, trimmed with large loops and ends of gray ribbon.

The duster-coat and ulster are among the most convenient garments worn. The most fashionable of ulsters are of checked cloth trimmed with rather large wooden or bone buttons in the same color as the material. This fashion is very unbecoming; the ulster is much prettier made of plain cloth.

There is at present a great deal of French and India cashemire to be seen. It is found in a great variety of shades, and as it is soft it makes plaitings, shirrings, tuniques, scarfs, and, in short, all the draperies of the present costumes.

The fashions now are admirably adapted to the renovation of old dresses, as the tunique and cuirass can be of one material, while the skirt and sleeves are of another. The polonaise must be all of one material, but may be worn over any skirt. It is cut so long that it almost constitutes in itself a princess dress. It falls over the train, leaving but a small piece showing all around. This is certainly a very economical fashion, as an old skirt only requires a little new trimming upon the very lowest part.

Fashion has of late been inclining toward Oriental styles. There are already in use ganze turbans, golden embroideries, sequins and other Oriental articles. The "Serb" bonnet is a kind of Greek calotte made of felt or velvet, surrounded by a twisted piece of gauze or velvet, forming a turban, which is taken around and tied in front. Golden sequins made into fringe will also be used by modistes to border the brim of very elegant theatre bonnets. These sequins falling over a light tulle ruched four de tete, will look very pretty, but their use must not be abused. Sequins will also be made into bracelets, necklaces, ear-rings and a peculiar trimming for garments and suits.

For bonnets, feathers and furs will be used as trimmings, and the shapes are so varied that all tastes can easily be satisfied. The most becoming shapes are naturally those which find most favor, and for this very reason the élite are obliged to abandon them soonest and seek for new inspirations from their milliners. This remark applies to the pointed bonnet, which will soon be too generally worn to be considered stylish. Felt hats, the felt having a long nap, and plush hats will likely be popular; the latter especially makes a beautiful bonnet. They are in all colors and possess the advantage of requiring but little trimming. A bonnet made entirely of feathers is quite novel. The tulle frame has a rounded crown and diadem brim, which is surrounded by lophophore, and the crown is covered with red cock's feathers. Upon the side are two bird's wings in the colors of the different feathers upon the bonnet. The meptonnière barbes are of white ganze.

Although it is rather early to refer to evening dresses, it is impossible to refrain from alluding to two of these toilets made by one of the largest Parisian houses, and to be sent to a foreign court. One is of black velvet and white faille, with trimmings of embroideries, with black and white chenille fringe. The train skirt is covered with bias bands of velvet and very fine faille plaitings, with the ends falling loose. There are eleven of these rows alternating. The front of the dress has three white drap de soie scarfs, embroidered in black and white silk; they are trimmed with black chenille and white fringed silk. The waist is cut square in the neck and trimmed with white faille plaitings and fringe. On the inside is a fine crêpe lisse trimming. A similar dress has been made, with the exception that the drap de soie scarfs are replaced by deep Chantilly lace placed flat over white faille. Special mention has been made of this in order to intimate that lace which has been long out of use can now be employed to very great advantage. The other toilet is a peculiar combination of three colors, very pale rose, pale pink, and black. The body of the dress is of pink faille. On the skirt are two pink faille flounces, with plaitings above, and a flounce with large black Sicilienne points. Above these points there is a small straw-colored flounce with small points falling over the large ones, and puffings of straw-colored blonde dotted with pink silk. The front is trimmed with three scarfs, with black and straw-colored points over puffings of pink faille. The Agnes Sorel cuirass waist has a long basque, rounded in the back, and cut out in points like the remainder of the dress. The neck is cut out and also trimmed. The train scarfs pointed on the borders and trimmed with black Sicilienne bows and cream-colored blonde. This combination would not be suitable for many ladies; new ideas, however, may be derived from so peculiar an arrangement. For example, green and white pointed in this way in two shades of green, instead of the two distinct colors, would produce a pleasing effect for a dinner dress.

A pretty reception dress may be made of sky-blue broché surah. The plain blue silk skirt has a broché train joined from the middle of the back and consisting of three rather deep flounces falling one over the other. On the lower part of the apron is a pale pink "filet Mexicain" scarf with three rows of fringe. Its ends are raised on the sides and in the centre under full ribbon bows in the two shades. Upon the upper part of the skirt is a similar scarf placed on flat. The blue broché cuirass is trimmed with pink bands, and down the front are three rows of small pink buttons. The plain blue sleeves have deep cuffs bound with pink and ornamented on the outside with pink and blue bows. The crêpe lisse lingerie is soulloné. The Louis XV. blue kid shoes are adorned with pink bows.

A walking suit may be of plum-colored faille and striped light plum and cream colored surah. The train skirt is trimmed with a deep-plaited flounce, and a deep puffing, with a ruched heading. The striped tunique is bordered with a deep-plaited ruffle. On one side is a pocket of the plain goods made in three hollow plaits, and ornamented through the centre with mother-of-pearl buttons, and on the lower part with loops of ribbon. The breast-piece of the cuirass is of plain silk, trimmed with bias bands of surah and mother-of-pearl buttons. The sleeves have plum-colored surah cuffs bordered with silk and trimmed with the same colored bows. On the lower part of the cuirass, in front, is a plum-colored faille scarf. One side is raised under small ribbon loops, the other extends to the back, raises the tunique, and falls in one end down the back. The ruched lingerie is of muslin and Valenciennes. The capote matching the dress is of plum-colored surah trimmed on the front of the crown with an "Alsacien" bow. On the back of the crown and under the brim are flowers and blonde. The barbes are also of blonde.

Fichus are now worn over most dresses. Those generally in use are of chenille, with corresponding fringe; they are in all colors. Colored English blonde also makes very pretty evening fichus. Light blue and pink blondes, and also blondes combined with black lace and worked with straw-color, make very suitable parures. For dinner and theatre wear some new fichus and collarettes are in vogue. These are composed of a crêpe lisse plaiting, ruching, and lace, with a front-piece attached ornamenting the front of the waist. This is composed of silvered gauze puffings, in very pale shades, intermixed with lace and finished with a bow. The underslceves and cuffs are the same. Cream-colored crêpe lisse ruchings are also made trimmed with two rows of cream colored Valenciennes lace. Embroidery continues in use for all purposes. Take, for instance, a paletot cuirass made of handsome silk, perfectly plain in its sequence; to be in the latest fashion it must have a collar, revers, pockets and cuffs of black velvet worked with steel.

The Louis XIII. collars and cuffs, which were first exhibited toward the end of last Winter, are now again to be seen. It is to be hoped this season that they will be more favorably received. Ladies have been wearing ruffs of late much too long enough, and they should now, if only for a change, adopt something different. A turned down collar which leaves the neck rather open, and is trimmed with embroidery or lace, seems much more suitable. The new Louis XIII. collar, which is on a band, is deep and round; it closes in front with a button. It is made of fine linen trimmed with lace or embroidered. Old gothic lace is well suited to this purpose. The cuffs are the same, and are worn over the sleeves, which button at the wrist. Other falling collars are also made. Among them is the Adelaide collar, which recalls the style of 1830. This model is of very fine organdi embroidered and trimmed with Valenciennes lace and laid over a white or pink foulard collar, which shows through the fine trout forms a sort of double barbe, which is tied in front to form the necktie.

The Empress of Brazil has presented the Queen of England with a dress the equal of which has never been seen. It is woven of spider's webs, and is, as may be imagined, a work of art as regards quality and beauty. The handsomest silk cannot compare with it, but it can only be admired and hardly imitated. There have already been many attempts to make use of the threads spun by spiders, but up to the present the experiments have not been satisfactory enough to encourage any further efforts in this direction. In the year 1710 it was discovered that to make a piece of silk it would require the webs of 700,000 spiders. The Spaniards had already failed in the use of spiders' threads, and made gloves, stockings, and other articles of the sort, but even these were so troublesome and yielded so little profit that, in spite of the fabulous prices paid, they were obliged to abandon the trade. In certain parts of South America garments made of these threads are worn, but the spiders in these lands are unusually large. It is likely that the above mentioned dress was made of the threads of the smaller species of American spider. There is, therefore, some hope that the time is not far distant when, thanks to the progress of modern industry, fashionable ladies may have the satisfaction of wearing elegant silks of the same delicate texture.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The following case was argued to-day:

No. 22.—West Wisconsin Railway Company vs. Board of Supervisors of the County of Trempealeau.—Error to the Supreme Court of Wisconsin.—This action was brought to compel the cancellation of certain tax certificates upon lands in the county named upon the ground that the lands were not subject to taxation at the time the tax was levied, and that the certificates were a cloud upon the title of the plaintiff. By the laws of Wisconsin all the unsold lands of the railway company were exempt from taxation for a term of five years. By a subsequent law this exemption was repealed so far as applicable to lands in Trempealeau County. The plaintiff in error maintains that it was incompetent for the Legislature to take away this exemption, because it was in the nature of a contract between the State and the road, and the Repealing act impairs this contract. The defendant in error urges that as the Constitution of the State reserves to the Legislature the power to alter or repeal all general laws or special acts under which corporations without banking powers are created, at any time after their passage; that therefore the power resides in the Legislature to repeal the exemption previously provided by law. The right to repeal not alter the franchises given is a right reserved in the contract itself, and its exercise by the Legislature, instead of impairing the obligation of the contract, is the exercise of a right given by the contract itself. The same general question here presented has been exhaustively argued in the Granger cases now awaiting decision by the court. P. L. and J. C. Spooner, for plaintiff in error; A. W. Newman and W. P. Bartlett, for defendant.

NATURALIZATION FRAUDS IN THIS CITY.

In yesterday's edition of THE TIMES mention was made of the arrest of John McSorley, a Democratic Supervisor of election, upon a charge of obtaining naturalization papers under the name of Michael Murphy, and afterward giving them to a person of that name. Late on Friday night Murphy was arrested by Deputy Marshal Crowley, on a charge of being implicated in this fraudulent transaction, and was held in $2,000 bail by United States Commissioner Shields for examination. Murphy is a car driver in the employ of the Third Avenue Railroad Company, and states that he received his naturalization papers some years ago, but lost them. He applied for duplicates to the United States Court, but they were refused, and at this time he met McSorley, who is an ex-conductor on the same line. McSorley told him he would "fix it," and a few days ago, meeting handed him papers in the depot of the railroad company, and he received them, supposing them to be merely duplicates of the former ones. The story bears every resemblance of truth, and Murphy will probably be used as a witness against McSorley. The latter and his witness, McManus, are held in $5,000 bail for examination on the charges of fraudulent naturalization against them.

DESERTING FROM THE ARMY.

In December, 1872, Carl Peter Meier enlisted in the United States Army under the name of James Foster. He was stationed on Governor's Island, and served there until May 13, 1873, when he deserted. Nothing was known of his whereabouts until a few days since, when he was arrested by Special Detective Jacob Depuy upon instructions received from the War Department. He was found in one of the banks on Nassau street, where he has been employed for some time past. Yesterday through his counsel, L. W. Emerson, a writ of habeas corpus was taken out, returnable immediately before Judge Blatchford in the United States District Court. Meier's discharge is claimed by counsel, on the ground that at the time of his enlistment he was under age. On the part of the Government it is claimed that at this time he was twenty-two years of age, as stated by him at the time. Upon being brought before Judge Blatchford the matter was referred to United States Commissioner Betts to take testimony and report. Assistant United States District Attorney T. W. Pullman appeared for the Government.

A SUIT FOR SLANDER.

An order of arrest was issued yesterday by Judge Donohue, in the Supreme Court, against the defendants in the suit of Fannie S. Rich against George H. Mackay and Frank Trimble, brought to recover $25,000, for alleged slander. The plaintiff was formerly the wife of Frank Trimble, but claims to have been divorced from him in the Supreme Court of Queens County, May 23, 1876. The same day she was married to Theodore P. Rich by Rev. Dr. S. S. MacArthur, Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church. She alleges in her affidavit that on the 18th inst. Mackay openly declared that she was another man's wife, and was simply the mistress of Rich. Mackay was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff McGonigal, and gave bail in the sum of $5,000. All the parties to the suit are of more or less prominence. Mackay is a candidate for the State Assembly in the district in which he lives, and beyond this is a brother-in-law of the plaintiff.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Judge Barrett.

Matter of Machado.—Order settled; memorandum for counsel.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

By Judge Van Vorst.

Wallace vs. The Mayor, &c.—Demurrer overruled.
Covert vs. Henneberger.—Order settled.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

By Chief Justice Curtis.

Burke et al. vs. Curren.—Defendant's motion to dismiss action for failure to prosecute denied, without costs; plaintiff's motion to refer granted, but all proceedings under such order are stayed until the further direction of the Court. No costs of motion.
Nozon vs. Alden.—Reference ordered.

KINGS COUNTY SURROGATE'S COURT.

The following business was transacted in the Kings County Surrogate's Court during the past week:

Wills Proved—Margaret S. Bartlese, of the town of Flatbush, David K. Ducker, Hester Weaver, Harry B. Price, Joseph Hetteger, Edward C. Smith, Robert Francis, Valentin Schiegel, all of the City of Brooklyn. The will of Richard E. Pangborn was revoked.

Letters of administration were granted on the estates of the following-named deceased persons, viz.: Julia Bunce, Cornelia Taylor Sherman, Georgiana Hitchcock, Robert Brown, Margaret Butler, Jane K. Rogers, John Lennon, Henry Wastering, David Mundell, Elizabeth Dalton, Bridget Brown, Mary A. Townsend, Maria Benning, Johanna Wenger, John I. Monfort, and Cornelia Woolsey, all of the City of Brooklyn, and Alexander Calothy, of New Lots.

Letters of guardianship of Harriet C. Smith to Eliza Smith.

COURT NOTES.

George Caffe, importer of liquors, has received his discharge from his debts in bankruptcy from Register Isaac Daytor.

Antonio Cacace and Francis Saverio Lauro, seamen of the Italian bark L'Amico, were arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Deubert, upon charges of desertion. They were committed by Commissioner Shields for examination before Commissioner Osborn, by whom the warrant was issued.

John Sullivan, alias John Chrystie, of No. 440 West Thirty-fifth street, entered the lager-beer saloon of Andrew Wesbecker, of No. 129 West Fifty-seventh street, and, having received liquor, was leaving the store without paying for it, when Wesbecker discharged the contents of a horse-pistol at him, the charge taking effect in his hip. Wesbecker was arrested.

Patrick G. Quille, of No. 205 West Twentieth street, while sitting in Madison square on the evening of the 14th inst., was robbed, he says, by James H. Henry, of No. 548 Second avenue, of a gold watch and chain valued at $250. Since then he has sought in several places for the thief, and, seeing him yesterday, succeeded in having him arrested. At the Fifty-seventh Street Police Court, yesterday, he was committed to answer in default of $2,500.

W. S. O'Neil, a messenger-boy in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who has been confined in the Chambers Street Hospital for the past three weeks from the effect of a pistol-shot wound received at the hands of T. F. Wall, an operator also in the employ of the company, was yesterday sufficiently recovered to appear before Justice Duffy, in the Tombs Police Court, and prefer a charge of felonious assault against Wall. Justice Duffy committed the prisoner, in default of $1,000 bail, to answer at the General Sessions.

THE ST. ALBANS RAID.

SPEECH OF ONE OF THE REBEL THIEVES BEFORE THE COURT.

Hon. Edward A. Sowles lately delivered a lecture in Montpelier, Vt., in which he gave a detailed account of the St. Albans raid, concerning which he has extensive knowledge, he having represented the St. Albans banks at Montreal during the trial of the raiders before the notorious Coursol, and having been their counsel before the Mixed Commission at Washington. After a general description of the raid, and a scorching review of the action of the Canadian Judge after the raid, and of the inaction of the Canadian authorities before it, Mr. Sowles said that some of the raiders took high grounds as to the legitimacy of the transaction they were engaged in, and were terribly indignant when it was asserted they

INSTRUCTION.

M. W. LYON'S Collegiate Institute.

NO. 5 EAST 22D ST., CORNER OF BROADWAY.

Steadfast patrons are a fair test of a school. Well known names of last year patrons follow. Prefixed numbers show the years of patronage:

12—Henry M. Alexander, 9—Benjamin Curtis.
12—Henry Day. 9—Calvin E. Knox.
10—Joan Brooks. 8—James B. Adriance,
9—Dr. Ed. G. Bartlett, 7—Orson D. Munn.

Several have had sons fitted for college.

MOUNT WASHINGTON

Collegiate Institute,

No. 40 WASHINGTON SQUARE, NEW-YORK CITY,

GEO. W. CLARKE, Ph. D., Principal.

Prepares pupils of all ages for business or college, and opens its thirty-fourth year Sept. 13. Circulars at book stores and at the Institute.

MLLE. L. F. ROSTAN'S

FRENCH, ENGLISH, AND GERMAN BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES,

No. 1 East 41st st., corner 5th av.,

will reopen Oct. 3. The Musical Department is under the care of Pro's. S. B. MILLS and R. LAURENT. Mrs. M. J. R. BUEL, late of Washington, D. C., will be connected with the school.

KINDERGARTEN and PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

MME. O. DA SILVA AND MRS. ALEX. BRADFORD'S

(formerly Mrs. Ogden Hoffman's) English, French, and German boarding and day school for young ladies and children, No. 6 Madison av., corner 24th st., will reopen Sept. 27. Boarding pupils limited to sixteen. Intermediate class and private class for boys. KINDERGARTEN IN CHARGE OF MISS LEONOWENS.

ANTHON GRAMMAR SCHOOL,

No. 232 Madison av., Between 38th and 39th sts. School hours, 9:30 A. M. to 2:30 P. M.

The rates of tuition have been reduced.

MLLES. CHARBONNIER'S

FRENCH BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL for young ladies. No. 36 East 35th st., (formerly No. 42 Avenue du Roule, Neuilly, Paris,) will reopen on Wednesday, Sept. 27. Address as above, until Sept. 8, when Mlle. CHARBONNIER will be in New-York.

EARNEST TEACHING. COMMON SENSE MANAGEMENT. YONKERS MILITARY INSTITUTE. A BOARDING-SCHOOL FOR BOYS. BENJAMIN MASON, Box No. 564. Yonkers, N. Y.

A CLASS FOR BOYS.—THE DESIGN OF THIS class is to thoroughly prepare boys for our best colleges; number of pupils limited to twelve. Reference: President Eliot, of Harvard University; Theodore Roosevelt, Esq., and William H. Osborn, Esq., New-York City. For circulars apply to ARTHUR H. CUTLER, at Class rooms, No. 713 6th av.

D. S. EVERSON'S COLLEGIATE SCHOOL, corner 42d st. and 6th av.—Primary Department for young boys. Refers to the following present patrons: Rev. Dr. Hurd; Prof. Seely, Rev. Prof. R. D. Hitchcock, Rev. Thos. S. Hastings, Rev. Prof. Geo. L. Prentiss, Rev. Dr. S. N. White.

MISS AYRES, NO. 15 WEST 42D ST., NEW-YORK,

Will reopen her English, French, and German School for Young Ladies and Children MONDAY, Sept. 18.

C. A. MILES, ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS, No. 100 West 43d st., corner 6th av. School hours, 9:30 A. M. to 2:30 P. M.

THE FIFTH AVENUE SCHOOL FOR BOYS, AT NOS. 533, 541, AND 543 5TH AV. REOPENS SEPT. 18. E. A. GIBBENS, Harvard. } Principals. D. B. ACH, Jr., Yale, }

COLLEGE OF MUSIC, No. 5 West 14th st., west of 5th av. Signor Albites and Mme. Gazzaniga Albites, instructors in all branches of singing according to purest Italian methods, piano classes, and sight reading.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL, BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES AND CHILDREN. Rev. THEODORE IRVING, LL. D., Rector. No. 21 West 32d st. REOPENS WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 27, 1876.

MISS HAINES AND MLLE. DE JANON will reopen their boarding and day school for young ladies and children, at No. 10 Gramercy Park, Sept. 28. Kindergarten and boys' class, Oct. 2.

MRS. AND MISS STEERS' Boarding and Day School for young ladies and children, No. 12 East 47th st., will reopen Sept. 21. A school and Kindergarten class will commence Oct. 2, at No. 69 West 12th st. "School Omnibus."

ACADEMY OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION for children and adults, No. 64 Madison av., between 27th and 28th sts., (Dr. Mott's Memorial Building.) Prof. HENRY GEBHARD, Director. Apply for circulars.

THE COLLEGIATE SCHOOL, NO. 79 WEST 52d st., corner 6th av.. Rev. Dr. H. B. CHAPIN, Principal.—Boys prepared for college or business. A primary department. The fifty-seventh school year just begun.

BUSINESS WRITING, BOOK-KEEPING, Business-like correspondence, &c. DOLBEAR, No. 1,193 Broadway, gives special private lessons day or evening; terms reasonable: specialty — stiffness, cramping, and trembling removed.

LESSONS GIVEN IN DRAWING, PAINTing in oil and water colors, on plaques, panels, photograph colors, &c., by a lady teacher at pupils' residences. Address ART, Box No. 277 TIMES UPTOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

PREPARATORY SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL, No. 1,267 Broadway, near 32d st., for the schools of science, technology, mines, architecture. Seven enter college this year. A. COLES, M. E., late Engineer Corps, U. S. N., and Professor at Naval Academy.

MISS DU VERNET, ASSISTED BY COMpetent masters, will reopen her Boarding and Day School for boys under fifteen at No. 102 West 29th st., one door from 6th av., on MONDAY, Sept. 25; day boarders are taken to the Park after an early dinner.

UNIVERSITY GRAMMAR SCHOOL, NO. 1 Washington place, (one block from New-York University,) begins its Fortieth Year Sept. 13. Classical, commercial, and primary departments. M. M. HOBBY, B. S. LA SITER, Principals.

CHESTER VALLEY ACADEMY.—A Boarding School for boys, Downington, Pa.; limited to number; boys have home comforts and careful training; easy of access; $200 to $280 a year. P. DONEGAN, LONG, A. M., Prin.

BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL, MANSfield, Conn.—Beautiful and healthful location; second term begins Jan. 10, 1877; applications received immediately. Address SEMINARY.

MRS. WILLIAMS'S ENGLISH AND FRENCH boarding and day school for young ladies and children, No. 26 West 39th st., will reopen on THURSDAY, Sept. 28.

MR. ROBERTS AND MISS WALKER'S school for young ladies, No. 148 Madison av., reopens Sept. 25. Three young ladies will be received into the family.

IRVING'S SCHOOL OF ART, New-York Society Library, No. 67 University place. Drawing, water-colors, and Oil Painting.

RYE SEMINARY, RYE, N. Y. For particulars address Mrs. S. J. LIFE.

THE MISSES ROGERS' ENGLISH AND French Boarding and Day School for young ladies and children, No. 452 West 24th st., reopened Sept. 18.

MISS WARREN'S SCHOOL FOR BOYS, 6TH av., opposite Reservoir Park. Pupils of all ages improve here.

MRS. J. T. BENEDICT'S BOARDING AND Day School for young ladies and children, No. 7 East 42d st., N. Y., will reopen Sept. 28. Send for circular.

JOHN MACMULLEN'S SCHOOL, No. 1,214 Broadway.—Three boarders taken. Circulars at Putnam's.

MISS EDMONDS' ENGLISH AND FRENCH boarding and day school for young ladies. No. 37 East 29th st.

MISS BALLOU'S ENGLISH AND FRENCH School for Young Ladies and Children, No. 24 East 32d st., will reopen on Wednesday, Sept. 27.

U. S. STAMMERING INSTITUTE, DR. WHITE, 417 4th av.—Soundest references. No day until cured.

MRS. GREEN'S BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL for young ladies and children. 63 West 36th st.

J. B. MORSE'S SCHOOL, 1,267 BROADWAY, reopens Sept. 25; prepares for Harvard, Yale, &c.

GOLDEN HILL SEMINARY FOR YOUNG ladies, Bridgeport, Conn. Miss EMILY NELSON.

DARNEY UNIVERSITY SCHOOL, 25 EAST 20TH st.; preparation for college circulars on application.

DR. A. CALLISEN'S DAY SCHOOL FOR BOYS, No. 131 West 43d st., reopens Wednesday, Sept. 20.

A CLASS FOR YOUNG GENTLEMEN AND Private instruction. Thos. R. Ash, 103 West 40th st.

MISS F. B. PRIES'S SCHOOL, NO. 229 East 19th st., will reopen MONDAY, Sept. 25.

MISS GIBBONS' SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, No. 111 West 44th st., reopens Sept. 20.

DANCING.

ALLEN DODWORTH'S DANCING SCHOOL REMOVED TO NO. 681 5TH AV. Now open for the reception of pupils. For particulars send for circular.

DANCING.—A FEW ADDITIONAL YOUNG LADIES and gentlemen are requested to complete the formation of a select private class for instruction and general practice; Fridays from 8 till 10 P. M. Application with references at No. 66 West 127th st.

BROOKES' DANCING ACADEMY, NO. 381 Broome st.—A new class for Tuesday; the first lesson can be taken privately and no extra charge from class price. OPENING SOIREE, FRIDAY EVENING, NOV. 3.

DE GARMO'S DANCING ACADEMY, NO. 7 West 32d st., two doors west 6th av. NOW OPEN.

CITY REAL ESTATE.

FOR SALE

IN 40TH, 45TH, 54TH, 55TH, 57TH, and 65TH STS., and on Madison av., near 44th st., and corner of 56th and 65th sts., several new, finely built and located houses. For particulars apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

THIRTY-NINTH ST., JUST WEST OF 5TH AV.—For sale a handsome four-story brown-stone house, 17½ feet wide, well built and arranged, and in perfect order; lot 98.1; price low and possession immediate. Apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

FIRST-CLASS HOUSES FOR SALE AT REduced prices: No. 34 West 46th st., No. 44 West 47th st., No. 64 West 53d st., No. 51 West 56th st., No. 16 East 57th st. For particulars and permits apply to ISAAC HONIG, No. 111 Broadway, Rooms G & H, basement.

FOR SALE ON MURRAY HILL, JUST west of 5th av., a handsome four-story twenty-one foot house, hard-wood finish, frescoed, and in perfect order; price, $32,000; terms easy. F. G. & C. S. Brown, No. 90 Broadway.

MADISON AV., MURRAY HILL.—FINE extra sized house, (price low,) with or without stables; also, fine full-sized house, near 5th av., Murray Hill; less than $40,000. W. P. SEYMOUR, No. 171 Broadway.

FOR SALE.

In 47th st., near 5th av., a four-story brown-stone house, 20 feet wide; lot, 100.5 feet. In fee, $30,000. E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

$30,000.—A FOUR-STORY TWENTY-FOOT extension residence, 39th st., adjoining the avenue. 4 Pine or 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

FOR SALE—NEW AND ELEGANT BROWN-STONE houses, handsomely located, on 57th st.; complete with modern improvements; terms to suit. TIMPSON & PEET, No. 1,488 Broadway, near 44th st.

FOR SALE.—AN ELEGANT NORTH-WEST CORNER on 5th av., above 42d st., at a decidedly low figure. E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

COUNTRY REAL ESTATE.

ORANGE, N. J.—COUNTRY HOUSES, LANDS, and village lots for sale; a great variety. Also furnished and unfurnished houses to let for season or year, by WALTER E. SMITH, formerly Blackwell & Smith, Orange, corner of Main and Cone sts.

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

RICHARD V. HARNETT, Auctioneer.

NORTH-EAST CORNER OF 5TH AV. AND 61ST ST.

BY ORDER OF THE SUPREME COURT.

R. V. HARNETT

will sell at auction on Monday, Oct. 23, 1876, at 12 o'clock at the Exchange salesroom, under the direction of WILLIAM S. KEILEY, Esq., Referee,

Two lots north-east corner Fifth av. and 61st st., together 54 feet 9 inches front, by 100 feet deep.

Maps at the auctioneer's office.

ANTHONY J. BLEECKER, Auctioneer.

Two lots on 61st st., near 5th av.

BY ORDER OF THE SUPREME COURT.

A. J. B. BLEECKER & SON

will sell at auction on Monday, Oct. 23, 1876, at 12 o'clock, at the Exchange salesroom, under the direction of WILLIAM S. KEILEY, Esq., Referee,

Two lots north side 61st st., 100 feet east of 5th av., together 50 feet front by 100 feet 5 inches deep.

Maps at the auctioneer's office.

DWELLINGS TO LET.

THE ROCKINGHAM,

Corner 56th st. and Broadway.

The apartments in this new FIRE-PROOF HOUSE are now offered for rental, on the premises.

A SUPERB MURRAY HILL FULL-SIZE exquisitely furnished and frescoed mansion, fine bronzes, statuary, &c., at a reasonable rental. R. STEVENSON Jr. No. 33 East 17th st., or No. 4 Pine st.

AN EXTRA DESIRABLE ONE-STORY brown-stone dwelling on 17th st., near Stuyvesant park; beautifully and convenient location; rent moderate. V. K. STEVENSON, JR., 33 East 17th st., or 4 Pine st.

A MAGNIFICENTLY AND COMPLETELY furnished four-story brown-stone residence on 43d st., adjoining 5th av., to rent low. V. K. STEVENSON, JR., 33 East 17th st., or 4 Pine st.

FURNISHED FOUR-STORY HIGH-stoop brown-stone house, 38th street, between 5th and 6th avs.; rent $300 per month; owner will board; other houses, $2.0, $175 and $150. TIMPSON & PEET, No. 1,488 Broadway, near 44th st.

$40 A MONTH, FURNISHED.—A PRETTY cottage, seven rooms, at Rutherford Park, N. J., fifty minutes from New-York; near depot; on best av. Address E. C. T., Post Office Box 466, New-York.

TO LET, FURNISHED NEATLY.—A THREEstory stone house on 55th st., near 8th av., for one year or longer, to a small family; rent low. Apply to OWNER, No. 185 Dunne st., New-York.

FIFTY-SIXTH ST., NEAR 5TH AV.—ELEgantly-furnished four-story brown-stone house to rent to private family. RICHARD V. HARNETT, No. 111 Broadway, basement.

ORLEANS FLATS—8TH AV. AND 57TH ST.; seven rooms; all improvements; private halls, &c.; $26 to $42; cheapest in New-York. J. EDGAR LEAYCRAFT, No. 702 8th av.

REDUCED RENTS.—NEW COMPLETE FURnished and unfurnished flats; offices, 4 Pine and 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

A BEAUTIFULLY-FURNISHED HOUSE, on 35th st., near 5th av., for seven months; $275 per month; has billiard table. JOHN W. DERING, Broadway and 51st st.

A NEWLY-REFITTED THREE-STORY furnished house, No. 222 West 53d st., to rent very cheap; $150 month; perfect order; immediate occupancy; call early Monday.

TO LET.—A SUITE APARTMENTS, EIGHT ROOMS, bath, $900; elevator; heat; rleans, six rooms; $25 to $40. Addre s J. W. STEVENS, Saratoga Building, Broadway and 52d st.

UNFURNISHED, LARGE FOUR-STORY, high stoop brown-stone house, 41st st., between 6th av. and Broadway; in good order; rent $2,100. TIMPSON & PEET, No. 1,488 Broadway, near 44th st.

A FIRST-CLASS APARTMENT TO LET at No. 205 West 56th st.; eight rooms, none dark; steam heat; all conveniences. Apply to janitor.

A DESIRABLE FLAT TO LET—UNFURNISHED; five rooms; rent $1,000 per annum. No. 71 Lexington av.

FIFTH AV., ABOVE 42D ST.—A BEAUTIFUL extra-size, north-west-corner house for sale exceedingly low. W. P. SEYMOUR, No. 171 Broadway.

TO LET—TWO LARGE SUITES IN THE NEW AND elegantly-furnished French apartment house, corner of 40th st. and Park av., facing the Park.

STORES, &C., TO LET.

TO LET—AN OFFICE IN THE TIMES BUILDING, second floor, 23 feet by 23 feet, in good condition, suitable for a lawyer's office. Apply to GEORGE JONES, Times Office.

CLUBS, RESTAURANT BUSINESS PURPOSE or private residence, No. 8 West 28th st. Apply as above.

REAL ESTATE WANTED.

HAVING DISPOSED OF OUR REAL ESTATE business to Mr. E. C. CLARK, we commend that gentleman to the favor of our friends and patrons as in every way worthy of their confidence and esteem, and we solicit for him the patronage which has been given to us for the past seven years. HOLMES BROTH ERS, No. 46 East 23d st.

WANTED—A SMALL UNFURNISHED HOUSE, IN good order, for a family of three adults; rent not to exceed $1,200; locality between 14th and 59th sts. and 8th and Lexington avs. Address A. P., Post Office Box No. 548.

TEACHERS.

TEACHER FOR THE PRIMARY DEPARTMENT of one of our schools wanted, young or middle-aged lady, who can play on the melodeon and take charge of singing; salary, $40 per month. Apply in person with testimonial from last place, on Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 3 P. M., village school-house, Irvington-on-Hudson

AN EXPERIENCED CLASSICAL AND MATHematical teacher, who graduated with the highest honors, desires private pupils; prepares for college; highest references. Address A. M., Box No. 325 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

VISITING GOVERNESS.—AN ENGLISH LADY of highest ability, and many years' successful advancing grown pupils desires an engagement. References from first families. Derby, Box No. 260, TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

DESIRED—A POSITION AS DAILY GOVERNESS, in English, French, and music; unexceptionable references. Address, by letter, L. V., No. 95 5th av., art gallery.

GOVERNESS.—BY A YOUNG LADY. POSITION as governess to teach young children English branches; references; salary moderate. Address GOVERNESS, Box No. 172 Times Office.

VISITING GOVERNESS AND MUSICAL Teacher.—Experienced; highest City references; wishes an engagement for morning hours. Address E., Box No. 141 Times Office.

MME. ROBBINS, A WELL-KNOWN AND successful teacher of French and primary English branches, desires pupils, and trials for invalids. No. 68 West 36th st.

WANTED—A YOUNG LADY AS ASSISTANT; one who can reside away from home; state compensation, requirements, age, &c. Address C., Box No. 289 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, 1,257 BROADWAY.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.—Instruction imparted by Prof. KUTTNER. Call or send for circular to No. 217 East 35th st.

AN EXPERIENCED TEACHER, FORMERLY Instructor in Harvard, desires pupils; best references. HARVARD, No. 115 East 26th st.

REMOVALS.

REMOVAL.—MRS. ANNA E. PARK, MEDICAL Electrician, has removed from Brooklyn to No. 334 West 12th st., New-York, between Greenwich and Washington streets.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts., open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M. Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

NO. 434 5TH AV.

A SUPERB SUITE OF APARTMENTS, WITH PRIVATE TABLE, &c.

A SMALL PRIVATE FAMILY LIVING IN their own house, near 37th st., 5th and Madison avs., would rent an elegantly-furnished large room on the second floor, with private bath and dressing-room, to a gentleman wishing a refined home; table and accommodations unexceptionable; only the family, four adults, in the house; references exchanged. Address C. MORSE, Box No. 319 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

FIFTH AVENUE NEAR 30TH ST.—PRIVATE family offer handsomely furnished suites on second and third floors, with strictly first-class board at reasonable rates; references exchanged. Address M. B., Box No. 2,468 Post Office.

BROOKLYN HEIGHTS, THREE MINUTES' walk from Wall Street Ferry, choice location, first-class board, at reasonable rates. Please inquire at No. 5 Montague Terrace, third house south of Montague st.; references exchanged. fine 2d and 3d story rooms.

NO. 26 WEST 16TH ST.

Rooms single or en suite; rooms for gentlemen; private table or table d'hôte; house and appointments thoroughly first-class; references.

NO. 28 WEST 12TH ST., WEST OF 5TH AV.—With board, handsomely furnished rooms, large and small, suited for a family or party of gentlemen; house and table first-class.

A PRIVATE FAMILY CAN ACCOMMOdate five persons (or others) with handsomely-furnished rooms and good board, at reasonable rates; house and location first-class; reference. Call at No. 223 West 34th st.

SUNNY FRONT SUITES ON SECOND AND third floors, with superior board, near 5th av.; terms moderate; references exchanged. Address ENGLAND, Box No. 320 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

MRS. FELTER, OF NO. 235 WEST 38TH st., offers, with board, suites on second and third floors; also a large room on fourth floor; moderate terms.

ONE SUITE OF NEWLY-FURNISHED rooms on second floor, and third floor hall room; also rooms on parlor floor, with private table if desired. No. 106 Madison av.

NO. 43 WEST 28TH ST., NEAR BROADWAY, several large handsome rooms to let, with or without board, in newly furnished first-class house; references exchanged.

NO. 33 EAST 18TH ST., NEAR BROADWAY.—Handsomely-furnished rooms to let singly or en suite, to gentlemen and wives or single gentlemen, with or without board, or partial board.

FIFTH AV., NO. 81.—FIRST DOOR BELOW 16TH ST.—M. E. GAGE.—A suite of three rooms, front, together or separately, with board; also, fourth floor room; references exchanged.

MRS. J. B. REID,

No. 17 East 31st st., Madison and 5th avs.—Handsomely-furnished suite of rooms; private table; highest reference.

A COMPLETE SUITE OF LARGE HANDsome rooms, newly furnished; elegant parlor, &c.; with private table, if desired; references. No. 14 East 32d st., between 5th and Madison avs.

NO. 54 EAST 49TH ST.—A PARTY OWNING their house have a second floor, also other rooms, en suite or separately, with excellent board; references.

HANDSOME, NEWLY-FURNISHED SUITES of rooms, with board; also single rooms and elegant house, in a desirable location, near station of elevated railroad. No. 347 West 34th st.

A LARGE THIRD-STORY ROOM, VERY desirable, to two gentlemen; first-class board; Madison av., near 30th st. Address G., Box No. 292 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NO. 68 WEST 46TH ST., BETWEEN 5TH AND 6TH AVS.—Choice double and single rooms; families and single gentlemen; also, table board; $7 per week.

NO. 14 WEST 16TH ST., NEAR 5TH AV.—Handsome rooms, with excellent board, suitable for families or single gentlemen; table and service unexceptionable. F. LACHENMEYER.

ONE SUITE OF ROOMS, AND ONE SINGLE room, elegant and convenient in every respect, with board; family occupying their own house, No. 43 West 22d st.; highest references exchanged.

NO. 58 WEST 33D ST.

Large, handsomely-furnished rooms on second floor to let, with first-class board; one room on fourth floor; terms moderate; references exchanged.

NO. 139 WEST 15TH ST., BETWEEN 6TH and 7th avs.—To let, with or without board, a very comfortably-furnished room, suitable for two.

NO. 74 WEST 35TH ST.—A SECOND FLOOR, well furnished; excellent board; also two rooms on third floor; terms moderate; references.

NO. 6 EAST 34TH ST.—ROOMS, SINGLY OR en suite, with private table if desired; references exchanged.

DESIRABLE ROOMS, CENTRALLY LOcated, transient or otherwise, with or without board. No. 121 East 20th st.

DESIRABLE FRONT ROOMS, CONNECTing, on second and third floors, with board, at No. 33 West 27th st.

FIFTH AV., NO. 45, BETWEEN 11TH AND 12TH STS.—Spacious suite of apartments on parlor floor, with or without private table.

ONE NICELY FURNISHED SUITE OF rooms, with private table if desired, No. 122 West 21st st.

TO LET—TO GENTLEMEN ONLY, TWO OR three single rooms, with or without board; reference exchanged. No. 54 West 23d st.

TWENTY-THIRD ST., NO. 116 EAST.—Front parlor and bedroom on second floor, with board; also, room on upper floor; highest references.

NO. 18 EAST 33D ST.—ELEGANT SECOND floor and suite on third floor; private table if desired; rooms for gentlemen; references.

NO. 239 EAST 32D ST.—TWO LARGE ROOMS, No. 2 second floor, newly furnished, with or without board; terms easy; private family; good locality.

A FURNISHED FRONT AND HALL ROOM, second floor; first-class board; references. No. 338 West 23d st.

FIFTH AV., NO. 351.—ENTIRE THIRD STORY; four rooms; excellent table and attendance; $60 per week; also fourth-story rooms.

NO. 34 WEST 33D ST.—SUNNY FRONT SUITES; superior board or private tables; also rooms for gentlemen.

FIFTH AV., NO. 5, NEAR THE BREVOORT.—A second floor, handsomely furnished; also, single rooms; table unexceptionable.

ONE LARGE ROOM WITH BOARD TO gentleman and wife or two gentlemen, also one single room; reference. No. 34 West 26th st.

NO. 136 EAST 2D ST.—ROOMS EN SUITE OR singly; private table if desired; good board; references.

NO. 238 EAST 12TH ST.—A HANDSOME REception and bedroom connecting to let with board; also front room on second floor.

NO. 335 WEST 28TH ST.—HANDSOME NEWly furnished rooms with board; also table-board; terms very moderate.

NO. 60 WEST 38TH ST., BETWEEN 5TH AND 6TH AVS.—Elegant rooms with board; single rooms for gentlemen; gentlemen; reference.

ONE DOOR FROM MADISON SQUARE, No. 33 East 23d st.—Elegantly furnished floors, with private tables.

MURRAY HILL.—NO. 112 EAST 37TH ST., near Park av., second floor, en suite or singly, with board, in private family.

A SECOND-FLOOR ROOM, WITH OR without board; also second floor, front hall room, at No. 237 West 53d st.

AT $14 AND $16 FOR TWO.—HANDSOME rooms, first-class board; quiet, central location. Address HOME, Times office.

NO. 139 WEST 15TH ST., BETWEEN 6TH and 7th avs.—To let, a commodious furnished room on second floor, suitable for two, with or without board.

NO. 11 WEST 20TH ST.—ROOMS ON SECOND floor, single room on third floor, with board; references.

NO. 47 WEST 38TH ST.—NICELY FURnished room to let, with excellent board; references exchanged.

NO. 9 WEST 21ST ST.—MOST ATTRACTIVE locality; appointments desirable; rooms en suite or singly, with board; references.

NO. 8 EAST 9TH ST., NEAR 5TH AV.—Desirable suites of furnished rooms to let, with or without private table; references.

NO. 17 EAST 37TH ST.—A PLEASANT SUITE of front rooms to rent, with board; also room on fourth floor; references.

NO. 4 EAST 10TH ST., ONE DOOR FROM 5TH AV.—Handsome apartments to first-class parties; meals at option of occupants.

NO. 36 EAST 22D ST.—LARGE AND ELEGANT rooms to let, with first-class board; references exchanged.

FIFTH AV., NO. 291.—ELEGANTLY-FURnished apartments with board, for families and gentlemen; private table if desired.

FIFTH AV., NO. 311.—MRS. SEAVER WILL rent second floor, with private table, from Nov. 1; third floor immediately.

MRS. WILLIS', No. 3 West 30th st. Handsome suite of rooms, with board.

NO. 105 WEST 44TH ST.—ELEGANT ROOMS, singly or en suite; first-class table; references.

NO. 18 WEST 21ST ST.—FURNISHED ROOMS to let, with board; references exchanged.

NO. 29 WEST 21ST ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished rooms, with board; references.

HANDSOMELY-FURNISHED ROOMS, with first-class board. No. 158 West 45th st.

NO. 141 WEST 44TH ST.—ELEGANT ROOMS, singly or en suite; table first-class; references.

A FEW GENTLEMEN CAN OBTAIN A pleasant home and good board at 105 East 24 h st.

PLEASANT ROOMS, WITH BOARD, ENfire third floor; references. No. 116 West 46th st.

NO. 43 EAST 9TH ST.—A FLOOR AND SINGLE rooms to let, with board.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

TO RENT WITH BOARD.—A LARGE, CHEERful room, with all modern conveniences adjoining, within a few doors of 5th av., and near Windsor and Buckingham Hotels; suitable for one or two gentlemen. Address CLAYTON, Box No. 255 TIMES UPTOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NOS. 51 AND 53 WEST 25TH ST., NEAR MADison square.—Elegantly furnished rooms on second and parlor floor; bath-room, large closets, &c.; private table if desired; house and appointments strictly first-class.

NO. 8 EAST 32D ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished rooms on second floor; also, hall room on third floor; superior table, private if desired; references.

FIFTH AV., NO. 243.—HANDSOME PARLOR floor, with all modern conveniences; private table or without board; unquestionable reference given and required.

FIFTH AV., NO. 22½, OPPOSITE HOTEL BRUNSWICK.—Parlor and second floors; single rooms for gentlemen, with breakfast; terms reasonable to parties making permanent arrangements.

A PRIVATE FAMILY IN AN ELEGANT house on West 52d st. would like a small family to board or two single gentlemen. Address S. G. S., Station G, City.

THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NO. 67, BETWEEN 5th and 6th avs.—To let from Nov. 1, possibly sooner, with private tables only, second, third, or upper floors in a first-class family house.

ONE GENTLEMAN CAN HAVE A PLEASANT room, with good board, in a private family, on 32d st., between 8th and 9th avs., for $7 per week. Address QUIET HOME, Station E.

MRS. M. E. JEENS, NO. 48 WEST 15TH st., offers three desirable connecting rooms, with board; also, pleasant hall-room for a gentleman.

ONE SUITE VERY DESIRABLE SECOND-story rooms, with board. No. 153 Madison av., corner 32d st.

NO. 4 WEST 29TH ST.—WITH BOARD, LARGE, handsome rooms, singly or en suite. References exchanged.

NO. 37 WEST 31ST ST.—MOST HANDSOMELY furnished rooms, with superior table; best situation in town.

ROOMS TO LET—SINGLE AND DOUBLE, WITH home comforts; terms to suit the times. At No. 49 7th av., between 13th and 14th sts.

TO LET—WITH BOARD, TWO FRONT ROOMS ON third floor, in small family. Call at No. 62 West 45th st.

MRS. C. K. PARKER, OF NO. 72 MADISON av., has a few well furnished rooms to let, with board, at reasonable rates; references.

FURNISHED ROOMS, WITH SUPERIOR board; one with carpets and curtains; references exchanged. No. 37 East 29th st.

FIFTH AV., NO. 341.—MRS. SHAVER OFFERS suites of apartments, with private table, or without board.

NO. 250 MADISON AV.—CORNER HOUSE; Southern exposure; handsome suite of rooms to let, with or without private table; also single rooms.

NO. 13 EAST 28TH ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished rooms to let, with or without board.

NO. 355 5TH AV.—TWO HANDSOME ROOMS TO rent with good board; table board if desired.

NO. 23 EAST 46TH ST.—FURNISHED ROOMS to let, with board; references exchanged.

NO. 25 WEST 16TH ST.—ROOMS ON SECOND and third floors, with board, for first class parties.

BOARD WANTED.

A FAMILY OF SEVEN ADULTS DESIRE board in a private family. References given and required. Address S. Works, Box No. 260, TIMES UPTOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

WANTED—IN A PRIVATE FAMILY, (NO OTHER boarders,) two well furnished bedrooms with board for three persons. Address E. D., Box No. 170 Times office, stating terms.

FURNISHED ROOMS.

A LARGE, HANDSOMELY-FURNISHED front room, with bath, convenient to Cleveland, Westminster, Everett, and other hotels, to rent, in a strictly private family, to a single gentleman desiring first-class accommodations. Address E. H., Box No. 168 Times Office.

A PARTMENT NEATLY FRESCOED, FURnished with Axminster carpets in parlor, dining, and boudoir; all gas fixtures, mirrors; parlor, dining, and three bedroom suites; no kitchen furniture, bedding, linen, or crockery; $160 per month for a year. Address H. B., Station G.

A STRICTLY PRIVATE FAMILY OF THE first respectability, residing between 28th and 31st sts., near 4th av., will rent a handsomely-furnished room (all improvements) on second floor, to single gentleman; reference exchanged. Address, with name, J. M., Box No. 133 Times office.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAS TAKEN THE house No. 18 West 25th st., and would respectfully solicit the patronage of those wanting good and well-furnished rooms for the Winter. E. P. GARDINER.

NO. 74 WEST 35TH ST.—A SECOND FLOOR, well furnished; excellent board; also two rooms on third floor; terms moderate; references.

IN PRIVATE FAMILY—VERY PLEASANT handsomely-furnished rooms; large closets; modern improvements; first-class table, with private table or without board. No. 140 West 42d st.

TO LET—IN A PRIVATE HOUSE, A LARGE AND nicely-furnished room, suitable for two gentlemen or married couple, in a small French family. No. 62 West 10th st., between 5th and 6th avs.

NO. 23 WEST 22D ST.—ONE LARGE HALL room, with closet; can be heated; also, sunny extension-room, suitable for gentlemen; references exchanged.

TO LET—A BACK PARLOR, UNFURNISHED; also, a furnished room on third floor. No. 46 Lexington av. Reference required.

HANDSOMELY FURNISHED APARTMENTS for gentlemen only, without board, near Westminster and Everett House. No. 131 East 17th st.

NO. 46 IRVING PLACE, OPPOSITE WESTminster Hotel.—Handsomely-furnished large and small rooms for gentlemen, breakfast, if desired.

NO. 123 EAST 12TH ST.—A PRIVATE FAMily will rent two or three handsomely-furnished rooms to gentlemen; references required.

NO. 25 WEST 26TH ST., NEAR THE ST. JAMES.—Handsomely-furnished parlor floor; also, second floor en suite or single, without board.

NO. 55 WEST 28TH ST., NEAR BROADWAY.—Handsomely-furnished rooms, from $3 to $12 per week; reference.

NO. 9 EAST 22D ST.—ELEGANTLY FURnished sunny front rooms, second floor, toilet, without board; restaurant second door; references.

TO LET—IN THE SHERWOOD BUILDING, north-east corner 5th av. and 44th st., one suite of two furnished rooms. Apply at No. 531 5th av.

NO. 44 EAST 10TH ST.—HANDSOMELY FURnished rooms to let en suite; references required.

ROOMS WANTED.

AN AMIABLE AND EXPERIENCED GENtleman, (editor and journalist,) about forty years of age, desires a pleasant room and cheerful home, where light, happiness, refinement, music, genial and cultured companionship, &c., may be enjoyed, and which he would be pleased and natural for him to reciprocate; private family preferred; would furnish one or more rooms, if desired or necessary; highest references given. Address, with full particulars and lowest terms, LONELY, Box No. 4,328 General Post Office.

COUNTRY BOARD.

PHILADELPHIA BOARDING AND LODGing, at Mrs. J. HAMILTON THOMAS', No. 1,344 Chestnut st.; dinner at 6; convenient to steam and horse cars.

HOTELS.

HOTEL ROYAL, RESERVOIR SQUARE AND 10th st.—A strictly first-class family hotel; very quiet; the restaurant is of unsurpassed excellence; a few elegantly-furnished suites to rent; prices moderate.

AT NEW-ENGLAND HOTEL—LODGINGS 50 cents; 2 to light single rooms for gentlemen only; weekly $3. Bowery and 1 Bayard st.

HOTEL ST. STEPHEN, 11TH ST., BETWEEN Broadway and University place; new house, newly furnished; strictly first class; moderate price.

AUCTION SALES.

A PEREMPTORY SALE, RICHARD V. HARNETT, Auctioneer, Will sell at auction on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock A. M. at No 18 East 40th st. between 5th and Madison avs., by order of Joseph Lee, Esq.,

large and valuable collection of oil-paintings by the following artists: Gentz De ruel, Storkenburgh, Fitzpatrick, Colo. denaro, Achenbach, Toussaint, Freeman, Reed, Hilbner, Sommer, Thater, Werner, Jacobsen, Co nesti, Cardone, Boone, Hall, Hoguet, Tait, and others; superb bronzes, &c.

Rich rosewood parlor suites, pier and mantel mirrors of the most beautiful designs, Phelan & Collend r billiard table, sofa bedsteads, lace and damask-manual window-hangings, moquet and Brussels carpets, chandeliers and gas-fixtures, carved black-walnut bookcases, — feet high, and — feet wide, library furniture, rosewood, black-walnut, and oak bedsteads and bedroom suites, bedding, black-walnut buffet, black-walnut extension dining-room table and chairs, china and glassware, black-walnut hall hat-stand with mirror, kitchen furniture, refrigerator, and all that belongs to a first-class house.

Catalogues and permits to inspect pictures at auctioneer's office, No. 111 Bro

POLITICS IN BROOKLYN.

THE REPUBLICAN CITY CONVENTION.

GOOD TICKET NOMINATED—THE INDEPENDENT DEMOCRATS INDORSE IT—HON. RIPLEY ROPES THE NOMINEE FOR CONTROLLER—THE TICKET IN FULL.

The following candidates were nominated last evening by the Brooklyn City Republican Convention, and indorsed by the Independent Democrats' City Convention:

Controller—Ripley Ropes.
City Auditor—George A. Kingsland.
Police Justice—James W. Monck.
Justice, First District—William A. Rowan.
Justice, Second District—James W. Ridgeway.
Justice, Sixth District—F. W. Obernier.

It is not hazarding much in the way of prediction to say that Mr. Ropes will be the next Controller of Brooklyn. The candidate for City Auditor, Mr. George A. Kingsland, is a wealthy merchant residing in the Seventeenth Ward, and is a determined enemy of the Kingsley-McLaughlin Ring. The gentlemen whose names are placed on the Judiciary ticket are all of unimpeachable character and well known in local politics.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Brooklyn City Republican Convention, which met on Wednesday and adjourned until last evening, was called to order by the Chairman, ex-Mayor Booth, a few minutes before 8 o'clock. After the roll had been called, Charles Cheshire, Chairman of the Conference Committee appointed when the convention last met to confer with the Independent Democrats, reported that both committees had agreed that the Republicans should have the Controllership, the Justices in the First and Sixth Districts, and the Police Justice, and that the Auditorship and the Justice in the Second District be conceded to the Independent Democrats. Mr. Cheshire moved the adoption of the report. The yeas and nays were called for, and the report was adopted by a vote of 71 to 38. A committee of three was then appointed to wait on the Independents and inform them of the action of the Republicans, and obtain the names of the candidates for Auditor and Justice in the Second District. During the absence of the committee the Convention proceeded to nominate a candidate for Controller. Mr. Ripely Ropes was nominated by John F. Henry, of the Tenth Ward. The mention of Mr. Ropes' name was received with deafening cheers. The nomination was seconded by Sigismund Kaufman and Mr. Leeds, of the First Ward, in brief, eulogistic speeches. Mr. Henry then moved that the nomination be made by acclamation. The motion was carried amid a storm of applause. A committee of three was appointed to wait on Mr. Ropes and bring him before the convention. The next business was the nomination of candidate for Police Justice. James W. Monck, Benjamin A. Morehouse, William H. Grace, and Charles S. Frost were placed in nomination. Before the result of the ballot was declared, Mr. Ropes entered the room, and was cheered to the echo.

Mr. Ropes said he was sincerly grateful for the token of confidence conveyed in the nomination which had been tendered him. He regretted that it had not fallen to an abler man. [Cries of there are no abler men.] It was enough that he was told by the delegates that the necessities of good government again called on him to enter public life. He had no pledges to make, except that, if he were elected, he would perform his duty faithfully, and that he would never do anything which would bring the blush of shame to those who elected him.

No nomination that has been made by either party in Brooklyn during the present campaign or within recent years has evoked such enthusiasm as that of Mr. Ropes. His name has been identified with every movement in the direction of good government in Brooklyn.

After the interruption caused by the entrance and speech of Mr. Ropes, the Secretary announced that James W. Monck had received a majority of the votes of the delegates for the office of Police Justice. Mr. Monck's nomination was made unanimous. Ex-Alderman Bradshaw, Wilber B. Mabin, and William A. Rowan were next placed in nomination for the position of Justice in the First District. Before the calling of the roll a committee of three from the City Convention of the Independent Democrats was introduced, and the Chairman, Mr. Ivans, announced that the Independents had nominated for the office of Auditor Mr. George A. Kingsland, of the Seventeenth Ward, and for Justice of the Peace in the Second District James W. Ridgeway. The nominations were enthusiastically indorsed. The committee announced that the Independent Democrats had indorsed the nomination of Mr. Ropes for Controller. When the calling of the roll for the purpose of ascertaining the wish of the convention in reference to the nomination for Justice in the First District was resumed it became apparent in a few moments that Mr. Rowan would receive a large majority of the votes. In view of this fact the names of the other gentlemen were withdrawn, and Mr. Rowan was nominated by acclamation. F. W. Obernier was nominated by acclamation for Justice of the Peace in the Sixth District. A committee was then appointed to inform the Independents of the action taken by the Republicans, after which the convention adjourned, first giving three hearty cheers for the whole ticket. All the nominations were ratified last evening by the City Convention of the Independent Democrats.

THE DEMOCRATS COMPLETE THEIR TICKET.

The Brooklyn City Democratic Convention reassembled last evening at Democratic Headquarters on Court street for the purpose of completing the city ticket. When the convention first met the nominations for Controller and City Auditor were made, but the Boss could not distribute the places on the Judiciary ticket to the satisfaction of his followers, and hence ordered an adjournment. Before the convention assembled a turbulent crowd collected in the room, and prevented the delegates from taking their seats. The Police were called in, and the roughs were after some time expelled. The cause of the disturbance was seen later on, when, by direction of the Boss, a majority of the delegates cast their votes against Assemblyman Michael Coffee, who was a candidate for the position of Justice of the Peace in the First District. After roll had been called, and a guard of Police detailed to keep back the crowd, Police Justice Andrew Walsh was unanimously renominated. Alderman Donovan then nominated Michael Coffee for Justice in the First District Mr. Cook nominated Capt. Daniel Ferry. When the roll was called Coffee received but 13 votes; whereat a hoarse yell of disgust went up from the crowd in the rear of the room, and the Twelfth Ward delegation retired from the convention in a body. Coffee is a leader of the "boys" in the Twelfth Ward, and his followers asserted openly last night that they would oppose Coffee's successful rival on election day. The convention, after nominating E. Wilson Bloome, its Chairman, for Justice in the Second District, and Ludwig Semler for Justice in the Sixth District, adjourned.

The Second Congressional District Democratic Convention met last evening at the Democratic Head-quarters in Court street, Brooklyn, and nominated Surrogate Veeder for Congress in that district. What is known as the reform element in the McLaughlin committee expected the nomination for one of their number, but the "Boss" gave it to Veeder to console that very particular favorite for his defeat when he sought a renomination for his present office in the County Convention. Veeder is a veteran office holder.

THE GREENBACK LOCAL TICKET.

NAMES OF THE PROSPECTIVE NOMINEES FOR THE VARIOUS OFFICES.

The greenback adherents of Peter Cooper have determined to run County, Aldermanic Congressional and Assembly tickets in this City at the coming election, and the following are the candidates thus far named:

Mayor.—James Gordon Bennett, or William B. Astor.
Surrogate.—Belano C. Calvin, or William C. Trapnagen.
Sheriff.—James O'Brien, Bernard Reilly, or William Lawler.
County Clerk.—Thomas Murphy or William R. Roberts.
Judge of the Superior Court—Richard O'Gorman.
Judge of the Marine Court.—Joseph Koch or James P. Binnott.
Coroners.—Thomas P. Bourke, Jacob Cohen, and Richard Flanagan.
Aldermen at Large.—William A. A. Carsey, Theodore E. Tomlinson, Jeremiah Murphy, and John D. Brodrick.
Senator, Fifth District.—Sheridan Shook.
District Aldermen.—No candidates named in the Fourth District; William Bennett and Gilbert J. Hunter named in the Fifth, Nicholas Eberhard and John Adamson 2d, the birthy Edwin T. Patterson in the Seventh, and Joseph A. Taylor, John McCormick, and William F. Schwartz in the Eighth.

Col. James E. Kerrigan has been nominated for Congress in the Fifth District, Wallace P. Groom in the Seventh, William S. Ware in the Eleventh, and the conventions in the Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, and Tenth Districts have adjourned to meet Friday evening.

The Assembly conventions are to meet to-morrow evening. John Purcell is "slated" in the Fifth District, William H. Corsa in the Ninth, Dr. Charles Kammerer in the Thirteenth, Thomas F. Tully in the Eighteenth, and Sewell Parker in the Twentieth. The Greenback County Convention is to meet on Tuesday evening in Science Hall.

BROOKLYN NATURALIZATION FRAUDS.

Deputy United States Marshals De Clue and Biggert yesterday arrested John Wood, aged twenty-three years, and residing at No. 279 Van Brunt street, in the Third District of the Twelfth Ward, on a charge of having registered illegally, on fraudulent naturalization papers. The papers were obtained from the County Clerk Oct. 11, 1875, and Mr. Wood admits that he came to this country in April, 1872. He was taken before United States Commissioner Allen, who held him to bail in the sum of $1,000, it is said that warrants for the arrest of some fifty persons on a similar charge, mostly in the Twelfth Ward, are in the hands of the same Marshals, and will soon be served. Three fraudulent registrations have been made under the auspices of prominent Democratic ward politicians.

THE OPPOSITION TO TAMMANY.

KELLY'S CANDIDATES TO BE OPPOSED—ANDREW H. GREEN TO RECEIVE THE NOMINATION FOR MAYOR.

Kelly's candidates for the local offices will, in the opinion of the Democrats who are fighting against his dictatorship in the party, be easily beaten, if the elements opposed to him will sink all personal interests and combine to place the best men that can be found in the City willing to run for office in the field. The head-quarters of the Independent Citizens' Committee, No. 166 Fifth avenue, were visited yesterday by a large number of people, including Republicans and Democrats. The advice given by the visitors was to move slowly in the matter of making nominations other than that of Andrew H. Green for Mayor. If a good ticket was nominated a victory for the Tammany opposition was certain. An organization of the Independent Citizens' Party is now established in every Assembly district in the City and the two up-town wards, and the officers of the Central Committee report that the canvass for Mr. Green is progressing as satisfactorily as his friends could desire.

A meeting of conference committees of Democratic organizations opposed to Tammany Hall was held yesterday at No. 30 West Twenty-third street. The parties represented were the German-American Independent (Ottendorfer) Organization, the Independent Citizens', and the Anti-Tammany parties. The committees were as follows:

German-American Independent Organization.—Julius Bien Judge Marcus Otterbourg, Moritz Ellinger, Prof. Theodore Glanbienskiie, Edward Tamsen.
Independent Citizens' Party.—Henry Clausen, William V. Smith, Charles H. Swan, L. A. Dolscher, John D. Crimmins.
Anti-Tammany Party.—E. B. Hart, Henry Murray, James O'Brien, M. C. Murphy, and John Purcell.

They organized as one body by the selection of Henry Clausen for Chairman, and L. M. Dolscher for Secretary. Everybody present decided that Andrew H. Green was the best candidate that could be selected for Mayor by the combined opposition to Tammany. After this understanding had been reached there was an interchange of views, and a discussion as to what would be the best policy for the opposition to pursue in the campaign. It was the general opinion of those present that a ticket would be nominated finally that would beat that of Kelly. The meeting adjourned to meet at No. 200 Third avenue, on Tuesday next, at 4 o'clock P. M.

The candidates named for various offices by members of the opposition yesterday were as follows: Andrew H. Green, for Mayor; Jacob Hess and Thomas Murphy, for County Clerk; James O'Brien, for Sheriff; L. M. Dolscher, William C. Trapnagen, and John Burtis, for Surrogate; Bernard Roeiker and Dennis McMahon, for Judge of the Superior Court; Joseph Koch, Adolph Sanger, and C. H. Truax, for Judge of the Marine Court; Nathaniel Turpenny, for Aldermen at Large; and Bryan Reilly, William K. Sidner, Myer Stern, and Dr. William Shine, for Coroners.

At a meeting of the Ninth Ward Workingmen's Independent Political Association on Friday night, resolutions were passed refusing to support Richard Croker for Coroner and Mr. Lewis for Alderman.

ACTION OF THE ANTI-TAMMANY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Pursuant to the call of Hon. Emanuel B. Hart, Chairman of the Anti-Tammany Executive Committee, the committee met last evening in the Union Place Hotel. Mr. Hart presiding. There was a very full attendance, and before the meeting was called to order there was a general expression of opinion that a combination would be perfected in a few days against the Kelly ticket which would defeat it by a very large majority. Among those present were ex-Senator O'Brien, Senator Francis M. Bixby, Ira Shafer, Malcolm Campbell, ex-Supervisor James Hayes, Joseph Monheimer, John D. Coughlin, Dr. Feodore Mierson, Judge John A. Dinkel, Dennis McMahon, Thomas Costigan, and Alexander V. Davidson. A communication was received from ex-District Attorney Samuel B. Garvin, Chairman of the Eleventh Assembly District Committee, reciting that John Morrissey had resigned from the District Committee and that John H. Ford had been chosen to fill Mr. Morrissey's position as a member of the Executive Committee. On the motion of Mr. Costigan, seconded by Senator Bixby, the resignation of Mr. Morrissey was unanimously accepted and Mr. Ford received as a delegate to fill the vacancy. Mr. Ford is a warm personal friend of Mr. Morrissey, and it is understood, will represent his interests in the Anti-Tammany organization.

A communication from the Agitation Committee of brewers and liquor-dealers, asking an indorsement of their candidates for members of Assembly in the Eighth, Tenth, Eighteenth, and Twentieth Districts, was referred to the Anti-Tammany Conventions in those districts. Mr. William P. Mitchell, of the Seventh Congressional District, announced that Coroner Eickhoff, Kelly's defeated candidate for a renomination for a Coronership, had been nominated for Congress last evening in the Seventh District, and he spoke strongly against any support being given Eickhoff by the Anti-Tammany organization. He said it was the sense of the Anti-Tammany men in the district that a Democrat should be supported by them, but that they would not aid to elect Eickhoff, because when it seemed probable that he would be nominated for Coroner, John Kelly had refused to heed the wishes of the Germans and Anti-Tammany men in the district, who were willing to unite with Tammany to elect William B. Maclay as a Representative from the district. Mr. Mitchell's remarks met with warm approval, but no formal action was taken, the matter being left in the District Convention.

On the motion of Senator Bixby the Anti-Tammany Assembly and Aldermanic Conventions were requested not to make any nominations until a full County ticket is placed in the field for a combination against Tammany Hall. A discussion arose as to the time of reconvening the County Convention, and resulted in leaving the matter in the hands of Mr. Shafer, the Chairman of that convention, who is to issue a call as soon as the County Convention Conference Committee is ready to report definitely in relation to the formation of a coalition against Tammany Hall. The Committee then adjourned, subject to the call of the Chair. No action whatever was taken relative to the reorganizing of any of the districts which supported Mr. Morrisey at the last meeting of the County Convention, for the reason that they have all concluded to stand by Anti-Tammany. After the adjournment of the meeting, Mr. O'Brien said that he thought that the Conference Committee would be ready to report by the middle of the week, and that a meeting of the County Convention would probably be held on Wednesday or Friday.

TAMMANY NOMINATIONS.

Tammany Hall Aldermanic Conventions were held last night in the Fifth and Eighth Districts, and the following nominations were made:

Fifth District.—William Bennett and William Lamb.
Eighth District.—William Joyce, Hugh Moore, and Michael Tuomy.

At a meeting of the Seventh Congressional District Tammany Hall Convention yesterday, which met at Beethoven Hall in Fifth street, near the Bowery, Anthony Eickhoff, who was defeated for Coroner in the County convention, was unanimously nominated as the candidate of the party for Congress.

NOMINATIONS BY THE LIQUOR-DEALERS.

Messrs. Henry Clausen, Frederick Hollender, and George W. Sauer, the subcommittee of the Agitation Committee of brewers and liquor-dealers, have had consultations with conference committees of the Tammany and Anti-Tammany organizations in reference to Assembly nominations, and received assurances of definite answers within a few days. The Agitation Committee has already placed the following candidates in nomination, and say that the liquor interest will support them, even if they are not indorsed by any other organization: Martin McGuinness (Tammany) in the Eighth District, Henry Cunningham (Tammany) in the Tenth, Charles R. Townsend (Anti-Tammany) in the Eighteenth, and Michael Hahn (Independent Democrat) in the Twentieth.

THURSDAY MORNING'S METEOR.

The Newburyport (Mass.) Herald says: "A meteor of remarkable size and brilliancy passed from the constellation Taurus, near the zenith, to the southwest, at 2 o'clock on Thursday morning. It was half the apparent size of the moon, which it rivaled in brightness, the smallest objects being visible in its intense white light of about two seconds' duration. It left a train ten degrees long and a quarter of a degree wide, which soon changed from a straight line to the form of a perfect letter Z, which remained visible over a quarter of an hour. While the train was being observed, a large number of smaller meteors passed, as often as one a minute, over the same field, one or two of them leaving a slight train."

THE AFRICAN METHODIST CHURCH.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21.—The Board of Bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church convened here in annual session to-day. The following Bishops were present: D. A. Payne and J. Shorter, of Wilberforce, Ohio; J. C. Campbell, of Philadelphia; T. M. D. Ward, of New-Orleans; J. M. Brown, of Washington, and Wayman of this city. The object of the meeting was to arrange the details and fix the programme for their annual visitations to the different churches under their charge, and to confer with the boards of education, missions, finance, and publication, which bodies were also in session.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

The Post Office deposits for the last week amounted to $55,300.

The receipts for Croton rents last week amounted to $20,892 40.

The arrests by the Police during the past week numbered 2,070.

Mr. William Black and Mr. Joseph Hatton sailed yesterday for England.

John Reilly assigned his property, for the benefit of his creditors, to John T. Davies yesterday.

The Tax Office was again crowded yesterday, and a very large amount was received. On Friday the receipts were $1,158,449.

Four foreign-bound steam-ships sailing yesterday took out mails consisting of 38,101 letters, 526 registered letters, and 75 bags of papers.

We have received $3 from "A. H. C." for the relief of Gustave Ballion, the French gunsmith, of No. 16 Spring street, who was wounded while aiding in arresting a thief.

Mayor Wickham yesterday signed a warrant for $38,942 85, being the amount of a judgment obtained by William C. Traphagen against the City in the matter of opening Riverside Park.

There were reported at the Bureau of Vital Statistics during the week ending at noon yesterday 467 deaths, 452 births, and 181 marriages, showing an increase of 31 deaths, 19 births, and 47 marriages as compared with the preceding week.

At the pier of the Cromwell Line on North River, yesterday, when the men who are employed instead of the striking 'longshoremen went to dinner there was an effort on the part of the strikers to create a disturbance but it was promptly quelled.

Next Thursday in addition to being Ohio's day at the Centennial will also be Merchants' Day. The commercial exchanges of the principal cities will be represented, and it is expected that New-York will send a delegation of 1,200 business men.

The annual benefit of the Catholic Orphan Asylum will take place on Thursday next at the Academy of Music. An afternoon and evening entertainment will be given, in which performers from the principal theatres of the City will take part.

In the assignment of Adolph Schleur and Simon L. Herman to Abraham Seligsberg, the liabilities are set down at $39,859 42, the nominal assets at $33,920 15, and the real assets at $2,700. A bond in the sum of $6,000 was directed to be furnished by the assignee.

The Congressional Commission on Coin continues to hold daily sessions in the Post Office Building. The commission has been established in New-York about two weeks, and has already taken a large amount of testimony, both written and oral. The session will be prolonged until election time.

The last cricket match of the season will be played next Thursday on the ground of the Staten Island Club, at Camp Washington. Eleven Americans will compete against eleven Englishmen under the respective Captainship of Messrs. T. J. Souther and C. W. Bance. Wickets will be pitched punctually at 10 o'clock.

The steamer Bristol, of the Fall River Line, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, during the heavy fog, collided with an unknown schooner, carrying away her mainmast and otherwise damaging her. In answer to cries for help from the schooner the Bristol lowered her boats and made an ineffectual search for the injured vessel.

Capt. McDonnell, of the Eighth Precinct, with Sergt. Riley and a large force of Police, last night made a descent on two disorderly houses, Nos. 57 and 59 Thompson street, in that portion of the Eighth Ward known as "Africa," and which is the resort of the vilest characters in the City. Forty-one persons were arrested.

BROOKLYN.

The remains of a dead infant, about six months old, were yesterday found in a garbage pile at the foot of Douglas street.

Peter Behlen, an Eastern District dancing-master, has left his family and several anxious creditors, and "waltzed away" with one of his young lady pupils.

To-morrow will be the last day of the registry. The different offices will be open from 8 to 11 A. M., and from 4 to 11 P. M. If you fail to register to-morrow you cannot vote for Hayes and Wheeler.

Peter Bradley, a newsboy, eight years of age, residing at No. 12 Talman street, fell down in front of a horse and truck, at Fulton Ferry, yesterday, and was run over and severely injured. He was removed to the Long Island College Hospital.

The Tabernacle Baptist Church, corner of Clinton street and Third place, was robbed yesterday morning of twenty-six yards of ingrain carpet, the Pastor's robes, and the contents of the poor-boxes. The amount of money taken is not known.

James Mechon, of No. 174, Jeremiah Sullivan, of No. 231, and John Daly, of No. 121 Tillary street, were arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Winslow, charging them with passing a counterfeit fifty cent piece upon a Court street car conductor.

Michael Mairs, of No. 424 Columbia street, quarreled with his wife, Margaret, yesterday, and during the melée which ensued, Margaret struck Michael on the back of the head with a spittoon, inflicting a severe cut. He went to the Eleventh Street Station-house and had his wound dressed, and then procured a warrant for the arrest of his wife. She was held to answer.

Adolph Lateur, a prosperous Hebrew merchant, formerly of Brooklyn, but now residing in New-York, has commenced an action in the Supreme Court, Kings County, against his wife, Clara, for absolute divorce on the ground of adultery. The couple were married in January, 1870. The case was to have been before Justice Pratt, yesterday, on a motion for alimony, but was postponed.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Leonard P. Miller, Esq., a well-known lawyer of Westchester County, and an old and esteemed resident of New-Rochelle, was buried yesterday. The funeral services were largely attended.

The congregation of the North Sing Sing Methodist Episcopal Church have purchased the site which was formerly occupied by the California House, which was recently destroyed by fire, and propose to erect thereon a new church edifice at a cost of several thousand dollars.

The plan adopted by the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees of the Westchester County Historical Society for the celebration of the centennial of the battle of White Plains on Saturday next, provides for a procession of soldiers, Freemasons, and like organizations in uniform, and also of citizens not belonging to any of the above-named bodies from all parts of the county. The line of march will be from the camping-ground of Gen. Washington to Chatterton Hill, the scene of the battle, where Hon. Clarkson N. Potter will deliver the oration. The entertainment of visitors who come in organized form will devolve upon the residents of White Plains, and arrangements are being made for their hospitable reception and for other local parts of the celebration.

LONG ISLAND.

Frederick Innes, a market gardener, residing at Dutch Kills, while returning home intoxicated yesterday, fell from the front platform of one of the Dutch Kills horse cars to the ground, the wheels of the car severing his ear from his head, and otherwise injuring him.

Jacob Kelly, a farm hand in the employ of Mr. Stayrel, at Maspeth, while attempting to extinguish a fire in the barn on Thursday last, was burned so severely about the head and arms that he died from his injuries on Friday. Kelly had been smoking in the barn, a spark from his pipe setting fire to the straw.

NEW-JERSEY.

A private letter received yesterday contained the information that Chester Burhans, of Jersey City, while performing on a trapeze attached to a balloon, in Shawnestown, Ill., a few days ago, fell to the ground and was almost instantly killed.

John Schnitzer, of One Hundred and Eighteenth street, New-York, while peddling at Greenville yesterday, gave his assistant a $20 bill to get changed. The man jumped into Schnitzer's wagon, and no trace has since been got of the man, the money, or the wagon.

Joel R. James, a telegraph operator employed at Brooklyn, but a resident of Trenton, N. J., was yesterday convicted in the Mercer County Court of forging a mortgage for $1,500 on property which he owned in Trenton. After forging the mortgage he went to the County Clerk's office and presented it for cancellation, when the fraud was discovered. Sentence has not yet been pronounced.

MR. LAWRENCE R. JEROME'S WATCH.

On the evening of the 12th inst., while Mr. Lawrence R. Jerome, of No. 33 West Nineteenth street, was standing at the corner of Fifth avenue and Nineteenth street, watching the passage of a political procession, he was suddenly assaulted by a youth, who stole his watch and chain, valued at $250, with which the thief made off. The case was placed in the hands of Sergt. Kealy, of the Detective Office, and yesterday, in conjunction with Detective Dorsey, of the Sixth Precinct, he arrested John Shafter, aged twenty-one, of No. 105 Sheriff street, who, the Police allege, sold the watch and chain stolen from Mr. Jerome to Nathan J. Israel, a jeweler at No. 105 Division street. From information obtained from Shaffer, Detective O'Connor, of the Eleventh Precinct, arrested Frank Frost, aged seventeen, who is said to be the youth who robbed Mr. Jerome. Israel, the alleged receiver, was also arrested, and with Shaffer and Frost was taken to the Essex Market Police Court for examination.

AN IMPORTANT AUCTION SALE.

A very important sale of valuable paintings, bronzes, and elegant household appointments will take place on Wednesday next at the private residence No. 18 East Fortieth street. There are twenty-nine oil paintings to be disposed of. These are by native and foreign artists, and were collected at great cost. Before purchase they came within the close scrutiny of connoisseurs, and no indifferent works were selected. Two very handsome bronze groups, one representing "Happiness," and the other "Confidence," are among the art collections which will be offered for sale. The furniture and domestic appointments generally are of the very finest kind—such as one might expect to find in any private residence of elegant pretensions. Those pieces which are commonly regarded as necessaries, as well as those which are merely luxuries, are alike of the best workmanship. The latter particularly should satisfy the most exacting taste. The rosewood suite of the parlor, with mirrors, cornices, curtains, &c., is a very handsome set of furniture. A nine-light ormolu gilt chandelier and globes, and two three-light ormolu gilt side gas and globes are among the articles of parlor appointments to be disposed of. There are some very handsome pieces of hall furniture, including a hall stand with mirror 10.9 feet high by 7.3 feet wide. The library is likely to attract a good deal of attention, as it is supplied with every requisite for studious ease and convenience, while the appointments of the bed-rooms, bath-rooms, kitchen, laundry, &c., are all of the most complete kind. A Phelan & Collender billiard-table is also to be sold. The auctioneer is Mr. Richard V. Harnett, who will open the sale at 10 A. M.

ARREST OF AN ALLEGED FORGER.

Detectives Corwin, Folk, and Powers, of the Brooklyn Central Office, last night arrested Thomas Cassidy, alias R. G. Watson, who gave his residence as No. 102 Hudson avenue, Brooklyn, on a charge of having forged a check on the National City Bank of Brooklyn. It is alleged that he went to the carpet firm of Nye & Titus, corner of Fulton street and Hudson avenue, where he bought some carpets, and subsequently induced them to give him their indorsed check for $20, on the pretense that he wanted to send that amount to a friend. The check was made payable to James Parker or order. By this means he got possession of the signature of the firm and forged a check for $450, which he presented to the bank on the 13th inst. and obtained the money. On Oct. 18, he presented the original check for $20, which was also paid. A few days afterward the forgery was discovered, and the case was given to the Police and the result was the arrest of the prisoner last night. It is thought that the prisoner is the man who drew $2,000 from a bank, a short time ago, on a check to which he had forged the name of Richard M. Hooly, and he is also supposed to have been engaged in the Erie Railway bond forgeries.

ARRIVALS AT THE HOTELS.

Commander Henry Wilson, United States Navy, is at the Westminster Hotel.

Mayor Champion S. Chase, of Omaha, is at the Hoffman House.

Baron Heyking, of the Russian Centennial Commission, is at the Albemarle Hotel

Col. Thomas A. Scott, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is at the Windsor Hotel.

Hon. Marshall Jewell, of Hartford; Gen. James A. Garfield, of Ohio; Gen. Alfred T. A. Torbert, United States Consul General at Paris; G. E. Hubbard, United States Consular Agent at Mayaguez, Porto Rico, and Edmund Quincy, of Boston, are at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

AT A REGULAR MEETING of the Sheridan Shook Association of the Eighteenth Ward, held at the corner of 24th st. and Lexington av. Saturday evening, Oct. 21, 100 additional voters of the ward enrolled their names, making the club 300 strong, and pledged themselves to support the Republican national and State ticket. This club will hold a ratification meeting on the 24th. Counsellor Frank Thayer addressed the meeting.

JOHN ROLLINS, President.
WM. H. HALL, Vice President.
H. B. FERGUSON, Secretary.
—Advertisement.

DYEING AND CLEANING.—French black, seal brown, dark green, blue, and all fashionable colors, dyed at LORD'S Cen ral Office, No. 860 Broadway, corner 17th st.; branch offices, No. 701 6th av., corner 40th st., No. 111 8th av., near 15th st.—Advertisement.

CALIFORNIA MINING STOCKS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The following are the closing official prices of mining stocks to-day:

Consolidated Virginia	55	Belcher	18¾
California	59¼	Confidence	15¾
Ophir	53¼	Sierra Nevada	13
Chollar	80	Exchequer	14½
Savage	14¾	Overman	32¼
Consolidated Imperial	4	Justice	25½
Mexican	29¾	Caledonia	10¾
Gould and Curry	15¾	Julion	36
Best and Belcher	49	Julia Consolidated	7¼
Hale and Norcross	9	Ventnor	2½
Crown Point	12½	Silver Hill	9½
Yellow Jacket	25	Union Consolidated	13¾
Alpha	45½

Kossuth, Leopard, Northern Belle, and Raymond and Ely are not quoted.

PASSENGERS SAILED.

In steam-ship Germanic, for Liverpool.—James Roosevelt, J. R. Roosevelt, Richard F. Keam, Mrs. Keam T. H. Grant, Mrs. Grant, master C. W. Grant, Alf Kayne, Robert Shaen, John Tarn, Mrs. Tarn, E. B. C. McKay, Mrs. McKay, Miss Cora McKay, Master Freddy McKay, Miss Abbie S. Whitte, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Anderson, W. G. D. Goff, Mrs. Goff, W. R. Joynt, Richard A. Green, T. A. Harton, G. Jagar, A. Hodgson, An tin Kelly, C. W. Williams, Miss Pool, Miss Elizabeth Turner, Mrs. M. T. Clark, Miss Maxwell, Miss F. Chesnulur, Miss Bedduil, Henry Gillespie, S. Elliot, Thomas Beddall, Mrs. Beddall, Dr. R. Beverley Cole, Dr. William J. Younger, Lee J. Ransom, William Black, Mr. Robeson, P. Kraner, Alexander Dougal, E. M. Merrill, E. W. Disney, F. B Fitzgibbon, E. J. Bousfield, Madmusen, C. W. Kellock, John Hosane, Frenerick W. Vanderoilt, A. M. Doy, J. A. Connor, S. Perkins, E. T. Foakes, George A. Schofield, J. Lindner, Mrs. Lindner, sir John Kesne, Thomas Aveilug, J. F. Cahill, G. Blane, Capt. G. Blane, 1st Officer, William H. Edmonds, A. Burdick, Philadelphia; Gen. Whitney, Hallett, Boston, H. F. Dimock.

Barka Knudsig, (Norw.,) Evensen, Morgan Pill, Eng., C. Tobias & Co.; Hildegaard, (Norw.,) Pedersen, York or Falmouth for orders, Funch, Edye & Co., Prospero Padre, (Ital.,) Simonetti, Cork or Falmouth for orders, E. Uskart Salone, (Norw.,) Thygesen, Gloucester, Eng., C. Tobias & Co.; Peti Dubrovacki, (Austr.,) Chermany, Glasgow, Slocovech & Co.; Trait d'Union (Br.,) Ballou, Port au Prince, Hayti. R. Murray, Jr.

Brigs Britannia, Hotchkiss, Bridgetown, Barbados. H. Trowbridge's Sons; Robert Mowe, Dearborn, Port au Spain, Trinidad. H. Trowbridge's Sons; Somerset, (Br.,) Halley, Hull, Eng., C. Tobias & Co.

Schrs. Louie A. Van Brunt, Tooker, Washington, D. C., Van Brunt & Co.; J. C. Rogers, Fletcher, Boston, Charles Twing; Lexington, Leighton, Boston, John Zittlosen.

Barge S. A. Neiman, Stuart, New-Haven.

ARRIVED.

Steam-ship Cleopatra, Bulkley, Charleston Oct. 13, with mdse. and passengers to Wm. P. Clyde & Co. Oct. 19, 10 A. M., off Cape Lookout, passed steam-ship City of Merida, hence for Havana.

Steam-ship Herman, Livingston, Mallory Savannah, Oct. 18, with mdse. and passengers to Murray, Ferris & Co.

Steam-ship Hatteras, Swift, Richmond, City Point and Norfolk, with mdse. and passengers to Old Dominion Steam-ship Co.

Steam-ship State of Nevada, (Br.,) Brace, Glasgow Oct. 6, and Larne 7th, with mdse. and 55 passengers to Austin, Baldwin & Co.

Steam-ship Albemarle, Gibbs, Lewes, with mdse. and passengers to Old Dominion Steam-ship Co.

Steam-ship Lone Star, Forbes, Galveston Oct. 12, with mdse. and passengers to Charles A. Whitney & Co.

Steam-ship Benefactor, Jones, Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 18, with naval stores, cotton, &c., to William P. Clyde & Co.

Steam-ship California, (Br.,) Ovenstone, Glasgow Oct. 7, and Moville 8th, with mdse. and passengers to Henderson Brothers.

Steam-ship Navarino, (Br.,) Avery, Hull Sept. 29, and Southampton Oct. 3, with mdse. and passengers to Charles A. Wright & Co.

Steam-ship Franconia, Bragg, Portland, with mdse. and passengers to J. F. Ames.

Ship Elizabeth Hamilton, Stewart, Bristol Sept. 3, in ballast, to J. Bigler & Co.

Bark Albion, (Norw.,) Larsen, Bristol 48 ds., in ballast to Louis Tetens. Came a southern passage and had fine weather.

Bark Byron, (Nor.,) Christiansen, Leith 58 ds., in ballast, to Louis Tetens. Has been 28 ds. W. of the Banks, with light winds and calms.

Bark B. F. Watson, (new, 800 tons,) Hawkins, Bath, in ballast, to master.

Brig Allen P. Stewart, (of Philadelphia,) Miller, Cienfuegos 23 ds., with sugar to H. A. Vatable & Son—vessel to James Borland & Co.

Brig Morning Light, Dill, of and from New-Haven, in ballast, to L. W. & P. Armstrong.

Brig Mary E. Thayer, McCarty, Boston, in ballast, to E. S. Hand.

Schr. Benj. J. Willard, (of Portland,) Noyes, Matanzas 12 ds., with sugar and molasses to S. & W. Welsh—vessel to J. H. Winchester & Co.

WIND—Unset, light, N. E.; thick fog.

SAILED.

Steam-ships Neckar, for Bremen; Germanic, for Liverpool; Anchoria and Caledonia, for Glasgow; France, for London; Etna, for Port au Platt; City of San Antonio, for Galveston; Hudson, for New-Orleans; San Jacinto, for Savannah; City of Atlanta and Gulf Stream, for Charleston; Regulator, for Wilmington, N. C.; Wyanoke and Hatteras, for Richmond; E. C. Knight, for Georgetown, D. C.; brigs Britannia, for Barbadoes; Ann Elizabeth, for St. Thomas. Also, via Long Island Sound, steam-ship Gen. Whitney, for Boston.

MARINE DISASTERS.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Oct. 21.—The bark R. H. Purington, of Providence, from Boston for London, sprang a leak on Wednesday last, and was abandoned on Thursday twenty miles from South Shoal. The crew boarded a light-boat and reached Nantucket last night.

PATRAS, Oct. 21.—The American bark American Eagle, Capt. MacMahon, heretofore reported at Catacolo leaking, has been examined and pronounced seaworthy. The leak was slight.

BY CABLE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Sld. Oct. 18, Bremerlehe, Hugh Cann; Oct. 20, Vidal Sala, A. C. Meyer, Triton, (Capt. Cattarinich,) Pilmsoll, Lottie Stewart; Oct. 21, Lussignano.

ANT, Oct. 11, Anapo, at Palermo; Oct. 15, Ibis; Oct. 18, Nictaux, B. Hilton; Oct. 19, Christopher Columbus, (Capt. Knudsen,) Jason, (Capt. Grimm;) Oct. 20, D. M. Dickie, Abeliel, W. L. Bradley, Prince Le Boo, Assyrian, Island Home; Oct. 21, Bates Family—latter at Crookhaven, Conquest, Mary A. Nelson.

The Anchor Line steamer Anglia, Capt. Mackay, from New-York Oct. 7, arr. here to-day.

HAVRE, Oct. 21.—The General Transatlantic Company's steamer Labrador sld. from this port for New-York at 11 o'clock this morning.

R. H. MACY & CO

14TH ST. AND 6TH AV.

GRAND CENTRAL FANCY AND DRY GOODS ESTABLISHMENT.

WE HAVE ENLARGED our establishment, added new departments, and are manufacturing Fall and Winter suits and cloaks for ladies and misses to order, from our own materials or material furnished by themselves.

OUR MILLINERY, MANUFACTURING, and DRESS-MAKING DEPARTMENTS ARE PLACED BEFORE THE PUBLIC AT OUR USUAL POPULAR PRICES, AND NO EXERTION WILL BE SPARED TO GAIN FOR THEM THE SAME FAVORABLE ESTIMATION WHICH OUR OTHER DEPARTMENTS ARE RECEIVING.

ON THE FIRST FLOOR ARE OUR LACES, EMBROIDERIES, AND LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS. RIBBONS, Flowers, Feathers, Hats, and Millinery Goods of every description. Fine Toilet Articles, Small

The New-York Times.

VOL. XXVI.....NO. 7834. NEW YORK, MONDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1876. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

THE CONTEST IN NEW-YORK

CHAUTAUQUA COUNTY.

TILDEN'S DEVICES TO MAKE A SHOW AND WIN VOTES—AN INCREASED REPUBLICAN MAJORITY ASSURED—REVIEW OF THE PROSPECTS IN THE SOUTHERN TIER COUNTIES—THE VOTE COMPARED WITH THAT OF LAST YEAR.

From Our Special Correspondent.

DUNKIRK, Saturday, Oct. 21, 1876.

Tilden's campaign in this State is distinguished for a great many remarkable things that were never heard of in any Presidential campaign before; but this is the first, and will probably be the last, campaign in which the Presidential candidate supervises in person all the details of the canvass. With Tilden at the head of the machine and directing its movements, all sorts of devices of the "cheap and nasty" order might be expected, but the cheapest of all has been reserved for Chautauqua County, either because Tilden's "bar'ls" of money ran out before he reached this extreme corner of the State, or because the Democrats of no other county were mean enough to accept of such "Cheap John" methods of advertising their candidate. In passing through Chautauqua County, and particularly as he nears the village of Dunkirk, the traveler will be struck with the great number of rough-looking flagstaffs perched upon the tops of farm-houses of the poorer sort, each one floating a bit of cotton rag about six feet in length, inscribed with the names of Tilden and Hendricks. A bare glance at the habitations from which these banners float is sufficient to convince the traveler that their occupants are Democrats, and probably drunkards—at all events, that they are not thrifty farmers—but, in the absence of any banners on the opposite side, they are calculated to give the impression that all the people on the line of the railroad, who have any politics, are Democrats. The novelty of this feature of the campaign for "Tilden and Reform" led me on my arrival here to seek an explanation of it, and I was informed that Tilden's agent in this county, who resides at Mayville, had sent out circulars to all the householders on the line of the railroads offering a free gift of one of these cotton streamers to every man who would permit it to float from his house-top. He had received a cart-load of them from the Tilden headquarters for gratuitous distribution, and a man who is skilled in the manufacture of banners says they cost a little less than twenty-five cents a piece. It is thus that the great railroad wrecker and millionaire practices the economy that he preaches, and illustrates to his followers how they can "live within their means." But, however imposing these Tilden rags may be in the eyes of Democrats, and however deceptive to the stranger traveling through this section, they do not appear to have made a very deep impression upon the Republicans of Chautauqua County. They still refuse to vote the Democratic ticket, in spite of the twenty-five cents worth of Tilden cotton mounted on a hickory pole that stares them in the face at all the cross-roads. They are going to vote for Hayes and Wheeler, and what is more, they are going to roll up one of their old-fashioned Republican majorities. They are making one of the closest canvasses that has ever been made of the county, and the indications were never more encouraging. All of the Liberals, with the exception of thirty or forty—and there were more than five hundred in this county—are now with them heart and soul, and there is no disaffection or discord in the party. The only place where they will lose any votes is in this town of Dunkirk, and these will be lost, not from changes to the other side, but because a large number of mechanics who formerly voted here, and were with the Republicans, have had to leave the town for lack of employment, and go elsewhere. Owing to this cause, the Democratic majority of Dunkirk, which has usually been from 200 to 300, may reach 400 in November. This, however, is almost the only town in the county that ever gives a Democratic majority, and the loss will not be severely felt. The Chairman of the County Committee, Dr. S. M. Smith, estimates the Republican majority in November at 3,500, and most of the leading Republicans agree with him; but in summing up the majorities of the southern tier of counties, I shall put it at only 3,000. In 1872 it was 3,263, with all the Liberals voting for Greeley. Mr. Smith thinks there may be some defection among the Germans in this town, but a German who knows every one of his countrymen here, and is a zealous working Republican, assures me that there will not be a single defection, but on the contrary a gain of eight or ten Germans to the Republican ticket in November. The Republicans will elect both of the Assemblymen in this county this Fall, which will be a gain of one—the Democrats having elected their candidate in the First District last year. They have renominated the same candidate they had last year—Mr. Whitney—who voted against the constitutional amendment in reference to schools, and he will be beaten this Fall by a large majority. The candidate of the Republicans in this district is Sherman Williams, ex-Treasurer of the county, and a very popular man. In the Second District the Republicans have renominated Mr. T. A. Case, and his re-election is certain. The whole county ticket of the Republicans, including County Clerk, Sheriff and Surrogate is also sure of election. The majority for Mr. Patterson for Congress will be so large that no one stops to estimate it. Meetings are being held all over the county, although local speakers have to be mainly depended on. Ex-Gov. Fenton has made only one speech in the campaign thus far, that at Jamestown two or three weeks ago, and will not probably be able to make any more, as he is seriously afflicted with throat complaint. But the Republicans of this county are thoroughly aroused, and speakers or no speakers, they will come out en masse at this election, which they regard as equal in importance to any that occurred during or after the war for the Union.

Chautauqua County completes the list of counties in the southern tier through which I have traveled during the last eight days, and in giving a summary of the results of my observations, it must be borne in mind that in every case I have given the lowest estimates of majorities made by any Republican, instead of the highest. Very few of the estimates would be rated, even by candid Democrats, as too high. In the case of Cattaraugus County, however, which, on the strength of a very timid Republican, was put down as likely to do no better than it did last year, there is abundant evidence that the estimate was too low. Very few Republicans put the majority below 1,500, and many estimate it as high as 2,000, which was the majority of 1872. Calling it 1,200, which is certain to be below the mark, the following is my estimate of the majorities that will be given for Hayes and Wheeler in nine counties of the southern tier, together with the increase in the majority of each county over that of 1875, when the total Democratic majority in the whole State was 14,000:

Broome County—Estimated majority, 1,000; increase over majority of last year, 522.

Tioga County—Estimated majority, 650; increase over last year, 268.

Tompkins County—Estimated majority, 700; increase over last year, 527.

Schuyler County—Estimated majority, 400; increase over last year, 21.

Chemung County—Estimated majority, (for Tilden,) 200; Republican increase over last year, 622.

Steuben County—Estimated majority, 1,000; increase over last year, 1,656.

Allegany County—Estimated majority, 2,800; increase over last year, 661.

Cattaraugus County—Estimated majority, 1,200; increase over last year, 404.

Chautauqua County—Estimated majority, 3,000; increase over last year, 1,283.

Total majorities in the nine counties, 10,750. Total increase over last year, 5,948.

If the result on the 7th of November varies from the above estimates, it will certainly not be in a reduction of the figures on the totals.

THE MANUFACTURERS AND OPERATIVES OF COLUMBIA COUNTY LOOKING TO THEIR TRUE INTERESTS—ENTHUSIASTIC MASS-MEETING AT PHILMONT.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HUDSON, Oct. 22.—The manufacturers of Columbia County are showing in a practical way that they know that the business men of the country must look to the Republican Party for the proper protection of their interests. Nelson P. Akin, of Philmont, one of the largest manufacturers of knit goods in the country, projected a Republican mass-meeting, which culminated at Philmont last evening. Special trains were run from Hudson and Chatham Village, and Philmont at an early hour contained the largest gathering ever seen in that place. No hall in the place being of sufficient capacity to hold the audience, they assembled on one of the floors of a new mill in process of erection. Here an audience of over two thousand were addressed by Hon. John T. Hogeboom and Capt. J. V. Whitbeck. The room, large as it was, did not begin to accommodate the people. The meeting was intensely enthusiastic and eminently successful. Nearly every house in Philmont was illuminated, and the immense factories were lighted from basement to cupola. At Stottville, where the mills of C. H. & F. H. Stott are located, a meeting was addressed last night by J. Rider Cady, Esq. Mill-owners and operatives alike were in attendance and showed their active interest in the cause of Republicanism, not only by their presence and attention, but by their hearty applause.

A SPLENDID RALLY AT SAUGERTIES.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

KINGSTON, Oct. 22.—On Saturday evening a grand Republican rally was held at Saugerties. Over a thousand persons were present, including many ladies of the best families in the town. Mr. Sheffield, Jr., presided. Mr. Sheffield, Sr., Mr. Whittaker, Hon. John Maxwell, Peter Cantine, the ministers of several churches, and many other distinguished citizens were on the platform. Hon. Isaac I. Hayes and Gen. George H. Sharpe were the speakers. There was a grand torchlight procession formed of torch bearers from this and the neighboring towns. That from Malden was stoned by Democratic roughs and a Hayes and Wheeler transparency broken and the American flag insulted, the man carrying it having been struck on the head. This outrage elicited from Gen. Sharpe a scathing rebuke, and other similar Democratic practices came in for a notice from him which called forth enthusiastic approval. "Who," said he, "ever heard of a Democratic meeting being disturbed by Republicans?" At the close of the meeting he reviewed the financial situation, pointing out the sham character of Democratic pretensions and ably exhibiting how the Republican Party had established the public credit, as shown by the reduction of the debt and rate of interest. Dr. Hayes made a masterly and eloquent argument against allowing the Southern rebels to get possession of power, which was sure to be the result in the event of Tilden's election. He denied that Tilden had ever been a reformer or ever saved a dollar to the State, proving it by the public records. He denounced the attempt to create a "solid South" for Tilden by force, in the face of the fact of several of those States being overwhelmingly Republican. Both speakers were interrupted by frequent and prolonged applause. The meeting was one of the largest and most effective ever held in this place.

A MAGNIFICENT BANNER RAISED AT GLEN'S FALLS—WARREN COUNTY EARNEST AND PATRIOTIC.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

GLEN'S FALLS, Oct. 22.—Yesterday was a grand day for the Republicans of Glen's Falls and Warren County. Over eight thousand people gathered in the town and flung to the breeze the most beautiful banner that any city in the State can boast. It measures forty by fifty feet, and has portraits of Lincoln, Hayes, and Wheeler, with the Goddess of Liberty, seven feet high, in the centre, bearing a blood-red flag in the left hand, on which is inscribed in golden letters, "True Reform," while the right hand grasps a flaming sword. Beneath her feet are seven mangled and hissing serpents, with the words "Democratic Reform," "Treason," "Rebel claims," "Tweed," &c.

From 2 till 4:30 Hon. A. W. Tenney spoke at the Opera-house, which was crowded in every part. For close reasoning, eloquence, and patriotic enthusiasm his speech was unexcelled in this city. In the evening another meeting was held, at which Gen. Kilpatrick spoke, and such a reception was never accorded any speaker in this place. His old soldiers from Fort Edward, Sandy Hill, Argyle, and Saratoga came by hundreds. The house was packed, over three thousand people being present, and when the General entered the vast audience rose to their feet and gave him cheer after cheer. He spoke for over two hours in the most eloquent manner. Judge Tenney followed with a short speech. At a late hour the meeting broke up, with cheers for the speakers, Hayes and Wheeler, and the entire ticket.

Warren County and Glen's Falls are aroused as never before, and all that patriotic men can do will be done for the triumph of the cause in November.

ASSEMBLY NOMINATIONS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NYACK, Oct. 22.—At the Republican County Convention, held yesterday, Henry M. Peck, of Haverstraw, was nominated for member of the Assembly for Rockland County.

HUDSON, Oct. 22.—The Republicans of the First Assembly District yesterday nominated Stephen W. Ham for the Assembly. In the Second District Hon. John T. Hogeboom was renominated.

TROY, Oct. 22.—The Republicans of the First Assembly District of Rensselaer County, on Saturday evening, nominated Frederick P. Allen.

Following are additional Republican nominations in counties of this State:

SENECA COUNTY.—For member of Assembly, William G. Wayne; Sheriff, Theodore Dowers; Coroners, Richard Dey and Ephraim J. Schoonmaker; Justice of Sessions, George Story.

WARREN COUNTY.—For Assembly, Robert Waddell; Clerk, W. Scott Whitney; Treasurer, Miles Thomas; Sheriff, John Loveland; District Attorney, Charles M. Mott; Justice of Sessions, Robert W. Clayton; Coroners, Marvin R. Peck and Louis Chase.

THE STATEN ISLAND REPUBLICANS.

A GRAND MASS RATIFICATION MEETING—IMPOSING PARADE OF BOYS IN BLUE—SPEECHES BY HON. GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS AND OTHERS.

On Saturday night the Republicans of Staten Island—all the campaign clubs participating—held one of the grandest mass ratification meetings of the present campaign. The meeting was held in the large building near the ferry, at Vanderbilt's Landing. The night was unpropitious, but this fact did not seem to dampen the ardor of the Boys in Blue and others who made up the immense procession that marched with lighted torches from the Wigwam, at West Brighton, to the place of meeting, a distance of over two miles. When the procession reached the landing it was after 8 o'clock, and Mr. Curtis had just begun to speak to the audience—already a large one—which had gathered to hear him. After the column with their banners and transparencies had filed into and closely filled the building, Mr. Curtis advanced and said:

MY FELLOW CITIZENS: Don't be afraid that I shall detain you very long by resuming my speech. The Boys in Blue in their imposing manner came, and I gave way to them. Everything gives way, you know, to the Boys in Blue, and always has done so. Traitors can't stand before them, and treason itself lurks away from their presence. I was saying, my friends, that Mr. Tilden is relying on what they are pleased to call the tidal wave of reaction for his election to the Presidency. They say there is a tidal wave setting in that will bear the Democrats on to victory this time. Well, I believe myself that the tide is rising, and I believe that, like another Red Sea, it will sweep Pharaoh-Tilden and all his hosts out of sight. The beach all around will be strewn with the wreck and debris of reformers. The recent election in Colorado shows this; there has been a reaction there which I regard as a sure presage of victory for the Republicans in November. The election in Maine shows it. [Applause.] There has been a tidal wave or something like it up there. [Laughter.] The Republican victory in Ohio shows it. Yes, and the reaction in Indiana, which so terribly reduced the Democratic majority, and gave the Republicans an increase of three or four members of Congress, shows which way this tidal wave is moving. In these elections, and, if Democrats please, in this "reaction," I foresee the doom of their party in November. Indeed, I feel that it is already doomed. I am reminded of a little anecdote. Henry Clay once had a mare, a very fleet animal, that he prized, of course, very highly. He also had a boy, Tom, to take care of her, and Tom had a very high opinion of the mare's fleetness. One day a gentleman, a friend of Mr. Clay, asked Tom how long it would take to go to a certain place, a few miles away. "Why, Massa," said Tom. "dat 'pends on how you go. If you walk dar, it will take some time; if you get a buggy and ride, it won't take you but a short while: but if you jest git on Massa Henry's mare, why, by gorry, you dare now." [Laughter.] So, fellow-citizens, when I read these election returns—when I see how the tidal wave is moving—when I meet with such enthusiasm as I see displayed by Republicans in this campaign—by you here, on this foggy, dismal evening, whose murky air you have beautifully illuminated by your torches, and whose gloomy stillness you have broken by the martial airs that stir men's souls—when I see all this, and know that these things are indications of the people's desire to elect good men and true to office—that it points to the election of Hayes and Wheeler—why, I feel that I, too, can almost say, "By gorry, we are there now." [Laughter and applause.] While the Democratic Party wears the mask of reform, the real and only question is, whether or not the party that has been out of power sixteen years ago shall be reinstated again. They have made several efforts to get back and grasp the reins of government. But thus far, by the wise policy and unswerving patriotism of the Republicans, they have been baffled in their attempts. The question is, Shall we let them carry out their purpose now? It is power, office, money that they want. They do not turn their backs on their own men. They repudiate nothing of the treasonable past. The same old crew keep company together. Why I learn that within the past few days our citizens have been favored, if you please, with a visit from Mr. Dorsheimer, the candidate for the office of Lieutenant Governor of this State, and that in the speech he made at New-Brighton he made the encomiastic mistake of the Republican Party the constant theme of his discourse. He was accompanied, I am told, by Mr. Algernon Sullivan, who was an old associate and friend of Tweed, who went on the stump to urge Tweed's election, and knowing, too, full well the character of Tweed's transactions in defrauding the people of New-York. Yet he is the man who is now the traveling companion of Mr. Dorsheimer. Now, I concede that the Republican Party has not been as pure as it ought to have been. There have been now and then men in that party—as there would be in every party on earth—who have proved corrupt and untrustworthy, but I like to see Mr. Dorsheimer, who goes about with money for party purposes under one arm and Algernon Sullivan, the friend of Tweed on the other, lecture me about Belknap and the corruptions of the Republican Party.

Fellow-citizens, I am not here to defend Belknap, or to defend corruption, and be it remembered, it is the Republican Party that has put its foot on Belknap, and means to keep it there. But, with such a record for stealing as the Democratic Party has made, I think that silence on the subject of honesty would best become Mr. Dorsheimer and all others who would seek to make capital for the Democrats in that way. Why, don't you all remember, and doesn't Mr. Dorsheimer remember, how the Democrats tried to steal the Army, how they stole the arms, the Navy, of the country; yes, tried to steal the stars out of our glorious—[a voice—"But they couldn't do it."] No, indeed; you are right, they could not do it; and now, by hook and by crook, they are trying to steal into office, where they can steal some more, for their coffers have been mightily empty a long time. I have no doubt, my friends, from what I see in your faces, that, after November next, you may all take up the language of my friend over there, and say, "But they couldn't do it." [Applause.]

The Republican Party has done a great work, as the whole world knows, and as Mr. Lincoln used to say, "We mean to finish the work," for it is true that much remains yet to be done. We mean to wind up the affairs of the great revolution through which we have passed. We mean to bind up the wounds made by the war. We do not propose to leave the country in a sore, irritated condition; and we mean, too, to reform, as far as possible, the things that need reforming. I am a reformer, my friends, and I want to see the country, the whole country, put aright. I want to choose my agency for the accomplishment of this work, and, for one, I do not want Mr. Tilden as an agent. Mr. Tilden is not the agent of the party who desire a true reform. When I see Mr. Tilden, with all the forces that are behind him, I can only regard him as the tool, the agent, the figure-head of that old Southern party whose sentiment has always been "rule or ruin." The Southern politicians have always been the masters of the Democratic Party, and they are now. Only this word more: We are to decide in this contest whether this old Southern power shall regain that supremacy which they have lost and which in the past elections they vainly sought to obtain, for I am not afraid nor ashamed to say to you that it is still in essence a sectional contest, and that, you know, means a contest between the Northern idea of freedom of person, freedom of speech, and untrammelled franchise, and the Southern idea of domination, proscription, the degradation of a large portion of the citizens of these United States, and the recognition of the righteousness of the lost cause, and the payment of unlimited rebel claims. It is for you to declare before this land, before Europe, that ever looks with anxious interest upon the workings of Republicanism, and before the whole world that the better Northern idea shall be the absolute and indisputable sentiment that shapes the policy of the Republican Party and the Government of these United States. [Loud and prolonged applause.]

After Mr. Curtis had finished speaking he introduced Hon. John A. King, the candidate for Congress from Queens County, and after him Hon. Kneeland S. Townsend, the candidate from Richmond for Member of Assembly, each of whom made a neat speech.

LARGE MEETING IN PHILADELPHIA.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—A monster Republican mass-meeting was held in the Twenty-ninth Ward on Saturday evening, when Col. J. Holmes Grover, late United States Consul to an Italian city, addressed several thousand persons. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The Colonel was warmly and justly applauded, his speech being one of the crowning ones of the vicinity.

FROM THE PACIFIC STATES.

PROMISING CALIFORNIA OUTLOOK.

DEEP INTEREST IN THE ELECTION FROM CHICAGO TO SAN FRANCISCO—BALLOTS IN THE TRAINS FOR HAYES AND WHEELER BY THREE TO ONE—LOVE OF DISCUSSION AMONG FARMERS, MINERS, AND LUMBERERS—DISTRUST OF TILDEN AND THE SOUTH EVERYWHERE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SACRAMENTO, Friday, Oct. 13, 1876.

Nothing could be more noticeable than the extraordinary degree of interest manifested throughout the West in the approaching election. During the past month I have traveled close on four thousand miles by railroad and stage, and have visited settlements varying in size and importance from Chicago, Omaha, and Sacramento, to the secluded camps of lumbermen high up in the Sierra Nevada. I have talked with miners, cattlemen, commercial travelers, and members of State Legislatures, and among all these men of such widely different conditions of life the one engrossing topic has been the November elections. Between New-York and Chicago several "straws" or ballots were taken on the train, and the result was invariably in favor of Hayes and Wheeler. On the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Road, also, the political inclinations of the passengers were canvassed, and again the vote was three to one in favor of the Republican candidates. The conductor of the Pullman car told me that he had seen "straws" taken on the train every day for the past two months, and that without exception the result was opposed to the Democrats.

Not less decided was the drift of the discussion that I overheard in the little groups of farmers and laborers gathered in the depots, all through the beautiful prairie lands of Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska. The speakers were of the rough-and-ready yeoman class, and their language was earnest enough to make a Democrat's ear tingle. The Democrats themselves confess astonishment at the wonderful extent of the Republican uprising, and are ready to admit that a general defeat awaits their own party. It is very much as though national existence or extinction was to be the issue of the elections. It seems impossible that any ordinary question could have excited so wide-spread a feeling of distrust against Mr. Tilden and his adherents. "I suspect that the Democrats have concluded that their ascendency in Congress last session was the worst thing that ever happened to them," said a non-partisan Western man of intelligence to me a few days ago. "It's Hayes and Wheeler till you can't see," was the remark of the same tendency passed by a lumberman.

The activity of the Republicans is indeed remarkable. The evening of the day on which I reached Carson City there was held a most enthusiastic and largely attended Republican meeting; a few evenings later the colored voters held another meeting, and I had not been in Sacramento many hours before I was attracted by music to a hall where the Republicans had assembled in strong force. There apparently is no doubt whatever that California will be carried by a greater majority than has been expected. An ex-member of the State Legislature assured me that he was confident it would be 10,000, but I scarcely think it will be as large as that. One of the prevalent and most salient elements of the canvass is the apprehension of treachery in the South. There is a general belief that should the Democratic sun rise again its heat will warm the old spirit of rebellion into a new life. "You are shaking the 'bloody shirt,'" said a politician recently to a Republican in Carson. "My dear Sir," was the pointed answer, "the bloody shirt is still too wet to shake." A conviction to this effect among the people of the West will do much in November.

THE COLORADO VICTORY COMPLETE.

THE ENTIRE REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET AND TWO-THIRDS OF THE LEGISLATURE—TWO UNITED STATES SENATORS AND THE CONGRESSMAN SECURED.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MANITOU, Col., Sunday, Oct. 15, 1876.

Colorado gives forth no uncertain sound after all. For some time the result of our late election has been in abeyance, both parties claiming victory. Notwithstanding the fact that figures were against them, the Democrats have persistently sent forth to the East repeated statements claiming success for their entire ticket, Congressman and all, their object undoubtedly being to afford aid and encouragement to their brethren in the States of Indiana and Ohio, whose elections were to occur so soon after ours. The latest returns received from the southern counties demonstrate beyond the shadow of a doubt the success of the entire Republican State ticket, with two-thirds of the Legislature, thus securing two Republican Senators to represent Colorado in Congress, and throwing the electoral vote of the State for Hayes and Wheeler. Judge Bedford, Republican, was also elected to Congress over Hon. Thomas M. Patterson, Democrat, late Delegate. The election for Congressman was intended to cover both the unexpired term of the Forty-fourth and full term of the Forty-fifth Congress in this way. Both candidates agreed before election that whichever one should receive a majority of votes on the 3d of October should be entitled to the seat in the Forty-fifth Congress, the defeated party withdrawing, thus avoiding the expense of a second election. The people having declared against Patterson, it was expected that he would abide by the contract and withdraw; but in this the people are doomed to disappointment, as he has announced his determination to stand again, and subject the State to the additional and unnecessary expense of a second election, to be held on the 7th of November. The Legislature will convene in Denver on the 1st of November for the purpose of electing Presidential Electors, two United States Senators, and enacting laws for the new State.

Candidates for the Senate are looming up. It is understood that one Senator shall be selected from the northern and one from the southern part of the State. In the north, Hon. J. B. Chaffee, ex-Delegate to Congress, and Judge H. P. Bennett, of Denver, are prominently mentioned for the position, while in the south are William S. Jackson, Esq., late Vice President of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, and Hon. George M. Chilcott, who once represented Colorado in Congress. The claims of the latter gentleman are presented by the Pueblo Chieftain, a paper which is popularly supposed to be owned by Chilcott, and which, during the entire canvass preceding the election, maintained a strict neutrality, unbroken by one word in behalf of the Republican cause. It hoisted both Presidential tickets, putting one above the other on alternate days, covered with the inscription, "You pay your money and take your choice." Shaping its course to be prepared for any event, it now acknowledges Republican success, hauls down both national tickets, and ardently advocates the election of Chilcott to the Senate, in return for his strenuous efforts (?) in behalf of Republican principles.

THE ORDER FOR AN ELECTION OF CONGRESSMAN IN NOVEMBER WITHDRAWN.

Hon. John Taffe, Secretary of State of Colorado, has revoked his order for an election on the 7th of November for a member of the next Congress. His proclamation reads thus:

"Whereas, By proclamation from this office, dated the 14th day of September, A. D. 1876, public notice was given that an election for a Representative to the Forty-fifth Congress of the United States would be held on the 7th day of November, A. D. 1876; and, Whereas, it appears upon further examination that there is no law or statute authorizing said proposed election to be held, or any election to be held in the State of Colorado at that time,

Now, therefore, I, John Taffe, Secretary of the State of Colorado, by authority in me vested, do hereby give notice to the Sheriffs of the several counties in this State that the said proclamation and election notice is hereby withdrawn, and that no election will be held on that day, to wit, the 7th day of November, A. D. 1876."

The Denver News thus reviews the causes which first led to the issuance of the election proclamation and finally to its revocation. "At the time the question was first sprung upon Mr. Brewster, acting Secretary, the campaign was in active progress and everybody was deeply interested in political work—so much so that no one seems to have looked up the authorities on the question, but gave such opinion on the subject as occurred to them at the moment. At a loss to know what he should do, Mr. Brewster concluded to err on the safe side, and so issued the proclamation—Secretary Taffe then being so unwell that his physicians forbade Mr. Brewster's submitting the question to his superior. There was at that time—and there is yet—grave doubts whether the October election would suffice for both terms, but at that time the legality of a November election seems not to have been considered at all. But the latter question having since been considered by the Secretary and by eminent jurists of both parties, there now remains no doubt whatever as to the absence of any authority whatever for holding an election on the 7th of November, and it is on this ground that the proclamation is revoked. A few interested parties—Messrs. Butler, Patterson, et al.—claim that the election can be held under the statutes of the United States. Unfortunately these statutes provide no machinery for an election, and our State has not yet provided any such machinery—consequently while a necessity for an election may exist, it cannot legally be held. In this view very many prominent Democratic lawyers agree with almost every one of their Republican brethren. Mr. Butler admits that Judge Sayre and Major Smith do not concur with him in his conclusions, and others of his own party also dissent. The acting Secretary, therefore, has acted upon the suggestions of the best legal talent of the State, and no pressure whatever has been brought to bear, or could be brought to bear, to induce him to act contrary to his honest convictions. He was always in doubt as to the correctness of his action, and is now satisfied that he was wrong, while Mr. Taffe himself has from the first denied the validity of the proposed new election."

THE WEATHER.

PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—1 A. M.—For the Middle and Eastern states, falling barometer, nearly stationary temperature, easterly to southerly winds, and cloudy, threatening, followed by rainy, weather.

IN THIS CITY.

The following record shows the changes in the temperature for the past twenty-four hours, in comparison with the corresponding date of last year, as indicated by the thermometer at Hudnut's pharmacy:

	1875.	1876.		1875.	1876.
3 A. M.	52°	58°	3:30 P. M.	70°	61°
6 A. M.	51°	57°	6 P. M.	63°	59°
9 A. M.	55°	61°	9 P. M.	58°	58°
12 M.	63°	62°	12 P. M.	56°	58°

Average temperature yesterday.....50½°
Average temperature for corresponding date last year.....58½

SIX SPANISH SCHOONERS SUNK.

HAVANA, Oct. 22.—The hurricane which visited this section Thursday night is believed to have caused less damage than that of September, but no accounts have been received from the interior so far. During its progress the American steamer Margaret went ashore, but got off without damage; and the American ship George Peabody had her cutwater slightly injured and martingale broken. There were no other accidents to American vessels. Six Spanish schooners were sunk, and many more damaged by striking the wharves. The weather is now clear. The steamer City of Mexico arrived from Vera Cruz yesterday. She experienced a tremendous hurricane on Thursday, and was compelled to throw overboard 130 bales of hemp to lighten her. For twenty-three hours the officers had no hopes of saving the vessel.

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The inmates of the Soldiers' Home at a recent meeting passed resolutions condemning as false all statements detrimental to the management of that institution.

The first volume of the reports of the Supreme Court, under the compilation of Judge Otto, the new reporter of the court, and successor to Mr. Wallace, has just been published.

WADE HAMPTON CLAP-TRAP.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 22.—Gen. Hampton, in a speech at Aiken, told the people to offer no resistance to arrest, but to submit quietly to everything. If United States soldiers are ordered to fire upon the people, the latter must not resist, but bare their breasts and be willing to die for the good of the country. The people are determined upon a peaceful victory, and must give no pretext to their enemies to find the slightest grounds for the charges made.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

KEENE, Oct. 22.—A freight train coming down the Cheshire Railroad to-day was run into by an upward bound engine about five miles from this place, and Henry M. Staples, the engineer, and Lewis Phillips, the fireman of the freight engine, were killed. The collision occurred on a curve and was due to the carelessness of the managers of the upward-bound engine, which was running wild.

FUNERAL OF DR. FULLER.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—The funeral of Rev. Dr. Richard Fuller, late Pastor of Eutaw Place Baptist Church, took place this afternoon from the church, which was filled to overflowing, and a large number congregated outside. Nearly all the Protestant clergy of the city were present, with several from Washington City. The funeral oration was delivered by Rev. W. W. Brantley, after which the interment took place at Greenmount Cemetery.

BALTIMORE HEBREW ORPHAN ASYLUM.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—The Hebrew Orphan Asylum, an imposing new edifice on Calverton Heights, about two miles from the north-western section of the city, was dedicated to-day with solemn religious ceremonies, conducted by Rev. Dr. Szold, in presence of an immense congregation. Gov. Carroll and Mayor Latrobe were present.

"BAYONET RULE" NOT SO VERY DISTASTEFUL TO THE SOUTH.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 22.—Riotous demonstrations of negroes generally supposed to be the result of the Cainhoy affair, are reported from various points of Charleston County. A serious demonstration of negroes at Mount Pleasant village, opposite Charleston, is causing great alarm to the white residents, who will petition Gen. Ruger for troops.

SEVEN DEATHS BY YELLOW FEVER.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 22.—The total number of interments to-day was seven, three of which were from yellow fever. Three of the burials were colored persons. Capt. Carptano Nadal, of the Spanish bark Olimpa, died to-day.

A PRESENT FROM GREAT BRITAIN.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—His Honor Mayor Stokley has been informed by the Duke of Richmond, the head of the British Commission to the Centennial Exhibition, that her Majesty's Government intend to present St. George's House, at the Centennial grounds, to the City of Philadelphia, after the close of the exhibition.

THE HOSTILE SAVAGES.

TROUBLE AT RED CLOUD APPREHENDED—WITHDRAWAL OF THE INDIANS TO A DISTANCE OF TWENTY-FIVE MILES FROM THE AGENCY—SUPPLIES REFUSED THEM UNLESS THEY RETURN.

CHEYENNE, Oct. 22.—The advices from the Red Cloud Agency to the 20th inst. are as follows: "Immediately after the Commissioners left the agency recently, the Indians moved and camped about twenty-five miles away, sending in a few squaws and bucks on issue days to draw rations. They were so far away that no information could be obtained of their movements or doings, and doubtless many of them were off on raiding and plundering expeditions. Word was sent to them by Capt. Smith, acting United States Agent, to come in to the agency; but to this they paid no attention. Meanwhile Gen. Crook and several members of his staff arrived there, and word was immediately sent to these Indians that no more rations would be issued until they came in to the Agency and remained. Yesterday was issue day, and very few Indians were present. Red Cloud was at the agency without a member of his band, and he refused to receive rations. The ultimatum sent to the Indians will not be receded from in the slightest degree, and unless its terms are complied with trouble is anticipated. Lieut. Chase, with a commend of 100 cavalry, left Fort Russell yesterday to intercept the raiding parties which are operating in the vicinity of the Chug."

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH FORT FETTERMAN RE-ESTABLISHED.

CHEYENNE, Oct. 22.—The telegraph line to Fort Fetterman, which has been down since the 16th inst., proves to have been interrupted by Indians. Communication was re-established with that point to-day.

On the 15th inst. a Government supply train was attacked by Indians between Forts Fetterman and Laramie. T. M. Coleman, wagon-master, was seriously wounded in the ankle, and several horses were killed. Four Indians are reported to have been killed or wounded. A trail has been discovered showing that cattle recently crossed the Platte fifteen miles south of Fort Fetterman, going in a north-east direction. These are the cattle stolen from near Laramie Peak, and are being driven to the Indian villages for Winter provisions.

John Otters, who was wounded by Indians near Bridge's Ferry on the 6th inst., died in hospital at Fort Fetterman to-day.

BY MAIL AND TELEGRAPH.

Sylvanus Caldwell, ex-Mayor of Augusta, Me., and Assistant State Treasurer, died last evening.

John Luther, Cashier of the Blackstone Canal National Bank, at Providence, died yesterday.

Wickes Hill, a well-known citizen of Newport, died at his dinner table yesterday of heart disease. He was eighty-eight years old.

President Grant has appointed Robert Ogden Tyler, of Hartford, to a cadetship at West Point, in recognition of the distinguished services of his uncle, the late Gen. Robert O. Tyler.

E. S. Bascom, a prominent farmer and cattle dealer of Gill, Mass., was thrown from his carriage, while on his way to Greenfield, Saturday evening, and died last night from injuries then received.

The body of Lillibridge Barber, of Grosvenordale, Conn., was found in a ditch near the Norwich and Worcester Railroad in Webster, Mass., yesterday morning. Appearances indicate murder and robbery.

The curious exhibits presented by the King of Siam to the United States Government have finally been arranged in the space allotted them in the Navy Department of the Government, and attract much attention.

The Coroner's inquest, at Providence, R. I., yesterday afternoon, on the body of Nathaniel G. Sayles, returned a verdict that he died from disease and the injurious use of laudanum. Mr. Sayles, for fourteen years, resided in New-York.

The poultry display, the next and last on the list of special Centennial exhibitions, will be held in the Exhibition inclosure in the annex to Agricultural Hall, lately appropriated to the pomological exhibition. Numerous and interesting varieties of the feathered tribe arrive daily. The display will formally open on Friday next.

Francis Vernon took lodging at Station No. 15, in Boston, Saturday night, and was found dying from the effects of poison this morning. Medical aid was summoned, but Vernon died at 9 o'clock. The deceased was formerly an apothecary on the United States steamer Lehigh. Despondency, caused by loss of employment, was the incentive to the deed.

The programme for the ceremonies of closing day, Nov. 10, is being gradually matured by a special committee of the commission, and will be reported during the present week. The exercises will be simple but impressive, and will consist of oratory, music, salutes of artillery, &c. The place which will probably be selected for the main portion of the celebration is the centre of the Main Building.

Workmen were engaged on Saturday in laying the foundations for the base which is intended to support the statue of "Religious Liberty," which will soon be unveiled in the grounds by the Hebrew order Benai Berith. The site which has been selected is the east side of Belmont avenue, at its junction with Fountain avenue, and immediately opposite the Columbus monument. The erection of a temporary pedestal will be begun without delay. The statue left Lucca on the 12th inst., and was due at New-York several days since by the White Star Line.

The turn-stile registrations up to Saturday night, show that in point of receipts the week just closed exceeds any other in the history of the Centennial Exhibition. The number of full fee admissions aggregating 614,725, or more than one hundred and two thousand per day, while the twenty-five-cent admissions, including those to the live stock display, were 6,121. To Pennsylvania week is accorded the distinction of having shown the highest total of admissions. But the proportion of these at one-half fee was unusually large, over thirty-three thousand school children being admitted on Pennsylvania Day alone. As a paying week, the record from the 16 to 21, inclusive, surpasses that of any other consecutive days, though in the opinion of the officers of the Admission Department, it will itself be surpassed by that of the week now opening.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

A fire last night, in New-Haven, destroyed a frame building used for stowage, a barn and shed on Whalley avenue, which belonged to John J. Osborn. The first named building was rented by E. W. Beecher, of Woodbridge, and is the fourth barn in which he was interested which has been fired by incendiaries within a short time. The loss is estimated at $1,000.

A fire occurred last night on the second floor of the three-story brick building No. 113 Grand street, occupied by J. B. Bernhardt, dealer in kid gloves. The building, which belongs to the Astor estate, was damaged to the extent of $500.

The carriage factory of Messrs. Gale & Merrill, at Amesbury, was burned Saturday night. The loss is estimated at $10,000, and is partly covered by insurance.

T. R. Johnson's saw mill, at Acton, Quebec, was burned yesterday. Loss $12,000.

THE FOG.

The City was enveloped in a fog more or less dense, all day yesterday, and at night the air became so thick and dark that great caution on the part of ferry-boat pilots in the navigation of their craft became necessary. The North and East Rivers were resonant during the night, with the sound of bells, steam-whistles, and f

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

RUSSIA IN THE EAST.

TURKISTAN. NOTES OF A JOURNEY IN RUSSIAN TURKISTAN, KHOKAND, BUKHARA, AND KULDJA. By EUGENE SCHUYLER, Ph. D., Member of the American Geographical Society, and of the Imperial Russian Geographical Society, formerly Secretary of Legation at St. Petersburg, and now Secretary of Embassy and Consul General at Constantinople. 2 vols., 8vo. With three maps and numerous illustrations. New-York: SCRIBNER, ARMSTRONG & Co.

Since the time of Marco Polo, Central Asia has been a favorite region with travelers and explorers. The difficulties of penetrating the country have for centuries been great enough to test the courage and address of those who were in search of adventure, while the habits of its semi-barbarous tribes have been found deserving study from their peculiarity, and well worth recording because of their novelty. The advance of Russia into this region, which had long been portended, and which became an accomplished fact in 1873, lifted the country into political prominence, and directed attention to it anew. It is a fact upon which Americans may justly pride themselves that their own countrymen have produced the most notable, readable, and valuable works which have been added to the literature of travel in Central Asia since so large and important a part of it passed under Russian rule. Mr. Macgahan's Campaigning on the Oxus, published by the Harpers a year or two ago, was a dashing record of personal adventure with the armies in the field. His desert ride to Khiva was in itself a most extraordinary exploit, and as we learn from Mr. Schuyler's narrative, excited the wonder and admiration of the stolid Russians, who gave him the highest praise in their power by speaking of him as Molodits, "a brave young fellow." Renewed attention is likely to be attracted to Mr. Macgahan's remarkable story of his daring adventure by the repeated references which Mr. Schuyler makes to it in his more sober volumes. It is a curious coincidence that, after the lapse of three years, these same gentlemen should find themselves fellow-travelers in Bulgaria, and that they should together have done such important service in exposing the Turkish atrocities in that country. While Mr. Macgahan continues his labors as a newspaper correspondent—he is now connected with the London News—Mr. Schuyler has the advantage of a connection with the diplomatic service, and his reports to his Government, which have been made public in England even before their appearance here, have been received by the statesmen of that country as sufficiently authoritative to be made the basis of official action, while votes of thanks for his frank exposure of Turkish atrocities have been passed at numerous public meetings. It is fortunate for Mr. Schuyler that he makes his first formal appearance as an author while his name is so prominent before the public in the connection named. The curiosity which the reading public is sure to feel regarding one who has so suddenly assumed such prominence as traveler, diplomat, and author, warrants a brief sketch of Mr. Schuyler's history. He was born at Ithaca, in this State, in February, 1840, and is therefore only in his thirty-seventh year. He is the son of Hon. George W. Schuyler, now Auditor of the Canal Department. Mr. Schuyler graduated at Yale College in the Class of 1859. He ranked with the first scholars in a class remarkable for talent, and was the successful competitor for two scholarships, the conditions of which called for a residence in New-Haven. While pursuing his post-graduate studies connected with these scholarships, he attended the Law School of Yale College, and for a year assisted President Porter in the revision of Webster's Dictionary. After a two years' residence in New-Haven he removed to this City and entered the law office of Messrs. Wickes & De Forest, attending meanwhile one course of lectures in Columbia Law School, after which he was regularly admitted to the Bar. Two or three years were spent with Messrs. Wickes & De Forest, and then he opened a law office with a son of Lorin Andrews, but the profession never really attracted him. His strong literary tastes led him to write constantly for the Round Table, the Nation, &c. When the Russian fleet was in this harbor, he determined to master that language, in addition to the two or three others with which he was already familiar, and at last he translated and published from the Russian Turgenieff's Father and Sons. Learning that the Consulship at Moscow had been offered to three individuals and declined, he applied for it successfully with the intention of pursuing certain studies at the University of Moscow. He was appointed to this position by President Johnson in 1866. In 1869 he was superseded, but secured the Consulship at Revel. While on his way thither he passed through St. Petersburg just as Gov. Curtin, who had been appointed Minister, arrived there. Neither Gov. Curtin, his secretary, nor any one in his suite understood any language but English, and learning that Mr. Schuyler was master of French and German as well as of the Russian, he persuaded him to accept the Secretaryship of the Legation. This post he held until last winter, when, at his own request, he was transferred to Constantinople as Secretary of Legation and Consul General. During his residence at St. Petersburg Mr. Schuyler translated an ancient Finnish poem, which secured him an invitation to visit Finland, where he was received with high consideration. Notwithstanding the heavy pressure of official duties, Mr. Schuyler has been a constant contributor to the London Athenæum, the Nation, &c. No American certainly, and probably very few except the best educated Russians, possess as thorough a knowledge of Russian literature as does Mr. Schuyler. His familiarity with the languages of the East not only renders his services invaluable in his present position; it fitted him peculiarly for the task which he assigned himself in his explorations in Central Asia, and gives these volumes a value far beyond that which can be claimed by any previous record of travel in this curious region.

Mr. Schuyler entered upon his travels in Turkistan under circumstances which were singularly favorable to a careful study of the characteristics of the people as well as a thorough investigation and a clear understanding of the purposes of the Russian Government in undertaking the conquest of the country. His long residence in St. Petersburg, his prominent official position, and the friendly feeling of the Russian Government toward Americans generally all co-operated to secure for him the best possible facilities in preparing for his tour. Indeed, at the very outset his nationality gained him an exception from a rule the Russian authorities were rigidly enforcing—to permit no European to enter the lines of military occupation. Mr. Schuyler and Mr. Macgahan left St. Petersburg March 23, 1873. Stopping for a day in Moscow, they reached Saratoff, 940 miles from St. Petersburg, on the morning of the 26th, by rail. Thence they took sledges to Orenburg. There the travelers exchanged finally for a farantaso—a vehicle somewhat of the "buckboard" type, although it has a stout leather hood and curtain, which are absolutely necessary as a protection against the cutting winds of the steppes. In these vehicles Mr. Schuyler and his companions pushed on to Kazala, or Fort No. 1, the entering wedge of the Russians in Central Asia. Fort No. 2, or Perovsky was next reached, and here the travelers separated, Mr. Macgahan crossing the Syr Darya, or Jaxartes, and starting upon his famous ride to overtake the Russian column under Gen. Kaufmann, while Mr. Schuyler remained behind to push his researches independently and in regions where the Russians held undisturbed possession. Thus, after Mr. Macgahan had left him he went on to Turkistan, Tashkent, Khokand, Samarkand, and Bukhara. Then returning to Tashkent he struck due east to Vierny, and crossing the River Ili he visited both new and old Kuldja, and turning northward and touching the extreme eastern end of Balkash Lake he made his way through Siberia to Semipalantensk. Crossing and then recrossing the Irtysh, he traveled along the left bank of that river to Omsk, and here finding that the last steamer for Perm down the Kama had left he turned southward through Petropavlovsk and Troitsk to Orenburg again. Then returning to Samara, he caught the last steamer down the Volga to Saratoff, where he again took the railway and arrived at St. Petersburg Nov. 15, after an absence of about eight months. In his introduction Mr. Schuyler cautions his readers not to expect "either stories of personal adventure or accounts of geographical exploration." The Russians, Bukhariots, and Khokandians, he tells us, all took the greatest care that he should incur no personal danger, and that he should not penetrate into any districts which had been previously unexplored. Even if Mr. Schuyler was confined to regions which Vambery, Shaw, and other travelers have made more or less familiar, his narrative has all the charm of entire freshness and novelty. Every page shows the result of close personal observation, and of purpose to relate what he had to tell without exaggeration or any undue coloring. But what merchant could more vividly represent the contrast between the present and the past than the fact which Mr. Schuyler states in the first page of his narrative, that Prince Genghis—or Tchinghiz, as one traveler spells it—a lineal descendant of the famous Genghis Khan—was a fellow-passenger with him in the carriage from St. Petersburg, and that the Prince was most of the time deeply absorbed in a French novel! Touching incidentally upon the Cossacks, Mr. Schuyler corrects the impression regarding a people who have occupied so romantic a place in the history of the East by assuring us that they are by no means the bugbears, scarecrows, and cruel barbarians they have been so generally represented. On the contrary, they are mild, amiable, and hospitable, and, as a rule, the men are brave fellows, who do the pioneer work of Russian civilization. There is a touch of humor in the sketch of the camel, which is described as "a sort of a cross between a cow and cassowary," and hardly the "ship of the desert," as most travelers poetically call him. The stupidity and indifference, as well as obstinacy, of those upon whom he was compelled to rely as assistants or drivers was a fruitful source of annoyance to Mr. Schuyler. Once he found the front axle of his farantaso reversed so that the forward movement of the conveyance gradually unscrewed both wheels. On another occasion the Kirghiz station-master refused to supply horses, and was only brought to terms when the Tartar servant began to belabor him with a rusty sword, whereupon the Kirghiz at once gave in, knelt down, and began to embrace Mr. Schuyler's knees and to beg for mercy, promising to give the horses immediately. He had, however, only furnished two when he leaped on the back of the third and rushed over the plain. When pursued and brought back, he pleaded that he was only going to another village to procure additional horses, but upon the refusal to accept this excuse the animals needed were finally forthcoming although they proved to be so poor that they were little better than none at all. Warnings to guard against banditti proved to be so unnecessary that the firearms which had been taken along were stowed in the bottom of the farantaso where they remained undisturbed. Readers of books of travel in general will naturally search out first of all in Mr. Schuyler's volumes his descriptions of the manners and customs of the various tribes that he visited. We do not now recall a work which is more satisfactory, in this very important regard, than that now under review. First of all, we have a very full description of the Kirghiz. As nearly as can be estimated, this people numbers a million and a half. In general, they are short of stature, with round, swarthy faces, insignificant noses, and small, sharp, black eyes, with the tightly-drawn eyelids seen in all the Mongol tribes. They are for the most part breeders of cattle and sheep, and in their search for fresh pastures, they are constantly migrating with their families from one part of the Steppe to another.

"It is a curious fact that the Kirghiz were converted to Mohammedanism by the mistaken efforts of the Russian Government. At first but few of the Sultans and chiefs had any idea of the doctrines of Islam, and there was not a mosque nor a mullah in the Steppe, but the Russians (just as they insisted on using the Tartar language in intercourse with them) insisted on treating them as though they were Mohammedans, built mosques, and sent mullahs, until the whole people became outwardly Mussulman, although the further from the Russian lines and the nearer to the settled populations of Central Asia the weaker was the faith. In the same way the Buriats during the present century were made Buddhists by the Russian officials, when they were nothing but Shamanists. It would have been easier, Mr. Schuyler says, had the Government known it, to convert both races to Christianity at the outset. The Kirghiz are sociable, and always eager for fresh news. As soon as they get hold of an interesting item of intelligence one of the family will immediately start off on a fresh horse, and convey the intelligence to some distant acquaintance. In this way news travels through the Steppe almost as if by telegraph."

They measure space by the distance which the voice can reach or the eye can observe.

At Kazala, Mr. Schuyler found the Russian prisoners who had been enslaved at Khiva, and for whose liberation the war was nominally begun. They were in all twenty-one of them. They had reached Kazala in charge of the Khivan embassy some time after Gen. Kaufmann's departure at the head of the expeditionary force. Both embassadors and prisoners were subsequently sent on to Gen. Kaufmann's head-quarters by his order. During Mr. Schuyler's stay at Kazala these prisoners could be seen about the town in the striped cotton gowns which had been presented to them by the Khan upon their departure.

"They all said they had had a hard time of it, but apparently had not suffered very much, although they were heartily glad at their release, and most of them were celebrating their freedom by getting drunk. The majority of them were Cossacks and common soldiers, although there were three or four clerks and merchants among them. Three of these men were brought to see Mr. Schuyler—a Cossack soldier, who had been captured at Fort Irgiz in 1863, and two clerks, who, together with a companion, were taken also in the same year. They were engaged in supplying the military stations with salt meat, and were also engaged in trading with the Kirghiz, when suddenly, near a station on the Aral Sea, they were captured by a band of hostile Kirghiz, tied to their saddles, and taken by long marches, day and night, to Khiva, where they were sold. As soon as they reached Khiva they were bought by the Khan, with most of the other prisoners, for his private use, and lived for the greater part of the time in one of his gardens outside of the city, where most of them were obliged to act as gardeners, though those who knew any special trade were made to work by preference at that. As to fare, they were treated in the same way as the Persian slaves, of whom there were very large numbers, and lived chiefly on fruit, rice, and an occasional bit of mutton or tallow. They were at first treated with great severity, and efforts were made to compel them to become Mussulmans; force even being threatened; but the Khan on finding this out at last gave orders that no one should be made to change his religion unless he wished. They described the Khan as being personally good-natured, and frequently saying a word or two to them as he passed through the garden, and laid on the Divan-Begbi, or Vizier, the whole blame of the hostile relations of the Khanate to Russia."

The City of Turkistan—which is chiefly famous for the Morgue over the tomb of Hazret Hodja Akhmed Yasavi, the construction of which was commenced by Timur in 1397—detained Mr. Schuyler for only a short time. Tchemkent is 100 miles beyond Turkistan, and its capture is said to have been the result of a ludicrous mistake.

"In the first onset one of the soldiers was slightly wounded, and cried out for the surgeon—'Doc-tura!' His comrades heard only 'ura!' (the Russian 'hurrah,') rushed forward, pressing the enemy before them, and within an hour had full possession of the citadel, with only five men killed."

Tashkent was the next important point visited by Mr. Schuyler. He made this place his head-quarters during his stay in Central Asia, and, as he was there at four different periods, each time making a longer or shorter stay, he had ample time to make a careful study of the city and of the people who live in it. Although lacking in the stirring activity of our own Western towns, Mr. Schuyler tells us that it strongly reminded him of Denver, for instance. The Sarts in turbans and gowns were enough, however, to dispel the illusion. One of the institutions of Tashkent is a club—"as stupid and unclubbable as all Russian clubs"—with a library of 4,000 volumes; another institution is a costly chemical laboratory, and then there is a small weekly journal—the Turkistan Gazette:

"This contains, besides official matter, articles on the history, ethnology, and statistics of the country, which are often very interesting and valuable. Of news from the rest of the world there is nothing whatever, and even the current events of Central Asia are rarely mentioned, except in extracts in the newspapers in St. Petersburg and Moscow. It has only about three hundred subscribers, and costs the Government some 22,000 roubles a year, or thirty-seven kopeks a copy. While thankful for many articles contained in the Gazette, Mr. Schuyler tells us that he sometimes wondered at its existence. A supplement in Turki is published for the spread of literature among the natives, but, for a period at least, its contents were chiefly drawn from the tales of the Arabian Nights."

The distinguished exiles gathered at Tashkent from the provinces conquered by the Russians, including the famous Jura Bek and Baba Bek; the Tadjiks and the Uzbeks; the different sects of the Mohammedans in the city, their mosques, and the modes of worship; the batchas or dancing boys; the dervishes; the law courts; the bazaars; the Hindoo usurers; the different classes of artisans; the great fair which is held at Tashkent, with statistics of Central Asiatic trade, are among the topics which Mr. Schuyler discusses exhaustively, but in a most interesting and profitable way, through three or four chapters.

Samarkand, with the famous tomb of Tomler, is next described. An episode of Mr. Schuyler's stay in this extremely interesting city was a baiga, the great national sport of Central Asia, known also by the name of Kok-bûra or gray wolf. Of this game we have the following interesting description:

"In an open field along the side of the road fifty horsemen were waiting, one of whom had a dead kid slung from his saddle bow. As we came along this man rode up to us and asked if we would like to see the sport. Of course we willingly assented, and we started off with everybody else in full pursuit. The object of the game was to succeed in bearing the kid away from its possessor and in bringing it across the judge of the course. Away they went, through canals and over the plains, up and down hill, sometimes forward, sometimes backward, the possessor of the kid skilfully dodging and holding on by main force to the animal with which he was charged. Men often approached him, but it was seldom that they could catch hold of the kid, and still seldomer could they manage to retain the hold sufficiently long to make a struggle. At one place, in order to get rid of his pursuers, Ish Jan—for such I believe was his name—had to plunge into a pond, or rather the enlargement of a canal, where the water was much deeper and swifter than he had thought, and soon there were a dozen men there struggling and plunging, all up to their necks in water. Ish Jan got through it without accident, and the kid was still safe, but just as Ish Jan was going up the bank one of the men, who had not plunged into the water, and who was lying in wait, quickly pulled the now slippery animal away from him and brought it in triumph to my carriage, for which of course I had to give him a tenga and pass the animal on to another. The men and they were almost out of sight across the gravelly plain and rapidly returned with another as the victor. The sport lost much by not being played, as it should be, on a grassy steppe where the vista would be large enough to take in the whole position and with a throng of enthusiastic spectators on horseback; but even as it was it was extremely exciting. I saw it again on the occasion of a Kirghiz feast, though at a long distance, but with my field-glass I was able almost to see the intense expression of the faces, and even then was so much interested that, although I was hastening on, I made my driver wait for nearly half an hour that I might look at the game. Fully a hundred men were surging backward and forward over a broad hill-side, their horses as close together that it seemed as if some of them must get smothered. Sometimes half a dozen separated from the rest, a struggle followed, one bearing the kid dashed off in triumph, when all rushed at him and the mêlée began again, reminding me then of nothing so much as of a good game of foot-ball. Since then I have seen polo played, a game of a similar nature. When I first saw it, Hurlingham, the royal guests, the ladies and the officers all looked very tame; but I was again on the steppes of Asia amid a throng of Uzbeks."

Descriptions of the Zarafshan Valley, of visits to Hodjent and Kurama, of the systems of irrigating canals, and the methods of husbandry, with discussions of the land tenure and taxes, the climate and the calendars, &c., close Mr. Schuyler's first volume. The second volume, which takes us to Khokand, Bukhara, and Kuldja, is even more novel and interesting in its descriptions, for the regions traversed and the peoples enumerated are far less familiar to the readers of works of travel than are those Mr. Schuyler first visited. We must, however, forego any further summary of Mr. Schuyler's travels to allude briefly to his discussion of the Russian foreign policy in Asia, and the consequences of the Kaivan campaign, subjects which receive full and most intelligent treatment in the concluding chapters of this important work. Although these chapters were written before the crisis now threatening the peace of Europe could have been anticipated, they possess all the more interest and the greater value, because they express opinions directly touching the foreign policy of Russia in general which are more or less pertinent at the present juncture of affairs. Moreover, while they come from a source not unfriendly to Russia, they express the views of one who has had most unusual opportunities for studying the policy of that Government. The frankness which characterizes Mr. Schuyler's criticisms is proof enough that he gives us his honest convictions, without the least desire to propitiate, and without any fear of offending, the court at which he so long resided. Mr. Schuyler confidently expresses the opinion that military, rather than financial, reasons incited the advance of Russia into Central Asia. Turkistan costs Russia far more than she gets from the conquered territory. From 1868 to 1872 the returns of Central Asian trade showed an annual deficit of from three million roubles to four millions and a half, and in 1873 it probably exceeded seven millions. Still the Russian troops are there; they cannot be withdrawn. On the contrary, the reasons which compelled the annexation of Turkistan are likely eventually to compel a further advance, until a natural boundary is reached, with China on the east and Afghanistan on the south. The patient and economical industry of the Chinese can alone, Mr. Schuyler thinks, enable Russia to fertilize her possessions in Central Asia and make them profitable. Now her conquests in that direction make her weaker alike for defense and for attack. As regards the policy of the Russian Government in general, Mr. Schuyler insists very emphatically that the annexation of considerable parts of the Khanates of Bukhara, Khokand, and Khiva is not at all proof of a scheming policy and of a plot to dominate the whole of Asia:

"With much greater force," he argues, "might it be said that the extension of British rule in Asia is the result of a long-matured and traditional policy of Asiatic conquest, yet no one knows how the spread of British rule in India and in the adjacent countries has been brought about would think of accusing the English Government of such a design. Why, then, should such accusations be brought against Russia? Simply because there is a widely-spread belief in Western Europe—and irrational ideas of this kind are often hardest to eradicate—that as Russia is governed (so it is thought) by a single will, and as the political steps of Russia are taken without the publicity which attends such measures in constitutional countries, Russian statesmen are almost preternaturally wise and skilful, and that there exists a traditional and hereditary policy. Such a policy would be difficult enough anywhere, and it does not, and has not existed in Russia; in fact, not only in Asiatic, but in other Eastern, as well as in European affairs, Russia is guided by no policy whatever, except so far as yearly and almost daily changing circumstances may dictate. Were it to be generally admitted—I will not say as true, but even as possible—that Russia had no foreign policy except that of carrying out such views as might for the moment seem advantageous, the present situation of affairs both in Europe and Asia might be more easily understood, and difficulties might be better avoided."

And then, referring again to the peculiar Constitution of the Russian Government, Mr. Schuyler proceeds:

"This has a more important bearing on the Asiatic policy of the Empire than has been generally supposed. Each minister being independent and responsible only to the Emperor, there is no Cabinet, properly so called, and can be no united policy. The councils of Ministers do not so much discuss questions of policy as questions of detail, the solution of which depends upon two or three Ministers jointly. Sometimes a subject is deemed so important that a special commission is appointed to study it and to come to a conclusion, which may or may not be ratified by the Emperor. Still, even in this case, as each Minister has the right of a personal audience with the Emperor, when he can explain in detail all his arguments for the proposed measure, the decision of the commission may be set aside almost as soon as it is made."

And these three paragraphs seem to have been written almost in anticipation of the present crisis:

"The fears of English remonstrances and the diplomatic complications have had great influence on the Russian policy in Asia. The Foreign Office has been exceedingly annoyed by the persistent manner in which, on each movement of troops, questions have been asked in Parliament, or the British Ambassador has hinted or stated to Prince Gortschakoff his desire to know the reasons for such a step; and not unfrequently movements quite insignificant in themselves have been forbidden for fear of English remonstrances. This has been unnoticed in the Russian press.

* * * * * * *

It is impossible to believe that there is any settled intention on the part of the Russian Government of making an attack on India, or even of preparing the way for it, nor is there any desire for the possession of India. Young men in the Army of Turkistan, whose only thought is for advancement and decorations, may, indeed, talk loudly, but the men who control the policy have no such thought. What might happen in case of a war between Russia and England on other questions is, indeed, hard to say. If Russia could then easily for herself make a diversion on India, she would certainly be justified in doing so, but the position of Russian affairs in Turkistan is hardly such as to allow her to do so for many years to come, to say nothing of the distance of Turkistan from European Russia, the bad communications, and the intervening deserts and mountains between Turkistan and India, which would render such a movement exceedingly difficult, if not impossible. The only danger to India from Russia lies through Persia. Experience has proved that all invasions of India have come through Afghanistan, and Afghanistan can only be approached by Russia through Persia."

The brief historical sketch which follows of the campaign planned against India by the Emperor Paul as a diversion to help Napoleon, and which was frustrated by the death of its projector, together with the account of the negotiations initiated in 1869 by Lord Clarendon to establish a "neutral zone" between Russia and the British possessions in India can not be very agreeable reading in England in these exciting times. This allusion to these passages in Mr. Schuyler's work is sufficient to indicate their singular pertinence at this important juncture of affairs, and to send to the volumes themselves all who wish to be fully informed regarding the attitude of England toward Russia as relates to this Eastern question.

Without attempting to quote further from Mr. Schuyler's Turkistan, it is enough to say that it must at once take, and that it will always hold, a place among the most important books of travel. As an account of the country it describes it is so far superior to all which have preceded it, in fullness, completeness, and accuracy of information, that it must for the future be accepted as the authority regarding the resources of the Russian possessions in Central Asia. Its descriptions of the country and of the people living in it are always interesting and frequently amusing, but it is easy to see that they have been written by one who is not only so thoroughly cosmopolitan as to know intuitively what is worth telling and what had better be omitted, but also who is so practiced a writer as to understand precisely how to set forth what he has to say in the most effective manner. Then, too, the skillful grouping of statistics exhibits a wonderful familiarity with the literature of blue books and a singular facility in extracting from them all that deserves saying. The illustrations scattered through the volumes are interesting and characteristic, and the maps are absolutely beyond praise for fullness, accuracy, and clearness, as well as beauty of execution.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

—The Little Woodman. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—History of France for Junior Classes. New-York: George P. Putnam's Sons.

—Knowledge and Faith. New-York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

—The True Man. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—Christian Nurture. New-York: Scribner, Armstrong & Co.

—History of the Reformation. Volume VII. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—Manual of Geometry. New-York: A. S. Barnes & Co.

—The Epidemic of Yellow Fever. Philadelphia: P. S. Collins.

—Monteith's Pictorial Chart. New-York: A. S. Barnes & Co.

—An Hundredfold. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—Roman History. New-York: Scribner, Armstrong & Co.

—Furnivallos Furioso. New-York: Brentano.

—Ten Cents. New-York: National Temperance Society.

—Normal Higher Arithmetic. Philadelphia: Fowler, Potts & Co.

—Commercial Calculator. Bloomington, Ill.: C. Ropp, Jr.

—Fallen Fortunes. New-York: D. Appleton & Co.

—Report of the Board of Commissioners of the Department of Public Parks. New-York: W. C. Bryant & Co.

—Official Catalogue of the International Exhibition. Philadelphia, 1876.

—Holiday House. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—A Piece of Silver. New-York: National Temperance Society.

—The Curiosities and Law of Wills. Vol. II. San Francisco: Sumner, Whitney & Co.

—The Story of Country. Boston: Lookwood, Brooks & Co.

—The Old Church Door. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—The Medea of Euripides. Boston: Ginn Brothers.

—Historical and Architectural Sketches. London, New-York: Macmillan & Co.

—The Morals of Trade. New-York: T. Whittaker.

—Golden Thorns. New-York: R. Carter & Brothers.

—The Poet's Magazine. Nos. I. and II. New-York: Brentano.

—The Portfolio. London: Leeley, Jackson & Halliday. New-York: J. W. Bouton.

MR. TALMAGE IN CHICAGO.

The Chicago Tribune says: "The congregation of Plymouth Church, who are now without a permanent Pastor, seem to be delighted at the suggestion that a call be extended to Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, of Brooklyn. At an informal meeting last Wednesday evening, the subject was broached, and the expressions were all favorable. It seems that correspondence has been had with some of Mr. Talmage's friends, and, while they admit a possible reluctance in giving up his present successful field, they think that he would, on account of the illness of his wife and the necessity of her removal from sea air, accept a call from Chicago. Hence, it is not improbable, at the meeting of the congregation next Wednesday evening, definite action will be taken toward getting him here if he will come."

SPIRITUALISM PROBLEMS.

SLADE'S TROUBLES AND STANDING.

SPIRITUALISTIC PHENOMENA ATTENDING SPIRITUAL PHOTOGRAPHY AND CHIROGRAPHY.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

It is but a very short time ago that the late Judge Edmonds proprosed to prove the phenomenon of taking photograph likenesses of departed "spirits," (as ghosts usually are represented, clothes and all.) "That the process is accompanied by no trick, fraud, or deception, in what are called spirit pictures. * * * That in order to produce these pictures nothing more is done or used than is done by ordinary photographers in producing these spiritual pictures—than the mere resting the hand upon the camera; and that within the last five (now twelve) years the taking of these pictures has been publicly heard of and known in Boston." It is not necessary for me to dwell upon the articles of spiritual faith governing the reason of the learned Judge. I am free, however, to acknowledge that nothing affords me greater satisfaction than unmasking the cheat of the so-called "spiritual manifestations," and I regret to find that "Dr." Slade, now appearing before the London Magistracy, charged with being a vagrant and an impostor, should have found a defender by the able pen of the accomplished writer of the correspondence, published in the columns of THE TIMES of the 14th inst.—who, therein, among other things says—(in face of the direct exposure of Dr. Slade made by Dr. E. Ray Lankester, most eminently distinguished among anatomists, pathologists, physiologists, and chemists)—"As some of our American writers on the subject have no standing whatever in science, I shall not assume that the so-called exposures ' * * can be regarded as having any real value." Certainly Andrew Jackson Davis will not be included in the list of spiritual writers without standing, yet, with your permission, Mr. Editor, I herewith furnish the exposition of a spiritualistic phenomenon as it was elucidated and made manifestly and occultly unintelligible by this great spirit of spiritual light who, about the time that Judge Edmonds undertook to prove so much, delivered a public lecture of erratic, illogical subtleties and concatenations of antagonisms in connection with a psychologico-biological, psychomancy, wandering far, far away into spiritual realms of ideality, fully establishing the fabric of his mental vision, which the completion of his lecture left not an ideal atom of fact behind.

At the time referred to, when Spiritualism was approaching the perihelion of its glory—when spirit pictures were "heard of and known in Boston," I was strolling, one Sunday evening, up Broadway, and passing by Dodworth's Hall, I saw a brown wrapping paper placard rested against the door-post of the entrance, with a rude crayon pencilling extending a general invitation to the public at large to enter and listen to the lecture to be given by "the celebrated Andrew Jackson Davis the Great Expounder, who would Discourse upon Spiritualism in which Important Phenomena would be Explained and Demonstrated." The extra inducement offered to the public to enter and be enlightened was the notification at the foot of the placard, "seats free." Feeling that I could only lose the value of an hour's walk, I availed myself of the liberal terms advertised, and entered the lecture-room. There were already seated some four hundred very respectable-looking elderly people, and only "standing" room left. This circumstance reassured me, and at once established in my mind a certain respect for the lecturer, whom I had not yet seen or heard; for I was seriously and deeply desirous of learning something in extenuation of these spiritual impositions, as I had been—through a victimized dear relative—a great sufferer. I wished to ascertain whether I was laboring under false and prejudiced impressions, and whether my disgust and indignation was justified at the contemptible and miserable juggling practiced upon the idiosyncrasies of weak-minded dupes, and opium-eating or nervous, impressible people.

It is not required that I should follow the eloquence of the lecturer in detail. Let it suffice that his chief object led him onward, until finally concentrated in all the force he was capable of in endeavoring to establish the truths of spiritual manifestations, and "practically demonstrated, by the success of spiritualistic photography, whereby photographists were enabled to take and produce spirit likenesses of departed friends."

By way of parenthesis, the question may be asked, Is it not worthy of the spiritualistic philosopher's investigation to account for the accuracy of the camera by the mere resting of the hand upon the instrument should not only "give the spirit likeness of the deceased in its most pleasing living aspect desired by the living friends," but that it should also give a spiritualistic representation of the clothes, jewels, &c., in accordance with the fashion or taste of the original wearers, regardless of long protracted sickness and bodily changes of lineaments, &c. Indeed, the painting likenesses is nothing new. An intuitive physiographist can approach likenesses from furnished descriptions of deceased persons, as detectives can discover people that have been described to them. Years before the celebrated Daguerre introduced his beautiful discovery, and many years before the introduction of spiritual manifestations, our eminent artist Thomas S. Cummings, (the originator and the architect of the success of the Academy of Design,) an expert in human physiography, was celebrated for the likenesses of deceased persons, painted from description and family resemblances, whom he had never seen. Several of these after-death likenesses painted by this gentleman I have seen and can vouch for their correct resemblances.

The chirographical manifestations of Dr. Slade are in the hands of scientific "investigating" mediums, to pronounce upon the physical properties of folding slates and the character of the spiritualistic dynamics governing slate pencils. Leaving the "Doctor" in the right place, I will show that spiritual imponderables and physical ponderables will not unite, as proved by the discourse of the lecturer himself, showing their incompatibility. The subject dealt with demanded all his scientific ingenuity to assist Mr. Andrew Jackson Davis' effort in demonstrating, by verbal illustration, the accomplishment of spiritual photograph phenomena, ridiculous as the proposition was, by the means of the principles of the law governing physics, inadvertently exhibiting results he did not intend, viz., that spiritual influences were incapable and had nothing to do with the success of producing spiritual photograph likenesses.

The experiment the lecturer put in as proof "happened in Boston, where it was heard of and known." A husband had buried his wife, or the wife had buried her husband, I do not remember which; this, however, matters little except to the parties concerned. The description of the matter serves to demonstrate the absurdity of the whole proposition. The wife consulted a medium, who at once placed her in communication with the spirit of her deceased husband, who was very glad she had come, and to prove his love for his living sublunary wife he desired to present her with a spiritual photograph of his spiritual existence, requesting her to visit a certain photograph gallery on a certain day at a certain hour, (no doubt when spirits have power,) and then and there sit for her photograph likeness, the spirit promising to be present, and with her would be taken in full corporeal likeness. The loving wife did as requested. The operator, himself a distinguished Spiritualist, was not made aware of this assignment made within the envelope sanctum of his camera obscura. Innocently he proceeded secundem artem to procure a negative of the lady only. A partial negative with a blotch of blurred lines obscuring the whole, was the result. In short, a whole day's repetition of efforts only proved the absolute failure in obtaining a likeness.

The disappointed wife revisited the medium and through him informed the spirit of the result. It replied: "I knew it." The husband's spirit was reticent, contenting itself with the statement that the spirit was present; that it could not then explain to her the cause of the failure, but would so on another occasion. The good spirit, however, made an appointment for them to meet at the camera at the same establishment. On this occasion the wife informed the photographist of the real object of her visit, and of the intention of her husband's spirit to be present for the purpose of being taken with her on the same plate. The operator did not call spirits from the vasty deep to aid him, but went to work with a right good will determined to test his success upon the merit of his belief, and the excellence of his "chemicals." The results after each and every attempt were the same—blotched and blurred negatives, presenting neither form, outline, nor lineaments. "The instrument must be out of order," exclaimed the operator. This, however, could not be the case, for he had used it successfully in taking likenesses of respectable quiet mortals just previous to these assiguations, in his camera, of the spirit and its former wife. There must be something wrong, soliloquized the tormented operator. What was it? The wife again, through the medium, consulted her husband's invisible ghost. Another meeting was arranged as before, in the camera of the same photographist, ending with the same results. Again and again was the wife doomed for a certain time, through the medium, seeking interviews with her husband's spirit, when finally it consented to furnish the wearied lady with an explanation devoid of elucidation of the obstacles presenting themselves, viz.: "The remarkable phenomenon attending refraction of white solar light, and acting upon the lens of the camera it is separated into rays of various colors, the analysis of which may be seen through the medium of any irregular surfaces of crystalline substances, the diamond, glass, &c. We see the analysis of light in the rainbow. The best method, however, is practiced by the aid of the tribedral prism which gives the analysis of white light in the form of seven colored rays, violet, indigo blue, green, yellow, orange and red." * * * In the first attempt made by the operator to impress the negative plate with the corporeal reality of the wife and the incorporeal nonsubstantiality of her husband's soul, the physical rays of light only partially acted upon the lens of the camera, and thus only a partial, and hence imperfect impression, was obtained of the material wife, while the spiritual portion of an immaterial husband presented an inchoate blotch over the whole surface of the negative. The cause of this and all the succeeding failures was that "the spiritual rays of light" (whatever they were, or how many there are) "intervened, severally, between the prismatic separation of the physical rays of light." The fact to be here observed, and one that impresses itself upon our most serious attention and investigation, is that we here find an important proof or spiritual influence in the demonstration that the seven prismatic colored rays are mathematically separated from each other, and interfered with by the invisible rays of spiritual light, neither of which possesses any affinity for the others, and that, as it were, influenced by the admixture of these incompatible rays, nothing otherwise—they obeying the laws of affinity—could result than the confusion from the meeting of nonaffinities, and hence the result—the blotched and blurred negatives which were presented in the place of the spirit-likenesses; and hence the complete failure of the photographist to secure with the material wife the immaterial spirit of her defunct husband.

At this interesting critical moment of our expectation, when we had hoped for a psychenomantic demonstration of fact, our patience was trifled with by the spirit's miserable exposition of the "non-affinity of spiritual and physical rays of light" as being "the cause of failure." We were in expectant hope that the spirit had given such explanation that by the aid of spiritual chemistry the camera could have been made available. It did not do so; but no doubt it winked the right eye—if it had one—and as the members of the Bar say, "rested its case."

Mr. Andrew Jackson Davis concluded his discourse upon "this wonderful spiritual phenomenon" with informing his numerous hearers, in answer to a question from me, that, "It yet remained by patient, persistent, untiring investigation to discover what affinities there are that will unite and render practical the important uses of prismatic rays with the invisible spiritual light in the great harmonia:" "that in a brief period of time, he had no doubt that every photograph gallery would be illustrated with spiritual likenesses of the dead, as they are now embellished with portraits of the living."

We have not lived in vain. Progress is progressive. In the dying years of our centennial life we have not been permitted to burst in ignorance, but to expand into a practical, substantial photograph embodiment of the spirit of the dead Centennial. In addition, we possess the occult secret of which the hitherto self-constituted committee of the whole on the mysteries of psychonomancy were ign rant. To Judge Edmonds the spiritualists are indebted. He it was that eliminated the wonderful secret from its dread abode, not by placing the "right" hand upon the Bible and swearing the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, but by merely placing the hand on the camera, and the spiritual will be portrayed in any material beauty that may be desired.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 18, 1876. A. C. CASTLE, M. D.

DR. SLADE AND COL. OLCUTT.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your paper is fearless in exposing fraud and I trust you are equally anxious for justice. As to Dr. Slade, I cannot of course swear that he is always free from trickery, for mediums, like other people, are sometimes honest, and sometimes dishonest, but that he, during hundreds of sittings, has transcended the greatest skill of jugglers, is evident to those who understand the case. I know of four jugglers, two of whom were mentioned by members of the British Association in their late meeting, who have been baffled in trying to account for what they saw in his presence. The simple tricks of Maskelelyne in court are merely some of the least of what hundreds of us have seen in Dr. Slade's presence—and which were done in the presence of such eminent scientists as Wallace, Carpenter, Crookes, and Coxe. Allow me to quote briefly from Col. Olcutt in the last Banner, in which he relates the severe sifting that Slade received before going to England:

"As President of the (Theosophical) Society, I appoint

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

SALES AT THE STOCK EXCHANGE—OCT. 21.

SALES FROM 2 TO 3 P. M.

$10,000 U. S. Cur. 6s.	124	100 Pac. Mail	24¾
50,000 Tenn. 6s, old.	45	200 Michigan Central	47⅝
5,000 Nash. & Chat. 1st.	89	300 do	47¾
2,000 Ill. Cent. R. & L. 8s.	80	400 do	48
10 Manhattan Bk.	130	400 do	48⅛
100 Del. & Hud.	75½	200 Union Pacific	63⅛
100 do	74¾	100 Ohio & Miss.	11⅝
100 do	75	200 St. Louis & I. M.	12
100 Western Union	71⅝	1100 Kan. & Texas.	7⅝
1200 do	71¾	400 do	7¼
100 do	71⅝	200 North-western	41
100 do	71¾	100 do	41¾
100 do	71⅞	100 do	41⅜
100 do	71⅞	100 do	41⅝
1500 do	71⅞	100 do	41⅝
200 N. Y. C. & Hud.	104¾	200 do	41⅞
100 do	104⅝	100 do	42
100 Erie Railway	13¾	100 do	41¾
100 do	13⅝	100 do	41⅞
100 do	13¾	100 North-west. Pref.	63½
100 do	13¾	100 do	63¾
500 do	13⅝	200 do	60
100 do	13⅞	100 St. Paul	30
200 do	13⅝	100 do	29⅞
100 do	13¾	700 do	29⅝
100 do	13¾	300 do	29⅝
100 do	13⅝	300 St. Paul Pref.	61¼
100 Lake Shore	61⅜	200 do	61⅜
200 do	60⅝	500 do	61
1000 do	60⅝	200 do	61
2000 do	60⅛	100 Del., L. & W.	78
200 do	60¼	100 do	78⅛
200 do	60⅜	100 do	78¼
100 do	60⅜	300 do	78⅝
100 do	60⅜	300 do	78½
100 do	60⅜	300 do	78⅝
100 do	60⅜	100 do	78¾
200 do	60⅝	100 do	78¼
100 do	60⅝	100 do	77⅞
100 do	60⅝	600 do	78

MONDAY, Oct. 23—A. M.

The statement of the Associated Banks, issued from the Clearing-house on Saturday last, shows a decrease of $1,929,300 in legal tenders, the result of continued remittances to the interior to facilitate the movement of the crops to the seaboard. The other changes are a decrease of $325,600 in loans, $730,700 in specie, $707,700 in deposits, and an increase of $111,900 in circulation. The movement for the week results in a loss of $2,483,075 in surplus reserve, and the banks now hold $11,052,-50 in excess of legal requirements.

The following shows the condition of the banks on Saturday last, compared with the previous statement, and with the statement for the corresponding week last year:

	Oct. 14.	Oct. 21.	Oct. 23, 1875.
Loans	$262,794,300	$261,968,700	$280,534,700
Specie	18,347,300	17,616,600	6,406,600
Legal Tenders	50,669,500	43,740,200	54,702,900
Deposits	231,925,900	231,218,200	233,471,700
Circulation	14,724,800	14,836,700	17,816,200

The money market was easy, notwithstanding the liberal shipments of currency to move the crops, and Stock Exchange borrowers supplied their wants at 2 to 4 ₱ cent., except on Wednesday afternoon, when the rates ran up to 6@7 ₱ cent. The banks and trust companies have marked up their rates to 5@6 ₱ cent., which are the ruling rates for discounts of prime mercantile paper.

The foreign advices were unusually imporant, and had a marked influence on the home markets. The critical aspect of the Eastern question early in the week had a depressing influence on the London market and on the Continental Bourses, but at the close a much steadier feeling prevailed, and there was some recovery in securities. Consols fell off nearly ½ ₱ cent.—to 93⅞@94—and closed at 94⅛. United States Bonds declined ⅛ to 1¼ ₱ cent., but closed at a partial recovery. As compared with the previous Saturday, 1867s and 10-40s closed at a decline of ⅛ ₱ cent. and new 5s ⅜ ₱ cent. lower, old 1865s being unchanged. Erie advanced 1⅛ ₱ cent., reaching 11, and closed at 10¼. The Bank of England lost £738,000 sterling for the week ending Wednesday, and on Saturday £80,000 was reported as withdrawn on balance. The bank rate continues at 2 ₱ cent., and three months' discounts in the open market are about one ₱ cent. lower. At Paris Rentes declined from 106f. to 103f. 20c., closing at 104f. 40c.

The sterling exchange market was quiet early in the week, but rates were advanced on the European news from $4 83½ to $4 84½ for bankers' sixty-day bills, and from $4 85 to $4 86¼ for demand. Subsequently a reduction to $4 83¼ and $4 85½ took place, and at the close prime bankers' bills sold as low as $4 82½@$4 82¾ and $4 84½@$4 84¾. The late weakness in the market was caused by an increased supply of bills drawn against shipments of produce to Europe.

Gold advanced from 109⅛ to 113¼ on the war news from Europe, the highest price having been made on Wednesday, when great excitement prevailed. This advance brought out considerable amounts of "long" gold, and with the weakness of exchange, the recovery in securities at London, the imports of specie, and the active movement of grain from the West to the seaboard, the price declined steadily to 109⅞, the recovery at the close being only ¼ ₱ cent. Cash gold loaned up to 1-16 ₱ cent. per diem for use on Wednesday, after which the demand fell off, and at the close loans were made flat to 2 ₱ cent. interest for carrying.

Government bonds were strong and higher in the early dealings, but afterward declined. Business was restricted in consequence of the unsettled market for gold and the changes in securities at London. The demand was rather more active at the close. In railroad mortgages business was fairly active, and late in the week some of the Western issues advanced, on reports of increased earnings. State bonds have presented no feature of interest.

The speculation in the railway and miscellaneous share list was characized by buoyancy, and afforded unmistakable evidence that the majority of opetators entertained confidence in the future of values. The market was favorably influenced by the warlike character of the European dispatches, and the reports as to the unprecedentedly large freight business of the Western railroads. Another cause which contributed to the advance in prices was the probability of an early termination of the railroad war growing out of the negotiations between the representatives of the leading trunk lines. Among the most cheering signs of the general situation was the large number of orders received by brokers during the week from country clients, as this indicates that the outside public who have long been absentees from Wall street have been tempted to make investments by the exceedingly low prices of stocks and by the belief in a prosperous future, created by the revival in business.

COURSE OF MARKET—THE WEEK.

	Highest.	Lowest.	Closing Saturday Oct. 23, 7P. M.
American gold	113¼	109⅛	109⅞
United States 5s, '81, coup.	115¼	114¼	114⅝
United States 5-20s, '67, C.	116¼	115¼	115½
New-York Central	105½	100½	104⅝
Rock Island	102⅜	101¼	104
Pacific Mail	25⅜	24¼	24¾
Milwaukee and St. Paul	31	28¼	29⅞
Milwaukee & St. Paul Pf.	61⅞	58⅜	62⅜
Lake Shore	61⅜	55¾	59⅞
Chicago & North-west	42	36⅜	37½
Chicago & North-west Pf.	64⅜	60¾	51½
Western Union	72⅜	70½	71⅛
Ohio & Mississippi	11⅝	10⅝	11⅛
Del., Lack. & Western	81⅞	71	118⅜
New-Jersey Central	39¼	37⅜	105¾
Del. & Hud. Canal	82½	66¼	120¼
Morris & Essex	95¼	94⅜	102⅜
Panama	127	127	130
Erie Railway	11¾	10⅞	11½
Ohio & Mississippi	12	10½	16⅜
C., C. & Ind. Central	4	4	4⅞
Harlem	135¼	135	137
Hannibal & St. Joseph	14½	13¼	19½
Hannibal & St. Jo. Pref.	26	24½	22½
Michigan Central	48⅛	44	60¼
Illinois Central	93¾	90	93¾
Missouri Pacific	4	3⅛	8⅞

RANGE OF PRICES AND CLOSING QUOTATIONS—OCT. 21.

	Highest.	Lowest.	Closing—Bid.	Asked.
New-York Central	104⅜	104½	104⅜	104⅝
Harlem			135	137
Erie	11⅜	10⅞	11⅛	11⅜
Erie preferred			22
Lake Shore	61	60⅜	60½	60⅝
Wabash	5⅞	5⅝	5⅞	6
North-western	42	40	41⅝	41⅞

	Highest.	Lowest.	Closing—Bid.	Asked.
North-western Pref.	64⅛	63¼	64	64¼
Rock Island	102½	102¼	102¼	102½
Fort Wayne			101	101½
Milwaukee & St. Paul	30½	29⅝	29½	29⅝
Mil. & St. Paul Pref.	61⅝	61	60⅞	61
Pittsburg			89	89½
Del., Lack. & Western	78⅝	77¼	78	78¼
New-Jersey Central	37⅝	37¼	37¼	37¾
Del. & Hudson Canal	76	74	74½	75
Morris & Essex			94¾	95¾
Michigan Central	48⅛	47¼	48	48¼
Illinois Central			84	85
Union Pacific	63½	63½	63	64
C., C. & Ind Central	4	4	3¾	4⅛
Han. & St. Joseph	14½	14	14½	15
Han. & St. Joseph Pf.	26	25½	23¾	26
Ohio & Mississippi	11⅝	10¾	11⅜	11¾
Panama	127	127	..	130
Western Union	71⅞	70⅞	71⅞	72
Atl. & Pac. Tel.			16	16¼
Pacific Mail	24¾	24⅝	24⅝	24¾
Quicksilver			12	13
Quicksilver Pref.			16	19½
Adams Express	109¼	109¼	108	109
Wells, Fargo & Co.			85¼	86
Am. Mer. Union Ex.			61	62½
United States Ex.			61	62½

The following are the returns of the foreign commerce of the Port of New-York, and the operations of the United States Sub-Treasury here for the week ending Saturday last and since the beginning of the year, compared with the return for the corresponding periods of last year:

IMPORTS OF DRY GOODS AND GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Week ending last Saturday	$3,786,140
Corresponding week last year	3,876,055
Since Jan. 1 this year	264,727,529
Corresponding period last year	271,945,981
Gold, Oct. 21, 1876	110
Gold, Oct. 23, 1875	114⅜

EXPORTS OF DOMESTIC PRODUCE.

Week ending last Tuesday	$6,137,981
Corresponding week last year	5,460,234
Since Jan. 1 this year	213,994,210
Corresponding period last year	201,618,541

EXPORTS OF GOLD AND SILVER.

Week ending last Saturday	$13,009
Corresponding week last year	226,550
Since Jan. 1 this year	40,404,431
Corresponding period last year	64,166,263

RECEIPTS FOR CUSTOMS.

Week ending last Saturday	$1,780,666
Corresponding week last year	2,141,776
Since Jan. 1, this year	83,914,564
Corresponding period last year	93,656,276

GOLD INTEREST PAID OUT BY THE SUB-TREASURY.

Week ending last Saturday	$79,751
Corresponding week last year	71,278
Since Jan. 1, this year	52,435,230
Corresponding period last year	44,902,514

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Oct. 21, 1876.

The receipts of the principal kinds of Produce since our last have been as follows:

Ashes, pkls	11	Resin, bbls	220
Beans, obls	217	Oil-cake, pks	2,165
Cotton, bales	8,042	Pork, pkls	681
C. S. Cake, bags	300	Beef, pkls	731
Copper, bbls	38	Cut-meats, pks	2,309
Dried Fruit, pkls	147	Grease, pkls	60
Eggs, bbls	742	Lard, pkls	922
Flour, bbls	13,318	Lard, kegs	300
Wheat, bushels	32,400	Butter, pkls	2,883
Corn, bushels	23,211	Cheese, pkls	3,386
Oats, bushels	38,578	Tallow, pkls	193
Rye, bushels	3,200	Dressed Hogs, No	18
Malt, bushels	7,650	Quicksilver, flasks	104
Barley, bushels	30,611	Lead, pkls	87
Peas, bushels	10,000	M. Seed, bags	217
Grass-seed, bags	1,764	Starch, pkls	1,175
Flax-seed, bags	550	Skins, bales	9
Oat-meal, bbls	10	Tow, bales	60
Hops, bales	472	Tea, half-chests	3,578
Leather, sides	1,084	Tobacco, hhds	187
Lead, pigs	275	Tobacco, bxs. & cs.	779
Spirits Turp., bbls.	389	Whisky, bbls	263
Crude Turp., bbls.	75	Wool, bales	612
Tar, bbls	100

COFFEE—Held firmly, but very quiet.

COTTON—Has been moderately active for early delivery at a reduction of 1-16c. ₱ lb.....Ordinary quoted at 8 15-16c.; Low Middling 10 5-16c. @10 9-16c.; Middling, 10⅞c. @11 1-16c.....Sales were officially reported for prompt delivery of 2,470 bales, of which 1,404 bales were on last evening, including 462 bales to shippers, 743 bales to spinners, and 1,200 bales to speculators. And for forward delivery, business has been very light at unchanged quotations.....Sales have been reported since our last of 8,000 bales, of which 1,300 bales were on last evening and 6,700 bales to-day, with 300 bales on the calls, on the basis of Middling, with October cottons closing at 10 27-32c. @10⅞c.; November, 10 29-32c. @10 15-16c.; December, 11⅛c. @11 5-32c. January, 11 11-32c. @11⅜c.; February, 11 9-16c. @11 19-32c.; March, 11 23-32c.; April, 11 31-32c. @12c.; May, 12c. @12 1-16c.; June, 12 11-32c. @12 ⅜c.; July, 12⅝c. @12 17-32c.; August, 12 19-32c. @12⅝c. ₱ lb., showing a decline of 1-32c. @1-16c. ₱ lb., closing easy.....The receipts at this port today were 8,402 bales, and at the shipping ports 26,288 bales, against 19,781 bales same day last week.....The week's exports hence have been 10,823 bales, including 8,295 bales to Liverpool. 839 bales to Havre, 450 bales to Rotterdam, 289 bales to Hamburg, and 950 bales to Bremen.....The exports from all the ports since Sept. 1 have been 187,684 bales, (of which 124,284 bales were sent to British ports, and 63,300 bales to the Continent.)

Closing Prices of Cotton in New-York.

New Cotton.	Uplands.	Alabama.	N. O.		Texas.
Ordinary	8	8 1-16	8	8 1-16	8	8 1-16
Strict Ordinary	9	9 1-16	9	9 1-16	9	9 1-16
Good Ordinary	9	9 13-16	9	9 13-16	9	9 13-16
Strict Good Ord.	10	1-16	10	1-16	10	3-16
Low Middling	10	5-16	10	7-16	10	9-16
Strict Low Mid.	10	9-16	10	11-16	10	13-16
Middling	10	13-16	11	1-16	11	1-16
Good Middling	11	1-16	11	3-16	11	5-16
Strict Good Mid.	11	5-16	11	7-16	11	9-16
Middling Fair	11	11-16	11	13-16	11	15-16
Fair	12	7-16	12	9-16	12	11-16

Stained.

Good Ordinary	8	11-16	Low Middling	9	11-16
Strict Good Ord.	9	5-16	Middling	10	3-16

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western Flour was dull and heavy, nearly through the list, business having been mostly in a jobbing way at irregular and, in some cases, according to Messrs. Pickard & Andreson, 13,000 Dry Buenos Ayres for Europe, 21½ to 22¼ lb., private terms; 29,610 Dry Montevideo, parts to arrive, 20½ to 21¼ lb., at 20c.; 2,335 Dry Rio Grande, to arrive, 21 lb., at 19½c., gold, 4 months, usual selection; 3,130 Dry California, part to arrive, 22 to 24 lb., part at 19c., gold, 30 days, usual selection; 1,200 Dry California Kips, 10 to 12 lb., private terms; 24,960 Dry Central American, 20 to 23 lb., at 17c @17½c., gold, 60 days' selection; 3,700 Dry Bogota, 21 to 22 lb.; 4,065 Dry Mexican, 20 to 24 lb.; 1,305 Dry Ecuador, 21 lb.; 370 Dry Payta, 24 to 26 lb.; 3,440 Dry Texas, 21 to 24 lb.; 1,355 Dry Texas Kips, 10 lb.; 2,000 Wet-salted California, 25 to 50 lb.; 3,510 Wet-salted Texas, New-Orleans, &c., 50 to 60 lb.; 2,200 City Slaughter, 70 lb., and 294 bales Calcutta Buffalo, 21 to 22 lb., all on private terms. And to-day, 135 Honduras and 625 Country Slaughter, on private terms.....Stock in first hands to-day 50,000 Hides and 279 bales on, against 225,000 Hides and 2,013 bales do. same time last year.

MOLASSES—Quoted nominally as before but very dull.

HIDES—Have been in fair demand, in a jobbing way, on the steady basis of $3 10 for common Fence and Sloughing, and $4 @$5 25 for Orinoco, ₱ kg.

NAVAL STORES—Resin has been inactive, quoted on the basis of $1 95@$2 05 for common to good Strained, ₱ 280 lb.....Tar and Pitch as last quoted.....Spirits Turpentine dull, with merchantable, for prompt delivery, quoted at the close weak at 35c. ₱ gallon.

OIL-CAKE—Has been in less request, with Western, in bags, quoted at $30, currency.....Exports for the week, 17,863 pks.

PETROLEUM—Dull throughout.....Crude quoted at 13c., in bulk, and 17c. in shipping order.....Refined generally quoted at 26c., from refiners, and 24c.@24½c. on resales of contracts.....Refined, in cases, quoted at 30c.@31c. for standard.....Naphtha at 14c.....At Philadelphia, Refined Petroleum, for early delivery, quoted at 26c.....At Baltimore, for early delivery, at 26c.

PROVISIONS—Mess Pork has been in fair request for early delivery at rather stronger prices; offerings light.....Sales reported since our last for early delivery, 80 bbls. Western Mess, for shipment, at $16 85, closing at $17 asked.....Other kinds inactive and nominal.....And for forward delivery Western Mess has been in demand; quoted for October $16 85; November at $16; seller the remainder of the year at $16; January, $16@10 25.....Sales, 250 bbls., October option, at $16 85; and 250 bbls., seller the remainder of the year, at $16 90.....Dressed Hogs have been in less demand, and with City quoted at 7c. @8c.....Cut-meats continue to slack request at about previous figures.....Sales include sundry small lots of City bulk within our previous range.....Bacon, sales were made of 100 bxs. Western Long Clear, for next week's delivery, at 9½c.....And for Western delivery, 200 bxs. Long and Short Clear, October delivery, at 8 9-16c.; and 250 bxs. Long and Short Clear, December delivery, at 9¼c., closing 9 3-16c. bxs. Smoked Shoulders and Sweet Pickled Hams have been inactive for early delivery, and quoted lower.....Of Western Steam, for early delivery here, sales reported of 145 tcs. choice new at $10 15, closing with prime old and new wanted at $10 12½.....And 100 tcs., off grade, at $9 87½.....And for forward delivery, Western Steam was much less active; quoted at the close, for October, nominal; November at $9 90; January at $9 90; seller the remainder of the year at $9 87½. And February at $9 90.....Sales have been reported of Western Steam to the amount of 1,250 tcs., seller January, at $9 82½@$9 90, and 1,200 tcs., seller February, at $9 90@$9 95.....City Steam and Refined Lard quoted at $10; sales, 300 tcs. Refined Lard has been in moderate request, quoted for the Continent, on the spot, at $10 62½; October option at $10 62½; November at $10 43¾@$10 50; December and January at $10 25, and the West indies at $9 87½@$10 ₱ cwt.; sales, 100 tcs. for the Continent. October delivery, at $10 62½; 200 tcs., do., November delivery, at $10 43¾@$10 50. 150 tcs. for South America at $11, and 300 tcs. for the West Indies at $9 87½@$10 25.....Beef firm and in rather more request.....In the better qualities of Butter, limited to local trade requirements, a moderate business has been reported at about steady rates. Other kinds have been comparatively dull, and somewhat depressed in price.....We quote State, fair to choice pails, at 28c.@37c.; do., tubs, fair to fancy, at 25c.@33c.; do., Welch tubs, 23c.@32c.; do., firkins and half firkins, fair to fancy, 24c.@33c.; Western firm pails, fair to fancy, at 20c.@24c.; do., tubs, common to strictly choice, 17c.@25c.; do., fair to strictly prime Yellow, in firkins, 18c.@21c.....The general movement in cheese has been quite moderate, and values have been quoted nominal and irregular on other than strictly choice to fancy makes.....We quote State Factory, at from 11¼c.@13¾c. for fine to strictly fancy, the latter an extreme; 9c.@11¼c. for fair to good; 8c.@8½c. for skimmed; and Western Factory at 9c.@12c. for fair to strictly fancy; State, dairy-made, fair to choice, 7c.@12¼c.....Eggs have been in fair demand, and really desirable lots have been quoted firm, having been taken freely with reserve.....We quote fresh Eggs within the range of 23c.@27c. for choice to strictly fancy. The main dealings have been in round lots, of good to choice Western, from 24c.@26c.....Tallow has been in less demand at easier prices; sales, 65,000 lb., prime to choice, quoted at 8⅝c.@8¾c.....Stearine has been inactive, with Western, in tcs., in small lots, quoted at at 11@11 25.....Oleine, do. tcs., sold at 8½c.....The week's exports of tierces have been 768 pks. Pork, 1,336 tcs. Beef, 5,446 bxs. Bacon, 2,325 pks. Lard, 10,982 bxs. Cheese, 2,010 pks. of Butter, (of which were 1,000 pks. to Liverpool, 900 pks. to Glasgow, and 100 pks. to other ports;) also, 1,054 pks. Tallow.

SKINS—Deer have been in some demand at steady rates; receipts, 1,5 bales; sales, 16,000 lb. Central American, 4,000 lb. Sisal, and 1,000 lb. Puerto Cabello on private terms.....Goat in fair request at steady rates; receipts, 274 bales; sales, 280 bales Mexican, 50 bales Payta, and 25 bales Chili on private terms.....We quote Deer thus: Vera Cruz, 30c.; Guatemala, 35c.; Para, 32½c.; St. Jago, 30c.; Puerto Cabello, 26c.; Honduras, 25c.; Maracaibo, 24c.; Coquimbo, 22c.; Mexican, 20c.@22½c. ₱ lb.....And Goat thus: Tampico, 40c.@42½c.; Metamoras, 40c.@42c.; Vera Cruz, 37½c.@42½c., gold; Buenos Ayres, 50c.; Payta, 47c.; Curacoa, selected, 55c.@56c.; do., No. 2, 45c.@46c.; Rio, 45c.

GLUE—Raw in fair demand and firm, on the basis of 9c.@9¼c. for fair to good Refining. Sales, 500 hhds. Muscovado at 8¾c., and 537 hhds. Centrifugal at 9 1-16c. ₱ lb.....Refined firm and wanted.

WHALE-OIL—Still and heavy; quoted nominally at $1 14½@$1 15.

FREIGHTS—A comparatively limited movement was reported in the way of berth freights at easier rates. Grain room quoted nominally as on charter were moderately sought after, mostly for Grain, Petroleum, Tobacco o, and oeals, at about previous figures.....For Liverpool, the engagements reported since our last have been few and small, 40,000 bushels wheat at 5d. ₱ bushel; also, a British bark, 511 tons, with cotton, from Norfolk, reported at equal to 40s. ₱ register ton. (with option of Havre;) an American ship, 1,411 tons, with Cotton, from Savannah, the basis of 40s. ₱ register ton, and a bark, 245 tons, with do. from Charleston, at 35s. 7½d. (with option of the Continent direct at ½d.) ₱ lb.....For London, by sail, 50 hhds. Tobacco at 32s. 6d.....For Glasgow, by sail, 50 pchs. syrup at 27s. 6d., and, by steam, 100 bbls. Sugar on p. terms.....For Bristol, by steam, small lots of Flour at 3s. 6d. ₱ bbl.; 100 tcs. Beef at 8s. ₱ tierce.....For Cardiff, direct, a Norwegian bark, 537 tons, hence, with sundry cargo, 5s. ₱ ton, and, for Newport, a British bark, 517 tons hence, with about 3,000 quarters grain at 5s. 9d. with option of Gloucester, at 5s. 10½d. ₱ quarter.....For Hull, by steam, 48,000 bushels grain, at 3d. ₱ cushel; 50 bbls. Provision and 50 bbls. Sugar on p. terms.....For the east coast of Ireland, direct, a Norwegian bark, 427 tons, with about 2,700 quarters grain, from Baltimore, reported at 6s. ₱ quarter.....For Cork and orders, three British barks, 899, 901 and 1,782 tons, hence, with Grain at 5s. 10½d., a Norwegian bark, 513 tons, with about 3,100 bbls. Naphtha, from Philadelphia, reported at 5s.; a British bark, 447 tons, with about 3,000 bbls. Refined Petroleum, from do., at 5s. @5s. 3d., and a Norwegian bark, with Grain, from Baltimore, reported at 6s. @6s. 3d. ₱ quarter.....For Havre, an American brig, with Tobacco, from Baltimore, reported at 27s. 6d.....For Antwerp, by steam, 5.0 bbls. Flour on private terms, 3,600 bushels Wheat at 9½d. ₱ bushel, and 300 tcs. Lard at 45s. ₱ ton.....For Bremen, by steam, (reported as of recent shipments,) 570 bales Cotton, 13,000 bushels Rye, 800 pks. Provisions, 670 pks. Tobacco, and 750 pks. merchandise, at current rates, and 150 bales Hops, and reported at 8 telchmarks; also, a German bark, with about 4,700 obls. Refined Petroleum, from Baltimore, reported at 4s. 1½d. ₱ bbl.....For Hamburg, by steam, 600 tcs. Lard, at 52 50@52 75 telchmarks; also, a Dutch bark, 400 tons, hence, with sundries, at 3os. ₱ ton.....For Rotterdam, by steam, 16,000 bushels Rye, reported on private terms; also a British bark, with about 3,500 bbls. refined petroleum, from Philadelphia, at 4s. 7½d., with option of another port, at 5s. 1½d. ₱ bbl.....For the German Baltic, a German Bark, 371 tons, hence, with about 2,500 obls. Refined Petroleum, reported at 6s. 9d. ₱ bbl.....For Oporto, a Norwegian brig, 280 tons, with about 18,000 bushels Grain, in shooks, from Wilmington, reported at $5.....For the north-side of Cuba, an American brig, with Lumber, from Pensacola, reported at $13 50, currency.....For Honduras, tonnage for Coal, was in moderate demand, loading here and quoted at $1 50 @$1 70 per ton.

THE COTTON MARKETS.

BUFFALO, Oct. 21.—Receipts—Lake—Flour, 10,597 bbls.; Corn, 238,853 bushels; Wheat, 172,275 bushels; Barley, 14,983 bushels; Rye, 16,000 bushels; Railroads—Flour, 2,600 bbls.; Corn, 9,200 bushels; Wheat, 7,600 bushels; Oats, 24,000 bushels; Barley, 1,600 bushels; Rye, 8,400 bushels. Shipments—Canal to tidewater—Corn, 92,000 bushels; Wheat, 9,451 bushels; Rye, 8,400 bushels; interior points—Corn, 45,054 bushels; Wheat, 11,621 bushels; Oats, 102,000 bbls. and 19,000 bushels; Wheat, 7,600 bushels; Oats, 12,000 bushels; Barley, 800 bushels; Rye, 2,800 bushels. Flour in fair demand; sales, 1,200 bbls.; prices firm and unchanged. Wheat firm and unsettled; sales three cars No. 1 White and Michigan at $1 32; No. 2 Milwaukee held firm at $1 26. Corn quiet and steady; sales, 18,500 bushels No. 2 at 53c.; 2,000 bushels low Mixed Toledo at 54c.; 500 bushels, on track, at 52½c. Oats dull and lower; sales, 2,000 bushels at 35c.; quoted at 35c.@38c. Rye neglected. Barley—Light inquiry; sales, 1 car of Michigan at 55c.; 3,000 bushels Canada, on track, at 80c.@90c. Malt—For trade inquiry; held firm at unchanged prices. Highwines unchanged; light demand. Seeds—Nothing doing. Pork and Lard in good trade demand; prices unchanged. Canal Freights firm; Wheat, 8¼c.; Corn, 7½c.; to New-York, tolls included.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Flour easier; Western Extras, $4 20@$6; Minnesota, $6 25@$7. Wheat active, but lower; No. 2 Chicago Spring, $1 09@$1 10 cash; $1 10⅞ November; $1 12⅞ December; No. 3 Chicago Spring, 98c.@$1 02; rejected, 84c.@92c. Corn unsettled and lower; 43⅜c.@43¾c. cash or November; 44½c. December; 46c. May. Rye easier at 61c.@61½c. Barley heavy at 53c. cash. Pork dull, weak, and lower; $16 37½ cash; $16@$16 05, October; $15 30, all the year. Lard dull, weak, and lower; $9 80, cash; $10 02½, October; $9 85, November; $9 92½@$9 95, all the year. Bulk meats dull and lower; shoulders, 6¾c.; Short Rib Middles, 8½c.; Short Clear Middles, 8¾c. Whisky, $1 10. Freights lower; Corn to Buffalo, 4½c. Railroad freights unchanged. Receipts—Flour, 12,000 bbls.; Wheat, 120,000 bushels; Corn, 24,000 bushels; Oats, 49,000 bushels; Rye, 10,000 bushels; Barley, 51,000 bushels. Shipments—Flour, 12,000 bbls.; Wheat, 5,000 bushels; Corn, 90,000 bushels; Oats, 22,000 bushels; Barley, 15,000 bushels.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—Flour quiet; buyers and sellers apart; little done. Wheat dull and lower; No. 2 Red Fall, $1 24 bid, cash; No. 3 do. do., $1 14@$1 14½, cash; $1 14¾, October; $1 15, November. Corn unsettled and lower; No. 2 Mixed, 41¾c.@41¾c., cash; 41¼c. November. Oats dull, lower to mixed; No. 2 at 33½c. bid, cash and November. Rye dull at 59c. Barley steady and unchanged. Whisky steady and unchanged. Pork dull and unchanged; $15 75 bid, cash and nominal; Summer, $16 50@$16 75. Bulk-meats inactive and lower; packed lots of new Shoulders, 7c.@7¾c.; Clear Rib Sides, 8½c.; Clear Sides, 8¾c.; old, 9c.@9¼c. higher. Bacon irregular, unsettled and lower; Shoulders, 7¾c.@7¾c.; Clear Rib Sides, 9⅛c.@9⅜c.; Clear Sides, 9½c.@9¾c. Hogs dull and lower; Yorkers, $5 25@$5 45; Bacon, $5 25@$5 50; Philadelphias, $5 65@$5 75. Cattle dull and unchanged; little doing. Receipts—Flour, 4,900 bbls.; Wheat, 59,000 bushels; Corn, 40,000 bushels; Oats, 22,000 bushels; Rye, 3,000 bushels; Barley, 17,000 bushels; Hogs, 1,100 head; Cattle, 360 head.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21.—Flour firm and unchanged. Wheat steady, with fair demand; Red, $1 15@$1 25. Corn quiet, but steady at 47c.@48c. Oats quiet and unchanged. Rye inactive at 68c. Barley steady for choice at $1 10@$1 15; low grades in excessive supply and neglected. Pork quiet; jobbing at $16 75@$17. Lard steady; Steam rendered, 10½c.; Kettle, 10½c.@10¾c.; the stock of contract lard is estimated at 500 tierces. Bulk-meats steady, with fair demand; Shoulders, 7c.@7½c.; Clear Rib Sides, 8¾c.@8¾c.; Clear Sides, 8¾c.@9¾c. Bacon steady, with a fair demand; Shoulders, 7½c.@7¾c.; Clear Rib Sides, 9¼c.@9¾c.; Clear Sides, 9¾c.@10c. Whisky in good demand at full prices at $1 10. Butter quiet; jobbing at 16@17c. Eggs steady at 21c. Sugar-cured Hams quiet and steadier; common high at 9½@9 15; sale to good light, $5 20@$5 40; do. heavy, $5 15@$5 50; receipts, 1,038 head; shipments, 1,712 head.

TOLEDO, Oct. 21.—Flour steady. Wheat dull; No. 3 White Wabash, $1 19; No. 1 White Michigan, $1 23; Extra do. do., November, $1 28; Amber Michigan, spot, $1 21@$1 21½; No. 2 Amber Michigan, $1 14; No. 2 Red Fall, spot, $1 19½; November, $1 21; No. 3 Red Fall, $1 13; No. 2 Amber Illinois, $1 24. Corn quiet; High Mixed, 50c.; Low Mixed, 49½c.; No. 2, November, 44¾c.; no grade, 48½c.; New, 47c.; damaged, 46½c.; New do., 46c. Oats dull; No. 2 as 33c. bid; White, 38½c.; Michigan, 34c.; rejected, 27c. Receipts—Flour, 500 bbls.; Wheat, 24,000 bushels; Corn, 37,000 bushels; Oats, 4,000 bushels. Shipments—Flour, 2,000 bbls.; Wheat, 17,000 bushels; Corn, 50,000 bushels; Oats, 7,000 bushels.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21.—Flour steady, with a fair demand. Wheat opened unsettled at 1c. lower; closed firm; No. 1 Milwaukee, $1 16; No. 2 do., $1 12½; November, $1 13⅜; December, $1 14½; No. 3 Milwaukee, $1 06. Corn scarce, nominally firm; No. 2 at 46c. Oats quiet, but steady; No. 2 at 32c. Rye nominally steady; No. 1, 63c. Barley quiet, but steady; No. 2 Spring, $1 05½; October, 85½c.; 86c. November; No. 3 Spring, 48½c. Provisions quiet, and a shade easier. Mess Pork, $16, cash. Prime Lard, 10⅜c. Freights quiet, but steady; Wheat to Buffalo, 5c.@5½c.; to Oswego, 9½c. Receipts—Flour, 10,000 bbls.; Wheat, 100,000 bushels. Shipments—Flour, 6,000 bbls.; Wheat, 68,000 bushels.

OSWEGO, Oct. 21.—Flour unchanged; sales, 2,000 bbls. Wheat firm; No. 2 Michigan Club, $1 28; No. 1 White Michigan, $1 38@$1 40. Corn firm; Western Mixed, 59c.@60c. Barley steady; sales, 5,000 bushels No. 1 Canada at $1 10; 6,500 bushels No. 3, above grade, at $1 04; 9,000 bushels sample at $1 09; 10,000 bushels do. at $1 12. Corn-meal unchanged. Millfeed unchanged. Canal Freights unchanged. Lake receipts—Wheat, 13,000 bushels; Barley, 34,000 bush. Shipments—Wheat, 5,000 bushels; Barley, 34,300 bushels; Lumber, 698,000 feet. Railroad shipments—Flour, 1,900 bbls

The New York Times.

NEW-YORK, MONDAY, OCT. 23, 1876.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEN. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

WILLIAM A. WHEELER,

OF NEW-YORK.

AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Life—Mr. C. F. Coghlan, Mr. James Lewis, Mr. Charles Fisher, Miss Amy Fawcitt, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Forbidden Fruit—Mr. J. Montague, Mr. Harry Beckett, Miss Ada Dyas, Miss Effie Germon.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—Baba—Mr. W. A. Crane, Mr. V. Bowers, Miss Eliza Weathersby, Miss Minnelli.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.—Sardanapalus—Mr. F. C. Bangs, Mrs. Agnes Booth, grand ballet and chorus.

UNION SQUARE THEATRE—The Two Orphans—Mr. C. Thorne, Jr., Mr. J. O'Neill, Miss Kate Claxton.

NEW-YORK AQUARIUM.—Rare and Curious Fish and Mammalia, Statuary, &c.

STEINWAY HALL.—Grand Concert—Mme. E. Pappenheim, Mr. S. E. Jacobsohn, and Theodore Thomas' orchestra.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—La Jolie Parfumeuse (Opera Bouffe)—Mlle. Marie Aimée.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN.—Exhibition of Paintings. Day and evening.

GILMORE'S GARDEN.—P. T. Barnum's Museum, Circus, and Menagerie.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.—Dramatic Performance—Curiosities—Afternoon and evening.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE HALL—Annual Exhibition of Art, Science, and Mechanics.

EAGLE THEATRE—Minstrelsy, Comedy, Burlesque.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Grand Novelty and Variety Entertainment.

PARK THEATRE.—Sweet Hearts and Tom Cobb.

KELLY & LEON'S HALL.—Minstrelsy and Comicalities.

THEATRE COMIQUE. — Variety Entertainment. — Messrs. Harrigan and Hart.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS—Minstrelsy, Farces, and Negro Comicalities.

CHICKERING HALL.—Lecture by Mr. T. Tilton, "The Master Motives."

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES is the best family paper published; it contains the latest news and correspondence. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and may be safely admitted to every domestic circle. The disgraceful announcements of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

Postage will be prepaid by the Publishers on all Editions of THE TIMES sent to Subscribers in the United States.

The Daily Times, per annum, including the Sunday Edition.....$12
The Daily Times, per annum, exclusive of the Sunday Edition.....10
The Sunday Edition, per annum.....2
The Semi-Weekly Times, per annum.....3
The Weekly Times, per annum.....2

CLUB RATES OF THE WEEKLY.

Five Copies (per annum).....$7 50
Ten Copies (per annum).....12 50
Twenty Copies (per annum).....22 00
Thirty Copies (per annum).....30 00

And One Extra Copy to Each Club.

For every club of fifty, one copy of THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES to the getter-up of the club.

CLUB RATES OF THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES.

Two copies, one year.....$5
Ten copies, one year, (and one extra copy free).....25

New names may be added to clubs at any time during the year at club rates.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY and WEEKLY mailed one year to clergymen at the lowest rates.

These prices are invariable. We have no traveling agents. Remit in drafts on New-York or Post Office Money Orders, if possible, and where neither of these can be procured send the money in a registered letter.

Terms, cash in advance.

Address THE NEW-YORK TIMES, New-York City

NOTICE.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot, under any circumstances, return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

This is the last day on which voters in Brooklyn can register. Any one who is not registered when the offices close this evening at 11 o'clock, will be unable to vote. It will be of no avail that the name has been previously registered, or that the voter voted at the last election. The boards of registry are not allowed to copy names from previous records, or to register an application by letter or by proxy. There is absolutely only one way to secure a vote. That is to attend in person and have the name registered. The offices are opened from 8 A. M. to 11 A. M. and from 4 P. M. to 11 P. M.

There is no doubt that an extensive system of frauds in the issue of naturalization papers has been going on for some time in this City. The object is, of course, plain enough. It is to overcome the honest vote of the State, with the expectation of giving the electoral vote to Mr. TILDEN. Nothing equal to it, either in extent or in the ingenuity of its details, or the thoroughness with which the work has been systematized, has been known in this State since 1868. The Democrats here are desperate. They know that TILDEN cannot possibly win without New-York, and may even be beaten with it. They are, therefore, prepared to go to great lengths to carry "TILDEN'S home." But we believe that they will not succeed. A number of arrests have already been made of persons engaged in this fraud, and many more and more important may be looked for in the course of a few days. Prompt and vigorous action regarding this matter will defeat the plot of the Democratic leaders. If our Republican friends in the interior of the State do their whole duty, we think we can promise that their efforts shall not be made vain by frauds on the suffrage in this City.

The tragic story of suffering and death in the Arctic regions which is told by the survivors of the American whaling fleet forms another chapter of the perils of the cruel sea. In July and August last, when the whole of the continent below 60° north latitude was prostrated with uncommon heat, the crews of fifteen ships were fast locked in the ice off the northern coast of Alaska. Of these ships, one was crushed by the ice on the 7th of July. The others passed around to the east of Point Barrow, which is the most northerly headland of Alaska, in about 72° north latitude. Here they were engaged in taking whales, when, during the latter part of August, the ice-pack closed in upon them. Two of the vessels had escaped by being worked more to the westward, toward Point Barrow. The others, twelve in number, were surrounded by the ice, so that a Winter in the Arctic, or desertion, seemed the alternative. The latter course was chosen, and parts of the twelve crews were made up into one expedition, and after incredible hardships these reached the main land at Cape Tangent, which is forty or fifty miles east of Point Barrow. Thence to the fixed ships was another toilsome journey. But in this way the survivors came safely off. Twelve ships, with valuable cargoes, and with fifty or sixty men on board, have been abandoned in the ice-fields of the Arctic, to be carried by the drift, or to be crushed in the relentless floes.

A better nomination than that of Hon. S. B. CHITTENDEN in the Third (Brooklyn) District it would be difficult to have made. He has served in Congress during the last two sessions with the utmost fidelity, with credit to himself, and with advantage to the country. In regard to the financial issues of the hour, which are of the greatest importance to his district, containing, as it does, a large proportion of business men, he is not only entirely sound, but peculiarly clear and practical. He has spoken frequently on this subject in the House, and he has always spoken to the point, and has exercised a marked influence—probably no man not more prominent as a politician has exercised more. His good sense, moreover, and his extensive acquaintance throughout the country, have given him a power to affect legislation quite remarkable in a member of no greater experience. There is no doubt that another term he can and will be more useful than he has yet been. It is hardly necessary to speak to Brooklyn people of Mr. CHITTENDEN'S integrity. It is established in a long business career, during which his reputation has been stainless. He is heartily devoted to a practical and thorough reform of the civil service, and will be an active supporter in Congress of the principles laid down in the Republican platform and in Gov. HAYES' letter. During the war Mr. CHITTENDEN gave freely of his money and his time to aid in suppressing the rebellion, and was undoubtedly the foremost supporter of the Union cause in the City which has chosen him as its representative.

The Democrats have made a good deal of noise over the unexpected adhesion of Prof. SUMNER of Yale College to their cause. One would have supposed, to hear them, that this very clever young man represented the learning and wisdom of that venerable institution, just as C. F. ADAMS represents in their eyes the political sagacity and the respectability of the entire Adams family. But the announcement that ex-President WOOLSEY, of Yale, will preside at a Republican meeting in New-Haven shows that the Democracy has not captured all the Liberals in Connecticut. Dr. WOOLSEY has a reputation for sound judgment and candor in public affairs which is recognized in all parts of our country, and his support of the Republican cause at this juncture is significant. It will have a just and extensive influence, not only in his own State, but throughout the Union.

It would appear that the war crisis in Eastern Europe has not yet passed out of the influence of diplomatic negotiations. Two things are now clear enough: No European power will actively support Russia in the forwarding of any of her ulterior designs on Turkey, and Russia is not now averse to resorting to peaceful diplomacy rather than belligerent threats. It turns out that only England supported the Turkish proposition for an armistice lasting until March 15, 1877. As the English proposal for a six weeks' armistice had been previously rejected by Turkey, and is now substantially renewed by Russia, it is easy to see that the latter power had gained a diplomatic advantage for the time being. Should Turkey accept the modified proposal, as presented by Russia, that advantage will be permanent; it will have the prestige of a triumph over England. On the other hand, if Turkey rejects this proposition, Russia will at least be able to say that she has exhausted the arts of diplomacy in an endeavor to preserve the peace. The worst of it is, however, that few people have an abiding faith in the sincerity of Russian diplomacy.

The Republican candidate for Congress in the Dutchess district, in this State, is a gentleman who combines experience with ability and undoubted patriotism. He has been four terms in Congress, and is, therefore, if on that account alone, fitted to serve his constituents more efficiently than a man wholly new to the duties of the position. During the war his fidelity to the country was conspicuous, and he left the Army with the rank of Brevet Major General, having gained a reputation second to that of none of the officers from this State. He is a strong man in his district, and with a vigorous canvass is sure of a handsome majority. His opponent is a comparatively obscure man, who was nominated as a sort of "forlorn hope" by the Democrats. He has no claim whatever on the confidence of the district.

Mr. SMITH ELY, Jr., has written a letter and made an affidavit, both of which are printed in another column, in regard to his vote on one of the resolutions adopted by the Board of Supervisors at its meeting of Dec. 27, 1869. Mr. ELY says that "my [his] name was appended to the bills you quote either by carelessness or malicious design." We presume that Mr. ELY means to say that it was by "carelessness or malicious design" that his name was printed in the official minutes of the Board of Supervisors, as voting for the audit and allowance of certain bills of INGERSOLL, GARVEY, KEYSER, and others, the amounts of which were published in THE TIMES of yesterday. It would help to "clarify" the situation, if Mr. ELY would say whether he voted in the negative on the resolution of Supervisor FOX, which we quoted yesterday, or whether it is his belief that no such resolution was ever presented and passed at all. Mr. ELY has probably in his possession the printed copy of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1869. We shall not press him to explain why he has allowed the alleged misrepresentations of this document to pass unchallenged for seven years. We shall merely request him to state precisely how he voted on all the resolutions to which his name is appended as voting in the affirmative on Nov. 24 and Dec. 27, 1869. As, according to Mr. ELY, no reliance whatever can be placed on the official minutes of the old Board of Supervisors, we should like to hear from Mr. ELY what are the true records of those meetings.

THE MILITARY IN A REPUBLIC.

The Democratic journals and orators have recently been talking a good deal of nonsense about the terrible dangers with which the country is threatened from the abuse of military power. Their alarm is not new. It may be said to be habitual, and even systematic, and it dates from about the time that the Southern States began to make known their plans for the dismemberment of the Union. Previous to that period, and especially when President BUCHANAN was eager to force the fraudulent Lecompton Constitution on the people of Kansas by the abuse of Federal bayonets, the Democrats were by no means so jealous of the military arm. But as soon as the constitutional control of the military passed into Republican hands, and there was a certainty that it would be used to maintain the Union and to compel obedience to the laws in the South, the leaders of the Democracy discovered that their party had always been the special guardians of the integrity of the civil, as opposed to the military, branch of the Government, and that it was their duty to vigilantly criticise the employment of any force greater than that of a Marshal's unarmed posse in the suppression of the rebellion. They became suddenly convinced that the soldiers whom Mr. BUCHANAN could rightfully use to prop a slaveholders' usurpation in a free Territory would become the minions of despotism if used to put down resistance to the United States laws in the South.

A like inconsistency marks their present course. They pretend to see in the fact that the President, in the exercise of his lawful powers and in discharge of a constitutional duty, has sent a few hundred troops to protect the legal Government of South Carolina against domestic violence, evidence that the will of "the people" is to be overridden by force. They are blind to the existence of any other people than the white Democrats, or of any other force than that employed by the Federal commanders. For several months it has been perfectly plain that a formidable plot was on foot to deprive the majority of the voters of South Carolina of that control over the Government which, under any just representative system, belongs to them. This plot was to be carried out by the use of force, and of force at the hands of a military organization very nearly complete in all its parts. The other day, when Republican speakers were expected at Edgefield, in the district where the Hamburg massacre occurred, two thousand men mounted, armed, disciplined, under regularly graded commanders, and proceeding in military form, assembled on a published order, for the purpose of preventing the Republicans from holding their meeting in such peaceful way as should suit them, and as they would have been protected in holding it in any place in the North. When the Republican speakers arrived, the colored people were huddled along the streets, afraid to get together while the Democratic raiders were gathered. At this moment a small force of United States troops—less than one-tenth of the number of the raiders—entered the town and were marched quietly to a retired spot and drawn up under arms, but out of sight. The Republican meeting was held, and though the raiders rode about it and interrupted its speakers with derisive shouts, these had no effect, and did not scatter the audience, as they would have done had not the Federal troops been in the place.

Now, to the mind of the Democratic leaders the spectacle of that gathering of armed whites, under military discipline, in number equaling that of an ordinary brigade in active service, with the avowed purpose of preventing by violence the enjoyment of free speech and peaceful assembly by their opponents, contains nothing shocking or alarming. They can see in it no danger for free institutions, no violation of the rights of the people under a representative government, nothing in the nature of tyranny or the rule of force over law. On the other hand, in the little band of United States soldiers, acting in strict accordance to the law, held in reserve solely to protect peaceful citizens from the assaults of armed violators of the law, they can only see the evidence of an overshadowing despotism. Doubtless, if the affair should occurr in New-York, it would look differently. Democrats are not dead to the duty of the Government in this State to put down lawless violence by lawful force. When the United States troops marched into this City to aid in suppressing the bloody riots of 1863, no decent Democrat regarded the act as other than the proper exercise of a necessary and beneficent power. Yet no candid man who will stop a moment to consider the facts, can fail to see that the violence which vexes South Carolina is far more dangerous to the community in which it exists, and more injurious to the country at large, than the sudden outburst of turbulence which took place in New-York on the enforcement of the draft in 1863. The latter was for the most part unpremeditated, and was the rash and unreasoning revolt of a mass of ignorant people to whom the Government appeared for the moment in the exercise of its harshest power, namely, in compelling military service. But in South Carolina there is a combination to defeat by arms the enforcement of the laws that protect the right of suffrage. This combination, striking at the foundations of all free government, is controlled by the most intelligent and prominent men in the State, and is at once an insurrection and a usurpation. If it is not put down, and a free and full vote insured next month, very serious consequences may ensue. It may be that the election of the President and Vice President shall turn on the vote of the State of South Carolina, and the result in South Carolina depend on the vote of the districts in which the armed "cavalry" of the Hampton party are engaged in determining the election by force. It must be a very prejudiced partisan who fails to see that to prevent such a state of things by the firm use of all the Federal power which is authorized and necessary, is but the simplest possible duty. The Government would be utterly unworthy of itself, and entirely false to the trust imposed on it by the people, if it failed in such a plain and important obligation.

THE WAR PANIC IN EUROPE.

A war panic has certainly begun in the European exchange markets, and the public mind, especially in England, is alarmed and aroused. But all this may well be without sufficient reason. A war between Russia and Turkey does not of necessity mean a war in which all Europe would be engaged. One would think from the tone of the journalistic writers in London that a declaration of war between these two powers would be immediately followed by the attack on, and Russian possession of, Constantinople. But the season is late for any warlike operations in the "Balkan Peninsula"—Winter will soon begin in those bleak mountains. It is doubtful if either Servia or Turkey can move their armies with much freedom after the 1st of November. Then, we all know that the arming and mobilizing the forces of a extensive country cannot be accomplished in a day. To transport a hundred thousand men by railroads, with all their equipments, for thousands of miles, demands time. But, supposing that Russia is well organized, and can move armies as Prussia moved them against France, and that by the 1st of January, next year, she concentrates a hundred and fifty thousand men on the Danube, we are then only at the opening of a long and slow campaign.

Turkey has fought this same battle before. She is by no means a contemptible antagonist. She has held her own before this in the countries of the Danube for months against all the power of the Czar. The Turks fight well in defense. They have many strong places which they can hold, and difficult lines of defense. There would be no possible chance of any sudden march on Constantinople. In fact, the war could hardly open before Spring. This will relieve Europe from the sudden embarrassment of a struggle in which Constantinople must be protected.

It is true that, according to the ancient notions of British policy and the believed necessity of keeping the way to India open, Great Britain could not permit the Turkish capital to be occupied by the Russians. But that ultimate danger is as yet remote. If war does break out, England can wait before being involved in the protection of Constantinople. A fleet and a few corps of men can be sent there in the Spring as easily as now. A war in defense of Turkey would be now in the last degree unpopular in Great Britain. It is true that the recent movement of Russia is a godsend to the Tory leaders. They can summon Parliament now with unperturbed mind. There is no likelihood of any change of Ministry at present. Earl Derby will no doubt act as if the Government might be called upon to protect "the gates of the East." This alone will increase the exchange panic. But even a British fleet in the Bosphorus does not, of course, mean an alliance, offensive and defensive, between Great Britain and Turkey. It may merely mean a warning to the Czar.

The rumors of an approaching alliance between Russia and Italy seem in the highest degree futile. The Liberals of Italy, it is true, have the strongest feelings against the oppression of the Turks upon the Christians, while the followers of the Pope with their usual fatuity, support the Mohammedan, though some of the sufferers are Roman Catholics. The Government of Italy desire to annex Southern Austria or Tyrol. But to obtain these provinces by violence would cost a terrific and expensive struggle, and Italy is poor. It does not seem credible that she would incur such tremendous risks with such doubtful results. France, every one regards as neutral, and as certain to remain neutral. The French press is plainly opposed to Russia and in sympathy with Turkey. Germany is in all probability, in secret alliance with Russia. The family relations of the two Emperors, the political necessity upon BISMARCK to secure an ally on the flank of the Empire, in case of another French war, and the absolute want of interest of Germany in whatever happens on the Danube, together with certain public indications, all make this more than probable. Still, this alliance may mean nothing perilous to the peace of Europe. It may merely pledge the German Empire not to interfere in the projects of Russian ambition.

The point upon which the whole position of affairs turns, is the probable course of Austria. As we have previously said, we do not believe that the Austrian Emperor will be drawn into this new alliance, at least to the extent of war. The press of Vienna of all parties, echoes the cry: "No war! no occupation!" Such a policy would be opposed to all the traditions of the Empire. It would be dangerous both within and without. It would recall to Austrian statesmen that joint occupancy of Holstein, which ended in Sadowa. It might merely be taking the Russian chestnuts from their own fire. It would be an alliance and occupancy very expensive and very perilous. Still, on the other hand, it must be said that Russia, Germany, and Italy may be able to bring an extraordinary pressure to bear upon Austria. They may threaten her Italian, German, and Sclavonic Provinces. Count ANDRASSY may think it safer to occupy European Turkey with the Russians than to incur single-handed the hostility of those three powers.

TILDEN'S ADVERTISING AGENCY.

The Tilden Literary Bureau, in Liberty street, is introducing many novelties into journalism. If the campaign were to last a year or so, we should be able to see just how far a private machine, supplying weak newspapers with what we may call adulterated literature, could replace an honest and independent press. The young men who run the "Bureau" peddle out their watery essays and paragraphs in the serene belief that they are the better part of the press of the country. By a judicious use of the telegraph, they continue to circulate "Munc news" for the benefit of the Democratic candidate. Election returns are suppressed and figures manufactured in Liberty street for the purpose are substituted therefor. In the late State elections, for example, the bureau has particularly distinguished itself. Colorado, we presume, is yet claimed for the Democracy, just as it was up to the time of the Ohio and Indiana elections, though official returns show that the new State went Republican. And a day or two since the "nincompoops" were sending out editorial paragraphs claiming a Democratic majority and nearly all the Congressional districts in Indiana.

Latterly, the Literary Bureau has gone into the advertising business. Like everything else which the Tilden managers undertake, this is not done openly, but in an underhanded and oblique fashion. For example, some of the "New-York letters" which are printed in broadsides and sent out for the consumption of the confiding Democratic editors of the rural districts contain puffs of pianos, sewing-machines, bitters, and local shows, disguised as political allusions. The prospects of the Democratic Party in November are declared to be "as brilliant as" the tone of one of Keyboard & Co.'s celebrated pianos." And one of half a dozen allusions to a New-York show is that "the Republicans cannot win by puffing and blowing, like the white whale in the New-York Aquarium." This sort of thing is found useful in various ways. An apparently good-natured and certainly quite innocent joke is thrown in to add spice to a dull letter, a much-needed fillip is given to the lagging cause of the Democracy, and a pretty penny is made by advertising a non-political concern. If the rural Democratic editor is willing to print the stuff, there is no reason why the Literary Bureau should not pay part of its expenses with this sort of india-rubber advertising, as it is sometimes called. The bureau began business by circulating biographical notices of TILDEN, to be printed as "solid extracts," and paid for by the line at current rates. Before "SHAMMY" was nominated at St. Louis, the press of the country was insidiously permeated with paragraphs and five-line items, sent out along with puffs of balsams and freckle-washes, paid for as advertisements, and designed to keep "the Great Reformer's" name before the people.

In this way TILDEN was nominated. In this way he expects to be elected. It costs money to run such a bureau, however. To be sure, the "nincompoop" variety of intellect, so much derided by the Sun, is not an expensive sort. But paste, scissors, and printer's ink must be paid for at market rates; and no generous man will grudge the amateur journalists of Liberty street the few dollars which they may pick up by india-rubber advertising. It is a pity that TILDEN'S extract of coffee is out of the market now, for the bureau could combine business with personal friendship and politics by occasionally puffing "my brother's extract." A few judicious excerpts from the great Reformer's adulatory letter to Secretary CAMERON, urging an immediate contract for the extract of coffee could be inserted in a New-York letter for general consumption, just as the complimentary notices of Mr. COUP'S white whale and MacStinger's bitters are now. We think we can see a remote and not impossible connection between the tatooed man and that "seamed and furrowed face" of TILDEN, to which Mr. ABRAM HEWITT has so feelingly alluded. The Assyrian spectacle now on the New-York stage could be turned and twisted so as to bring in HANNA'S picture of the sceptred potentates of the Old World engaged in hurling maledictions at TILDEN as the savior of the Republic. And a neat allusion to the Democratic candidate as a ring-breaker would be sure to prepare the way for an equally neat allusion to the saw-dust ring of Jenkins' circus, or the finger-rings of Snifkins, the jeweler.

We look to see a revolution in the art of politics, as well as journalism, if the views of the bureau prevail. Bureau agents are going through the country soliciting advertisements for the Tilden circulars and broadsides. It may be a little too much like quackery to advertise statesmanship and sewing-machines in the same way. But what would you have? Mr. TILDEN is obliged to resort to these small subterfuges in order to keep himself before the people. Let him alone, and he is dead. No honest journalist can object to classing him with the double-back-action hen-roost and the XXX soap.

PHILISTINISM.

Philistinism is a word we do not hear very often on this side of the sea, although we have a good deal of the thing which the word defines. We may not be overrun with it as they are in Germany—whence we get the term; but we have far more than it is pleasant to confront, and we must acknowledge that it is steadily increasing. Philistine (Philister) was first applied by the students of the German universities to the townsmen whom, with the egotism and intolerance of their class, they chose to regard as external and irredeemable barbarians. But the word has come to have a juster and broader significance. It means a common-place, prosaic, pretentious, conceited person, who wishes to palm himself off on his acquaintances for something he is not. He may not be wholly to blame for his ignorance or dullness—nature marks the utility of blockheads by putting them in the majority—but he is to blame for his assumption and invariable habit of empty iteration. The less he has to say the more determined he is to say it, and to say it over and over again until patience itself turns to exasperation. He is also intolerant of the smallest opposition, even of any difference of opinion; for he claims for his narrowness little less than omniscience. Incapable of thinking himself, totally inaccessible to ideas of any sort, he tries to believe—and by dint of persistence he succeeds in believing—that his near and narrow horizon bounds the world.

The Philistine, let us be thankful, is not the typical American. If he had been, we should not yet have outgrown our swaddling-clothes; we should still have been debating what we might do, instead of doing what we could. He cannot be a leader; he hates and tradnces leaders. His forte is in staying at the rear, and pulling back until events drag him along, and then he tells in scattering platitudes how he has shaped events. He is not even a consistent conservative. He denounces radicalism until radicalism wins, when, for the time, he plays the radical, and is inwardly recalcitrant. His pretense and conceit make him false to the few dim convictions which he owns. He is unwilling to have it thought that things can go on without his co-operation, and as everything goes on except himself, he is compelled to be untruthful for the sake of appearances.

The Philistine is always wise after the fact. Though generally wrong, he has a weakness for being thought right. He is full of prophecies which are never verified; but when they are not, he wonders that anybody could have made them. He recalls the fiction that he foretold exactly the opposite, and every man of experience and acute discernment, he adds, ought to have known that he could not have been mistaken. Usually he takes a dolorous view of affairs, and intimates that, while other countries are singularly prosperous, this Republic is gravitating rapidly toward Satan. The great want is in proper counselors and directors of the nation, (the whole tenor of his discourse shows clearly enough who is, in his mind, the properest man,) and in the incapacity of such as it has to interpret the signs of the times. When he rises to this height of assertion he is something of a Goliath in speech, though an idea is the stone in the sling of any David which shall bring him to the ground.

There are different degrees of Philistines; for there is nothing so small that has not its smaller. Some of them look up to others who possess the force of inertia, the permanence of stagnation, the influence of vapidity. It is a curious sight to see a pigmy marshaling the dwarfs, and heaping platitudes on emptiness. There is no elevation; but there is a vast spreading which, with all its thinness, has the power of obstructing the diffusion of ideas, and the growth of individuality.

We have Philistines in politics—nowhere so many—in office, in literature, in the professions, in business, in society, in the family. Their badges differ, though they are essentially the same. They are every one pretenders, shallow, vain, pompous, thick-skinned. They have the audacity of unintelligence, and the density of perception, which debars them from seeing their own ridiculousness. In politics, they harangue their listeners to flight or to slumber; in office, they clog the wheels of affairs, and exhaust resignation; in literature, their oracles are self-evident; the professions they turn to satire; in business, they occupy one's time, and charge for it in the bill; in society, they attitudinize and bore; in the family, they profit by their position to repel their wives and disgust their children. They represent the mankind who, CATO said, was created for the laughter of the gods. The greatest men feel their littleness painfully; the Philistines, who are the least of men, feel only their greatness. They are the bloated beings who feel tempted to doff their hats when their name is mentioned; who might greet the sun by taking out their watches and saying, "I see you are punctual."

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

While the nation was struggling in the throes of civil war, and needed every dollar that could be raised, Mr. Tilden was defrauding it by swearing to false returns, and publicly predicting that the war was a failure.

William B. Ogden, a business partner of Mr. Tilden, stated in 1862 that the income of Mr. Tilden from retaining fees alone was at least $60,000 per year. Yet at this time the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency was making oath that his income did not exceed $7,113, and cheating the Government out of the taxes due from him.

In 1862 the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, in order to escape paying his taxes, swore that his income was only $7,113. In 1876, as defendant in a suit brought to recover moneys unjustly retained by him, he swears that in 1862 he received for his services to a single railroad company $20,000. Which of these two oaths is true?

Some of the canal measures which Gov. Tilden has inveighed against most vigorously in his "Canal Messages," were passed by the Legislature while he was a member of it. Here was an opportunity to begin the work of reform, but he sat silent. The Assembly record shows that he did not vote against a single one of the many jobs which he has since declared were fraudulent, and caused legal proceedings to be instituted against the men who did the work.

While the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency was helping by the "diffusion of correct political information," to overthrow his country, Gov. Hayes was on the Southern fields, doing his duty faithfully as a soldier to save it.

Tweed and Tilden were political associates and co-workers during all the years that the Ring was robbing the City of New-York. When Tweed was already far on the road to the Penitentiary, Tilden came in to give him another kick toward it, and now claims that he was the man who smashed the Ring. The "great reformer" refused to attend the meeting at Cooper Institute at which the campaign against Tammany was opened. The "modern Hercules" was waiting to see "how the cat jumped" before he stepped into the arena.

When the great Union meeting was held in Union square in 1861, the Democratic candidate refused to attend it, as he "had no sympathy with its object." When the great reform meeting was held at Cooper Institute in 1871, to open the warfare upon Tweed, the same gentleman refused to attend it, as he "had no sympathy with its object." When Tweed and his gang had been overthrown, Mr. Tilden then stepped forth as the "great reformer," and became the foremost of the crows who were kicking the late "Boss" down hill.

When Mr. Tilden was charged with perjury and fraud in making his income tax return, his confidential clerk attempted to show that there were errors in THE TIMES' statement of his annual income. This might be, but it is no answer to the main charge. Mr. Tilden's friends say they have been preparing a complete vindication of the Democratic candidate. Why is it not published, and why does not Mr. Tilden deny the charges himself? He is shown to have sworn that his income was not one-tenth of what it really was. Why does he not reply to this charge, instead of setting his friends to quibbling about items?

It rests with New-York to say whether the lost cause shall be made the victorious cause, whether the South shall gain through the forms of an election what it failed to gain by arms. Now, as in 1861, the prize fought for is the possession of the nation's capital and its Government. Had Lee defeated Meade at Gettysburg, the party of State sovereignty in arms would promptly have captured both. Should Tilden defeat Hayes, the State supremacy party would gain control of the seat of Government and the machinery of Government. The result in each case would be the same—the subjugation of the Union to the Confederacy, making the armed and unarmed enemies of the Republic the masters of its scarred defenders.

The too loudly vaunted "solid South," suggests as the agent to meet and vanquish it, a "solid North." If it is a good thing to stand by your State in the section solidified by shot-guns, it is equally good to stand solid in a section solidified by the persuasive argument of self-preservation. If that half of the Republic lately solidified by slavery, is to vote as a unit to gain ascendency, the other half must vote unitedly to maintain ascendency. If the doctrines of Calhoun are supported by the solid vote of secessionists the doctrines of Washington and Webster must be supported by the united vote of Unionists. If the "solid South" votes that a State is supreme, a solid North will decide that the nation is supreme.

Compare the bogus "reform" of Tilden with the solid work of Bristow. Tilden made an immense clamor about canal reform, has traded on it for three years, and the total outcome is one man convicted, three suits brought, no money recovered to the State, but over one hundred thousand dollars spent for investigating commissions and lawyer's fees. Secretary Bristow made his preparations quietly, and in a few months had secured indictments of 170 men, the conviction of 133, caused twelve others to fly the country, recovered over half a million dollars, and had suits pending for the recovery of three times that amount. The whole of this work was done at a cost of only $25,000. Such is the difference between Tilden reform and the genuine article.

What his "umbleness" was to Uriah Heep, so his "reform" is to Mr. Tilden. He has always traded upon it. In a speech delivered at Syracuse just previous to the St. Louis Convention that sturdy Democrat, ex-Speaker McGuire, warned his hearers not to be misled as to Mr. Tilden's real purposes by his incessant talk about "reform." It was simply self-seeking under a guise of disinterestedness. "In this hall, and on this same platform," said the ex-Speaker, "I have seen the man stand up, when Tweed and Sweeny and all the others of the Ring occupied chairs behind him, and heard him talk about 'reform,' the purity of the ballot-box, honesty in administration, and the rest of it, just as he does now. He is not talking any 'reform' now that I have not heard him talk time, and time again, with Tweed beside him, on this very platform. He stood by Tweed until he saw it was time to help kick him into the Penitentiary, and now he is again talking the same old things about 'reform' which we heard before. I tell you this man Tilden is not to be trusted. He is the most treacherous man I have ever known in politics. All his 'reform,' you will find, is simply self-seeking."

It would be a curious commentary on the honesty of the nation to have in the Presidential chair a man who achieved notoriety as the author of the famous Credit Mobilier law. Mr. Tilden, as shown by the evidence given before the Investigating Committee, was the man who drew up that scheme, and he was handsomely paid for it by the parties in interest. They desired to evade the provisions of statutes which had been enacted to prevent fraudulent practices in the building of the Union Pacific Railroad. They applied to Mr. Tilden. The now candidate for the office of Chief Magistrate of the nation drew up a plan by which these laws were rendered nugatory and the safeguards so carefully set up were as skillfully evaded. By this means the way was open for all those frauds which finally brought ruin to so many and disgrace to the nation. Mr. Tilden was safe in his obscurity. He was not then a candidate for the Presidency, nor had any thought of ever becoming one. He could pocket his fees for drawing up schemes of fraud as safely as the amounts saved by making out false income returns. But what is done in the darkness shall be shown in the light, and when the great champion of reform is recognized as the man who in former years made money by enabling other men to defraud the Government and saved it by doing the same himself, he is likely to find that in the long run perjury and fraud do not pay as well as they might appear to. The man who aspires to the highest office in the gift of the nation should be able to appear in some other light than as the author of an elaborate scheme of fraud which brought disgrace upon the whole country.

POLITICAL NOTES.

In a speech in Fairfield, S. C., on the 16th inst., Wade Hampton told the negroes that if they vote for Radicals they must look to Radicals for support.

The Greenbackers of Erie County have nominated Jay Dinsmore for Member of Congress and J. C. Kingston for State Senator. They have also made nominations for County officers.

C. H. Jackson declines the Greenback nomination for Congress in the Ninth District of Iowa, and advises his friends to vote for the Democratic candidate, evidently believing that it will amount to the same thing.

The Boston Commonwealth remarks that Tilden may painstand putty Democracy from stem to stern, and hold out the inducement of cheap fare for the Presidential trip, but intelligent people will give the old bulk a wide berth.

The New-Hampshire Republican State Committee held a meeting in Concord Friday, and planned a course of vigorous action for the remainder of the campaign. Good reports were brought from all sections of the State.

Hon. Fayette McMullin has been induced to withdraw as an independent Democratic candidate for Congress in the Ninth District of Virginia. He says he is controlled by "pure patriotism," and hopes his many friends will excuse him for his course.

A Democrat wanted to bet $50 that Hayes had not more than twenty majority among the passengers on a train on the Watertown and Rome Railroad, when an old man said: "My friend, I take that bet, and give you two to one in favor of Hayes. Although I am a Democrat I will never vote for old Sam." The bet was closed, and the result of the canvass was: Hayes, 76; Tilden, 20.

Hon. John A. Williams has declined the Republican nomination for Congress in the Second District of Arkansas, and Hon. O. P. Snyder has been nominated in his stead. The latter, in accepting, says that at the recent State election not less than ten thousand Republicans failed to vote, and he expresses the belief that with a full vote he can be elected, in which opinion the District Committee coincides.

An anxious Democrat inquires of the Cincinnati Enquirer: "Why cannot the Democracy have some active work out of Hon. Frederick Hassaurek, Hon. William M. Corry, Hon. Samuel F. Hunt, Isaac M. Jordan, Esq., Judge Stallo, Hon. William M. Ramsey, and other orators of our party, who have not been very visible on the stump for the good cause recently?" And the only response the Enquirer makes to this suggestive inquiry is: "Mr. Hassaurek is in Europe, and will not return in time to take part in the canvass."

Gov. Kellogg says that at the census taken in 1875, the total population of Louisiana was found to be 404,916 whites, 453,611 blacks. He adds: "This census was carefully taken, and after a rigid scrutiny was adopted by the last Legislature (one branch of which was Democratic and one Republican) as the basis on which the future apportionment of representation in this State should be made. In considering the elective population, white and black, in this State, it must further be remembered that there are probably more aliens and unnaturalized residents in this State in proportion to the population than in any other State in the South. In the City of New Orleans alone, according to the last census, the number of foreign born was 43,719 against 159,727 native born."

CIVIL BURIALS IN ITALY.

The civil burial question continues to excite much acrimony in Italy. Lizabe Ruffini, a member of the Roman Republican Assembly of 1849, died recently, leaving his widow in straitened circumstances. She applied to M. Cernuschi, who is a materialist, for assistance in burying him. M. Cernuschi offered to bear the expense of a civil interment, but the widow asked time for reflection before accepting this offer, and finally informed him that her husband had assisted in arranging for a religious burial. The Clerical Press sharply attacked M. Cernuschi, who, telegraphing from London to the Siècle, explains that the deceased always professed anti-Catholic opinions, and that being himself an anti-Catholic, he could not offer Mme. Ruffini the expense of a Catholic burial.

NOT SO EASILY EXPLAINED.

TILDEN'S OPPOSITION TO THE WAR.

REV. E. W. FLOWERS STATEMENT FULLY SUBSTANTIATED—HE TOLD IT TO HIS FATHER YEARS AGO AND TO W. F. WARREN ON THE DAY OF THE CONVERSATION WITH MR. TILDEN—THE CHARGES AGAINST MR. FLOWERS UTTERLY FALSE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DETROIT, Saturday, Oct. 21, 1876.

The letter of Rev. E. W. Flowers, setting forth his experience with Mr. Tilden in 1867, when the latter was Chairman of the New-York Democratic Committee, and its writer applied to him for a continuance of his tenure as a clerk in the Custom-house at New-York under the Johnson régime, continues to form a prominent feature of the Presidential canvass in this State. The letter (as already published in THE TIMES) contained the following statements:

"I said, 'I fought to sustain the Government under which you are living in peace and prosperity, and suffered the loss of a leg, as you can see, (I was then on crutches) certainly I might have a chance to earn my living in the civil service after this.' Mr. Tilden flew into a most violent passion. With the most terrible profanity he cursed me for having gone to the war, said it served me right, and pity I hadn't lost both legs. He insulted the memory of the heroic dead who had fallen on our battle-fields. He cursed the living witnesses and actors in that terrible struggle. Can any man who has a spark of patriotism in him vote to place such a heartless Copperhead in the Presidential chair of our glorious Union, cemented together by blood and unfaltering devotion?"

A number of futile attempts have been made by the Democrats to break the force of this damaging revelation. For instance, their papers throughout this State have declared that at the time spoken of (October, 1867,) Mr. Tilden was not, and the late Dean Richmond was, the Chairman of the New-York Democratic Committee. But this theory has been overturned by calling their attention to the fact that Mr. Richmond died in August, 1866, that Mr. Tilden's campaign biographies record his choice as Mr. Richmond's successor, and that in his sworn testimony in one of the Tweed cases in New-York in February last, Mr. Tilden himself said:

Q.—Were you Chairman of the Democratic State Committee for a long period?"

A.—"I became chairman in 1866."

Q.—"And continued up to what time?"

A.—"Up to 1874."

Again they have asserted that the story is a recent invention of Mr. Flowers, and, to sustain this position, they have produced a letter from another Episcopal clergyman named Tillinghast, who says that two years ago he talked with Mr. Flowers about the latter's removal from the Custom-house, without hearing anything of the Tilden episode. The conclusive reply to this bit of negative testimony consists in the statements, (1) that Mr. Flowers was not on terms of personal intimacy with Tillinghast, (who is notorious here as a prominent figure in some unsavory church scandals;) (2) that he did some years ago relate the whole story to his father, Rev. A. B. Flowers, of Marine City, also an Episcopal minister, and a Democrat in his political predilections, but who has authorized this statement to be made by the Gazette of his village; and (3) that Mr. W. F. Warren, of New-York, who was Mr. Flowers' official superior in the New-York Custom-house in 1866-7, has written to his brother-in-law in Bay City, and without Mr. Flowers' knowledge, this letter, which has just been published:

NEW-YORK, Sept. 29, 1876.

J. F. Romer, Esq., Bay City, Mich.:

DEAR SIR: Your letter of 25th inst. duly received. The copy of the Bay City Tribune you sent was delayed, but finally came to hand containing a letter dated Detroit, Aug. 19, 1876, by E. W. Flowers to Samuel Post, Esq. You ask for information in regard to the writer and the subject matter thereof.

I know E. W. Flowers well, but have not seen him nor had communication with him for several years past. He was a clerk in Government service and under my supervision during the time he stayed. I found him competent and faithful in his duties, and a man of strict veracity and high moral character. You say some people doubt the truth of the published letter. They probably may think his statement therein fabricated for the purpose of injuring Mr. Tilden as a candidate. Now, it so, Mr. Flowers had marvelous foresight and began opposition early, for he related the same conversation more in detail to me on the same day when he said it occurred, nearly nine years ago.

He attributed the same language to Mr. Tilden then when he alleges in his letter now. His story is about nine years old, and has not grown any in that time. Concurrent circumstances indicate that he sought Mr. Tilden's influence at that time. Mr. Flowers was too outspoken to gain favor, and subsequently his place. Of course, I cannot remember all he told me so long ago, but his indignation was so earnest and forcible expressed in regard to the alleged interview, that some of the incidents of his conversation with me and some of the things he said were impressed strongly on my memory.

I have no desire to repeat or propagate a story so infamous, if false, and so injurious, if true, but write this for your information.

Yours truly, W. F. WARREN.

The failure of these attempts to impeach the testimony of this witness has greatly irritated the "Reformers," and the omission of the party magnates at the East to furnish in answer to applications any reply to the Flowers letter has still further aroused their wrath. They are, therefore, "getting even" by gross personal abuse, and by setting on foot measures of petty persecution. Mr. Flowers, having just left this city to take charge of a parish at Houghton, on the Upper Peninsula, has been falsely accused of absconding, defrauding his creditors, &c. Prominent Churchmen in the State of Democratic views, have declared their purpose to prevent his further clerical employment. The pressure unavailingly brought to bear upon him to force a retraction or some modification of his statements, has thus been simply tremendous, and the Church authorities have been beset to subject him to some sort of discipline. Whether "Reform" vengeance against him will assume any more practical shape is yet to be seen, and the public is watching its operations with interest. Meanwhile, Mr. Flowers modestly and quietly, but firmly, stands by his clear and straightforward statement, which the circumstances of the case all corroborate, and his narrative will deduct hundreds of votes from the Tilden column in this portion of the Union.

AMUSEMENTS.

GENERAL MENTION.

Mlle. Aimée sings in "La Jolie Parfumeuse" at the Academy of Music, this evening.

Mr. J. B. Studley acts in "Buffalo Bill" at Wood's Museum, this evening and throughout the week.

"The Bohemian Girl" was sung by Miss Kellogg and her company at the Philadelphia Academy of Music, on Friday evening. Hundreds of intending spectators were unable to procure seats.

Mr. Thomas offers a "Beethoven programme" at Steinway Hall this evening. The seventh symphony, the scena "Ah, Perfido," with Mme. Pappenheim, and one movement of the violin concerto are to be its principal elements.

Mr. Thomas' first symphony concert occurs at Steinway Hall on Saturday evening next. It will be prefaced, on Thursday, by the usual afternoon rehearsal. Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet" symphony, Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, and Schubert's fantasia in C, adapted for piano and orchestra by Liszt, are to make up the programme.

The Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum will have its annual benefit performances at the Academy of Music on Thursday afternoon and evening next. The good work of the asylum is widely recognized, and the recognition is shared by most of the principal theatres in the City, these lending the services of some of their best artists, to enhance the attraction of the occasion. W. R. Floyd will undertake the management of the entertainments. The elements of the representations will be made known in due season.

Mr. Tryer's third Sunday concert at Booth's Theatre was enjoyed, yesterday, by an overflowing audience. Mlle. de Belocca sang most charmingly; M. Sanrot played Wieniawski's "Faust" fantasia in the best style, and, in addition to other solo performances, a liberal programme of orchestral music was interpreted by the Ninth Regiment band. The artists who took part in last evening's entertainment give a Sunday concert on Oct. 29 at the Boston Theatre, and another company will fill their places at Booth's, under the same management.

THE ARCTIC FLEET.

ABOUT FIFTY OR SIXTY MEN LEFT ON THE ABANDONED VESSELS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The masters of the abandoned Arctic fleet express uncertainty as to the number and names of the men who remained with the ships or returned to them after beginning the homeward trip; but so far as can be ascertained it seems probable that fifty or sixty were left behind, many of whom were Kanakas.

THE LOSS IN NEW-BEDFORD AND THE INSURANCE.

NEW-BEDFORD, Oct. 22.—The loss on New-Bedford whalers in the late Arctic catastrophe aggregates nearly $500,000, and is covered by insurance, principally in the Boylston, New-England, Washington, and Manufacturers' Companies, of Boston, and the Orient, of New-York.

An experienced ship-owner gives the following list of estimates of the values of vessels lost in the recent disaster to the Arctic whaling fleet, not including oil and bone that may have been taken:

Josephine, Swift & Perry	40 000
Marengo, J. H. Bartlett & Sons	40.000
Mt. Wahaston, Swift & Allen	32,000
Onward, Mathew Howland	40.000
St. George, George and Mathew Howland	36,000
Clara Bell (said to be worth)	24,000
Arctic (said to be worth)	32,000
Desmond (said to be worth)	24 000
Acors Baine, J. H. Bartlett & Sons, agents	$36,000
Camilla, Swift & Allen	36 000
James Allen, Gideon Allen & Sons	36 000
Cornelius Howland, Swift & Perry	40.000
Java, second, Joshua C. Hutch	26.000

Both the agents and insurance companies decline at present to give a statement of the insurance, but it is well known that all New-Bedford vessels are well insured.

THE AMENITIES OF ARMY LIFE.

From the London Telegraph.

"Fraternizing! Serb and Turk forgetting their hatred and joining hands! Such was the sight which met me when next I returned to the camp. It was scarcely light when I once more passed the Morava and came into the Turkish camp. The night had been bitterly cold; rain had fallen in torrents for three or four hours, and penetrated the roofs of the oak-branch huts in which the Osmanli troops had rested. Rested! What a burlesque on the word. To lie with your rifle on your arm and your cartridge-box under your side; wrapped all insufficiently in a thin canvas overcoat which let in the rain and let out the heat; huddled with eight others on the damp ground, beneath dripping branches and leaves; with your cloth or woolen boots soaked, your fez and tassel soddened, and the chill wind whistling round you as though it would blow your miserable hut away and leave you even more exposed to the violence of the storm. Such was the rest of the Turkish troops for four hours of that weary night. When daylight came and brought with it a ray of sunshine, actually without fog, what need for wonder if the Turkish troops arose and gladly believed it an end of their woe? Perhaps their troubles had made them more amiable than usual, perhaps the conviction that the war was virtually over came upon them—who can tell? One thing alone is certain, that they looked toward the Servian outposts without anathematizing the Muscov, and, when presently some blue caps appeared on the other side of the river, went down to meet them without grasping their rifles and looking at the barrels had a cartridge in them. The truth was that last night began the fast of Ramazan, and from sunrise to sunset no good son of the Prophet eats, drinks, or smokes, and in an hour the sun would be up, so they must be quick if they would eat and be merry. True that Mohammed provided that the soldier need not fast; yet what conscientious Moslem would fail to make use of this season of repentance? Not anyone among the outposts certainly; they were far too exact in their creed for that. Down they went to the riverside to look at the unarmed Serbs on the other bank, one of whom he'd out a white handkerchief, and held in his hand some little loaves of bread. 'Have you any tobacco?' shouted the reis. 'No, but we'll change,' said the Serb, wading halfway across the flood, he threw the loaves on to the shore. Away ran a Turk, and came back with two or three packets of the weed which his enemies coveted, ran into the river, and threw them across; and then one Serb asked for a light, while another produced a little piece of cheese, and very soon Turks and Serbs were seated on the opposite banks, one party smoking and the other party eating, all equally pleased with the exchange which had been made. 'The Giaours are not very bad men,' said a Moslem as he filled his mouth with such bread as he, biscuit-fed for long enough, had not tasted for weeks. At last the feast had an end; the rays of the sun were stretching across the sky; each Mussulman placed the bread he had left in his wallet or bosom and, rising, saluted the Serbs on the other side, then both parties quitted the river and the fraternizing was over. It was a stern commentary on the conduct of those who had made this horrible war, this friendly meeting of the Turk and the Serb."

THE MONTENEGRIN SENATE.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

The Senate holds its formal meetings in a wing of the old palace—a long low building of any thing but cheerful aspect, erected by the Vladika, Peter II., at the foot of the rocky crag on which the monastery of Cettinje stands, and popularly known as "the Bigliardo" from the circumstance of Peter II. providing it with a billiard table which he had sent from Italy. This mysterious object, the like of which had never been seen in Montenegro before, and which required some fifty men to convey it along the goat-paths leading to Cetinje, produced a profound impression upon the simple mountaineers, who nicknamed the palace, which they thought had been specially built to receive it, after it. The hall in which the Senate meets is a plain whitewashed apartment, with one end cut off by a wooden barrier, which forms the bar of the judicial tribunal. The Senators group themselves around a worm-eaten table, the President, being accommodated with an old oak arm-chair. This is a step in advance of what prevailed in Prince Danilo's time, when the Senate met in a long, low, thatched building, scarcely better than a barn, divided into two compartments. In one of which the mules and donkeys of Senators coming from a distance were stabled, while the other was reserved for the deliberations of that august body. The apartment was bare, with the exception of a strip of carpeting, a long stone bench against the walls, and some chairs grouped around the hearth, on which, in Winter, a huge fire was kept blazing. Here the Senators, after divesting themselves of their heavier arms, but invariably with their long pistols and poignards stuck in their belts, would take their seats, all of them smoking during the discussions and while the official documents were being read by the Secretary of the Prince. Whenever the latter was present he mingled freely with the Senators, sitting among them on the same stone bench, but raised up a trifle on a small cushion. When the business on hand threatened to be tedious, as was the usual case, for hour, it was the common practice to roast a sheep whole in the Senate hall and for the Senators to help themselves from time to time, without any interruption to the proceedings. The Montenegrin Senate, including the President and Vice-President, is composed of sixteen members. The President receives £140 per annum, and the Vice-President £120, five of the senators who reside regularly at Cettinje being allowed £60 each, while nine others, who do Senatorial duty in turn for only three months in the year, are remunerated at the rate of £30 apiece. The Government of Montenegro is essentially a despotic one, spite of the titles with which certain fundamental rights are invested. The Prince is master of everything, the Senate having merely to register his decrees. Still a wholesome restraint is imposed on him through fear of his uncle Danilo's fate. If he became thoroughly obnoxious to his subjects, a knife or a pistol would speedily show how an objectionable ruler might be got rid of."

A CARD FROM MR. ELY.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I notice in your columns to-day that you quote from the minutes of the Board of Supervisors of Dec. 27, 1869, some bills of Keyser, Miller, Garvey, and others, aggregating $600,000, to which my name is affixed as having voted in the affirmative. I never voted for any such bill or bills, and thinking possibly that those who are strangers to me may desire something more than a simple denial, I affix hereto my affidavit. During the last four years of my service in that board I sat with Mr. Tweed without exchanging a word with him, and I have never spoken to him since. No regular minutes of the board were kept by the clerk except on detached pieces of paper, which were not copied into a book until weeks or months after the meeting; and in the mean while all sorts of swindles were interpolated. My name was appended to the bills you quote either carelessly or by malicious design.

SMITH ELY, JR.

City and County of New-York, ss.—Smith Ely, Jr., of the City of New-York, being duly sworn deposes and says that he did not vote for the bill or bills of Keyser, Garvey, Monaghan and others, as published in THE NEW-YORK TIMES newspaper of this date.

SMITH ELY, JR.

Sworn before me this 22d day of October, 1876.

WILLIAM E. CURTIS,
Judge New-York Superior Court.

LATEST NEWS BY CABLE.

LAST WEEK'S FIGHTING IN SERVIA.

SOME PARTICULARS OF THE TURKISH MOVEMENT TOWARD DELIGRAD—THE SERVIANS ROUTED WITH GREAT LOSS—DJUNIS, THE KEY TO THE ROAD THROUGH THE MORAVA VALLEY, THREATENED.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Standard's special dispatch from Belgrade says the Turkish forces in Servia resumed the offensive on Thursday, and a battle began which lasted three days. It consisted of two distinct operations—one in front of Saitschar and the other on positions commanding Delegrad. In the latter movement the Turks captured on Thursday thirteen redoubts, great quantities of arms, and many prisoners. The fight was long and bloody. The Turks continued to advance. On Saturday there was further fighting. Hafis and Abdul Pashas opened fire before Djunis, and Fazli Pasha shelled Aleksinatz. The Servian forces at Djunis, under Horvatovich, were routed with great loss. There are fears that Djunis, which is the key to the road through the Morava Valley, will fall into the hands of the Turks.

The Times dispatch from Belgrade reports that in the fight near Saitschar the Turks gained the day, having captured Bolevatz. Should the Turks make good their double advance on Paratkin, the Russo-Servian Army would be placed in a serious position. The affair is not yet decided.

THE NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE.

THE DIPLOMATIC SITUATION UNCHANGED—THE MISSION OF AN ENGLISH AMBASSADOR TO LIVADIA—TURKEY READY TO ACCEPT THE SIX WEEKS' ARMISTICE ON CERTAIN CONDITIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A dispatch from Vienna announces that the King of Greece left unexpectedly on Sunday for Athens.

The Times correspondent at Belgrade says the diplomatic situation is still painfully uncertain. Preparations for war continue, so does the Russian immigration. He is assured, on good authority, that 22,000 Russians are recorded by name as having come to Servia.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times says Russia has abandoned the intention of raising a foreign loan.

The Times Paris despatch mentions a rumor that the mission of Lord Lofuste Livadia is to inform the Czar that England would not take the initiative in fresh negotiations; but would not feel herself attacked so long as Russia's negotiations struck no blow at the portions of the treaty of 1856 not modified by the London Conference of 1871. This rumor is not vouched for.

A Vienna dispatch to the Daily News says inteligence has been received from Constantinople that the Porte will accept a six weeks' armistice on the condition that the reform projects be not interfered with, and that the status quo be maintained in Servia and Montenegro.

A Berlin dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says the Czar is to be presented with an address from the Moscow Douma, declaring the readiness of all classes to obey all commands in reference to war for the liberation of the Sclavs. Similar addresses have been accepted from Town Councils throughout the Empire.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

PROBABLY FATAL DUEL IN FRANCE—THE THREATENED LOCK-OUT OF ENGLISH COTTON OPERATIVES AVERTED.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Standard's Paris special reports that a duel has been fought on Swiss territory between Viscompte Barnel des Roches and Paul Gérard. The latter was pierced by his antagonist's sword and his life is in danger. The affair was the result of a political quarrel.

The operative cotton spinners of Blackburn have decided to withdraw their notes, and practically the dispute in north and north-eastern Lancashire is at an end.

THE HORRORS OF WAR.

SCENES ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE—THE BRUTAL BASHI-BAZOUKS—HOW MOSLEMS HATE SWINE.

The correspondent of the London Telegraph writes from the Turkish Army head-quarters as follows: "I suppose that, on the previous day, the most of the killed and wounded of Sunday night had been removed. Yet the traces of the battle which we had witnessed were very apparent; for in the long maize-stalks it is next to impossible to find all the dead—they lie hidden away from the ken of the ambulance-bearers and burying parties—and it is only when you essay to take a short cut across the fields that you find your horse start and shy at some horrible thing which its keen sense has detected. You need not ask why the animal is restive—your sense of smell is all too strong; yet if you would know whether Turk or Serb lies there you must approach, however unpleasant the task. We were unfortunate enough to stumble across several who were the fez—all dead and all rapidly decomposing in the hot sunshine. There they lay, each one, strangely enough, still grasping or having fallen upon his weapon; each one, it was satisfactory to record, struck in front and in a mortal place—sign alike of honorable courage and painless death. Horses, too, were there, one of which appeared to have actually broken one of its own legs in its dire agony; while another had been clearly killed by its rider after being desperately wounded, for its left hind was still within its saddle. Two more corpses, one that of a mere boy, who had crawled—as the traces of blood showed—to the side of his dying comrade, and, reading his head on a tuft of grass, had quietly expired. His face, not yet decomposed, wore a placid smile—perhaps he was thinking of friends and home when he died. There were no more dead to our path, so long as we continued on the left bank of the Morava. Our plan was now to enter the still burning villages which face Aleksinatz, which when first we saw yonder pretty little town were as smiling and beautiful as any English hamlet. Now all was desolation; what houses had not been destroyed were simmering and cracking in the blaze. There were the church-bells prayed and bows themselves owed. Bashi-Bazouks were squatting—some sorting the articles they had plundered from the ruined houses, some chaffering over the articles of clothing they had found in the dwellings or had taken from the bodies of dead Servians. It was a loathsome sight to see these wretches thus busy in the scenes of their triumph. They had wrecked these pleasaunplaces utterly and completely, left not a wall standing, destroyed all but the wells and fountains, and here they were happy and comfortable, as though they had done a highly meritorious work, upon which they might think with satisfaction during the coming fast of Ramazan.

Groups, we have seen—where are there not?—perched high upon piles of stoves, stove-pipes, water-troughing, locks, bars, bolts, and such-like unconsidered trifles, munching their hard biscuits, and eating grapes gathered from Servian villages, anxious to sell to any passer-by any of the plunder they had collected. Compared with the Bashi-Bazouks they were angels for I have never known of an instance in which the Zingari have maliciously destroyed property of any sort. They would pull a stove out of a wall, or the iron bars from a window, but they would never think of setting fire to the house itself. Rather would they live in it as long as possible, and wait till a good opportunity occurred of removing their newly-acquired property. Not so the Bashi-Bazouks; these ruffians simply destroyed for the sheer pleasure of viewing wreck and ruin. Well was Abdul Kerim advised when he ordered 14,000 of them to leave Nissa, and go to their own homes without delay. They are a disgrace to humanity, and will be endless trouble to Turkey. We could not stay long in the villages, for the stench arising from the bodies of pigs, which the Moslems everywhere shoot directly they see them; of dead horses and bullocks, lying about in various directions, very considerably hastened our departure, and we now went down to the banks of the Morava for a bath. Strangely enough, they permitted us to ford the swift-running river without firing a shot, although we must now have been considerably in advance of the party of Circassians who were so vigorously potted on Sunday afternoon; and in this way we passed into the fields close by, and so approached the wood. Not a Servian was in sight, not a soldier was to be seen. Three corpses were, however, here; and graves, which showed that others had just been buried, were frequently passed. By the side of one dead lad—he could not have been more than eighteen, and seemed very thin and ill-nourished—lay a pocket-knife and a letter, the latter stained with blood. One of his comrades, who was not far off, had been struck by a shell in the leg, and had bled to death slowly. I should imagine, for he had moved about a great deal before he died, and had at last propped himself against a tree. Somebody appeared to have pulled his cap over his face, or, perhaps, it had fallen there. He had been a stout, strong man of quite forty years, tall and athletic. I wondered if his family or friends still pictured him as sound and well in the Servian ranks, where he had so lately fought. The third had fallen upon his face, and his body was already almost decomposed."

AN ITALIAN NEWSPAPER'S SARCASM.

From the Rome (Italy) Tribuna.

Of all the mighty succor in votes, sympathy, protests, counsels, &c., which excited Europe has sent to misused Servia, I must say the English contingent has made most impression upon me. England is famous for this kind of help. She has a real body of reserves, composed of twenty divisions of sympathy, forty brigades of speeches, and eighty regiments of declarations, and there is not a cause in favor of which the whole army does not take the field as soon as the humanity cry has reached the tender entrails of generous Albion. And how quickly the cry does reach her! Look at what they are doing in England for the poor Bulgarian. Two letters from Lord Russell, a protest from the Bishop of Manchester, &c. And as if the torrent of subsidies was nothing at all—behold a pamphlet by Mr. Gladstone! Only fancy a pamphlet! England is in earnest, and the Turks now know with whom they have to do: Is it possible? Have the Turks pushed cruelty so far that they make war by killing people? Do they bombard towns? Do they burn villages? And he sends conduct tolera ed! Where then did these infidels learn the art of waging war? Let them go to India and find out how war ought to be waged? War with attar of roses, without slaughter; without fire, without rapine; war with gutta-percha swords and cannon balls of Windsor soap! * * * A polite and gentle war, which produced no commotion in the sensitive nerves of Messrs. Gladstone, Bourke, and Bright, and the Bishop of Manchester. Or if they do not want to go so far, as they are busy in Servia, let them send somebody to Africa, where England is just now engaged in a quiet little war with certain Bulgarians who object, as it seems, to trade in rough diamonds and cod-liver oil. Or, if no one will give himself so much trouble, let them read the telegram from London which appeared in the papers at the same time as Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet on the villages burned by the Turks. The Standard publishes a dispatch from Madeira, which announces that hostilities have broken out on the west coast of Africa. The English expedition, composed of three ships, under Commodore Brice, sailed up the Niger, and on the 31st came into collision with the natives. "A few villages were burned" This, indeed, is humanitarian war! Had not we better get up a meeting in favor of the African villages burned by the English?

CERTAINLY WORTH INVESTIGATING.

The immense practical advantages of the new invention of the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing-machine Company—their new automatic sewing-machine; different in principle from every other sewing-machine manufactured. On view at Centennial Machinery Hall, Sec. C 7, Col. 50; and at No. 658 Broadway, N. Y., No 76 Court st., Brooklyn, No. 379 Grove st., Jersey City, No. 5 Cedar st., Newark. —Exchange.

Leland's Sturtevant House, Broadway and Twenty-ninth streets. Rooms, with board, $3, $3 50, and $4. Desirable suites of rooms for families at special rates.—Exchange.

"One touch of nature makes the whole world akin," says Hamlet. On one subject all civilized people have a common interest—love of children. This can nowhere better appear than in the use of B. T. BABBITT'S BABY SOAP, the perfect thing for washing and bathing. It is entirely free from everything injurious, and exceedingly delicate as well as powerful in its cleansing value.—Advertisement

A SORE THROAT, or a distressing cough, is speedily cured by Dr. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT.—Advertisement.

THE HIGHEST AWARD granted any exhibitor by Centennial exposition is given the ELASTIC TRUSS Co. for SILK ELASTIC TRUSSES. Sold only at 683 Broadway. —Advertisement.

Dr. Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—Invalids need no longer dread to take that great specific for Consumption, Asthma, and threatening Coughs—COD LIVER OIL. As prepared by Dr. WILBOR it is tasteless, inodorous, and bland, and also embodies a preparation of the Phosphate of Lime, giving nature the very article required to aid the healing qualities of the oil, and to recreate where disease has destroyed. This article also forms a remarkable tonic, and will make weak and debilitated persons to become strong and robust. For sale by all respectable druggists throughout the country, and should be kept in every family for instant use on the first appearance of coughs or irritation of the Lungs. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

Those Tribulations of Infancy,
Sour stomach and the colic, are invariably remedied by administering MILK OF MAGNESIA.

You Need not Color Your Hair and Become Prematurely gray. A little more neglect and you are bald. Use PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM in time.

Holmes' Burglar Alarm Telegraph, No. 571 Broadway. No family can afford to be without it.

Use Brummell's Celebrated Cough Drops. The genuine have P. H. B. on each drop.

To Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain, and cures wind colic.

MARRIED.

PEET—MORGAN.—At Saratoga, on Oct. 17, by Rev. E. W. Peet, D. D., ELIZABETH C. MORGAN, daughter of E. A. Deuel, Esq., of Saratoga, to WILLIAM CRIGHTON PEET, of Brooklyn.

DIED.

CHAMPNEY.—In Brooklyn, on Sunday, Oct. 22, 1876, of pneumonia, in the 39th year of his age, ADDISON W., son of Samuel T. Champney.

Funeral services at his late residence, No. 360 Quincy st., Wednesday, 25th inst., at 2:30 P. M.

COTHEAL.—On Sunday morning, Oct. 22, CHARLES W., son of the late Henry Cotheal, in his 67th year.

Relatives and friends of the family, and of his brother, Alexander I. Cotheal, are invited to attend the funeral, from his late residence, No. 64 West 36th st., on Wednesday morning, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock.

DOBBS.—Suddenly, at Tarrytown, Albany County, N. Y., on the 18th inst., ROMAIN H. DOBBS, son of Franklin Dobbs.

His remains interred in Yonkers Cemetery.

HILYARD.—On Friday, Oct. 20, JAMES HILYARD, formerly of this City.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral on Third-day, Tenth month, (24th,) at 2 o'clock P. M., from his late residence, Rancocas, Burlington County, N. J.

HOPPS.—On Friday evening, LEWIS HOPPS, in the 44th year of his age.

Relatives and friends of the family, those of his brother Carle S. Hopps, and the members of the Lincoln Club of the Seventh Assembly District, are respectfully invited to attend the funeral at his late residence, No. 135 West 15th st., on Monday, the 23d inst., at 12 o'clock. Remains will be taken to Beech Wood Cemetery, New-Rochelle, for interment.

HUDSON.—At New-Rochelle, on Saturday, Oct. 21, JOHN ALEXANDER, only son of John and Anna Hudson.

Funeral services from the residence of his father, on Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 2:30 o'clock.

JONES.—At Paterson, N. J., on Sunday morning, Oct. 22, SARAH, wife of Benjamin Jones, aged 64 years.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral from her late residence, No. 227 straight st., on Tuesday, 24th inst., 1:30 o'clock. Train leaves New-York at 12 o'clock, from foot of Chambers st.

LOCKE.—Oct. 21, at his residence, 65 Madison av., after a short illness, LUCIA BUTLER RHODES, third daughter of the late Charles and Harriet Denison Rhodes, of this City.

NASON.—At Flushing, Long Island, Oct. 21, ANN FRANCES NASON, aged 87, widow of William Nason, of St. George's, Bermuda.

Funeral services at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Joseph F. Darling, Flushing, Tuesday, 24th inst., at 11:30 A. M. Trains leave Long Island City at 11 A. M. and 12:30. Ferry at 34th st. fifteen minutes earlier.

THIBAUD.—On the 20th inst., JULIUS S. THEBAUD, M. D., in the 49th year of his age.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral at the church of St. Francis Xavier, 16th st., on Monday, the 23d inst., at 10 A. M. without further notice.

VAN SCHAICK.—Oct. 20, at the residence of her brother, Clarence G. Mitchell, No. 228 west 38th st., ANNA, wife of Peter C. Van schaick, of Throgg's Neck, Westch ster, and daughter of John W. Mitchell.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral at St. Peter's Church, West Chester, on Monday, 23d inst., at 3 o'clock P. M., without further notification. Carriages will be in waiting at Mott haven to meet the 1:30 P. M. Harlem train from Forty-second street depot. The remains will be taken to Kinderhook for interment.

WERNHAM.—At Marengo, Ill., on the 22d inst., JAMES WERNHAM, formerly of Jersey City.

SMITH.—At Newark, Conn., on the 15th inst., LYDIA, widow of the late Isaac Smith, of this City, in the 89th year of her age.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

UNDERSHIRTS

AND DRAWERS.

WARD'S,

381 BROADWAY, CORNER WHITE ST.

862 BROADWAY, CORNER 14TH ST.

1,121 BROADWAY, CORNER 25TH ST.

COUGHS, HOARSENESS, AND ALL DISEASES of the throat and lungs, speedily and certain cure. BROWN'S TOLU AND LIVERWORT EXPECTORANT. Sold by all druggists. Only 50c. per bottle.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

TUNIS JOHNSON, AUCTIONEER.

OLD STAND, NO. 37 NASSAU ST.,
On WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, at 11 o'clock,
GREAT SALE OF PIANOS AND ORGANS,
at No. 431 Broadway, near Broome st.,
the warerooms of Horace Waters & Sons.

We have been instructed by Messrs. Horace Waters & Sons to close out by auction all their second-hand pianos and organs, some of which have been out one year in use, in consequence of removal to their new and more commodious warerooms, No. 40 East 14th st., Union square.

The pianos are made by the following makers:

Steinway,	Pickering,
Waters,	James,
Vose,	Gabler,
Gilbert,	Lehnen & Fritz,
Harman,	Young and many others.

The organs are all in fine order by

Mason & Hamlin,	Estey,
Alexandre,	New Haven Organ Co.,
Schoninger,	Cabinet Organ and others.

Some of the above organs the Messrs. Waters have dropped from their last new catalogue, but are fully equal to any made by them, and differ only in that the cases and designs are out of the modern styles.

Also an immense quantity of vocal and instrumental music, bound and in sheets.

AUCTION SALE,

in partition, by order of Supreme Court, of the lands known as the PETER A. COWDREY estate, consisting of over 100 acres in

YONKERS,

in two parcels of over fifty acres each. The Palmer Road from Yonkers to Bronxville, and the road from Mile Square Road to Tuckahoe Road, pass through the property.

Sale to be Oct. 28, 1876, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Getty House, Yonkers, by Robert Cochran, Referee.

The property has a number of fine building sites commanding extensive views.

MITCHELL & MITCHELL,
Plaintiff's Attorneys, No. 62 Wall st.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

The foreign mails for the week ending SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1876, will close at this office on TUESDAY at 7½ A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Montana via Queenstown. On WEDNESDAY, at 7:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Russia via Queenstown. On THURSDAY, at 11:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Cimbria via Plymouth, Cherbourg, and Hamburg. On AT URDAY, at 10 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship City of Chester via Queenstown. Correspondence for Scotland, Germany, and France to be forwarded on to steamer must be specially addressed. And at 10 A. M. for Scotland direct per steam-ship California via Glasgow, and at 11 A. M. for France direct per steam-ship France via Havre; and at 12:30 P. M. for Europe per steam-ship Mosel via Southampton and Bremen. The steam-ships Montana, Russia, and City of Chester do not take mails for Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. The mails for the West Indies via Greytown, and St. Thomas will leave New-York Oct. 26. The mails for China, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 1. The mails for Australia, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 8, 1876.

T. L. JAMES, Postmaster.

MESSRS. WRIGHT & MANSFIELD,

NO. 104 NEW BOND ST., LONDON,

Exhibitors of furniture and decorations of the eighteenth century, have had awarded them two medals and diplomas for superior design, workmanship, and finish.

Mr. MANSFIELD will be in Philadelphia in a few days to attend to those who may honor him with their favors.

BANGS, MERWIN & CO.,
NO. 656 BROADWAY,
will sell at auction on
MONDAY, TUESDAY, and WEDNESDAY, Oct. 23, 24, 25,
A VALUABLE MEDICAL LIBRARY, comprising works of the most distinguished physicians and surgeons.
THURSDAY and FRIDAY—LAW BOOKS, an excellent collection; catalogues ready.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE DEPOT!
JAPANESE BRONZES! JUST RECEIVED!
CHINESE ENAMELS (PEKIN,) VASES, &c.
WEDDING AND CENTENNIAL PRESENTS!
TETE-A-TETE SETS, VASES, TRAYS, &c.
PARKER'S, No. 181 FRONT ST., near Fulton.

STUART WILLIS, ATTORNEY AND Counsellor at Law, Notary Public, No. 184 Broadway, Room No. 4 New-York.
N. B.—Special attention paid to settling "estates" conveyancing, and city and country collections.

KEEP'S PARTLY-MADE DRESS SHIRTS.—The very best, six for $6; can be finished as easily as beginning a handkerchief. No. 371 Broadway and No. 921 Arch st., Philadelphia.

CHRONIC, KIDNEY, BLADDER, THEIR complaints and hitherto fatal diseases, with full directions for their cure, in DR. HEALY'S book of 100 pages, gratis, at No. 200 Broadway New-York.

DUTCH BULBS, TULIPS, HYACINTHS, Crocuses, &c., for sale cheap, to close a consignment, by C. RAUX, No. 75 Park place.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"PRETTY AS A PICTURE," ALMEER'S great song. 40c.; "Sweet by and By," song, 40c. March, 30c.; Easy Airs, 30c.; "The Same," Ballard's latest and best song, 50c.; "Album Leaf," Wagner, 50c.; "Verdicte Waltz," trains, 75c.
LEYSON & CO., No. 711 Broadway.

MAY AGNES FLEMING'S NEW NOVEL.

Ready this week, KATE DANTON, an intensely interesting new novel by MAY AGNES FLEMING, author of "Guy Earnescliffe's Wife," "A Wonderful Woman," &c.
G. W. CARLETON & CO., Pub. shers.

POLITICAL.

COOPER INSTITUTE

HON. ALPHONSO TAFT,

UNITED STATES ATTORNEY GENERAL

and

MR. MURAT HALSTEAD,

Editor of the Cincinnati Commercial

WILL ADDRESS A REPUBLICAN MEETING

AT THE

COOPER INSTITUTE

WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCT. 25,

AT 7:30 O'CLOCK.

LETTER FROM MR. ELY, CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your issue of this date you state that during the years 1868, 1869, and 1870 I was absent from a number of meetings of the old Board of supervisors—seventeen in all.

It is well known that for a part of this period the condition of my health absolutely necessitated my absence in Europe. If you will refer to the files of THE TIMES you will find that I was compelled to apply to the supreme Court for an order directing the board to notify me of the time and place of its meetings, which were frequently held on a special call or which I was kept in ign

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

At the Exchange on Saturday, Oct. 21, by order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, C. C. Edgerton, Esq., Referee, R. V. Harnett sold a three-story and basement brick house, with lot 21 by 79.9, on East 13th st., south side, 264 feet east of 5th av.; for $13,400, to S. J. Held. The same auctioneer, under a similar Court order, Payson Merrill, Esq., Referee, sold one lot, 25.2 by 100, on 3d av., east side, 75.6 feet south of 96th st., for $6,126, to Phillip Grussy, plaintiff in the legal action. A. H. Muller & Son, by order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, A. D. Weeks, Esq., Referee, disposed of one lot, 20 by 100, on 86th st., west side, 27.2 feet north of 7th st., for $9,600 and interest, to F. P. Forster, plaintiff.

The total value of City real estate sold at the Exchange for the week ending Saturday, Oct. 21, was $414,582, as against $357,949, the figures for the previous week.

THIS WEEK'S AUCTIONS.

For the present week, at the Exchange, unless otherwise noted, the following public sales are announced:

This Day, (Monday.) Oct. 23.

By E. H. Ludlow & Co., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, Horace Andrews, Esq., Referee, of one lot, 25 by 100, on 5th av., east side, 50.5 feet south of East 59th st.

By V. K. Stevenson, Jr., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, H. C. Botty, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot, 21.6 by 98.9, on East 37th st., south side, 98.6 feet east of 2d av. Also, similar sale, of J. O'Neil, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, 100.11 by 75 by 105, on 4th av., north-east corner of 113th st.

By A. J. Bleecker & Son, foreclosure sale, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, James Wiley, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 20 by 98.9, on West 27th st., south side, 440 feet west of 6th av. Also, similar sale, William S. Kelley, Esq., Referee, of two lots, each 25 by 100.5, on East 61st st., north side, 100 feet east of 5th av.

By R. V. Harnett, foreclosure sale, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, William S. Kelley, Esq., Referee, of two lots, each 29.9 by 100, on East 61st st., north-east corner of 5th av.; also, one lot, 25.1 by 100, on East 61st st., adjoining above.

By Scott & Myers, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, C. E. Lydecker, Esq., Referee, of two lots, each 25 by 100, on West 57th st., south side, 150 feet east of 7th av. Also, similar sale, same Referee, of a two-story and half frame house, with plot of land 99 by 162.5 by 99.6 by 169.4, on 12th av., east side, 100 feet north of 152d st.

By James M. Miller, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, E. K. Anderson, Esq., Referee, of twenty-five acres of land in the town of Scarsdale.

Tuesday, Oct. 24.

By H. W. Coates, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, H. E. Woodward, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 25 by 98.9, on East 30th st., north side, 175 feet west of 1st av.

By R. P. Fairchild, partition sale, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, W. S. Kelley, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 25 by 111.11, on 3d st., south side, 179 feet west of Avenue A.

By A. H. Muller, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, W. A. Boyd, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 20 by 98.9, on West 39th st., south side, 295 feet east of 8th av.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, L. L. Kellogg, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 18 by 100.5, on East 63d st., south side, 183 feet east of Madison av. Also, similar sale, A. Cuski, Esq., Referee, of four lots, each 25 by 62.6, on East 93d st., north side, 300 feet west of 3d av.

By E. H. Ludlow & Co., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, G. S. Hubbard, Esq., Referee, of one lot, 25 by 100.10, on East 117th st., south side, 173 feet east of Avenue A.

By E. A. Lawrence & Co., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, F. P. Trautman, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land 105.9 by 100 by 49 by 14, on old Boston road, west side, 14 feet south of 163d st.

Wednesday, Oct. 25.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, Maurice Loyne, Esq., Referee, of a building with lot 25.3 by 100.6 on Thomas st., south side, 62 feet west of Crosby st. Also, Assignee's sale, William M. Berger, Esq., Assignee of John Combs, of the two five-story and basement brick houses with two five-story brick double tenement house with lot 25 by 100.5, No. 319 East 60th st., north side, about 375 feet west of 1st av.

By Backwell, Riker & Wilkins, United States District Court Receiver's sale, E. Deming, Esq., Receiver, of the following improved property: Two four-story and basement brown-stone-front houses, with lots, together in size 40 by 85, on Lexington av., south-east corner 47th st; one similar house, with lot 20 by 85, on Lexington av., 60.5 feet south of 47th st; two similar houses, with lots, each 20 by 100, on East 47th st., south side, 85 feet east of Lexington av.; four similar houses, with lots together in size 74 by 100, on East 47th st., south side, 145 feet east of Lexington av., and four similar houses, with lots, each 17 by 100, on East 47th st., 257 feet east of Lexington av.

By Bernard Smyth, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, John Hayes, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, (containing ten lots,) 201.8 by 120, on 5th av., block front; between 114th and 115th sts.

By Scott & Myers, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, T. C. Cronin, Esq., Referee, of two lots, each 25.6 by 100, on Avenue A, west side, 25.8 feet south of 74th st.

By William Kennelly, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, C. E. Miner, Esq., Referee, of four lots, together in size 100.11 by 100, on 10th av., south-west corner 123d st. Also, similar sale, J. Grant Sinclair, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, 100.10 by 80.4 by 140 by 144.1 by 143, on Bolton street, north-west corner Prescott av. Also a plot of land, 125 by 150 by 125 by 140, on Prescott av., west side, adjoining above.

By E. A. Lawrence & Co., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, B. C. Chetwood, Esq., Referee, of five lots, each 25 by 100.5, on East 98th st., south side, 110 feet east of 3d av.

By Peter F. Meyer, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, H. D. Purrey, Esq., Referee, of two lots, each 25 by 99.11, on West 134th st., south side, 125 feet east of 10th av.

By James M. Miller, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, J. C. Bushnell, Esq., Referee, of two lots, each 25 by 99.11, on West 160th st., south side, 200 feet west of 10th av.

By A. J. Bleecker & Son, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, Maurice Loyne, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land 50 by 240 by 67 by 260, on King's Bridge road or Broadway, west side, known as lot Nos. 1, 2, and 3 on map of property belonging to Lucius Chittenden, on Washington Heights. Also a plot of land 275 by 242 by 93 by 458, on King's Bridge road or Broadway, west side, 9,038 feet north of the south line of 155th st.

Thursday, Oct. 26.

By James M. Miller, public auction sale of the following improved property: One five-story brick building, with lot 25 by 100.6, No. 33 Baxter st., north side, 85.2 feet west of Park street; one similar house, with lot 16 by 100.6, No. 41 Baxter street, west of the above; one three story and basement brick house, (front) and carriage-house (rear) with lot 33 by 98.9, Nos. 215 and 217 East 36th st., north side, 200 feet east of Third av.; one four-story brick store and dwelling, (front) and four-story brick-building, with lot 24.9 by 80, No. 685 2d av., north-west corner 37th st.; two three-story frame houses, with plot of land 208.6 by 64.4 by 200.2 by 84.11, on Hudson River Railroad, east side, whole front between 64th and 65th sts.; also Brooklyn property, comprising a two-story and attic frame house, with two lots, each 25 by 59.8, Nos. 896 and 898 Flushing av., south side, 530 feet east of Bushwick av. Also Supreme Court foreclosure sale, D. P. Ingraham, Esq., Referee, of one lot 27.11 by 88.6 by 25.6 by 99.11, on Broadway, east side, 139.7 feet north of 77th st.

By Peter F. Meyer, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, John N. Lewis, Esq., Referee, of a house with lot 18.11 by 100.5 on East 55th st., north side, 268.11 feet east of 2d av.

By Bernard Smyth, foreclosure sale, Court of Common Pleas, R. M. Henry, Esq., Referee, of one lot 24.8 by 100 on 7th av., east side, 74.1 feet north of 34th st.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, F. P. De Forrest, Esq., Referee, of a house with lot 22.2 by 98.9, on 2d av., west side, 162.9 feet north of 85th st; also a house with lot 18.1 by 102.3 on East 85th st. south side, 162.7 feet east of 4th av.

By William Kennelly, Supreme Court foreclosure sale R. F. Farrell, Esq., Referee, of one lot of 25 by 75 on 6th av., west side, 24.11 feet north of 131st st.

By D. M. Seaman, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, George W. Lord, Esq., Referee, of a house with lot, 24.3 by 75, on 10th av., west side, 49.5 feet north of 33d st.

Friday, Oct 27.

By Winans & Davies, supreme Court foreclosure sale, William P. Dixon, Esq., Referee, of a building, with lot 25 by 137.6 by 25 by 127.6, on Broadway, east side, 98.4 feet north of 4th st.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, H. L. Cole, Esq., Referee, of two houses with lots, each 25 by 50, on Oliver st., east side, 55 feet north of South st. Also, similar sale, S. M. Morehouse, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, 50.4 by 100, on 11th av., south-east corner 60th st. Also, similar sale, T. C. Campbell, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, 225 by 230 by 225 by 260, on West 213th st., south side, 175 feet east of 10th av.

Saturday, Oct. 28.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, J. A. Gonzalez, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 22.6 by 98.9, on East 31st st., south side, 100 feet east of 2d av. Also, similar sale, John A. Stantenberg, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 16.8 by 102.2, on West 79th st., south side, 316.8 feet east of 10th av.

By Wood & Moles, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, George P. Smith, Esq., Referee, of three lots, each 25 by 100.11, on East 106th st., south side, 265 feet east of 3d av.

EXCHANGE SALES—SATURDAY, OCT. 21.

NEW-YORK.

By R. V. Harnett.

1 three-story and basement brick house, with lot, East 13th st., s. s., 264 ft. e. of 5th av., lot 21x79.9 ..... $13,400

1 lot, 3d av., e. s., 75.6 ft. s. of 96th st., 25.2x100 6,126

By A. H. Muller & Son.

1 lot, 86th av., w. s., 27.2 ft. n. of 73d st., 20x100 ..... $9,600

RECORDED REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

NEW-YORK.

Friday, Oct. 19.

92d st., n. s., 125 ft. e. of 2d av., 25x half Block; also, Irving st., 50x100, 24th Ward, J. Doherty and wife to J. H. Doherty $2,500

46th st., s. s., 427.6 ft. w. of 5th av., 20x100.5; M. A. Hatch to J. Percival 25,000

Sedgwick st., e. s., 175 ft. n. of Mitchell st., 25x

100; A. Pfeiffer and wife to G. Pfeiffer 12,500

111th st., n. s., 250 ft. w. of 2d av., 25x100.10; Carrie Smith to R. A. Andrews ..... nom.

111th st., n. s., 150 ft. w. of 2d av., 25x100.10; Carrie Smith to R. A. Andrews ..... nom.

111th st., n. s., 175 ft. w. of 2d av., 25x100.10; Carrie Smith to R. A. Andrews ..... nom.

111th st., n. s., 200 ft. w. of 2d av., 25x100.10; Carrie Smith to R. A. Andrews ..... nom.

111th st., n. s., 225 ft. w. of 2d av., 25x100.10; Carrie Smith to R. A. Andrews ..... nom.

39th st., n. s., 200 ft. e. of 2d av., 25x98.9; M. Sahn and husband to C. Wood 21,000

125th st., s. s., 265 ft. e. of 4th av., 53x100.11; S. Van Nostrand, Executor, to J. R. Maurice. nom.

57th st., n. s., 175 ft. e. of 10th av., 50x100.5; J. Wick and wife to F. R. Coudert ..... nom.

43d st., s. s., 216.8 ft. w. of 10th av., 16.8x100.5; C. Wood to M. Sahn 11,000

58th st., w. s., 168 ft. e. of 6th av., 16.8x100.5; A. Dold and wife to R. Putzel ..... nom.

27th st., s. s., 310.6 ft. e. of 8th av., 62.2x98.9; S. Blatchford, Executor, to S. V. Thermal ..... nom.

74th st., n. s., 250 ft. w. of 3d av., 50x102.2; M. A. Holden, Executor, to L. Holden ..... nom.

Same property; L. Husted and husband to M. A. Holden 1,163

20th st., n. s., 75 ft. w. of 3d av., 125x184; C. Ely and wife to A. B. Judson 62,000

74th st., n. s., 250 ft. w. of 3d av., 50x102.2; L. Holden to M. A. Holden ..... nom.

114th st., n. s., 250 ft. w. of 3d av., 17.11x100.11; Mutual Life Insurance Co. to B. Richardson 4,500

49th st., s. s., 100 ft. w. of 1st av., 25x100.5; A. S. Kiep and wife, Joseph Hollings 3,800

58th st., n. s., 120 ft. e. of 6th av., 16.8x100.5; R. Putzel and husband to A. Dold ..... ----

5th av., e. s., 50.5 ft. n. of 115th st., 25x100; William P. Dixon, Referee, to O. T. Marshall 5,300

1st av., e. s., 25.4 ft. s. of 47th st., 25.3x60; H. E. Talmadge, Referee, to Mechanics' and Traders' Fire Insurance Company 9,000

111th st., n. s., 100 ft. w. of 2d av., 25x100.10; W. L. Livingston, Referee, to C. Smith 70,500

74th st., n. s., 250 ft. w. of 3d av., 50x102.2; W. Barney, Referee, to M. A. Holden 8,800

Fordham, N. Y., lots; 4 lots; E. D. Gale, Referee, to E. C. Bailey 13,100

53d st., s. s., 385.6 ft. w. of 6th av., 18x100.5; T. H. Landon, Referee, to S. B. Brownell 27,600

49th st., s. s., 100 ft. w. of 1st av., 25x100.5; James Meeks, Referee, to A. N. Kiep 3,200

LEASE RECORDED.

Avenue B, No. 43, 5 years; P. Deffan to Singer's Manufacturing Company $1,600

CITY REAL ESTATE.

AN ELEGANT FOUR-STORY BROWN-STONE house for sale (in fee) below 48th st., within one door of 5th av.; built by the owner for his own use in the best and most substantial manner; arrangement, attractive, and novel; finished in hard woods and in fine order throughout. Altogether one of the best houses ever offered for sale. The furniture can be had if desired. Possession in a few weeks. For further information apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., 3 Pine st.

FOR SALE

IN 40TH, 45TH, 54TH, 55TH, 57TH, and 65TH STS., and on Madison av., near 44th st., and corner of 56th and 66th sts., several new, finely built and located houses. For particulars apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

THIRTY-NINTH ST., JUST WEST OF 5TH AV.—For sale a handsome four-story brown-stone house, twenty-two feet wide, well built and arranged, and in perfect order; lot 98.1; price low and possession immediate. Apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

FOR SALE.

In 47th st., near 5th av., a four-story brown-stone house, 20 feet wide; lot, 100.5 feet. In fee, $30,000. E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

$30,000.—A FOUR-STORY TWENTY-FOOT extension residence, 39th st., adjoining the Avenue. 4 Pine or 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

FOR SALE—NEW AND ELEGANT BROWN-STONE houses, handsomely located, on 57th st.; replete with modern improvements; terms to suit. TIMPSON & PEET, No. 1,488 Broadway, near 44th st.

FOR SALE.—AN ELEGANT NORTH-WEST CORNER on 5th av., above 42d st., at a decidedly low figure. E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

COUNTRY REAL ESTATE.

ORANGE, N. J.—COUNTRY HOUSES, LANDS, and village lots for sale; a great variety. Also, furnished and unfurnished houses to let for season or year, by WALTER E. SMITH, formerly Blackwell & Smith, Orange, corner of Main and Cone sts.

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

M. A. J. LYNCH & SONS, Auctioneers, Office 10 Pine st.

THE VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY on north-west corner of Broome and Mulberry sts., will be sold at auction on Tuesday, Oct 31, 1876, at 12 M., at Exchange sales-room, No. 111 Broadway, each lot 22.6 by 98.9, on Broome st., No. 116, on Broome st., 116 feet on Mulberry st., with four brick buildings thereon; lot on Mulberry st., adjoining above, 25x75, with brick building thereon; lot on Broome st., adjoining same, 22x98.9x104.6, with brick building thereon.

DWELLINGS TO LET.

A FURNISHED FOUR-STORY HIGH-stoop brown-stone house, 38th street, between 5th and 6th av.; rent $300 per month; owner will board; other houses, $2.0, $175 and $100. TIMPSON & PEET, No. 1,488 Broadway, near 44th st.

APARTMENTS.—TENTERDEN, NO. 263 WEST 25th st.—For small families; brown-stone; light; ventilated; Ortel windows; Jackson's grates; elegant gas-fixtures; spacious garden; $480 to $600; janitor.

A MOST ELIGIBLE HOUSE TO RENT.—A Unfurnished, 33d st., near 6th av., good order, at very low rent. ODDEN & CLARK, Broadway, corner of 17th st.

$40 A MONTH, FURNISHED.—A PRETTY cottage, seven rooms, at Rutherford Park, N. J., fifty minutes from New-York; near depo.; on best av. Address E. C. T., Post Office Box 466, New-York.

REDUCED RENTS.—NEW COMPLETE FURnished and unfurnished flats; offices, 4 Pine and 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

UNFURNISHED, LARGE FOUR-STORY, high-stoop brown-stone house, 41st st., between 6th and 7th av., and Broadway; in good order; rent $2,100. TIMPSON & PEET, No. 1,488 Broadway, near 44th st.

A NELEGANT FLAT TO LET—UNFURNISHED; five rooms; rent $1,000 per annum. No. 71 Lexington av.

NEWLY AND HANDSOMELY FURNISHED apartments for five; healthy location. Address H. B., Station G.

TO LET—TWO LARGE SUITES IN THE NEW AND elegantly-furnished French apartment house, corner of 40th st. and Park av., facing the Park.

STORES, &C., TO LET.

TO LET—AN OFFICE IN THE TIMES BUILDING, second floor, 23 feet by 23 feet, in good condition, suitable for a lawyer's office. Apply to GEORGE JONES, Times Office.

TO LET FOR BUSINESS PURPOSES—LOFTS in 13th st., between 3d and 4th avs., with or without power; also, second floor at No. 114 East 14th st.; suitable for an office. Inquire at F. GROTE & CO., on the premises.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at

No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts.

Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M. Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY a lady for her chamber-maid and seamstress, whom she can thoroughly recommend; has been in her family seven years. Can be seen at the residence of present employer, No. 62 West 37th st., from 2 to 4 P. M., until engaged.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—A tidy breaking up housekeeping wishes to procure a place in a private family for an excellent German girl as chamber-maid and waitress. Call on or address No. 149 east 34th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY Can American Protestant girl, aged nineteen, with a small family, or do general house-work; City or country; first-class reference from last place of three years. Call at No. 420 West 36th st., first floor, rear.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A FIRST-CLASS CHAMber-maid; and would do fine washing; City reference from last place. Call at No. 201 West 17th st., second bell.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY A respectable girl as chamber-maid and laundress; best City reference from her last place. Call at No. 118 East 40th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl as chamber-maid and waitress, or to assist with fine washing; good City reference; country preferred. Address No. 160 West 50th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY AN AMERICAN GIRL AS first-class chamber-maid and plain sewing; would wait on ladies; best City reference. Can be seen from 10 to 5 o'clock at No. 344 East 60th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY Ca Protestant girl; is a good operator; willing and obliging; best City reference. Call at No. 230 East 22d st.

CHAMBER-MAID OR PARLOR-MAID.—BY A competent young girl; willing and obliging; seven years' reference. Call at No. 344 East 60th st., from 10 to 5.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A NORTH OF IRELAND Protestant to do chamber-work and waiting; is willing and obliging; has excellent reference. Call at No. 693 6th av.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY Ca young girl to a private family; is willing and obliging; eight years' reference. Call at No. 32 West 28th st., present employer's.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable Protestant girl as chamber-maid or would assist with washing, if required. Call for two days at No. 224 East 35th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY A YOUNG GIRL; or will do waiting; good City reference. Call at No. 130 West 20th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND DO FINE WASH-ing and ironing, by a young girl. Call or address No. 11 East 38th st., present employer.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL to do chamber-work and laundress; best City reference given. Call at No. 451 4th av.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTestant girl as chamber-maid and seamstress; good references. Call for two days at No. 117 West 41st st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable young girl; best City reference from her last place. Call at No. 161 West 27th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A COMPETENT CHAMbermaid; two years' reference from present employer. Can be seen for two days at No. 9 East 42d st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS Chamber-maid and waiter's; best City reference. Call at her last employer's, No. 72 West 11th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS Chamber-maid; fine washing; the best of City reference. Call at No. 342 East 49th st., first floor.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS Chamber-maid or waitress; City reference. Call at No. 224 East 35th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A GIRL TO DO CHAMber-work and assist with washing. Call at No. 223 East 29th st., top floor.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID.—TWO GIRLS TO DO the work of a small family; will go together or separate; one as cook; is a good bread and biscuit baker; the other as chamber-maid and waitress; no objections to do the washing; good City reference. Call at No. 344 8th av.

COOK, &c.—NURSE.—BY A YOUNG ENGLISH Woman, and daughter aged 15; is a good cook, washer, and ironer; the daughter understands the care of children; or we would do the work of a family; City reference. Call or address Mrs. Albert, No. 31 Monroe st.

COOK, &c.—CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY two competent girls, one as cook, washer, and ironer, the other as chamber-maid or waitress, in a private family; City or country; both have best City references. Call at No. 172 East 33d st.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY TWO Sisters, one as first-class cook, thoroughly competent, the other as chamber-maid and waitress; very best City references; both thoroughly reinstated. Call at 60 East 41st st., between Madison and 4th avs.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY TWO RE-spectable young girls (sisters) together or separate, in a private family; one as first-class cook; other as chamber-maid and waitress; three years' reference from last place. Call at No. 208 East 45th st.

COOK.—BY AN AMERICAN PROTESTANT MARried woman, with a little boy, as good plain cook; is a good bread and biscuit maker; will assist with washing and ironing; good City reference. Call at No. 693 6th av., between 39th and 40th sts., in bakery.

COOK.—BY A SCOTCH WOMAN AS COOK; NO objection to assist with washing and ironing; willing to go a short distance in the country; good reference from her last place. Can be seen for two days at No. 581 11th av.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RESpectable young woman in a small private family; three years' City reference. Call for two days at No. 24 West 43d st.

COOK.—BY AN ENGLISH GIRL AS FIRST-CLASS Cook; thoroughly competent in all branches of cooking; best of City reference; City or country. Call at No. 124 West 33d st.

COOK.—BY A NORTH OF IRELAND YOUNG Woman, is a good cook; willing to assist with washing and ironing; best of City reference. Call at No. 250 west 47th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT GIRL Can good plain cook; understands bread and pastry; excellent laundress; City or country; good reference. Call at No. 113 West 27th st., basement.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN; FIRST-CLASS, thoroughly competent, and has best City reference. Call for two days at No. 235 East 29th st., second floor, front.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG WOMAN; will assist with washing; best City reference from last place. Can be seen for two days at No. 142 West 28th st., two stairs up.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A Good, respectable young woman as a good plain cook and excellent washer and ironer; good City reference. Call at No. 304 East 35th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY AN American girl, as good cook, washer, and ironer in a small private family; good City reference. Call at No. 248 West 30th st.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN AS GOOD Cook and baker; will help with washing; best of City reference for honesty and sobriety. Call at No. 545 8th av.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT PERSON, THOROughly understands all kinds of family cooking; will assist with washing; three years' City reference. Call at No 7 West 18th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT WOMan, good plain cook and assist with washing and ironing; private family; City reference. Call at No. 30½ West 13th st., between 6th and 6th avs.

COOK.—BY AN EXPERIENCED YOUNG WOMAN Cas cook; good bread and biscuit baker; good laundress; will go round willing and obliging; good references. Call at No. 317 West 4 st st., rear.

COOK, WASHER AND IRONER.—BY A RESpectable young woman; good City reference. Call at No. 130 West 20th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN; WILL AS-sist with the washing and ironing; good City reference. Call at No. 225 West 53d st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG WOMAN AS Good cook, washer, and ironer, or as a good laundress; best City references. Call at 212 East 26th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE family; best City reference from her last place. Call at No. 685 6th av., near 39th st.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN; IS A GOOD Cbaker of bread and biscuits; City references. Call at No 931 6th av., shoe store.

COOK, WASHER AND IRONER, OR TO do house-work in a private family; has six years' City reference. Call at No. 226 East 46th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK; THE BEST Cof City references. Call for two days at No. 207 West 18th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG GIRL AS Cook or second girl in a small family; best City reference. Call for two days at No. 331 east 29th st.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS PLAIN COOK, washer, and ironer in a small private family; good references. Call at No 140 East 53d st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE family. Can be seen at her present employer's, No. 13 East 26th st.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS COOK; WILLing to assist with washing; has good City reference. Call at No. 311 East 25th st. for two days.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS ENGLISH PROTESTant cook; best of references. Call a 424 4th av.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY AN EXPERIENCED DRESS maker from broadway engagements by day or week; City or country; stylish trimmer; perfect fitting, cutting, basting; altering equal to new; $1 50 per day. Call or address V. B., No. 839 6th av., second floor; no cards.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY AN EXPERIENCED DRESS maker, who has been in some of the leading establishments in New-York, a few customers at her home; a perfect fit guaranteed. Call or address No. 21 Clinton place, between Broadway and University place.

DRESS-MAKER.—A PERFECT FASHION CUTTER wants work; gives lessons on Wheeler & Wilson's machine at $1 per day; ten years' City reference. Address D. L., Box No. 322 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY THE DAY; CAN CUT AND fit ladies' and children's suits; has a Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine; monthly fashions. Call at No. 224 West 38th st.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY AN ECONOMICAL CUTter, good fitter, and stylish trimmer, a few more engagements by the day. Call or address Dress-maker, No. 104 Waverly place.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY A PROTESTANT WOman as working housekeeper, or to do the work of a small family, where she can have her little girl, twelve years old, who can be very useful; best of references; City or country. Address R. S. Hill, No. 1,452 3d av.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY AN EXPERIENCED NEWEngland housekeeper, in a small, first-class private family; is cheerful and obliging, and expects to be useful; pleasant home more an object than compensation; best references furnished. Call or address Advertiser, No. 213 east 18th st.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY AN ENGLISH WOMAN, Not any position where strict integrity would be appreciated; has had great experience in the care of children; good City reference. Apply at No. 45 Charles st.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY A FRENCH LADY, WHO is a thorough housekeeper, experienced in the care of children, a good dress-maker, can operate on machine, &c.; best reference. Address No. 7 Patchin place, (10th st.,) near 6th av.

HOUSEKEEPER OR SEAMSTRESS.—BY A first-class American lady; wages no object; a good home desired; first-class references. Address House, Box No. 305 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY A THOROUGHLY COMPEtent housekeeper; City or country; understands all work connected with farm life; no objection to children, in widower's family; unquestionable references. Address American, Y. W. C. A., 7 East 15th st.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY A MAN; WOULD BE willing to take charge of a house, as he will be occupied during the day, or as janitor; good City reference. Apply for three days at No. 440 4th av.

KITCHEN-MAID.—IN A HOTEL OR RESTAUrant; good City reference. Call or address No. 94 Allen st., room No. 20.

LADY'S MAID.—THE ADVERTISER, A COMpetent French maid and seamstress, desires a position with a family going to Europe; would take charge of children. Address by note H. B., No. 121 6th av.

LAUNDRESS.—FIRST-CLASS (FRENCH;) IN private family; dusting, pressing, and baby clothes a specialty; best City reference. Call for two days at No. 111 West 15th st., first floor.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A COMPETENT LAUNDRESS in a private family; best City reference. Call at No. 238 West 27th st., between 6th and 7th avs.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A FIRST-CLASS LAUNDRESS, for work and to cooking; best City reference from her last place. Call at No. 224 East 35th st.

LAUNDRESS.—BY AN EXCELLENT SWEDISH Laundress. Call at No. 207 Avenue A, near 13th st.

NURSE.—BY A MIDDLE-AGED AMERICAN LADY as nurse to an invalid; no object to go South; is a good dress-maker; would take the entire charge of children; can give best City reference. Address Mrs. Davis, No. 24 West 53d st., corner 6th av., first flat over the drug store.

NURSE.—BY A FRENCH PROTESTANT MIDDLEaged woman as nurse; can take entire charge of a young child, and sew, in a private family; has good references. Address C. S., Box No. 302 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NURSE.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL; NO OBJECtion to the country; has several years' reference. Apply at No. 34 1st av., in the store, for two days.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

NURSE.—BY A LADY FOR AN EXPERIENCED, trustworthy nurse; can take entire charge of an infant. Call for two days at present employer's, No. 158 west 16th st.

NURSE.—BY A COMPETENT PROTESTANT woman as sick nurse or would take charge of infant from its birth; best testimonials in the city. Call on or address No. 59 East 41st st., near Madison av.

NURSE.—BY A YOUNG PROTESTANT WOMAN; understands the care of young children; good seamstress; three years' City reference. Call for three days at No. 317 East 52d st.

NURSE.—BY A COMPETENT PERSON AS NURSE; has no objection to a baby; can give the best of City reference. Call or address No. 578 9th av., near 42d st.

NURSE.—CAN TAKE THE ENTIRE CHARGE OF an infant, and bring it up on the bottle; City reference from last place; City or country. Call at No. 131 West 19th st.

NURSE.—BY AN EXPERIENCED PROTESTANT nurse; can bring up a babe from its birth; is fond of children; City or country; best references. Call at No. 117 West 41st st.

NURSE.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS NURSE AND seamstress, or chamber-maid and waitress in a small family; best City reference. Call at No. 158 East 30th st., second floor.

NURSE.—TO A CHILD, AND PLAIN SEWING. Call at No. 140 West 31st st.

SEAMSTRESS—CHAMBER-MAID, AND Waitress.—By a respectable young woman as seamstress; has a good knowledge of dress-making and all kinds of family sewing; would wait on a lady; has a no objection to travel. Also, by a young girl as chamber-maid and waitress in a small family, or nurse to grown children and to do plain sewing. Call at present employer's, No. 117 East 34th st.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN as seamstress and chamber-maid, having worked with dress-makers for some time; operates on Wheeler & Wilson machine; wages no object; a good home desired. Call at 50 West 19th st., present employer's.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY AN ENGLISH PROTESTANT as first-class seamstress; can cut and fit; is a good operator on several machines; City reference. Call at No. 201 West 17th st., second bell.

SEAMSTRESS AND MAID—TO GROWING Children or a lady; cute and understands the care of children's clothes; best reference. Call at room No. 46 Gramercy Park House.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS SEAMStress; has her own machine—the Singer; would assist with chamber-work, or anything light. Can be seen at present employer's, No. 31 East 39th st.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A DRESS-MAKER AS SEAMStress in a genteel family where there are young ladies. Can be seen till engaged at 126 East 22d st.

TAILORESS.—BOYS' CLOTHES CUT AND MADE; work of all kinds done to families; also ladies' cloth garments. Address Pauline, No. 411 West 34th st.

WANTED—BY A SCOTCH LADY, AGED 26, A situation as house-keeper or companion to an invalid; could take charge of children's wardrobe. Address E. Adams, Box No. 220 Times Office.

WET NURSE.—BY A YOUNG MARRIED AMERIcan woman as wet nurse to take a child home or go out; milk five weeks old. Call at No. 548 West 46th st., rear.

WAITRESS.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS FIRSTclass waitress in a private family; four years' City reference from last place. Call at No. 61 West 44th st.

WAITRESS.—BY AN ENGLISH PROTESTANT as first-class waitress; first-class City reference. Call or address B. L., No. 306 East 66th st.

WAITRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG woman; has best City references. Call for two days at No. 619 2d av., near 31st st.

WASHING.—BY A COMPETENT LAUNDRESS, ladies', or gents', or family washing; fluting in the neatest style; no objection to go out by the day; has no incumbrance; reference. Call or address No. 301 East 35th st.

WASHING AND IRONING.—A FAMILY'S wash by the month or by the dozen on reasonable terms. Address, by card or person, No. 174 West 32d st.

WASHING AND IRONING.—BY A RESPECTAble woman, by the week or month, on reasonable terms. Call or address Mrs. Lomax, No. 129 West 26th st., in basement.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE COLORED woman, gentlemen's and ladies washing and ironing at her own house, or would go out by the day. Call or address Mrs. Simis, No. 692 8th av., first floor.

WASHING.—TO GO OUT WASHING OR HOUSEcleaning by the day or week; will do family or gentlemen

SHIPPING.

CUNARD LINE B. & N. A. R. M. S. P. CO.

NOTICE.

With the view of diminishing the chances of collision the steamers of this line take a specified course for all seasons of the year.

On the outward passage from Queenstown to New-York or Boston, crossing meridian of 50 at 43 latitude, or nothing to the north of 43.

On the homeward passage, crossing the meridian of 50 at 42, or nothing to the north of 42.

FROM NEW-YORK FOR LIVERPOOL AND QUEENSTOWN.
RUSSIA.....WED., Oct. 25 ALGERIA.....WED., Nov. 8
SCYTHIA.....WED., Nov. 1 BOTHNIA.....WED., Nov. 15

Steamers marked • do not carry steerage passengers.
Cabin passage, $80, $100, and $130, gold, according to accommodation. Return tickets at favorable terms.
Steerage tickets to and from all parts of Europe at very low rates. Freight and passage office, No. 4 Bowling Green.
CHAS G. FRANCKLYN, Agent.

WHITE STAR LINE.

FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL. CARRYING UNITED STATES MAIL.

The steamers of this line take the Lane Routes recommended by Lieut. Maury, U. S. N., going south of the Banks on the passage to Queenstown and the year round.

ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1:30 P. M.
BRITANNIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 11, 1:30 P. M.
GERMANIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 25, at noon
CELTIC.....SATURDAY, Dec. 2, at 5:30 A. M.

From White Star Dock Pier No. 52 North River.

These steamers are uniform in size and unsurpassed in appointments. The saloon, staterooms, smoking and bath rooms are amidships, where the noise and motion are least felt, affording a degree of comfort hitherto unattainable at sea.

Rates—Saloon $80 and $100, gold; return tickets at favorable terms; steerage, $28.

For inspection of plans and other information apply at the Company's offices, No. 37 Broadway, New-York.
E. J. LEYLAND, Agent.

"LIVERPOOL AND GREAT WESTERN STEAM COMPANY. (LIMITED.)

LIVERPOOL, (Via Queenstown,)

CARRYING THE UNITED STATES MAIL.

TUESDAY.

Leaving Pier No. 46 North River as follows:

MONTANA.....Oct. 24, at 10 A. M.
NEVADA.....Oct. 31, at 3 P. M.
WISCONSIN.....Nov. 7, at 9:30 A. M.
WYOMING.....Nov. 14, at 3 P. M.
DAKOTA.....Nov. 21, at 9 A. M.

RATES FOR PASSAGE AND BOARD.

Steerage $26 (intermediate, $35); cabin, $75 to $80, according to state-room. Offices, No. 29 Broadway.
WILLIAMS & GUION.

ATLAS MAIL LINE.

BI-MONTHLY SERVICE TO JAMAICA, HAYTI, COLOMBIA, and ASPINWALL, and to PANAMA and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall). First-class full-powered iron screw steamers from Pier 50 North River.

For KINGSTON (Jam.) and HAYTI.

ATLAS.....Nov. 1
CLARIDA.....About Nov. 20

For HAYTI, COLOMBIA, ISTHMUS OF PANAMA, and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall.)

ANDES.....Nov. 4
CLYDE.....Nov. 20

Superior first-class passage accommodations.
PIM, FORWOOD & CO., Agents.
No. 56 Wall st.

ONLY DIRECT LINE TO FRANCE.

THE GENERAL TRANSATLANTIC COMPANY'S MAIL STEAMERS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND HAVRE, calling at PLYMOUTH (G. B.) for the landing of Passengers.

Cabins provided with electric bells. Sailing from Pier No. 43 North River, foot of Barrow st., as follows:
ST. LAURENT (new ship).....Saturday, Oct. 28, at 9 A. M.
FRANCE, Trudelle.....Saturday, Oct. 28, at 9 P. M.
ST. GERMAIN, Kerguion.....Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7:30 A.M.

RATES OF PASSAGE IN GOLD, (including wine,) first cabin, $110 to $120, according to accommodation; second cabin, $75; third cabin, $40. Return tickets at reduced rates. Steerage, $24 with superior accommodations, including wine, bedding, and meals without extra charge. Passengers marked thus • do not carry steerage passengers.

The passengers of ST. LAURENT are requested to be on board on TUESDAY, Oct. 24, at 5 P. M.
LOUIS DE BEBIAN, Agent, 55 Broadway.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE.

SAILING FROM PIER NO 29 NORTH RIVER.
SUNDAYS, THURSDAYS, and SATURDAYS at 3 P. M.,
FOR CHARLESTON, S. C., FLORIDA, THE SOUTH, AND SOUTH-WEST.

CLEOPATRA.....TUESDAY.....Oct. 24
CHAMPION.....THURSDAY.....Oct. 26
CHARLESTON.....SATURDAY.....Oct. 28

SUPERIOR PASSENGER ACCOMMODATIONS.
Insurance to destination one-half of one per cent.
Goods forwarded free of commission. Passenger ticket stand bills of lading issued and viséed at the office of
JAMES W. QUINTARD & CO., Agents,
No. 177 West st., corner Warren.
Or W. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 6 Bowling Green.
Or SECRETARY D. HASKELL, General Agent
Great Southern Freight Line, 317 Broadway.

STATE LINE.

NEW-YORK TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, DUBLIN, BELFAST, AND LONDONDERRY.

These first-class full-powered steamers will sail from Pier No. 42 North River, foot of Canal st.

STATE OF NEVADA.....Thursday, Oct. 26
STATE OF INDIANA.....Thursday, Nov. 2
STATE OF GEORGIA.....Thursday, Nov. 9
STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA.....Thursday, Nov. 16

And every alternate Thursday thereafter. First cabin, $80, and $70, according to accommodations; return tickets, $110, $125. Second cabin, $45; return tickets, $80. Steerage at lowest rates. Apply to
AUSTIN BALDWIN & CO., Agents,
No. 72 Broadway, New-York.

STEERAGE tickets at No. 45 Broadway, and at the company's pier, foot of Canal st., North River.

ANCHOR LINE U. S. MAIL STEAMERS.

NEW-YORK AND GLASGOW.

California, Oct. 28, 1 P. M. | Victoria, Nov. 11, 1 P. M.
Bhiegen.....Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Scotia.....Nov. 18, 7 A. M.

NEW-YORK TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, OR DERRY.

Cabins $65 to $80, according to accommodations; Intermediate, $35; Steerage, $28.

NEW-YORK AND LONDON.

Australia, Oct. 28, noon | Anglia, Nov. 18, 7 A. M.
Nigna, Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Utopia, Nov. 25, 11 A. M.

Cabins $55 to $70. Steerage, $28. Cabin excursion tickets at reduced rates. Drafts issued for any amount at current rates. Company's pier Nos. 20 and 21, North River, N. R.
HENDERSON BROTHERS,
Agents, No. 7 Bowling Green.

NORTH GERMAN LLOYD.

STEAM-SHIP LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, SOUTHAMPTON, AND BREMEN.

Company's Pier, foot of 20th st., Hoboken.

MOSEL.....Sat., Oct. 28 | RHEIN.....Sat., Nov. 11
WESER.....Sat., Nov. 4 | DONAU.....Sat., Nov. 18

RATES OF PASSAGE FROM NEW-YORK TO SOUTHAMPTON, HAVRE, OR BREMEN:

First cabin.....$100 gold
Second cabin.....60 gold
Steerage.....30 currency

Return tickets at reduced rates. Prepaid steerage certificates, $32 currency. For freight or passage apply to OELRICHS & CO., No. 2 Bowling Green.

NATIONAL LINE, Piers Nos. 44 and 47 N. River.
FOR LONDON.

Canada.....Saturday, Oct. 28 at 2 P. M.
FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.
The Queen.....Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 9 A. M.
Italy.....Saturday, Oct. 28, 2 P. M.

Cabin passage, $55, $60, or $70, currency. Return tickets, $100, $110, or $120, currency. Steerage passage, $26, currency. Drafts issued from £1 upward at current rates.
Company's office, No. 69 Broadway.
F. W. J. HURST, Manager.

INMAN LINE.—MAIL STEAMERS.

FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.

CITY OF CHESTER, Saturday, Oct. 28, at 1 P. M.
CITY OF RICHMOND, Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7 A. M.
CITY OF BERLIN, Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 A. M.

From Pier 45 North River.

CABIN, $80 and $100, GOLD. Return tickets on favorable terms. STEERAGE, $24. Currency Drafts issued at lowest rates.
Saloons, State-rooms, Smoking, and Bath-rooms amidships.
JOHN G. DALE, Agent,
Nos. 15 and 33 Broadway, N. Y.

FOR SAVANNAH, GA.,

THE FLORIDA PORTS,
AND THE SOUTH AND SOUTH-WEST.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE, CENTRAL RAILROAD OF GEORGIA, AND ATLANTIC AND GULF RAILROAD.

WEDNESDAYS AND SATURDAYS.

B. LIVINGSTON, Capt. MALLORY, WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, from Pier No. 13 East River, at 3 P. M.
MURRAY, FERRIS & CO., Agents,
No. 62 South st.

SAN SALVADOR, Capt. NICKERSON, SATURDAY, Oct. 28, from Pier No. 43 North River, at 3 P. M.
GEO. YONGE, Agent,
No. 409 Broadway.

Insurance on this line ONE-HALF PER CENT. Superior accommodations for passengers.
Through rates and bills of lading in connection with Central Railroad of Georgia and connecting lines.
Through rates and bills of lading in connection with the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad and Florida steamers.
GEORGE YONGE,
Agent Central Railroad of Georgia,
No. 409 Broadway.

PANAMA TRANSIT AND PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP LINES.

FOR CALIFORNIA, JAPAN, CHINA, AUSTRALIA, NEW-ZEALAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA, OREGON, &c.
Sailing from Pier No. 42 North River.

For SAN FRANCISCO, via ISTHMUS OF PANAMA
Steam-ship ACAPULCO.....Tuesday, Oct. 31
connecting for Central America and South Pacific ports.

From SAN FRANCISCO to JAPAN and CHINA,
Steam-ship CITY OF TOKIO.....Wednesday, Nov. 1
From San Francisco to Sandwich Islands, Australia, and New-Zealand.
Steam-ship CITY OF SYDNEY.....Nov. 8

For freight or passage apply to
WM. H. CLYDE & CO. and J. D. SULLIVAN, Superintendent
No. 6 Bowling Green. Pier 42 N. R., foot Canal st.

NEW-YORK, HAVANA, AND MEXICAN MAIL S. S. CO.

Steamers leave Pier No. 3 North River at 2 P. M.
FOR HAVANA DIRECT.

CITY OF NEW-YORK.....Thursday, Oct. 26
CITY OF HAVANA.....Saturday, Oct. 28
CITY OF VERA CRUZ.....Wednesday, Nov. 8

FOR VERA CRUZ AND NEW-ORLEANS, Via Havana, Progreso, Campeachy, Tuxpan, and Tampico.

CITY OF MEXICO.....Saturday, Nov. 4

For freight or passage apply to
F. ALEXANDRE & SONS, Nos. 31 and 33 Broadway.
Steamers will leave New-Orleans Oct. 23 and Nov. 12 for Vera Cruz and all the above ports.

NEW-YORK AND HAVANA DIRECT MAIL LINE.

These first-class steamships sail regularly at 3 P. M., from Pier No. 13 North River as follows:
CRESCENT CITY.....TUESDAY, Oct. 24
COLUMBUS.....WEDNESDAY, Nov. 1

Accommodations unsurpassed. For freight or passage apply to WM. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 6 Bowling Green. SCHILLER LULING & CO., Agents in Havana.

SHIPPING.

WILSON LINE FOR SOUTHAMPTON AND HULL.

Sailing from Pier No. 53 North River, as follows:
NAVARINO.....Oct. 28 OTHELLO.....Nov. 18
COLOMBO.....Nov. 4 RHINDOO.....Dec. 2

First cabin, $70; currency, second cabin, $45; circular excursion tickets on very favorable terms.
Through tickets issued to Continental and Baltic ports. Apply for full particulars to CHARLES L. WRIGHT & CO., No. 59 South st.

HAMBURG American Packet Company's Line, for PLYMOUTH, CHERBOURG, and HAMBURG.
CIMBRIA.....Oct. 26 POMMERANIA.....Nov. 9
GELLERT.....Nov. 6 SUEVIA.....Nov. 16

Rates of passage to Plymouth, London, Cherbourg, Hamburg, and all points in England: First Cabin, $100 gold; Second Cabin, $60 gold; Steerage, $30, currency.
KUNHARDT & CO., C. B. RICHARD & BOAS,
General Agents, General Passenger Agents,
61 Broad st., N. Y. 61 Broadway, N. Y.

RAILROADS.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW-JERSEY.

ALLENTOWN LINE.—Ferry stations in New-York, foot of Cortlandt and foot of Clarkson st., up town. Freight station, foot of Liberty st.

Commencing Oct. 2, 1876—Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., as follows:

5:40 A. M.—MAIL TRAIN for Easton, Belvidere, Bethlehem, Bath, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamanend, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Carbondale, &c.; connects at Bound Brook for Trenton and Philadelphia at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

7:15 A. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

8:45 A. M.—MORNING EXPRESS, daily, (except Sundays,) for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Harrisburg, and the West. Connects at Easton for Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Towanda, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Danville, Williamsport, &c.

*1:00 P. M.—EXPRESS for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Sharon, Reading, Columbia, Lancaster, Ephrata, Pottsville, Harrisburg, &c.

4:00 P. M.—For High Bridge Branch, Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, and Mauch Chunk; connects at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

*4:30 P. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

5:15 P. M.—For Bound Brook.

*5:30 P. M.—EVENING EXPRESS, daily, for Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Towanda, Reading, Harrisburg and the West.

*8:30 P. M.—For Easton.

Boats leave foot of Clarkson st., no-town, at 6:38, 7:35, 9:05, 10:05, 1:35 A. M.; 12:50, 1:50, 3:20, 4:20, 5:20, 6:20, 7:20, 8:20, 10:05, 11:50 P. M.

Connection is made by Clarkson Street Ferry at Jersey City with all trains marked *

For trains to local points see time-table at stations.

NEW-YORK AND LONG BRANCH DIVISION.

ALL-RAIL LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ASBURY PARK AND SQUAN.

Time-table of Oct. 2, 1876: Trains leave New-York from foot of Liberty st., North River, at 8:15, 11:45 A. M., 4:45 P. M.

From foot of Clarkson st. at 11:35 A. M., 4:20 P. M.

Stages to and from Keyport connect at Matawan Station with all trains.

NEW-YORK AND PHILADELPHIA NEW LINE. BOUND BROOK ROUTE.

For Trenton, Philadelphia and the Centennial.
(Commencing MONDAY, Oct. 9, 1876, trains

Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., at 5:40, 6:45, 7:45, 9:15 A. M., 12:30, 5, 6:30 P. M.

Leave foot of Clarkson st. at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05 A. M., 12:50, 4:20, 6:20 P. M.

Leave Philadelphia from station North Pennsylvania Railroad, 3d and Berks sts., at 7:30, 9:30 A. M., 1:30, 3:20, 5, 8:30 P. M. Leave Centennial Grounds at 7:05, 9:5 A. M., 3:15, 5, 8:30, 6:10 P. M.

PULLMAN DRAWING ROOM CARS are attached to the 7:45 and 9:15 A. M. trains from New-York and to trains leaving Centennial Grounds at 4:50 and 6:10 P. M.

All trains connect at Trenton Junction to and from Trenton.

Leave Trenton for New-York at 5:45, 8:15, 10:20 A. M., 2:10, 3:45, 6:45, 7:20 P. M.

Rates for passengers and freight as low as by other routes.

CENTENNIAL PASSENGERS delivered at the main entrance to the Centennial Grounds.
H. P. BALDWIN,
Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

GREAT TRUNK LINE
AND UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

Trains leave New-York, via Desbrosses and Cortlandt Street Ferries, as follows:

Express for Harrisburg, Pittsburg, the West and South, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, 9:30 A. M., 6 and 8:30 P. M. Sunday, 6 and 8:30 P. M.

For Williamsport, Lock Haven, Corry, and Erie at 2:40 and 8:30 P. M., connecting at Corry for Titusville, Petroleum Centre, and the Oil Regions.

For Baltimore, Washington, and the south, "Limited Washington Express" of Pullman Parlor Cars daily, except Sunday, 9:30 A. M.; arrive Washington, 4:15 P. M. Regular at 9:40 A. M., 2:40, and 9 P. M. Sunday, 9:40 A. M. only.

Express for Philadelphia, 7:30, 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30, 2:40, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8:30, 9 P. M. and 12 night. Accommodation 7 A. M. and 4:16 P. M. Sunday 8 A. M., 5, 6, 7, 8:30, and 9 P. M. Emigrant and second class 7 P. M.

For Centennial Depot at 5:30, 6:30, 7:20, 8 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30, 3, and 4 P. M. On Sunday 8 A. M. Returning, leave Centennial Depot at 7:5, 8:15, 10:50 A. M., 1:15, 3:30, 4:45, 6:30, 8, 9:50, and 7:05 P. M. On Sunday 7:20 A. M. and 7 P. M.

For trains to Newark, Elizabeth, Railway, Princeton, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Flemington, Belvidere, and other points, see local schedules at all Ticket Offices.

Trains arrive: From Pittsburg, 2:20 and 10:30 A. M. and 10:20 P. M. daily; 10:10 A. M. and 6:50 P. M. daily, except Monday. From Washington and Baltimore, 5:30, 9:40 A. M., 4:10, 5:10, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 5:30, 9:40 A. M. From Philadelphia, 5:05, 6:20, 6:30, 8:40, 10:10, 11:20, 11:50 A. M., 2:10, 3:50, 4:10, 5:10, 6:10, 7:50, 7:35, 7:40, 8:40, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 5:05, 6:20, 6:30, 9:50, 10:10, 11:50 A. M., 6:50 and 10:20 P. M.

Ticket Offices—Nos. 526 and 944 Broadway, No. 1 Astor House, and foot of Desbrosses and Cortlandt sts.; No. 4 Court st., Brooklyn. Nos. 114, 116, and 118 Hudson st., Hoboken. Depot Jersey City. Emigrant Ticket Office, No. 8 Battery place.
D. M. BOYD, Jr., General Passenger Agent.
FRANK THOMSON, General Manager.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL AND HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.—After Sept. 18, 1876, through trains will leave Grand Central Depot:

8:00 A. M., Chicago and Northern Express, with drawing-room cars through to Rochester and St. Albans, Vt.

10:30 A. M., special Chicago Express, with drawing-room cars to Rochester, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls.

11:50 A. M., North- and West-ern Express.

3:30 P. M., special Albany, Troy, and Western Express. Connects at East Albany with night express for the West.

4:00 P. M., Montreal Express, with sleeping cars from New-York to Montreal.

6:00 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Watertown and Canandaigua. Also for Montreal via Plattsburg.

8:30 P. M., Pacific Express, daily, with sleeping cars for Rochester, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Cleveland, Louisville, and St. Louis. Also for Chicago, via both L. S. and M. C. Railroads.

11:00 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Albany and Troy. Way trains as per local Time Table.

Tickets for sale at Nos. 252 and 413 Broadway, and at Westcott Express Company's offices, Nos. 7 Park place, 785 and 942 Broadway, New-York, and 333 Washington st., Brooklyn.
C. B. MEEKER, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

ARRANGEMENT OF PASSENGER TRAINS, April 16 1876.

Leave depots foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses sts., at 7 A. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Beaver Meadows, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Mount Carmel, Shamokin, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, &c., connecting with trains for Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West.

1:30 P. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, &c., making close connection for Reading, Pottsville, and Harrisburg.

4 P. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, and Mauch Chunk, stopping at all stations.

6:30 P. M.—Night Express, daily, for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West. Pullman's sleeping coaches attached.

General Kaiser office corner Church and Cortlandt sts., CHARLES H. CUMMINGS, Agent.
ROBERT H. SAYRE, Superintendent and Engineer

ERIE RAILWAY.

Summer Arrangement of through trains, 1876. From Chambers Street Depot. (For 23d st. see note below.)

8:00 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Cincinnati and Chicago Day Express. Drawing-room coaches to Buffalo and sleeping coaches to Cincinnati and Detroit. Sleeping coaches to Chicago.

10:45 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Express Mail for Buffalo and the West. Sleeping coach to Buffalo.

7:00 P. M., daily, Pacific Express to the West. Sleeping coaches through to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cincinnati, and Chicago, without change. Hotel dining coaches to Cleveland and Chicago.

7:00 P. M., except Sundays, Western Emigrant train.

Above trains leave Twenty-third Street Ferry at 8:45 and Hoboken, 9 A. M. and 12:45 P. M.

For local trains see time-tables and cards in hotels and depots.

JNO. N. ABBOTT, General Passenger Agent.

NEW-YORK, NEW-HAVEN, AND HARTFORD RAILROAD,

After June 11, 1876, trains leave Grand Central Depot (42d st.) for New-Canaan Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 4:40, and 5:45 P. M.; Danbury and Norwalk Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 3:15, and 4:40 P. M.; Naugatuck Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; Housatonic Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; New-Haven and Northampton Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; Boston and Albany Railroad at 8:05 and 11 A. M., and 3 and 9 P. M. (9 P. M. on Sundays); Boston via shore Line) at 11 and 10 P. M. (10 P. M. on Sundays.)

Way trains as per local time tables.
J. T. MOODY, Superintendent New-York Division.
E. H. REED, Vice President, New-York.

WICKFORD RAILROAD ROUTE TO NEWPORT, R. I.—Passengers for this line take 8:05 A. M. and 1 P. M. express trains from Grand Central Depot, arriving at 4:25 and 9 P. M., at Newport.
THEODORE WARREN, Superintendent.

AUCTION SALES.

A PEREMPTORY SALE.
RICHARD V. HARNETT, Auctioneer,
Will sell at auction on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25,
at 10 o'clock A. M. at
No 18 East 40th st. between 5th and Madison aves.,
By order of Josiah Jex, Esq., large and valuable collection of oil-paintings by the following artists: Gentile de Fabi, Starkenburgh, Fitzpatrick, Cole, Sonnio, Achenbach, Toussaint, Freeman, Reed, Hübner, Sommer, Chater, Werner, Jacobsen, Co bett, Corbet, Scobie, Hall, Hoguet, Tait, and others; superb bronzes, &c.

Rich rosewood parlor suites, pier and mantel mirrors of the most beautiful designs, Phelan & Colonel r billiard-table, sets of harness, lace and satin damask window hangings, moquet and Brussels carpets, chandeliers and gas-fixtures, carved black-walnut bookcases, — feet high, and — feet wide, library furniture, rosewood, black walnut, and oak bedsteads and bedroom suites, beddings, black-walnut buffet, black-walnut extension dining-room table and chairs, china and glassware, black-walnut hall hat-stand with mirror, kitchen furniture, refrigerator, and all that belongs to a first-class house.

Catalogues and permits to inspect pictures at auctioneer's office, No. 111 Broadway, basement.

By JOHN H. DRAPER & Co., Auctioneers.
THE DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY
will sell
100,000 TONS
SCRANTON COAL
at public auction, on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, at 12 o'clock noon, at No. 26 Exchange place.
SAMUEL SLOAN, President.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at
No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts.
Open daily, Sundays excluded, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 8 P. M.

NO. 434 5TH AV.

A SUPERB SUITE OF APARTMENTS,

WITH PRIVATE TABLE, &c.

A SMALL PRIVATE FAMILY LIVING IN their own house, near 37th st., 5th and Madison avs., would rent an elegantly-furnished large room on the second floor, with private bath and dressing-room, to a gentleman wishing a refined home; table and accommodations unexceptionable; only the family, four adults, in the house; reference exchanged. Address C. MORSE, Box No. 319 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

FIFTH AVENUE NEAR 30TH ST.—PRIVATE family offer handsomely furnished suites on second and third floors, with strictly first-class board at reasonable rates; references exchanged. Address M. B., Box No. 2,468 Post Office.

BROOKLYN HEIGHTS, THREE MINUTES' walk from Wall Street Ferry, choice location, first-class board, at reasonable rates. Please inquire at No. 5 Montague Terrace, third house south of Montague st.; references each need. Rise 2d and 3d story rooms.

NO. 28 WEST 12TH ST., WEST OF 5TH AV.—Small home, handsomely furnished rooms, large and small, suitable for a family or party of gentlemen; house and table first-class.

A PRIVATE FAMILY CAN ACCOMMODate five persons (no others) with handsomely-furnished rooms and good board, at reasonable rates; house and location first-class; reference. Call at No. 223 West 34th st.

SUNNY FRONT SUITES ON SECOND AND third floors, with superior board, near 5th av.; terms moderate; references exchanged. Address ENGLAND, Box No. 320 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NO. 43 WEST 28TH ST., NEAR BROADWAY, several large handsome rooms to let, with or without board, in newly furnished first-class house; references exchanged.

FIFTH AV., NO. 81—FIRST DOOR BELOW 16TH ST.—M. E. GAGE.—A suite of three rooms, front, together or separately, with board; also, fourth floor rooms; reference exchanged.

HANDSOME, NEWLY-FURNISHED SUITES of rooms, with board; also single rooms and elegant house, in a desirable location, near station of elevated railroad. No. 347 West 34th st.

A LARGE THIRD-STORY ROOM, VERY desirable, to two gentlemen; first-class board; Madison av., near 30th st. Address G., Box No. 292 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NO. 68 WEST 46TH ST., BETWEEN 5TH AND 6TH AVS.—Choice double and single rooms; families and single gentlemen; also, table board; $7 per week.

NO. 14 WEST 16TH ST., NEAR 5TH AV. Handsome rooms, with excellent board, suitable for families or single gentlemen; table and service unexceptionable. F. LACHENMEYER.

ONE SUITE OF ROOMS, AND ONE SINGLE room, elegant and convenient in every respect, with board; family occupying their own house, No. 43 West 22d st.; highest references exchanged.

NO. 58 WEST 33D ST.

Large, handsome 3-furnished rooms on second floor to let, with first-class board; one room on fourth floor; terms moderate; references exchanged.

CHOICE SECOND-STORY FRONT ROOM, large bedroom adjoining, also commodious single room, with good board; dining-room on parlor floor. No. 36 E. 12th st.

NO. 54 EAST 49TH ST.—A PARTY OWNING their house have a second floor, also other rooms, en suite or separately, with excellent board; references.

NO. 6 EAST 32D ST.—HANDSOME ROOMS; parlor floor; second floor, four light rooms; third floor, front, with board; private table if desired; terms reasonable.

THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NO. 67, BETWEEN 5th and 6th avs.—To let from Nov. 1, possibly sooner, with private tables, second, third, or upper floors to a first-class family house.

ONE GENTLEMAN CAN HAVE A PLEASANT room, with good board, in a private family, on 32d st., between 5th and 6th avs., for $7 per week. Address QUIET HOME, Station E.

MRS. M. E. JEENS, NO. 48 WEST 15TH st., offers three desirable connecting rooms, with board; also, pleasant back room for a gentleman.

ONE SUITE VERY DESIRABLE SECOND-story rooms, with board. No. 153 Madison av., corner 32d st.

NO. 4 WEST 29TH ST.—WITH BOARD, LARGE, handsome rooms, singly or en suite. References exchanged.

FIFTH AV., NO. 298 MADISON PARK,Ches erfield House; second floor front; other rooms. Private table or table d'hote.

FIFTH AV., NO. 491.—SECOND FLOOR, WITH board; also rooms on third floor; unexceptionable references.

NO. 74 WEST 35TH ST.—A SECOND FLOOR, well furnished; excellent board; also two rooms on third floor; terms moderate; references.

NO. 6 EAST 34TH ST.—ROOMS, SINGLY OR en suite, with private table if desired; references exchanged.

DESIRABLE ROOMS, CENTRALLY LOCATED, transient or otherwise, with or without board. No. 121 East 26th st.

DESIRABLE FRONT ROOMS, CONNECTING, on second and third floors, with board, at No. 33 West 27th st.

FIFTH AV., NO. 45, BETWEEN 11TH AND 12TH STS.—Spacious suite of apartments on parlor floor, with or without private table.

ONE NICELY FURNISHED SUITE OF rooms, with private table if desired, No. 122 West 21st st.

TO LET—TO GENTLEMEN ONLY, TWO OR three single rooms, with or without board; reference exchanged. No. 54 West 23d st.

TWENTY-THIRD ST., NO. 115 EAST.—Front parlor and bedroom on second floor, with board; also, room on upper floor; highest references.

NO. 18 EAST 32D ST.—ELEGANT SECOND and suite on third floor.; private table if desired; rooms for gentlemen; references.

NO. 239 EAST 32D ST.—TWO LARGE ROOMS, second floor, partly furnished, with or without board; terms easy; private family; good locality.

A FURNISHED FRONT AND HALL ROOM, second floor; first-class board; references. No. 338 West 23d st.

FIFTH AV., NO. 351.—ENTIRE THIRD STORY; four rooms; excellent table and attendance; $65 per week; also fourth-story rooms.

NO. 33 WEST 33D ST.—SUNNY FRONT SUITES; superior board or private tables; also rooms for gentlemen.

FIFTH AV., NO. 5, NEAR THE BREVOORT.—A second floor, handsomely furnished; also, single rooms; table unexceptionable.

ONE LARGE ROOM WITH BOARD TO gentleman and wife or two gentlemen, also one single room; reference. No. 34 West 26th st.

NO. 136 EAST 23D ST.—ROOMS EN SUITE OR singly; private table if desired; good board; references.

NO. 238 EAST 12TH ST.—A HANDSOME RECeption and bedroom connecting to let with board; also front room on second floor.

NO. 335 WEST 28TH ST.—HANDSOME NEWly furnished rooms with board; also table-board; terms very moderate.

NO. 60 WEST 38TH ST., BETWEEN 5TH AND 6TH AVS.—Elegant rooms, with board; single rooms for gentlemen; gas; best reference.

ONE DOOR FROM MADISON SQUARE, No. 33 East 23d st.—Elegantly furnished floors, with private tables.

MURRAY HILL.—NO. 112 EAST 37TH ST., near Park av., second floor, en suite or singly, with board, in private family.

A SECOND-FLOOR ROOM, WITH OR without board; also second floor, front hall room, at No. 237 West 53d st.

AT $14 AND $16 FOR TWO.—HANDSOME rooms, first-class board; quiet, central location. Address HOME, Times office.

NO. 129 WEST 15TH ST., BETWEEN 6TH and 7th avs.—To let, a comfortable furnished room on second floor, suitable for two, with or without board.

NO. 11 WEST 30TH ST.—ROOMS ON SECOND floor, single room on third floor, with board; references.

NO. 9 WEST 21ST ST.—MOST ATTRACTIVE locality; appointments desirable; rooms en suite or singly, with board; references.

NO. 8 EAST 9TH ST., NEAR 5TH AV.—Desirable suites of furnished rooms to let, with or without private table; references.

NO. 17 EAST 37TH ST.—A PLEASANT SUITE of lofty rooms to let, with board; also room on fourth floor; references.

NO. 4 EAST 10TH ST., ONE DOOR FROM 6TH AV.—Handsome apartments to first-class parties; meals at option of occupants.

NO. 36 EAST 23D ST.—LARGE AND ELEGANT rooms to let, with first-class board; references exchanged.

FIFTH AV., NO. 291.—ELEGANTLY-FURnished apartments, with board, for families and gentlemen; private table if desired.

FIFTH AV., NO. 311.—MRS. SEAVER WILL rent second floor, with private table, from Nov. 1; third floor immediately.

MRS. WILLIS,
No. 3 West 30th st.
Handsome suite of rooms, with board.

NO. 105 WEST 44TH ST.—ELEGANT ROOMS singly or en suite; first-class table; references.

NO. 18 WEST 21ST ST.—FURNISHED ROOMS to let, with board; references exchanged.

NO. 28 WEST 31ST ST.—SUNNY SUITES APARTments, with private table if desired; references.

NO. 29 WEST 21ST ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished rooms, with board; references.

HANDSOMELY-FURNISHED ROOMS, with first-class board. No. 158 West 45th st.

NO. 141 WEST 44TH ST.—ELEGANT ROOMS, singly or en suite; table first-class; references.

A FEW GENTLEMEN CAN OBTAIN A pleasant home and good board at 105 East 24th st.

GRAMERCY PARK—ELEGANT ROOMS, WITH first-class board. No. 21 Gramercy Park, 20th st.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

TO RENT WITH BOARD.—A LARGE, CHEERful room, with all modern conveniences adjoining, within a few doors of 5th av., and near Windsor and Buckingham Hotels; suitable for one or two gentlemen. Address CLARION, Box No. 255 TIMES UPTOWN OFFICE NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NOS. 51 AND 53 WEST 23D ST., NEAR MADison square.—Elegantly furnished rooms on second and parlor floor; bath-room, large closets, &c.; private table if desired; house and appointments strictly first-class.

NO. 8 EAST 32D ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished rooms on second floor; also, hall room on third floor; superior table, private if desired; references.

FIFTH AV., NO. 243.—HANDSOME PARLOR floor, with all modern conveniences; private table or without board; unquestionable reference given and required.

FIFTH AV., NO. 224, OPPOSITE HOTEL BRUNSWICK.—Parlor and second floors; single rooms for gentlemen, with breakfast; terms reasonable to parties making permanent arrangements.

A PRIVATE FAMILY IN AN ELEGANT house on West 52d st. would like a small family to board or two single gentlemen. Address S. G. S., Station G. City.

NO. 37 WEST 31ST ST.—MOST HANDSOMELY furnished rooms, with superior table; best situation in town.

ROOMS TO LET—SINGLE AND DOUBLE, WITH home comforts; terms to suit the times. At No. 49 7th av., between 11th and 12th sts.

TO LET—WITH BOARD, TWO FRONT ROOMS ON third floor, in small family. Call at No. 62 West 45th st.

MRS. C. K. PARKER, OF NO. 72 MADISON av., has a few well furnished rooms to let, with board, at reasonable rates; references.

FURNISHED ROOMS, WITH SUPERIOR board; one with carpets and curtains; references exchanged. No. 37 East 29th st.

NO. 250 MADISON AV.—CORNER HOUSE; Southern exposure; handsome suite of rooms to let, with or without private table; also single rooms.

NO. 13 EAST 28TH ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished rooms to let, with or without board

NATURALIZING ALIENS.

HOW CITIZENSHIP IS ATTAINED.

FRAUDS BEING PERPETRATED IN BEHALF OF TAMMANY HALL—EVERY POSSIBLE MEASURE ADOPTED TO PREVENT THEM—A PROBABLE HARVEST OF OFFENDERS BEFORE THE LAST DAY—THE NUMBERS NATURALIZED THIS YEAR AND THE NATIONALITIES REPRESENTED.

The rate at which aliens are being naturalized in this City is beyond that of any year since 1868, and it is well known that frauds are being perpetrated in behalf of the Tammany Society in various of the courts, in spite of the precautions taken against them. For some time past detectives have been employed to discover these frauds, and the utmost is now being done to prevent them. Already a few offenders have been caught, and it is probable a large number will be brought to account within a few days.

Only two of the State courts in this City are at present doing the work of naturalization and they do the greatest portion of the whole work done, the United States courts naturalizing only a little more than ten per cent. of the whole number received into citizenship. Of the State courts, the Supreme Court does no naturalization business, this having been discountenanced by the Judges since the notorious frauds of Judge Barnard during the regency of the Tammany Ring. The Marine Court had for many years the power to naturalize, but this was taken from it nearly twenty years ago, and has not since been restored. The Court of Common Pleas and the Superior Court now do the whole work of naturalization, so far as the State Courts in this City are concerned. In these two courts more men are naturalized than in any other two courts in the whole country. People come to them, not only from the City, but from within a radius of twenty miles or more outside. It is estimated that at least two hundred thousand persons have been naturalized in the Court of Common Pleas, and about one hundred thousand in the Superior Court, since their respective organizations. The Court of Common Pleas is the oldest of the two, the Superior Court not having been created until 1828.

It is somewhat interesting to notice the manner in which the naturalization committees of both political organizations go to work. It may be premised that persons can be naturalized gratis through the medium of either of these organizations, whereas otherwise they would be obliged to pay a gratuity for their papers. From the time when "the memory of man runneth not to the contrary," Tammany Hall has always had its naturalization Committee, and recently the Republicans have also organized such a committee. These committees appoint men of various Nationalities to hunt up eligible persons who are not naturalized. When such persons are discovered they are taken before the party managers in the respective Assembly districts, and if found to be of the proper "faith" they are sent to the central offices near the Court-house, where they are furnished with tickets which pass current with the Clerks of the courts, and obviate the necessity of the applicants paying as much as a quarter fee. There is always sufficient money deposited with the Clerks of the courts to meet the amount of the fees as shown by the number of tickets. The would-be citizens and their witnesses are marched into the Court-house in groups and proceed to the Clerk's office of either the Superior Court or Court of Common Pleas, as the case may be. They are questioned by the respective Clerks, and if they give satisfactory answers as to qualifications, &c., their affidavits are made out on printed blanks and signed by them. Each applicant, with his witness, then goes before a Judge in open court, where both the applicant and witness are examined orally and are sworn regarding the correctness of the statements made by each. The Judges who have been doing this work during the past six weeks are Chief Justice Curtis and Judges Sanford, Sedgwick, and Speir, in the Superior Court, and Chief Justice Daly and Judges Robinson, Van Brunt, and J. F. Daly in the Court of Common Pleas.

The greatest number of persons naturalized in any one year was in 1868. In that year the Superior Court alone, under Judge McCunn's supervision, naturalized over five thousand. The Supreme Court at that time was also engaged in the work of grinding out voters. The whole number of persons naturalized in the Supreme and Superior Courts and Court of Common Pleas in 1868 exceeded forty thousand. Judge Barnard acted in the Supreme Court the part that the late Judge McCunn did in the Superior. The frauds perpetrated were stupendous. Since that time, however, the bench has been purged of bad Judges, and more honest Clerks of courts have been chosen. Additional safeguards and restrictions have also been put into operation which render frauds in naturalization more difficult. Frauds can still be perpetrated, and probably will be as long as vicious politicians are willing to countenance perjury in case it subserves their own selfish ends. The risks of detection, however, at the present time are very great, and the penalties for frauds in naturalization are very severe. During the past six weeks, about five thousand five hundred persons have been naturalized in the Superior Court and the Court of Common Pleas. To these may be added about seven hundred persons naturalized by the United States courts, making a total of over six thousand newly-made voters.

On the 27th inst. the work of naturalization will cease, because the Judges are not willing to naturalize persons later than ten days prior to the election and the day before the last day of registration. It is estimated that the total number naturalized this year will not be less than eight thousand. It is interesting to note the marked change exhibited in late years in the nationalities of the persons seeking to become citizens. Up to the year 1870 the majority of the naturalized were Irish. Since then, however, the Germans have taken their place, and great numbers, too, from the other nations of Continental Europe are among the applicants for citizenship. The statistics of the Superior Court during the past six weeks give a pretty fair indication of the proportion of each nationality represented, and are appended:

Ireland	350	Cuba	5
England	75	Sweden	27
Scotland	30	Holland	12
Canada	40	Denmark	3
British Colonies	30	Switzerland	22
Germany	1,050	Portugal	11
Austria	65	Belgium	4
Italy	45	Hayti	5
Russia	100	Greece	4
Poland	90	Turkey	3
France	40	Republic of Columbia	2
Spain	10	Mexico	1
Total			2,535

These figures show a greater proportion of Irish than do the statistics of the other courts, because the Tammany Hall Committee has been sending in a larger ratio of its recruits to the Superior Court than to the Court of Common Pleas. The number of those naturalized in the United States Courts show a very marked excess in the percentage of Germans. About two thousand five hundred persons have been naturalized through the Republican Naturalization Committee this Fall.

HOMICIDE IN NEWARK.

Last evening a boy ran to the City Hall Police Station, in Newark, with the intelligence that a man had fallen from the stoop in front of the saloon of Fritz Weingang, corner of Sixteenth street and Nineteenth avenue, and that he lay dead on the sidewalk. Detective McManus was detailed to investigate the case, and learned that the unfortunate man was Anthony Ager, a hatter, employed by a Mr. Woolley in Orange. Ager had been in Weingang's saloon, drinking with Frederick Linhoff, Gustav Buesl, and Caspar Felker. He had a quarrel with Linhoff, and Weingang put him out of the saloon. A witness whom the detective discovered stated that he saw Weingang, after he had forced Ager from the saloon to the stoop, shove him headlong to the sidewalk. While the detective was in the saloon working up the case, Weingang, it is stated, hid himself in the house of a neighbor named Sadler. Weingang was at the police station last evening, but refused to say anything about the fatal occurrence. He declared that at the proper time he would speak and not before. The County Physician's attention was called to the case. Ager's skull is supposed to have been fractured by the fall. The County Physician having given no order for his arrest, Weingang was not formally taken into custody. Ager leaves a wife and family in Orange.

ARRIVALS AT THE HOTELS.

Beverley Tucker, of Virginia, is at the New-York Hotel.

Gen. James W. Singleton, of Illinois, is at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Ex-Congressman Burt Van Horn, of Lockport, N. Y., is at the Astor House.

Judge W. H. H. Bingham and Judge J. Prout, of Vermont, are at the Scuttevant House.

Hon. Lyman Trumbull, of Illinois; ex-Gov. Leland Stanford, of California, and ex-Congressman Bill Perry, of Albany, are at the Windsor Hotel.

Gen. J. Meredith Read, United States Minister to Greece; O'Connor Power, M. P., of Ireland; Joseph Pulitzer, of St. Louis; Signor A. Castellani, of Rome, and Prof. Goldwin Smith, of Toronto, are at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

A FEMALE FORGER IN NEWARK.

On Saturday afternoon a woman of respectable appearance entered the store of James W. Thatcher, on Market street, Newark, and having purchased some small articles, requested Mr. Thatcher to give her his check for $15. She said she desired to send that amount by mail to Philadelphia, and did not care to trust the money in an envelope. She handed Mr. Thatcher $15 in cash and he exchanged his check for it. Mr. Thatcher had occasion to go to the bank shortly afterward, and while he was there a check against his account for $115 was presented. He recognized it at once as the one which he had given his customer with the amount raised. The boy who presented it stated that the lady who gave it to him was awaiting his return a few doors below. When Mr. Thatcher arrived at the place indicated the woman had gone. It is supposed that a confederate notified her of the defeat of her scheme in time to allow her escape.

A FINE COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS.

WORKS OF THE GREAT MODERN ARTISTS OF EUROPE TO BE SOLD BY MESSRS. LEAVITT.

The collection of paintings to be sold by Messrs. Leavitt on the evenings of next Thursday and Friday is probably the most remarkable which has been ever offered for sale in this country. It comprises 125 works by the most distinguished modern masters of Europe. It is quite plain that it would be inexpedient to place such superb pictures as some of these are on the market without restriction or reservation of any kind, and so Messrs. Leavitt have adopted the unobjectionable plan of putting up each picture at a certain price, very far below its actual value. Beyond this there is no reservation whatever. The guarantees are ample that each picture fulfills whatever representations may be made concerning it; and that there may be ample opportunity for inspection, they are all on view now at Messrs. Leavitt's art rooms, on Broadway. There can be no doubt of the general excellence of the collection, but there are some special pictures which are marvels of art. Those which appear to attract most attention at present are the works of Escosura. The same style is carried through all, nor do the subjects vary greatly in essential features, but the treatment is perfect. All, or nearly all, are interiors, and on these the artist has lavished a wealth of detail. The coloring is fine in every case, but it is in the management of light and shade that the most striking effects are produced. Every object seems to stand out prominently, and there is a wonderful reality in the perspective. Perhaps the most finished of his pictures is "The Music Lesson," in which all the figures are admirably posed, and which is especially conspicuous for the effect of light coming in through the open window. His picture, "The Bridal Presents" is very rich in color, and "The Rude Parrot" has also the same feature, but none of them seem so completed and perfected as "The Music Lesson." Turning to works of a very different order, those of Van Luppen, (Joseph A.,) will be pretty certain to command the highest admiration. His "View near Vaulsort" is a very fine landscape painting, furnishing beautiful harmonies rather than contrasts of water, sky, and foliage. "The Secret," by Toulmouche, (Auguste,) is a charming picture, in which color is excellently used for purposes of contrast, and Ten Kate has two very striking works, "The Cabaret" and "The Peddler." The picture which will be set up at the highest figure is by Louis Gallait, "Christopher Columbus in Prison." Meissonier has a characteristic work, and altogether there are over fifty great modern artists of Europe represented.

FUNERAL OF REV. DR. DURBIN.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE OF THE CLERGY AND LAITY — THE FUNERAL DISCOURSE PREACHED BY BISHOP SIMPSON.

The funeral services of Rev. J. B. Durbin, D.D., for many years a leading Methodist clergyman of this City, were held in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, corner of Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The doors of the edifice were thrown open some time before the hour appointed for the ceremonies, and the church was well filled with the friends of the deceased by the time the funeral procession arrived. The preparations made in the church for the occasion were few and simple. A bier, covered with a black pall, was placed within the chancel, for the reception of the coffin, and a number of beautiful floral tributes, sent by relatives and friends, were displayed upon a table immediately in the rear. Among these were two large and elegant crosses made of white rosebuds and tuberoses, a large cross and anchor, a handsome crown surmounted by a cross, and a beautiful wreath. Besides these there was a straw basket of rare flowers, which was subsequently placed on the casket. When the funeral cortège arrived the remains, which were inclosed in a handsome silver-mounted casket covered with black cloth, were borne into the church on the shoulders of four men, preceded by the pallbearers, the following named gentlemen acting in that capacity: Rev. Dr. Deems, Rev. Dr. Terry, Rev. Dr. Holdich, Rev. Dr. Wise, Judge E. L. Fancher, Mr. E. V. Stout, Mr. H. Forrester, Mr. H. Dodner, Mr. William Truslow, and Gen. C. B. Fisk. The officiating clergymen were Rev. Dr. Chapman, the Pastor of the church, Bishop Simpson, Rev. Dr. Reid, and Rev. Dr. Force. As the body was slowly carried up the aisle, Schumann's funeral march was beautifully rendered by Mr. Walter Russel Johnston, the church organist, ceasing at the moment when the casket was deposited on the bier. Dr. Chapman then read an appropriate selection from the New Testament, and was followed by Bishop Simpson, who pronounced the funeral discourse. After briefly referring to the consideration of the lesson derivable from life and death, and the mystery of the manifestations of human life, the Bishop proceeded to give a short outline of the life and virtues of the deceased. Born on a farm in Kentucky, he said that his chief characteristic in early life was his devotion to his work. He then traced his career through college until he was ordained as a minister, giving a short sketch of the different ministerial positions he filled until his arrival in New-York, when he accepted the editorial chair of the Christian Advocate, which he filled for seven years. After this he occupied various positions of trust and honor, and passed some time in traveling in Europe. Upon his return to this country he was well prepared, by the knowledge and experience he had acquired in both hemispheres, to enter upon the missionary work in which he labored so faithfully for so many years. Bishop Simpson concluded his discourse with an eloquent tribute to the worth and many virtues of the deceased. Prayer was then offered by Rev. Dr. Force, after which Rev. Dr. Reid requested that the congregation would sing the 290th hymn, beginning with the line, "There is a fountain filled with blood," which, he said, was a favorite with the deceased. When the singing had ceased, Dr. Chapman said that those of the assemblage who desired to look upon their deceased brother for the last time might pass through the chancel, as the casket had been left open in order to give them the opportunity. Beethoven's funeral march was then played by the organist, and the congregation slowly passed up the aisle, each stopping for a moment to look upon the remains. Among the relatives and friends of the deceased who attended the services were Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker, Mrs. Fletcher Harper, Sr., Mrs. Fletcher Harper, Jr., Mr. Alexander Durbin, Mr. Joseph Harper. Messrs. George and John Elliot, Mr. J. M. Fiske, and many others. The full Missionary Board attended the services in a body. Mr. Fletcher Harper, a son-in-law of the deceased, was not present, owing confined to his room with a broken ankle. The body remained in the church last night, and will be taken to Philadelphia at 10 o'clock this morning in a special car, for interment in Laurel Hill Cemetery.

THE COMFORTS OF AN ENGLISH CHURCH.

A special correspondent of the London Times writes from Long Branch as follows: "After breakfast came morning church, where, the church being Episcopal, the service was essentially what it is in England, the few differences being so trivial as to escape the attention of any one not on the the lookout for them. The surpliced clergyman only wanted a hood to make him an English University graduate, for, as an American neighbour remarked to me, he had 'quite the English accent.' To crown the general resemblance, a collection was made after service on an open plate handed from pew to pew, so that it was impossible not to let even your neighbor's right hand know what your own left gave. The whole ceremony, in fact, was, from beginning to end, so English that an Englishman of our party, carried away irresistibly by the all-powerful law of association, slept through the sermon in as tranquil and masterly a manner as if he had been at home in his family pew."

POSTAL CHANGES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Post Office changes for the week ending Oct. 22, were as follows:

New England.—Postmasters appointed—Charles S. Chamberlain, Newton Highlands, Middlesex County, Mass.

New York.—Postmasters appointed—William H. Hastings, Hammondsport, Steuben County; John W. Hall, Hulletts Landing, Washington County; Joseph A. King, Miner's Place, Suffolk County; Samuel J. Read, Pilot Point, Jefferson County; Daniel P. Wilson, Standard's Corners, Allegany County; Mrs. H. Van Wyck, Woodbury, Queens County.

New Jersey.—Postmasters appointed—William P. Lippincott, Marlbeth, Burlington County.

Pennsylvania.—Postmasters appointed—Jacob K. Pickle, Shackwater, Lancaster County; W. M. Woods, Sunnyside, Allegheny County; Elizabeth M. Plympton, West Decatur, Clearfield County; W. J. Potter, West Springfield, Erie County.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

THE UNION GOSPEL MEETINGS.

LARGE AUDIENCES IN ATTENDANCE—SERMONS BY REV. SAMUEL COLCORD AND REV. DR. JUSTIN D. FULTON, OF BROOKLYN.

The fourth of the series of the Union Gospel Meetings was held yesterday morning at Chickering Hall. The regular service opened with the singing of the hymn "Come thou fount of every blessing" and the reading of a selection from the ninth chapter of St. Matthew. After the singing of a solo by Mr. Charles S. Gunn, Rev. Samuel Colcord delivered a sermon from the text: "I Came Not to Call the Righteous, but Sinners, to Repentance," found in the second chapter of St. Mark. The discourse was devoted to the illustration of Christ's peculiar sympathy for sinners, notwithstanding His natural abhorrence of sin, and to the emphasizing of the truth that Divine forgiveness was given, not to those who wrapped themselves up in their own fancied righteousness, but to those only who were conscious of their sins, and were repentant. The service closed with the usual singing and the benediction. At its conclusion, a "conversation meeting" was held for the benefit of "inquirers."

A very large audience was present at the afternoon services, completely filling the hall. After the preliminary service of song, the congregation sung "Guide me, O Thou Great Jeh vah," which was followed by the reading of the eighty-fourth Psalm and prayer. Mr. Gunn then sang a solo, and the whole congregation sang the hymn, "Take the name of Jesus with you." Dr. Justin D. Fulton delivered an effective sermon from the text, "Blessed is the man whose strength is in Thee; in whose heart are the ways of them whose passing through the valley of Baca make it a well; the rain also filleth the pool." There are two ways of interpreting this passage, said the preacher. One is to give God all the glory of changing the valley of Baca into a well, and ignore the work of men; the other is to consider man as the author of the work, because God works in him, both to do and to will His good pleasure. The glory belongs to God in this, no matter which interpretation is taken. In the one, God is the all in all, in the other man is God's instrument, without whom He does not work. The valley of Baca, or weeping, is a fact. The way to heaven lies through a valley of weeping. Sins abound, temptations surround us, the valley becomes exceedingly low; through weakness of grace it is made rough, through affliction dark, and through desertion a valley of weeping. Life, continued the preacher, is not what it is thought to be. Position, when gained, seems to be a cheat. It resembles the summits of mountains, which, in the haze of the Summer day, seem covered with beauty, but which, when reached and traveled over, are barren wastes and rocky paths. Money does not stand alone. It rests on a thousand unforeseen supports, which may fail when leaned upon. The men who are to-day leaders in financial circles may to-morrow be thrown against the wall of misfortune, as the pebble is dashed from the wheel of the flying chariot. There is nothing in position, in wealth, in reputation, that is calculated to satisfy the desires of the soul. Despite it all, life is but the valley of Baca. But, though the fact is often forgotten and ignored, God can make even the Valley of Baca a well of life. There are those, continued the preacher, who think they have reached the uttermost limit of faith when they can bear these trials with equanimity. But they are mistaken. The truth of the text is that God does something with these trials. He makes the valley of Baca, drv, bleak, desolate as it is, a well where flowers bloom and flourish. He takes into His hands our trials and bereavements, and if we are true to Him, if we put our faith in Him, the rods of sorrow shall bud and the desert be changed into a garden. For this reason God's children shall pass through the valley of weeping as cheerfully as though before they entered it, it abounded in springs and flowers. Again, God is himself a well-spring of joy at which the soul in affliction can find joy. Have you had a moment in your life when the darkness has been illuminated with God's smile? Such a moment is of infinite value, for then, with the head bowed in prayer, you have reached the heart of God, have felt the touch of His all-embracing arm, and have bathed in a fountain of joy. God changes this valley of affliction in one a well of joy that man may do something for Him while there. It is that he may sing hymns of gladness in the night, in mocking more. There are men and women who are always in this valley bearing the needy and the sick. It is our duty to make the valley of affliction and weeping a well of joy. How is the result to be reached? Can we act generously when nature prompts us to act selfishly? Can we be kind when nature says hate? Can we love as God loves? This is attained, to-day, said the preacher, in conclusion, we are living in a valley of great terrify. Let us make it full of wells that our children shall go from strength to strength. God declares blessed the man who makes this valley of Baca a well, blesses the light that shines in the darkness, and blessed the hand that helps in weakness. Blessed, indeed, is he who works even in the midst of sorrow and deprivation to make the hour of trial the occasion when God sustains out his hand and condescends to use him to bless souls in affliction.

After prayer, Mr Gunn sang "Yet there is room," and after the singing of another hymn by the congregation, the benediction was pronounced and the service concluded.

SERMON BY AN ARMY CHAPLAIN.

Rev. E. B. Tuttle, Post Chapiain in the United States Army, conducted the services at St. Michael's Church, Bloomingdale, yesterday morning, and preached a sermon from the following text: "The Son of Man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them"—St. Luke, ix, 56. This text, said the speaker, was always used by the Saviour in speaking of himself, but never by his Disciples. By them he was styled the "Son of God," or the "Christ." Christ did not come to this world to save mankind from death, which was an inevitable law, but to ameliorate their condition in the material world. Too many people believed that religion could be propagated by "fire and sword," and they feared the intrusion of the Saviour into their business affairs, because he taught the law of love, which forbade them to take undue advantage of their neighbor. Mankind in general looked upon religion as a thing for Sunday, and strife for prosperity in worldly affairs during the week as another. The preacher of the Gospel was looked upon as doing more good than the merchant, the artisan, and the laborer, because in devoting himself to a life of charity he was imitating the example of the Master. This need not be the case, if every man engaged in other occupations sought to do his duty in the walk of life to which he had been called. There were those who believed that the power of the press was greater than that of the pulpit, but the speaker believed the ministry of the press to be "the dissemination of information, and to guard the public morals," while the aim of the pulpit was to "educate and enlighten the public conscience." The people of this world were, under God, preparing for eternity. Death was the end of probation, and then the character of each human creature would be indelibly stamped for good or for evil forever. As the people left this world, so should they appear in the next.

THE BIBLE AND PRAYER-BOOK SOCIETY.

The anniversary of the New-York Bible and Common Prayer-book Society was celebrated last evening at Trinity Chapel, Twenty-fifth street, near Broadway. The services were very interesting, the choral music being particularly good. Within the chancel were Right Rev. Bishops Bissell, of Vermont; Lyman, of North Carolina, and Talbot, of Indiana. Bishop Bissell read the report of the society, which related that during the past year 2,543 Bibles, 23,832 Prayer-books, and 1,974 New Testaments were distributed among needy congregations or poor individuals. Rev. F. Courtney, assistant minister of St. Thomas' Church, then delivered a sermon in advocacy of the labors of the society. He based his remarks upon the thirteenth verse of the first chapter of St. Paul's Second Epistle to Timothy, and also upon the fifteenth verse of the third chapter of the same epistle. He said: "The Apostle tells us there are two things necessary to our salvation—faith in Christ Jesus and a knowledge of the Scripture. The Scripture is made up of divers components. There is history in it, there is poetry in it, and there are parables, allegories, and mysteries in it. It is necessary that our children shall know the Scripture. I suppose I may take it for granted that you who come to church teach your children sacred history, sacred poetry, and the sacred parables, allegories, and mysteries that are contained in Scripture. He dwelt for some time upon the value and necessity of adherence to certain forms, and then urged his hearers to "hold fast to the form of sound words" contained in the Book of Common Prayer. He called upon them to teach that book to their children, and to make them learn the articles to be found at the end of the Catechism, just as they learn the axioms and definitions of Euclid, to the end that they may test the principles of Christianity. Let them learn them, he said, with their hearts! You cannot make them do this, but you can pray that they may. In conclusion, Mr. Courtney referred to the 2d 200 volumes distributed by the society during the year and asked his hearers to be liberal in their aid to the association now and in the future.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE FOREIGN SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Foreign Sunday-school Association was held last night in the Church of the Pilgrims, Henry and Remsen streets, Brooklyn. There was a large attendance of ladies and gentlemen. Mr. William E. Dodge presided. The exercises were opened with the reading of Scripture and prayer by Rev. Dr. Marling, of the Fourteenth Street Methodist Church. Mr. Dodge then stated the object of the meeting, which was to hear from various gentlemen something about the importance of the association and the success of its work. For his part, he considered that there was no instrumentality in connection with God's work in foreign lands to be compared with the work of establishing Sunday-schools. Rev. Charles R. Baker, of the Church of the Messiah of Brooklyn, was then introduced. The Sunday-school, he said, was an institution of American growth. It had its origin during the revival which culminated in this country about the year 1830. Prior to that time the Sunday-school had existed, but not in its present state. Formerly it was an institution for the poor only. The Sunday-school to-day was far ahead of what it was fifty years ago. Still it was not perfect, and it was most likely that in following years important improvements would be made, Sunday-school managers taking hints from the best secular educators. The Sunday-schools must be graded just like other schools, and the pupils in each grade must be assisted by every modern system of education suitable to their ages. The study of the Bible must also be more thoroughly reduced to a science. The speaker closed with a brief sketch of the work of the Foreign Sunday-school Association in Germany as observed by him during recent travels in that country. Rev. Dr. Marling was the next speaker. There were, he said, five points of interest about the association that might be brought to the attention of the audience to good purpose. The first was the simplicity of the working of the association, the result of which was the utmost directness of communication between the giver and the receiver, between the worker and those worked upon. A natural sequence of the directness of the work was the economy of its operation. The expenses of the association were certainly reduced to a minimum. Every dollar contributed this side of the Atlantic was sure to do a dollar's worth of work across the waters. The third point was that as the result of this direct economical method of working, the association was developing home talent in every field where it had located. Perhaps this last point was the most important of all. Rev. Dr. Storrs followed Dr. Marling. It was needless, he said, to argue here in America in favor of the extension of the Sunday-school in our own land. It would be like arguing for the beneficence of the return of sunshine or the coming of Spring-time. The people of America were so used to the Sunday-school that they were apt to forget that it was a new institution, and that it had not existed coeval with the Christian religion. But the question was very likely to occur why we should send the Sunday-school to the old countries of Europe. Europe had given to America her literature and her arts and a thousand influences from her letters and her life. Why should we send to Europe, so fertile in inventions and civilization, an invention of our own? In answer to this question Dr. Storrs spoke of the evils of the religious condition of Europe, summarizing them under the three heads of dead orthodoxy, Roman Catholicism, and infidelity. It was the prevention of these evils, he said, that made the demand for Sunday-schools. At the conclusion of Dr. Storrs' address a collection was taken, after which the meeting was closed.

HOME POLITICAL WORK.

John Franz has been nominated for Alderman by the German Independent citizens of the Fifth Aldermanic District.

The Independent Republican County Convention is to meet Thursday evening next at No. 141 Eighth street.

The Third Regiment of the New-Jersey National Guard voted on Friday on the Presidential question, as follows: Hayes, 200; Tilden, 95; Cooper, 6.

This is the last day of registration in Brooklyn. Every Republican who has not already registered should see that his name is placed on the roll of voters to-day.

The Lincoln Hayes and Wheeler Campaign Club will hold a mass meeting this evening at Bethel Hall, No. 106 West Thirtieth street. Addresses will be made by Rev. Henry Highland Garnett, William Freeman, and other able speakers.

The Republicans of the Twenty-first Assembly District will have a grand rally this evening at Pareda Hall, corner of Third avenue and Eighty-sixth street, at which Major Gen. Daniel E. Sickles and Hon. John H. Warwick are to deliver addresses.

An enthusiastic meeting of Republicans at Lincoln Hall, corner of Allen and Houston streets on Friday evening, resulted in the unanimous nomination of Mr. Ferdinand Earhart for Alderman. Speeches were made by Mr. B. Schwartz, A. D. Lowenthal, George Lutz, and others.

The Sheridan Shook Association of the Eighteenth Ward added 100 members to its roll on Saturday evening, making a total membership of over 300. This organization is doing effective work in the Republican cause, and will hold a grand mass-meeting to-morrow evening at Lexington avenue and Twenty-fourth street.

Preparations are being made for a grand Hayes and Wheeler mass-meeting, to be held at Oyster Bay on Wednesday next. It will be held under an immense canvas, and some of the most prominent speakers of the country have been engaged for the occasion. Gen. John A. Dix and Hon. Butler G. Noble will address the afternoon meeting, and Hon. George William Curtis, Hon. John A. King, and Hon. H. J. Scudder the evening meeting. A band of music will enliven the occasion, and there will be a grand parade of the Boys in Blue.

The Republican Congressional Conventions are to meet this evening in the several Congressional Districts, the Aldermanic Conventions tomorrow evening, the County Convention, on Wednesday evening, at Republican Hall, and the Assembly Conventions, at the respective head-quarters in the several Assembly districts, on Thursday evening. The delegates to the Aldermanic Convention in the Fifth Senatorial District will also act as a Senatorial Convention, to nominate a candidate to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator James W. Booth.

THE FOURTEENTH DISTRICT.

Following is the letter of Judge Hirschberg, declining the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fourteenth District of this State. The vacancy will be filled by the district committee:

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 19, 1876.

Cyrus B. Martin, Esq., Chairman Republican Congressional convention, Fourteenth District:

MY DEAR FRIEND: I have just received your letter informing me of my nomination as the Republican candidate for Representative in Congress. I trust my declination will not be construed into any lack of appreciation of the high honor conferred by the convention, nor of the kind and generous but flattering considerations urged in your communication. I am obliged to decline from personal motives alone, and not from any insensibility to the nature of the distinguished honor, nor from any doubt of the result. A young man engaged in the active practice of a profession upon which he depends for a livelihood, and in which an effort to earn the good will and respect of his neighbors furnishes a legitimate object of ambition, cannot afford to risk business habits of application, so difficult to acquire and so easily dissipated, by entering the political arena, however alluring the prize or however kindly offered. These are the considerations which have induced me to avoid seeking political preferment heretofore, and I am satisfied I am right in yielding to their dictates now. I hope the Republican voters of the district will not think my action ungracious, but will credit me with a sincere and earnest desire to assist the triumph of Republican principles in the coming election, a triumph which will be promoted rather than prejudiced by my declination of a nomination wholly unsolicited, unexpected, and undesired. I am very respectfully yours,

M. H. HIRSCHBERG.

RENSSELAER COUNTY REPUBLICANS.

The Republican Central Committee of Rensselaer County, G. Rogerson, Jr., Chairman, has issued an address showing the importance of the coming elections, and setting forth the encouraging prospects. It closes thus: "The tide is unmistakably running in our favor. The attempt to allure the people under the false pretense of 'reform' into the support of the effete Democratic Party with its unpatriotic and justly-hated antecedents, and its dangerous heresies, has been what Mr. Tilden said of the war in 1864—'a failure.' Republicans have but to go to their duty and all will be well. We can and shall carry New-York and sweep the Union. We can and shall carry Rensselaer County and the Congressional District by large majorities, and thus contribute to this glorious result. To the work, then, to the work! Onward to victory!"

DEER IN THE ADIRONDACKS.

A letter from the Adirondacks says that deer this Autumn are more abundant than for many previous years, but that they keep away from the lakes, finding more security in the second-growth timber. It is said that recently a large bear marched into Nortonville at noonday and deliberately seated himself on the main street near the tavern, but retreated in good order when the villagers sprang to arms.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

Theodore Tilton will deliver his lecture on "The Master Motives" in Chickering Hall, this evening.

Martin Farquhar Tupper reads from his new play, "Washington, and Other Works," in Chickering Hall, next Monday evening.

Philip Marsh, of No. 234 East Thirteenth street, died yesterday from injuries received by falling from a ladder in Sixteenth street recently.

Frederick Douglass will lecture on "Self-made Men," on Wednesday evening, in the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, near Seventh avenue.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher will lecture in Chickering Hall to-morrow evening on the "Ministry of Wealth," and on Thursday evening on "Hard Times."

J. O'Connor Power, M. P., will lecture in Cooper Institute this evening on "The Martyrs of Irish Liberty" for the benefit of the poor of St. Bernard's Parish.

A new vault, to be lighted by plate glass windows to expose the interior to view, is to be built for William B. Astor on a side hill in Trinity Cemetery, at a cost of $25,000.

At a special meeting of the Lincoln Club, held on Saturday evening, resolutions of respect for the memory of Louis Happa, a deceased member of the organization, were adopted.

Henry F. Sleeman, of No. 122 East Eleventh street, while getting off the front platform of a Third avenue car last evening, fell and had his right hand and wrist crushed.

Police Commissioner Louis Dorsheimer, of St. Louis, who is at present sojourning in this City, visited Police Head-quarters yesterday morning, and was shown through the building by Inspector Thorne.

The New-York Cheap Transportation Association, members of the New-York Produce Exchange, and delegates from other commercial bodies of this City, will leave on Thursday evening for Philadelphia, to participate in the proceedings of "New-York Centennial Day."

A man about thirty years of age, whose name was not ascertained, fell from the bridge of the Thirty-fourth street Ferry into the East River at an early hour yesterday morning, and was drowned. The body, which was recovered and removed to the Morgue, was attired in black clothes, white shirt, and calf-skin shoes. A letter found in one of his pockets was addressed to John D. Schmidt.

BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn Republicans, who have not already registered, should not fail to do so to-day, as this will be their last opportunity. If they do not register, they cannot vote.

Some unknown thief entered the parlor of Mr. John Collins, No. 76 Woodhall street, while the family were at supper, Saturday evening, and stole a gold watch and chain, valued at $100.

James Mooney and Miles Sweeney quarreled at their residence, No. 37 President street, Saturday, during which Mooney assaulted Sweeney with a club, inflicting two severe cuts on the head.

The coal office of J. T. Story, No. 32 Kent avenue, was broken into by burglars on Saturday, who blew open the safe. Fortunately Mr. Story had removed his money from the safe, and the burglars got only $2 50 for their trouble.

James Meehan, John Daly, and Jeremiah Sullivan, who were arrested on Friday, charged with passing a counterfeit fifty-cent piece in payment of fare on a Court street car, were discharged on Saturday by United States Commissioner Winslow for want of evidence.

Christopher Doylen, aged thirteen years, residing at No. 33 Bartlett street, had two of the fingers of his right hand crushed, yesterday, between the rollers of a cider mill. He was taken to the Eastern District Hospital, when it was found necessary to amputate the injured fingers.

A strange man, about thirty-five years of age, with a black moustache, and dressed in dark clothes went to the livery stable of James Quinn, No. 127 North Second street, E. D., on Saturday afternoon, and hired a horse and wagon with which he drove away and has not since been seen.

Thomas Gill, of No. 66 Lafayette street, in company with two others, broke into the liquor store of T. Owens, corner of Navy and Willoughby streets, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Obtaining admission the thieves were surprised by the proprietor and a friend, who captured Gill, and handed him over to Officer Lowery, of the Fourth Precinct. The other two escaped.

Mary Swanson, aged forty-one years, a native of England, residing at No. 245 North Fifth street, was taken to the City Hospital yesterday morning, suffering from the effects of a dose of Paris green, which she had taken at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, for the purpose of committing suicide. Her husband neglected to report the case until morning, and nothing was done for her during the night. She is said to have been of intemperate habits.

Daniel Robinson, a white man, residing at No. 19 Chatham street, New-York, accompanied Maggie Walker, colored, over the Catharine Ferry from Cherry street to Grand, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and went with her to No. 15 Flint street, where there were two other colored women, named Malvina Simmons and Lydia Carter. Robinson subsequently procured the arrest of the three women on a charge of stealing $15 from his pockets. They were locked up in the Second Precinct Station-house, and Robinson was held as a witness.

Frederick Apple, a German shoe-maker, aged twenty-two years, residing at No. 89 Siegel street, E. D., was arrested at 1:45 o'clock yesterday morning charged by Mrs. Mary Bonstein, of No. 324 Bushwick avenue, with enticing her daughter Adelaide, aged three years and seven months, into a vacant lot and violating her person. The prisoner was locked up in the Sixth Precinct Station-house, and a few minutes afterward was found hanging to the bars of his cell by a strap. He was taken down by the doorman, and shortly afterward he made another attempt to commit suicide by tearing his vest into pieces and manufacturing a rope. The fellow was desperate, and declared his determination to die before morning.

NEW-JERSEY.

The taxes collected in Paterson last week amounted to $169,977 80.

Capt. Barent Frazer, of Hoboken, who died from injuries received by falling from his horse during the Republican parade in Jersey City last week, was buried yesterday. The Boys in Blue attended the funeral.

William Gaffney, seventeen years of age, was arrested in Newark on Saturday, charged with having broken into the residence of Mrs. Mary Ann Stack, on Jefferson street, and stolen jewelry and other articles of the aggregate value of $1,000.

Henry Lester, of the firm of Lester & Co., Grand and Greene streets, New-York, was thrown from a light wagon on Hudson street, Hoboken, yesterday, and received injuries from which fatal results are apprehended. When removed to his home he was unconscious.

The third annual meeting of the Woman's National Christian Temperance Union will be held in the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, in Newark, its sessions beginning at 9 o'clock on Wednesday, and continuing on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and on Sunday public meetings will be held in furtherance of the cause in many of the churches of New-York and Newark.

ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer of the 20th inst. has this statement: "We have been informed that forty-nine Springfield breech-loading rifles, with forty sets of accoutrements and 2,000 rounds of ammunition are to be received to-day from Gov. James M. Smith, by the Muscogee Rifles, of which Reese Crawford, Esq., is Captain. Lee's company was organized on the close war by Col. F. G. Wilkins, and was mustered into service by Col. Thad. Scott. During the struggle Col. Scott, then Captain, was promoted to his present rank, and Capt. William L. Robison succeeded him. At the close of the war Major J. J. Bradley was elected Captain, and having resigned, Reese Crawford, Esq., was chosen to the command. Columbus now has three fine military companies, which

The New-York Times.

VOL. XXVI.....NO. 7835. NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1876.—WITH SUPPLEMENT. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

A THANKLESS PEOPLE.

REPUBLICAN REFORMS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

THE TRUE RECORD OF GOV. CHAMBERLAIN'S ADMINISTRATION—WHAT HE HAS SAVED TO THE STATE—HOW THE DEMOCRATS REWARD AN HONEST MAN—WHAT IT COSTS TO DENOUNCE SOUTHERN OUTRAGES.

From Our Special Correspondent.

COLUMBIA, Friday, Oct. 20, 1876.

Some of the people of South Carolina, men, for instance, who cannot fully indorse the shot-gun canvass, are just now engaged in an effort to apologize for the inhuman acts of the Rifle Club leaders by declaring that they have been driven to desperation by the corrupt practices and maladministration of Gov. Chamberlain. Had this plea been advanced three years ago, during the rule of the infamous Moses, whose father, the Chief Justice, it will be remembered, is now one of the pillars in the Democratic temple, there might have been some force in it. Now, however, it is utterly useless, for it can be proved beyond all question that Mr. Chamberlain, instead of being a bad Governor, has proved himself to be an exceedingly good one. Indeed, I do not think it would be any exaggeration to say that he is the best Chief Magistrate the State has ever had. Every intelligent man in South Carolina knows this, and three months ago was willing to admit it. The misrepresentations to which I refer are made to delude the ignorant voters of the South and the people of the North who have had no opportunity to make themselves acquainted with the facts. For the benefit of the latter class the following brief and comprehensive record of Gov. Chamberlain's career has been prepared. It may be remembered that one of the principal charges against the profligate, but withal good-natured and kind-hearted, Moses, was that he abused the pardoning power. He did so to such an extent that in several instances the Judges announced from the bench their unwillingness to put the State to the expense of convicting criminals for the Executive to pardon. During the closing hours of his administration he almost emptied the cells of the Penitentiary, and crime was rampant in all parts of South Carolina. Referring to the state of things in his inaugural address Gov. Chamberlain said: "In the exercise of the power conferred on the Governor by the constitution to grant reprieves and pardons after conviction, I shall endeavor to keep in view the end for which our criminal laws are framed, the repression of crime and the protection of society. The occasions will be rare and attended by peculiar circumstances in which I shall feel justified in setting aside the judgment of our courts and the verdicts of our juries." How well Gov. Chamberlain has kept this promise may be inferred from the fact that from December, 1874, to June, 1876 he pardoned only seventy-three convicts. In about the same period Gov. Scott issued three hundred and thirty-two pardons, and Moses four hundred and fifty-seven.

Soon after his election Mr. Chamberlain discovered that many of the County Treasurers, Trial Justices, and other minor officers appointed by his predecessors, were ignorant and incompetent, or corrupt men. He immediately set about reforming this evil, and finding that in some cases it was impossible to get Republicans who were suitable for certain positions, he did not hesitate to appoint competent Democrats to them. For this he was roundly abused by the politicians, and at the time highly praised by the people. Continuing the good work commenced in this way, Gov. Chamberlain has gone on fearlessly and steadily from one reform to another. By his efforts, according to the leading Democratic journal in the State, the settlement of the public debt has been maintained unchanged, and faith with the public creditor, so far as depended on Executive and Legislative action, has been fully kept. By his efforts an attempt to place the whole of the public funds in two banks of small capital was frustrated and the State saved from great loss. Further than this, and again by his efforts, the floating indebtedness of the State has been provided for in such a way that the rejection of fraudulent claims is assured, the recognized and valid claims are scaled to one-half the amount, and their payment is distributed over a term of four years resulting in a saving to the State of at least $400,000. Without going further into particulars, however, I may state that under Gov. Chamberlain's Administration the tax laws of South Carolina have been so amended as to secure substantial uniformity and equality in the assessment of property for taxation. The contingent funds of the Executive Department have been so reduced that the saving to the tax-payers in two years, upon the basis of the average of six years previous, was $101,260. Legislative expenses in like manner and upon a similar basis, have been so reduced as to save to the people $350,810 in two years. The contingent expenses of the Legislature in the same way have been so reduced as to save the State $355,000, and in the expenditure of all contingent funds accountability and publicity have been secured. The cost of public printing has been reduced from an annual average of $366,209 to $50,000, thus saving $512,418 in two years. The salaries of State officers have been reduced $30,000 a year. The tax levy for the current year for State purposes has been reduced from 13½ mills to 11 mills, a saving to the people of $300,000; and, finally, the deficiencies for the year 1874-5 are only $308,872, which is $291,024 less than the deficiencies of 1872-3, and $233,315 less than the deficiencies of 1873-4. In short, Gov. Daniel H. Chamberlain in two years has actually saved to the people of South Carolina the following amounts:

In the floating debt	$400,000
In Executive contingent fund	101,260
In legislative expenses	350,810
In contingent expenses	355,000
In public printing	512 418
Total	$1,719,488

To realize this amount would require a tax of nearly one and a half per cent.; or, in other words, had the appropriations of the past two years been as high as the average of the appropriations and expenditures of the preceding years, the State tax would have been three-quarter per cent. more than the rate now levied.

This is the record of Gov. Chamberlain, for whom the Democrats of South Carolina can find no curses deep enough, no abuse vile enough. Every fact stated is capable of the most exact proof, not one of them can be contradicted. And Gov. Chamberlain has done more than this. He defied his party; he saved the Judiciary of the State from disgrace by refusing to issue commissions to Whipper and Moses, who by fraud and trickery in the General Assembly were elected to the Circuit Bench. For two years he has steadily fought corruption in his own party and among the Democrats, he has prevented the ignorant negroes from accepting bribes and the supporters of Hampton from giving them; armed with the veto power, he has stood between the tax-payers and jobs of every description. He has been more careful of the people's interest than his own. The politicians of both parties vilified and slandered him because he was so, but the people, the tax-payers of South Carolina, appreciated, or seemed to appreciate, what he was doing for them, and for a time Daniel H. Chamberlain was the most honored man in the Palmetto State. Three months ago his praises were sounded far and near, and men of all parties vied with each other in lauding him as "the noble young reformer," the "savior of the down-trodden State." To-day all this is changed, and why? Simply because Mr. Chamberlain was bold enough, true enough to denounce the Hamburg massacre as it deserved; because he has proved that the rifle clubs of Ellenton and Edgefield are made up of lawless cut-throats and cold-blooded murderers. These are the Governor's only faults. He is a Republican; he has dared to tell the truth; he has shown to the world that the shot-gun leaders are cowardly assassins, and he is using every means in his power to punish them for their crimes.

H. C.

MURDERS BY BUTLER'S CAVALRY.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF CAPT. LLOYD OF THE EIGHTEENTH INFANTRY, INDORSED BY GEN. RUGER—A WELL-ORGANIZED ATTACK ON ONE HUNDRED NEGROES AT ROUSE'S BRIDGE FRUSTRATED—BODIES OF MURDERED NEGROES FOUND LYING EXPOSED FOR DAYS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The following official reports have been forwarded through regular military channels to the Secretary of War:

AIKEN, S. C., Sept. 21, 1876.

Assistant Adjutant General, Department of the South, Louisville, Ky., Through Commanding Officer United States Troops, Aiken, S C:

SIR:—I have the honor to report that, in compliance with the telegram of Brevet Brigadier General Commanding the Department, dated Louisville, Ky., Sept. 18, 1876, directing me to proceed immediately with the bulk of my force to Silverton, S. C., and report the condition of things and facts as to any trouble at that place, received at 9 P. M., on the 18th inst. I left this camp at or about 10:30 P. M. of the same date with Lieut. C. B. Hinton and thirty-three men of Companies F and I, Eighteenth Infantry, with three days' rations, and marched about twenty miles to Rouse's Bridge, S. C., arriving there at about 9:30 o'clock on the morning of the 19th inst. About seven miles from Aiken we were challenged by a detachment of some fifteen or twenty men on the road, mounted and armed, and apparently organized as a regular company of cavalry. There were other men secreted in a barn near the road. In questioning the man who had charge of the party he stated that he had been within a few miles of Rouse's Bridge and found the road picketted, and that there had been some skirmishing, and that he had orders to report there in the morning. On arriving at Rouse's Bridge, we found a body about one hundred negroes, some of them armed with old-patterned muskets and shot-guns. They were very much excited, and seemed to possess no organization. We had scarcely arrived at our camping ground, when we heard shots fired, and the negroes running up the road crying that one of their number had been shot, and that the white men were arming. They afterward acknowledged that nobody had been shot, and that the shots had been fired by themselves. A short time after a body of some 320 white men, all mounted and well armed, and under command of one A. P. Butler, were seen coming up the road from the direction in which the negroes had been fired upon. Lieut. Hinton and myself went down the road to meet them, and on approaching the party found that they had thrown out a skirmish line in the woods, almost surrounding the negroes, while the main body marched up the road. As soon as we were recognized as United States officers we heard the command given the skirmishers to halt, by a man who rode in the woods, evidently to give the skirmish line information of our presence. There was undoubted evidence of a well digested plan of attack which, if carried out, would have resulted in the slaughter of nearly all the negroes in the place. This man Butler has a regularly organized body of men known throughout this country as "Butler's Cavalry," a well-drilled and organized company. Besides this force there were other men from this vicinity and some from Augusta, Ga., under the command of Butler.

From what I can learn the party which I intercepted at Rouse's Bridge was the largest that had got together and included almost all those which had been raiding through the country for the two or three days previous. After finding that there were United States troops on the ground, these men proposed to disband and go home, provided the negroes would do likewise. An agreement to that effect was easily made as the negroes were already much frightened and both parties left the vicinity.

On the morning of the 25th inst. we marched from Rouse's Bridge to Ellenton, a distance of five or six miles. On the road I saw at the house where we stopped for water the bodies of three negroes who had been killed, two of whom had been dead since Sunday. The negroes were afraid to bury them, as they said the white men who were there on Monday had ordered them not to. I saw two negroes at Rouse's Bridge who had been wounded, and have positive information of five others who were killed in the vicinity of Ellenton. As far as I can learn, only one white man has been killed during the four days' rioting.

On our arrival at Ellenton we found a party of twenty-five or thirty mounted, white men who left town soon after our arrival with the avowed intention of going to their homes. I sent a small detail in a light wagon back to the bridge, which returned in the evening and reported all quiet there, and no armed parties on any of the roads in the vicinity. It was reported to me in the afternoon that there were disturbances down on the Garnwell road. I was requested to send down and inform the people in that vicinity of the agreement which had been made at Rouse's Bridge. Lieut. Hinton, with one of the citizens rode down to Robbins, about six miles, and found there a body of twenty or thirty white men, who stated that they were a detachment from Gen. Haygood's command, who were at Steel Creek. They stated that Haygood had authority from Judge Higgins to make arrests and disarm the negroes and that they had been sent there to protect the negroes while burying the body of Simon Coker, a colored member of the Legislature, who had been shot near Ellenton, on Tuesday morning.

Just Anton saw Esker's body. This man was brought from his home at Robbins to Ellenton and deliberately shot. I estimate the total number of white men engaged in the riot as not less than eight hundred, coming from Edgefield, Aiken, and Barnwell, S. C. The negroes at and about Ellentown were completely cowed. Many of them came in from hiding-places in the woods while we were there. They were afraid to go to work, saying they were afraid of being shot down in the cotton-fields.

The Port Royal Railroad was torn up about ten miles above Ellenton during the riot. The General Superintendent said that his men were afraid to work on the road, and requested me to leave him a small guard. Six men were left at Ellentown for that purpose, and were withdrawn and joined their companies next day. The road was almost entirely repaired when the detachment returned. The detachment left Ellenton at 12:30 P. M., Sept. 21, on an extra car and engine connecting with the 2:20 o'clock train from Augusta and arrived at Aiken at 4 P. M.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
THOMAS J. LLOYD,
Capt. Eighteenth Infantry,
Commanding Detachment.

POST OF AIKEN, S. C., Sept. 23, 1876.

Respectfully forwarded to the Assistant Adjutant General of the Department of the South.

From what I have learned since my arrival here, I am satisfied that Capt. Lloyd's arrival at Rouse's Bridge was just in time to prevent a massacre of the negroes.

WILLIAM MILLS,
Captain Second Infantry, commanding post.

HEAD QUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH, ATLANTA, GA., Oct. 5, 1876.

Perfectfully forwarded to the Adjutant General United States Army, through head-quarters, division of the Atlantic.

The order from the head-quarters for Capt. Lloyd to proceed to the place of disturbances was based on an application by telegraph from the Governor of South Carolina, stating that a serious conflict was in progress, and that he had no adequate means for its suppression. The presence of troops, it appears by the within report, averted serious consequences. An investigation of the facts and circumstances conneted with these riots is, I am informed, now being made by the civil authorities of South Carolina.

THOMAS H. RUGAR,
Col. Eighteenth Infantry, Brevet Brigadier General United States Army, commanding.

HEAD-QUARTERS, DIVISION OF THE ATLANTIC, NEW-YORK, Oct. 14, 1876.

Respectfully forwarded to the Adjutant General of the Army.

Winfield S. Hancock, Maj. Gen. Commandin.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY, WASHINGTON, Oct. 17, 1876.

Respectfully submitted to the Secretary of War.

W. T. SHERMAN, General.

GOV. CHAMBERLAIN'S DEMAND UPON THE GERMAN FUSILEERS OF CHARLESTON TO SURRENDER STATE ARMS — THE TROOPS IN THE STATE.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 23.—Gov. Chamberlain has sent a written demand to the German Fusileers of Charleston, one of the oldest military organizations in the Union, to give up the State arms in their possession, and inquiring whether or not their organization has disbanded, in obedience to his own and the President's proclamation.

The Fusileers were organized in 1775, and served throughout the Revolution and the war of 1812. Similar written demands have been addressed to other volunteer organizations, holding State arms, and will be promptly complied with.

Eighteen companies of United States troops, aggregating 1,200 men, have arrived at Columbia since the President's proclamation was issued. Aeditional military posts have been established at Blackville, Sommerville, and Bennettsville.

COLUMBIA, Oct. 23.—Troops are arriving daily. Thirteen companies are now in Columbia, and twenty-four in other parts of the State. Everything is perfectly quiet throughout the State. Affidavits affirming peace and submission to law are received daily. The political campaign is conducted vigorously by both parties. The so-called rifle clubs have all disbanded. The colored militia is still organized.

THE CANVASS IN NORTH CAROLINA.

REPUBLICAN GAINS ASSURED—DAILY ACCESSIONS REPORTED — THE LARGEST VOTE EVER CAST IN THE STATE EXPECTED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 23.—A trip through Orange, Alamance, Guilford, Davidson, and Mecklenberg shows that the Republicans will gain over the Governor's vote of 1872. W. A. Smith, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has just returned from the West, having traveled through Burke, Catawba, Iredell, Yadkin, Surry, Forsythe, and Guilford Counties, and reports that the Republicans are receiving accessions daily and will make gains in the counties mentioned. The Republicans of the Greensboro Congressional district are thoroughly united on James E. Boyd, and there are strong hopes of his election. The largest vote ever cast in this State will be polled next month.

STRIKE OF RAILROAD ENGINEERS.

ALL THE TRAINS ON THE CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW-JERSEY STOPPED AT 12 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT.

All the locomotive engineers in the employ of the Central Railroad of New-Jersey struck work at 12 o'clock last night. The strike was preconcerted, and arranged to a nicety. At the time mentioned every train that was in motion between Scranton and Jersey City was run upon a siding and stopped. The locomotives were then abandoned by their drivers and the passengers on the trains were left to make their way as best they could to the nearest stations or accept the alternative of remaining all night in the cars. The train that started from Newark just before midnight was stopped on a "shunt" at Bayonne. At almost every siding on the line there is an abandoned engine and train. The first news of the strike was received in this City at 1 o'clock this morning, when the passengers who had left the foot of Liberty street to catch the midnight trains for Newark, Elizabeth, &c., returned in a disconsolate mood, and told of the occurrence. The officials of the railway who were seen this morning were very reticent as to the cause of the strike. They professed not to know enough to be able to give trustworthy information. The cause of the strike is, however, ascertained from a very good source, to be the desire of the engineers to compel payment for work over the regular hours. They have been compelled recently to work more hours than heretofore, it is said, and desire to be compensated for doing so.

MISCELLANEOUS FOREIGN NOTES.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Leonard Amblam, a Belgian, who was arrested in July last on board an outward-bound steamer from Liverpool, accused of robbery and the murder of M. Murant, a banker, and his housekeeper, at Civry, near Brussels, was delivered on Friday to a Belgian officer at Dover. Arriving at Ostend, the officer and his prisoner—the latter manacled—took a special compartment in the Brussels train. On the arrival of the train at Brussels both were missing. The compartment they occupied was deluged with blood, and bore marks of a terrific struggle. The body of the officer was found beside the track with the skull and face battered. All his valuables were missing. It is conjectured that Amblam watched an opportunity to attack the officer with his wrist irons, and beat him to death; after which he unlocked the manacles and escaped. He has not yet been recaptured.

BERNE, Oct. 23.—Intelligence has been received here of a fight between Liberals and Ultramontanes at Stabis, Canton of Tessin, in consequence of dissensions over the apportionment of representation in the Grand Council of the Cantons. Two Liberals were killed and four wounded.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

PACIFIC AND HOSTILE FEATURES.

QUIETER FEELING IN BUSINESS AND DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES—SIGNS THAT ENGLAND AND RUSSIA ARE SEEKING A LASTING PEACE—THE STUBBORN FIGHTING ON THE DRINA AND MORAVA STILL A DISQUIETING ELEMENT—THE ROUMANIAN ARMY PREPARING FOR WAR OR DISCIPLINARY MOVEMENTS.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The steady advance in consols and other international stocks which fell during the past week's panic indicates the prevailing impression here that war is not imminent and that a peaceable solution of the Eastern question is not impossible. The Times to-day in a leading article says: "There is perhaps danger that unreasonable alarms may be succeeded by unreasonable hopes, but it is evident that we need not despair of seeing the crisis pass away without an outbreak of hostilities between Russia and Turkey." Heretofore the Times has considered a Russo-Turkish war inevitable. The same change of opinion is noticeable in other quarters. The recent excitement has had the good effect of demonstrating what would be the attitude of the powers in case of an aggressive war by Russia. Had a six weeks' armistice been accepted by the Porte it is not unlikely that the termination would have witnessed the same hostile demonstrations on the part of Russia, with greater danger of resulting in actual hostilities. It seems probable now that the question may be settled peaceably. A dispatch to the official Russian Telegraphic Agency says the departure of Lord Lottus, the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, for Livadia, and Gen. Ignatieff for Constantinople, should be interpreted as further proof that Russia and England are endeavoring to arrive at a sound and lasting pacification.

A dispatch from Vienna to the Times says the most touching harmony reigns again among the powers. Germany's answer, uttered with that almost cynical frankness which has more than once startled diplomacy, may be credited with having brought the new understanding about. While she saw no objection to the six months' armistice, the only chance of preserving a common understanding and common action of the guaranteeing powers was to declare with Russia in favor of the equally unobjectionable six weeks' armistice, because Russia's committals might not leave her free to compromise, while other powers had perfect liberty of action. Even England, which had already accepted the six months' armistice, decided to accept this basis for the restoration of so-called harmony by offering no opposition to the six weeks' truce, but having at the same time disclaimed the lead which she had hitherto held in negotiations with the Porte, the initiative now devolves on Russia, and Gen. Ignatieff has returned to take it.

A special dispatch from Vienna to Le Nord, of Brussels, the organ there of the Russian Government, announces that Gen. Ignatieff, the Ambassador at Constantinople, will insist on a six weeks' armistice. He is instructed to explain Russia's motives to the Porte. It is believed that his representations will be moderately couched, and not take the form of an ultimatum, and that other powers will support Russia's proposals.

Per contra, a Reuter dispatch from Bucharest reports that the battle array of the concentrated Roumanian Army has been officially published, and that Prince Charles assumes command. Though this looks rather alarming, it will probably be followed by the announcement that it only refers to the usual disciplinary movements. Meantime, fighting in the Timok and Morava Valleys and on the Drina has been renewed with great stubbornness. Gen. Tchernayeff telegraphs that the Turks were repulsed along the whole line, but the evidence of newspaper correspondents is unanimous that the Servians were badly whipped, and lost 1,500 men in their attempt on Saitschas and 3,000 about Deligrad. According to the Standard's special, the Turks have taken all the positions to within cannon-shot of Djunis, and very likely will take the latter, whereupon Deligrad, Alexinatz, Gen. Tchernayeff's new head-quarters at Kaonck, and the whole Mara Valley will be in their hands. This new aspect of affairs is likely to hasten Russian action either for war or peace. Russian officers, of whom there are said to be fourteen for each Servian battalion, suffered heavily in the recent fighting. A Reuter dispatch from Belgrade says the Servians admit that the Turks captured Krevet heights, south-west of Djunis, after three days' hard fighting. A Servian bulletin says although the position is important, its loss is not believed to be decisive, as Djunis commands the Servian line. Reuter's agent adds: "The position is critical. Russia's active aid is anxiously awaited."

In connection with the announcement made above relating to the Roumanian army, the following may be interesting: With reference to the geographical position of Roumania (the united Provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia), a glance at the map of European Turkey will show that it "comprises the entire territory between the range of the Carpathian mountains and the Danube from the Iron Gates to its mouth." The superficial area is about 50,000 square miles, 3,000 square miles more than the State of New-York. The population is nearly 5,000,000, giving 97 souls to each square mile. The actual military strength of the country is not great, but it is capable of expansion. The regular army numbers about twenty thousand men, but there is a large well-drilled reserve force of 40,000 men who can be called upon at the shortest notice to take the field. Military service is obligatory with a brief term of service. By a supplementary treaty to the Treaty of Paris, signed in 1858 by England, France, Austria, Prussia, Russia, Sardinia, and Turkey, Roumania was raised to the dignity of an independent State under the protection of the guaranteeing powers named, her sole mark of bondage being an acknowledgment of the suzerainty of the Porte and a payment of over $100,000 annually to the Porte. This obligation Roumania has regularly met, and in no way has Turkey interfered with the internal government of the country, which is based on the "constitutional monarchy" idea.]

PRESENT STAGE OF NEGOTIATIONS.

SOMETHING LIKE AN ULTIMATUM FROM RUSSIA—NON-ACCEPTANCE OF THE ENGLISH PROPOSITION TO BE FOLLOWED BY INTERVENTION BY RUSSIA, GREECE, AND ROUMANIA—CONDITIONAL ACCEPTANCE OF THE SHORT ARMISTRICE BY THE PORTE—DISCONTENT AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The same correspondent reports that Russian diplomatists say Gen. Ignatieff has been instructed to inform the Sultan that Russia makes the English proposals hers with additional guarantees. If the Porte rejects them, intervention will be begun simultaneously by Russia, Greece and Roumania.

Reuter's telegram from Vienna states that the interpellation relative to the Eastern question, which it is proposed to introduce in the Reichsrath, is regarded in diplomatic circles as an error of judgment, as Austria's policy is still adhesion to the triple alliance.

Reuter's telegram from Constantinople announces that Gen. Ignatieff will have a private audience with the Sultan to-day.

The Times' dispatch from Berlin also says the Porte is ready to grant Russia's demands, provided the integrity of the Ottoman Empire is guaranteed.

A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from St. Petersburg states that Lord Lottus has no diplomatic mission at Livadia. The Czar prolongs his stay there until December, therefore the ordinary conduct of political business is transferred to Livadia.

In a semi-official statement the Post announces that the Porte accepts a six weeks' armistice, suggesting a further prolongation of six weeks, if at the conclusion of the first six deliberations are incomplete; and if at the end of twelve weeks no settlement is reached, that there be a further armistice of two months.

The Reuter Telegram Company confirm this statement precisely, except as to the proposals for the prolongations of the armistice, which they say are made as conditions, not as suggestions.

The Post denies that Russia has sent an ultimatum. The Ottoman Government has not been summoned to subject its reforms to Commissioners protected by an armed force. It is to be hoped that the two powers which are in direct negotiation, may come to a speedy understanding. England, while having withdrawn interference, will resent any infraction of the stipulations of the Treaty of Paris.

A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Constantinople announces that the Government has discovered a conspiracy to murder the Grand Vizier and Midhat Pasha, and has consequently arrested two Ulemas of high rank and Ramiz Pasha. The culprits have been exiled to various islands. Other arrests are expected.

The council previously announced was held by the Queen at Balmoral to-day. Parliament was further prorogued from Oct. 30 to Dec. 12, 1876.

RESULTS OF THE RECENT FIGHTING.

THE TURKISH HEAD-QUARTERS ADVANCED FIVE MILES—EXTREME DISTRESS IN SERVIA AMONG BOTH ARMIES AND THE POPULATION—STARVATION IMMINENT.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A dispatch to the Standard from Djunis says there was no fighting on Sunday. The Turks have advanced their head-quarters five miles. The storming of a fortified mountain over which the highway to Krushevatz runs is still to be done.

The Standard's Belgrade correspondent represents that unparalleled distress prevails in both armies and throughout Servia. Unless peace is speedily proclaimed the country will be utterly ruined. There is no suffering in Belgrade, but in the interior thousands of people are starving. The majority of the soldiers are wearing their Summer linen uniforms, and have no blankets. There are 180,000 Bulgarian and Bosnian refugees in Servia.

A special dispatch to the Daily News from Pesth says the Russians believe if the Turks take Kruschevatz Russia will make an armed interventien.

From Belgrade comes news that Gen. Tchernayeff has withdrawn from Djunis, and the road is open to Kruschevatz. It is reported that the Hospodar, Prince Charles, is to be proclaimed King of Roumania.

FAMINE APPREHENDED IN INDIA.

GLOOMY CROP PROSPECTS — GRASS DESTROYED FOR MILES—PROBABILITY OF 200,000 PEOPLE BEING DESTITUTE.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A Calcutta dispatch to Times states that the prospects for the crops in Bombay become daily more gloomy. The districts of Khandeish, Nassick, Ahmednuggar, Poonah, Sholapore, Kaladgi, and Dharwar, containing a population of nearly 6,000,000, are threatened with severe distress. The local Government estimates that over 200,000 persons must be relieved in three districts alone. It is stated that the monsoon crops have entirely failed, and the absence of rain prevents the sowing of the rubbee and Winter crops. The Collector of Poonall reports that not a single blade of grass is visible for miles. The tanks and rivers are drying up, and cattle are dying from starvation. The Collector of Sholapore gives a still worse report. The Government has opened relief works and is employing people in excavating tanks and making roads.

BUSINESS INTERESTS ABROAD.

WEAK MEMBERS OF THE LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE A DISTURBING ELEMENT—THE CALCUTTA TEA AND GRAIN MARKET—THE BRITISH CORN TRADE AND CROPS—DAMAGE BY WET WEATHER.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—To-day's Financier in an editorial article says: "The liability of the stock market to fluctuate is largely increased through causes connected with the internal condition of the Stock Exchange. It is believed that there are in that establishment an unusually large number of members who are destitute of the capital which is necessary for conducting business with safety to their fellow-members with whom they deal. It is a delicate subject, and one for the raising of which we shall probably receive but scanty thanks, but it would be very easy, and it is certainly desirable, to devise means for improving the existing state of things, under which the market for the whole class of stocks may become disorganized and their prices be correspondingly prejudiced, through anxiety secretly felt respecting the stability of dealers, who, almost devoid of capital, may have transactions open to the extent of hundreds of thousands of pounds of stock.

A Calcutto dispatch says: "The alarming European telegrams of the last few days had the effect of further depressing Government securities which have been unusually low for six months past. Tea shares, however, are rising, owing to favorable accounts from the Assam and Cachar gardens. This is a remarkably good year for tea, and the quantity exported will greatly exceed any former year. The Calcutta wheat trade has had a wonderful rise lately. In 1870 the quantity exported was 2,000 tons; in 1873, 10,000 tons; in 1874, 8,000 tons; last year, 50,000 tons, and this year already 120,000 tons have been exported from Calcutta alone. This wheat is grown chiefly in the Punjab."

The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British corn trade for the past week, says: "The land has become so sodden with recent rains that the greatest difficulty has been experienced in the Autumn tillage. It is now most important that the sowing of Winter wheat be no longer delayed. The effects of the past three weeks of wet weather has been most disastrous in the North, where the wretched condition of the outstanding crops has been further deteriorated by heavy floods which have submerged considerable tracts of land and done irreparable damage. It is also much to be regretted that the damp atmosphere and higher temperature have tended to generate blight in the potato crop, and the disease has not been confined to Scotland, where rain has done the most mischief, but several districts in England speak of its recent appearance. The rapid growth of root-crops has rendered the prospect of abundant Winter feed more hopeful, although such excess of moisture can scarcely tend to improve the quality. The weighty authority of Mr. Laws confirms the opinion that our probable requirement during the cereal year will be 14,000,000 quarters, while the imports since Sept. 1 have been at the rate of eight millions. On these figures the recent advance seems justified apart from political contingencies, which have both quickened and stimulated it. In the present disturbed condition of affairs it is almost impossible to quote local trade with any degree of accuracy. Sellers are not disposed to let wheat go except at an improvement of 2s.@3s. per quarter, but for the moment buyers act with considerable caution. There has been a limited amount of business in floating cargoes during the week owing to the scarcity of arrivals, and the sales indicate an improvement of 1s. to 2s. per quarter, while important transactions have taken place in cargoes on passage and for shipment at fully this advance.

APPROACHING ARRIVAL OF TWEED.

THE CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE SECRETARY OF STATE AND THE GOVERNOR OF NEW-YORK—TWEED TO BE SURRENDERED TO THE SHERIFF.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The Navy Department expects the steamer Franklin, on which Tweed is a passenger, to arrive at New-York about Thursday. Immediately upon the arrival of the Franklin, Tweed will be surrendered to the Sheriff of New-York in accordance with the request of Gov. Tilden. Several days prior to the reception of Gov. Tilden's letter requesting that Tweed be surrendered to the New-York authorities, Secretary Fish prepared a letter addressed to Gov. Tilden, narrating the details of the Tweed arrest, informing him that the Franklin, with the prisoner on board, would shortly arrive at New-York, and upon his arrival Tweed would be held subject to the requisition of the Governor. This letter was forwarded in the usual manner for approval. Upon the day it was approved and forwarded, the letter of Gov. Tilden asking for the surrender of Tweed was received at the State Department: so that the initial action of Secretary Fish, in connection with Tweed's surrender, served as an answer to the request, subsequently dated, of Gov. Tilden. The letter of the Governor is very brief and strictly formal. He refers to the published reports of Tweed's arrest by the Spanish authorities, and of his present custody by the United States; recites that Tweed is an offender against the laws of the State of New-York, whose jurisdiction he fled, and asks that upon his arrival he be surrendered to the Sheriff of New-York City, from whose custody he escaped. The full text of these two letters, which comprise all the correspondence about Tweed's surrender, will be made public to-morrow upon the return of Secretary Fish.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTIONS.

NOMINATION OF GEN. SICKLES IN THE NINTH NEW-YORK DISTRICT.

Republican Congressional Conventions were held last evening in different districts, with the following results:

Fifth District. Committee appointed to confer with Independent organizations, to report on Monday evening next.

Sixth District.—Conference Committee appointed, to report on Friday evening next.

Seventh District.—A committee of twenty, headed by Joseph Harburger, representing the Liberals of the district, were admitted to the floor, and pressed the name of John M. Cochrane. Adjourned till Monday next.

Tenth District.—Conference Committee appointed, to report on Thursday evening next.

Eleventh District.—Adjourned until Thursday evening.

The Eighth Congressional Convention met at Liberty Hall, No. 231 West Sixteenth street, Mr. Cornelius M. Van Cott presiding. After a brief interchange of views, it was agreed to adjourn until Friday evening. Among the candidates are Hon. Frederick A. Seward, Col. Anson G. McCook, Prof. Theodore Dwight, Hon. John D. Lanson, Sheridan Shook, Police Justice Bankson, T. Morgan, Gen. Joshua T. Owen, Gen. Lloyd Aspinwall, Dr. Isaac I. Hayes and Alderman John P. Morris.

The Ninth Congressional Convention met at No. 352 West Thirty-eighth street, Alderman Cooper in the Chair, and Gen. Daniel E. Sickles was nominated by acclamation. A Committee of Six was appointed to notify the General of his nomination.

SKETCH OF GEN. SICKLES.

Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, the candidate for Congress from the Ninth District, was born in this City in October, 1821, and is therefore about fifty-five years of age. After serving for some years at the printing trade he began the study of law, and was admitted to the Bar in 1843. Four years later he was elected to the Assembly of New-York, and in 1856 was sent to the State Senate. When Mr. Buchanan was the American Minister to England Gen. Sickles was for a short time Secretary to that legation. He was next elected on the Democratic ticket a Representative from New-York to the Thirty-fifth Congress, and during his term was a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. He was re-elected to the Thirty-sixth Congress, but before the expiration of his first term, in February, 1859, he killed Philip Barton Key, on account of certain domestic difficulties. After a trial extending through twenty days he was acquitted. Civil war then threatened the country, and Gen. Sickles threw himself into the conflict with all the energy of which he was capable. He raised a brigade in New-York, known as the "Excelsior Brigade," and went into the Army with the commission and command of a Brigadier-General. Gen. Sickles was afterward put in command of Gen. Hooker's division, and at the battle of Chancellorsville he fought at the head of the Third Corps of the Army of the Potomac. At the battle of Gettysburg he was in command of the same corps, and while in advance of the line of all other troops the rebel batteries opened upon him. His corps was shattered and driven back until reinforcements arrived, and he himself was carried from the field bleeding from a wound which rendered the amputation of his right leg necessary. At the close of the war he had attained the rank of Major General of Volunteers, and was then made Military Governor of South Carolina. In 1866 he was appointed by President Johnson Minister Resident to the Netherlands, but he declined the position. The mission to Mexico, and several others, were offered to him and declined. He was subsequently appointed a Brigadier General in the regular Army, and in 1867 was brevetted a Major General for gallant and meritorious service at Gettysburg. The mission to Spain was subsequently offered to Gen. Sickles, and this position he accepted. He was confirmed by the Senate, and served in that capacity for five years, at the end of which time he resigned, owing to the complications in the "Virginius affair." Gen. Sickles left the Democratic Party at the beginning of the war, or, as he himself, in a recent speech said, "When they fired upon Sumter, my connection with the Democratic Party ceased." He went into the war as a "war Democrat," and has since that time been identified with the Republican Party. He is a man of indomitable determination, and the most darlog courage.

THE ALABAMA GRANGERS' FAIR.

MONTGOMERY, Oct. 23.—The second annual fair of the Alabama State Grange opens to-morrow. The list of entries is quite large, and the stock display promises to be the largest ever seen in the State. There will be a fine display of machinary and agricultural implements, and the list of premiums to be awarded is very large.

A DETECTIVE IN TROUBLE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 23.—Geo. W. Rose, a private detective of this city, was to-day arrested on a charge of complicity with the messenger in robbing Wells & Fargo's express between this city and Ogden.

TWO DEATHS BY YELLOW FEVER.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 23.—The total number of interments to-day was six, two of which were from yellow fever. Four of the burials were colored persons.

TILDEN'S INCOME FRAUDS.

HIS PITTSBURG, FORT WAYNE AND CHICAGO OPERATIONS.

ENORMOUS FEES RECEIVED BY THE SHAM REFORMER IN 1862 AND 1869—HOW HE MANAGED TO LEASE THE FORT WAYNE ROAD TO THE PENNSYLVANIA COMPANY—HE MAKES A MILLION IN STOCK OPERATIONS—MEN WHO KNOW BUT WILL NOT SPEAK.

From our Special Correspondent.

PITTSBURG, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876.

There is not a business man in Pittsburg who has lived here since 1860, but believes that Samuel J. Tilden cheated the Government out of thousands of dollars of his just income tax. At least if there is such a man, I cannot find him out. They require no proof except the mere statement of the amounts he paid, and they say at once the claim that he paid his full tax is utterly absurd and ridiculous. Judge Sinnott's defense is a laughing stock. The belief of these business men is based on their information, or common report, or, in some cases, on personal knowledge of more or less directness, concerning the connection of Mr. Tilden with the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, which leads from this city to Chicago, and of his immense and successful speculations in the stocks of the company. There is no doubt that from 1862 to 1870, Tilden made from this one road several times as much income as the aggregate upon which he paid taxes during those years.

THE CONSOLIDATION.

The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road was consolidated from three short and feeble lines, which together made a continuous road to Chicago. The companies were all weak when acting separately, and the consolidation was of no immediate advantage; for the interest on the bonds was left unpaid, a floating debt of great magnitude for ante bellum days was contracted, the stock became worthless, and the affairs of the company were given in charge to a Receiver, Mr. William B. Ogden, of Chicago. This was the condition of affairs in 1860. Mr. Tilden was even then, as I am informed, one of the Directors.

The bondholders at first proposed to foreclose the mortgages, reorganization, a dividend was declared the price went nearly to par. Mr. Tilden must have made considerable gains by the rise in the stock, for he was a share-holder. But he seems to have felt, like Cass, that the future was uncertain, and probably did not purchase very largely of the stock when it was at the lowest. He could not have made much from the speculation in 1862, but must have secured very large gains in the succeeding years, and the general belief here is that before 1863 he had increased his wealth a half million of dollars by reason of his connection with the reorganization of the company.

THE LEASE OF THE ROAD.

The greatest operation in Fort Wayne stock which Mr. Tilden ever made was in 1869. All his other transactions are completely belittled by this latest and most successful speculation. The occasion was the lease of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road to the Pennsylvania Company, of which Mr. Thompson was President and Thomas A. Scott Vice President. The Pennsylvania Company became ambitious to control a line to Chicago. They had already leased the "Pan-Handle," which extended for them a southern line toward St. Louis. The project of leasing the Fort Wayne Road to the Pennsylvania Company had been quietly discussed by Directors and officers of the roads for several years; but there was considerable trouble in securing the approval of the Fort Wayne Board of Directors, due in part to a proposition for a rival line to the East from Pittsburg, of which the Allegheny Valley Road and the New-Jersey Central were to be the links, and the Fort Wayne was to be the connecting link West. There were several propositions made to the Fort Wayne Road on this subject, and the scheme was favorably considered at least by some of its members. Nothing, however, was accomplished. The Pennsylvania Company became anxious concerning the rivalry. The proper officer of that company to conduct the transaction failed to find any man on the Fort Wayne Road who could control, or was willing to make the effort. "Who is the man in the Fort Wayne Road," he asked of a friend while crossing on a ferry-boat from New-York to Jersey City. "Why," was the answer, "Sam Tilden, of course." This was immediately after a meeting of the Fort Wayne Board, at which the proposition for a rival line had been considered.

The issue of this conversation revealed itself in a few days in a warning to the gentleman who had given the suggestion of the power of Tilden, that it was a good time to buy Fort Wayne stock. He understood from that hint that the lease was to be made. And he was not mistaken. Mr. Tilden had been seen, and the efforts of the Pennsylvania Company, which had been unfruitful during at least three years, began to blossom in promise. Mr. Tilden was certain of his power. He represented a great deal of the stock. He was the legal adviser and a Director of the company. He had been a leading and strong Director since the reorganization. He knew his advice must be followed, and he knew, what no one else in his company knew, that he would recommend and urge the lease with all his power. He knew the terms that could be made and the effect upon the price of the stocks. The Fort Wayne stock was then selling at $95 a share. It rose in a short time to $110. At and between these prices Mr. Tilden and another gentleman bought all the stock they could carry, or all that could be found for sale. They knew what they were doing, and were not scared by the rise while they continued to buy. No one else did know what would happen, and no one else purchased for speculation during the same time.

STOCK-JOBBING GAINS.

All the stock possible to obtain having been secured, the lease to the Pennsylvania Company was proposed publicly. The stock "jumped" immediately to 132. To the man on the street ignorant of the certain arrangement that had been made, this rise was distressing. Buyers at that rate would be ruined if the lease failed. They dared not take the risk. But Mr. Tilden knew and held to his purchases. The lease was formally executed in a short time, and the stock took another advance, going this time to about one hundred and sixty dollars a share, and there was no subsequent decline. Mr. Tilden, therefore, made from $40 to $55 per share on all the stock he had bought. Shares to the number of 10,000 would have netted him nearly half a million. The common belief is that he and his coadjutor made between them upward of a million.

Mr. Tilden did not carry the lease without some opposition. Some of the Directors were unwilling to make the lease, and the President, Gen. Cass, and the officers of the company were of course anxious that it should not be consummated. It took from their control what was becoming an important and valuable transportation line, concerning which they had some ambition. But Tilden overcame all opposition, secured the lease, and made successful his private speculation.

A FEE OF $50,000.

Tilden was not, however, yet quite satisfied with his gains, and he charged and was paid by the Fort Wayne Company in 1869, $50,000. The road was leased June 7 of that year, so that this charge for services was not allowed to remain long uncollected. The accounts of the transactions in stocks are doubtless long since destroyed; or, at least, they exist only on the books of the brokers who made the purchases and sales. It is possible that no particular amount of gains by this speculation can be proved in court to have been made by Tilden, though this task is not hopeless. The affair itself was as notorious as any of Gould's, Drew's, or Vanderbilt's operations on the street, and the facts stated above come from a source of very accurate knowledge. The fee of $50,000 Mr. Tilden's factotum, Judge Sinnott, will not venture to deny. The evidence is easy enough of access to proper authority. Under the decision in the case of Rowland G. Hazard in Rhode Island, it will become a duty for the Government to bring suit for the tax upon $35,000, at least, of the amount.

WATERING THE STOCK.

The lease was certainly most advantageous for the Fort Wayne Company, and the Pennsylvania Company only carried out a policy of expansion upon which it had entered. But there are some friends of the latter road who wish the policy had never been adopted, and would be glad if the lease was to terminate 990 years before the end of the 999 which it was made to run. The terms permitted the Fort Wayne Company to pay forever twelve per cent. dividends on its capital stock. This was the fact that Mr. Tilden foreknew when he bought stock, and it was the cause of the great rise in prices. The rate of twelve per cent. being an unusual one, it was decided to water the stock, and in pursuance of this determination 170 shares of new stock were issued for each 100 shares of the old to all stockholders who desired to exchange. This, of course, altered the value of no man's property, or at least but slightly, and if the full amount of new stock was distributed honestly the managers gained nothing. But there was some salvage, by reason of the throwing out of fractions on odd shares, and it would be interesting to know what was done with the new stocks not exchanged with shareholders of the old. That a very considerable quantity thus remained is quite certain.

Mr. Tilden is still a Director in the Fort Wayne Company; for that company still maintains an organization though the road is leased, and it has a President, Secretary, Board of Directors, &c. The expense of maintaining this organization is borne by the Pennsylvania Company. The old officers were thus kept in places and salaries, and their opposition to Mr. Tilden's lease was considerably modified if not overcome by this arrangement. They have nothing to do, apparently, but to fumble over their dusty old ledgers daily, like the clerks in the South Sea house after the bubble had burst, when Charles Lamb was employed in the decaying offices from which business had long since fled. There is one duty for them, however, besides, and a pleasant one, and that is receiving and disbursing annually the amount of the lease money paid by the Pennsylvania Company.

INFERENCES.

This sketch of Mr. Tilden's connection with the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Company makes no pretense of completeness. There are some conclusions which must be drawn with certainty. In 1869 Tilden received a fee of $50,000 for certain services. The services he performed for the company in 1862 were many times more valuable and important. These premises being established—and they rest upon evidence—it cannot be denied that he ought to have received a much greater fee in 1862 than in 1869. And yet there are no returns of income from this company in 1862, or for 1862. Perhaps Mr. Tilden received no compensation for this magnum opus. If so, it would be a nice thing just now for him to prove that he labored without price. Perhaps it will be claimed that Tilden earned this fee before 1862. If paid in gross, or "in a lump" for the whole business, certainly a part of it was the earnings of the previous year, but by no means all, if indeed half. A lawyer can hardly collect a fee for making out a deed till it has been executed. He would not ask a dying man to pay for the preparation of a will till it was signed and sealed. Money is not earned till it becomes collectable. The Purchasing Committee in their communications to the company particularly specified and lauded the work of Mr. Tilden in preparing the papers. The deeds were passed when two months of 1862 were gone, and he could have made no charge in his books for drawing them till the 2d of March, even if they had been prepared for signature in 1860. Whatever, therefore, was earned in this work, advertised as his principal labor, was earned in 1862. It cannot be successfully refuted, except by evidence, that the service was rendered without charge, a gratuity to the company; that Tilden did earn large fees in the reorganizing of the Fort Wayne Company in 1862. And yet Judge Sinnott pretends that the great reformer received in that year but $20,000 from the Terre Haute bond-holders, and only earned a little more than $7,000 of that. It must be further recalled in this connection that Tilden's work as a member of the Purchasing Committee did not end with the formal transfers of the road, but was continuous through the whole year. If a man were on trial for murder, and the evidence were as strong against him as it is that Tilden earned a large fee in services for the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Company in 1862 which he never returned as income and on which he never paid any tax, that man, ten chances to one, would be convicted. If the crime charged was not punishable with death, conviction would be sure.

TILDEN'S LIABILITY TO PROSECUTION.

The fee of $50,000 in 1869 calls for some further attention. The courts have recently decided that a man, on the plea of ridding himself of a troublesome tax return, cannot escape paying the just tax afterward, which he allowed an assessor ignorantly to omit in the assessment. But aside from this technicality the spectacle of a pure-minded, patriotic citizen, mourning for the misfortunes of his country and desiring to reform a corrupt Government, gloating over the idea that he has asked nothing of the Government, and that its officers did not know that he was receiving an immense income from a distant part of the country, and so in their ignorance allowed him to escape the burden which Governments are organized to lay impartially on all citizens, and which it is the duty of all men to bear with cheerfulness and honor—such a spectacle might excite the wonder even of those whom Mr. Adams calls "the wolves and tigers who feed upon the offal of the public crib." The "wolves and tigers" did not escape their income tax in the years it was levied, for it was regularly retained from the salaries paid them, as Mr. Adams will remember, for he fed at the public crib during a portion of the time when the income tax was collected.

The explanation of the small assessments probably is that the assessors only knew Mr. Tilden as a very moderate lawyer in New-York, without a large visible business, and they never dreamed of his gigantic railroad speculations in the West. They no doubt considered his return for 1862 a large one for him, and hardened their hearts when they assessed him double that amount in subsequent years. And he permitted, to use no stronger word, this ignorance to continue while he went on making enormous gains and escaping taxes by neglecting to make any return. J. E. C.

HON. THOMAS L. THORNELL FOR ALDERMAN.

The following correspondence explains itself:

NEW-YORK, Sept. 7, 1876.

Thos. L. Thornell, Esq.

DEAR SIR: The undersigned desire herewith to respectfully ask you to allow the use of your name as a candidate for the office of Alderman at large at the coming election.

This desire is prompted by your well-known fearless and independent course in the interest of good government and true reform, during your term of office as Assistant Alderman in the years 1873 and 1874, in which you won for yourself the respect of your opponents and the high esteem of your constituents and friends.

Believing, as we do, that "the office should seek the man," we are prompted, in the interest of the public good, to urge your deliberate consideration of and consent to this request.

While at the present time reform is made the shibboleth of every party organization, we feel fully persuaded that with you reform means an earnest desire for the honest and economical administration by capable, intelligent, and incorruptible men in every place of public trust, from the Chief Executive of the nation down to the humblest guardian of municipal interests, and whether in private or official capacity, we are well assured that your untiring efforts will be given toward a result so desirable to every good citizen.

Noah Davis, D. B. Eaton, Joseph H. Choate, H. K. Thurber, Lloyd Aspinwall, C. E. Detmold, William H. Wiley, T. E. Stewart, H. L. Burnett, S. H. Wales, John R. Voorhis, J. M. Bundy, B. B. Sherman, Theodore W. Dwight, Francis A. Stout, H. G. Marquand, David Dows & Co., Parker Handy, George Walker, James Emott, George W. Dillaway, Ellwood E. Thorne, Francis C. Barlow, John A. Weeks, Theodore Roosevelt, Gouverneur Carr, William A. Booth, John H. Sherwood, Benjamin K. Phelps, William H. Guion, John A. Stewart, William E. Dodge, John D. Lawson, Charles A. Davison, Jesse Hoyt & Co.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

Hon. Noah Davis, Messrs. Dorman B. Eaton, Joseph H. Choate, H. K. Thurber, Lloyd Aspinwall, and others:

GENTLEMEN: I am in receipt of your letter in which you ask my consent to allow the use of my name as a candidate for Alderman at Large at the coming election.

I am highly honored by this request from gentlemen who have labored earnestly and with gratifying success to redeem our City from the rule of those who betrayed its interests in the past, and my most earnest sympathies and support are with you in desire and effort, that the Government of our Municipality shall be wisely, honestly, and economically administered.

To receive such a commendation, in which you are pleased to express your approval of my course as a member of the Board of Assistant Aldermen, is an honor, of which I am deeply sensible and which I gratefully appreciate.

If in your judgment it shall be deemed best to take any steps that will make my candidacy effective, I do not feel at liberty to decline your request.

Your obedient servant, THOS. L. THORNELL.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE NOVEMBER MAGAZINES.

HARPER'S MONTHLY.

—The opening pages of this number are devoted to a versified version of a North British Fairy Tale by the author of John Halifax, Gentleman, and which is in all respects worthy of the prominence given to it. Bayard Taylor, Nellie Hutchinson, Alfred H. Louis, and George Lunt are among the less ambitious poets. Mrs. Spofford has arranged a useful article on Mediæval Furniture, with illustrations from various sources, allowing a very wide interpretation, however, to the word "Gothic." As the subject is receiving much attention just now—one of the consequences in a great degree of the Centennial Exhibition—it is well to remember that furniture may be mediæval or ecclesiastical without being Gothic. It is difficult, too, to suppose that a design from Collinson and Locke's Sketches of Artistic Furniture, republished here, and styled an "Oxford Wash-stand and Towel-horse," would be adopted by any orthodox Oxonian. Papers of this kind, nevertheless, cannot fail to exercise a useful influence in time upon American domestic interiors. Under the title, "A Puritan Gentleman in New-England," Mr. Scudder gives an interesting sketch of Gov. Winthrop; which is followed by a graphic description of the Himalayas, ostensibly by "an Englishwoman," though there are indications of other influences having guided the pen. Here is a paragraph which in a few words excellently describes some of the magnificent and unequaled scenery of Northern India. The Cantonment of Darjeeling is a prosperous British sanitarium in the Himalayas:

"It occupies the summit of a ridge, from each side of which deep valleys slope steeply, but not precipitously. A walk or pony ride of a couple of hours will bring one from a climate like that of London to spots where the orange and the sugar-cane flourish. Looking northward, the horizon for a third of its circuit is bounded by the most magnificent mountain scenery of the globe. Right in front is Kinchinjunga, 28,177 feet, the second loftiest peak, whose summit reaches a mile nearer the stars than any other upon earth saving a few of its own gigantic brethren. The still loftier Gaurisankar or Deodunga, which the English have named Mount Everest, seventy miles to the west, and more than 29,000 feet high, is not seen from the cantonment being hidden by an intervening lower and nearer range, but is visible from many points in the neighborhood. Just to the west of Kinchinjunga are Junnoo, 25,311 feet and Kubra, 24,015 feet, the view to the east being bounded by the square gigantic mass of Donkia, 23,176 feet. At least twelve peaks, each more than 20,000 feet, are visible at a glance, the most beautiful of which is Pundeem, 22,207 feet, almost on a level with Aconcagua and Sahama, the loftiest in the Andes. Pile the Jungfrau upon Mont Blanc and the summit would not reach that of Gaurisankar. Upon Mount Washington heap the three loftiest summits of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains, and the pile would not reach to within half a mile of the white crown of Kinchinjunga."

Mrs. Lamb, the historian of New-York, gives us a very interesting description of some of the most noteworthy tombs in Trinity Churchyard, and the publishers have done justice to it by the addition of some admirable illustrations. There is also a sketch of John Locke, by Prof. Murray-Nairne, of Columbia College. The number is rich in fiction. "A Woman Hater" continues to merit all the praise we have before given it. Then we have continuations of the "Laurel Bush," by Dinah Craik, which are worth reading, and of "Garth," by Julian Hawthorne, a novel of less worth. Short stories are abundant. They are contributed, one—and a very good one—anonymously; others by Rebecca Davis, Constance Woolson, Annie Thomas, and Mrs. Corbett. This number concludes the fifty-third volume, and among the miscellaneous notes which are to be met with near the end is one upon Lord Beaconsfield, which is not worthy of a place in a leading magazine. The writer is apparently quite ignorant of the circumstances and influences that surround Mr. Disraeli's elevation to the peerage, and equally unable to discern the characteristics of the man. Other notes are of the ordinary character.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.

—The November number of the Atlantic will be found to equal any of the most attractive in the volume. It opens with a well-written account of an ascent of Takhoma, better known as Mount Rainier, in Puget Sound, by Hazard Stevens, accompanied by an Englishman named Coleman and another friend. Although the ascent was not attended with any incident unusual in such expeditions, the description of it is graphically written and full of interest. Junius H. Browne turns his attention this month to Giordano Bruno, a good selection in these days of theological and scientific controversies; and Gen. Howard contributes the concluding paper, on "The Battles about Atlanta," which will be well appreciated. Mr. Elliott takes as his Centennial topic the "Pottery at the Exhibition," but scarcely does it justice. His judicial fairness seems to be hampered by some different impulse; still his views are not to be set aside with indifference. Then we have an account of student life in Antwerp by T. D. Millet; a sketch of Oriental Life by Charles Dudley Warner; another of Harriet Preston's valuable contributions on "Early Provençal Poetry;" and a further installment of Mrs. Kemble's reminiscences. From this we quote the following rather amusing account of her reception in Ireland. She says:

"The humors of a Dublin audience, much as I had heard of them before going to Ireland, surprised and diverted me very much. The second night of our acting there, as we were leaving the theatre by the private entrance we found the carriage surrounded by a crowd eagerly waiting for our coming out. As soon as my father appeared there was a shout of 'Three cheers for Misther Char-les;' then came Dall, and 'Three cheers for Misthriss Char-les;' then I, and 'Three cheers for Miss Fanny!' 'Bedad, she looks well by gaslight!' exclaimed one of my admirers. 'Och, and bedad, she looks well by daylight, too!' retorted another, though what his opportunity for forming that flattering opinion of the genuineness of my good looks had been, I cannot imagine. What further remarks passed upon us I do not know, as we drove off laughing, and left our friends still vociferously cheering. My father told us one day of his being followed up Sackville Street by two beggar women, between whom the following dialogue passed, evidently with a view to his edification: 'Och, but he's an iligant man, is Misther Char-les Kemble!' 'An' 'deed, so was his brudher Misther John, thin, a mighty foine man! and to see his demanour, puttin' his hand in his pocket and givin' me sixpence, bate all the world!' Lord C——, whose tall, lathy figure and prominent teeth were well known to the pauper population of Dublin, having told a tiresome old female beggar, who was pursuing him, to 'go along,' received the agreeable rejoinder, 'Ah! go 'long wid your own self; ye're like an old comb, all back and teeth!' When I was acting Lady Townley, in the scene where her husband complains of her late hours, and she insolently retorts, 'I won't come home till 4 to-morrow morning,' and receives the startling reply with which Lord Townley leaves her, 'Then, Madam, you shall never come home again,' I was apt to stand for a moment aghast at this threat, and one night, during this pause of breathless dismay, one of my gallery auditors, thinking, I suppose, that it was wanting in proper spirit not to make some rejoinder, exclaimed, 'Now thin, Fanny!' which very nearly upset the gravity produced by my father's impressive exit both in me and in the audience."

There are some excellent contributions in verse by C. P. Cranch, R. R. Hudson, T. B. Aldrich, Edgar Fawcett, and Kate Osgood, and fiction is represented by another chapter of "The American," by H. James Junior. Literature and music receive full attention in the concluding pages.

THE GALAXY.

—It would be hard indeed to say why the conductors of this magazine, with a capital list of articles before them, should have given precedence this month to "Madcap Violet." We need not repeat our opinion of this novel, for it remains unchanged. We notice that Mr. Brownell, in a subsequent article on "Recent English Fiction," gives it a wide berth, and justly mentions "The Princess of Thule" as the best of Mr. Black's creations. A paper by Mr. J. T. Headley, based upon the original order book of Gen. Burgoyne, is a valuable Centennial addition to our historical records, and by its side may be mentioned a further contribution by Gen. Custer, being a writing found among his papers after his death. Mrs. Jane Swisshelm rushes to the defense of the American character, stimulated thereto by the recent allegation of Strauss, but she allows her patriotism to get the better of her judgment and sometimes even to lead her to misinterpret things. Her picture of the relative position of woman in Europe and America cannot be sustained, and yet with all her zeal she describes us as a people governed by disembodied spirits and swayed by isms. What she will say when she reads an article following hers, though not immediately, by Mr. Albert Rhodes, we cannot divine. This gentleman follows up another similar question suggested by him in a previous number by asking "What We Shall Eat." The article is a severe, but none too severe, criticism of American cookery, food, and methods of feeding. Mr. Rhodes has lived long in Europe, and he judges us, as he is fully entitled to do, by a European standard, and America is unsparingly condemned. Such castigations are necessary, without doubt, and let us hope we shall profit by them. Dr. Titus Coan has a suggestive paper entitled, "Fighting by Machinery," but it might have been more practical with advantage, recent progress in the art of war in Europe providing ample material for instructive illustration. And finally we have another paper, no less noteworthy than its predecessor, on "Reading Shakespeare," from the able pen of Mr. Richard Grant White. In addition to the quota of fiction already mentioned, there is a capital story by Miss Olney, which we should commend to the notice of the ladies. There is also some good poetry this month, the contributors being Joaquin Miller, Mrs. Perry, J. P. Lathrop, and Mary A. De Vere; and the "Drift-wood" and other miscellaneous jottings are good and varied.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.

—An excellent paper on Hartford, by C. H. Clark, and beautifully illustrated, forms the opening chapter of the thirteenth volume of Scribner's. Several of the engravings, especially of the Capitol and of the residences of "Mark Twain" and Charles Dudley Warner, are deserving of more than a passing examination. Other illustrated papers are as follows: One, of more than usual merit by Mrs. Herrick, on "The Beginnings of Life," wherein vegetable cell formation is described; another, entitled "Pictures from Rome," by Wendell Lamouroux, and a continuation of the series by Clarence Cook on furniture. This last contains incidentally a well-drawn sketch of an English hostelry, one of the many to be found on the other side of the Atlantic, and which contrast so rarely with hotel institutions here. It comes, too, from an American pen. Here also we have the first of Mr. Charles Barnard's promised articles on cooperation, to which attention should be given. It is full of practical details upon a subject of much importance, about the merits of which confusion and misunderstanding have prevailed because people will not take the trouble to examine two sides of the project. Another paper of practical value, but to a different section of the people, is by C. F. Thwing, who gives the results of inquiries he has been making into the annual expenses of students at several American colleges. It may be worth while here to note that he finds the little college of Beloit the cheapest, and Harvard and Yale the dearest. In all but five, the annual expenditure is set down at rates which are higher than they need be at either Oxford or Cambridge. Mr. Mitchell continues his Centennial notes, and poetry and fiction are well represented. In the latter we have further instalments of Mrs. Burnett's "Lass o' Lowrie,"—a good novel—and of Mr. Hale's "Philip Nolan's Friends," which is nearly at an end. Mrs. Burnett also contributes a short story, and so does J. T. McKay. Verses are supplied by a cloud of poetlets, whose names, too numerous for our space, may readily be ascertained.

THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY.

—In the prevalent state of science it is not difficult to understand what must be the general tone of a serial like this. Dr. Youmans takes care to represent with truthfulness the tendency of the time; but to do full justice to all the papers in the present number and within the short space at our disposal, would not be possible. Some of them are of considerable value, and one at least is everywhere open to criticism. Readers must examine them for themselves to test this statement. Prof. Edward Morse occupies the first place, a portion of his interesting address before the members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Buffalo forming the opening paper. It is followed by a translation from the Revue Scientifique of a paper not noted for originality, by Prof. Joly, of Toulouse; and that again by an article from Nature on Physical Science in English schools, which if true of England is much more applicable here. A little science in our public schools would save people from death by eating poisonous fungi. Dr. Charlton Bastian contributes the concluding paper on "The Nature of the Invertebrate Brain," and we have others by Dr. Seguin on "Prenatal and Infantile Culture" with some curious suggestions; and by Prof. Prestel on "The Moon's Influence on the Weather;" as well as the first of Mr. Huxley's recent lectures. The last four articles are deserving of careful reading. The first is from the opening address delivered by Mr. Wallace as President of the Biological Section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. In it he discusses not too deeply the origin and antiquity of man, enumerating some difficulties which yet need to be cleared up. It is an impartial examination of some puzzling problems in the history of the human race, with facts which, as they stand, seem to tell in different ways against some of the theories of modern anthropology. The second is an extract from a work soon to be published by Principal Dawson, of McGill University, on The So-called Conflict Between Science and Religion, in which we find many of the views we have frequently advocated in these columns fully sustained. We cannot say that we anticipated so much support from such a source, and we shall look with the more interest for Prof. Dawson's work in consequence. The third, though upon a different subject, is of interest to Americans and is by Mr. Proctor, the subject being, of course, astronomy, but astronomy in America. In the fourth, however, we are brought back to the great question of the day by Dr. McCosh, of Princeton, who was excited to activity again in the cause by Prof. Huxley's lectures. It is curious to find the worthy Scotch divine "pitching into" John Milton on one side as not having been orthodox, and therefore not being any authority, and sidling up to St. George Mivart, the Roman Catholic champion of anti-Darwinism, on the other, with a spirit of nervous sympathy. The author persists in maintaining the false premiss that men of science are atheists; and work hard to "set up targets and shoot them down again." He assumes that science invents hypotheses which are never dreamed of outside of the region of theology, and then abuses science for not explaining them. He even fixes the writing of Genesis at exactly 3,000 years before the era of geology, forgetful, evidently, of recent discoveries, and of the fact that the histories of the Creation and the Deluge, and others, commonly called Mosaic, were traditions in other nations and before the time of Moses. The weakness of the cause which Dr. McCosh defends has never been more significantly and thoroughly demonstrated than in this paper. The editorial notes are worthy of attention. Bishop Coxe will find a useful reminder there. For Prof. Huxley there is a kindly word, as a set-off against the many unkindly words that have been hurled at him on this side of the Atlantic. And then we have a notice of the Hell Gate explosion, which contains all that needs to be recorded on that topic, newspaper reporters to the contrary notwithstanding. In short, the number is in all respects entertaining and instructive.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

—No one will be surprised to find Centennialism still badly raging in the pages of this monthly. The ninth article of the series on the Exhibition is presented to us, and although the author has dealt with a theme that was not the most promising, he or she has given us one of the best of the notices. A little less effort at fine writing would have improved it still more; yet there are many practical hints whose importance must be recognized. Ellis Yarnall, a friend of the family of Wordsworth, contributes the first of two papers in which he describes some of the localities that have been made historical by association with the poet's name. It is an entertaining sketch, and the publishers have embellished it with some good illustrations. It will meet the tastes alike of those who choose descriptive writing and of those who prefer anecdotes of prominent personages. In an admirable paper, or "Higher Education," Prof. James M. Hart criticizes in an outspoken manner some of the defects of American colleges, and some of the follies of American students, and makes a number of suggestions which must doubtless sooner or later come more prominently into notice. His only error lies in misunderstanding the state of educational institutions in Europe, which either he uses as illustrations or with which he seeks to institute comparisons. Some of his statements in this direction might have been true many years ago; now they are quite out of date. He makes proposals, however, for correcting some of the faults that he defines—proposals which, if carried out, would assimilate many of our largest educational institutions to the system that has been adopted in the University of London. Those who are not wearied with reading about the Wagner festival may indulge in something more concerning it here from an anonymous pen. Lady Barker has another letter about Natal, and Lucy Hooper gives a lively and faithful sketch of the postal system in France. Fiction is represented by a further installment of Ellen Olney's "Love in Idleness;" by a short story from the German of Rudolph Lindau, quoted from Blackwood, and by nine more chapters of a new and promising novel by George Macdonald entitled "The Marquis of Lossie." Sidney Lanier shares the poetical glories of the month with Charles Quiet, and among the miscellaneous items the most noticeable is an alleged anecdote of Lord Byron "never before published."

ST. NICHOLAS.

—The current number begins the fourth volume of this, still the best of our American serials for girls and boys. It opens with a translation by Laura Johnson of a story by P. J. Stahl; but Mrs. Dodge has not forgotten the requirements of the month of Thanksgiving. Three short stories are suggested by it, one by Rose Lathrop, another by Helen A. Goodwin, and a third by George Klingle, while we have a tale of general character from the pen of Sarah Kellogg that is not inferior to any of them. Amid this wealth of story-telling the instructive department is also well attended to. Mr. Preston tells a little about the manufacture of lead-pencils, but he might advantageously have told more. Plumbago is found in India, America, and other parts of Europe besides Germany and England, and the iron it contains is not in chemical combination with the carbon. Mr. Preston might at least have told his youthful readers that some of the purest specimens have been found in Ceylon; and he certainly ought to have told them that it has likewise been discovered in this State. Then Susan Coolidge has a pleasantly-written sketch of Matilda, mother of Henry II., but she needs to look up her history of English literature. To tell us that the English language had no existence in the time of Henry I. is rather like saying that Hebrew was not known in the days of Constantine. Albert Rhodes narrates a reminiscence of Abraham Lincoln, and H. H. has a useful parable. S. C. and Mrs. Jaquith give instructions which will furnish occupation, the one in regard to the arrangement of flowers, and the other for the making of a Centennial pen-wiper, which may be useful to the workers for fairs and other purposes. Of many of the illustrations in this number it is difficult to speak too approvingly, and there is the usual liberal supply of poetry and of the many miscellaneous items, such as always contribute so much to the popularity of St. Nicholas.

LITERARY NOTES.

—The fifth volume of Poems of Places, edited by Mr. Longfellow, is devoted to Ireland.

—The Satan of Scripture, by a clergyman, is soon to be published by Smith, Edler, & Co.

—The remarkable series of papers on "Natural Religion" is continued in the October Macmillan.

—Messrs. J. R. Osgood & Co. have not yet arranged for the future editorship of the North American Review.

—Charlotte M. Yonge's papers on "Womankind," in the Monthly Packet, are soon to be published by Mozley & Smith, London.

—The Life and Letters of Charles Kingsley is to be issued here by Scribner, Armstrong & Co., by arrangement with the London publishers.

—The Revue des Deux Mondes for Oct. 1, contains a fantastical story in French by Mr. Henry James, entitled "Un Cousin et Une Cousine."

—Messrs. A. S. Barnes & Co. have arranged for American editions of Dr. Reynolds' John the Baptist and Dr. Mellor's Priesthood in the Light of the New Testament.

—Nearly two hundred and seventy-five thousand copies of the Visitor's Guide to the Centennial Exhibition and Philadelphia, published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., have been sold.

—The Four Gospels as Interpreted by the Early Church, a commentary by Rev. Francis Henry Dunwell, Vicar of Hensall, to be completed in twelve monthly parts, has been begun by Messrs. William Clowes & Son, London.

—Mr. L. B. Munroe's The Story of Our Country, a book narrating in the simplest language for very young readers the history of our nation, to be brought out by Lockwood, Brooks & Co., is just ready.

—Roberts Brothers will publish during the month Mr. John Weiss' Wit, Humor, and Shakespeare. It will include his valuable lectures on the dramatist delivered two years ago in this City. They will also bring out, in the same interval, the first volume of their "Wisdom Series"—Selections from the Thoughts of Marcus Antoninus.

—The Unitarian Review for October, contains a valuable article on "Houses for the People," made up from the yet unpublished report of the Social Science Association for 1876; Dr. Rufus Ellis' notable paper on "The Church as a Centre of Charities," and Rev. J. W. Chadwick's essay at Saratoga on "The Essential Piety of Modern Science."

—The English Church Quarterly Review for October, edited by Canon Ashwell, of Chichester, contains articles on "Parochial Missions," "Montenegro," "The Increase of the Episcopate," and "The Opium Trade with China," "Alexander Lycurgus, Archbishop of the Cyclades," "Liturgical Revision," and "France in the Eighteenth Century."

—Among the many papers written upon "evolution" since Prof. Huxley's lectures were delivered, the article by Rev. George W. Wright, in the October Bibliotheca Sacra, on "Objections to Darwinism and the Rejoinders of its Advocates;" Rev. Joseph Cooke's "Monday Lectures to Boston Clergymen," and the article on "Evolution," by Mr. S. H. Wilder, in the current New-Englander, are entitled to special attention.

—The International Review for November, contains several important articles: "The Origin of Parliamentary Representation," by Edward A. Foreman; "Transcendentalism in New-England," by Dr. Samuel Osgood; "Journals and Journalists of Italy," by Prof. De Gubernatis; "Mr. P. G. Hamerton and His Works;" "French Literature of the Reformation" by the Princess Dora D'Istria, and the "Chinese Question in the United States," by Hon. E. D. Mansfield.

—In the announcements for 1877, the Atlantic Monthly promises contributions from its old and original staff, now much reduced, and names as frequent writers, Mark Twain, C. F. Adams, Jr., and Charles Hale. There are to be several new features. One is a series of papers on various professions and employments, such as the work of a school superintendent, a managing editor, a Congressman, a Pennsylvania iron master, &c. Another is original music by J. K. Paine, George L. Osgood, Julius Eichberg, Dudley Buck, and Francis Boott, with words by the Atlantic poets. Another is the Contributor's Club, to be devoted to desultory criticism of arts, letters, politics, and society. Still another feature, which the Atlantic is not alone in needing, is the searching out of new and strong writers to take the place of those who gave the magazine such a brilliant start twenty years ago. The genius for magazine-editing, which Mr. Charles F. Briggs some twenty-five years since applied to Putnam's Monthly; the ability to hunt up new writers and make the most of them; the genius which was shown in the short-lived Overland Monthly, is better displayed in Harper's than in any other of our magazines, though the Atlantic has recently brought out a new man in the Boston artist, Mr. F. D. Millet, who contributes a notable story—"The Fourth Waits"—to the November number. Mr. Howells is excelled by none of his contributors as a writer, and as long as he continues his charming and delightful essays, his magazine will have numerous readers.

A STOCK-BROKER'S TROUBLES.

A JUDGMENT ON A VIOLATED AGREEMENT, AFFIRMED.

On Feb. 18, 1867, Cumberland G. White, a stock-broker and a member of the Open Board of Brokers, was employed by Algernon S. Baxter to sell, in his own name, 1,000 shares of the Hudson River Railroad Company's stock to Currie, Martin & Co., at $128 per share, payable and deliverable at any time during the year at the seller's option, with interest at six per cent., either party having the right to call from time to time for deposits to meet the fluctuations of the market. The rules of the Open Board of Brokers provided that either party was at liberty to call on the other for margins, and in case of any breach of contract the same should be determined by an arbitration committee. On April 8, in the above year, the Hudson River Railroad Company doubled its capital stock, agreeing to give every stockholder on April 10 an amount of new stock equal to that held by him upon payment of fifty per cent. of the par value. On the last-mentioned date Currie, Martin & Co. notified Mr. White that it was their desire to take this additional stock. The notice was shown by him to Mr. Baxter, who said that Currie, Martin & Co. were not entitled to the stock, and neither offered money to White to make a subscription nor instructed him to subscribe. The stock about this time fell off, but subsequently recovered, and on Sept. 5, in the same year, it was quoted at about 127. On that day Messrs. Currie, Martin & Co., who had, previous to that time, called for $55,000 in margins, asked for another deposit of $10,000. White gave notice of this call to Baxter, and the latter refused to make any further deposit, whereupon the former objected that he was liable to suspension from the Board of membership in the Board, and the other told him that if he would not put up any further margin nor appear before the Arbitration Committee when summoned to do so by Currie, Martin & Co. he [Baxter] would protect him against all losses which might ensue, and if he should be suspended, would pay him during the time of his suspension at a rate equal to his average business for the previous year, with ten per cent. added. White did as requested by Baxter, and the consequence was that the Arbitration Committee made an award of $66,000 against him and he was suspended from membership in the Board, his suspension continuing until May, 1869. Baxter failed to carry out the agreement and White brought suit to recover. Upon the trial of the case it was shown by the plaintiff that during the eight months preceding his suspension his earnings had amounted to about thirteen thousand dollars, and that he had earned about the same amount in speculation. The court ruled that the latter could not be taken as a part of the basis of his earnings. The defendant set up a counter-claim and denied having made the agreement of Sept. 5 for compensation and indemnification, but the jury took a different view of the matter and gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $6,601.55. The defendant appealed from this judgment, and argument on the appeal was heard before Judges Curtis and Van Vorst at the June term of the General Term of the Supreme Court. A decision was yesterday rendered, affirming the judgment of the lower court and setting forth that none of the exceptions seem to be of a character sufficient to call for a new trial. The opinion, which is a very elaborate one, was written by Judge Curtis and concurred in by Judge Van Vorst.

NAVIGATION OBSTRUCTED BY THE FOG.

The fog which prevailed on Saturday and Sunday continued until a late hour last night, though it lifted sufficiently during the afternoon for navigation to be resumed on the rivers. In the bay, however, it continued so dense that very few vessels succeeded in making their way to Quarantine. The steam-ships Adriatic, from Liverpool, and Kenilworth, from Antwerp, arrived during the morning and anchored at South-west Spit, at which place the Germanic, outward bound, is also anchored, not having been able to get to sea. Other steamers due at this port—the Mosel, from Bremen; the City of Chester, Nevada, and Italy, from Liverpool; and the Canada and Australia, from London—are, no doubt, at anchor off Sandy Hook, not deeming it safe to venture in. Toward nightfall the fog again set in thick on the rivers, rendering navigation extremely dangerous, and detentions of the ferries unavoidable.

THE WOUNDED GUN-SMITH.

The unfortunate gun-smith, Gustave Ballion, who was stabbed by a thief in Bayard street, on Sunday, the 15th inst., while assisting a policeman in his capture, was for a long time employed as a waiter at the Century Hotel at Creedmoor, Long Island, where he was known by the sportsmen frequenting Creedmoor as "Frenchy." He has been out of work for a long time, and it would be a deserving act of charity to contribute to his relief. He resides on the top floor of the tenement house in the rear of the premises, No. 16 Spring street. A TIMES reporter handed to him yesterday six dollars, amount of securities now prominent and certain. I regret to find a lack of harmony in the Board of Trustees which tends to cripple the success of the bank. Co-operation on the part of the managers can only insure the growth and prosperity of the institution. In view of your present condition, it will be necessary for the Trustees to make good the existing deficiency to depositors, either by direct payment or by satisfactory personal bonds guaranteeing the depositors against loss by the present impairment of the assets. I would also suggest that all expenses not absolutely required in running the bank be dispensed with. It would seem that one paid officer, with his subordinates, would be all that would be needed until such time as your deficiency is made good. Trusting you will submit this letter to your board at the earliest opportunity, and awaiting their action and reply, I am yours, &c. D. C. ELLIS, Superintendent.

To this letter reply was made as follows:

MECHANICS AND TRADERS' SAVINGS INSTITUTION, No. 283 BOWERY, NEAR HOUSTON STREET, NEW-YORK, Nov. 11, 1874.

Hon. D. C. Ellis, Superintendent Bank Department, Albany, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: The regular monthly meeting of our board was held on Monday evening last, and your letter to the President duly presented and read. As the President has been confined to his room by illness for the past two weeks, and consequently unable to confer with the Trustees on the subject matter of your communication, and as in addition, the attendance of members was limited, (one-third absent,) it was deemed best, in order to facilitate business, to appoint a committee to take the matter in hand and report action thereon at an adjourned meeting, to be held next week. Trusting to be able to advise you of a satisfactory determination of the matter, I am very respectfully yours, &c., H. C. FISHER, Secretary.

The illness of the President was the occasion of delay for a few weeks. On Dec. 22, 1874, the Superintendent was advised by letter from Mr. Conklin that a committee, composed of Mr. Conklin and Mr. Rose, First Vice President, would meet him at Albany on the 26th of December. This committee did so meet the Superintendent on that day, and exhibited to him satisfactory proofs that the deficiency found in October in the assets had been made good, and that there was then a surplus of over seven thousand dollars, after valuations made by the Superintendent of some items of assets, whose value was then largely a matter of judgment. The report of the Trustees for Jan. 1, 1875, filed in the Bank Department Jan. 26, 1875, showed a surplus of $67,240 08. The regular examination was made in March, 1876. The examiner was specially admonished to scrutinize everything relating to the bank. His report was filed in the Department March 16, 1876. This report is as follows:

Hon. D. C. Ellis, Superintendent Bank Department:

SIR: The undersigned, appointed to examine into the condition, working, &c., of the Mechanics' and Traders' Savings Bank, reports: From the accompanying papers it will be seen that there is a deficiency of assets of $91,698 39, counting their real estate at cost, and a deficiency of income of $30,548 18. The rate of interest paid to depositors averages 5 94-100 per cent. on the last three payments of six per cent. dividends on all sums, the largest in the State by at least thirty per cent. This may arise from there being a larger amount due depositors than appears from the general ledger. There has been no abstract taken from the dealers' ledgers for some years to test the accuracy of the general ledger. Respectfully submitted. GEORGE W. REID, Examiner.

March 7, 1876, and subsequent days.

Straightway the Superintendent made a requisition on the Trustees to make good the deficiency in assets. Their performance was not satisfactory, and gave no assurance of their accomplishing the result. Therefore, on the 1st day of June, I reccommended that the Attorney General close the bank. The Attorney General therefore closed the institution by injunction, but the appointment of a Receiver was stubbornly resisted by the Trustees, who still claimed that the institution was solvent. The last report of the Examiner contained the first hint which the Superintendent ever received—as it was the first one ever given—that more was due depositors than the reports by the bank showed. This item considerably increases the deficiency, in a way never before suspected in the Bank Department, and certainly never mentioned in any statement by the Trustees through the Special Committee. As to Mr. Best's assertion that one-half the deficiency—which is $350,000—which he found, might have been saved had the bank been closed in 1874, two remarks may be made:

First—Could the Bank Superintendent be expected then to foresee the repudiation by Alabama of its bonds in 1873? Can he be blamed for not foreseeing that?

Second—No more can he be held at fault for the continued decline in real estate.

It is easier to declare now, after the repudiation by some Southern States of their bonds, and the suspension of interest by others, that it would have been better to have sold some other act in 1874; but who could tell this then so well as he does now? And those investments in Southern bonds were made by the bank long before the present Superintendent came into office, and the act can in no sense be charged to any agency of his. D. C. ELLIS.

TAXATION OF PACIFIC MAIL STOCK.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, Judge Barrett gave decision in the suit of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company against The Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments for the City of New-York, wherein the plaintiffs sought to stay all proceedings of the Receiver of Taxes pending the hearing of the writ of error obtained from the Federal courts. It will be remembered that the Commissioners of Taxes taxed the property of the company in the first place on a basis of $20,000,000, that being the valuation of the entire capital stock. In June, 1874, objection having been raised to this valuation, it was reduced to $5,749,518. Then the company by certiorari brought the matter before the General Term, and the valuation was there reduced to $5,145,268, and the valuation was affirmed by the Court of Appeals. The Corporation Counsel having given notice that he would proceed to collect the taxes, the steam-ship Colon was seized, as already reported in THE TIMES, and application was made to Judge Barrett for an order restraining the Receiver of Taxes from collecting the tax or taking further action, as above stated. In deciding the matter he says:

"The proceedings sought to be stayed are not in enforcement of the judgment. As well might a plaintiff who had sought to restrain the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, after the dismissal of his bill ask a reinstatement of the injunction on appeal because he had stayed proceedings under the judgment of dismissal. The answer would be that the mortgage was not being foreclosed by force of the judgment. The motion must be dismissed, with costs."

Meanwhile the steamer Colon, which was seized by Marshal Hayes, has been released on the company's paying one-half of the tax and giving bonds for the other man.

THE TROUBLES OF THE "TEA-POT" MEDIUM.

It will be remembered that Rufus Wagner Flint, the so-called tea-pot medium, was ordered by the court to pay his wife Helen M. Flint, alimony pending the trial of a suit instituted by her for divorce. This he refused to do, and was adjudged guilty of contempt of court, and sent to Ludlow street Jail. A short time ago application was made to Judge Barrett, holding Supreme Court Chambers, on behalf of Flint, for the release from further confinement, on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction to try the case, inasmuch as he, the defendant, had a wife living when he met the plaintiff. Judge Barrett yesterday rendered a decision in the case, in which he says;

"The court had jurisdiction both over the person and the subject matter. The defendant could have set up the alleged prior marriage, but failed to do so, and informed his attorney that he did not know where the woman was, and would not under any circumstances permit the former marriage to be used as a defense. On all the facts, I am of the opinion that the present effort to vacate the decree is simply an attempt to deprive the plaintiff of the points of the litigation and to obtain indirectly what the court on a direct motion, and after full hearing, has refused, viz., relief from imprisonment. The defendant is still in contempt of the decree, and should not now be permitted to set up what he deliberately refused to plead when he had the opportunity. The motion must be denied, with $10 costs."

Flint's counsel says that he intends to appeal the case.

TRIAL OF A YOUNGFUL MURDERER.

The trial of Michael McGinn, the young ruffian charged with the murder of Patrick Hayde, a brakeman on the New-York Central and Hudson River Railroad, with an iron coupling pin, was resumed before Judge Sutherland yesterday, in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions. Assistant District Attorney George W. Lyon, who conducts the prosecution, examined Thomas Doty, a conductor, and Edward Sheehan, a brakeman, and elicited testimony by which he made out a very strong case for the prosecution. The story of the murder, as detailed by these witnesses, did not differ from that told by preceding witnesses, and their damaging statements remained unshaken under the cross-examination of the prisoner's counsel. Dr. Thomas R. Savage described the wounds inflicted on Hayde by the heavy coupling-pin, and the officers of Capt. Caffey's precinct testified to the pursuit and capture of the prisoner. John Hayde, brother of the deceased, identified a hat produced as the one worn by the deceased on the night of the murder. It was out in the place where the coupling-pin struck Hayde. The Court then adjourned until to-day, when Mr. Lyon will close the case for the People.

LAW REPORTS.

THE TWEED SIX-MILLION SUIT

A NOVEL POINT RAISED BY THE DEFENDANT'S COUNSEL.

The argument was resumed yesterday before the General Term of the Supreme Court on the appeal from the judgment entered against Tweed in the $6,000,000 suit by Mr. Wheeler H. Peckham on behalf of the people. Messrs. Field and Deyo, of counsel for the defendant, submitted to the court a supplementary point of quite an interesting nature. It appears that the counsel for the people raised a somewhat unexpected point in asserting that by the stipulation to try the $6,000,000 case by the jury empaneled in the $1,000,000 suit, the defendant had waived all the objections, challenges, and exceptions to the jury. The fact was as stated in the points of counsel, that after the jury had been impaneled in the latter case, the wife of the senior counsel became alarmingly ill and her life was despaired of, (she subsequently rallied, but died a few weeks after the trial was ended;) and under these circumstances the defendant's counsel asked the court and the plaintiff's counsel for a postponement. The delay was granted upon condition that on the adjourned day, the $6,000,000 suit being the more important, should be tried instead of the $1,000,000 suit, with the jury already impaneled on the latter, if the plaintiffs should so elect. Counsel urged that it was rather hard to impose conditions under circumstances like these, but as the two cases were very much alike no objection was raised. Both cases alleged a conspiracy to defraud, the warrants in the $6,000,000 suit being City warrants, and in the other, County warrants. The plaintiff's counsel signed a stipulation which had been hurriedly prepared, and subsequently elected to try the $6,000,000 suit. This point of the plaintiffs' counsel, Messrs. Field and Deyo claimed, involves a breach of faith. The defendant's counsel were compelled by severe illness in the family of one of them to ask for an adjournment of the trial for a few days, a request which no Christian or gentleman could object to, and no court could refuse. Yet an attempt is made to persuade the court that, as the price of this adjournment, the plaintiff's counsel extorted from the defendant's counsel an abandonment of their client's rights. The plaintiffs' counsel knew that the defendant's counsel never imagined that by this stipulation they waived any of their client's rights, and if the plaintiffs' counsel really intended when they drew the stipulation that such should be its effect, they perpetrated a fraud. On the other side, Mr. Peckham claims that the stipulation was a bona fide one.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Judge Barrett.

Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company vs. Commissioners of Taxes, &c.—The proceedings sought to be stayed are not in the enforcement of the judgment. As well might a plaintiff who had sought to restrain the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, after the dismissal of his bill ask a reinstatement of the injunction on appeal because he had stayed proceedings under the judgment of dismissal. The answer would be that the mortgage was not being foreclosed by force of the judgment. The motion must be dismissed, with costs."

Washington Life Insurance Company vs. Flischhauer.—It is quite clear that if the fourth mortgagee had filed an independent bill and obtained a Receiver in such suit, he would thereby have secured the results which a prior mortgagee had procured—a similar appointment, (Bridge, 43.) There is no reason why he should be deprived of the fruits of his superior diligence because he proceeded as a defendant on this action. It would be inequitable at this late day to question the justice of the order, and it would be contrary to settled principles. The motion must therefore be denied.

Williams' vs. O'Donnell.—Allowance of $400 to plaintiff's attorney and $250 to Mr. Byrnes.

Demorest vs. Belden.—Motion granted, but without costs, as the defendant has not been diligent in moving.

In the Matter of the National Butchers' and Drovers' Bank.—Motion denied without costs and without prejudice to any application which the petitioners may be advised to make on a bill filed.

Handren vs Rooker.—It is not customary to put this class of actions on the Special Circuit Calendar, on the reargument; the motion is denied without costs.

In the Matter of Regulating, Grading, and Improving Eighth Avenue.—I presume, as nothing has been heard from the petitioners' counsel, that they are satisfied that this proceeding cannot be sustained. It so seems to me after going over the papers; the application is therefore denied, with $10 costs.

Craser vs. Tompkins.—The claim was not unreasonably resisted, and the application for costs (other than disbursements) and extra allowance must be denied.

Plummer vs. Belden.—Default opened on payment within two days of term fee, trial fee, disbursements of inquest, &c., of judgment, and $10 costs of opposing motion, and answering within such two days to try the action on the 26th inst., judgment and proceedings thereunder to stand as security. If such costs are not paid and such stipulation given within such time, the motion is denied, with $10 costs.

Tayler vs. Mabie.—Motion denied without costs. (See Lossky vs. Meyer, 3 Land, cb., 69.)

Gaylor vs. Gaylor—The plaintiff must not invoke the aid of the court to enable her to live away from her husband without just cause. Her position on these affidavits is entirely untenable, and instead of granting her temporary alimony and the means of prosecuting an unnecessary suit, I am satisfied that I shall best conserve her truest interest by advising her to accept the good counsel contained in the affidavit of the affiant Kierated, the motion is denied.

Shoaler vs. Shoaler.—Alimony, $8 per week, and counsel fee, $35.

In the Matter of Opening Fort Washington Ridge Road.—Application granted.

Hayes vs. Ryan.—The motion for reargument should be made promptly at the first special term of non-enumerated motions, or some reasonable excuse given for the delay (5 How., 366; 1 Abb. 460.) Something was said upon the argument as to why the motion was not sooner made, but nothing of the kind appears in the papers; motion denied, with $10 costs.

In the Matter of Ketteltas & Burke.—I will hear counsel further in these matters if desired.

Ronalds vs. Ronalds.—Report confirmed and judgment granted.

French, &c., vs. Gearty.—While it would probably be much better for the parties to try this action before a Referee, yet it is not a case where a compulsory reference, under section 271, can be ordered; the motion must be denied, with $10 costs.

Nos vs. Rice.—Order settled.

Tilgham vs. Hoffman et al.—The motion is in all respects denied, except that the answer served may stand on payment of $10 costs before notice of trial, $10 costs of this motion, and disbursements of entering judgment, within ten days; on payment of such costs, defendant Hoffman may defend on such answer; judgment, answer, execution, and all proceedings to stand as security. As a further condition, defendant, Hoffman, must stipulate to accept short notice of trial for 30th November, and to the cause going on the Circuit Calendar, and otherwise the motion in all respects denied with $10 costs.

Naughton vs. Chave.—Motion granted for first Friday of November.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company vs. Cameron.—The laches is only apparent. The defendant moved, as soon as he learned what had taken place in the suit, and when, for the first time, the question of his inability for a deficiency became a practical one. He ought to be allowed to plead his discharge upon payment of the costs which have accrued since the decision of the General Term, followed by the notice of trial for the second time, and $10 costs of motion. The plaintiff, however, has the usual leave to discontinue or to disclaim any personal claim against Cameron within twenty days without costs.

Bucking vs. Hanself.—Section 154 contemplates a case where neither reply nor demurrer to the counter claim has been interposed within the twenty days prescribed by law, but where a demurrer was interposed, and the defendant has an order for judgment in his favor thereon. It would be absurd to move at Chambers for a judgment which the court at Special Term (after hearing argument on both sides) has already granted. The motion to vacate must be denied with $10 costs.

Cohen vs. Cohen.—The decree should not be opened without notice to the plaintiff in person.

Stein vs Carr.—After a careful analysis of the affidavits in connection with the issues raised by the pleadings, I think this motion should be denied, with $10 costs, to abide the event.

Flint vs. Flint.—The court had jurisdiction both over the person and the subject matter. The defendant could have set up the alleged prior marriage, but failed to do so, and informed his attorney that he did not know where the woman was, and would not under any circumstances permit such former marriage to be used as a defense on all the facts, I am of the opinion that the present effort to vacate the decree is simply an attempt to deprive plaintiff of the fruits of the litigation and to obtain indirectly what the court on a direct motion and after full hearing has refused, viz., relief from disbursement. The defendant is still in contempt of the decree, and should not now be permitted to set up what he deliberately refused to plead when he had the opportunity. The motion denied, with $10 costs.

Begg vs. Chave.—Motion granted for first Friday of November.

In Matter of Barrett.—The taxation must be reversed and all the items objected to disallowed.

Matter of Collins.—In one case it was proved that Collins acted as Poundmaster, and restored the fee, as such; in the other case it was proved that he admitted that he was Poundmaster, and his own testimony concedes the fact. This case was an aggravated one, from the fact that his oppression of [illegible] continued after he had been remonstrated, admonished and leniently dealt with by the courts. The cases against him were clearly proved, and he should be punished. The application is denied.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

By Judge Van Vorst.

Abraham et al vs. Smith, &c., et al.—Judgment for plaintiff. Opinion.

Herries vs. Nowell.—The defendant's points and papers on submission should be handed in.

Meyer vs. Schiffer et al.—These findings must be made to conform to the directions heretofore given with respect to the application of the sum of $2,500 on the mortgage. See memorandum.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

By Judges Curtis and Van Vorst.

White vs. Baxter.—The judgment appealed from should be affirmed with costs. Opinion by Judge Curtis.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

By Chief Justice Curtis.

Judd vs. Hofman.—Motion to strike out second cause of action denied; 28th rule; costs to plaintiffs to abide event.

MARINE COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Chief Justice Shea.

Motions Granted.—Hecker vs. Cox; Thurber vs. Kelly; Frank vs. Duffy; Derillars vs. Conner.

Orders Granted.—Smith vs. Ahrens; Herbst vs. Vichot; Boehm vs. Geyer; McKeon vs. Reilly; Weill vs. Speer; Hollander vs. Murphy; Johnson vs. The Union Star Line; Griswold vs. Tompkins; Reich vs. Levy; Claflin vs. Kempner; Bach vs. Bauer; Ponchey vs. Raab vs. Fleischer vs. Kopick; Yunker vs. Dilze; Hughes vs. The Mayor, &c.; Carpentier vs. Prince; Tucker vs. Sheridan.

By Judge Goepp.

Shwartz vs. Appold.—New trial granted on the authority of Boomer vs. Koon, 6 Sup. C. R., 645.

COURT NOTES.

William P. Dickson, the Referee appointed to audit the accounts of the Receiver of Hoyt, Spragues & Co., yesterday proved the claim of Franklin J. Hall for $4,181 51.

Counsel for Quimbo Appo, the Chinaman who on Saturday morning last killed John A. Kelly, yesterday obtained from Judge Barrett holding Supreme Court Chambers, a writ of habeas corpus returnable to-day, so that bail might be offered.

Dennis Connors and John Hagerty, both young men, were committed for trial in default of $3,000 bail, at the Fifty-seventh Street Police Court yesterday, on a charge of having outraged Jane Brady, of No. 411 East Twelfth street, and then robbed her of $15 and some lure.

Cora Seymour, a domestic, stole jewelry and clothing valued at $1,500, the property of Mrs. Mary Jane Brooks, in whose employment she was. In Part II. of the Court of General Sessions yesterday, Assistant District Attorney Roscoe Russell accepted a plea of guilty, and Judge Gildersleeve sentenced her to two years in the State Prison.

Judge Benedict, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday heard argument upon a motion to quash the informations pending against Philip Ronzone, for alleged fraudulent importations. A. J. Dittenhoefer appeared for the applicant and Assistant United States District Attorney Foster for the Government. Decision was reserved.

In the suit for divorce brought by John J. Showler against his wife Adelia L. Showler, the facts of which have already been published in THE TIMES, Judge Barrett, holding Supreme Court Chambers, yesterday gave a decision ordering the plaintiff to pay to the defendant $8 a week alimony and $35 counsel fee, pending the trial of the case.

Messrs. Ribbaud & Saltz, comprising the Franco-American Glove Company at Grand street and South Fifth avenue, were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff E. Murphy on charges of fraudulent bankruptcy preferred against them by G. L. Rose and Isaac Alexander, in suits brought in the Marine Court. In default of $1,600 and $1,500 bail respectively, they were sent to Ludlow Street Jail.

Garrett Dreyer, the reputed occupant of the premises between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues and Seventy-first and Seventy-second streets, where an illicit distillery was found in full operation last Friday evening, surrendered himself yesterday, and gave bail in the sum of $5,000 before United States Commissioner Shields. Frank Joseph, the employe arrested at the time, was released yesterday on $500 bail, as a witness in the case.

The trial of the suit of Frederick W. Gerty against Ann Kahnsen to recover $2,000 on a promissory note given by the husband of the defendant to William Hodson, whose Assignee the plaintiff is, was yesterday begun before Judge Lawrence, holding Supreme Court, Circuit, Part II., and had not been concluded when the court adjourned. The defense set up is mainly that the note was paid before the death of the husband of defendant.

Argument was had before Judge Benedict, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday morning, and decision reserved on the motion of W. S. and C. N. Miller, under indictment for alleged whisky frauds, to be discharged on their own recognizance, the Government having declined to move trial at this term of court. T. Clevenand appeared for the defendants, and Assistant United States District Attorney Foster for the prosecution.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

RECENT DECISIONS RENDERED—THE BUSINESS OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES—WHEN POLICIES ARE FORFEITED.

WASAINGTON, Oct. 23.—On motion of Mr. P. Phillips, John Nelles Young, Esq., of Sacramento, Cal., was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of the Supreme Court.

On motion of Mr. Solicitor General Phillips, E. L. Hessen Mueller, Esq., of Cleveland, Ohio, was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this court.

On motion of Mr. C. H. Krum, J. D. Stevenson, of St. Louis, and John K. Kravens, of Kansas City, were admitted to practice as attorneys and counselors of this court.

No. 34.—J. W. Fuller, et al., plaintiffs in error, vs. H. B. Claflin & Co.—In error to the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Arkansas. Mr. Justice Hunt delivered the opinion of the court, reversing the judgment of the said District Court, with costs, and remanding the cause for further proceedings in conformity with law and justice.

No. 8.—Original—R. S. Parks, Petitioner.—Justice Bradley delivered the opinion of the court, denying the petition for a writ of habeas corpus in this cause.

No. 31.—Harvey Terry, Appellant, vs. The Merchants' and Planters' Bank.—Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Georgia.—Mr. Justice Miller delivered the opinion of the court, affirming the decree of the said Circuit Court in this cause, with costs.

No. 6—E. R. Smith, Executor, &c., et al., Plaintiff in Error, vs. George W. Chapman, Executor, &c.—In error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Minnesota. Mr. Justice Clifford delivered the opinion of the court, reversing the judgment of the said Circuit Court, with costs, and remanding the cause for further proceedings, in conformity with law and justice.

No. 30.—Harry Terry, Appellant, vs. The Bank of Commerce.—Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Georgia. Mr. Chief Justice Waite delivered the opinion of the court, dismissing the appeal in this cause for want of jurisdiction.

No 60.—Arthur Hughes et al., Plaintiffs in Error, vs. the Milwaukee National Bank of Wisconsin.—In error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New-York. Chief Justice Waite announced the decision of the court affirming the judgment of said Circuit Court in this cause, with costs. Authority of Dows vs. National Exchange Bank, 91 United States Reports, 518.

No. 890.—Mary W. Anderson, appellant, vs. A. R. Campbell, Administrator, &c.—Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Texas.—On motion of P. A. Buchanan, docketed and dismissed, with costs.

No. 891.—Edward Welsh, et. al. plaintiffs in error, vs. Alfred S. Tilton.—In error to the Supreme Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Texas.—On motion of C. W. Homer, docketed and dismissed, with costs.

No. 892.—The Atlantic Dock Company & Barker Manufacturing Company, Appellants, vs. The Stillwell & Bierce Manufacturing Company.—Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio.—On motion of Mr. S. B. Perry, docketed and dismissed, with costs.

No. 297.—Charles Kerris, assignee, et al., appellants, vs. A. T. Stewart & Co.—This cause was submitted by Mr. Edward McCrady and Mr. Edward McCrady, Jr., of counsel for the appellants, and by Mr. Samuel Lord, Jr., for the appellees under the twentieth rule.

No. 56.—Daniel R. Brandt vs. The Virginia Coal and Iron Company.—The argument of this cause was continued by Mr. E. W. Blanchard, of counsel for the appellee, and concluded by Mr. John J. McKinnon for the appellor.

Adjourned until to-morrow at 12 o'clock.

The following important opinions in several life insurance cases were delivered by the Supreme Court of the United States to-day: The New-York Life Insurance Company, appellant, against Charlotte C. Statham and Parmelia A. Dudley, formerly Parmelia A. Statham; appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Mississippi. The New-York Life Insurance Company, plaintiff in error, against Charlotte Sayms; error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Mississippi. The Manhattan Life Insurance Company, plaintiff in error, vs. R. S. Buck, Executor of Charles L. Buck, deceased; error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Mississippi. The points decided are as follows: A policy of life insurance which stipulates for the payment of an annual premium by the assured, with a condition to be void on non-payment, is not an insurance from year to year like a common fire policy, but the premiums constitute an annuity, the whole of which is the consideration for the entire assurance for life, and the condition [illegible] a condition subsequent, making void the policy by its non-performance. But the time of payment in such policies is material and of the essence of the contract, and failure to pay involves an absolute forfeiture, which cannot be relieved against in equity. If the failure to pay the annual premium be caused by the intervention of war between the territories in which the Insurance Company and the assured respectively reside, which makes it unlawful for them to hold intercourse, the policy is, nevertheless, forfeited if the company insists on the condition; but in such case the assured is entitled to the equitable value of the policy arising from the premiums actually paid. The equitable value is the difference between the cost of a new policy and the present value of premiums yet to be paid on the forfeited policy when the forfeiture occurred, and may be recovered in an action at law or suit in equity. The doctrine of the revival of contracts suspended during the war is one based on considerations of equity and justice, and cannot be inverted by giving to the assured the option to revive their policies or not, after they have been suspended by a war. Since none but the sick and dying would apply, it would be unjust to compel a revival against the company. Mr. Justice Bradley delivered the opinion of the court.

The first of these cases is a bill in equity, filed to recover the amount of a policy of life insurance granted by the defendants, new plaintiffs in error, in 1851, on the life of Dr. A. D. Statham, of Mississippi, from the proceeds of certain funds belonging to the defendants, attached in the hands of their agent at Jackson, in that State. It appears from the statements of the bill that the annual premiums accruing on the policy were all regularly paid until the breaking out of the late civil war, but that, in consequence of that event, the premium due on Dec. 5, 1861, was not paid, the parties insured being residents of Mississippi, and the defendants a corporation of New-York. Dr. Statham died in July, 1862. The second case is an action at law, brought in the same court, against the same defendants, to recover the amount of a policy issued in 1859 on the life of one Henry S. Sayms, the husband of the plaintiff. In this case, also, the premiums had been paid until the breaking out of the war, when, by reason thereof, they ceased to be paid, the plaintiff and her husband being residents of Mississippi. Seyms died in May, 1862. The third case is a similar action at law, brought in the same court against the Manhattan Life Insurance Company of New-York, to recover the amount of a policy issued by them in 1858 on the life of C. L. Buck, of Vicksburg, Miss., the circumstances being substantially the same as in the other cases. The policies in all of the cases were in the usual form of such instruments, declaring the company, in consideration of a certain sum to them in hand paid by the assured, and of an annual premium of the same amount to be paid on the same day and month in every year during the continuance of the policy, did assure the life of the party named, in a specified amount, for the term of his natural life. The policies contained various conditions, upon the breach of which they were to become null and void, and, among others, the following: "That, in case the said (assured) shall not pay the said premiums on the several days hereinbefore mentioned for payment thereof, then and in every such case the said company shall not be liable to the payment of the sum insured, or any part thereof, and this policy shall cease and determine." The Manhattan policy contained the additional provision that in every case where the policy should cease or become null and void, all previous payments thereon should be forfeited to the company. The non-payment of the premiums in arrears was set up in bar of the actions, and the plaintiffs respectively relied on the existence of war as an excuse, offering to deduct the premiums in arrears from the amounts of the policies. We agree with the court below that the contract is not an assurance for a single year, with a privilege of renewal from year to year by paying the annual premium; but that it is an entire contract of assurance for life, subject to discontinuance and forfeiture for non-payment of any of the stipulated premiums. Such is the form of the contract, and such is its character.

It has been contensed that the payment of each premium is the consideration for insurance during the next following year, as in fire policies; but the position is untenable. It often happens that the assured pays the entire premium in advance, or in five, ten or twenty annual instalments; such instalments are clearly not intended as the consideration for the respective years in which they are paid, for after they are all paid the policy stands good for the balance of the life insured without any further payment. Each installment is, in fact, part consideration of the entire insurance for life. It is the same thing where the annual premiums are spread over the whole life. The value of insurance for one year of a man's life, when he is young, strong, and healthy, is essentially not the same as when he is old and decrepit. There is no proper relation between the annual premium and the risk of assurance for the year in which it is paid. The idea of assurance from year to year is the suggestion of ingenious counsel. The annual premiums are an annuity, the present value of which is calculated to correspond with the present value of the amount assured, a reasonable percentage being added to the premiums to cover expenses and contingencies. The whole premiums are balanced against the whole insurance; but while this is true, it must be conceded that promptness of payment is essential in the business of life insurance. All the calculations of the insurance company are based on the hypothesis of prompt payment. They not only calculate on the receipt of the premiums when due, but on compounding interest upon them. It is on this basis that they are enabled to offer assurance at the favorable rates they do. Forfeiture for non-payment is a necessary means of protecting themselves from embarrassment. Unless it were enforced the business would be thrown into utter confusion. It is the forfeiture of policies in rising enterprises and all other hazardous undertakings. There must be power to cut off unprofitable members, or the success of the whole scheme is endangered. The insured parties are associates in a great scheme. This associated relation exists whether the company be a mutual one or not. Each is interested in the engagements of all; for out of the coexistence of many risks arises the law of average, which underlies the whole business.

An essential feature of this scheme is the mathematical calculations referred to, on which the premiums and amounts assured are based; and these calculations, again, are based on the assumption of average mortality, and of prompt payments and compound interest thereon. Delinquency cannot be tolerated nor redeemed, except at the option of the company. This has always been the understanding and practice in this department of business. Some companies, it is true, accord a grace of thirty days or other fixed period within which the premium in arrear may be paid on certain conditions of continued good health, &c.; but this is a matter of stipulation or of discretion on the part of the particular company. When no stipulation exists it is the general understanding that time is material, and that a forfeiture is absolute if the premium be not paid. The extraordinary and even desperate effort sometimes made when an insured person is in extremes to meet a premium coming due, demonstrates the common view of this matter. The case therefore, is one in which time is material and of the essence of the contract, and non-payment at the day involves absolute forfeiture, if such be the terms of the contract, as is the case here. Courts cannot with safety vary the stipulation of the parties by introducing equities for the relief of the insured against their own negligence. But the court below bases its decision on the assumption that when performance of the condition becomes illegal in consequence of the prevalence of public war, it is excused, and forfeiture does not ensue. It supposes the contract to have been suspended during the war, and to have revived with all its force when the war ended. Such a suspension and revival do take place in the case of ordinary debts, but have they been known to take place in the case of executory contracts in which time is material? If a Texas merchant had contracted to furnish some Northern explorer a thousand cans of preserved meat by a certain day, so as to be ready for his departure for the North Pole, and was prevented from furnishing it by the civil war, would the contract still be good at the close of the war, five years afterward, and after the return of the expedition? If the proprietor of a Tennessee quarry had agreed in 1860 to furnish during the two following years 10,000 cubic feet of marble for the construction of a building in Cincinnati, could he have claimed to perform the contract in 1865 on the ground that the war prevented an earlier performance? The truth is that the doctrine of the revival of contracts suspended during the war is based on considerations of equity and justice, and cannot be invoked to revive a contract which it would be unjust or inequitable to revive.

In the case of life insurance, beside the materiality of time in the performance of the contract, another strong reason exists why the policy should not be revived. The parties do not stand on equal ground in reference to such a revival. It would operate most unjustly against the company. The business of insurance is founded on the law of averages; that of life insurance eminently so. The average rate of mortality is the basis on which it rests. By spreading the risks over a large number of cases the companies calculate on this average with reasonable certainty and safety. Anything that interferes with it deranges the security of the business. If every policy lapsed by reason of the war should be revived, and all the back premiums should be paid, the companies would have the benefit of this average amount of risk. But the good risks are never heard from, only the bad are sought to be revived, where the person insured is either dead or dying. Those in health can get new policies cheaper than to pay arrearages on the old. To enforce a revival of the bad cases while the company necessarily loses the cases which are healthy, would be manifestly unjust. An insured person, as before stated, does not stand isolated and alone. His case is connected with and correlated to the cases of all others insured by the same company. The nature of the business as a whole must be looked at to understand the general equities of the parties. We are of opinion, therefore, that an action cannot be maintained for the amount assured on a policy of life insurance forfeited, like those in question, by non-payment of the premium, even though the payment was prevented by the existence of the war. The question then arises, must the insured lose all the money which has been paid for premiums on their respective policies? If they must, they will sustain an equal injustice to that which the companies would sustain by reviving the policies. At the very first blush it seems manifest that justice requires that they should have some compensation or [illegible] the money already paid; otherwise the companies would be the gainers from their loss, and that from a cause for which neither party is to blame. The case may be illustrated thus: Suppose an inhabitant of Georgia had bargained for a house situated in a Northern city, to be paid for by installments, and the title to be made until all the instalments were paid, with a condition that on the failure to pay any of the installments when due the contract should be at an end and the previous payments forfeited, and suppose that this condition was declared by the parties to be absolute and the time of payment material; now, if some of the installments were paid before the war and others accruing during the war were not paid, the contract as an executory one was at an end. If the necessities of the vendor obliged him to avail himself of the condition and to resell the property to another person, would it be just for him to retain the money he had received? Perhaps it might be just if the failure to pay had been voluntary, or could by possibility have been avoided; but it was caused by an event beyond the control of either party, an event which made it unlawful to pay. In such case, while it would be unjust after the war to enforce the contract as an executory one against the vendor contrary to his will, it would be equally unjust in him, treating it as ended, to insist upon the forfeiture of the money already paid upon it. An equitable right to some compensation or return for previous payments would clearly result from the circumstances of the case. The money paid by the purchaser, subject to the value of any possession which he may have enjoyed, should ex aiquo et bono be returned to him. This would clearly be demanded by justice and right. And, so in the present case. While the Insurance company has a right to insist on the materiality of time in the condition of payment of premiums and to hold the contract ended by reason of non-payment, they can not with any fairness insist upon the condition as it regards the forfeiture of the premiums already paid. That would be clearly unjust and inequitable. The insured has an equitable right to have this amount restored to him subject to a deduction for the value of the assurance enjoyed by him while the policy was in existence. In other words he is fairly entitled to have the equitable value of his policy. As before suggested, the annual premiums are not the consideration of assurance for the year in which they are severally paid, for they are equal in amount, whereas the risk in the early years of life is much less than in the later. It is common knowledge that the annual premiums are increased with the age of the person applying for insurance. According to approved tables, a person becoming insured at twenty-five is charged about $20 annual premium on a policy of $1,000, while a person at forty-five years of age is charged about $38. It is evident, therefore, that when the younger person arrives at the age of forty-five his policy has become (by reason of his previous payments), of considerable value. Instead of having to pay for the balance of his life $38 per annum, as he would if he took out a new policy on which nothing had been paid, he has only to pay $18. The difference, $18 per annum during his life, is called the equitable value of his policy. The present value of the assurance on his life exceeds by this amount what he had yet to pay. Indeed, the company, if well managed, has laid aside and invested a reserve fund equal to this equitable value to be appropriated to the payment of his policy when it falls in. This reserve fund has grown out of the premiums already paid. It belongs in one sense to the insured who has paid them somewhat as a deposit in a savings bank is said to belong to the person who made the deposit. Indeed, some life insurance companies have a standing regulation by which they agree to pay to any person insured like equitable value of his policy whenever he wishes it. In other words, it is due on demand. But whether thus demandable or not, the policy has a real value corresponding to it; a value on which the holder often realizes money by borrowing. The careful capitalist does not fail to see that the present value of the annuity, or annual premium, yet to be paid by the assured party. The present value of the amount assured it exactly represented by the annuity which would have to be paid on a new policy, or $38 per annum in the case before us, the party is forty-five years old, while the present value of the premium yet to be paid on a policy taken by the same person at twenty-five is but little more than half that amount. To forfeit this excess which fairly belongs to the assured and is fairly due from the company, and which the latter actually has in its coffers, and to do this for a cause beyond individual control would be rank injustice. It would be taking away from the assured that which had already become substantially his property. It would be contrary to the maxim that no one should be made rich by making another poor. We are of opinion, therefore, first, that as the companies elected to insist upon the condition in these cases, the policies in question must be regarded as extinguished by the non-payments of the premiums, though caused by the existence of the war, and that an action will not lie for the amount insured thereon.

Second, That such failure being caused by a public war, without the fault of the assured, they are entitled, ex æquo et bono, to recover the equitable value of the policies, or h interest, from the close of the war. It results from these conclusions that the several judgments and decrees in the cases before us being in favor of the plaintiffs for the whole sum assured, must be reversed, and the records remanded for further proceedings. We perceive that the declarations in the actions at law contain no common or other counts applicable to the kind of relief which, according to our decision, the plaintiffs are entitled to demand, but as the question is one first impression, in which the parties were necessarily somewhat in the dark with regard to their precise rights and remedies, we think it fair and just that

The New York Times.

WITH SUPPLEMENT.

NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, OCT. 24, 1876.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEN. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM A. WHEELER,

OF NEW-YORK.

AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Live—Mr. C. F. Coghlan, Mr. James Lewis, Mr. Charles Fisher, Miss Amy Fawcitt, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Forbidden Fruit—Mr. J. Montague, Mr. Harry Beckett, Miss Ada Dyas, Miss Effie Germon.

GILLO'S GARDEN.—Baba—Mr. W. A. Crane, Mr. V. Bowers, Miss Elina Weatherby, Miss Minnelli.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.—Sardanapalus—Mr. F. C. Bangs, Mrs. Agnes Booth, grand ballet and chorus.

UNION SQUARE THEATRE—The Two Orphans—Mr. C. Thorne, Jr., Mr. J. O'Neill, Miss Kate Claxton.

NEW-YORK AQUARIUM.—Rare and Curious Fish and Mammalia, Statuary, &c.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—La Jolie Parfumeuse (Opera Bouffe)—Mlle. Marie Aimée.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN.—Exhibition of Paintings. Day and evening.

GILMORE'S GARDEN.—P. T. Barnum's Museum, Circus, and Menagerie.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.—Dramatic Performance—Curiosities—Afternoon and evening.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE HALL—Annual Exhibition of Art, Science, and Mechanics.

EAGLE THEATRE—Minstrelsy, Comedy, Burlesque.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Grand Novelty and Variety Entertainment.

PARK THEATRE.—Sweet Hearts and Tom Cobb.

KELLY & LEON'S HALL.—Minstrelsy and Comicalities.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Variety Entertainment.—Messrs. Harrigan and Hart.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS—Minstrelsy, Farces, and Negro Comicalities.

☞Advertisements for THE WEEKLY TIMES must be handed in before 6 o'clock this evening.

NOTICE.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot, under any circumstances, return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

This morning THE DAILY TIMES consists of TEN PAGES. Every news-dealer is bound to deliver the paper in its complete form, and any failure to do so should be reported at the publication office.

Our friends in the interior of the State express a good deal of alarm lest the fraudulent vote of New-York and Brooklyn should render abortive all their efforts to elect the Republican ticket. We can assure all such desponding Republicans that the registration lists of these two cities will be subjected to the most searching scrutiny, and that the most thorough preparations will be made to keep the vote within its legal dimensions. The system of verification of the registry which has been devised for this City is one of the most perfect which has ever been applied, and by election day the names of at least nine-tenths of the persons who have registered illegally will be in proper hands for proper action.

Of course, in a work of so much magnitude there is abundant scope for the co-operation of private citizens. Any earnest Republican can greatly strengthen the hands of the Federal Supervisors of Election by communicating to THE TIMES facts which come to his knowledge relating to illegal registration in his own election district. We shall gladly see that all such communications receive due attention. It may be necessary to invoke the active aid of private citizens to keep the ballot-box free from fraud. By this day week the extent of the attempted frauds with which we have to deal will be made apparant, and whatever aid may be needed to reinforce the ordinary guardians of purity of election will, we doubt not, be promptly forthcoming.

The Sun thinks that "we might as well have a bull-dog to rule New-York as to have an unintelligent, unreasoning one-man power to dictate bad nominations and impose bad officers on the people." This is quite true, and, therefore, we expect to see the Sun repudiate the entire Kelly ticket. CROKER and WOLTMAN are certainly more disreputable persons that Mr. CALVIN, and the whole ticket must be defeated if KELLY'S claim to be the autocrat of New-York is to be finally disposed of. It was not only DELANO C. CALVIN who was beaten last year. FREEDMAN and SINNOTT shared the same fate, and both are soliciting again the suffrages of a community which has certainly had no fresh reason since last year for accepting them.

Perhaps the most comprehensive and able review yet attempted of the political and public career of Gov. TILDEN will be found in the speech of Mr. DORMAN B. EATON, which we publish to-day. From the thinly-veiled treason which marked his conduct during the early days of the war, to the duplicity, meanness, and impudence of his latest attempt to rob Gov. DIX and Republican Legislatures of the credit of reducing State taxation, no point of the tortuous and slimy course of Mr. TILDEN is left untouched. Mr. EATON brings out in clear contrast the honest, patriotic, and straighforward conduct of Gen. HAYES, and presents the brave soldier and the resolute Reformer as a companion picture to the sneaking foe of the Union and the tricky, unscrupulous politician.

Dispatches from London, dated yesterday, announce that Roumania has resolved on striking for independence, and that Prince CHARLES will personally command the forces. This reported extension of the area of the Eastern conflict is of the greatest importance, but the story lacks confirmation. In the meantime, the Servians claim that in the late fight the Turks were "repulsed along the whole line." This statement is not supported by information furnished by independent newspaper correspondents, and it is apparently conceded that the left wing of the Turkish forces has invested Djunis. Should this place surrender, the whole Morava Valley will be in the hands of the Turks, and a decisive battle will be imminent.

The trouble among the Republicans in the Thirty-first Congressional District continues, to the great delight of the enemy. Every day renders more improbable any mutually satisfactory adjustment of the differences which are represented by rival candidates in the same party interest. The feelings which keep Messrs. FLAGLER and HOSKINS apart are gaining hold upon their respective followers, rendering more difficult than ever the retirement of either for the benefit of the other. It is understood that Mr. FLAGLER is not unwilling to withdraw, but that event, while creditable to himself, would not insure the transfer of his supporters to Mr. HOSKINS. There seems to be only one way out of the difficulty, and that involves the retirement of both candidates. If Messrs. HOSKINS and FLAGLER will consent, without further waste of time, to sacrifice their own wishes and pretensions to the welfare of the party, a new nomination may be obtained that will be acceptable to both sections, and will insure Republican success. The interests at stake are too diversified and great to be imperiled for any personal consideration, or for the gratification of one part of the district at the expense of the whole.

A tolerably complete history of Mr. TILDEN'S connection with the "reconstruction" of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne, and Chicago Railroad in 1862, and the lease of the same road in 1869, will be found elsewhere. Mr. SINNOTT did not deny our general allegation that his employer earned $25,000 from the first-named operation, though he called in question the accuracy of the apportionment of certain amounts to certain items of service. It will be observed that the investigations of our special correspondent at Pittsburg establish the fact that his fees for services in connection with the lease of the road in 1869 were $50,000. As the legal proceedings required to facilitate the sale of the road in 1862 were far more delicate and onerous, and as Mr. TILDEN did all the important work in connection with these proceedings, it may be safely inferred that his aggregate fees in 1862 were far in excess of $50,000. His gains accruing from the rise of the stock after the lease of the road to the Pennsylvania Central must have amounted to a very large sum. Competent judges place them at half a million of dollars, and they may have exceeded even that amount. Not a trace of any of these items of income appears in Mr. TILDEN'S tax returns.

COUNTING THE PRESIDENTIAL VOTE

Nearly four years ago Senator MORTON introduced into the Senate a proposition to regulate, by law, the counting of the vote for President and Vice President, and he supported his propesition by a speech in which he detailed with great clearness and force the dangers and difficulties which surrounded the method then pursued. At that time the vote was counted under what was known as the twenty-second joint rule, the effect of which was, in substance, to throw out the vote of any State, to the acceptance of which objection was made and sustained by either house of Congress. Obviously, this rule placed it in the power of either house, acting arbitrarily and factiously, to throw the election into the House of Representatives, by rejecting enough votes to prevent any one candidate from receiving a majority. Were the rule still in force, and Mr. HAYES were to receive a majority of six electoral votes, including those of South Carolina, the House of Representatives might refuse to receive the votes of that State, neither candidate would have a majority, and the election would go to the House. In that body, the vote would be taken by States, each State having one vote, to be determined by the majority of its Representatives. Mr. MORTON showed at the time he introduced the act referred to, that it would be quite within the bounds of possibility for forty-five members of the House controlling the votes of nineteen States, and representing only about one-fifth of the people of the country, to determine the choice of a President. This was an extreme case, but it demonstrated how easily a President might be chosen under the twenty-second joint rule, who should have received only a small minority of the popular vote.

At that time both Senate and House were strongly Republican, and Mr. MORTON'S proposition was made solely in the interest of justice and order. It had, and could have, no possible reference to political advantage for his party, and it is greatly to the credit of Senator MORTON, and to the Senators who sustained him, of both parties, that the subject was considered from first to last in the most impartial and patriotic spirit. The measure only partly succeeded. An act was passed by the Senate, which was extensively and patiently debated, and was, on the whole, an extremely judicious measure, but it was never acted on by the House. The twenty-second joint rule was, however, abrogated by the Senate, and there is now no specific provision for counting the electoral vote. We notice that some of the Democratic leaders have started the idea that the old rule made in 1865 still exists, and that a State's vote can be thrown out by either house But this is a mistake, doubtless made in haste, and which no member of Congress on either side will, on reflection, undertake to maintain. Senator BAYARD, an authority which will hardly be disputed by Democrats, expressed his opinion in the debate of the 13th of March last, that "concurrence of the House was not essential," after the Senate had rescinded the rule. Senator THURMAN alluded to the rule as "abolished." Mr. MCMILLAN, (Liberal,) of Minnesota, declared that the joint rule had "been repealed," and Mr. MORTON, that Congress "had no rule." It is plain that no joint rule exists which can for a moment control the action of either house. All questions arising in regard to the counting of the votes are, therefore, to be decided with no other light than that of the Constitution, interpreted by the aid of such precedents as exist.

It would be idle to deny that, under these circumstances, the situation may become a very delicate and even critical one, and that it may call for the exercise by all parties of the utmost calmness and self-control, and the most strenuous effort to avoid partisan passion. The Constitution provides simply that the electoral votes shall be sent, signed and certified, to the seat of Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. "The President of the Senate," says the Constitution, "shall in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall there be counted." It is obvious that there are numerous points on which this declaration of the Constitution makes no distinct provision. Votes may be improperly certified; it may not appear that they were taken by ballot; they may be cast for candidates for President and Vice-President neither one of whom is a citizen of a State other than that of the electors; the candidates may not have the proper qualifications of age and citizenship; the electors may not have met on the proper day; and, finally, there may be two sets of certificates from persons alike claiming to be electors, each authenticated, under the form of law, by a person claiming to be Governor of the State from which, they are sent. Whichever of these objections may lie to the receipt of a vote, there is no distinct provision for entertaining or disposing of it, and the only specific precedent bearing on the subject is that of 1857, when Mr. MASON, the President of the Senate, presiding at the counting of the electoral votes, refused to receive an objection to the reception of the vote of Wisconsin. His action caused great excitement, but it prevailed, and was not repudiated or condemned by either house. Since, therefore, there may be, should the election be close, serious difficulties in the way of an orderly and conclusive count of the electoral votes, we repeat the suggestion that the question should be treated on all hands with the utmost candor, and with as little partisan feeling as possible.

Several important suggestions as to what can and should be done, in case any question may arise with reference to the electoral votes, in the absence of any statutory provision, were made during the debate of last session, by prominent Democratic Senators. Senator WHYTE, of Maryland, held that in any case and under all circumstances, it lies with the President of the Senate not only to open the certificates, but to count the votes, the two houses of Congress being simply witnesses to the act. This necessarily carries with it the power to decide any question as to what votes shall be counted, and we may add that no doubt was felt or expressed in the Senate that the President of the Senate, on whom such power must devolve, was the acting President, Mr. FERRY, of Michigan. In this view, Mr. STEVENSON of Kentucky, concurred. Mr. CHRISTIANCY, on the other hand, in a careful and very able speech, declared that, in the absence of any rule or law to the contrary, the clear inference from the Constitution was that the vote of no State could be thrown out without the concurrent affirmative vote of both houses of Congress. The question arising, what would be the consequence of a failure to count the votes, Mr. MERRIMON, of North Carolina, in a spirited and most emphatic manner declared that it could only be to make the President of the Senate, on the expiration of the term of the Executive, acting President of the United States.

We call attention to these features of the discussion because it has been suggested by some of the Democratic leaders with more zeal than sound judgment, that it might be in the power of the House to reject the vote of South Carolina, for instance, on the ground that the United States troops had been employed there to interfere with a free election. Such a proposition is simply revolutionary. It could not be carried out without involving the country in a conflict of the most deplorable character. The fact is that in South Carolina the troops are used to secure, not to hinder, a free election, and any attempt to wrest the Presidency from the majority of the people by a usurpation on the part of the House, based on a plain perversion of fact and of law, would be resisted by whatever means might be necessary to prevent its success. The Democratic leaders, in their senses, could not entertain such a desperate suggestion for an instant.

DANGER TO BUSINESS INTERESTS.

The fact that members of the Funding Syndicate differ altogether from Mr. BELMONT in regard to the effect of Democratic success on financial and business interests evidently disturbs that gentleman's equanimity. He has traded upon his connection with the ROTHSCHILDS many years, and has grown so great in his own estimation that he cannot tolerate opposition to any opinion he propounds. He is demagogue and autocrat by turns—now pandering to the vulgarest prejudices to excite hostility to the Republican policy of resumption; now assuming the airs of a monetary maguate, whose nod should settle great controversies and dispose of difficulties which he helped to create. It suited his purpose, not long ago, to foster discontent and to multiply the grounds of alarm. No Indiana inflationist outstripped him at that time in his exaggeration of the country's embarrassments, or in assailing the Republican methods of upholding the public credit. Mr. BELMONT did not hesitate then to drag down financial questions to the level of a very coarse partisanship, or to identify himself with opinions and tactics which conservative business men regard with abhorrence. Now he appears in quite a different character. Finding that the party he is identified with is distrusted, and that the mere possibility of its success awakens apprehension abroad, which may seriously interfere with his European relations, he declares that there is no danger, no difficulty, and that whether HAYES or TILDEN be the next President, the result, so far as United States securities are concerned, will be the same. Naturally, however, a man who thus plays fast and loose with the grave problems of the pending contest, must expect to be discredited. He has shown himself too much of a partisan to wield influence with the public as a financier. The discovery is a surprise to him. He expected that with one stroke of his pen he could neutralize the financial influences which are concentrating against the Democratic Party. For once he has miscalculated. The informal but undoubted expressions of the Secretary of the Treasury upset one part of Mr. BELMONT'S argument; and the known dissent of members of the syndicate from the view he has promulgated is at once mortifying to his pride and fatal to his authority. The old insolence therefore reappears. The World, in his behalf, menaces the dissenting partners of the syndicate, and sneers at them as the inferiors of Mr. BELMONT and the ROTHSCHILDS! How the Messrs. ROTHSCHILD like this method of trading upon their name and wealth, and of making both tributary to the partisan greatness of Mr. BELMONT, is a question to be settled by themselves. They can hardly have imagined that influence derived from business association with them would be made subservient to partisan ends. So it is, however. And we now have the spectacle of an agent of the ROTHSCHILDS using their name to bolster up Mr. TILDEN, and in their name insulting every banker and capitalist who holds that the success of the Democratic Party would be fraught with peril to the public credit and general business interests.

The prevailing conviction upon this subject is too deeply rooted to be shaken by any man's ipse dixit. The more the causes of the feeling are scrutinized, the stronger it becomes. At the outset of the campaign, the relative power of the inflationists in the Democratic Party and the obvious insincerity of its candidates were the chief obstacles to confidence. Events have since rendered these obstacles more formidable. More and more complete has been Mr. TILDEN'S surrender to the rag-money faction. It compelled the party in the present Congress to declare itself adverse to specific measures leading to resumption; and its control is even more complete over the Democratic representatives already elected to the next Congress. It exacted from Mr. TILDEN concessions that would be fatal to an honest financial policy under his administration, and that render him utterly untrustworthy as an exponent of financial principle. He has shown himself as pliable as Mr. HENDRICKS in the hands of the currency demagogues. His election, therefore, would revive the worst forms of uncertainty, and counteract the influences which are gradually overcoming business depression. Whatever might be the end of the conflict between the repudiators and those who would preserve the public faith, between the enemies and the friends of a sound currency, it is certain that the accession of the Democrats to power would destroy all that has been gained in the way of improvement, and would bring back the uncertainty which renders healthy business operations impossible.

The Southern question supplies other indications of peril. It is pregnant with disorganizing tendencies. The dangers of which "the bloody shirt" is the symbol are only part of the question to be considered. The claims to be urged, formidable as they are in their bearings upon debt and taxation, are but one of the assaults to be met. That which the idea of "a solid South" suggests above all other things, is the reopening of the vital issues as between the South and the Union, and the immediate overturning of much that has been accomplished. The proscriptive spirit which is manifested in every Southern State is bad enough. Its inevitable effect must be, in the event of Democratic success, to drive from the South Northern men who went there to establish themselves in business, and whose business relations are assailed in a manner unknown in free communities. Northern capital will be withdrawn; foreign capital will be withheld, and enterprises which are essential to the prosperity of the South will be paralyzed. The determination on which the South Carolina Democrats are acting, to deal only with persons who concur with them in politics exists throughout the South; and it is the precursor of business disasters. It is one of many proofs of the intention to re-establish the ante-war status of the Democratic Party, and to enforce the ante-war rendering of constitutional rights and duties. On what other hypothesis is it possible to explain the prominence conceded to politicians who, like JEREMIAH S. BLACK, have never failed to denounce the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments as "frauds," and therefore destitute of validity? That there are many Democrats who have no sympathy with extreme opinions we admit. Unfortunately they are a minority in the party. Like Mr. TILDEN on the currency question, they lack the courage of their professed opinions. The positive members of the party are they who shape its policy; and their action, if restored to power, does not admit of doubt. It would ultimately fail, of course. The united South would be confronted by a united North, and the lesson of the rebellion would be repeated—with very important amendments. In the meantime, however, business interests would be jeopardized. There might not be anarchy, but there would certainly be panic, embarrassment and distress—conditions which the country is hardly likely to accept for the sake of the Democratic Party.

THE DEMOCRATIC "CHEAP JOHN."

If by any disastrous combination of circumstances a Democratic Congress and a Democratic Administration should be put into power at this election, thereafter would be a great sale of "undeemed pledges." The burden of the Democratic stump-speakers and Literary Bureau has been "retrenchment, economy, and reform." Of course, we have no right to expect either economy, retrenchment, or reform from the Democracy. We must suppose that the party which supports TILDEN is the same old Democratic Party which was in power during the days of POLK, PIERCE, and BUCHANAN. Indeed, the resolutions of nearly all the State and National Conventions of the party "point with pride" to what they fondly call "the record of the grand old party." JACOB THOMPSON was one of the last Secretaries of the Interior during the last Democratic Administration with which this country was cursed. JOHN B. FLOYD was Secretary of War at the same time, and we venture to say that no National Administration, before or since, has been so utterly corrupt and dishonest. In the Cherokee land job these men stole nearly three million dollars. It was absolutely stolen and divided among the hangers-on who then infested Washington. The removal of the Choctaw Indians netted the Democratic Indian Ring, $1,787,565; and Mr. COMINGO, of Missouri, a Democrat, in a report made to the Forty-third Congress, declared that every item of this large sum was fraudulent. The Indian trust fund job of FLOYD has not yet been forgotten. As Secretary of War, FLOYD made away with $800,000 of those bonds, so that they utterly disappeared. The remainder of the trust was illegally invested in State bonds, which eventually became valueless; and among the expenditures of the Government which so intensify the lamentations of Mr. TILDEN is one million dollars interest paid by the United States on the sum which FLOYD dishonestly "conveyed." That Democratic Secretary of War, beside whose robberies the crooked transactions of BELKNAP shrink into nothingness, issued fraudulent acceptances to the amount of $5,267,395, for which there was no money and no appropriation. If the rebellion had not given FLOYD a refuge from the consequences of his rascalities, he would have been impeached for his crimes. And yet the Tilden "reformers" cackle about "the good old Democratic days."

This is the sort of reform to which such reformers as DORSHEIMER and KELLY, and such unsophisticated youngsters as the Duke GWIN, invite us. To these men the much-talked-of civil service reform means a chance to put their thieves back again. We repeat, no such stealing has ever been known in the history of this country as has been committed by the Democratic Party when in power. We do not pretend to justify the abuses which have crept into the public service while the Republicans have borne sway; but it is a matter of historical record that the civil service under Democratic rule has simply been a system of organized robbery.

As if it were not enough that the gaunt horde which surrounds TILDEN should be straining every nerve to secure the plunder of the offices, a "solid South" is led on by the promise of the allowance of hundreds of millions in claims for damages. At the last session of Congress, according to the records, so-called Southern claims to the amount of $2,503,622,386 were presented and filed. These are in the nature of bills to pay that amount of money. No attempt was made by the Democratic members to press these. They remain on the files of the House, to be taken up and passed whenever the Democratic Party feels strong enough. Of these claims, the largest items are for the use and occupation of property—$1,205,163,000—and for the payment of supplies used or destroyed. The refunding of the cotton tax calls for $68,000,000, and a return of the proceeds of captured and abandoned property requires $9,000,000. A vast sum is demanded by private bills for individual damages; and all these it is proposed, by a bill now on the files of the House, to dispose of by simple reference to the Secretary of War. Let us imagine another such Democrat as JOHN B. FLOYD in the War Department, with these millions of claims coming up before him.

It is folly to urge that a shuffling and time-serving politician like TILDEN could stand up against the frantic rush which the claimants would make upon the Treasury. No Democrat, even now, dares to declare that these pending claims, though their aggregate overtops the national debt, are unreasonable or even excessive. No Democratic stump speaker has dared to discuss the abstract question of the payment of any class of the claims which we lump under one head as "Southern." On the contrary, Democratic members of the House and Senate have already prepared the way for the evasion of the constitutional provision which prohibits the payment of rebel debts. We reiterate that it is the deliberate intention of the Democratic Party to pay off these enormous claims whenever they have the power. With a Democratic President, and a Democratic majority in Congress, the flood-gates will be opened. The public funds will be snatched, taxes indefinitely increased, and the public credit shattered. Nevertheless, this party of false pretenses, with a shameful record of official corruption behind it, and with a host of fraudulent claimants waiting for its entrance to power, swindles the trustful voter with promises of Retrenchment and Reform.

THE THEORETICAL BARBER.

Almost every intelligent man is familiar with the story of LEVERRIER'S discovery of Neptune. We picture to ourselves the astronomer peering through his telescope and noticing Uranus in the act of staggering along its orbit with as many perturbations as a Democratic statesman returning from a ratification meeting is accustomed to exhibit. We can imagine how LEVERRIER sprang up when the thought suddenly came into his mind that some unknown and dissolute planet must have led Uranus astray, and how enthusiastically he seized his slate and began to do those tremend us sums in "double entry," "compound interest," and other abstruse departments of arithmetic which finally gave him the clue to the position of the suspected planetary disturber. Undoubtdly, he deserves great credit for his discovery; but, after all, it was one which astronomers ought never to have had any difficulty in making; and what was really the most curious feature of the affair was the failure of everybody but LEVERRIER and ADAMS to perceive that disturbances in the orbit of a planet postulated the existence of a disturber. It is not, however, among astronomers only that we find a tendency to ignore truths which are taught by implication. Not a single anthropologist has yet perceived that the existence of a "practical barber" implies the existence of a "theoretical barber," and the social LEVERRIER who shall calculate the elements and discover the location of the "theoretical barber" has not yet made his appearance.

The sign of the "Practical Barber" is one which constantly meets the eye in certain parts of this City, and which conveys a very well-understood meaning. We all know that a practical barber is a person of vast and oppressive conversational powers, who condescends to shave the beards and cut the hair of the public in order to obtain an audience. But what is the theoretical barber? Obviously, he is one who has mastered the rules of shaving, shearing, and conversation, but who does not handle the material razor or scissors. He is the professor of the art which the practical barber practices; the instructor of the innumerable practical barbers with whom the deafened public is sadly familiar.

No naturalist has hitherto called attention to the fact that the practical barber is always full-grown, and that on his first appearance before the public he is fully panoplied with shears and razors, and sufficiently skillful in their use. The spectacle of an inexperienced barber fleshing his murderous razor in the cheek of his first customer is never seen. It is true that in all barbers' shops there is an obtrusive small boy, who brings the shaven customers some one else's hat and makes a shallow pretense of brushing his coat. This small boy, however, is evidently not an inchoate practical barber, for he never meddles with razor or scissors, and never makes the slightest allusion to the virtues of his employer's "tonic." If we are content to accept the evidence of our eyes we must believe that barbers' apprentices do not exist, but that the practical barber springs into being full-grown and endowed with a complete mastery of all branches of his art.

Reason teaches us that this cannot be the case. The practical barber must learn his duties by careful study and long practice. There must have been a period in the early life of the most accomplished barber when his conversation was not more tedious than that of other men, and when he was utterly incapable of shaving a victim without cutting him up into fine slices. There is no royal road to shaving or hair-cutting; no short-cut by which the ambitious student may suddenly become proficient in shampooing and in forcing bottles of undesirable "tonic" upon weak-minded men. We cannot see the cheeks which the barber-student has slashed, and we know not where the unhappy beings upon whom he tries his 'prentice tongue while learning the art of professional conversation, are concealed; but no reasoning man can doubt that somewhere in the vast City the practical barbers who are to shave us three or four years hence, are secretly learning their trade, and that a frightful number of unhappy men must daily be cut to pieces and talked to death in the operating room of the occult barbers' college. Nothing is more certain than that a terrible mortality must result from the early efforts of the inexperienced shaver, and it will at once occur to every thoughtful man that we have here an explanation of the frequency with which dead bodies, "much mutilated about the face," are found floating in the river.

It being thus demonstrated that the practical barber learns his art in secret and by assiduous practice, and that the very existence of the practical barber postulates the existence of the theoretical barber, we are ready to draw the inevitable conclusion that the latter is the teacher of the former. Beyond a shadow of a doubt, we have among us barbers' normal schools, presided over by accomplished theoretical barbers, and attended by scores of hard-working students. In these schools' classes in shaving, hair-cutting, and conversation are furnished with subjects, upon which they are required to operate. How these subjects are procured—whether they are desperate men who voluntarily submit to torture for the sake of large wages, or whether they are quietly kidnapped by bold beard-snatchers—we can only conjecture; but it is evident that the frequency with which the throats of subjects are fatally cut by new students fully accounts for the secrecy with which the schools are conducted and the retirement in which the theoretical barbers live. They cannot, however, successfully screen themselves from the investigations of inductive reasoning. As soon as LEVERRIER perceived that the perturbations of Uranus implied the existence of Neptune, the discovery of the latter's hiding-place was inevitable; and now that it has been demonstrated that theoretical barbers exist, it cannot be long before they are dragged into light, and their schools of sanguinary shaving and inhuman conversation broken up and suppressed in the interests of humanity.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Let it not be forgotten that Samuel J. Tilden was the man who, according to the sworn testimony of Oakes Ames, drew up the notorious Credit Mobilier scheme, which brought such disgrace upon the nation.

The war is a failure, let us immediately cease hostilities, said Mr. Tilden at Chicago in 1864. At this time Gov. Hayes was helping to prove that it was not a failure, and he did not cease until it was proved to be a success.

Mr. Tilden's income in the year 1865 reached the princely figure of $237,252. The income return he made for this period gave $20,000 only as his receipts. He made oath that this was a true statement, and thereby defrauded the Government of $18,000 taxes.

Will the capitalists and security-holders of New-York help to place in power a party whose leaders a few years ago were howling for the taxation of the Government bonds, and clamoring for their "payment" in other promises to pay? Are Daniel W. Voorhees, George H. Pendleton, William Allen, Franklin Landers, and Tom Ewing the best custodians of the nation's credit?

Samuel J. Tilden was one of the principal leaders in the celebrated secret meeting at Delmonico's in February, 1863. The ostensible object of that meeting was the "diffusion of correct political information;" its real purpose and intent was exposed by accident, and proved to be an organized attempt to aid the rebellion. At this time Gov. Hayes was serving his country on the field of battle.

That Gov. Hayes has always been in close relations not only with the better, but the best, elements of the Republican Party is well known. To those who have had intercourse with him since his nomination it is also known that his most trusted friends and advisers are such men as Schurz, ex-Secretary Cox, George William Curtis, Stanley Matthews, Judge Hoar, E. D. Morgan, and other tried leaders of the true reforming elements of the country. The election of Gen. Hayes to the Presidency will be a triumph of all that is noblest and best in the Republican Party.

The mass of voters never make nice distinctions or draw "fine sight." The most palpable points, the most obvious issues—those that lie not hidden but on the surface—control the majority of minds. And so in the present campaign the attempt of the Confederacy to get on its feet, the risk in the restoration of the State Rights Party to power, the dishonesty of Tilden as shown in the evasion of his income tax and in other ways, and the perfect purity of the character and record of Hayes will sway the minds of the masses toward the right side. Civil service reform, specie resumption, proscription and assassination at the South, will influence other minds, for these are plain, clearly-defined issues also.

In 1872 Mr. Tilden was elected to the State Legislature. This was just after the Tweed robberies had been made public, and the people were demanding a thorough reform in the State Government. Mr. Tilden was expected to render valuable assistance in the work of shaping the new legislation demanded. He did absolutely nothing. During the session there were 1,568 roll-calls; and of these he was absent from 1,461. He shirked the vote on every important topic which came before the House, and was absent from the floor and the committee room whenever any work was to be done which might "commit" him.

Mr. Tilden is constantly advertised to be the "friend of the working man." Let workingmen inquire of their fellow workmen in Brady's Bend, Penn., or of the poor miners in the iron mines of Michigan, what sort of a friend he has been to them. They will learn how the "great reformer" ruined a prosperous manufacturing village, and "shaved" the scanty wages of the miners in his employ by paying them in bogus currency. The pretended advocate of hard money is known to the Michigan miners as the largest dealer in "shinplasters" on the Peninsula; and the few remaining inhabitants of the Pennsylvania village remember the great reformer and advocate of sound government as the man who enriched himself by bankrupting the iron works which gave them employment.

The plan of the Tilden campaign is very simple. It is to carry the South solid and to that vote add the Electoral vote of New-York and Indiana. This will give more than enough votes to elect. The extreme nervousness of the Democracy about carrying South Carolina shows how necessary the vote of that State is to the success of their plan. The way to check-mate this movement is to break the solid phalanx of Southern States and wrest from them one of the two large Northern States upon whose vote their hopes depend. For the Republicans to carry either North or South Carolina, with New-York or Indiana, defeats the Tilden plan and elects Hayes. Here, then, is a hint to the Republicans to bend their energies to carry each one of these four States. Their electoral votes decide the contest.

Mr. Tilden is paraded as the "friend of the working man," and the great champion of reform in our Government. But it was the same Mr. Tilden who caused the issue of over five millions and a quarter of shinplaster currency in the mining regions of Michigan, and compelled the miners in his employ to accept their wages in this bogus stuff, which was worth only seventy-five or eighty cents on the dollar. The official records of the Revenue Department show the extent to which this double swindle was carried. The workmen were cheated and the Government was defrauded of nearly one million dollars of taxes due upon the Tilden currency. "Collect the taxes honestly," says Mr. Tilden, when he issues a political pamphlet in the shape of an official Message, and at the same time he is found to be cheating the National Treasury on false income returns and the issues of his shinplasters.

How much the personal puffs paid for as advertisements by Mr. Tilden through the agency of Bates & Locke contributed toward the nomination of that enterprising candidate, will perhaps not be known until the final reckoning of accounts. That the chief ruler of a great Republic should be chosen by the methods employed to disseminate the blessings of Gargling Oil or Rising Sun Stove Polish would be pitiably humiliating if the whole thing were not so grossly grotesque. We can suggest a saving hereafter to Mr. Tilden in the matter of advertising bills. Let barn-doors, rocks, and fences along the lines of railways be plastered over with such legends as "Osgood's India Colagogue is the best Colagogue and S. Jones Tilden is the best Reformer in the Business;" "The New-York or Rising Sun Pot Polish Shines for All—Vote for Tilden, Vermifuge, and Reform." In this simple way the shinplaster candidate and the best remedy for piles could be gotten before the public.

The system of organizing a State by townships or school districts seems not to be as well understood in New-York as it is in Ohio and other States. The organization by the Executive Committees of both parties in Ohio is so close and compact, that there is a variation of but a few thousand votes from year to year, in a total vote of over six hundred thousand. One advantage of having two active township committeemen in each township is, that should the County Committee prove inefficient, as is often the case, the State Committee can communicate directly with the township, which is the unit of organization. To the township committeemen all documents for distribution and circulars are sent, and from them complete tests of Democratic, Republican, and doubtful voters are obtained. All correspondence is preserved and filed for reference, and receipts and disbursements are entered in a set of account books, so that the business is conducted as systematically as the business of a bank. This is the only effective way to organize a State: Secure the early appointment of the necessary election-day committees, and utilize the efficient workers in a party. Of course, there are other parts of this plan, such as sending agents from head-quarters to every county in the State to see that all needful work is done and all important instructions carried out; but of these details we need not speak.

GRAND RALLY IN ELMIRA.

LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF REPUBLICANS—ELOQUENT SPEECH BY GEN CLARK E. CARR.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ELMIRA, Oct. 23.—One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings that has been held in this city during the canvass occurred here to-night, and was addressed by Gen. Clark E. Carr, of Illinois. The speaker took up the railroad record of Mr. Tilden and showed that the railroad wrecker had brought about the hard times; that this class of men who absorb the money of the people in the interest of monopolies, robbed the people of the rest of their subscriptions to railroads and destroyed confidence abroad, and that Tilden is the prince of railroad monopolists. He said: "The millions of money in the hands of Mr. Tilden, was obtained dishonestly from the farmers of the West who subscribed their money for the building of railroads." He showed that the robbery of the railroads brought about the destruction of confidence, stopped loans from Europe, and brought on the panic. He said the millions of money which Tilden is now using to elect himself President represents the toil and sweat of the farmers of the West who have been swindled out of their railroad subscriptions. Gen. Carr made one of the most effective speeches ever delivered in Elmira.

ROCKLAND COUNTY REPUBLICANS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NYACK, Oct. 23.—The following is the complete Republican County ticket for Rockland County: For Assembly, Henry M. Peck; Sheriff, R. H. M. Dickinson; Superintendent of Poor, John I. Pulhemus; Coroner, Dr. C. Hasbrouck Ten Eyck; Justice of Sessions, John I. Cole. The county mass-meeting at Spring Valley on Wednesday will undoubtedly be a large affair. Addresses will be delivered by Gen. Sickles, Hon. John Oakey, and others.

AFFAIRS IN MEXICO.

HAVANA, Oct. 23.—The French steamer from Vera Cruz brings the following intelligence from the City of Mexico, Oct. 11: No decision has yet been reached in Congress on the principal questions before that body, but a test vote on a motion to postpone the consideration of the bill giving the President ample faculties until after the new election has been taken, which shows Senor Lerdo's strength. The motion was defeated by 120 to 31. The military situation remains unaltered. Revolutionary bands are roaming about and robbing the people. The situation of suspense is very favorable to the Government, which is gaining strength morally and materially. The revolutionists are strongest in Oaxaca, but they are hemmed in, and do not dare to come out of the State. The proceedings of Congress are watched with great interest, as the debates on the important questions to come up are expected to reveal the true state of affairs.

A GRAND DEMONSTRATION.

GEN. SICKLES ON CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

HE ADDRESSES A VERY LARGE AUDIENCE—HE REVIEWS AND DENOUNCES THE TAMMANY HALL TICKET FOR THIS COUNTY—TILDEN'S CLAIM AS A REFORMER LAID BARE—THE DANGER OF A UNITED SOUTH POINTED OUT.

The mass-meeting held last evening at Parepa Hall, under the auspices of the Twenty-first Assembly District Republican Association, was only second in point of numbers and enthusiasm to the splendid gatherings which have been held at the Cooper Institute since the opening of the campaign. The hall was packed, a state of things not on record in connection with any other political meeting held in that building, and the galleries which were reserved for ladies were also filled. The platform was likewise occupied to its fullest extent by the leading citizens of the district. While the meeting was in progress a torch-light parade of a large number of Boys in Blue was held outside, fire-works were discharged, and both indoors and out of doors the enthusiasm was of the most excellent kind. The orator of the evening was Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, whose speech was a masterly arraignment of the Democratic Party for malpractices in the Municipal Government of New-York and in connection with State and national affairs. Hon. J. H. Warrick also addressed the assemblage. Eight o'clock was the time fixed for the opening of the proceedings and for half an hour previous, the meeting sang Republican campaign songs, arranged to patriotic airs, in which they had due leadership. The ladies in the galleries also took part. When Gen. Sickles came on the platform the band which was in attendance played "Hail to the Chief," and the speaker of the evening was received with enthusiastic applause. The meeting was then organized with promptitude by Col. A. P. Ketchum nominating Hon. Rufus B. Cowing as presiding officer. Mr. Cowing formally opened the proceedings, declining himself to make any speech, but saying that other gentlemen would adorn the meeting who would doubtless show good reason why the whole of these States should not be thrown into the hands of the united South. He then presented a list of over two hundred Vice Presidents, and more than twenty Secretaries, which was accepted by the meeting. The following are a few of the names:

VICE PRESIDENTS:

Robt. C. Brown, Gen. John C. Fremont, Thomas Cutter, Alexander M. Eagleson, Jacob Dunn, Henry Weish, Gen. H. Charles Ulman, James M. Thomson, George B. Carroll, Louis J. Phillips, William Starritt, A. W. Brockway, M.D., John A. Eagleson, Hon. Horatio P. Allen, H. A. Gregory, M.D., Wm. Harrison, H. Van Orden, John C. Gifling, Wm. H. Benjamin, Gen. George W. Palmer, H. J. Pierce, M. D., S. S. Coty, Ira B. Reed, M.D., T. C. J. Langueir, William B. Aster, James R. Fuller, M. D., Colonel George P. Webster, John B. Ventre, M. D., Stephen Roberts, Gen. D. F. Burke, James S. Watson, D. W. Seward M. D., William Butler, George V. McLean, S. C. Wandell, J. K. Watkins, Jr., Almadas Wilkinson, James B. Wells, John Dwight, William Meaurick.

SECRETARIES.

Major John D. Terry, L. S. Quackenbush, William Hallett, E. J. Tichenor, S. C. Pullman, James M. Thomson, Jr.

ADDRESS OF GEN. SICKLES.

Gen. Sickles was then introduced and was received with loud and long-continued applause. He was there, he said, in response to their summons, and he would discharge his duty as well as his strength would enable him. It was very gratifying to him to see so very large and imposing an assemblage, for it was a testimony of their deep interest in the issues of the canvass. Tammany Hall, he proceeded, had just given to them the first instalment of Mr. Tilden's reform. Mr. Tilden, through his friends and agents in Tammany Hall, had put up candidates for the most important local offices, and he [Gen. Sickles] asked their attention for a moment while he referred to a few of them, so that they might see in the first instalment what the next and the next might be, if Mr. Tilden had the opportunity of controlling the government of the State and nation as he did the government of the City of New-York. They would agree with him that there could not be presented a worse list of officers than that which Mr. Tilden had given. It was nothing more than a reproduction of the old Ring of which Tweed was chief, of whom Tilden was the silent partner until public reformation compelled him to turn State's evidence. Among the names on that list was that of Mr. Sinnott, who was Mr. Tilden's defender whenever any indictment was laid against him. He was now put forward for an office to which was attached a salary of $10,000. It was, he believed, the first time in the history of the Republic that the residency that a man was employed to make explanations for him when charges were made against him. The next name was that of Mr. Calvin who was nominated for the office of Surrogate, one of the most important in connection with the City and County Government. They had seen published in the journals of the day some of Mr. Calvin's most important decisions, in which he had awarded $350,000 on an old outlawed claim against the City, a claim which had been offered for $3,500 without the possibility of finding a purchaser. Another of his nominees was a ruffian named Croker, who had been nominated to one of the most important County offices, a man whom Kelly, Tilden's representative, called one of the noblest works of the Creator. Again, there was Gumbleton, nominated to an important County office. He had asked a friend who was Gumbleton, and he was told that there were no less than six of them in office at present. He asked them if they were willing to sit supinely and suffer these humiliations. In the Mayor's office to-day was the private secretary of Jeff. Davis receiving a large salary. In March, 1861, in one of the most important offices of this City were two officials, both Democrats, who, while holding these appointments, controlling one of the departments, were in correspondence with Gen. Beauregard at Charleston negotiating for a rank in the Southern army. They were Southern citizens, but they had not even the ordinary pretext that they should follow the State against the Union flag, for Kentucky, their State had remained to secede. One of these men at least held office now under a Democratic City Government. [Names were loudly called for, and a gentleman on the platform answered, "Smith and Lovell." "Yes," said Gen. Sickles, "Smith and Lovell." "Supported by Mr. Hewitt," said another voice, and Gen. Sickles answered, "Supported by Mr. Hewitt, the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.] He then proceeded to discuss the claims of Mr. Smith Ely, the Democratic candidate for Mayor whose claims to respectability he did not wish to dispute, but whose name was nevertheless recorded as voting for infamous appropriations while he was in the Board of Supervisors. It was only now, when he was presented for public office, that his deeds came to be heard. However respectable he might be, he was the figure-head of a private ship, a buccaneer and corsair, and the crew were none the less privates and their object none the less plunder. The people of this City had endured this thing long enough, and it should and must have a final stop. Gen. Sickles then referred to the dealing of the Democratic Party with the laboring men, to their reduction of their wages to $1 60 per day, on the pretext that they could then give work to more men, but in reality that they might have more serfs under their control ready to do their bidding. Now was the time, he said, for revolt by the laboring man of New-York against this hypocritical rule. Now was the time to rescue the State and National Government from the hands of traitors. Gen. Sickles next referred to State questions before referring to the national issues at present pending. He first proceeded to expose Mr. Tilden's fraudulent claim, of having saved the State $7,000,000 on taxation. He characterized the claim as the greatest fraud ever practiced in the politics of the State of New-York. During the war, he said, the State was compelled to contract a debt of $21,000,000 for the payment of bounty, and taxes were to be imposed by which the debt was to be paid off in 1877. When Hoffman came into power in 1868 he paid six millions and a half in the sinking fund, which had accumulated for the payment of the debt. That money was appropriated by the Democratic party for various purposes, some of them sectarian. Every dollar, at all events, was diverted from the purpose for which it had been accumulated, the consolation of meeting the county bonds due in 1877. When Dix [applause] came into office in 1872 he uncovered this defalcation to the extent of six millions and a half of dollars. As a public man, he saw that the honor of the State was compromised, and called upon the Legislature to impose extraordinary taxation without delay to make good the defalcation carried out by those Ring men who had changed their operations from New-York to Albany. The Legislature passed a law to make good the debt, the taxes to extend over 1872, 1873, 1874, and 1875. Tilden found that the defalcation had been made good, and the tax being no longer necessary, removed it from the State. And this was the pretense to having lessened the taxation of the State by $7,000,000. On the contrary, the appropriations this year for general purposes exceeded by $500 the largest ever made in the State of New-York for the maintenance of the State Government. He was responsible for this increase and the ordinary expenses of the State. Then again, there would have been no bounty scout at all if Tilden and his friends had been loyal, and had given their names to the loyal uprising of the State of New-York. He, therefore, arraigned and charged him with responsibility for every dollar of that $21,000,000 of county debt, and he further arraigned and charged him with forcing the people of the State to pay twice over the six and a half millions of that debt. Passing from city and State to national questions, Gen. Sickles said he believed, and the evidence was abundant to establish the proposition, that there was a conspiracy in the Democratic Party to seize the Government by force in the South and by fraud in New-York. He charged that the 86,000 majority in Georgia meant 80,000 shot-guns, and this fact presented issues as grave as the firing on Fort Sumter. It was not nullification or secession that was the man of the South now; they sought to obtain control in the Government, but they should meet such issues as Jackson met nullification and as Lincoln met secession. [Applause.] Gen. Sickles, in conclusion, contrasted the claims of Hayes and Tilden, showing the loyalty of the one and the turpitude of the other, and called upon every Republican to work earnestly and energetically in the approaching struggle.

He was followed by Hon. J. H. Warrick, at the conclusion of whose remarks the meeting adjourned.

MR. AUGUST BELMONT'S POSITION.

A REPLY BY HON. E. W. STOUGHTON TO HIS RECENT LETTER---ONE FEATURE OF THE GOVERNMENT'S CREDIT.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

My attention has been called to the letter of Mr. August Belmont, printed in the World of the 19th inst., in which he states that the safety and wisdom of investment in the funded debt of our Government "do not depend upon Presidential elections in the opinion of European capitalists and bankers, any more than the soundness of English consols depends on whether the English Ministry is Tory or Liberal." And he adds that he thinks "the bond-payers can pay them easier, and bear the burdens better, under the great financial wisdom of Mr. Tilden than the inexperience of Mr. Hayes."

This last conclusion is evidently the result of political bias, for it assumes without foundation a measure of financial ability greatly in favor of Mr. Tilden. And, indeed, this should be expected from a man, who, like Mr. Belmont, was for some time Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who has long been a leader of the Democratic Party, and who now shows the most ardent zeal for its success by his public speeches and otherwise. His relations to the party and to Mr. Tilden should therefore detract somewhat from the value of his opinion that such a change of administration as he is seeking to accomplish in this country would, in the estimation of European capitalists, be as inoperative upon the value of our funded debt as would be a change of Ministry in Great Britain upon English consols. A tolerable acquaintance with the relations to the country and to each other of the two great parties here struggling for ascendency, and with the like relations of the political parties who contend for mastery in Great Britain, discloses that there is not the slightest parallel in the illustration employed by the New-York banker.

Two elements largely determine the financial credit which a nation enjoys throughout the world—ability to pay its debts, and the unwavering purpose of its Government, irrespective of the party wielding it, to pay them at maturity in that solid coin which all men recognize as the standard of value. No one ever heard from Tory or Liberal a doubt expressed as to the payment by the English nation of every obligation, nor has the occasion ever arisen there when, to prevent the disgrace of repudiation, it has been thought necessary to declare by act of Parliament that the validity of its public debt should never be questioned. Here, however, such a declaration has been added as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States—an amendment which the Democratic Party in Congress has refused to recognize as binding by a vote of seventy-eight of its members in the House of Representatives. That it should have been thought necessary to insert such a provision in the fundamental law is evidence of apprehensions entertained at the North that should Southern men predominate in the Government they might, in view of the fact that our debt was contracted for the purpose of crushing the rebellion by them organized and conducted, be quite willing to assist in its repudiation. And it should be borne in mind that the very men whom it was the purpose of the framers of that amendment thus to restrain constitute a large majority of the party now straining every nerve to grasp the Legislative and Executive power of the country. Men, when they have the power, usually so act as to promote their own interests. We have just emerged from the most formidable and destructive civil war known to history, in which a large majority of the Democratic Party as now organized attempted to destroy the Union; and the question is, shall that party take control of the Government? The constituents of the party are sixteen Southern States, in thirteen of which their inhabitants have vast claims for property taken, destroyed, and injured during the war, which they insist our Government should pay. Our national debt—which the fourteenth amendment declares shall never be questioned—these persons have no interest in, and certainly will dot be anxious to pay, and are quite likely in view of their hostility to that amendment, to seek to repudiate. They have been deprived of some four millions of slaves, payment for which they would not, I presume, refuse to accept from the National Treasury; and in addition to all this they have incurred, to prosecute their rebellion, a large debt which, without entertaining a vibient presumption we may assume, they will be quite as willing to see paid as to assist in paying that contracted to crush the rebellion and destroy the Confederacy upon which they had built their hopes. And, moreover, we find them united with the inflationists of the West, in a purpose to issue large amounts of paper, redeemable, if at all, at some indefinite day in the future—a scheme absolutely essential if they would obtain through Congress payment of the vast Southern claims I have mentioned; for these even Northern Democrats would not venture to vote to pay in gold. Contrast a party so composed, having interests deeply hostile to the financial credit and prosperity of our country, deeply interested in largely increasing our national debt—in postponing its payment—probably quite willing to repudiate it, if that should be possible—with the party led by a Tory or Liberal Ministry in Great Britain, and then estimate the value of the opinion of the New-York banker, that a change of administration here is not more likely to affect the value of our funded debt than is a change of Ministry there to affect the value of English consols. The public debt of Great Britain was not contracted to crush a rebellion by a part of its people, nor do Tories lead a party having vast claims upon the Treasury, which the party led by Liberals regard as unjust and resolve shall never be paid. Indeed, the interests of these two parties in all that concerns the prosperity of the nation, are identical—neither promoting claims against its Treasury and both being equally interested in preserving its revenues, in reducing its taxation, and in maintaining its financial credit at home and abroad. Were such the condition, the interests, and the relations of the two great parties here to each other, to our country, to its revenues and financial credit, I should expect to find no shock to the latter by that change of administration which Mr. Belmont seeks to produce. It, however, requires but a little information and not much reflection to reach the conclusion, that foreign capitalists and bankers will not only await the result of the pending election before making further investments in our funded debt, but will thereafter, should the Democratic Party prevail, cautiously withhold them until its financial policy shall develop a better future than is now promised by the past history and present purposes of the men who control it. I am, indeed, authorized to say, upon the highest authority, that the objections suggested have already presented themselves with such force as seriously to interfere with the sale of our bonds abroad, and this difficulty for obvious reasons can only be removed by the success of a party whose policy it is not to increase the national debt by the payment of some thousands of millions of Southern claims, and whose immovable purpose it is to resist repudiation in every form; oppose inflation, and at the earliest day possible resume payment in coin of every national obligation.

E. W. STOUGHTON.

NEW-YORK, Monday, Oct. 23, 1876.

THE WILL OF HON. F. O. J. SMITH.

PORTLAND, Oct. 23.—The will of Hon. F. O. J. Smith, filed for probate to-day, leaves $50,000 to the Home for Aged and Indigent Mothers, $50,000 to the Cumberland County Law Library, $10,000 to the New-Hampshire Historical Society, and $10,000 to Phillips Academy Exeter, where he was educated, besides other smaller bequests.

RACING AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The Fall running meeting of the National Jockey Club will open at Benning's Station Race-course on Tuesday, Oct. 31, and continue three days. There will be three races each day, including on the second day a hurdle-race for horses that have never won a hurdle-race or steeplechase, one and a half miles, over six hurdles, and on the third day a hurdle-race, mile heats, over four hurdles.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE OPERA BOUFFE.

Mlle. Aimée and the opera bouffe troupe under the direction of Mr. Maurice Grau gave the first of four performances which are to occur before their departure for Havana, on Thursday, at the Academy of Music, yesterday evening. "La Jolie Parfumeuse" was sung in presence of a very numerous audience. The opera is a familiar one, and its comical scenes and pretty tunes are by no means few. The representation, last night, afforded lively satisfaction, although it was scarcely equal to earlier renderings. The Academy of Music is, of course, ill-fitted to the interpretation of light works of the sort, and the effect of much of the dialogue and of no small proportion of the delicate music was lost on a stage large, even, for Italian opera; the ensemble, however, was not nearly so complete as it has been again and again, when "La Jolie Parfumeuse" was the attraction. Mlle. Aimée, happily, was as animated as usual in the bright attire of Rose Michon, and her "A Toulouse" and the English song "Pretty as a Picture," had to be repeated thrice. Bavolet, too, was nicely played by Mlle. Duparc, and La Cocardière had a funny representative in the person of M. Duplan. The remaining artists do not exact reference. "La Jolie Parfumeuse" will be given to-night and to-morrow afternoon, and, on Wednesday evening, "La Fille de Mme. Angot" is to be the opera.

GENERAL MENTION.

A promenade concert will be given at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, in Fourteenth street, on Saturday evening next, for the benefit of Mr. M. Arbuckle, the cornet player. Gilmore's band, Miss Lillian B. Norton, and many popular artists will take part in the concert.

Mr. Max Strakosch's three nights' Italian Opera season in Toronto opened with good promise, on Thursday evening. This week, Mr. Strakosch's artists sing in Detroit and Milwaukee, and thence they go to Chicago, where Mme. Palmieri and, possibly, Mlle. de Belocca will join their forces.

Mr. Fred. G. Maeder's new drama, "Buffalo Bill," holds the boards at Wood's Museum, with Mr. J. B. Studley in the titular rôle. The play, as may be supposed, is quite sensational and abounds in startling scenes, in which the red man constantly figures as the heavy villain and constantly gets into very serious difficulties owing to the superior bravery of the white man, as portrayed by the great scout of the Black Hills, Buffalo Bill, and his brave band of warriors. Judging by the enthusiastic applause, the piece gave unusual satisfaction to the audience. Buffalo Bill was called before the curtain at the end of each act.

A dramatization of "The Old Curiosity Shop" was produced at the Olympic Theatre, yesterday evening, with Miss Katie Putnam in the principal and dual rôle. Dickens' romance supplies an abundance of interesting and amusing scenes, and, in the two characters of Little Nell and "The Marchioness," Miss Putnam, who is an artist of the same order as Miss Letta, improves successfully each of her numerous opportunities. Mr. Coleman's Daniel Quilp and Mr. Mestayer's Grandfather Trent are to be cited with Miss Putnam's performance as careful and impressive sketches; the whole representation gave lively satisfaction. It is to be repeated nightly, and twice by day, this week.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Judge Abbot declines a renomination by the Democrats in the Fourth Congressional District of Massachusetts.

Senator Morton is to take part in the canvass on the Pacific Coast this week and next, speaking at San Francisco, Oakland, Virginia City, and other points.

Gov. Coke, of Texas, long since elected United States Senator, says that he will relinquish his hold upon the Executive Chair to Lieut. Gov. Hubbard on the 1st of December next.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat predicts that there will be larger Republican gains in Missouri than in any other State voting in November. The other States should accept the challenge.

Missouri Republicans now promise largely to reduce, if they do not overcome, the Democratic majority on the vote for Governor, and to gain three, perhaps five, members of Congress.

Major Henry Neill, a Union Democrat, is stumping Johnson County, Mo., against the Democratic ticket, because all Union Democrats were ignored in the nominations made by the Tildenites.

Thomas Clark pleaded guilty of trying to break up the Republican torchlight procession in Fort Edward one night last week, and was sentenced to six months' hard labor in the Albany Penitentiary.

Within six weeks past nine or ten Democratic papers in Kentucky have suspended publication. One of the surviving papers dolefully says that this is mostly due to lack of appreciation and honesty on the part of the masses of Democrats in Kentucky.

In the late election in West Virginia the Democrats carried the First Congressional District on the Governor vote by only 519 majority. The totals were: Republican, 16,472; Democratic, 16,991. There was an increase of 8,033 votes, as compared with the result of 1874.

The Beaufort (S. C.) Standard says: "There is a man on Pine Island, in this county, who has not voted in forty-five years. He says he thinks, as it is the Centennial year, every man ought to vote, and, therefore, he will vote for Hayes and Wheeler, and Gov Chamberlain."

Mr. John W. Lewis has accepted the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fourth District of Kentucky, feeling that not only the safety of the Government, but the future welfare, peace, and happiness of the country, depend upon the success of Republican principles.

The Democrats of one district in Pennsylvania are running for Congress a Copperhead who, in 1864, said that "he would not dignify the Army by calling it an Army; it was nothing but a legalized mob." That man is on the right ticket. Tilden himself said the Union soldiers were trespassers.

The Democrats in Fulton and Hamilton Counties are running for a county office a Copperhead, who a few years ago declared that "had Abe Lincoln and a dozen other Republicans been hanged, there would have been no trouble and no war." He is fit to go on a ticket with Tilden and Hendricks.

The Richmond Whig expresses the belief that "the appeals of the Radical press to the Old-line Whigs of Virginia will have about the same effect as a whisper in the ear of a corpse." This misnamed paper may yet be forcibly reminded that the Old-line Whigs of Virginia are very much alive.

The San Francisco Alta mentions the receipt of a letter from Merced, Cal., which says: "At the conclusion of a Democratic meeting (jubilee) over the news from the East three cheers were proposed and given for Jeff. Davis and three cheers for Tilden and Hendricks. The cheers were given in the El Capitan Hotel."

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says: "A gentleman has informed the Mirror how Lee County got in her Democratic Representative over John Adams, colored, who was elected by a large majority. A few days ago the county was surveyed, and the Surveyor finds that John lacks just seventeen feet of being a citizen of Lee County."

THE WEATHER.

PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—1 A. M.—For the Middle States higher barometer, cool north-west winds, backing to warmer south-west, and clear or clearing weather.

For New-England falling followed by rising barometer, warmer southerly winds, veering to cooler westerly, threatening and rainy, succeeded during the afternoon or night by clearing weather.

THE ARCTIC WHALING FLEET.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The following is the insurance on the New-Bedford whalers lost in the Arctic: Manufacturers'—On vessels, $39,562; on catchings, $10,000; Washington—On vessels, $42,937; on catchings, $7,500; Neptune—On vessels, $22,312; on catchings, $5,000; China—On vessels, $11,250. New-England—On vessels, $8,437; on catchings, $14,750; Boylston—On vessels, $27,875; India—On vessels, $2,500.

LOW WATER IN WESTERN NEW-YORK.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 23.—Norway Plains Mills at Rochester are nearly all shut down for lack of water, the reservoir that feeds Cobbes's River being dry and the river unprecedentedly low for this season of the year.

KNABE'S CENTENNIAL TRIUMPH.

The United States Centennial Commission and the Judges of Award have unanimously decreed to Messrs. Wm. Knabe & Co. the Diploma of Honor and Medal of Merit for Concert Grand, Parlor Grand, Square, and Upright Pianos.

By the system of awards adopted, Pianos of all grades received medals of precisely the same character, but the true test of merit appears only in the reports of the Judges accompanying the medals.

Five Judges pronounce the Knabe Pianos to be the best exponents of the art of piano-making, and fully entitled to the leading position, combining all the requisites of a perfect instrument in the highest degree; power, richness, and singing quality of tone, ease, and elasticity of touch, effectiveness of action, solidity and originality of construction, and excellence of workmanship. The Knabe award is not confined to any single style of instrument, as is the case with other exhibitors in this department, but comprises all four styles, and stands unqualified by phrases indicative of mediocrity.

Nor were the Judges content to recognize only a few good qualities, for they especially commend all the elements of merit which it is possible for the best piano forte to possess.

Other exhibitors, in order to obtain any comfort out of their reports, must either torture and subvert the evident meaning of publish that which they have not received. Messrs. Knabe's award is too plain to be misunderstood.—Musical Trade Review.

SCIENCE should be brought to bear on all the ordinary operations of life. It has already reached a high degree of perfection as regards the table. In washing and bathing, particularly in the case of children, nothing can go beyond B. T. BABBITT'S BABY SOAP. It is perfectly pure, sweet, and delicious to the touch when used; in short, everything that can be desired for bath and toilet.—Advertisement.

Probabilities.

For the Eastern and Middle States, colder weather and piercing winds are predicted. Cauti nary signals have been hanging out for some days at RAYMOND & CO.'s CLOTHING HOUSE, corner of Nassau and Fulton sts.—Advertisement.

POND'S EXTRACT affords immediate relief in all cases of acute pain. This is strong language, but the experience of twenty-five years attests the truth.—Advertisement.

THE HIGHEST AWARD granted any exhibitor by Centennial Exposition is given the ELASTIC TRUSS CO. for SILK ELASTIC TRUSSES. Sold only at 683 Broadway. —Advertisement

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES.

THE NEW-YORK SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES, published THIS MORNING, contains the very latest telegraphic and general news; the National Campaign; the Prospective War in the East; Further Light on Tilden's Record; The Shot-gun Canvass in the South; The Canvass in New-York; letters from our correspondents at home and abroad; editorial articles on matters of current interest; carefully-prepared commercial matter, giving the latest financial news and market reports, articles of agricultural and domestic interest, and other interesting reading matter.

Copies for sale at THE TIMES OFFICE; also at the TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

A Case of Consumption and one of Whooping-cough Cured.—The following, from a highly respectable gentleman, speaks for itself:

KEYPORT, N. J., May 20, 1868.

GENTLEMEN: This certifies that I was for many years afflicted with a disease of the lungs, until I became so weak that it was with difficulty I could walk. My cough during this time was very severe, causing me frequently to raise great quantities of blood, attended with profuse night sweats. After using various remedies to no purpose, I was advised to try WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. I did so, and before using the first bottle I was entirely restored to perfect health and strength. I would also mention that this Balsam cured a little girl of mine of a severe attack of whooping-cough, when but little was given over by the physician and all other remedies had failed.

JOSIAH HOFF.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

An English Chemist writes: "Brown's BRONCHIAL TROCHES are most useful, and I never knew an article so universally well spoken of and gain such rapid notoriety before." Each year the BRONCHIAL TROCHES go to new localities in various parts of the world, and this is the universal verdict wherever they are introduced.

The Teeth of Dyspeptics.—Acidity of the stomach will destroy the strongest teeth, unless its effects be counteracted with SOZODONT. This pure vegetable antacid and disinfectant protects the dental surfaces by removing every impurity that adheres to them, and preventing the formation of tartar.

Teething children suffer from wind in the stomach. DR. BULL'S CARMINATIVE SYRUP is unfailing and unobjectionable to mother and child. PARKER'S GINGER TONIC gives comfort and rest to both.

Don't Lose Your Hair.

CHEVALIER'S LIFE FOR THE HAIR restores gray hair perfectly, increases its growth rapidly, and makes the hair beautiful. Sold by all druggists.

First Premium

Awarded by Centennial Exposition to ELECTRO SILICON. The best article for cleaning and polishing silverware and household utensils. Sold by druggists, house-furnishers, jewelers, and grocers.

A $3 Felt Hat $1 90. Silk Hats $3 89, worth $6. No. 10 New Church st., up stairs.

Use Brummell's Celebrated Cough Drops. The genuine have C. H. B. on each drop.

To Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain, and cures wind colic.

MARRIED.

CRAFT—HALL.—On the 21st inst., by Rev. William M. Paxtod, D. D., WILLIAM D. CRAFT to M. M. HALL, all of this City.

GUERNSING—FAULKNER.—In Brooklyn, Oct. 19, by Rev. F. W. Blathwaite, D. D., GEORGE W. GLENDINING, of Stamford, Conn., to Miss MINNIE FAULKNER, of Brooklyn.

NORIA—VAN VORST.—By Rev. William Loyd, DAVID M. NORIA to ANNIE E. VAN VORST.

SHURTLEFF—AYER.—By Rev. G. Henry Mandeville, Capt. S. S. SHURTLEFF, late United States Coast Survey, to JULIA B. AYER, of Cambridge.

SWIFT—WHITNEY.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Oct. 18, 1876, by Rev. William Fisher Lewis, CHARLES E. SWIFT to JUSTINE A., daughter of Thomas A. Whitney, Esq., of Peeks Hill, N. Y.

DIED.

BACON.—At Riverdale-on-Hudson, Oct. 23, MARGARET ROGERS, wife of Francis A. Bacon, and daughter of the late Isaac Frederick E. Gray, of Boston.

Funeral services at Christ Church, Riverdale, Wednesday, at 10 o'clock A. M. Trains leave Hudson River Railroad Depot, 30th st., 9 A. M., and Grand Central Depot, 9:40 A. M. Carriages in attendance on arrival of trains at Riverdale.

BENEDICT.—On Sunday, Oct. 22, MARTHA S. BENEDICT, daughter of the late Gen. Solomon Cowles of Farmington, Conn., and widow of Rev. Daniel Benedict.

Funeral services will take place at the residence of her son-in-law, Dr. Hutchinson, No. 470 Canton av., Brooklyn, on Wednesday at 11 A. M.

CLEARY.—In Brooklyn, on Sunday, Oct. 22, 1876, of pneumonia, in the 89th year of his age, ADDISON W., son of Samuel T. Champney.

Funeral services at his late residence, No. 360 Quincy st., Wednesday, 25th inst., at 2:30 P. M.

COTTER.—On Sunday morning, Oct. 22, CHARLES W., son of the late Henry Cotter, in his 67th year.

Relatives and friends of the family, and of his brother, Alexander I. Cotheal, are invited to attend the funeral, from the late residence, No. 9 West 36th st., on Wednesday morning, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock.

CUTTER.—At East Lyme, Conn. Oct. 20, of peritonitis, DR. JAMES B. CUTTER, of New-York.

Funeral on Tuesday at 10 A. M. Norwich and New-London boat from New-York.

DEGROVE.—Another veteran of 1812 gone. Comrades: You are requested to attend the funeral of our late brother-soldier, MICHAEL E. DEGROVE, from the church corner 17th st. and 7th av., Brooklyn, on this Tuesday, the 24th inst., at 3 o'clock P. M., with the usual badge of mourning. G. H. RAYMOND, Col. ABRM. DALLY.

P. S.—It is the duty of every veteran of 1812 to attend the funeral of our brother-soldier.

N. B.—Those in New-York can take 5th av. cars from Fulton Ferry, Brooklyn.

HAZELTINE.—Suddenly, on Monday morning, Oct. 23, ELIZA HENRIETTA, beloved wife of Robert H. Hazeltine, and daughter of Jos. William Hance.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral on Wednesday morning, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock, from Mr. Hance's residence, No. 32 Strong place, Brooklyn.

HOW.—In Brooklyn, suddenly, on the 23d inst., JOHN, son of John L. and Sarah B. How, aged 2 years and 5 months.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral service on Tuesday, 24th inst., at 2:30 P. M., at No. 81 State st.

SHAW.—On Monday afternoon, 23d inst., ROBERT LUDLOW SHAW, at his late residence, No. 38 West 46th st., in the 63d year of his age, son of the late James W. Shaw.

Notice of funeral hereafter.

SEON.—At Flushing, Long Island, Oct. 21, ANN ELIZA GRACE SEON, aged 87, widow of William Seon, of St. George's, Bermuda.

Funeral services at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Joseph F. Darling, Flushing, Tuesday, 24th inst., at 1:15 P. M. Trains leave Long Island City at 11 A. M. and 12:30. Ferry at 34th st. fifteen minutes earlier.

TOWNSEND.—At the residence of her son, Jno. P. Townsend, No. 53 East 54th st., of pleuro-pneumonia, MRS. ELIZA C. TOWNSEND, widow of the late Jno. B. Townsend, Esq., of Troy, N. Y.

Funeral services at Troy.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

MESSRS. WRIGHT & MANSFIELD,

NO. 104 NEW BOND ST., LONDON,

Exhibitors of furniture and decorations of the eighteenth century, have had awarded them two medals and diplomas for superior design, workmanship, and finish.

MR. MANSFIELD will be in Philadelphia in a few days to attend to those who may honor him with their favors.

R. STUART WILLIS, ATTORNEY AND Counsellor at Law, Notary Public, No. 182 Broadway, room No. 4 New-York.

N. B.—Special attention paid to settling estates, conveyancing, and city and country commission.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

IMPORTED

NECK WEAR,

FALL STYLES.

WARD'S,

881 BROADWAY, CORNER WHITE ST.

862 BROADWAY, CORNER 14TH ST.

1,121 BROADWAY, CORNER 25TH ST.

A CARD FROM MR. ELY.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I notice in your columns to-day that you quote from the minutes of the Board of Supervisors of Dec. 27, 1869, some bills of Keyser, Miller, Ingersoll, Garvey, and others, aggregating $800,000, to which my name is affixed as having voted in the affirmative. I never voted for any such bill or bills, and thinking possibly that those who are strangers to me may desire something more than a simple denial, I affix hereto my affidavit. During the last four years of my service in that board I sat with Mr. Tweed without exchanging a word with him, and I have never spoken to him since. The minutes of the board were kept by the clerk on detached pieces of paper, which sometimes were not copied into a book until wee s or months after the meeting. My name was appended to the bills you quote either carelessly or by malicious design.

SMITH ELY, JR.

City and County of New-York, ss.—Smith Ely, Jr., of the City of New-York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he did not vote for the bill or bills of Keyser Garvey, Ingersoll, and others, as published in The New-York Times newspaper of this date, and deponent further says that he never during the said year, or during the year that preceded or followed it, voted for any bill of said contractors, but that he invariably voted against all such bills. And he further says that any record or minutes to the contrary are utterly and absolutely false, and without any foundation in truth.

SMITH ELY, JR.

Sworn to before me this 23d day of October, 1876.

CHAS. P. DALY,

Chief Justice of the New-York Common Pleas.

A HOME ON 5TH AV.

TO RENT OR LEASE,

In the elegant new apartment-house "Osborne," No. 661 5th av. A whole house in each suite, consisting of

DRAWING-ROOM,
PARLOR,
LIBRARY,
DINING-ROOM,
BUTLER'S PANTRY,
SIX BEDROOMS, FOUR OF WHICH LARGE, BATH-ROOM, KITCHEN,
LAUNDRY,

Coal and wine cellar, and many closets.

The "Osborne" possesses comforts and advantages, and for prices not to be had elsewhere. Complete suites, (87½ feet frontage on 5th av.,) thoroughly warmed, with an Otis elevator to reach them, are afforded at prices from $2,500 to $4,800.

Its superior location and appointments are unsurpassed. A few suites yet remain.

Inquire of the MANAGER, on the premises.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

The foreign mails for the week ending SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1876, will close at this office on TUESDAY at 7 A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Montana via Queenstown. On WEDNESDAY, at 7:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Russia via Queenstown. On THURSDAY, at 11:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Cimbria via Plymouth, Cherbourg, and Hamburg. On SATURDAY, at 10 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship City of Chester via Queenstown. Correspondence for Scotland, Germany, and France to be forwarded by this steamer must be specially addressed. And at 10 A. M. for Scotland direct per steam-ship California via Glasgow, and at 11 A. M. for France direct per steam-ship France via Havre; and at 11:30 A. M. for Europe, per steam-ship Mosel via Southampton and Bremen. The steam-ships Montana, Russia, and City of Chester do not take mails for Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. The mails for the West Indies via Bermuda and St. Thomas will leave New-York Oct. 26. The mails for China, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 1. The mails for Australia, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 8, 1876.

T. L. JAMES, Postmaster.

FOR SALE—A BOUND FILE OF THE NEW-YORK TIMES from the commencement, S pt. 18, 1851, to March, 1870, except the months of September, October, and November of 1853, and October, 1852. Address B. W., Box No. 117 Times Office.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE DEPOT!
JAPANESE BRONZES JUST RECEIVED!
CHINESE ENAMELS, PERFUMERY, &c.
WEDDING AND CENTENNIAL PRESENTS.
TÊTE-A-TÊTE SETS, VASES, TRAYS, &c.
PAUKE'S, No. 185 FRONT ST., near Fulton.

KEEP'S CUSTOM SHIRTS MADE TO MEASURE.—The very best, six for $9; not the slightest obligation to take or keep any of KEEP'S shirts unless perfectly satisfactory. No. 671 Broadway, and No. 821 Arch st., Philadelphia.

CONSTITUTIONAL DISEASES FROM BLOOD poisons, pollution, taint, or predisposition of infectious diseases, a treatise upon which may be had free to any address. Offices No. 200 Broadway, New-York.

DUTCH BULBS, TULIPS, HYACINTHS, Crocuses, &c., for sale cheap, to close a consignment, by C. RAUX, No. 76 Park place.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"PRETTY AS A PICTURE," ALMEE'S great song. 40c.; "Sweet by and By," song, 40c. March, 35c.; Easy Airs, 30c.; "The Name," Allard's latest and best song, 50c.; "Allum Leaf," Wagner, 50c.; "Verdicte Waltz," trance, 75c.

DITSON & CO., No. 711 Broadway.

MAY AGNES CLEMING'S NEW N

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following business was transacted at the Exchange yesterday, (Monday,) Oct. 23:

E. H. Ludlow & Co., by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, H. Andrews, Esq., Referee, sold one lot, 25 by 100, on 5th av., east side, 50.5 feet south of 59th st., for $27,100, to David M. Clarkson, plaintiff in the legal action. The above lot is covered by a portion of the Knickerbocker Hotel building.

R. V. Harnett, under a foreclosure decree, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, William S. Kelley, Esq., Referee, sold one lot, 29.9 by 100, on 5th av., north-east corner of 61st st., for $41,700 to J. A. Bostwick. Also one lot, 25.1 by 100, on 5th av., east side, adjoining above, for $26,000, to Charles Wright.

A. J. Bleecker & Son, under a foreclosure decree, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, W. S. Kelley, Esq., Referee, sold two lots, each 25.1x100, on East 61st st., north side, 100 feet east of 5th av., for $31,450 to James R. Smith. The same auction firm, under similar court order, James Wiley, Esq., Referee, sold a four story and basement brick house, with lot 20 by 98.9, on West 27th st., south side, 440 feet west of 6th av., for $8,600 to Joseph Strauss, plaintiff in the legal action.

V. K. Stevenson, Jr., by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, J. P. O'Neil, Esq., Referee, sold one plot of land, 100.11 by 75 by 105, on 4th av., north-east corner 113th st., for $39,314 to Linus Scudder, plaintiff in the legal action.

Scott & Myers, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, C. E. Lydecker, Esq., Referee, sold a two story and a half frame house with plot of land 20 by 157 by 99.6 by 169.4, on 12th av., east side, between 183d and 183d sts., for $10,000, to J. Nelse Tappan, plaintiff.

The following legal sales were adjourned: Sale by Scott & Myers of two lots on West 57th st., east of 7th ave., to Oct. 30, and sale by V. K. Stevenson, Jr., of a house, with lot, on East 37th st., east of 2d av., sine die.

TO-DAY'S AUCTIONS.

To-day's sales, all at the Exchange, are as follows:

By W. H. Coates, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, E. R. Woodward, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 25 by 98.9, on East 40th st., north side, 175 feet west of 1st av.

By B. P. Fairchild, partition sale, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, W. S. Kelley, Esq., Referee of a house, with lot 25 by 111.11, on 3d st., south side, 170 feet west of Avenue A.

By A. R. Muller, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, W. A. Boyd, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 20 by 98.9, on West 38th st., south side, 225 feet east of 6th av.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, L. L. Kellogg, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 18 by 100.5, on East 63d st., south side, 182 feet east of Madison av. Also, similar sale, A. Czaki, Esq., Referee, of four lots, each 25 by 62.6, on East 93d st., north side, 300 feet west of 3d av.

By E. H. Ludlow & Co., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, G. S. Hubbard, Esq., Referee, of one lot, 25 by 100.10, on East 117th st., south side, 173 feet east of Avenue A.

By E. A. Lawrence & Co., Supreme Court foreclosure sale, F. P. Trautman, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land 105.9 by 100 by 49 by 14, on old Boston road, west side, 14 feet south of 143d st.

EXCHANGE SALES—MONDAY, OCT. 23.

NEW-YORK.

By E. H. Ludlow & Co.

1 lot (covered by a portion of Knickerbocker Hotel building), 5th av., s. a., 50.5 ft. s. of 59th st., 25x100 ..... $27,100

By R. V. Harnett.

1 lot, 5th av., n. e. cor. 61st st., 29.9x100 ..... $41,700
1 lot, 5th av., adjoining above, 25.1x100 26,000

By A. J. Bleecker & Son.

2 lots, East 61st st., n. s., 100 ft. e. of 5th av., each 25.1x100 ..... $31,450
1 four-story and basement brick house with lot, West 27th st., s. s., 440 ft. w. of 6th av., lot 20x98.9 8,600

By V. K. Stevenson, Jr.

1 plot of land, 4th av., n. e. cor. 113th st., 100.11x75x105 ..... $39,314

By Scott & Myers.

1 two-story and attic frame house, with plot of land, 12th av., s. s., between 182d and 183d sts., plot 99x157x99.6x169.4 ..... Theodore $10,000

RECORDED REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

NEW-YORK.

Saturday, Oct. 21.

29th st., s. s., 165.1½ ft. w. of Lex. av., 21.10½x98.9; L. A. Biondi to R. M. Bird ..... nom.
Pitt st., w. s., 128 ft. n. of Delancy, 22x100; A. Becker and wife to J. H. Seiman $10,000
Union ave., w. s., 100 ft. n. of Cedar; also Tinton av., e. s. 100 ft. n. of Cedar (24th ward); J. Cudlipp and wife to W. J. Steele 800
Lexington av., 63 ft. n. of 39th st., 20x65; F. Cohen and husband to A. Henry 4,000
42d st., n. s., 175 ft. e. of 11th av., 24.7x100.5; Annie Cunningham and husband to D. Caro ..... nom.
36th st., n. s., 100 ft. w. of 3d av., 100x150; S. Crawford to S. J. Doying ..... nom.
119th st., n. s., 150 ft. w. of 2d av., 33.4x100.11; M. Cleland to A. P. Remmerts 10,365
50th st., s. s., 375 ft. w. of 1st av., 18.9x100.5; W. C. Davidson to T. B. A. Hall 19,000
Hester st., n. s., 75 ft. w. of Norfolk st., 25x100; J. E. Dougherty to W. Cahill 7,600
Avenue A, e. s., 50.3 ft. s. of 122d st., 36.3x91.9x irregular; L. B. Hubbard and husband to J. Sisnicka 7,750
91st st., n. s., 300 ft. e. of 4th av., 17x102.2; P. H. Hanlon to L. Everdell ..... nom.
96th st., n. s., 250 ft. w. of 1st av., 25x100.5; J. R. Franklin and wife to E. Wellington 3,800
30th st., n. s., 100 ft. w. of 3d av., 100x150; J. E. McCormack to S. J. Doying ..... nom.
3d av., s. s., 25.7 ft. n. of 11th st., 25x irregular; Owen Murphy and wife to M. Murphy 40,000
8th av., s. s., between 40th and 41st sts., 24.8x100; Peter Radley to I. Radley 10,000
109th and 110th sts., between 3d and 4th ave., lots 485 and 526; C. S. Wood and wife to C. A. Brown 1,000
Madison av., s. s., 49 ft. n. of 41st st., 26x100; R. D. Gale, Referee, to J. C. Riker 45,000
Sedgwick av., s. s., 136.0½ ft. n. of (irregular) 24th Ward; E. D. Gale, Referee, to W. L. Anderson 3,000
41st st., n. s., 336.8 ft. e. of 2d av., 16.8x98.9; B. M. Van Cott, Referee, to W. L. Cutting 5,500
New-York and Harlem Railroad, w. s., 50.4 ft. s. of New-York and Harlem Railroad, s. s., 50.4 ft. s. of (irregular) 24th Ward; ..... Miller, Referee, to K. Pettimangin .....

CITY REAL ESTATE.

NO. 20 WASHINGTON SQUARE, NORTH.—For sale, on the north side of Washington square, a four-story brick house, 50x85 feet, including extension, to 125 feet through to alley, with stable on rear; the lot is leased from the Rogers estate, eighteen years to run, and the property is not subject to taxes; stables rented till May 1 at $2,000; price asked for entire property, $20,000. For further particulars apply to or address E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

FOR SALE OR TO LET, FURNISHED FOR THE WINTER OR LONGER.—The first-class four-story high-stoop brown-stone house, No. 14 East 31st st., close to 5th av.; size about 21x75; price, $32,500; rent $325 per month; terms of sale very easy, as a large portion can remain on bond and mortgage if desired. Apply to HOMER MORGAN, No. 2 Pine st., or H. B. DREW & CO., No. 3 West 23d st.

$30,000.—A FOUR-STORY TWENTY-FOOT extension residence, 39th st., adjoining two avenue. 4 Pine or 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

COUNTRY REAL ESTATE.

FOR SALE.—A VALUABLE PLOT OF TIMBER land, on the Eastern Boulevard, Westchester village, within five minutes drive of Port Chester, (Pelham Bridge Depot,) containing about 28 acres, well adapted for any manufacturing purpose, having a never-failing stream upon it; or it will be sold in parcels to suit purchasers; terms easy. For particulars inquire of HOMER MORGAN, No. 2 Pine st.

ORANGE, N. J.—COUNTRY HOUSES, LANDS, and village lots for sale; a great variety. Also, furnished and unfurnished houses to let for season or year, by WALTER E. SMITH, formerly Blackwell & Smith, Orange, corner of Main and Cone sts.

DWELLINGS TO LET.

TO LET OR LEASE OR FOR SALE—THAT beautiful 21-foot house No. 14 East 40th st., all furnished, will be rented by the year or for the Winter; it will be sold with or without extra lot in rear, on 39th st., with a stable, at a very reasonable price to meet the market. E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

A MAGNIFICENTLY AND COMPLETELY furnished four-story brown-stone residence on 43d st., adjoining 5th av., to rent low. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr., No. 33 East 17th st. or No. 4 Pine st.

AN EXTRA DESIRABLE FOUR-STORY brown stone dwelling on 17th st., near Stuyvesant Park; beautiful and convenient location; rent moderate. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr., No. 33 East 17th or No. 4 Pine st.

A SUPERB MURRAY HILL, FULL SIZE EXquisitely-furnished and frescoed mansion; fine bronzes, statuary, &c., at a reasonable rental. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr., No. 33 East 17th or No. 4 Pine st.

APARTMENTS.—TENTERDEN, NO. 263 WEST 25th st.—for small families; brown-stone; light; beautiful. Oriel windows; Jackson's grates; elegant wire-fixtures; spacious garden; $480 to $600; janitor.

TO LET, FURNISHED.—A FOUR-STORY FULL size house, Lexington av., between 29th and 30th sts. Apply to W. S. CROSBY, No. 120 Broadway. Brokers please not apply.

$40 A MONTH, FURNISHED.—A PRETTY cottage, seven rooms, at Rutherford Park, N. J., fifty minutes from New-York; near depot; on best av. Address E. C. T., Post Office Box 468, New-York.

ORLEANS FLATS—87TH AV., AND 57TH ST., seven rooms; all improvements; private halls, &c.; $27 to $47; cheapest in New-York. J. EDGAR LEAYCRAFT, No. 702 8th av.

FLATS.—EIGHT AND TEN ROOMS EACH, FROM $29 to $65 per month; all improvements; best in the City for the price. Apply at No. 1,037 3d av.

MADISON AV., CORNER 73D ST.—ELEGANT modern residence in complete order; $1,800. 4 Pine st. or 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON Jr.

REDUCED RENTS.—NEW COMPLETE FURnished and unfurnished flats; offices, 4 Pine and 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

TO LET—TWO LARGE SUITES IN THE NEW AND elegantly-furnished French apartment house, corner of 40th st. and Park av., Madison Park. Apply

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

M. A. J. LYNCH & SONS, Auctioneers, Office 10 Pine st.

THE VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY on north-west corner of Broome and Mulberry sts., will be sold at auction on Tuesday, Oct 31, 1876, at 12 M., at Exchange sales-room, No. 111 Broadway, in following parcels: Corner parcel, 50.6, on Broome st., 116 feet on Mulberry st., with four brick buildings thereon; lot on Mulberry st., adjoining above, 25x75, with brick building thereon; lot on Broome st., adjoining same, 25x98.9x104.6, with brick building thereon.

STORES, &C., TO LET.

TO LET—AN OFFICE IN THE TIMES BUILDING, second floor, 23 feet by 23 feet, in good condition, suitable for a lawyer's office. Apply to GEORGE JONES, Times Office.

TO LEASE—FOR A TERM OF YEARS, THE PROPerty corner of 5th av. and 14th st., recently occupied by Messrs. Delmonico. The adjoining property could be had, if required, for hotel or flats. E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

TO LET FOR BUSINESS PURPOSES—LOFTS in 13th st., between 3d and 4th ave., with or without power; also, second floor at No. 114 East 14th st.; suitable for an office. Inquire at F. GROTE & CO., on the premises.

TO LET OR LEASE—THE STORE, BASEMENT, and dwelling-house, No. 251 4th av., corner 20th st., separate or together, with immediate possession. Apply at No. 103 Fulton st., of PETER A. H. JACKSON.

TO LEASE—FOR A TERM OF YEARS, ONE OF the most eligible corners on Broadway, in the midst of the wholesale and retail trade. For particulars apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

REAL ESTATE WANTED.

WANTED—A FOUR-STORY BROWN-STONE FURnished house till May next, by a private family, who would take good care of furniture; rent not to exceed $250 per month. Address, giving particulars, Post Office Box No. 866.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts. Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M. Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

COMPANION.—BY A RESPECTABLE ENGLISH woman to wait on an invalid lady and make herself useful; good City reference. Address A. B., Box No. 263 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COMPANION.—BY A WELL-EDUCATED PARISian as companion to a lady, or to take charge of children and instruct them. Address present employer's, No. 365 5th av.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY a lady for her chambermaid and seamstress, whom she can thoroughly recommend; has been in her family seven years. Can be seen at the residence of present employer, No. 62 West 37th st., from 2 to 4 P. M., until engaged.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young woman in a small private family as chambermaid and waitress or general house-work; good references can be furnished. Call for two days at No. 253 31st st., near 2d av., third floor.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A neat, tidy girl; is very willing and obliging; has three years' City reference from last place. Call at No. 894 2d av.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A PROTESTANT GIRL as chamber-maid and plain seamstress, or as chamber-maid and waitress, in a small private family; City reference. Call at No. 421 East 19th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE GERman girl to do chamber-work and fine ironing or sewing; best City reference. Call at No. 733 2d av., between 39th and 40th sts., top floor.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A WOMAN TO DO chamber-work and assist with washing. Can be seen for two days at present employer's, No. 57 West 38th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A COMPETENT AMERican girl as chamber-maid and seamstress or waitress; best City reference. Call at No. 417 West 41st st., between 9th and 10th ave.

CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY A YOUNG GIRL; to do up-stairs work, or take care of children and make herself generally useful. Call at No. 9 East 33d st., south side.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY a competent young woman as chamber-maid and laundress; best City reference. Call at No. 115 West 19th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL OF eighteen years; understands chamber-work and plain waiting, or would be willing to care children. Call for two days at No. 445 West 50th st., third floor.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A lady for her chamber-maid and waitress that she can highly recommend. Call for two days at her present employer's, No. 439 5th av.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL as chamber-maid and waitress; willing and obliging; eight years reference. Call at No. 663 6th av., between 38th and 39th sts., ring second bell.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY a girl as chamber-maid and seamstress; can operate on Wheeler & Wilson machine; good reference; no cards answered. Call at No. 661 9th av., near 46th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable young girl, in a small family, or take care of growing children; best City reference. Call for two days at No. 35 East 18th st., rear.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A COMPETENT CHAMbermaid; two years' reference from present employer. Can be seen for two days at No. 9 East 42d st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl, will assist in washing; has the best of City reference. Call at No. 224 West 32d st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A COLORED YOUNG girl; can well do general house-work; good reference. Call at No. 133 West 30th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl to do chamber-work and waiting; best City reference. Call at No. 345 East 54th st.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—By two respectable girls, one as good plain cook and the other as chamber-maid and waitress; have no objection to the washing between them; have the best of reference. Call for two days at No. 131 West 28th st.

COOK, &c.—NURSE.—BY A YOUNG ENGLISH woman, and daughter aged 15; is a good cook, washer, and ironer; the daughter understands the care of children; or would do the work of family; City reference. Call or address Mrs. Albert, No. 31 Monroe st.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY TWO RESpectable young girls (sisters) together or separate, in a private family; one as first-class cook; other as chamber-maid and waitress; three years' reference from last place. Call at No. 208 East 45th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT WOMan as good plain cook; will be willing to assist in the washing and ironing; will be found faithful and honest; first-class City reference. Call at No. 344 East 21st st., Room No. 5.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN AS FIRSTclass cook; is a private family; is a good baker and understands her business in all its branches; best City reference from last place. Call at No. 322 West 40th st.

COOK.—BY A LADY GOING SOUTH FOR THE Winter, a place for a first-class cook; can be seen at present employer's. Call at No. 104 East 30th st., from 12 to 4 o'clock.

COOK.—BY A WOMAN AS GOOD PLAIN COOK; will assist with washing, or first-class laundry; willing to go a short distance in the country; good City reference. Call at No. 153 East 43d st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN, THOroughly competent in all its branches, in a private family; two years' City reference. Call at No. 663 6th av., between 38th and 39th sts., ring second bell.

COOK.—BY AN EXPERIENCED WOMAN; UNDERstands all kinds of soups, meats, pastry, and jellies; excellent baker; best city reference. Call at No. 132 West 19th st., first flight.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT PROTESTANT WOMAN in a small family; understands all kinds family cooking; best reference. Call for two days, No. 217 East 20th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE boarding-house; fully competent in all its branches; good City reference. Call at No. 241 East 28th st.

COOK.—BY AN EXPERIENCED WOMAN A FIRSTclass cook, meats, soups, game, and poultry; is a good baker; best City reference. Call at No. 863 6th av., near 49th st.

COOK.—FIRST-CLASS; IN A PRIVATE FAMILY; understands family cooking; no objection to country; will be found a first-class cook; best City reference. Call at No. 471 6th av., in fancy store.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN; UNDERstands her business; would do coarse washing; good reference. Can be seen for two days at No. 166 West 28th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RESpectable woman; is an excellent laundress; good City reference; City or country. Call at No. 344 West 26th st.

COOK.—BY AN EXCELLENT COOK IN A PRIVATE family; first-class City reference. Address P. E., Box No. 268 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—WAITRESS.—BY TWO PERSONS TO live together, one as first-class cook, and the other as first-class waitress in a private family; good City reference. Call or address at No. 215 East 29th st.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS COOK; WILLing to assist with washing and ironing; three years' good reference. Call or address for two days No. 583 3d av.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT YOUNG WOMAN AS Cook; will assist with the washing if required; best of City reference. Call at No. 115 West 19th st.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN; IS A GOOD plain cook; has City reference. Call at No. 731 6th av., in shoe store.

COOK.—WILLING TO ASSIST IN WASHING AND Ironing; six years' City reference from last place. Call at No. 200 West 49th st., corner of 7th av.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS FRENCH COOK, UNderstanding entirely her business; good reference given. Call at No. 106 West 24th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT GIRL, and would do coarse washing; has the best City references. Call at No. 168 East 32d st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG WOMAN as cook in a private family; has the best City reference. Call at No. 956 6th av

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A young girl as cook, washer, and ironer; best of City reference. Call at No. 219 East 29th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE family; is fully competent; best City reference. Can be seen from 9 to 4 at No. 372 7th av.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS FIRST-CLASS family cook; can furnish good City reference. Call at No. 221 East 21st st., Room No. 8.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL AS COOK; first-class City reference. Call at No. 149 West 39th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE MIDDLE-AGED woman as good cook; is an excellent baker; City reference. Call for two days at No. 96 9th av.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE family; understands all kinds of family cooking. Can be seen at present employer's, 14 West 20th st.

COOK, &c.—BY AN ENGLISH PROTESTANT woman as good cook, washer, and baker. Call at No. 185 Mott st., room No. 8.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS GOOD COOK and to assist with washing; four years' reference. Can be seen at last place, No. 4 East 38th st.

COOK.—FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE FAMily. Can be seen at present employer's, No. 13 East 26th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RECspectable girl; has been in some of the leading establishments in New-York, a few customers at her house; a perfect fit guaranteed. Call or address No. 21 Clinton place, between Broadway and University place.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY A SWEDISH PERSON TO go out and sew by the day or week; understands dress-making; perfect in cutting and fitting; first-class reference. Call or address No. 1,414 Broadway, two flights up.

DRESS-MAKER.—EMPLOYMENT BY A FIRSTclass dress-maker, by the day or at her own house. Call on or address J. D., No. 149 East 121st st.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY A PROTESTANT WOman as working housekeeper or to do the work of a small family, where she can have her little girl, twelve years old, who can be very useful; best of references; City or country. Address E. S. Hill, No. 1,452 3d av.

HOUSEKEEPER.—A LADY WHO HAS HAD experience as housekeeper in a gentleman's family; can furnish unexceptionable references as to ability, &c. Address J. G., Box No. 176 Times Office.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A RESPECTABLE SCOTCH girl to do general house-work; or plain cook and assist with the washing and ironing; willing and obliging. Can for two days at No. 114 West 33d st.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG girl to do general house-work; is a good cook, washer, and ironer; good reference. Call at No. 489 7th av.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL TO do house-work in a small private family; City reference. Call at No. 225 East 41st st.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A YOUNG GIRL LATELY landed; smart, neat, and respectable. Address No. 1,594 3d av.

LADY'S MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE ENGLISH Protestant as lady's maid; is willing and obliging; speaks French; or as nurse to an invalid lady. Apply for two days at No. 525 5th av.; ring first bell.

LADY'S MAID.—THE ADVERTISER, A COMpetent French maid and seamstress, desires a position with a family going to Europe; would take charge of children. Address by note H. B., No. 121 6th av.

LADY'S MAID.—BY A FRENCH WOMAN; UNDERstands hair-dressing; operates on machine; City reference; call at No. 504 6th av. Ring third bell.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTant woman as first-class laundress in a private family; has lived in good families; good City reference. Address S. M. C., Box No. 297 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN; understands it thoroughly; good City reference; no objection to the country. Call at No. 89 West 11th st., in the store.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A FIRST-CLASS LAUNDRESS; can be seen at her present employer's, where she has lived five years; willing to assist with chamberwork. Call at No. 137 East 45th st.

LAUNDRESS AND CHAMBER-MAID.—BY a lady for her chamber-maid and waitress that she can highly recommend. Call for two days at her present employer's, No. 439 5th av.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A FIRST-CLASS LAUNDRESS, to do chamber-work and fine washing; understands her business thoroughly; best City reference. Call at No. 318 Madison av.

LAUNDRESS.—BY AN EXPERIENCED LAUNDress. Apply at her present employer's, No. 1 East 40th st.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A PROTESTANT GIRL AS first-class laundress. Can be seen for two days at No. 1 Madison av.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A COMPETENT PROTESTANT laundress; no objection to the country; good reference from last place. Call at No. 236 West 19th st.

LAUNDRESS.—FIRST-CLASS; VERY BEST CITY reference. Call at 115 West 41st st., near 6th av.

LAUNDRESS.—BY AN EXCELLENT SWEDISH laundress. Call at No. 207 Avenue A, near 14th st.

NURSE.—BY A FRENCH PROTESTANT MIDDLEaged woman as nurse; can take entire charge of a young child, and sew, in a private family; has good references. Address C. D., Box No. 302 TIMES UPTOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY A YOUNG woman as nurse and seamstress, or would do light chamber-work and sewing; can operate on Wheeler & Wilson's machine; good City reference. Call at No. 394 6th av.

NURSE.—BY A RESPECTABLE PERSON; UNDERstands the entire management of a baby from its birth; experienced in sickness; six years' reference from her present employer. Call for two days at No. 42 Park av.

NURSE.—BY A LADY FOR A FAITHFUL WOMAN; is capable of taking charge of an infant from its birth; several years reference. Apply on Tuesday and Wednesday, at No. 51 East 36th st.

NURSE.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN AS child's nurse; is competent to take charge of a baby from birth; can do family sewing and chamber-work. Call at 114 East 25th st., last employer.

NURSE.—BY A THOROUGHLY COMPETENT English Protestant woman as infant's nurse, capable of bringing it up on the bottle, and seamstress; good reference. Call for two days at 260 West 35th st.

NURSE.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT girl in a private family to take care of children and assist up stairs; first-class reference. Call or address for two days No. 247 East 36th st., second floor.

NURSE.—BY AN EXPERIENCED PROTESTANT; is capable of taking charge of an infant from its birth; can do sewing by hand or country; unexceptionable references. Call at No. 693 6th av.

NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY A RESPECTable Welsh girl as chamber-maid and plain sewing; good City reference. Call at No. 349 East 18th st., third floor.

NURSE.—BY A COMPETENT NURSE, TO TAKE care of children; is willing to assist with chamber-work; has best of City reference. Call at No. 327 East 36th st.

NURSE.—BY A NEAT, COMPETENT YOUNG woman to take care of children and do plain sewing. Call two days at No. 439 west 20th st.

NURSE.—BY AN EXPERIENCED ENGLISH WOMan as monthly nurse; doctor's reference given. Call or address Mrs. Cooke, No. 241 East 24th st.

NURSE.—BY A YOUNG GIRL TO TAKE CARE OF children; good City reference. Call at No. 248 East 30th st., between 2d and 3d ave.

NURSE.—BY A PROTESTANT AMERICAN GIRL as nurse to growing children; is willing and obliging. Call at No. 64 East 54th st.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A VERY COMPETENT WOMAN as family seamstress and operator; can do all kinds of family sewing—gentlemen's and ladies' underclothing, children's dresses, vests, and dressmakers' finishing; has her own machine; City reference: Call at No. 1,003 6th av., in store.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN as seamstress and chamber-maid, having worked with dress-makers for some time; operates on Wheeler & Wilson machine; wages no object; a good home desired. Call at 30 West 19th st., present employer's.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN in a first-class family to sew for children; is a good hand and ladies' clothing; can give best recommendation from the ladies last worked for; will go out by the week if not suited. Call at No. 201 East 37th st.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A FIRST-CLASS SEAMstress; is a good dress-maker and operator; would do light chamber-work or take charge of grown children; City reference. Address A. S., Box No. 303 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

SEAMSTRESS—NURSE—TO GROWING CHILdren; cuts and fits children's clothes neatly; can operate the Wilcox & Gibbs machine; no objection to the country; first-class reference. Call at No. 116 West 17th st.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A NORWEGIAN GIRL AS seamstress in a private family; understands dressmaking; operates on the Wheeler & Wilson machine; three years' City reference. Call or address No. 116 West 19th st., basement.

SEAMSTRESS AND CHAMBER-MAID.—BY a Protestant girl as seamstress and chambermaid; is a good operator; willing and obliging; best of City reference. Call at No. 333 East 31st st.

SEAMSTRESS, &c.—WILL WAIT ON A LADY; understands dress-making, or assist in light chamber-work; has the best of references. Can be seen for two days at No. 334 West 37th st., one flight, front.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A PROTESTANT; WOULD assist with chamber-work or anything light; has her own machine. (the Singer.) Call at No. 31 East 39th st., present employer's.

SEAMSTRESS.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS SEAMstress and dress-maker; the best of reference can be given. Call or address No. 125 West 17th st.

WANTED—BY A LADY, A HOME IN SOME REligious family where she can do sewing or anything that is not menial for her board. Address A. D., Box No. 127 Times Office.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

WAITRESS.—BY A LADY FOR HER WAITRESS, whom she can fully recommend. Apply, between 11 and 3, on Tuesday and Wednesday at No. 16 West 33d st.

WAITRESS.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS FIRSTclass waitress in a private family; three years' City reference from last place. Call at No. 12 West 44th st.

WAITRESS AND CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A young woman; or would assist with washing; the best City reference. Call at No. 323 East 39th st., fourth bell.

WAITRESS.—BY A YOUNG GIRL, AS FIRSTclass waitress, in a private boarding-house; is thoroughly competent; understands all kinds of salads; best reference. Call at No. 229 West 27th st.

WAITRESS.—BY A PROTESTANT GIRL AS waitress, or do chamber-work and waiting, in a small family; three years' City reference. Call at No. 704 3d av.

WAITRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG girl as first-class waitress; willing to do chamber-work; best City reference. Call at No. 124 West 40th st.

WAITRESS.—BY A COMPETENT WAITRESS. Apply at her present employer's, 1 East 40th st.

WASHING AND IRONING.—A FAMILY'S wash by the month or by the dozen on reasonable terms. Address, by card or person, No. 174 West 32d st.

WASHING AND IRONING.—BY A RESPECTAble colored woman, by the week or month, on reasonable terms. Call or address Mrs. Lomax, No. 129 West 26th st., in basement.

WASHING.—BY AN EXCELLENT LAUNDRESS, a few gentlemen's or small families' washing at her house. Call or address Mrs. O'Neil, No. 139 West 28th st.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN; gentlemen's or ladies' washing at her own residence; best reference. Call at No. 208 East 44th st., second floor.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN; gents' and families' washing; understands French fluting, puffing, and polishing. Call at No. 141 West 50th st.

WASHING.—BY A FIRST-CLASS LAUNDRESS; the washing of ladies' and gentlemen's or families washing at her own home; good City reference. Call at No 317 East 37th st., Room No. 7.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE COLORED woman; gents' and families' washing; can do fine fluting; from 50c. to 75c. per dozen. Call at No. 118 West 20th st., basement.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN; FAMily or gentlemen's washing done out with the greatest care and some promptly. Call or address No. 115 West 33d st., top floor.

WASHING.—BY A LAUNDRESS; BY A FEW GENtlemen's washing; linens handsomely done up. Call or address Advertiser, No. 649 2d av., between 35th and 36th sts.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN some gentlemen's or ladies' washing at her own home; reference if required. Call at No. 146 East 43d st., third floor, back room.

WASHING.—BY A COLORED LAUNDRESS; FAMily washing by the month. Address Mrs. Ponzo, No. 239 West 29th st., rear.

WASHING.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN TO do families' or gentlemen's washing; highly recommended. Address No. 203 East 44th st.

WASHING AND IRONING.—BY A CAPABLE laundress at her own residence. Call or address M. Cradle, No. 125 West 25th st.

MALES.

BOOK-KEEPER, &c.—IS CAPABLE AND EXperienced; a good penman; can give unexceptionable reference. Address E., Box No. 147 Times Office.

COACHMAN.—BY A STEADY, CIVIL, OBLIGING young man; understands the care and treatment of horses, harness, and carriages thoroughly; can attend furnace, clean windows and make himself generally useful; wages, $15; first-class City reference. Address J. K., Box No. 301 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COACHMAN AND GARDENER.—BY A SOBER, industrious Protestant single man; perfectly understands the proper care and management of horses, harness, carriages, and all kinds of stock; good milker; can attend furnace; willing to be generally useful; low wages; good reference. Address T. B., No. 532 Pearl st., in store.

COACHMAN AND GROOM.—BY A SINGLE young man; understands the proper care and treatment of horses, harness, and carriages; can milk, tend furnace; willing to make himself generally useful; City or country; moderate wages; satisfactory reference. Address James, Box No. 236 Times Office.

COACHMAN, GROOM, AND USEFUL MAN.—By a respectable young man who understands his business thoroughly; also gardening, steam heater furnace; can milk; is not afraid of work; would work for moderate wages. Address B. W., Box No. 216 Times Office.

COACHMAN AND GROOM.—UNDERSTANDS this business thoroughly; also the care of steam power and gas machine; will be found willing and obliging; ten years' best City and country reference from last employers. Address J. N., Box No. 204 Times Office.

COACHMAN.—BY A RESPECTABLE MAN AS Coachman; thoroughly competent; sober, honest, and not afraid of work; would make himself useful; knows the City well; highly recommended. Address James, Box No. 264 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COACHMAN AND GROOM.—BY A SINGLE Coachman; thoroughly experienced with horses, carriages, &c; good careful driver; can milk, attend furnace, and would make himself generally useful; moderate wages; best City references. Address Coachman, No. 125 Allen st.

COACHMAN AND GROOM—BY A SINGLE man; thoroughly understands his business; is willing and obliging; no objection to the country; seven years' City reference from last employer. Call on or address L., No. 1,452 Broadway, between 41st and 42d sts., harness store.

COACHMAN AND GROOM.—BY A PROTESTant man; thoroughly competent, sober, willing, and trustworthy; can milk; superior reference; no objection to country; disengaged on account of employer parting with horses. Address I. S., for two days, at Mr. King's, No. 1,427 Broadway, corner 42d st.

COACHMAN AND GROOM.—BY A SINGLE young man; understands horses thoroughly; accustomed to City and country; will make himself generally useful; wages moderate; can milk; care furnace; five years' reference. Address Obliging, Box No. 206 Times Office.

COACHMAN.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTant man; thoroughly understands the care and management of horses; is strictly temperate; willing and obliging; understands plain gardening perfectly; not afraid of work; can bring the best reference from last employer. Address William, Box No. 212 Times Office.

COACHMAN.—BY A NORTH OF IRELAND PROTestant; is a good, careful driver and experienced groom; can attend to furnaces and do gardening; will make himself generally useful; excellent references. Address William J., Box No. 522 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COACHMAN, GROOM, &c.—BY A SINGLE Man, aged twenty-five; this and that, while gentlemen are below command; is no dissipater; can be trusted; will not give a chance to an honest, sober, industrious workman. Address Coachman, Box No. 327 TIMES UP-TOWN

THE TWO CANDIDATES.

PERSONALITY OF EACH OF THEM.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN CONSIDERED AS A REFORMER, STATESMAN, LAWYER, AND PATRIOT—THE TRICKY POLITICIAN CONTRASTED WITH THE HONEST FOE OF REBELLION AND CORRUPTION—SPEECH OF HON. DORMAN B. EATON AT TARRYTOWN.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Having now passed in review four of the five great questions of the canvass, viz., specie payments, the Southern States, civil service reform, and the claim of each party to be trusted, I now come to the last, which is the personality of the rival candidates, their reforming spirit, their courage and firmness, their independence of position, coercion, and selfish intrigue. There never was a time when the people attached more importance to this issue of the personality of these candidates, or when it was more vital to the public welfare. No issue at this hour concentrates more of thought and anxiety on the part of the worthiest voters than the question of the real character and strength of high moral purpose of Gov. Hayes and Gov. Tilden. Let us rejoice that such is the fact, and clearly comprehend that this feeling is well founded.

How, for example, can a Democratic President deal wisely or justly with the people of the South ern States, black or white, if being a mere partisan, he shall act in the spirit of the Democratic House of Representatives, by yielding continually, as we have seen it has done, to the arrogant claims of the late rebels in arms, having nearly, or quite, a majority of the Democratic voters and Congressmen, and a vast majority of Democratic ability, skill, and assurance, from the Southern States? No mere politician, no President who has a moral standard no higher than the average of his party, or who thinks it the supreme end of statesmanship to manipulate a party, can be equal to the crisis. He must have a love of justice and a sense of duty that dare confront wrong regardless of consequences, or he will dishonor the nation.

So as to the financial issue. In both parties, to some extent, but in far larger ratio in the Democratic Party, there are false theories and low moral standards as to the duty of keeping public faith and resisting inflation. The Democratic Vice President would be in sympathy with these lower elements. How essential, then, that the President shall be a man above base compromises and bold enough to rebuke inflationists and rebels alike.

Civil service reform does not the less demand such qualities in a President. The very foundation of all hopes of such reform is an absolute, controlling conviction, in the mind of a President, that mere partisan machinery and the adroit, selfish use of patronage have failed, and must forever fail, to preserve the moral tone of a party or the integrity of official life. It is indispensable to success in such a reform, in the present state of public opinion, that the President bring to his high place a strength of purpose which no partisan coercions can withstand, and a sense of public duty which no political or social threats or blandishments can overawe or seduce. He must be absolutely resolved and believe it to be absolutely a duty to restrict the practice and power of partisans and political jobbers to give office regardless of personal merit, or he will utterly fail in reforming the civil service. No mere politician—no man who seeks strength for his party in cunning management rather than in sound principles and honest administration, no man who knows no rule of duty higher than the caprice of majority will ever dare attempt, or should he attempt, will ever succeed in such a reform. To bring about, or even to successfully inaugurate that great work a President must bring to his high station a heroic moral nature, a firmness for right and duty that can withstand great and constant pressure from the lower elements of his party. He must have faith that a brave, patriotic, honest man raised to the leadership of a great party, standing for right principles, and pursuing a policy in the interest of the virtue, the intelligence, the and honor of a great nation, has power to raise and nobly inspire that party, and need not consent to be its mere figure-head or a pliant instrument to be wielded by its selfish spirits. He must feel that he is President of a nation and not of a party merely. He must be willing to be censured not a little now, if he can but raise the official life of his country and deserve the gratitude of the future. Every true reformer has in his nature something of the spirit of a hero and a martyr, but not too much to be practical, prudent, and sagacious in his own time. He need not beat war with his party, but should move in the strength of its better spirit.

There are tens of thousands of voters scattered over the whole country, but most numerous where intelligence and virtue are highest—representing its best thought and best morality—who are praying for such a Presidential candidate. Many of them are in doubt for whom they shall vote, and I fear not a few of them have made a decision upon a false view of the facts. I especially appeal to these more conscientious and thoughtful voters.

We see, then, that the great issues of principle in this campaign are such as to give unexampled importance to the party theories, the political philosophy, and the mental and moral qualities of the candidates. It may almost be said that in this section of the Union at least the parties claim to desire to accomplish the same things, so that the question of the personality of the candidates, in a sense, becomes the paramount question. Let us carefully consider it. The superiority of Mr. Wheeler to Mr. Hendricks in that regard is so manifest and generally conceded that I shall make no comparison between them.

As between Gov. Tilden and Gov. Hayes, then, which is most likely to prove equal to the crisis upon us—which, upon his own merits, gives the best promise of proving himself a resolute, practical reformer? Each is entitled to fair treatment. The heat of a canvass is no excuse for detraction or misrepresentation. Let it not be said of us as Boyle said of the writers about Mohammed—that he could never decide whether his friends or his enemies had told the most lies about him. Having known Mr. Tilden and lived very near him, and had excellent opportunities for understanding his political theories and policy for more than twenty years, I should feel competent to speak very generally of him, as a man and a citizen. But I do not propose to go beyond those public relations and acts as to which his candidacy directly calls for a public judgment. Let all matters connected with his many railroad controversies, the second suits pending against him, and his alleged false revenue returns, and every other question of that nature, be for the time passed by; however serious and important they may in reality be. He is a man of large capacity in a peculiar but limited sphere. He is an able politician and a cunning, experienced partisan, to say the least. He is well read in political and financial literature. His private morality is unquestionable, except so far as involved in the matters just referred to. He is a lawyer of considerable capacity, and has had large experience in a very narrow province of his profession, and almost none beyond it. Let all this, which is as much as truth will justify, be freely conceded.

FALSE PRETENSES ABOUT MR. TILDEN.

But his jealous followers have not been content to stand on the facts. They have presented Mr. Tilden to the country as a great lawyer, a great patriot, a great statesman, and a great reformer. Far and wide, by letter, editorial and pamphlet, it has been proclaimed that Mr. Tilden is the great reformer, not only of the City and State of New-York, but of the country. He is declared to be the man who overturned Tweed, and his Ring—who gave to this City all the safety and economy there is in its offices. He, it is said, broke up the Canal Ring. They tell us he has saved the State of New-York millions in its taxation. Hence, he is the man to reform the civil service and to subdue the turbulent spirits of hate and violence that disgrace the South. Now, we who know the facts, and are able to put them before the country, must keep silent and see a falsehood succeed and a nation misled, or we must perform the disagreeable duty of discussing the personality of a candidate. The friends of Mr. Tilden have forced that duty upon us and he and they must take the consequences. I tell you, therefore that nearly all these claims for Mr. Tilden are without warrant in fact, and that so far as any of them are true, they are true in only a very limited degree. There is a recklessness of truth on these points, in the Democratic campaign documents in general circulation which is astounding and unparalleled. The mails are loaded with them; and when I was speaking in Vermont, in August, I found they were even thus early being distributed even to Republican audiences.

MR. TILDEN AS A PHILANTHROPIST.

In presence of such audacious attempts to deceive the public, it is not easy to keep within the limits I have prescribed to myself; and, more especially is it difficult in view of the statements made in the long letter of Parke Godwin, Esq., published in July last, in which he gave a view of the private life as well as the public character of Mr. Tilden, which in important particulars I regard as unwarranted and which far transcended the limits I have laid down. I do not question Mr. Godwin's good faith; but when he seeks to gain support for Mr. Tilden by suggesting his relations to the charities and reform organizations of the City of New-York, as something admirable, he challenges an inquiry, which if pursued would not tend to show Mr. Tilden to be a reformer or a philanthropist. Unless there shall be some further provocation, I decline to enter that field of inquiry, because it savors too much of an invasion of the sanctities of private life. But to illustrate what I mean and as a specimen of the crushing response which could be made to Mr. Godwin, let me remind him and all those who incline to find in Mr. Tilden a philanthropist or a reformer, that Mr. Tilden studied law with Hon. John W. Edmonds; that Mr. Edmonds, with such a student in his office, was the author and chief supporter of the New-York Prison Association, which for twenty-five years has done a noble work, known to all the world, in improving the prison administration of the State, and in encouraging and elevating the prisoners after their discharge. True reformers and philanthropists have given to its work, its councils, and its Treasury, much time and labor and vast sums of money, but Mr. Tilden, the pupil of its founder, has given not a dollar, not an hour, not a word, (unless within a few months.) But Mr. Tilden has constantly supported the party policy which has given the control of our prisons to party hirelings and caucusers, with the effect that now they cost us more than $500,000 a year above the earnings of the convicts; and only last Winter Mr. Tilden shocked the moral sentiment of the State by vetoing a bill which the real friends of reform had promoted and a Republican Assembly and Senate had passed for securing more constant and remunerative prison labor. Every man who regards Mr. Tilden as a reformer ought to read this veto message and to look into the causes that produced it. I know nothing in executive literature more lamentable and indefensible—nothing that so much delighted those who have flourished on our prison abuses or so much discouraged those who have tried to reform them.

While Mr. Tilden has adhered to that policy and party which has made New-York prisons the most costly and corrupt in the Northern States, Gov. Hayes, well known over the Union as an efficient friend of prison reform, has been the most efficient force in so improving the prison administration of Ohio that party politics are powerless in their administration, and the labor of the convicts annually yields a net profit of nearly or quite $100,000 to the State. And to complete the comparison, let me state that not Gov. Tilden but a Republican Assembly and Senate last Winter selected a commission, now at its work, to investigate the abuses of our prisons, and also proposed a constitutional amendment, to be voted on this Fall, which, following Gov. Hayes and Ohio, will place our prisons beyond the easy control of corrupt politicians. I hope that Democratic reformers will secure half as many Democratic votes for this reform as are sure to come from the Republican Party; but it is reported that Mr. Tilden and his party are conniving at the defeat of this reform.

MR. TILDEN AS A LAWYER.

Had not Mr. Godwin and others attempted to gain votes for Mr. Tilden by proclaiming him to be a great lawyer—profound in constitutional learning and broad in experience—the equal of Mr. O'Conor and Mr. Evarts, who would keep his cabinet on the basis of the Constitution, I would have regarded his professional life as beyond the range of present debate. But when, in addition, they arraign the Republican Party as following the lead of shallow lawyers, and represent Gov. Hayes as needing experience, I suppose the issue must be met. Both the candidates are lawyers of recognized ability, but the studies of Mr. Hayes were more comprehensive, and his practice has been far more general, than that of Mr. Tilden. Mr. Hayes devoted two years to legal principles at Cambridge Law School under Story and Greenleaf before he entered an office, and was early the legal adviser of the City of Cincinnati. He has won equal distinction in general practice, both civil and criminal. His general reading, there is reason to believe, is much more extensive that of Gov. Tilden.

Mr. Tilden began his legal studies in an office, and there they ended. In early manhood he was an active party politician, and has never ceased to be one. He has never had a general practice, has never contributed to the literature of his profession, has devoted himself, quite as much in the way of a business manager as a lawyer, to the reorganization of bankrupt railroad companies, appearing, generally, not professionally as an advocate or counsel, but as an agent, a Trustee, a purchasing committee, or a paramount holder of stock or depreciated bonds all at once. In reply to Mr. Godwin's unique argument that Mr. Tilden's railroad practice has qualified him to be President, I may be pardoned for saying that, having tried as many railroad cases as any lawyer in New-York, I never knew Mr. Tilden to be engaged in even such a trial; and having conducted a railroad foreclosure earlier and more extensive than any with which Mr. Tilden has ever conducted, and also been in some of his larger cases, I am good authority for saying that such law business neither requires nor develops Presidential capacity.

But more than this, Mr. Tilden has never been regarded as a great lawyer or any kind—such his ineligible Democratic organ, frankly admits. He says: "Mr. Tilden is rarely spoken of or regarded as a lawyer," &c., and he is right. He has practiced his profession more as a speculator than as a lawyer. Least of all is Mr. Tilden a constitutional lawyer. I never heard of his being called upon to give a constitutional opinion on any question, State or National, and in the case of his voluntreering one in the Kent letter, to which I shall refer, his whole exposition was unsound and he now abandoned by Mr. Tilden himself. He is known to have concurred with Mr. Buchanan, Jerry Black, Benjamin, Jeff Davis, and Vallandigham in holding that the nation had no right to coerce South Carolina, or even defend its own forts. The best information I can secure convinces me that Mr. Tilden has never so much as once argued a constitutional, and very rarely indeed any other, question in the higher court of his own State, or of any other State, and it is certain that, though admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the United States in February, 1847, he has never once appeared as attorney or solicitor in any case, or as counsel once raised his voice in that high tribunal, on either side of a constitutional or any other question.

Now if we consider the further facts that Mr. Tilden has spent his whole professional life in the great commercial and legal centre of the Union, and that he has lived through the most disturbed and litigious period of the nation, during which most lawyers of any eminence have spoken in these higher tribunals, and generally several times, upon questions of constitutional and international law, of which there never before were so many, we shall be better able to appreciate the unparalleled audacity and recklessness involved in the attempt to induce the people of the United States to support Mr. Tilden as being a great lawyer who would bring wide and sound constitutional views and experience to their protection. If he is a great lawyer, or a statesman in any broad sense, but a mere lawyer, how has it happened that not one great merchant or corporation, not one indignant victim of the Enforcement laws—laws which Mr. Tilden as a partisan condemned—not one Southern claimant or blockade-runner, who had enough of his sympathy, and who have so often sought eminent counsel in New-York, has retained Mr. Tilden in the Supreme Court of the nation? Why is he left to go to Washington as President—if he is to go—as much a stranger to the practice, the constitutional debate, and the patriotic inspiration of that august tribunal as would any average attorney from the banks of the Tombigbee or the Rio Grande?

MR. TILDEN AS A STATESMAN.

Mr. Godwin, having in his letter denounced Gov. Hayes as a make-shift of neutral tint, says that Gov. Tilden has "always been a public-spirited citizen, taking part in whatever concerned the welfare of the community, and that his devotion to public affairs began with his youth," and he finally proclaims him to be "superior to any man in the country but Mr. Adams in two great kinds of quality, theoretic and practical, which form the true statesman." On this basis the statesmanship of Mr. Tilden has been landed all over the country. For the first time in our political history a Presidential candidate in his letter of acceptance has tried to prove his powers of prophecy by quoting himself, and has egotistically made proclamation of his own patriotism and experience. Mr. Tilden, after such quotations and defining the duties of citizenship, uses this unique language: "I have for forty years fulfilled that duty, though occupied in an unusual degree during all that period with the concerns of Government," &c. Gov. Hendricks in his letter echoes those notes of laudation. Even the stately North American Review in its October number, falls into the unaccountable error of asserting that Gov. Tilden's public experience is greater than that of Gov. Hayes. Now I think it should be admitted, because I believe it true, that Gov. Tilden has given more attention to public affairs than the average lawyer or citizen of distinction. Upon financial questions and partisan politics, he has bestowed unusual attention. But his experience in public affairs, his opportunities for practical knowledge of the details or conditions of public administration, are not only greatly inferior to those of Gov. Hayes, but they are less than those of any man, except Gen. Taylor and Gen. Grant, who has ever been nominated for the Presidency; and even those Generals understood the military administration far better than Gov. Tilden understands any branch of the general government. The claims set up for Mr. Tilden are preposterous. He has not spoken in the Federal Courts; he has never been a member of the House of Representatives; he has never been thought of for the Senate; he has never had any experience in any executive department; he has no practical knowledge of naval or military affairs; he has not had the slightest experience in diplomacy; he has never so much as been a member of the New-York State Assembly, and for more than a year and a half Governor of New-York. He was once in a Constitutional Convention. The rest of the forty years which he says he has given to the "concerns of Government," so far as not given to lucrative railroad reorganization, have been given to Tammany Hall, to the New-York Democratic State Committee, and to Democratic partisan politics of that State generally. And, concerning Mr. Tilden and these politics, Mr. Adams, (if, as reputed, he is the author of the North American Review article of October last, relative to the Independence, Pa.) certainly was the only man in the Fifth Avenue Conference, unless it be Mr. Godwin, who expressed a preference for Mr. Tilden's election? Is this evidence of being a great constitutional lawyer, who, in this crisis, with a united South again in arms, asserting the same old Confederate theories and State rights, will bring wisdom and strength to our national affairs? There is no evidence that these views of Mr. Tilden have ever been changed, but that will but effect they would have if a united South, which shall have given him the Presidency, shall demand repayment of the income tax, pensions for its soldiers, payments for its war losses, a majority of Judges in the Supreme Court, the repeal of all laws for carrying the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth constitutional amendments into effect? If, on the other hand, those views are all admitted to be false; if his opposition to every one of the late constitutional amendments, and to all the laws created to carry them into effect be founded on erroneous conceptions of the Constitution and of policy, then in what basis stands the vast structure Mr. Tilden's statesmanship, as the duty over the Union? The letter affords a most striking evidence of Mr. Tilden's estimate of the morality of parties and public men which gives point to Mr. Adams' allusion to the political school in which he has been reared; for Mr. Tilden and his party seem really to have hoped to be able to seduce Mr. Lincoln into an abandonment of his duty over the cause. Of that purse, noble man. Mr. Tilden in the Kent letter dares to say, "Our only hope must be that as President he will abandon the creed, the principles, and the pledges on which he will have been elected." Fortunately, Presidential morality had not then fallen low enough for that and Mr. Tilden knew as little of Mr. Lincoln as of the Constitution.

MR. TILDEN AS A PATRIOT.

What position Mr. Tilden would occupy after Mr. Lincoln's election might well be inferred from the Kent letter. He naturally regarded the men of the North as invaders and the men of the South as victims; the latter as asserting rights under the Constitution, the former as violating its letter and spirit. The Democratic orators say little of Mr. Tilden as a patriot, and ask us to forget the past, so far as it relates to Mr. Tilden and the rebellion. If they had forgotten the old spirit of rebellion and injustice at the South; if the Northern Democrats had nominated some candidate like Gen. Hancock—not committed hopelessly to subserviency to Southern dictation—it a Democratic House, by what it has done and omitted, had not shown that a Southern policy, through a compliant North, again threatens to rule the nation, we might gladly forget the past. But what right, in presence of such perils, have men, who would not engage a cook without a character, or plant a pea-patch without knowing the kind of peas, to ask us to hand over the nation to a President regardless of his patriotism?

Let us see, then, if Mr. Tilden has shown himself able to rise above his party and do what patriotism dictates. It can never be safe for a nation in bestowing its honors—it will always offend the judgment of mankind—to ignore the vast and eternal difference in the scales of justice, between those on the one hand who at the crisis of its late stand for its honor and integrity—in its counsels or on its battlefield—and those on the other hand who justify its enemies and discourage its defenders. At such a time, when tens of thousands of Southern men were hesitating whether they would fire on their country's flag, when tens of thousands of Northern Democrats were undecided as to their action, Mr. Tilden wrote that Kent letter justifying all the bloody purposes of the South and condemning all the rising patriotism at the North. That letter was reprinted as a campaign war document and spread broadcast to fire the Southern heart. It was in the hands of every drill-major at the head of his recruits, posted on the walls of every arsenal, read and cheered at every camp fire, cited in every bar-room, factory, and counting-house before treason was fostered. Who can tell how many of the millions of the cost of the war, for which Mr. Tilden's letter of acceptance arraigns the Republicans, had been saved had Samuel J. Tilden never written that letter, but like Gov. Hayes, girded on his sword and gone to the battle-field. It is an indisputable fact that from the date of that letter unsullying flag for Sumter was fired on, the active sympathies and influence of Mr. Tilden were with Davis and the South. During this period the London Times, of which my partner, Mr. Bancroft Davis, was the American correspondent, in spite of his utmost efforts, more and more inclined to give the weight of its vast influence to the rebel cause. Before Sumter was fired on, Mr. Russell came over as its new correspondent. In one of his early letters printed in that journal is this significant language:

"In the evening, dining again with my friend the banker, I had a favorable opportunity of hearing more of the special pleading which is brought to bear on the solution of the gravest political question. It would seem as if a council of physicians were wrangling with each other over abstract dogmas respecting life and health, while the patient was struggling in the agonies of death before them. There was not the smallest evidence of uneasiness on account of circumstances which betokened an awful crisis, if not the impending dissolution of society itself. Stranger still, the acts which are bringing about such a calamity were not regarded with disfavor, or at least were not considered unjustifiable. Among the guests were Hon. Horatio Seymour, a former Governor of the State of New-York, Mr. Tilden, an acute lawyer," &c.

The banker was unquestionably Mr. August Belmont, who, having opposed Mr. Tilden's nomination as unfit to be made, now does penance by going about making speeches for him. Now, who can tell how much of the damage our cause suffered at the hands of that great journal in England and all over Europe was caused by such Northern champions of secession? It soon became hostile to the North.

MR. TILDEN AND THE UNION SQUARE MEETING.

Let me now refer to some momentous events. On the 13th of April, 1861, rebel cannon opened fire on Fort Sumter. On the 14th the old Union flag went down. It was such a shock as stirred every patriotic heart of the North and arrested the attention of the civilized world. Mr. Tilden, with Seymour and all the rebels, held that the Union could not defend itself. THE NEW-YORK TIMES of April 18 contained the rebel order for letters of marque and reprisal. Thirty thousand rebel troops were called out. President Lincoln, embarrassed by secession sympathizers at the North, called out only 75,000 men. By the 19th Virginia had seceded and the Seventh New-York Regiment had left for Washington. Volunteers were offered on every hand. On the 20th Harper's Ferry was burned, and New-England soldiers were shot down on the streets of Baltimore. The same day a blockade was declared, and the Sixth and Twelfth New-York Regiments marched to the field. New-York City, like the whole North, was in a ferment, and all that was noblest in her citizenship demanded a grand expression of her sentiment. On the evening of the 21st of April there was such a vast, patriotic meeting at Union square, under the open sky—more than a hundred thousand people present—as had never been held on this Continent. Tens of thousands of Democrats were there and joined in the grand chorus of patriotic resolve. Mr. Tilden, as Gov. Seymour's Lieutenant, was among the many prominent Democrats, several days before, especially urged to attend. He flatly refused. He thought the meeting as he had declared the Republican Party just six months before, to be irregular and needless and possibly damaging to his kind of Democracy. His statesmanlike mind had not decided what was the real state of affairs. Gen. Dix presided. Among the Democratic Vice Presidents were A. S. Hewitt, now Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Erastus Brooks, (editor of the Express, who opposed Tilden's nomination,) ex-Gov. Hoffman, Fernando Wood, Augustus Schell, late Chairman of the National Democratic Committee. Nearly all the leading Democrats of the City were among the speakers. Archbishop Hughes sent a letter. But Samuel J. Tilden, the great reformer, statesman, and constitutional lawyer, of New-York, was not there. That meeting was the means of raising vast sums of money to aid in the defense of the Union, to which Mr. Tilden, the richest lawyer in New-York, contributed nothing. Now, I am not accusing him of inconsistency in not attending that meeting, for the whole spirit of the meeting was opposed to the theory and aim of his Kent letter, and it was a part of the object of the meeting to arrest the constitutional heresies and to frown down the secession sentiments which both Mr. Tilden and Mr. Hendricks had been busily disseminating. Mr. Tilden was true to his law and his philosophy in refusing to attend the meeting. Some Democrats, and among them Mr. Hewitt and Mr. Manton Marble, have lately thought it desirable to relieve Mr. Tilden of the offense of absence from that meeting. So they have said that Mr. Tilden was actually present, and that, though he contributed nothing to the general fund, he yet contributed to the subscription of a certain Tammany Regiment. Now, it has been shown in reply that the whole expense of that Tammany Regiment even was paid from the funds of the Union Defense, to which Mr. Tilden contributed not a dollar; and thus the original allegation remains true that Mr. Tilden never made any contribution of money, speech, or sympathy.

I cannot say that Samuel J. Tilden was not among the 100,000 people on the Union square that night, and hence Mr. Hewitt may be technically accurate. Mr. Tilden may have attended, as the Grecian sophists attended Paul's meeting on Mar's Hill, as original Tories, listened to Patrick Henry or Samuel Adams, as Mr. Tilden himself, in a hostile spirit, attended the great Cooper Institute meeting when Mr. Lincoln spoke there; but that Mr. Tilden shared the spirit of that Union meeting, its deep indignation against the South, its noble resolve to rise above the Union above party, its lofty courage to stand for the right, without considering personal or party considerations, is more than even Mr. Hewitt will affirm. Indeed, Mr. Hewitt's statement is so feeble as absolutely to injure his cause and to do injustice to Mr. Tilden. He says Mr. Tilden had a railroad trial going on, but not being a lawyer, Mr. Hewitt did know that the courts in New-York do not hold evening sessions. Has Mr. Hewitt forgotten that those were the most stirring times, and the firing on Sumter the most momentous event, the nation had seen. It shook the world as a political earthquake. Never before were the fortunes of politicians and the fate of parties in this country so at stake on the action of an hour. Really as Mr. Tilden might have been absorbed in a railroad case, Mr. Hewitt ought not to do him so much injustice as to say he forgot the Democratic Party and his own ambition in so fearful a crisis. Mr. Tilden, according to his friends, was the great lawyer and reformer, and the most far-seeing statesman, not only of New-York, but of the nation. Mr. Tilden was, therefore, unless there was some adequate cause, the most unlikely man of all to go stealthily from stand to stand among that vast crowd, catching the coming breeze from the breath of the speakers. He was the one Democrat of New-York who above all others should have been a Vice President and have made a brave, manly, patriotic speech. But after all, Mr. Tilden was consistent, and is wiser than his friends when he keeps silence. To his mind the cannonade at Fort Sumter was but the snapping of the ties of the Confederacy by South Carolina, precisely according to the Kent-Letter-recipe he had issued to the South five months before. He could no more take part in that sublime utterance of patriotism and nationality as Union square than did John Adams or John Hancock could have attended a dress parade of British Regulars on the streets of Boston eight days after Lexington and Concord.

MR. TILDEN AND THE NEW-YORK BAR MEETING.

But this was not the only meeting held at that critical period by which Mr. Tilden's sympathies and patriotism may be fairly tested. On the 23d of April the Bar of New-York City held a great meeting, in part to make contribution of funds in aid of the national defense, but more especially to declare its views of national rights and duty. It was the largest gathering of the members of the Bar that ever took place in New-York. They stood for the Union and the right of self-defense. More than $25,000 was subscribed at the meeting, and the subscription finally reached nearly $50,000. That money was used to aid young men engaged in lawyers' offices, or in connection with the administration of justice, to equip themselves and go to the front, and also to relieve those who might be disabled, or whose families might be in need. The meeting was attended without distinction of party. The Democratic Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Ingraham, presided, and the Democratic Judges, Daly, Bosworth, Clerke, and Bronson, were among the Vice Presidents. But, so far as I can remember, Mr. Samuel J. Tilden was the only Democratic lawyer of distinction who neither attended nor contributed to the fund raised. There is no pretense that he was then engaged in a lawsuit, nor would it avail, for so deep and pervading was the feeling demanding the meeting, that it arrested trials and adjourned the courts. Mr. Marble has, indeed, faintly suggested that Mr. Tilden did attend or contribute. He is utterly mistaken. Having been myself present at the meeting and chairman of the committee which disbursed the fund, and having many times seen the subscription list, I venture to declare that Mr. Tilden neither attended nor contributed. And Mr. Tilden was not only consistent but prudent in keeping away from this meeting, for its indignant condemnation of the Confederate doctrines of his Kent letter and of the cowardice and infidelity of his esteemed President Buchanan would have made his ears tingle. The spirit of this meeting made itself felt in a revival of patriotism in the whole Bar of the North from Maine to California.

MR. TILDEN'S COURSE DURING THE WAR.

I have neither time nor inclination to follow Mr. Tilden's course during the war. He was not such an open apologist of the South as Mr. Hendricks, nor did he give any real sympathy or efficient support to the Union cause. His party was divided; the more patriotic and independent portion coming over to the Republicans, or at least to the Union side, and either fighting in the field or doing good service at home; the baser and secession element openly justifying the rebellion, and finally getting up the great riot.

Mr. Tilden so balanced himself between the two wings of his party, and so adroitly acted the part of politician, and avoided that of a patriot, that he offended neither. To say the least, those New-York voters who shot the negroes on its streets, who, on their own merits, occupied cells in Fort Lafayette, or held commands in the rebel Army, now find as much to admire in that record as is found by any Democrat who spoke at the Union square meeting, or fought in the trenches before Richmond.

MR. TILDEN AND THE CONVENTION OF 1864.

Mr. Tilden was consistent to the end. When in the crisis of the war, in 1864, the Democrats met in convention to nominate Gen. McClellan for President, Mr. Tilden was a member of the committee that reported the celebrated peace resolution, adopted, as you know, by the convention, which declared the war a failure, denounced the action of the North and not of the South as being in violation of the Constitution, and demanding the grounding of arms and a resort to negotiations. His friends have tried to make it appear that Mr. Tilden was really opposed to the resolution, and that he privately advised McClellan to repudiate it. The zeal of some of Mr. Tilden's supporters has carried them so far as to cause them to accept an explanation that would convict Mr. Tilden, first for cowardice and deception on the floor of the convention, and next of an attempt to seduce Gen. McClellan from the plain path of honor. I do not believe him capable of such baseness. I leave it to you to consider what light such a resolution throws upon Mr. Tilden's patriotism; what new courage and hopes it inspired in the rebel camps; how greatly it discouraged our soldiers in the field; how many millions it added to the cost, how many months to the length, and how many thousands to the killed and wounded of the war. Who can tell how many warring fragments, what contemptible feebleness, what destitution of courage, and hope, and power this nation would now present to the world had Mr. Tilden's resolution been accepted by the nation? I do him the justice to believe that he rejoices in his defeat, and as sincerely as he regrets his Kent letter and his want of patriotism during the war—unless, indeed, he attributes his nomination to those causes.

GOV. HAYES AS A PATRIOT.

I will not detain you by contrasting such a course with that of Gov. Hayes. You have anticipated all I could say. He was wholly in the right in professional judgment, in sense of duty, in patriotic sentiment upon all those great constitutional, legal, moral, and national questions, as to which Gov. Tilden was wholly in the wrong. Gov. Hayes had the courage of his opinion, and at the very opening of the war he left his young family and heroically served in the field until the rebels returned to their allegiance. You know he was ready at all times to brave death for the cause, and that he scorned to leave the field to take part in that partisan management to which Gov. Tilden wholly devoted himself during the period of the war, always excepting his railroad reorganizations. No man knowing Gov. Tilden can imagine it possible that, for any cause whatever, he is capable of performing the heroic, unselfish deeds of Gov. Hayes. There is nothing that Mr. Tilden would not compromise or surrender sooner than fight for it. All of that large, patriotic, self-denying, courageous nature of Gov. Hayes, which has won the noble record he has, and which justice, is a part of our guaranty that he is far more likely than Gov. Tilden to stand firmly for duty and fidelity to his promises, against whatever threats or blandishments may be brought to bear upon him in a civil station. Men gentle and sincere and modest like Havelock and Washington, are, in trying times, always the most inflexible for the right and the readiest if need be for martyrdom.

MR. TILDEN AS A REFORMER.

We shall find the same concerted plan of sounding Mr. Tilden's praises as a reformer which I have pointed out for proving him a great lawyer and statesman. Almost as soon as nominated, Mr. Godwin's letter presented him to the country as the great reformer of the nation. Mr. Tilden's letter of acceptance says "I entered upon the present trust in order to consummate reforms to which I had devoted several of the best years of my life." Mr. Hendricks' letter echoes the strain of laudation by saying "I wish to express my satisfaction on being associated with a candidate who is first among his equals as a representative of the spirit of reform." Thereupon the cry that Mr. Tilden is a great reformer resounded along the whole line of Democratic journals, and was taken up by reviews, orators, and even ministers. The North American Review hesitates, however, somewhat, and prefers the manly frankness of Gov. Hayes' letter to the self-laudation and dubious, artful pleading of Mr. Tilden. Still tens of thousands of honest voters have been made to believe that Mr. Tilden has the spirit and has done the deeds of a real reformer. Is it true? Now, deliberately measuring my words, I tell you there is no man of distinction in the City of New-York who gives such attention to political affairs, who in spirit or habits of life is less a reformer or more emphatically a partisan than Samuel J. Tilden. I will set up no such high standard as that of Mr. Gladstone, who, when speaking of Zachary Macauley, said a true reformer is a man who, disregarding present praise and self interest, does great deeds from a sense of duty, looking only for the respect of the good and the gratitude of posterity. Let us rather be more practical, and see how far Mr. Tilden has shown any inclination or capacity to rise above his party or to do works of public utility from unselfish motives. The claims made for him and by him are three: That he brought Tweed and his Ring to justice, and did some other reform work in the City of New-York; that he has reformed the canal abuses, and that he has reduced taxation in the State of New-York. He is claimed to have been a life-long reformer. It is a significant fact that no one presents the slightest proof that Mr. Tilden ever engaged in any work of reform until 1871. He was then fifty-seven years of age, or three years older than Gov. Hayes at this moment. Men's characters are generally formed before that period of life, and we may well look with suspicion upon an alleged regeneration at that mature age not claimed to be religious. We must go back a few years to get a fair view of Mr. Tilden as a reformer. Municipal reform has been going on a long time in New-York City, and until 1871 I never heard it asserted that Samuel J. Tilden had anything to do with it. True, brave reformers labored for years through the Citizens' Association and other organizations to secure honesty in administration, but Mr. Tilden was never with them, but always active in the Democratic Party of which Tweed has been the steady enemy of reform. Let us refer to the leading reforms made before his own doors, which he ought to have aided, but which he opposed.

POLICE REFORM AND MR. TILDEN.

As early as 1857, when that good Republican, John A. King, was Governor, and Tammany Hall, in which Mr. Tilden was powerful, controlled the City Administration, as it has nearly ever since, the Police force, under Fernando Wood as Mayor, was an ununiformed, undisciplined band of partisan henchmen and Democratic bruisers, more dangerous than conducive to the safety of the City. True reformers procured the passage in that year of the Police Commission bill, which has made the Police system and the policemen of New-York City the best in the country. It required regiments with cannon to drive Wood and the old force from the City Hall. For this reform Mr. Tilden did nothing; but to sustain Wood and his Jack Falstaff army, and to prevent a loss of influence through the loss of control of the Police by Tammany Hall and the Democratic Party, Mr. Tilden did much.

MR. TILDEN AND FIRE DEPARTMENT REFORM.

In 1865, when we had another Republican Governor, the firemen of New-York had long been as disorderly as a band of Calmuck Tartars. They were a horde of Tammany ballot-box stuffers and repeaters, whose presence often added peril to conflagration, and whose midnight howls drove sleep from the City. True reformers, after a two years' struggle, caused the present Fire Department law to be enacted, under which the fire administration of this City became the model for every other city. Tammany Hall thereby has lost patronage and its managers spoils. Samuel J. Tilden rendered no aid, but joined in the Tammany Hall outcry that the City was being robbed of its franchises, and that New-York voters were losing their heavenborn rights.

MR. TILDEN AND REFORM OF THE EXCISE LAWS.

Under the Tammany leaders, of whom Tweed was the chief, and the Democratic State Committee, of which Mr. Tilden was a member, the excise administration of the City had for years before 1866 been a sham—or rather a party agency for favoritism, coercion, and plunder.

Barely fifty thousand dollars from license fees had in any year reached the Treasury. True reformers in that year, in spite of the united opposition of the Tammany Democracy and the liquor-dealers, aided by Mr. Tilden, procured the passage of the best Excise law ever in force in this country. This law remained in force until Tammany became supreme three years later by reason of the great election frauds that made Hoffman Governor. Under that law the number of places licensed fell from more than nine thousand to about seven thousand, Sunday arrests and broils were greatly reduced, and the annual excise money collected in the City rose to more than a million dollars annually. Mr. Tilden, as strenuously as Tweed, opposed this reform law and administration, and with him joined in causing its repeal. More than twenty years before Mr. Tilden showed his opposition to all efficient excise laws, and ever since he has, I believe, had the steady sympathy of every groggery in the State of New-York. In this campaign they will give him tens of thousands of votes.

MR. TILDEN AND REFORM IN THE HEALTH LAWS.

In the same year, 1866, the true reformers of New-York, after a four years' struggle, which had cost them more than $50,000, and toil and vexation without limit, overturned the corrupt Tammany Health organization, which was another partisan agency of coercion in the hands of the City Democracy. As an illustration of its shameless corruption and inefficiency, let me tell you that of forty-eight Health Wardens and their assistants, at a salary of about one thousand dollars each, twenty-seven were ignorant, partisan keepers of corner groggeries, and not one on the list was at all fit for his position. The Board of Health, created under the new law, still in force, (for even the Goths and Vandals under Tweed dared not repeal it,) has made the New-York Sanitary administration the model for the Union, and has prevented sickness and death incalculable. Tom Fields, now in exile, guided by the advice of Mr. Tilden, led the opposition to this reform; and at no time, when the board has been in peril, has Mr. Tilden given it any assistance.

REGISTRY LAWS.

Had I time I might refer to the several Registry laws for securing honest voting, to the bill providing for compulsory school attendance in the schools, and to other reformatory laws for the City, and show that Mr. Tilden has never contributed to their passage or to any other Municipal reform, at least before 1871.

MR. TILDEN AND REFORM IN THE POLICE JUSTICE LAWS.

One more law I must refer to. From 1843 up to three years since we had eight Police Justices in the City, elected for short terms, in small districts. They were generally a low order of Tammany politicians, who did dirty work at its conventions. There were fearful abuses in these courts. It was very hard to bring any active member of the ruling City party to justice. At that time true reformers made a resolute effort during two years to secure appointed justices for long terms, and they succeeded. Greatly improved administration has followed. The fines, for example, paid into the Treasury under the old law were less than five thousand dollars a year; under the new law they are more than sixty thousand dollars annually. Mr. Tilden gave not the least aid or sympathy to this reform, but counseled those who opposed it and joined, as I am informed, in requesting Senator Kernan to make the strong argument he did make before Gov. Dix in the hope of securing a veto of the bill.

The Health law, the Police law, the Excise law, and in large measure the School laws, had before 1871 taken those several departments out of the direct control of the City Government of tenants. These departments raised their own funds. It was, therefore, only in that fragment of the Government directly left with the Mayor and Controller that the single City reform with which Mr. Tilden's name is connected took place. He went with his party, and hand in hand with Sweeny, Tweed, Barnard, and Cardozo, and their associates, he op

Hayes enters upon what he thinks his duty. Eulogy is no part of my purpose. I feel a deep interest in the cause of civil service reform, and would not say a word in commendation of Gov. Hayes were I not fully satisfied that he will enter upon it in sincerity, and with an abiding purpose and resolute will to do all within his power to advance it. It is a serious undertaking, the full difficulties of which will require more than one Administration to remove. Having given considerable study to the subject, I can in Gov. Hayes' letter, far more than in Gov. Tilden's, see evidence of a comprehension of these difficulties, and of a purpose to make a distinct pledge to systematically attempt their removal. If Gov. Hayes meant less than this he has, as I understand his language, practiced a most unpardonable deception. I have entire confidence in his good faith and sincerity. Gov. Tilden has made no such pledges. His language is vague and general, and may well mean no more than reforming by putting out Republicans and putting in Democrats, Mr. Godwin, who asks his fellow-members of the Fifth avenue conference to vote for Mr. Tilden, will remember that I objected to his proposed address because it was vague, like Mr. Tilden's letter, as to civil service reform, and that I proposed a more explicit resolution, in the unequivocal language of Gov. Hayes' letter, which resolution was adopted as amendment.

George William Curtis, Mr. Bristow, Carl Schurz, and nearly all those who have given most attention to, and are most earnest for civil service reform, adopt the views I have expressed of Gov. Hayes' letter and as to his intention in regard to reform, and I am glad that this was the case when Gov. Hayes had his letter ready and before it was sent; and that when admonished how severe a labor fidelity to its pledge might cost him, he said, as he did when he left his home for the battle-field, that the cause was just, and demanded his best efforts, and that it should have them, and the letter would not be sent. It is in this spirit and with this he was he wrote to a friend a private letter, in which he said that in behalf of such a cause he had a duty to perform and that he had rather die than not discharge that duty. I think this high sense of duty is characteristic of the man and that it will sustain and lead him to triumph over his opponents in any contest in behalf of principle and public duty. I have carefully examined the records of his official life, and find therein exhibited the spirit and the deeds of a reformer. It is to his efforts that Ohio is indebted for her excellent prison administration, her railroad commission, her State Charity organization, her best institutions for the care of her poor soldiers and orphans, for reforms in municipal affairs, for minority representation, and in dealing with pauper labor.

Gov. Hayes was early committed to the cause of civil service reform in its best sense. He supported Mr. Jonckes' Civil Service Reform bill and Mr. Curtis' early efforts. He tried, in 1871, to have the reform introduced into the State Constitution of Ohio. He was very language of his letter of acceptance which Mr. Godwin, Mr. Adams, and others have referred to as the ill-considered utterance of a new convert, is taken almost literally from Messages and speeches published in 1871. In fact, the Republican Party could not have selected a candidate earlier and more emphatically committed to such a reform than Gov. Hayes. And as for evidence of his sincerity he has added the declaration that he will not accept a second term. This will relieve him of all temptation to use patronage to secure a re-election and also have far more independence to be faithful to that reform which must be the great measure of his Administration.

It is for these reasons that I think that every honest, thoughtful voter, understanding the facts, will feel it a duty to vote for Gov. Hayes.

THE BISHOPS OF ENGLAND.

THE PRESENT DISPROPORTION—PALACES AND LARGE INCOMES—THE QUESTION OF TERRITORY AND POPULATION.

Among the speakers at the Church Congress in Plymouth was Rev. H. Temple, who was "loudly applauded." Mr. Temple contended that the number of Bishops in any country, ought to bear directly on the question of territory and population, the number of the clergy, and the means of locomotion and communication. For instance, in Rome at one time, with 154 Church officials, there was one Bishop to look after them, while at Constantinople there was one Bishop to 485 Church officials. In England, with all the increase of population, there was but one more Bishop now than in the time of Queen Elizabeth. Turning to the Church history of England and Wales, we find the territory of Christendom has here for many years been constant, while the increase of population has been marvelous. At the Norman Conquest, when the population was about nine hundred thousand, the number of sees in England and Wales, including Sodor, was 18; at the accession of Richard III. in 1377, the population was 2,700,000, and the number of sees 22. In 1690 the population was 5,230,000, and the number of sees 27. Henry III. added six new sees, but Westminster had been dissolved again. In 1871, with a population of 22,857,193, the number of sees was 28. What were the results of this monstrous disproportion? The first was an overwhelming physical labor in holding confirmations, and he would infer that this physical labor was the proximate cause of death to a very eminent prelate within living memory. One other evil was the lack of acquaintance on the part of our prelates with what large and important classes of churchmen think on many Church matters. We shall be glad (said Mr. Temple) to see Bishop Benson, of Truro, of Coventry, Nottingham, Liverpool, and of some town in the West Riding of York, but we really want much more, but not much more expense. We can dispense, I think, with seats in the House of Lords; we can certainly dispense with the office of Episcopal Chaplaincy of that assembly; we can dispense with palaces, and with incomes of £4,000 a year. When our Bench is sufficiently manned we can dispense with the clumsy provisional nomination of Bishops Suffragan. We want Bishops in such numbers that each one shall be as well acquainted with the clergy of his diocese as they are now with their Rural Deans. We want moderate-sized houses and moderate incomes, sufficient to allow of a generous but simple hospitality. We must have greatly reduced in size and population. I think it impossible to divide the Bishoprics into a higher and a lower class; such a system would drive us back to the old error of continuous and habitual translation. I would leave the two Archiepiscopal sees just as they are, in consideration of their venerable historical associations, and the exalted rank of their holders. In time to come, let the legal average income of every Bishop be fixed at not less than £2,000 nor more than £3,000 a year. The present Episcopal incomes, if divided at the next avoidance of the sees among 90 Bishops, which would be, speaking roughly, about four to every million of our population, would yield to each one of the minority rather more than £1,400 a year. This amount would be largely increased by some readjustment of the richest benefices in public patronage. Then let churchmen exert themselves to make the sum up in every case to a minimum of £2,000 a year, and to provide suitable residences. The last-named work might be considerably helped by the sale of such Episcopal castles as the palaces as would be confessedly too large for the new sees. Cathedral rank might be given to some churches, the revenues of which suffice to support a dean; and a fresh settlement might be made if existing capitular property might be made on the lines of old legislation to provide an adequate staff for real capitular work. Some arrangement also should be made for relieving Bishops from the heavy fees now chargeable on their appointment, and also from the expense they are subject to in prosecuting erring clergymen. Lastly, if it is thought desirable that some of these twenty-four prelates should, to the Church's loss, be Lords in Parliament, let Churchmen who desire this provide an extra £500 a year for each of such unfortunates. My task is done. I was invited here, and this subject is not of my own choosing, otherwise I should not have meddled with what I have called a Bishop's question.

POPULARITY OF EX-PRESIDENT THIERS.

The correspondent of the London Times writes: "M. Thiers left Paris three days ago for Cannes, where he is going to remain some time, and on the route stayed forty-six hours at Marseilles to rest before continuing the journey. Despite the efforts of the local papers hostile to M. Thiers, it is certain that the illustrious statesman, received an enthusiastic welcome to his native city, that the crowd never ceased to follow him, to station themselves under his windows, and to applaud the liberator of French territory. The visitors to him were so numerous that he was soon obliged to lock his door against them. The Congress of Orientalists sitting at present at Marseilles, presided over by M. de Lesseps, hogged M. Thiers to honor their meetings with his presence, which, however, M. Thiers, fatigued by his journey, was obliged to deny them. Taking a drive in the evening, M. Thiers was again followed by a crowd. He remained for a time at the door, and shook hands with those who pressed round him, begging them to interpret his emotion to the multitude who were hooting him as a leading citizen with stitch touching enthusiasm. The special telegram I have received on this subject estimates the number of persons assembled during the day along the route of M. Thiers at 20,000. The same telegram adds that people were struck by M. Thiers' fatigued appearance. Despite all attempts to bring about the contrary, it does not appear that a single disagreeable circumstance marred the welcome of the ex-President, and one must praise the town which gave birth to M. Thiers, and which has made itself worthy of the honor by giving to him when fallen from power a reception it was unable to extend to him when he was at the head of France. As for M. Thiers himself, one eye-witness tells me that he never saw more strongly-marked emotion than that of M. Thiers at seeing himself so enthusiastically received in a city for which he has always preserved a particular affection."

THE NEW COURT-HOUSE.

The work of completing the new Court-house was commenced yesterday. A new wing is to be erected on the south side of the building, in order to furnish additional facilities to the courts and bureaus. It is also proposed to erect a dome, octagonal in form, 25 feet high, 65 feet in diameter, and 180 feet in circumference. The roof on the Chambers street side is to be finished by the erection of a pediment. All the work will be completed within two years, at a cost of $475,000.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

SALES AT THE STOCK EXCHANGE—OCT. 23.

SECOND BOARD—10:15 AND 11:30 A. M.

$5,000	U. S. 5-20 R., '65, N.—c.	112¾	$40,000	U. S. 5-20C., '67.—c.	115⅜
5,000	do.....c.	112⅝	30,000	do.....b.c.	115¼
10,000	do.....c.	112⅝	3,000	do.....c.	115¼
10,000	U. S. 5s, 10-40, R.....c.	114	50,000	do.....b.c.	115⅜
			2,000	U. S. 6s, C.	124

FIRST BOARD—10:30 A. M.

$1,000	C. R.I. & P. 7s.	110½	100	Ill. Cen.....b.c.	83
3,000	N.J. Cen., con.	88	200	do.	83
1,000	do.....b.c.	87⅜	100	do.	83½
1,000	N.J. C., 1st, C.	88	100	St. L., I.M. & S. b.c.	13¼
3,000	L. & W. B., C.	69	100	C. & N. W.....b.c.	41⅜
3,000	S.W.C.G.G.	83	95½	67	40¾
14,000	H. & St. Jo. 8s, Conv.....s.	83	100	do.	40⅝
2,000	do.....b.c.	80½	1300	do.	63¼
4,000	L. S. Div. bds.	105	400	do.	63⅜
5,500	B. & R.N. bds.	105	100	do.	63
10,000	Ore. & M. 2d, C.	57	300	C., M. & St. P. b.c.	29½
15,000	Un. Pac. 1st.	106	100	do.	29⅜
1,000	Un. P. S. F.....b.c.	91⅜	100	do.	29¼
2,000	West. Pac. bds.	102⅜	1900	do.	29
1,000	St. L., M. & S.	74½	100	do.	28⅞
6,000	Alt. & T. H. Inc.	70	300	do.	28⅝
5,000	O. & Ss. 1st, C.	55½	300	do.	28⅜
10	Cen. Nat. Bank.	101	100	do.	29
15	D. & H. C.....b.c.	75	100	do.....s3.	28⅞
10	Adams Ex.....s3.	74½	100	do.	28¾
20	American Ex.	61	200	do.	60¼
100	N. Y. C. & H.....b.c.	104¾	100	do.....s7.	60
400	W. Un. T.....b.c.	72	200	do.	60⅜
1000	do.	71⅞	100	do.....s5.	60
1000	do.	71⅞	500	do.	60
400	do.	71⅞	800	do.	59⅞
800	do.....b3.	72	200	do.	59¾
300	do.	71⅞	100	do.	59⅝
200	do.	72	100	do.	59¾
200	do.	72⅛	200	do.....b3.	59⅞
1500	do.	72	100	do.	59⅞
100	P. M. S. S. C.....b.c.	30	300	do.	59¾
200	do.	24⅝	200	Cen. of N. J.	37¼
300	do.	24⅝	500	do.	37
100	Erie Railway	11¼	100	do.	36¾
100	do.	11⅝	400	do.	36⅝
300	do.	11¾	100	do.....c.	36⅝
200	do.	11⅝	300	Chic. & R. I.....b.c.	101⅞
100	do.	11⅝	600	do.	102
100	do.	11¾	100	do.	102⅜
200	C., C. & I.	42	200	Del., L. & W.	77⅜
30	Un. Pacific	63½	300	do.	77¾
100	do.	63¼	100	do.	77⅞
800	Mich. Cen.	63¾	100	do.	77⅞
90	do.	47¾	100	do.....c.	77¾
100	do.	48	200	do.	77¾
700	L. S. & M. S.....b.c.	60¼	100	do.	77¾
800	do.	60⅜	100	do.....c.	77⅞
100	do.....n.r.	60	100	do.	77⅞
2500	do.	60⅜	100	do.	15¾
700	do.	60½	100	do.....s3.	15½
800	do.....s3.	60⅜	100	do.	15
200	do.	60⅜	100	do.	14⅞
100	do.	60⅝	200	do.	14⅝
300	do.	60½	200	Ohio & Miss.....b.c.	14¾
100	Kan. Pac.....b.c.	4¼	300	do.	11⅛

SALES BEFORE THE CALL—12:30 P. M.

$10,000	N. Y. C. 1st, R.	119½	100	North-western....	40¾
2,000	M. & St. P. C. S. P.	88¾	100	do.	40⅝
100	Del. & Hud.	74½	100	do.	40½
30	American Ex.	61	100	North-west. Pf.	63⅛
100	Western Union	72	100	do.	63
100	do.....b3.	71⅞	50	do.	62¾
300	do.	71¾	100	Central of N. J.	36¾
100	do.....b3.	71¾	500	do.	36⅝
100	do.	71⅞	100	do.	36¾
600	do.....s3.	71¾	100	do.	36⅜
100	do.	71⅞	200	do.	36¾
100	Pacific Mail	24¾	200	do.	37
100	N. Y. C. & Hud.	104⅞	300	do.....s3.	36⅞
400	Erie Railway	11½	100	Rock Island	102¾
800	Lake Shore	60⅜	200	Illinois Central	83
100	do.....s3.	60⅜	50	Fort Wayne	101
1,800	do.....s3.	60¼	200	St. Paul	28½
200	do.	60⅜	100	do.....s3.	28⅝
400	Union Pacific	63½	55	do.	28⅜
1700	do.	63½	200	do.	28⅜
400	do.....c.	63⅝	100	do.....b3.	28½
200	Mich. Central	47⅞	100	do.	28½
400	Union Pacific	63¾	200	do.	28⅝
400	do.....b3.	63	600	St. Paul Pref.	59⅝
100	do.	63	500	do.	59½
100	Del., Lack. & W.	77¾	100	do.....s3.	59⅜
200	do.	77⅝	500	do.	59½
100	do.....c.	77⅝	300	do.	59¾
100	do.	77⅝	300	do.	59¾
100	Han. & St. Jo.	15⅜	300	Tol. & Wab.	6
100	do.	15½	300	Kan. & Texas.	7½

GOVERNMENT STOCKS—2 P. M.

$20,000	U. S. 5-20, C., '65, N.	112⅝	$5,000	U. S. 5-20 C., '67.	115¼
60,000	do.....b.c.	112⅜	15,000	U. S. 5s, C., '81.	114⅜

SECOND BOARD—1 P. M.

$1,000	M. & St. P. 7 3-10 conv.	98⅜	500	L. S. & M. S.....b.c.	60¼
1,000	M. & St. P. 1st, La C. Div.	102⅝	1100	do.	60⅜
2,000	N. W. C. C. G.	95½	1700	do.	60⅜
1,000	L. & W. B. con.	69	900	do.	60¼
2,000	U. Pac. 1st, L. G.	100½	100	do.	60⅜
1,000	U. Pac. 7s, L. G.	100½	300	do.....b3.	60⅜
2,000	P. R. of Mo. 1st.	94½	700	do.	60⅜
5,000	C. So. 1st, c. on.	56	200	do.....b3.	60⅜
10,000	U. Pac. 7s, L. G.	100½	200	do.....s3.	60⅜
2,000	P. R. of Mo. 1st.	94½	700	do.	60⅜
5,000	C. So. 1st, c. on.	56	200	do.	60⅜
400	W. U. Tel.....b.c.	71¾	200	do.	60⅜
100	do.	71⅞	800	do.	59⅞
800	do.....b3.	72	200	do.	59¾
300	do.	71⅞	100	do.	59⅝
200	do.	72	500	do.	59¾
200	do.	72⅛	600	do.....b3.	59⅞
100	do.	72⅜	200	do.	59⅞
1200	Pac. M. S. S. Co.	24¾	500	do.....b3.	60⅝
100	do.....s3.	24⅝	600	do.	60⅝
100	do.	24⅝	100	C. & N. W.....b.c.	40⅝
100	do.	24⅝	100	do.	40⅝
400	Erie Railway. b.c.	11¼	100	do.	40¾
80	do.	11⅜	100	C. & N. W. Pf. b.c.	62⅞
100	do.....b3.	11⅜	100	do.....b3.	62⅞
100	Mich. Cen.....b.c.	47⅜	100	do.	63
100	do.	47⅝	400	C. R. I. & P.....b.c.	93¾
100	do.	47⅝	300	do.	93⅝
500	do.....b3.	47⅞	100	Ohio & Miss.....b.c.	11¼
100	do.	47⅞	100	do.	11⅜
50	Tol. & W.b.c.	15¾	200	do.....b3.	11⅜
100	D., L. & W.b.c.	77½	13	Oh. & M. Pf.b.c.	39½
200	do.	77¾	300	Chic. & R. I.....b.c.	102
600	do.	77⅝	5	do.	102¼
100	C., M. & St. P. Pf.b.c.	59⅜	100	do.....s3.	101⅞
100	do.	59⅜	100	do.	102
100	do.....s3.	59½	10	do.	102
600	do.	59¾	200	do.	101⅞
100	Han. & St. Jo.b.c.	15¼	300	Kansas Pac.....b.c.	4¼
200	do.	15½	200	C., M. & St. P.b.c.	29¾
100	Han. & St. J. Pf.b.c.	28½	200	do.	28¾

SALES FROM 2:30 TO 3 P. M.

$1,000	Mo. K. & T. 1st.	59	200	Cen. of N. J.	36⅞
2,000	U. Pac. 1st.	105⅞	600	do.	37
5,000	H. & S. J. 8s. con.	80⅞	200	North-western.	40⅜
5,000	do.....s3.	81	600	do.	40½
3,000	C. Rock Island	109⅜	200	do.	40⅝
1,000	M. & St. P. con.	93⅜	100	do.	40⅜
	S. F.	88½	100	North-west. Pref.	63¼
100	Del. & Hud.	74¾	200	do.....s3.	63
100	West. Union.....b3.	72	100	do.	63⅜
1100	do.	72⅛	200	do.	63⅝
600	do.	72	100	Rock Island	102
13	Adams Express	109	100	do.	102¼
100	U. S. Express	81½	200	St. Paul	28¾
1300	Erie Railway	11½	100	do.....s3.	28¾
900	Pacific Mail	24⅞	200	do.	29
700	do.....b3.	25	200	do.....03.	29
100	do.	25	200	St. Paul Pref.	59¾
1200	do.....b30.	25	100	do.	59⅞
100	N. Y. C. & Hud.	104⅞	300	Tol. & Wab.	6
100	do.	104¼	100	Del., Lack. & W.	77¾
100	Mich. Central	48¾	100	do.	78¼
100	do.	48¾	800	Ohio & Miss.	11½
200	do.	48	200	Han. & St. Jo.	15⅝
400	Union Pacific	63½	100	do.	15⅜
1700	do.	63½	200	Toledo & Wab.	5⅞
400	do.....s3.	102¼	400	do.....b3.	6
100	do.	102⅜	200	Ohio & Miss.	11¾
1400	do.	102	100	do.	11¾

SECOND BOARD—10:15 AND 11:30 A. M.

$5,000	U. S. 5-20 R., '65, N.—c.	112¾	$40,000	U. S. 5-20C., '67.—c.	115⅜
5,000	do.....c.	112⅜	30,000	do.....b.c.	115¼
10,000	do.....c.	112⅝	3,000	do.....c.	115¼
10,000	U. S. 5s, 10-40, R.	114	50,000	do.....b.c.	115⅜
			2,000	U. S. 6s, C.	124

FIRST BOARD—10:30 A. M.

$1,000	C. R.I. & P. 7s.	110½	100	Ill. Cen.....b.c.	83
3,000	N.J. Cen., con.	88	200	do.	83
1,000	do.....b.c.	87⅜	100	do.	83½
1,000	N.J. C., 1st, C.	88	100	St. L., I.M. & S. b.c.	13¼
3,000	L. & W. B., C.	69	100	C. & N. W.....b.c.	41⅜
3,000	S.W.C.G.G.	83	95½	67	40¾
14,000	H. & St. Jo. 8s, Conv.....s.	83	100	do.	40⅝
2,000	do.....b.c.	80½	1300	do.	63¼
4,000	L. S. Div. bds.	105	400	do.	63⅜
5,500	B. & R.N. bds.	105	100	do.	63
10,000	Ore. & M. 2d, C.	57	300	C., M. & St. P. b.c.	29½
15,000	Un. Pac. 1st.	106	100	do.	29⅜
1,000	Un. P. S. F.....b.c.	91⅜	100	do.	29¼
2,000	West. Pac. bds.	102⅜	1900	do.	29
1,000	St. L., M. & S.	74½	100	do.	28⅞
6,000	Alt. & T. H. Inc.	70	300	do.	28⅝
5,000	O. & Ss. 1st, C.	55½	300	do.	28⅜
10	Cen. Nat. Bank.	101	100	do.	29
15	D. & H. C.....b.c.	75	100	do.....s3.	28⅞
10	Adams Ex.....s3.	74½	100	do.	28¾
20	American Ex.	61	200	do.	60¼
100	N. Y. C. & H.....b.c.	104¾	100	do.....s7.	60
400	W. Un. T.....b.c.	72	200	do.	60⅜
1000	do.	71⅞	100	do.....s5.	60
700	do.	71¾	1800	do.	60
1000	do.	71⅞	500	do.	60
400	do.	71⅞	800	do.	59⅞
800	do.....b3.	72	200	do.	59¾
300	do.	71⅞	100	do.	59⅝
200	do.	72	500	do.	59¾
200	do.	72⅛	600	do.....b3.	59⅞
100	do.	72⅜	200	do.	59⅞
1200	Pac. M. S. S. Co.	24¾	500	do.....b3.	60⅝
200	P. M. S. S. Co. b.c. b3.	24¾	600	do.	60⅝
100	do.....s3.	24⅝	100	C. & N. W.....b.c.	40⅝
100	do.	24⅝	100	do.	40⅝
400	Erie Railway. b.c.	11¼	100	do.	40¾
80	do.	11⅜	100	C. & N. W. Pf. b.c.	62⅞
100	do.....b3.	11⅜	100	do.....b3.	62⅞
100	Mich. Cen.....b.c.	47⅜	100	do.	63
100	do.	47⅝	400	C. R. I. & P.....b.c.	93¾
100	do.	47⅝	300	do.	93⅝
500	do.....b3.	47⅞	100	Ohio & Miss.....b.c.	11¼
100	do.	47⅞	100	do.	11⅜
50	Tol. W. & W.b.c.	15¾	200	do.....b3.	11⅜
100	D., L. & W.b.c.	77½	13	Oh. & M. Pf. b.c.	39½
200	do.	77¾	300	Chic. & R. I.....b.c.	102
600	do.	77⅝	5	do.	102¼
100	C., M. & St. P. Pf. b.c.	59⅜	100	do.....s3.	101⅞
100	do.	59⅜	100	do.	102
100	do.....s3.	59½	10	do.	102
600	do.	59¾	200	do.	101⅞
100	Han. & St. Jo.b.c.	15¼	300	Kansas Pac.....b.c.	4¼
200	do.	15½	200	C., M. & St. P.b.c.	29¾
100	Han. & St. J. Pf. b.c.	28½	200	do.	28¾

SALES FROM 2:30 TO 3 P. M.

$1,000	Mo. K. & T. 1st.	59	200	Cen. of N. J.	36⅞
2,000	U. Pac. 1st.	105⅞	600	do.	37
5,000	H. & S. J. 8s. con.	80⅞	200	North-western.	40⅜
5,000	do.....s3.	81	600	do.	40½
3,000	C. Rock Island	109⅜	200	do.	40⅝
1,000	M. & St. P. con.	93⅜	100	do.	40⅜
	S. F.	88½	100	North-west. Pref.	63¼
100	Del. & Hud.	74¾	200	do.....s3.	63
100	West. Union.....b3.	72	100	do.	63⅜
1100	do.	72⅛	200	do.	63⅝
600	do.	72	100	Rock Island	102
13	Adams Express	109	100	do.	102¼
100	U. S. Express	81½	200	St. Paul	28¾
1300	Erie Railway	11½	100	do.....s3.	28¾
900	Pacific Mail	24⅞	200	do.	29
700	do.....b3.	25	200	do.....03.	29
100	do.	25	200	St. Paul Pref.	59¾
1200	do.....b30.	25	100	do.	59⅞
100	N. Y. C. & Hud.	104⅞	300	Tol. & Wab.	6
100	do.	104¼	100	Del., Lack. & W.	77¾
100	Mich. Central	48¾	100	do.	78¼
100	do.	48¾	800	Ohio & Miss.	11½
200	do.	48	200	Han. & St. Jo.	15⅝
400	Union Pacific	63½	100	do.	15⅜
1700	Lake Shore	60¾	300	do.	15¾
100	do.	60⅞	200	do.	16
100	do.	60⅝	100	Han. & St. Jo. Pf.	28½
100	do.	60¾	100	do.	29
500	do.....s3.	60⅝	100	do.....s3.	29
200	do.	60⅜	100	do.	29¼
500	do.	60⅝	200	Kansas & Texas.	7½
13	Albany & Sus.	89

MONDAY, Oct. 23—P. M.

Speculation on the Stock Exchange in the early dealings was firm for the general list and buoyant for Hannibal and St. Joseph, which rose from 14¾ to 16⅜ for the common, the preferred selling at 29½, against 26 at the close on Saturday. Later, under realizations, prices fell off somewhat, but the decline was followed by a recovery, and the market on the closing dealings exhibited a firm tone. The entire business aggregated 128,065 shares, which embraced 37,700 of Lake Shore, 21,400 of Western Union, 17,600 of Erie, 5,090 of Michigan Central, 4,600 of Hannibal and St. Joseph, 4,600 of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 4,500 of Pacific Mail, and 4,200 of New-Jersey Central. Lake Shore, which was the most active stock, advanced from 60⅜ at the opening to 61⅛, fell off to 60¼, and closed strong at 60¾. The strength of this stock is due in a good measure to the recent large increase in the traffic of the road, its current business being so great that shippers, it is stated, are willing to pay a premium for preference. Western Union advanced from 71¾ to 72½, and closed at 72⅛. Reports of decreased earnings for the past week had a depressing effect upon the Granges, St. Paul common declining to 28⅜, and the preferred to 59⅜, while North-western common, after advancing to 42⅛, declined to 40½, and the preferred fell off from 54 to 53⅞. St. Paul closed at a recovery of ⅝ ₱ cent. on the common, and of ½ ₱ cent. in the preferred. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western fluctuated between 78¼ and 77½, closing at the higher figure. New-Jersey Central fell off from 37½ to 36½, and closed at an advance of ½ ₱ cent. from the lowest point. Illinois Central sold at 83, against 84½ on Saturday, and closed at 83¼. Michigan Central fluctuated between 48¼ and 47⅜, and closed at 48¼.

The money market was easy throughout the day, and Stock Exchange borrowers supplied their requirements at 2@3 ₱ cent. In the discount market prime names are quoted at 5 to 6½ ₱ cent. The rates of domestic exchange on New-York to-day were: Savannah, ¼ offered; Charleston plentiful, buying freely, 5-16 selling, ⅛ to par; New-Orleans, commercial 5-16@⅜, bank ¼, Cincinnati, moderate demand, 100 discount; St. Louis, 100 discount; Chicago dull, 80 to 100 discount.

The foreign advices report the London market still higher for Consols and a fraction lower for United States bonds, the former closing at 94⅞ for money and 94⅞@95 for the account, and the latter at 103 for 1865s, (old,) 103⅛ for 1867s, 107¾@107⅞ for 10-40s, and 105¾ for new 5s. Erie advanced to 10¾. The Bank of England lost £101,000 bullion on balance to-day. At Paris to-day Rentes fell off to 104f. 12½c., and afterward rose to 104f. 70c.

The sterling exchange market continues weak, and rates for actual business remain at $4 82½@$4 82¾ for prime bankers' 60-day bills, and $4 84½@$4 84¾ for demand.

Gold was weak at the opening, on the improvement in consols at London, and declined from 109⅞ to 109⅜, but late in the day the market became firmer and more active, and the price advanced to 110, at which the closing sales were made. The cause of the advance was a cable dispatch announcing the action of Roumania, which revived the war feeling in the Gold Room and on the Stock Exchange. Cash gold loaned early in the day at flat to 1 ₱ cent. for carrying; but afterward the demand increased, and as high as 1-64 ₱ cent. per diem was paid by borrowers. The closing loans were made at 3 ₱ cent. per annum for use.

Government bonds were a fraction lower than on Saturday, with the principal activity in new 1865s, coupon, and 1867s, coupon. The former sold at 112¾, and the latter at 115¼@115⅜. New 5s sold at 114⅜. In railroad bonds there was a further improvement in Hannibal and St. Joseph convertible, which sold up to 81, against 80 at the close on Saturday. Chicago and North-western consolidated gold coupons were steady at 95½. Milwaukee and St. Paul, La Crosse Division, declined to 102⅜, and do. consolidated sinking funds, to 88½. New-York Central registered firsts were steady at 119½. New-Jersey Central convertible sold at 88, but at the close were offered at 87¼, with 87 bid. Lehigh and Wilkesbarre consolidated sold at 69. State bonds were dull and neglected.

UNITED STATES TREASURY, NEW-YORK, Oct. 23, 1876.

Gold receipts	$774,076 01
Gold payments	134,438 13
Gold balances	49,787,865 02
Currency receipts	612,936 55
Currency payments	994,726 67
Currency balances	40,575,069 83
Customs	304,000 00

CLOSING QUOTATIONS—OCT. 23.

	Saturday.	Monday.
American gold	110⅜	110
United States 4½s, 1891, coup	111	110⅜
United States 5s, 1881, coup	111½	111⅝
United States 5-20s, 1867, coup	115⅜	115½
Bills on London	₱4 83	₱4 82½@₱4 82⅝
New-York Central	104⅝	104¼
Rock Island	102⅜	102¼
Pacific Mail	24¾	25
Milwaukee and St. Paul	29⅜	29
Milwaukee and St. Paul Pref	61	59⅞
Lake Shore	60¾	60¾
Chicago and North-western	41⅞	40⅝
Chicago and North-western Pref	64	63
Western Union	71⅞	72⅛
Union Pacific	63½	63
Delaware, Lack. and Western	78	78¼
New-Jersey Central	37⅝	37
Delaware and Hudson Canal	75	74⅜
Morris and Essex	95	95
Panama	127	127
Erie	11¾	11½
Ohio and Mississippi	11⅜	11⅜
Harlem	135	135½
Hannibal and St. Joseph	14½	16
Hannibal and St. Joseph Pref	26	29½
Michigan Central	48¼	48¼
Illinois Central	84½	83¼

CALIFORNIA MINING STOCKS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—The following are the closing official prices of mining stocks to-day:

Consolidated Virginia	5 3/8	Crown Point	1 1/4
California	5 8/16	Yellow Jacket	25
Segregated Belcher	70	Alpha	4 5/16
Ophir	52	Belcher

SHIPPING.

CUNARD LINE B. & N. A. R. M. S. P. CO.
NOTICE.

With the view of diminishing the chances of collision the steamers of this line take a specified course for all seasons of the year.

On the outward passage from Queenstown to New-York or Boston, crossing meridian of 50 at 43 latitude, or nothing to the north of 43.

On the homeward passage, crossing the meridian of 10 at 42, or nothing to the north of 42.

FROM NEW-YORK FOR LIVERPOOL AND QUEENSTOWN.
RUSSIA....WED., Oct. 25 | ALGERIA....WED., Nov. 8
CYTHIA....WED., Nov. 1 | BOTHNIA....WED., Nov. 15

Steamers marked ~ do not carry steerage passengers. Cabin passage, $80, $100, and $130, gold, according to accommodation. Return tickets on favorable terms. Steerage tickets to and from all parts of Europe at very low rates. Freight and passage office, No. 4 Bowling green. CHAS. G. FRANCKLYN, Agent.

PASSENGERS PER STEAM-SHIP RUSSIA
Wednesday, from the Cunard Wharf, foot of Grand st., Jersey City, at 10:30 A. M., by DENNIS DAY, Oct. 25, 1876. CHAS. G. FRANCKLYN,
No. 4 Bowling green, New-York.

WHITE STAR LINE.
FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL. CARRYING UNITED STATES MAIL.

The steamers of this line take the Lane Routes recommended by Lieut. Maury, U. S. N., going south of the Banks on the passage to Queenstown at the year round.

ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1:30 P. M.
BRITANNIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 11, 1:30 P. M.
GERMANIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 25, at noon
ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Dec. 2, at 5:30 A. M.

From White Star Dock, Pier No. 53 North River.

The steamers are uniform in size and unsurpassed in appointments. The saloon, staterooms, smoking and bath rooms are amidships, where the noise and motion are least felt, affording a degree of comfort hitherto unattainable at sea.

Rates—Saloon $80 and $100, gold; return tickets on favorable terms; steerage, $23.

For inspection of plans and other information apply at the Company's offices, No. 37 Broadway, New-York.
R. J. CORTIS, Agent.

ONLY DIRECT LINE TO FRANCE.
THE GENERAL TRANSATLANTIC COMPANY'S MAIL STEAMERS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND HAVRE, Calling at PLYMOUTH (G. B.) for the landing of Passengers.

Cabins provided with electric bells. Sailing from Pier No. 43 North River, foot of Barrow st., as follows:
*ST. LAURENT, Lacheneur.....Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 3 P. M.
FRANCE, Trudelle.....Saturday, Oct. 28, at 3 P. M.
ST. GERMAIN, Recuon.....Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7:30 A.M.

PRICE OF PASSAGE IN GOLD, (including wine,) first cabin, $110 to $120, according to accommodation; Second cabin, $75; third cabin, $40. Return tickets at reduced rates, viz: $200, $223, with superior accommodation, including wine, bedding, and utensils without extra charge. Steamers marked thus* do not carry steerage passengers.

The passengers of ST. LAURENT are requested to be on board on TUESDAY, Oct. 24, at 3 P. M.
LOUIS DE BEBIAN Agent, 55 Broadway.

LIVERPOOL AND GREAT WESTERN STEAM COMPANY. (LIMITED)
LIVERPOOL, (Via Queenstown.)
CARRYING THE UNITED STATES MAIL.
TUESDAY.

Leaving Pier No. 46 North River as follows:
MONTANA.....Oct. 24, at 10 A. M.
NEVADA.....Oct. 31, at 3 P. M.
WISCONSIN.....Nov. 7, at 9:30 A. M.
WYOMING.....Nov. 14, at 3 P. M.
DAKOTA.....Nov. 21, at 9 A. M.

RATES FOR PASSENGERS REDUCED.
Steerage, $26; intermediate, $40; cabin, $75 to $90, according to state-room. Offices, No. 29 Broadway.
WILLIAMS & GUION.

ATLAS MAIL LINE.
BI-MONTHLY SERVICE TO JAMAICA, HAYTI, COLOMBIA, and ASPINWALL, and to PANAMA and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall.) First-class full-powered iron screw steamers, from Pier No. 51 North River.

For KINGSTON (Jam.) and HAYTI.
ATLAS.....Nov. 1
CLARIBEL.....About Nov. 20

For HAYTI, COLOMBIA, ISTHMUS OF PANAMA, and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall.)
ANDES.....Nov. 4
ALPS.....Nov. 20

Superior first-class passenger accommodations.
PIM, FORWOOD & CO., Agents,
No. 56 Wall st.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE.
SAILING FROM PIER NO 29 NORTH RIVER, TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS, and SATURDAYS at 3 P. M., FOR CHARLESTON, S. C., FLORIDA, THE GULF OF MEXICO, AND SOUTH-WEST.

CLEOPATRA.....TUESDAY.....Oct. 24
CHAMPION.....THURSDAY.....Oct. 26
CHARLESTON.....SATURDAY.....Oct. 28

STEAMSHIP PASSENGER ACCOMMODATIONS.
Insurance to destination one-half of one per cent.
Goods forwarded free of commission. Passenger ticket and bills of lading issued and signed at the office of
JAMES W. QUINTARD & CO., Agents,
No. 177 West st., corner Warren.
Or W. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 5 Bowling Green.
Or BENTLEY D. HASELL, General Agent
Great Southern Freight Line, 317 Broadway.

ANCHOR LINE U. S. MAIL STEAMERS, NEW-YORK AND GLASGOW.
California, Oct. 28, 1 P. M. | Victoria, Nov. 11, 1 P. M.
Ethiopia, Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Bolivia, Nov. 18, 7 A. M.
TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, OR DERRY.
Cabins $65 to $80, according to accommodations; Intermediate, $35; Steerage, $28.
NEW-YORK AND LONDON.
Australia, Oct. 28, noon. | Anglia, Nov. 18, 7 A. M.
Livonia, Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Utopia, Nov. 25, 11 A. M.
Cabins, $55 to $70. Steerage, $28. Cabin excursion tickets at reduced rates. Drafts issued for any amount at current rates. Company's Pier 20, and 21, North River, N. Y. HENDERSON BROTHERS, Agents, No. 7 Bowling Green.

NORTH GERMAN LLOYD, STEAM-SHIP LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, SOUTHAMPTON, AND BREMEN.
Company's Pier, foot of 20th, Hoboken.
MOSEL.....Sat., Oct. 28 | RHEIN.....Sat., Nov. 11
WESER.....Sat., Nov. 4 | ODER.....Sat., Nov. 18

RATES OF PASSAGE FROM NEW-YORK TO SOUTHAMPTON, HAVRE OR BREMEN:
First cabin.....$100 gold
Second cabin.....50 gold
Steerage.....30 currency
Return tickets at reduced rates. Prepaid steerage certificates, $32 currency, for friends or passage apply to OELRICHS & CO., No. 2 Bowling Green.

NATIONAL LINE, Piers Nos. 44 and 47 N. River.
FOR LONDON.
Canada.....Saturday, Oct. 28 at 2 P. M.
FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.
The Queen.....Tuesday, Nov. 7 at 9 A. M.
Italy.....Saturday, Oct. 28, 2 P. M.
Cabin passage, $55, $60, or $70, currency. Return tickets, $100, $110, or $120, currency. Steerage passage, $28, currency. Drafts issued from £1 upward at current rates.
Company's office, No. 69 Broadway.
F. W. J. HURST, Manager.

AMERICAN STEAM-SHIP LINE
Between Philad'a & Liverpool, calling at Queenstown, Thursdays from Philad'a. Wednesdays from Liverpool. Steamers to sail from Philadelphia as follows:
Ezard Clive.....Oct. 26 | *City of New-York.Nov. 16
Ohio.....Nov. 2 | Indiana.....Nov. 23
Pennsylvania.....Nov. 9 | Illinois.....Nov. 30

Price of passage in currency:
Cabin, $75 to $100. Intermediate, $40. Steerage, $23.
PETER WRIGHT & SONS, Gen. Agents, Philad'a.
No. 42 Broad st., New-York.
JOHN McDONALD, No. 8 Battery place, New-York.

INMAN LINE.—MAIL STEAMERS.
FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.
CITY OF CHESTER, Saturday, Oct. 28, at 1 P. M.
CITY OF RICHMOND, Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7 A. M.
CITY OF BERLIN, Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 A. M.

CABIN, $80 and $100, Gold. Return tickets on favorable terms. STEERAGE, $23, Currency. Drafts issued at lowest rates.
Saloons, State-rooms, Smoking, and Bath-rooms amidships. JOHN G. DALE, Agent,
Nos. 15 and 33 Broadway, N. Y.

FOR SAVANNAH, GA.,
THE FLORIDA PORTS,
AND THE SOUTH AND SOUTH-WEST.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE, CENTRAL RAILROAD OF GEORGIA, AND ATLANTIC AND GULF RAILROAD.

WEDNESDAYS AND SATURDAYS.

E. LIVINGSTON, Capt. MALLORY, WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, from Pier No 10 East River, at 3 P. M.
MURRAY, FERRIS & CO., Agents,
No. 62 South st.

SAN SALVADOR, Capt. NICKERSON, SATURDAY, Oct. 28, from Pier No. 43 North River, at 3 P. M.
GEO. YONGE, Agent,
No. 409 Broadway.

Insurance on this line ONE-HALF PER CENT. Superior accommodations for passengers.
Through rates and bills of lading in connection with Central Railroads of Georgia, to all points.
Through rates and bills of lading in connection with the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad and Florida steamers.
GEORGE LAW,
Agent Central Railroad of Georgia,
No. 409 Broadway.

PANAMA TRANSIT AND PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP LINES.

FOR CALIFORNIA, JAPAN, CHINA, AUSTRALIA, NEW-ZEALAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA, OREGON, &c.
Sailing from Pier No. 42 North river
FOR SAN FRANCISCO, via the ISTHMUS OF PANAMA
Steam-ship ACAPULCO.....Tuesday, Oct. 31
connecting for Central America and South Pacific ports.

From SAN FRANCISCO to JAPAN and CHINA.
Steam-ship CITY OF TOKIO.....Wednesday, Nov. 1
From San Francisco to Honolulu Islands, Australia, and New-Zealand.
Steam-ship CITY OF SYDNEY.....Nov. 8
For freight or passage apply to
WM. P. CLYDE & CO., or H. J. SUDLAM, Superintendent
No. 5 Bowling Green, Pier 42, N. R., foot Canal st.

NEW-YORK, HAVANA, AND MEXICAN MAIL S. S. LINE.
Steamers leave Pier No. 3 North River at 3 P. M.
FOR HAVANA DIRECT.
CITY OF NEW-YORK.....Thursday, Oct. 26
CITY OF HAVANA.....Saturday, Oct. 28
CITY OF VERA CRUZ.....Wednesday, Nov. 8
FOR VERA CRUZ AND NEW-ORLEANS, Via Havana, Progreso, Campeachy, Tuxpan, and Tampico.
CITY OF MEXICO.....Saturday, Nov. 4
For freight or passage apply to
E. ALEXANDER & SONS, Nos. 31 and 33 Broadway.
Steamers will leave New-Orleans Oct. 22 and Nov. 12 for Vera Cruz and all the above ports.

NEW-YORK AND HAVANA DIRECT MAIL LINE.
These first-class steamships sail regularly at 3 P. M., from Pier No. 14 North River as follows:
CRESCENT CITY.....TUESDAY, Oct. 24
COLUMBUS.....WEDNESDAY, Nov. 1
Accommodations unsurpassed. For freight or passage apply to WM. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 5 Bowling Green. HOWELLER, LULING & CO., Agents in Havana.

SHIPPING.

STATE LINE.
NEW-YORK TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, DUBLIN, BELFAST, AND LONDONDERRY.

These first-class full-powered steamers will sail from Pier No. 42 North River, foot of Canal st.
STATE OF NEVADA.....Thursday, Oct. 26
STATE OF INDIANA.....Thursday, Nov. 2
STATE OF GEORGIA.....Thursday, Nov. 9
STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA.....Thursday, Nov. 16

And every alternate Thursday thereafter. First cabin, $60, $65, and $70, according to accommodations; return tickets, $80. Steerage at lowest rates. Apply to
AUSTIN BALDWIN & CO., Agents,
No. 73 Broadway, New-York.

STEERAGE tickets at No. 45 Broadway, and at the company's pier, foot of Canal st., North River.

WILSON LINE FOR SOUTHAMPTON AND HULL.
Sailing from Pier No. 53 North River, as follows:
NAVARINO.....Oct. 28 | OTHELLO.....Nov. 18
COLOMBO.....Nov. 4 | MINDORO.....Dec. 2

First cabin, $70, currency; second cabin, $45; intermediate, excursion tickets on very favorable terms. Through tickets issued to Continental and Baltic ports. Apply for full particulars to CHARLES L. WRIGHT & CO., No. 58 South st.

HAMBURG American Packet Company's Line
for PLYMOUTH, CHERBOURG, and HAMBURG.
GELLERT.....Nov. 2 | WESTPHALIA.....Nov. 9
GELLERT.....Nov. 6 | SILESIA.....Nov. 16

Rates of passage to Plymouth, London, Cherbourg, Hamburg, and all points in England. First cabin, $140 gold; Second Cabin, $80 gold; Steerage, $30, currency.
KUNHARDT & CO., C. B. RICHARD & BROS.,
General Agents, General Passenger Agents,
61 Broad st., N. Y. 61 Broadway, N. Y.

RAILROADS.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW-JERSEY.
CAMDEN AND AMBOY LINE.—Serry stations in New-York, foot of Liberty st., and foot of Clarkson st., up town. Freight station, foot of Liberty st.

Commencing Oct. 2, 1876—Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., as follows:

5:40 A. M.—MAIL TRAIN for Easton, Belvidere, Bethlehem, Bath, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamanend, Wilkesburre, Scranton, Carbondale, &c.; connects at Bound Brook for Trenton and Philadelphia at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

7:15 A. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

8:45 A. M.—MORNING EXPRESS, daily, (except Sundays) for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Harrisburg, and the West. Connects at Easton for Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Towanda, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Danville, Williamsport, &c.

*1:00 P. M.—EXPRESS for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesburre, Scranton, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Hazleton, Reading, Columbia, Lancaster, Ephrata, Pottsville, Harrisburg, &c.

4:00 P. M.—For High Bridge Branch, Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, and Mauch Chunk; connects at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

*4:30 P. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

5:15 P. M.—For Bound Brook.

*5:30 P. M.—EVENING EXPRESS, daily, for Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Towanda, Reading, Harrisburg, and the West.

*8:30 P. M.—For Easton.

Boats leave foot of Clarkson st., up-town, at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05, 10:05, 11:35 A. M.; 12:50, 1:50, 3:20, 4:20, 5:20, 6:20, 7:20, 10:05, 7:50 P. M.

Connection is made by Clarkson Street Ferry at Jersey City with all trains marked *

For trains to local points see time-table at stations.

NEW-YORK AND LONG BRANCH DIVISION.
ALL-RAIL LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, SEA GIRT, AND SQUAN.

Time-table of Oct. 2, 1876: Trains leave New-York from foot of Liberty st., North River, at 8:15, 11:45 A. M., 4:45 P. M.

From foot of Clarkson st. at 11:35 A. M., 4:20 P. M.

Stages to and from Keyport connect at Matawan Station with all trains.

NEW-YORK AND PHILADELPHIA NEW LINE.
BOUND BROOK ROUTE.

For Trenton, Philadelphia, and the Centennial.
Commencing MONDAY, Oct. 9, 1876, trains

Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., at 5:40, 6:45, 7:45, 9:15 A. M., 1:30, 5, 6:30 P. M.

Leave foot of Clarkson st. at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05 A. M., 12:50, 4:20, 6:20 P. M.

Leave Philadelphia from station North Pennsylvania Railroad, 3d and Berks sts., at 7:30, 9:30 A. M., 1:30, 3:20, 5, 8:30 P. M. Leave Centennial Grounds at 7:15, 9: 5 A. M., 1:15, 3, 4:50, 6:10 P. M.

PULLMAN DRAWING ROOM CARS are attached to the 7:45 and 9:15 A. M. trains from New-York and to trains leaving Centennial Grounds at 4:50 and 6:10 P. M.

*All trains connect at Trenton Junction to and from Trenton.

Leave Trenton for New-York at 5:45, 8:15, 10:20 A. M., 2:13, 3:45, 5:45, 7:20 P. M.

Rates for passengers and freight as low as by other routes.

CENTENNIAL PASSENGERS delivered at the main entrance to the Centennial Grounds.
H. P. BALDWIN,
Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.
GREAT TRUNK LINE
AND UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

Trains leave New-York, via Desbrosses and Cortlandt Street Ferries, as follows:

Express for Harrisburg, Pittsburg, the West and South, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, 9:30 A. M., 6 and 8:30 P. M. Sunday, 6 and 8:30 P. M.

For Williamsport, Lock Haven, Corry, and Erie at 2:40 and 8:30 P. M., connecting at Corry for Titusville, Petroleum Centre, and the Oil Regions.

For Baltimore, Washington, and the south, "Limited Washington Express" of Pullman Parlor Cars daily, except Sunday, 9:30 A. M.; arrive Washington, 4:15 P. M. Regular at 8:40 A. M., 2:40, and 9 P. M. 8th day 9 P. M.

Express for Philadelphia, 7:30, 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30 2:40, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8:30, 9 P. M. and 12 night. Accommodation 7 A. M. and 4:10 P. M. Sunday 8 A. M., 5, 6, 7, 8:30, and 9 P. M. Emigrant and second class 2:40 P. M.

For Centennial Depot at 5:30, 6:30, 7:20, 8 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30, 3, and 4 P. M. On Sunday 8 A. M. Returning, leave Centennial Depot at 7:15, 8:15, 10:50 A. M., 1, 1:15, 3, 3:30, 4:45, 5:30, 6, 6:50, and 7:05 P. M. On Sunday at 7:20 A. M. and 7 P. M.

For trains to Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway, Princeton, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Flemington, Belvidere, and other points, see local schedules at all Ticket offices.

Trains arrive: From Pittsburg, 2:20 and 10:30 A. M. and 12:20 P. M. daily; 10:10 A. M. and 6:50 P. M. daily, except Monday. From Washington and Baltimore, 6:30, 9:40 A. M., 4:10, 5:10, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 5:30, 9:40 A. M. From Philadelphia, 3:05, 6:20, 6:30, 8:40, 10:10, 11:20, 11:30 A. M., 2:10, 3:50, 4:10, 5:10, 6:10, 6:50, 7:35, 7:40, 8:40, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 5:05, 6:20, 8:30, 9:40, 10:10, 11:30 A. M., 6:50 and 10:20 P. M.

Ticket offices, 22d and 944 Broadway, No. 1 Astor House, and foot of Desbrosses and Cortlandt sts. No. 4 Court st., Brooklyn. Nos. 114, 116, and 118 Hudson st., Hoboken. Depot Jersey City. Emigrant Ticket Office, No. 5 Battery place.

D. M. BOYD, Jr., General Passenger Agent.
FRANK THOMSON, General Manager.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL AND HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.—After Sept. 18, 1876, through trains will leave Grand Central Depot:

8:00 A. M.—Chicago and Northern Express, with drawing-room cars through to Rochester and St. Albans, Vt.

10:30 A. M. special Chicago Express, with drawing-room cars to Rochester, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls.

11:50 A. M., North-ro and Western Express.

3:30 P. M., special Albany, Troy, and Western Express. Connects at East Albany with night express for the West.

4:00 P. M., Montreal Express, with sleeping cars for New-York to Montreal.

6:0 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Watertown and Canandaigua. Also for Montreal via Plattsburg.

6:30 P. M., Pacific Express, daily, with sleeping cars, for Rochester, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Cleveland, Louisville, and St. Louis. Also for Chicago, via both L. S. and M. C. Railroads.

11:00 P. M., express, with sleeping cars, for Albany and Troy. Way trains as per local Time Table.

Tickets for sale at Nos. 252 and 413 Broadway, and at Westcott Express Company's offices, Nos. 7 Park place, 785 and 942 Broadway, New-York, and 333 Washington st., Brooklyn.

C. B. MEEKER, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.
ARRANGEMENT OF PASSENGER TRAINS, April 16 1876.

Leave depots foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses sts., at 7 A. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Mount Carmel, Shamokin, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, &c., connecting with trains for Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West.

12 M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, &c., making close connection for Reading, Pottsville, and Harrisburg.

4 P. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, and Mauch Chunk, stopping at all stations.

6:30 P. M.—Night Express, daily, for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West. Pullman's sleeping coaches attached.

General Eastern office corner Church and Cortlandt sts. CHARLES H. CUMMINGS, Agent.
ROBERT H. SAYRE, Superintendent and Engineer

ERIE RAILWAY.
Summer Arrangement of through trains, 1876. From Chambers Street Depot. (For 23d st. see note below.)

9:00 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Cincinnati and Chicago Day Express. Drawing-room coaches to Buffalo and sleeping coaches to Cincinnati and Detroit. Sleeping coaches to Chicago.

10:45 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Express Mail for Buffalo and the West. Sleeping coach to Buffalo.

7:00 P. M., daily, Pacific express to the West. Sleeping coaches through to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cincinnati, and Chicago, without change. Hotel dining coaches to Cleveland and Chicago.

7:00 P. M., except Sundays, Western Emigrant train. Above trains leave Twenty-third Street Ferry at 8:45 and 10:15 A. M., and 6:45 P. M.

For local trains see time-tables and cards in hotels and depots.

JNO. N. ABBOTT, General Passenger Agent.

NEW-YORK, NEW-HAVEN, AND HARTFORD RAILROAD,
After June 11, 1876, trains leave Grand Central Depot (42d st.) for New-Canaan Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 4:40, and 5:45 P. M.; Danbury and Norwalk Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 3:15, and 4:40 P. M.; Naugatuck Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; Housatonic Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; New-Haven and Northampton Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M. for Newport at 8:05 A. M. and 1 P. M.; Boston and Albany Railroad at 8:05 and 11 A. M., 3 and 9 P. M., (9 P. M. on Sundays) Boston (via Shore Line) at 1 and 10 P. M., 12 P. M. on Sundays.)

Way trains as per local time tables.
J. T. MOODY, Superintendent New-York Division.
E. H. KELLOGG, Vice President, New-York.

WICKFORD RAILROAD ROUTE TO NEWPORT, R. I.—Passengers for this line take 8:05 A. M. and 7 P. M. express trains from Grand Central Depot, arriving at 4:18 and 8 P. M. at Newport.
THEODORE WARREN, Superintendent.

FINE ARTS.

ART.
NOW ON EXHIBITION
at the Schenck Art Gallery, No. 60 Liberty st.,
A CHOICE COLLECTION OF AMERICAN AND FOREIGN OIL PAINTINGS, to be sold at auction on THURSDAY and FRIDAY Oct. 26 and 27, at 12 o'clock each day.
EDWARD SCHENCK, Auctioneer.

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST.—$20 REWARD—ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON, between 47th st. and 5th av. and 47th st. and 4th st., Madison av., a pear-shaped, black pearl breast pin. The finder will receive the above reward on returning it to No. 1 West 47th st.

FINANCIAL.

VERMILYE & CO., BANKERS
16 and 18 Nassau st., New-York.

DEALERS IN ALL ISSUES OF GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
NEW-YORK CITY
AND BROOKLYN BONDS.
BUY AND SELL ON COMMISSION
RAILWAY STOCKS, BONDS, AND GOLD.

INTEREST ON DEPOSITS.
WASHB'N R. VERMILYE, DONALD MACKAY
JAS. A. TROWBRIDGE LATHAM A. FISH

ADRIAN H. MULLER, Auctioneer.
EXECUTORS' SALE OF STOCKS AND BONDS.

ADRIAN H. MULLER & SON will sell at auction on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, at 12:30 o'clock, at the Exchange Sales-room, No. 111 Broadway, New-York,
By order of Executors:
140 shares New-York National Exchange Bank, $100 each.
50 shares Commercial Bank, Brooklyn, $100 each.
90 shares Mechanics' Bank, Brooklyn, $50 each.
100 shares Manufacturers' National Bank, Brooklyn, $30 each.
40 shares Hoffman Fire Insurance Co., $50 each.
110 shares Farragut Fire Insurance Co., $50 each.
53 shares Montauk Fire Insurance Co., $30 each.
150 shares Brooklyn Fire Insurance Co., $17 each.
40 shares Mercantile Marine Insurance Co., $50 each.
61 shares Lafayette Fire Insurance Co., $50 each.
80 shares Phenix Fire Insurance Co., $50 each.
20 shares Mechanics' Fire Insurance Co., $50 each.
8 shares Hope Fire Insurance Co., $40 each.
6 shares Lamar Fire Insurance Co., $100 each.
35 shares Citizens' Gas-light Co., Brooklyn, $20 each.
$2,250 Nassau Gas-light Co. registered certificates.
100 shares Nassau Gas-light Co., Brooklyn, $25 each.
10 shares Bushwick Avenue Railroad Co., $100 each.
100 shares Coney Island Horse Railroad Co., $100 each.
14 shares Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Co., $100 each.
$10,000 State of Arkansas seven per cent. levee bonds.
$10,000 State of Arkansas seven per cent. bonds, issued to Arkansas Central Railway Company.
$12,000 State of Arkansas seven per cent. bonds, issued to Mississippi, Ouachita, and Red River Railroad Company.

Detroit, Monroe and Toledo R. R. Co.'s FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

DUE 1906. Interest Seven Per Cent., due February and August. Total issue, $934,000 on 62 miles of road, WITH NO OTHER DEBT OF ANY DESCRIPTION.

PRINCIPAL and INTEREST GUARANTEED by the LAKE SHORE and MICHIGAN SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

A LIMITED AMOUNT FOR SALE BY

CHASE & ATKINS, Bankers,
NO. 18 BROAD STREET, N. Y.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL
IS PREPARED TO ISSUE
CIRCULAR NOTES
AND
LETTERS OF CREDIT
TO TRAVELERS,
available in all parts of the world.
RICHARD BELL,
CHAS. F. SMITHERS, } Agents.
NOS. 59 AND 61 WALL ST.

DELAWARE BRIDGE COMPANY,
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
TOTAL ISSUE $350,000.
Interest 7 per cent., payable April and October.
PRINCIPAL DUE OCT. 1, 1915.

A portion of the Delaware Bridge is under lease to the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad Company, (United Companies of New-Jersey,) for 995 years, at an annual rental of $24,500.

For sale by DAVIDSON & JONES,
Nos. 59 and 61 Wall st.

HOLDERS OF THE WESTERN EXTENSION bonds of the New-York and Oswego Midland Railroad Company are hereby notified that their bonds must be deposited with GEORGE W. FARLEE, Secretary, at No. 25 Nassau st., New York City, on or before Nov. 1, 1876, in order to get the benefit of the purchase at foreclosure sale.

GEORGE OPDYKE,
HENRY WHEELER,
WM. H. GUION, } Committee.
NEW-YORK, Oct. 23, 1876.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,
NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE COMMERCIAL and TRAVELERS CREDITS AVAILABLE in all PARTS of the WORLD.

ELECTIONS.

OFFICE OF THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, NO. 61 LIBERTY STREET,
NEW-YORK, Oct. 21, 1876.

AN ELECTION FOR DIRECTORS OF THIS Company will be held at the office on MONDAY, the 6th day of November next, from 12 to 1 o'clock P. M. WM. RAYNOR, Secretary.

DIVIDENDS.

A MEETING OF THE HOLDERS OF THE City of Vicksburg (Miss.) Bonds will be held at the office of William Alexander Smith & Co., No. 40 Wall st., on TUESDAY next, 24th inst., at 3 o'clock P. M. Business of great importance will come before the meeting and a full attendance is earnestly requested.
W. H. HAYS, Chairman of Committee.

THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK,
NEW-YORK, Oct. 20, 1876.

A DIVIDEND OF THREE AND ONE-HALF per Cent., free of taxes, has been declared on the capital of this bank, payable on and after Nov. 1.
The transfer books will be closed from this date, and reopen on the 2d November. E. WILSON, Cashier.

THE NOVEMBER COUPONS OF THE REAL ESTATE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, guaranteed by the Mercantile Trust Company, will be paid at the office of the company, Equitable Building, No. 120 Broadway, on the 1st day of November next.
LOUIS FITZGERALD, President.

THE COUPONS OF THE BLEECKER Street and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company Bonds due July 1, 1875, January and July 1, 1876, will be paid on presentation at No. 153 West 44th st. by
JOHN M. HARLOW, Trustee.
NEW-YORK, October, 1876.

PACIFIC BANK, NEW-YORK, Oct. 17, 1876.
THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS HAVE THIS day declared a quarterly dividend of Three per Cent., payable on and after the 1st day of November next. R. BUCK, Cashier.

SAVINGS BANKS.

UNION DIME SAVINGS BANK,
Nos. 396 and 398 CANAL ST., corner of Laight st.
Open daily, 10 to 3; and Monday evenings, 6 to 7.
ASSETS OVER TWELVE MILLION DOLLARS.
SURPLUS OVER ONE MILLION, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.
N. G. TAYLOR, President.
G. S. CHAPIN, Treasurer. T. FLOYD JONES, Secretary

AUCTION SALES.

A PEREMPTORY SALE,
RICHARD V. HARNETT, Auctioneer,
Will sell at auction on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25,
at 10 o'clock A. M. at
No 18 East 40th st. between 5th and Madison avs., from Chambers street,
the large and valuable collection of oil-paintings by the following artists: Gentz, De Smol, Storkenburgh, Fitzpatrick, Cole, Bonnin, Achenbach, Tomasini, Freeman, Read, Hilbner, Sonntag, Schubert, Werner, Jacquesson, Corcoset, Cordova, Roque, Hals, Hoguet, Talt, and others; superb bronzes, &c.

Rich rosewood parlor suites, pier and mantel mirrors of the most beautiful designs, Phelan & Collender billiard table, sets of handsome and satin-damask window-hangings, moquet and Brussels carpets, chandeliers and gas-fixtures, carved black-walnut bookcases, —feet high, and — feet wide, library furniture, rosewood, black-walnut, and oak bedsteads and bedroom suites, bedding, black-walnut buffet, black-walnut extension dining-room table and chairs, china and glassware, black-walnut hall hat-stand with mirror, kitchen furniture, refrigerator, and all that belongs to a first-class residence.

Catalogues and permits to inspect pictures at auctioneer's office, No. 111 Broadway, basement.

By JOHN H. DRAPER & CO., Auctioneers.
THE DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA AND WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY
Will sell
100,000 TONS
SCRANTON COAL
at public auction, on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Exchange place.
SAMUEL SLOAN, President.

LACES AT AUCTION.—BURDETT & DENNIS will sell on Tuesday, 24th, at 11 o'clock, within their store, No. 29 Burling slip, (by order Oliver Fiske, Esq., United States Marshal,) one lace shawl, one appliqué shaw, three sets collars and cuffs, three collars, one pair sleeves, one handkerchief, one lace barbe, ten metres lace, &c., &c., seized for violation of revenue laws. Goods will be on exhibition and catalogues ready morning of sale.

MEETINGS.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FARMERS' CLUB.—Regular weekly meeting TO-DAY, (Tuesday,) at 1 o'clock P. M., in Room No. 24 Cooper Building. All interested in agricultural improvement are invited at attend. Admission free. NATHAN C. ELY, President.
JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Secretary.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE.—A REGULAR MEETing of this Institute will be held on THURSDAY, the 2d day of November, at 8 o'clock P. M., at its rooms in the Cooper Union.
CHAS. McK. LEOSER, Recording Secretary.

DENTISTRY.

DR. T. G. WAIT, NO. 45 EAST 23D ST., near Madison av.—Fire-class dentistry of every description, at low, popular prices. Call and examine.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.
The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at
No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts.
Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.
ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

A PRIVATE FAMILY ON 34TH ST., between 8th and 9th avs., wishes to rent to a gentleman and wife, or two single gentlemen, a second-story front sitting-room, with hall bed-room attached, with or without board; references required. Address G. L., Box No. 307 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

BROOKLYN HEIGHTS.—THREE MINUTES' walk from Wall Street Ferry, choice location, first-class board, at reasonable rates. Please inquire at No. 5 Montague Terrace, third house south of Montague st.; references exchanged: fine 2d and 3d story rooms.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAS TAKEN THE House No. 18 West 25th st., and would respectfully solicit the patronage of those wanting good and well-furnished rooms for the Winter.
E. P. GARDINER.

NO. 28 WEST 12TH ST., WEST OF 5TH AV.—With board, hand-omely furnished rooms, large and small, suited for a family or party of gentlemen; house and table first-class.

NO. 43 WEST 28TH ST., NEAR BROADWAY, several large hand-ome rooms to let, with or without board, in newly furnished first-class house; references exchanged.

FIFTH AV., NO. 81—FIRST DOOR BELOW 16TH ST.—M. E. GAGE.—A suite of three rooms, front, together or separately, with board; also, fourth floor room; references exchanged.

HANDSOME, NEWLY-FURNISHED SUITES of rooms, with board; also single rooms and elegant board, in a first-class location, near station of elevated railroad. No. 347 West 34th st.

ONE SUITE OF ROOMS, AND ONE SINGLE room, elegant and convenient in every respect, with board; family occupying their own house, No. 43 West 22d st.; highest references exchanged.

NO. 58 WEST 33D ST.
Large, handsomely-furnished rooms on second floor to let, with first-class board; one room on fourth floor; terms moderate; references exchanged.

CHOICE SECOND-STORY FRONT ROOM, large bedroom adjoining, also commodious single room, with good board; dining-room on parlor floor. No. 36 West 12th st.

NO. 54 EAST 49TH ST.—A PARTY OWNING their house have a second floor, also other rooms, en suite or separately, with excellent board; references.

N

ELECTION FRAUDS.

THE TACTICS OF TAMMANY HALL.

BOSS FRAUDS IN NATURALIZATION AND REGISTRATION—A SAMPLE OF TILDEN'S "REFORM" DEMOCRACY — PREPARING FOR OVER TWENTY THOUSAND FRAUDULENT VOTES IN THIS CITY AND BROOKLYN—THE REVISION OF THE REGISTRATION TO BEGIN TO-DAY.

The disclosures made from day to day as to the methods of those working the Tammany machine leave no room for doubt as to the intention of the Democrats to perpetrate gross election frauds both in this City and Brooklyn, in order thereby to carry the State for Tilden. The Democratic politicians, with that sober second thought that comes even to them—though it does so only at rare intervals—seemed to have made the discovery a short time since that Tilden, with his sham reform and his "barrelful of greenbacks," was not able to carry the State by an honest and fair vote. How to counteract the tendency of the majority of the people, or at least render it futile, then became the task. One of the plans which was suggested and seems to have been acted on is that formerly in vogue under the distinguished exiles from Tammany Hall and the City, for whom Mr. Tilden, as Chairman of the State Committee, "worked the wires." This plan seems at the first blush a very simple and effective one, but the participants in it may find out within the coming fortnight that they have reckoned without their host. It is proposed to increase the Democratic vote of this City and Brooklyn by means of fraudulent devices to such an extent as to nullify and overcome the honest Republican majorities which will undoubtedly be given throughout the State. To accomplish this the Democratic politicians have gone to work in no hap-hazard way, but with an apparently well-designed and thorough scheme of fraud. A portion of this relates to the naturalizing of persons, which has been going on at an unusual rate during the past six weeks or more. United States District Attorney Bliss when questioned about the subject yesterday, said that he believed fully one-half those naturalized this Fall had obtained their papers through fraud. Some of them doubtless had been in the country for a sufficient length of time, but they were either unable or unwilling to bring their witnesses with them, and found it much easier to go to the Tammany Committee and get an accommodating witness to swear for them. Attempts have also been made to impose on the Republican Naturalization Committee. One of these instances occurred only a few days ago, and well exemplifies the desperate straits to which the Tammany Hall "strikers" are put. A man went to the head-quarters of the Tammany Hall Naturalization Committee and received a ticket entitling him to obtain his naturalization papers without paying any court fees. Armed with this he went to the Court of Common Pleas and appeared before Judge Robinson with a witness to swear for him. In answer to questions the applicant for citizenship stated that he had come to this country before the age of seventeen. This if true would entitle him to his papers without a previous declaration of intention. Judge Robinson then questioned the witness, who swore to having been acquainted with the applicant when the latter first came to this country. Still the Judge was not satisfied with the witness' testimony, and refused to naturalize the applicant. The latter, nothing daunted by this mishap, then tried to get naturalized in the Superior Court, but was too late. He then sallied forth from the Court-house and went back to the rooms of the Tammany Committee. What to do in the matter was something of a quandary. The committee could not send the man to the United States Courts with the Tammany Hall ticket because the Tammany Committee has deposited no funds with the clerks of the Federal courts to pay the court fees. By a trick a ticket was obtained from the Republican Committee and given to the man, who then proceeded to the United States Court. The officials, there, however, obtained wind of the matter by that time and were fully prepared to deal with the case. It was also discovered that the applicants' witness had become acquainted on the previous day with the man for whom he proposed to vouch. The applicant came into the United States Court and was told that he could become naturalized, but if he attempted it he would be immediately arrested. He desisted from all further attempts of the kind, as far as Federal courts are concerned. Subsequent inquiry elicited the fact that the man, though pretending to be a resident of this City, really resides in Jersey City. Several other attempts of this kind have been called to the attention of the authorities, and the offenders will be rigorously prosecuted.

The business of obtaining witnesses for persons seeking to become citizens has been carried on very systematically, as inquiry shows. All along Centre and Chambers streets in the vicinity of the City Hall may be found daily numerous men who make it their business—and it is a brisk one—to vouch as witnesses for the length of residence and the moral character of applicants for citizenship. There are ever twenty-five of such men, and they seem to have most prodigious and miscellaneous collections of friends and acquaintances. It is very remarkable also to note the great number of applicants who, according to their own story and that of their witnesses, came to this country before they were seventeen years of age. The fact is that the Tammany Hall men are scouring, as with a fine-tooth comb, through the lowest districts of the City, and gathering in heels of the vilest and most depraved persons, who are provided with witnesses and are then ground out as citizens. The Judges are imposed on by oaths and allegations of the convenient and accommodating witnesses, and have no alternative except to admit the applicants to the privileges of citizenship. A short time ago nearly fifty Italians, none of them speaking any English, were brought up in the Superior Court and made citizens by this process, though few of them, as far as could be ascertained, had been in the country for the requisite length of time.

Another portion of the same fraudulent scheme is somewhat ingenious. It is well known that enormous naturalization frauds were perpetrated in 1868 by Judges Barnard and McCunn. In that year alone it is estimated that over thirty thousand papers were fraudulently issued. These papers were used with great effect in swelling the enormous Democratic majorities in this City during the regency of the Tammany Ring. In succeeding years, however, very many of them were seized by Republican inspectors and Supervisors and destroyed. This was done in cases where the persons presenting the papers alleged in answer to inquiries that they had never been in court to obtain them, but had had the papers given them by some person or other. The persons who had their papers so taken from them have in very many instances not gone to the trouble of declaring their intentions, and of obtaining legitimate papers two years after such declaration, but have instead applied to the Superior and Supreme Court clerks and have obtained duplicate copies from the records of their former fraudulent papers. To obtain these they have stated that they lost their original papers. The new papers have been given them without hesitation, since no record was kept of the fraudulent papers destroyed. Many applicants, too, on finding out that they are suspected, desist from their action just before being naturalized in this City, and proceed over to Brooklyn or Jersey City, and are there duly initiated into the privileges of American citizenship. Such cases as these cannot be guarded against with the registration of the persons, and no feasible efforts can be made to check the outshining of fraudulent naturalization papers in this way. So much for the matter of fraud in the outshining of naturalization papers. Another aspect of the scheme of the unscrupulous Tammany leaders is in regard to the registration. Here arrangements have been made for repeating. Tramps, vagabonds, and the very worst kind of people have been approached and been provided with a bed for a night or two in various low lodging-houses. They have been induced to register at places in the respective districts as residing at these different lodging-houses. After registration, their lodging being no longer paid for, they have decamped. The intention is by this plan not to have these persons really vote, but to have others vote in their names. For this purpose the names of those registered, with the particulars of age, residence, &c., have been carefully kept. Many of the lodging-house keepers have also for a gratuity been induced to become ready to swear that the persons whose names are on the registry-lists have really resided in the lodging-houses for the requisite length of time. Large tenement-houses, too, have received bogus additions to the number of their inhabitants in the same way as the lodging-houses. In all these cases, however, the Supervisors of Election will strive to get at the exact state of affairs before election. This work, which is that of the verification of the registry, will begin to-day, and the intention is to make it as thorough as possible. In case persons attempt to vote from places in which they have not been actually residing during the thirty days previous to the election, they will be apprehended and summarily dealt with. The work of verification, of course, will not, from the nature of the case and the difficulties to be encountered, be so complete as to avoid all possible chance for fraud in this direction, but it will probably prove sufficiently thorough to prevent gross and glaring frauds, such as those over which Mr. Tilden, in the old Tammany days, was wont to throw the mantle of his protection. From present appearances there is no doubt that a great deal of work of a similar character is to be done in Brooklyn, where the ring politicians expect to meet with less difficulty than in this City, and should the matter be properly investigated there it will be found that the most outrageous election frauds are there contemplated and will be carried out unless they are checked by earnest and thorough measures. The matter is a very serious one since, as it appears, the Brooklyn Ring is working heartily in accord with their Democratic brethren of this City.

Another phase of the fraudulent scheme remains to be mentioned, and that is in regard to voting by persons who claim to be natives, but who really are not. The most glaring and palpable kind of fraud has hitherto been attempted in this manner. Men, and generally young men, who spoke with a decidedly foreign accent, or who were hardly able to speak the language at all, have registered as natives of this country, and have boldly demanded the right to vote. They vote simply on the strength of their own allegations and oath, and require no witnesses. They are by far the most dangerous class of fraudulent voters, as well as the most difficult at times to detect. They are the ones who in great measure go to make up the hordes of repeaters. Some of them, however, have been "spotted," and may come to grief where they least expect it. At any rate, the suspected ones have been and will be watched, and the first attempt on their part at fraud will receive immediate and exemplary punishment. It may be added as an appendix to this statement of the plans employed by the Democratic politicians, that it is expected, by means of the devices mentioned, to have certainly not less than 20,000, and probably many more, fraudulent votes cast in favor of the Democratic ticket in this City and Brooklyn. Forewarned is forearmed, however, and those who attempt to foil and nullify the honest expression of the popular vote in this City and State may, should the counter-preparations prove efficient, find out to their sorrow the penalties of violating the Election laws.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN AGAINST FRAUDS.

John I. Davenport, the United States Supervisor of Election, began the work of swearing in Marshals for the coming elections at his office in the Post Office building last evening, and will continue the work this evening. There will be about six hundred and fifty of these Marshals scattered through the different election districts. E ch batch will serve under chiefs, the latter being the aids recently appointed by Supervisor Davenport. The duty of the Marshals will be to prevent fraudulent voting at the coming election. Their chiefs will exercise a supervisory duty over them and over the Inspectors of Elections, Poll Clerks, &c. Mr. Davenport began his work at about 7:30 P. M. yesterday, and concluded about three hours later. During the period nearly two hundred Marshals were sworn in. The total number is to be 650. The swearing in of the Supervisors of Election will commence on Thursday evening. Mr. Davenport, as well as District Attorney Bliss, has taken up the matter of detecting frauds on the ballot-box with commendable energy, and has employed detectives in the work. One of these has the names of no less than 1,000 men on his list who have registered without rigor, and who will be summarily dealt with should they attempt to vote. To show the unblushing and defiant character of some of the rascals engaged in the work of trying to procure fraudulent voting, it may be said that only a few days ago a man in the Twentieth Assembly District was arrested who made it a business to sell bogus naturalization papers at the rate of fifty cents each. He was duly arrested and committed.

WORK OF THE BROOKLYN RING.

FRAUDULENT REGISTRATION TO A LARGE EXTENT—THE COLONIZATION SCHEME IN THE ODD-NUMBERED WARDS.

The Ring Democrats of Brooklyn like their brethren in this City have engaged in the business of fraudulent registration, and every effort is being made by them to obtain a majority in the Board of Aldermen. Aldermen will be elected in odd-numbered wards on Nov. 7, and the importance of carrying these and thereby obtaining a majority in the board arises from the fact that all the commissions by which the city is governed are to be filled next May by appointment of the Mayor and confirmation by the Board of Aldermen. Fraudulent registration is not, however, confirmed to the odd-numbered wards. Reports have been received by Mr. John J. Allen, United States Supervisor of Election, of fraudulent registrations in the Second, Sixth, Seventh, Tenth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth and Twenty-first Wards, and there is reason to believe that fraudulent registrations have also occurred in the First, Third, and Nineteenth Wards. About two thousand cases of alleged fraudulent registration are now being investigated by the Supervisors of Election, and rumors have reached the Chief Supervisor of the district that nearly four thousand false registrations have been made. In the odd-numbered wards the registration has been larger in proportion to previous registration than in the even-numbered wards, and this has been caused chiefly by "colonization," which can be done with impunity, by infilling the technical requirements of the law. Thirty days' residence in a ward entitles any legal voter to a vote in that ward. In the Seventh, Eleventh, Twenty-first, and other close wards the Democrats, by paying the board of a number of men for thirty days before election, can foist on the majority of the permanent residents and tax-payers a man who in no sense represents them. The firemen and other city servants, who owe their positions to the Democratic leaders are being used largely in the colonization scheme. Where city employes cannot be utilized men are hired to reside the requisite time in the ward, and their board paid while there. As this method is expensive, false registration has been also resorted to, but steps are being taken to discover these frauds and bring the perpetrators to justice.

THE UNION HILL MURDER.

SCHWAMB SENTENCED TO DEATH—THE EXECUTION FIXED FOR THE 8TH OF DECEMBER NEXT.

In the Hudson County Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday, John Henry Schwamb, who murdered William H. Belte in Union Hill in August, was called up for sentence. The prisoner was conducted to the court-room from the jail by Sheriff Laverty, and seated within the bar. He looked nervously around the court-room at first, but when commanded to stand up he burst into tears, and trembled from head to foot. In reply to the usual question, "Have you aught to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced against you?" Schwamb replied through the interpreter. "I did not commit the act intentionally." The court then proceeded, "You were indicted by the Grand Jury for the crime of murder, and after being defended by able counsel, the jury designated your crime as murder in the first degree, the penalty of which has been fixed by law. The Court does not desire to add one word to increase the impressiveness of this scene. The sentence of the law is, and it is by this court adjudged, that you, Henry Schwamb, be taken by the Sheriff of the County of Hudson from the bar of the court to the jail, where you will be kept in custody until Friday, the 8th day of December, in the year of our Lord 1876, on which day, between the hours of 10 in the forenoon and 2 in the afternoon, you be taken thence to the place of execution and then and there hanged by the neck until you are dead."

Schwamb was then led back to the jail by Sheriff Laverty, weeping like a child. The Court of Pardons will meet at Trenton during the last week in November, at which time an application will be presented for the commutation of the sentence. It will be largely signed by the residents of the north part of the county, where the crime was committed, a great revulsion of feeling having taken place in Schwamb's favor since his conviction.

WILSON & GREIG'S FALL OPENING.

Messrs. Wilson & Greig, corner of Broadway and Ninth street, opened their Fall and Winter sales yesterday, when they placed before their patrons a very large assortment of goods in all departments. The goods were of those particular styles and materials which have gained the latest approval of fashion; and to those who do not follow fashion's dictates with rigorous adherence some of last year's stock, both imported and domestic, was offered at prices which could not fail to be popular. In this season's assortments some very handsome materials for cloaks were exhibited, among them one which was greatly admired, known as silk damasse, with fleecy back. Very tangible advantages were offered to the purchasers of furs, and in the department devoted to trimmings, under, wear, &c., the stock was very large and of great variety. In the costume department some very beautiful dresses were exhibited. A few of these deserve more detailed mention. One, which was especially admired, was an evening costume known as the Princess dress. It is of black silk and embossed velvet, with long court train passed from under the postilion. The front is of velvet sloped off to the back, and it is trimmed with white point Lace round the revers collar and sleeves. Chenille fringe forms the trimming round the bottom and round the basque, back, and pockets. A costume of a very different style is a walking or carriage dress of brown silk and cashmere, with brown broc. trimmings and with scollop side plaitings at bottom. There is a long Empress polonaise, trimmed with brocté trimmings and fringe to correspond. It is arranged at the back so as to form a double sacque back all in one piece. There are two rows of trimming up the front and two rows on the bottom, forming one apron. The sides are furnished with handsome pockets, with broc. trimming and bails to correspond, and a cardinal cravat is worn in front. Another very handsome dinner costume is of navy-blue silk and brocade, and a very long train. It is finished at the bottom with box-plaiting. The back is long and square and turned over with revers of silk, forming an overskirt. It is trimmed with several rows of silk knife-plaiting finished with bands of brocade. The front is furnished with a short overskirt, turning off to the sides and furnished with fringe. To complete the costume there is a basque waist finished with tab and bow at back, and with vest front and French sleeves. These are only a few selected out of the handsome costumes which Messrs. Wilson & Greig exhibited yesterday.

LOCAL POLITICAL NEWS.

ANDREW H. GREEN FOR MAYOR.

LARGE MEETING OF INDEPENDENT CITIZENS OF THE SEVENTEENTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT—TAMMANY DENOUNCED—MR. GREEN EULOGIZED.

A large meeting of the Independent Citizens' Association of the Seventeenth Assembly District was held last night at No. 830 Eighth avenue, for the purpose of nominating Mr. Andrew H. Green as a candidate for the Mayoralty of this City. The citizens of the ward were also called upon in the notice announcing the meeting to nominate "a reform Municipal ticket, without regard to national or State nominations." In moving that Mr. George P. Bradford take the chair, Mr. Moritz Ellinger said that the object of the movement was to redeem the City from the tyranny of partisan government and put it into the hands of independent citizens, who, in office, will not recognize the political faith of officers, but their ability, integrity, and capabilities. Mr. Bradford denounced the Tammany ticket, and declared that the independent citizens were resolved to wrest the Government of the City from the hands of ring men who had well-nigh brought the City to the brink of ruin. The independent citizens gave Tammany a lesson in 1871, and again last year, and they were resolved to repeat the dose this year. [Applause.] Mr. Jerome Buck moved that a committee of five be appointed to nominate permanent officers. The Chairman appointed a committee, which recommended the following officers: President, Mr. George P. Bradford; Vice President, Mr. Horton; Recording Secretary, Frederick Gerhardt; Corresponding Secretary, Oscar Strauss; Treasurer, Michael Schmidt. In the course of the evening the meeting was addressed by a number of gentlemen, who very strongly advocated the claims of Mr. Green, among them being a number of working men. Mr. Ellinger, in the course of a vigorous speech, called attention to the great work done by THE TIMES in stemming the tide of corruption in the City, and paid a high compliment to Mr. Green for his efforts in preventing a return to the old corrupt practices of ring swindlers. When Tweed was confronted with the charges made by THE TIMES, he replied, "What will you do about it?" and when the Tammany politicians made their ticket and found it repudiated they impudently replied in the language of Tweed, "What are you going to do about it?" [Applause.] Mr. Jerome Buck also delivered a stirring speech, calling upon the citizens to sink their political differences and "save their City from the plunder of the Goths and Vandals of Tammany Hall." [Applause.] To Mr. Green they had intelligence, they had unimpeachable integrity, purity of character, and ability; a man to whom at the close of his career as Mayor they will be able to hold up their hands and say, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

THE INDEPENDENT REPUBLICANS.

THE REFORM CLUB WITHDRAWS ITS CO-OPERATION WITH THE INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION—RESIGNATION OF ELLWOOD E. THORNE AS PRESIDENT OF THE INDEPENDENTS.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican Reform Club, at the rooms of the club, No. 39 Union Square, last evening, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, In view of recent nominations made by the so-called Independent Republican organization, and of influences manifestly at work with a view to the injury of the Republican Party, that this club withdraws from any participation with it in the bearings before the Republican State Committee concerning a reorganization of the party in this city.

Resolved, That the course of our committee appointed for the purpose, viz: Messrs. Eaton, Stoll, Thorne, Dwight, Burnett, and Shepard, and the arguments they have addressed to the state committee, are hereby approved, and they are directed to push the application for a reorganization, in the name and on behalf of this club, as essential to justified sure to the welfare of the party.

Resolved, That the thanks of this club are due to Mr. Ellwood E. Thorne for his efficient and disinterested services in behalf of good Republican nominations at the Cincinnati and Saratoga conventions and in this City, and we learn with sincere regret that the Independent Republican organization has fallen under influences adverse to the welfare of the party and the cause of Republican reform, to duly justify and compel his withdrawal from its presidency.

Mr. Ellwood E. Thorne has written a letter to the Independent Republican Central Committee, resigning the position of President of that body, and severing his connection with the Independent Republican organization. He states as a reason for this action that the organization has been perverted from its original purpose, and has fallen under influences adverse to the Republican Party and the success of its candidates. He declares his firm belief that the prosperity, if not the existence, of the Union depends on the election of Hayes and Wheeler, and charges that insidious Democratic influences and miserable personal schemes now control the Independent organization.

HOME WORK.

Hon. George William Curtis will speak at Roslyn, Long Island, on Wednesday, Nov. 1.

The Republicans of the Eighth Assembly District of Hudson, N. J., have nominated Alexander Jacobus for Assembly. Mr. Jacobus represented the district four years ago and will undoubtedly be re-elected.

On the Albany steamboat the Daniel Drew, yesterday morning, a vote on the Presidential candidates was taken with the following result: Hayes and Wheeler, 230; Tilden and Hendricks, 165, and Cooper and Carpenter, 2.

The Swedish Republican Association of New York, held a meeting last night at the Germania Assembly Rooms, Nos. 231 and 233 Bowery, Major Louis Hallen in the chair. Eloquent campaign speeches were made by Messrs. Princell, Svanstrom, Tranens, G. H. Jeney, Peterson, Capt. Lindquist and others. Resolutions were adopted approving the nominations of the Republican Party made at Cincinnati and Saratoga, and pledging the hearty support of the Swedish Association to secure their election.

REPUBLICAN RALLY IN BROOKLYN.

The Republicans of Brooklyn met in mass-meeting last night at their head-quarters in Court street, and were addressed to considerable length by Chauncey M. Depew and Hon. W. W. Goodrich on the issues of the campaign. Mr. Joseph Reeve presided, and there was a large attendance, including many prominent local Republicans. Mr. Depew's speech was well received by the audience, and his telling hits at the principles and practices of Tilden and the Democratic Party were loudly applauded. He said, among other things, that there was never a time when the issues involved in a political campaign were more important than the present, and that liberty in all parts of the country, a free ballot, peace, prosperity, and good government all depend upon the election of Gov. Hayes, who had always been known as an upright and patriotic citizen, and who, during the war, fought gallantly for his country, and who had been repeatedly honored by the people of his native State with the highest office in their gift, and who would surely be successful in his present race for the Chief Magistracy of the nation. Mr. Depew was followed by Hon. W. W. Goodrich, of Brooklyn, who made an eloquent speech in review of the history of the Republican Party during the past ten years.

NOMINATION IN THE SEVENTH DISTRICT, NEW-JERSEY.

The Seventh Assembly District (Hudson County) Republican Congressional Convention assembled in the hall, No. 23 Newark avenue, Jersey City, yesterday, to make a nomination for Congressman. H. A. Thomas, Chairman of the Executive Committee, called the delegates to order and Dr. John J. Voulin was chosen permanent Chairman. Mr. L. J. Stiasny, of Hoboken, was nominated on the first ballot and the nomination was made unanimous. A committee waited upon Mr. Stiasny, and at eight o'clock last evening returned with information of the acceptance of the nomination. Mr. Stiasny is a wealthy silk importer doing business in this City, and one of the most popular Germans in Hudson County. Though the County is one of the Democratic strongholds of the State, the nominee will make a splendid run. Mr. Stiasny ran for Water Commissioner in Hoboken two years ago against the strongest Democrat in that Democratic city, and, contrary to general expectation, was elected by a large majority. He will consolidate the whole German and Republican vote of the County.

TAMMANY HALL NOMINATIONS.

The following nominations were made by Tammany Hall Conventions last evening:

ASSEMBLY.

First District—James Healy.
Second District—Thomas F. Grady.
Fourth District—John Galvin.

ALDERMANIC.

Sixth District—John W. Guntzer and George Hall.

The Tammany Aldermanic Convention of the Seventh District met last evening at the corner of Seventh avenue and Twenty-sixth street, and after an ineffectual attempt on the part of Alderman Sauer's friends to nominate him, the convention broke up in disorder, to meet again on Monday night next.

OPPOSITION TO TAMMANY.

The Anti-Tammany County Conference met yesterday afternoon, in Irving Hall, Hon. Emanuel B. Hart, presiding. Mr. Hart, as Chairman of the Sub-Conference Committee, which is to have a further conference with other organizations this afternoon, reported that matters looked very favorable for a combination against Tammany Hall. The meeting then adjourned.

CARL SCHURZ AND THE STAATS ZEITUNG.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In view of the false report of the New-York Staats Zeitung about the mass-meeting at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn held last night, we request that you will insert the following resolution of the Executive Committee of the German Republican Central Committee of Kings County:

In consideration that the report of the Staats Zeitung of this date about the mass meeting at the Academy of Music, at which Carl Schurz addressed the Germans, either through carelessness or through wilful misrepresentation stated that the Academy was half empty, while it was filled to its utmost with the best and most intelligent portion of the German population of Brooklyn; in further consideration that the Staats Zeitung also misconstrues the speech of Mr. Schurz, even stating that he represented himself as in accord with the Staats Zeitung, while on the contrary he denounced its present course as entirely in discord with its own former views—

Resolved, That we regard such false representations with indignation, and either as a gross carelessness or as a contemptible act of party opposition, and we hardly believe that this could have been done with the consent of the leading spirit, and we expect from him a satisfaction for the insult upon the German Republicans of Brooklyn.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,
Paul Schnize, Chairman.

ED. FROMME, Secretary.
No. 389 FULTON STREET, BROOKLYN, Oct. 21, 1876.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS IN BROOKLYN.

John M. Clancey was last night nominated for the Assembly by the Democratic Convention of the First District of Kings County.

The Reform Democratic Convention of the Sixth Assembly District of Kings County met last night and nominated John A. Dillmeir as their candidate for the Assembly. The Regular Democratic Convention of the same district also met and indorsed Mr. Dillmeir as their candidate for Assemblyman.

The Democrats of the Second Assembly District of Kings County met in convention at Democratic Head-quarters, in Court street, Brooklyn, last night, and nominated John D. Pray as their candidate for member of Assembly.

BLANTON DUNCAN ON THE SITUATION.

Marcus Hanlon, Chairman of New-York State Greenback Central Committee, received a letter in the City yesterday from Col. Blanton Duncan, of which the following are extracts:

"I have not changed my opinion that Hayes will now sweep every Northern State, and will carry also North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi, and Louisiana. * * * We can view the election of Hayes complacently, for it will render sure the utter break down of the Tilden managers, who have ruined the old organization for twelve years. * * * If Tilden should be elected, our issue could never be made, and his administration would be so utterly corrupt that the people would hurl his gang from power only to reinstate the Radicals for twenty years.

THE HUNT DIVORCE CASE.

In February, 1869, Mrs. Sarah B. Hunt, who had been married three years prior to that time to William H. Hunt, at New-Orleans, who at the time of his marriage had seven children by a former wife, informed her husband that her health and happiness required an immediate change of scene, and he presented her with $1,000 and a letter of credit authorizing her to draw $200 per month for her support, and she went to Europe. Some time after this, Hunt brought suit in the courts of Louisiana for divorce on the ground that living with his wife was utterly impossible, and decision was given in his favor. This was in February, 1870, and soon after the commencement of the suit Mrs. Hunt returned to America, coming to this City. She charged that her husband had procured the passage of the law in the State of Louisiana which had given him the right to an absolute divorce, and on July, 1871, began in the courts of this State an action for separation, on the ground that he had sent her away from him. The case was brought to trial before Judge Davis, in the Supreme Court, Special Term, in 1873, and was by him decided in favor of the husband. From this decision she appealed to the General Term, and the argument on the appeal was heard yesterday before Judges Brady, Daniels, and Barrett, the latter temporarily occupying Judge Davis' place on the Bench. The court took the papers, reserving its decision.

CAPT. IRVING DISMISSED.

Capt. James Irving, commander of the Harbor Police, who was tried before the Commissioners on the 14th and 16th inst. on charges of improper conduct and violation of rules of the department, was yesterday dismissed from the force. The board, in addition to taking this action, transferred the Sergeants and patrolmen on the Police-boat Seneca to precincts in the City, and placed Sergeant Schultz, of the Eleventh Precinct, in the position vacated by the dismissal of Capt. Irving. Sergeant Muller, of the Harbor Police, was sent to the Eighteenth Precinct, and Sergeant Welsh, of the same command, to the Twenty-ninth Precinct. Roundsmen Jeffreys and Jones were remanded to patrol duty, and Sergt. Doyle, of the Tenth, was transferred to the Seneca. The specifications in the charges against the deposed Captain, of which there were ten, were briefly that he reported himself as on duty when in reality he was on shore; that he went on a pleasure excursion to Long Branch without the requisite permission from the board, and that while in full uniform he entered a West street liquor-store.

DEFALCATION OF A PARK BANK TELLER.

Shortly after the National Park Bank opened its doors yesterday morning it was discovered that the sum of $36,000 in legal-tender notes had been abstracted from the safe. The only clue to the missing money was the absence from his post of the paying teller, Thomas Ellis, and upon inquiry at his residence it was found that he was not at home. Ellis is a man about thirty-six years of age, five feet six inches in height, with dark brown hair and mustache, and blue eyes. He is of a dashing appearance, and a confident and easy conversationalist. The money taken was in bills of the denominations of $1,000 and $500, and consequently not easy of detection, unless a minute has been made of the numbers of the notes. The bank officers yesterday declined to give any additional information in regard to the matter, stating that any further details would be mere surmises. A reward of $5,000 has been offered for the detection of the thief.

SUIT AGAINST A GAS COMPANY.

In the suit of Anna Rose against the New-York Gaslight Company, brought to recover $3,000 damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff through the leakage of liquid refuse from the gas-house into her premises, which were immediately adjoining, the facts of which were printed in THE TIMES of Friday last, Prof. C. T. Chandler, of the Health Department of this City, yesterday, testified that he knew of no material used in the manufacture of gas by the company which would produce a liquid like that described by the witnesses, and that a matter so largely composed of tar would not be of so inflammable a nature. Prof. Chandler gave it as his opinion that kerosene oil, or some mixture of which that article proved a component part, would produce the result described, but no such material was used to his knowledge by the Company. The case was yesterday concluded, and Judge Larremore, before whom it was tried, ordered the Jury to bring in a sealed verdict this morning.

A REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION.

Rufus K. McHarg a real estate broker, was employed by John B. Stratton and James Johnson, dealers in real estate, to negotiate an exchange of ten houses in Brooklyn for a farm, the value of the property being about $75,000, and he now brings suit to recover one per cent. of that amount for services which he claims to have performed and as commission. On behalf of the plaintiff, it was averred yesterday on the trial of the case in Supreme Court Circuit, Part I, before Judge Donohue and a jury, that although the trade proved unsuccessful, it was not his fault, as it fell through after the acceptance, for some cause totally unknown to him. It was aver, it was denied that there ever was any acceptance, and in proof of that assertion it was set forth that it had never been reduced to writing. The jury failed to agree and were discharged.

THE JANES WILL CASE.

Last week the will of the late Charles B. Janes, formerly of the firm of Janes & Kirtland, ornamental iron-workers in Reade street, was offered for probate in the Surrogate's office, but was rejected on account of the recognized insanity of the deceased. In the will the bulk of the property was bequeathed to a sister, and, this being set aside, the property is left in equal shares to various members of the family. Yesterday, letters of administration on the estate were granted to Edward R. Janes, brother of the deceased, he filing bonds in the sum of $65,000. The personal estate is valued at $32,600 and the real estate at $50 000.

THEODORE TILTON AT CHICKERING HALL.

Mr. Theodore Tilton delivered his lecture, entitled "The Master Motives," at Chickering Hall last evening, before a very large audience. This was the third lecture of the "City Course," and the attendance last night was greater than at either of the two previously given. Mr. Tilton was warmly greeted upon his appearance on the platform, and was heartily applauded throughout the evening. At the conclusion of his discourse a number of the personal friends of the orator crowded upon the platform to congratulate him upon his success.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

The steam-ships City of Chester and Mosel, also the Cunard steamer to Boston, all carrying the mails, are several days overdue.

Mayor Wickham has approved of the resolution passed by the Common Council creating twenty-five Commissioners of Deeds.

The receipts for taxes on real and personal estate last last week amounted to $4,930,000. During the same period $100,000 was received for arrears of taxes.

At the meeting of the Methodist ministers yesterday the discussion on the question of praying bands was resumed. Some were in favor and others against the practice.

A portion of a human skeleton was exhumed yesterday by laborers engaged in digging post-holes at One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street and Eighth avenue.

The Board of Apportionment yesterday transferred the sum of $3,000 from the contingencies of the Mayor's office for 1875 to the Law Department for 1876. The board will take up the estimates for 1877 on Wednesday.

President William Orton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has been ill for several days. His physicians report his condition at this time as much improved. He has already passed the crisis of his illness.

Charles Buchanan, aged twenty-five, of No. 265 Eighth avenue, while temporarily insane on Sunday night, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself in the left breast with a revolver, inflicting a serious wound.

The Young People's Christian Association of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church have announced a course of lectures, the second of which will be delivered to-morrow evening by Frederick Douglass on "Self-made Men."

The body of a man forty years old, five feet six inches in height, dark complexion, mixed grey hair, and clothed in woolen shirt, dark pantaloons, knit jacket, was found in the East River, at the foot of Stanton street, yesterday.

Levi Ullman, a member of the Board of Registry of the Nineteenth Election District, Tenth Assembly District, was dismissed yesterday by the Police Board for neglecting to leave the public copy of the registry at the polling-place.

Messrs. Floersheim Brothers, importers, who made an assignment to Reginald Hart on the 16th inst., yesterday offered a settlement of 100 cents on the dollar in notes indorsed to the amount of fifty per cent. Their liabilities amount to $34,562 13.

A notification of the death of Charles Hoffman, aged twenty-one, at the Presbyterian Hospital, from lock jaw, resulting from a crushing of the fingers of his left hand by an Erie Railroad train at Middletown, Orange County, N. J., was received at the Coroner's Office yesterday.

The Police were informed yesterday by Rev. Zina Doty, of No. 129 East Thirty-fifth street, that an impostor is going about collecting money from the charitable on a forged letter purporting to be signed by Mr. Doty and dated from "St. Ambrose Vestry," recommending Leander Fisher. The Police are looking for the impostor.

There is a movement on foot in Philadelphia to deprive this City of the statue of Liberty to be presented by the French people to the United States, and which it is proposed to erect in this harbor if sufficient funds can be raised for that purpose. There are a good many persons in this City ready to subscribe, but they do not know who to send the money to.

The concluding testimony in the case of the Longshoreman, Jeremiah Lane, who died of injuries received in a melee, was taken by Coroner Ellinger yesterday, and the jury returned a verdict recommending the committal of Dominick Bannon, Edward Maguire, and Martin Disker as participants in the affray. These men were thereupon held in default of $1,000 bail to answer at the General Sessions.

The funeral of the late Dr. Julius S. Thebaud took place yesterday morning from the Catholic Church of St. Francis Xavier, West Sixteenth street. The celebrant was Rev. Father L. on Thebaud, of Elizabeth, N. J., brother of Dr. Thebaud, assisted by Father Thirry, deacon, and Father Plante, sub-deacon. Bishop McQuade, of Rochester, made a brief address relative to the life of the deceased, and also pronounced the benediction. There were present in the sanctuary Bishop McNeirny, of Albany; Very Rev. Father Quinn, Vicar General; Rev. Monsignore Seaton, Father Houdon, Father Mulrowell, Father Hennessey, of Jersey City, and others.

BROOKLYN.

Theodore Tilton will lecture to-night in the Academy of Music on "The Master Motives."

Complaints were made yesterday against fourteen liquor dealers for violation of the Excise law by the agents of the Temperance Brotherhood.

Sheriff Daggett has been confined to his room since Saturday, suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia. His attending physician yesterday pronounced his condition serious, and forbade him to receive any visitors.

Thomas S. Cassidy, alias Robert G. Watson, who was arrested on Saturday night, on complaint of Nye & Tittus, carpet dealers, who charge him with forging their names to a check for $450, was arraigned before Justice Walsh yesterday and pleaded not guilty. His trial was set down for Friday morning.

John McKay, aged twenty-two years, was arraigned before Justice Riley yesterday morning on a charge of bigamy preferred against him by his second wife, Emma L. Carver, of No. 75 Morton street, E. D. The complaint charges him with having been married previous to his marriage with Miss Carver, and that his wife was living in Brooklyn at the time.

Mrs. Louisa Williams, of No. 49 Maujer street, E. D., who was arrested on Friday last, charged with having set fire to her dwelling, and who is now confined in Raymond Street Jail, awaiting trial, has made a statement to Fire Marshal Kenly, in which she confesses that she set the house on fire for the purpose of getting the insurance. The amount of insurance is $3,000 on the house, and $500 on the furniture. Mrs. Williams was yesterday arraigned before Justice Gunck, and held for the Grand Jury.

Rabier Polo, an Italian peddler, residing at No. 91 Mulberry street, New-York, was arrested at a late hour on Sunday night, by Detective Price, and locked up on a charge of assault and battery. The detective was standing at the corner of Myrtle avenue and Raymond street, when a stranger ran up to him and claimed his protection, saying that he had been chased by an Italian with a long knife, who threatened his life. Presently the Italian came up, when Price attempted to arrest him. The Italian, without saying a word, raised a heavy iron spike and struck the officer, slightly wounding him in the face. He was arrested, however, and locked up on the Officer's complaint, as the stranger did not go to the station-house to make a complaint against him.

Supervisors Strong, Quimby, Ryan, and Yeaton, of the Committee on Taxes, met yesterday, and decided upon the amount of money to be raised by taxation for the general expenses of Kings County for the year commencing Aug. 1, 1876. The amount fixed upon is $1,708,855 26. This is $47,500 less than the amount fixed by the Board of Apportionment, and $176,149 26 more than was appropriated last year; this excess, however, is caused by several unusual expenditures and a deficiency in last year's appropriation of $71,698 13. Of the unusual expenditures, there are $90,000 for the new Fourteenth Regiment Armory, $22,500 for gas works for the county buildings, and $10,000 for ventilating the court-house, so that, as will be seen, the actual expenses of the county under Republican administration are really less than they have been for years.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

A large number of convicts were yesterday transferred from Sing Sing Prison to the Elmira Reformatory, where they be employed in making improvements in that institution.

Gen. Alexander Hamilton, of White Plains, has commenced the delivery of a course of lectures in ancient history, before the pupils of the Chappaqua Institute. The first lecture was devoted to an instructive and interesting review of the principal events in the history of ancient Greece

The New-York Times.

VOL. XXVI.....NO. 7836. NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1876.---WITH SUPPLEMENT. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

TRAVELING IN BOSNIA.

CHRISTIAN DISCORD AND MOSLEM MISRULE.

INDULGING IN A MORNING MEAL—BOSNIA'S HOSPITALITY TO STRANGERS—THE NATIONAL FOOD—CHARACTERISTICS OF THE FAIR SEX—SPITEFUL OLD WOMEN AND CHARMING DAMSELS—TURKISH CRUELTIES REPORTED—2,000 REFUGEES MASSACRED IN A FOREST—HOW THE LATINS ARE RESPECTED.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BANIALUKA, Friday, Sept. 15, 1876.

Some Eastern travelers receive their early coffee from the hands of a "smiling Hebe," &c. I have never had their luck, and now, as in the past, mine was brought in by a kind of withered Gorgon, tied up about the head in a dirty handkerchief, who first scowled at me, and then squatted down upon the floor, where she was presently joined by three unclean little boys with a penchant for expectoration. To suppose that they were waiting merely to obey my orders was, I knew, purely gratuitous; to be glared at persistently yet silently is maddening; to hope that they would leave of their free will would have been insane, and so I flung a shoe at the group, whereupon it vanished and was seen no more. Nor did I again lay eyes upon my unwilling hosts during my six and thirty hours' stay beneath their roof, although I readily obtained everything I needed in the way of food, for which I scrupulously paid, thereby much failing in the esteem of my personal suite, now increased by a magnificent cavass, specially detailed as my escort by my friend the Caimacam. With this gorgeous creature at my heels, I strolled about Banialuka, "the meadow of the baths down by the waterside," and came to the conclusion that if it had lost its value as a bulwark of Islam, it was certainly the longest town for its size that I had ever seen. Built on both sides of the Verbas, it is really a collection of villages connected by bridges, with a population of 15,000, who inhabit 2,700 houses. Along the eastern bank runs a narrow cornice overhanging the river, where is a single street containing the ruins of three baths, evidently a relic of Roman occupation. Opposite is a succession of natural terraces planted with gardens and orchards, among which are dotted down the white-walled mosques and dwellings of the Mussulman. The Christians reside principally in the Novoselo suburb, higher up the river, where are the Trappist monastery and the Ecké, or Church, of St. Veroni Baba, and as if to show that these are only here on sufferance, seven mosques, for the accommodation of "True Believers." The western quarter of the town is nearly five miles distant from the Novoselo. It is the most ancient, and possesses three streets, one running north and south, the other two at right angles. Here are the post and telegraph offices, several wretched khans, a Tscharschié, or market and the Bezestan or Bazaar, where native wares and a few cheap importations from Manchester and Birmingham are offered for sale, in covered shops. Even against the walls of some of the Mosques had been erected rude shanties, thus showing that the desecration of sacred edifices to the worship of mammon is not peculiarly a Christian innovation. The cafés were, of course, thronged with Turks and Rayahs, the latter sipping their coffee or smoking phlegmatically, whereas the representatives of the ruling race were actually discussing politics with a degree of animation most unusual among the Osmanli.

The costume of all these people differs very slightly from that of their Croatian neighbors, except in their headgear. The Mohammedans have adopted white turbans twisted around their fez, while the Christians affect scarlet should they belong to the Roman, black or blue if they are of the Greek communion; these last also wearing more voluminous trousers than their brother Sclavs, for whom their antipathy becomes more apparent to me at every step which I have advanced into Bosnia. The same characters are not used in the writings of these rival sects; the Greeks employ the Cyrillian alphabet, spell the Saviour's name Hrst, and call themselves Hrsciani and Prvo Sclava, while the Catholics consider the H an abomination, write Krst and Krsciani, and are proud of the appellation of Latinski. Their pet names, borrowed from the Osmanli, who never conceal their contempt for both, are Wlachs and Schokatz, both having a reference to their descent from swine. One is particularly struck with the hard, fierce expression of the Bosnian face. I think it is a little bit assumed, although professional physiognomists trace it to ethnological and geographical causes. For centuries this province was a kind of debatable ground, in the many wars against the Venetians and Austrians, and it is pretended that the swashbuckering habits of its former inhabitants have left their impress upon the features of their descendants. However this may be, the Bosnians cannot be called a nice or amiable people, nor one much given to the exercise of indiscriminate hospitality. Even among themselves they will not give a crust of bread to a beggar whose religious opinions are not properly regulated, and of strangers their distrust is so great that, until after 1851, any traveler unprovided with a Teskéré from the proper authorities, who ventured to pass more than three full days in a frontier village, was hanged as a spy on the fourth. Perhaps the ferocity of the Bosnian character is increased by his food, which consists of half-cooked or salted meats, raw vegetables, and an immense amount of plum brandy, whose use is taught to children as soon as they are weaned. It is the abuse of this sliptovies to which may be attributed their unwillingness to eat at the same table with foreign Osmandi, who, at least in public, are remarkably abstemious.

Of the fair sex, little can be said in praise, although there were plenty of specimens to judge from. They wore light-colored tunics, with two or three aprons above, and short fur-trimmed jackets, embroidered in blue or scarlet, according to their religion. Some of the older ones had on long cloth pelisses, open in front over linen trousers, reaching to the ankle, with slippers or boots of colored leather, and among the poorer sort, the Opanka sandal. The usual coiffure was a scarlet skull-cap, wound around with plaits of their own hair interwoven with small coins, but some few had on folds of linen with a flower coquettishly stuck on one side, after the manner of the peasantry of the Abruzzi. The Mussulman women were dressed much like their coreligionists of Southern Turkey, except that the unmarried girls wear no veils. This is a peculiarly Bosnian prerogative of the fair sex, which possesses another, unknown elsewhere in Islam, to-wit, the right to choose its husbands and to converse freely from their casements with any gallant who may wish to indulge in gossip or flirtation. Nor does this unorthodox license, denounced by strict Mohammedans as an abomination in the sight of Allah, appear to be attended by any evil results. Marriage is the consequence of inclination, not of family arrangement, but once the hymeneal knot is tied the veiling becomes even more rigorous than in the other provinces of the Empire. At Constantinople, and in Roumelia, the diaphanous gashmak, at least leaves the eyes and forehead bare; in Arabia, Syria and Egypt, among strict observers of the Koran, a horse-hair mask is added, which entirely conceals the brow, but here every matron must wear two handkerchiefs, one over the chin, mouth and nose, the other superposed and attached to the head-dress, with only a narrow line of light between them, through which she can see what is on the ground in front of her feet, so that, if she would glance at the person with whom she is conversing, she must throw her head backward, and stand, as it were, entirely upon her heels. Naturally, these dingy bundles of old clothes are as spiteful and decorous as their younger sisters are the opposite, for it must be confessed that the Banialuka damsels are not a bit shy, and stand being looked at with much complacency. I failed, however, to discover any beauty among them, at least according to our standard, which is different from that of the Turks, with whom immense embonpoint united to extreme youth is the greatest of all attractions. Consequently, the first care of the Bosnian mother is to prepare her daughter for the hymeneal market, nor does she think she has fulfilled her duty until, by the privation of all exercise, by repeated baths, and a very nourishing farinaceous diet, she has brought her to the condition of a prize pig. Many certainly had most dazzling complexions, but this is not astonishing when one remembers the abuse made of cosmetics by all classes and religions in the East. Among the dwellers in the plains, dark hair and eyes are common; among the mountaineers, blue eyes and auburn or flaxen locks are generally noticed. Their hands were, of course, stained with henna, which gives them the appearance of having dabbled in tar-water, although to the poetic mind it should be an attraction, as it is supposed to be a souvenir of the rainbow-tinted wings worn by our Mother Eve—according to Moslem tradition—before she was driven from Paradise.

Several Rayah notables called upon me in the afternoon; they had learned that I was a Christian, and was anxious to tell of their wrongs, and particularly of their apprehensions, for, save in the matter of extortion, they could complain of no personal outrages. A month or so back there had been a little trouble in the town, and three houses of the Novoselo had been plundered and burned by some drunken Bashi-Bazouks, but the band had been sent into the country. In other parts, however, matters were very bad, and this is what they told me: Kuliana and Shuga, two large villages, on the western bank of the Yunna, had been destroyed, and the population massacred, except about eighty old men, women, and children, many of them mutilated, who had escaped to Kostanitza; 300 Christains had been slain at Dubitza, and from Zamliatcha 500 more had fled across the Austrian border. One man told of the purchase of three little girls at Turkish Kostanitza by a German trader, who had happily found their parents among the refugees across the river. The worst neighborhood was that about Priedor, only thirty-five miles from Banaluka, on the railway. How delighted I am not to have taken that line of travel! Here there is a fine collection of "miscreants" from Klutch and Petrovatz, commanded by a renegade, one Pazderaz, a local Bey, with the nominal rank of Colonel, who has undertaken to pacify the province according to the Turkish programme. This person, with about 800 followers, has been driven into Priedor by the insurgents, and has located his forces in the best houses, whence the proprietors have been ousted and driven to take shelter in pig-styes and other out-buildings, where these have not been already requisitioned for stabling. The Christians are forbidden, under pain of death, to leave the town. Flocks of sheep, herds of cattle, and cart-loads of plunder are brought in daily by the marauders and sold publicly on the Tscharschie, where they are purchased for a mere song by Christian, Jewish, and Mohammedan speculators, both native and foreign.

Near Partirevo is a large forest, through which the refugees were obliged to pass, and here, it is asserted, about two thousand were massacred, one woman with her baby and four little children, whom she picked up in her flight, alone escaping to tell the sad story. Then there was a second and much enlarged version of the Struga and Kuliani affair, the number of fugitives being 800 instead of eighty, of whom fifteen had been drowned while attempting to cross the Save, among them being one woman, whose infant had been shot in her arms. At Svinia all the women and children were outraged and then burned alive. In the neighborhood of Turkish Brod all the wells and cisterns have been filled with the carcases of horses and cattle, and a pestilence is apprehended, as the Turks refuse to permit the burial of their deceased people or dead animals. In short, this is a repetition in Bosnia of all the Bulgarian atrocities, with such variations as may be inspired by the whims of the Moslem leaders or perhaps by the imagination of the narrator. No one whom I have met hitherto has been able to speak, except from hearsay, of these horrors, and a tendency to embroider on the truth is an eminently Oriental characteristic. Still, admitting that there is much exaggeration, there is sufficient foundation to call down the reprobation of Christendom upon these barbarians, whose victims do not merit any the less sympathy because they refuse to go like lambs to the slaughter, and because they resort to most justifiable reprisals.

I asked how it was that the Rayahs, who are all armed, and who outnumber their opponents by more than two to one, did not exterminate the Turks, and I was told again, as I had been three days before by Herr Soarán, that their religious feuds prevented all union between the Christians of different sects, and that if one rose in insurrection, the other would either stand tamely by and see it crushed, or else would fight against it under the Turkish standard. "We sent a priest as a delegate to Belgrade last July," said one of my visitors, "to inquire if the privileges secured to the Roman Catholics by the Atnamé of Mohammed II. in 1463, would be guaranteed to them now, should they make common cause against the Turks, and the answer was so evasive that we have decided to remain neutral." I can, singularly enough, guarantee the truth of this statement, as I was present upon the arrival of this delegate, and am personally acquainted with the member of the insurrectional committee to whom he was accredited, and who gave the reply in question. But I disclaim any intention of making invidious comparisons, but certainly the Bosnian Moslems profess much more respect for the Latinski than for the Pravo Sclavs. They assign as a reason for this the greater decorum of the Catholic ecclesiastics, but the real cause is probably to be found in a curious lingering attachment to the religion of their ancestors. It is by no means an uncommon occurrence, as I have been assured by competent authorities, among whom is the Pasha himself, for the Bosnian Turks to order masses to be said before the altar of the virgin, for the recovery of members of their family, who are seriously ill, and should the disease increase, to send for a priest to administer baptism and extreme unction. Not that they have any leanings toward conversion, but on account of some mysterious virtue which they attribute to the celebration of these rites. The Orientals are superstitious, and the Bosnians are superlatively so. No one has a moment's doubt of the existence of witches and sorcerers—they hang some old woman occasionally who is suspected of dealing with the Evil One. Werwwolves and vampires haunt the grave-yards, and there is scarcely a mountain in which is not to be found some cavern where lies buried the gem-guarded treasures of ancient Bosnian Kings. Amulets against the evil eye, and talismans, to ward off every ill to which flesh is heir, are sold by all the native goldsmiths, some of ancient form and quaint device, and there are cross-roads through the forests where neither Turk nor Christian will venture after nightfall, through fear of the evil Vila, who, mounted on her coal-black steed, lies in wait for the belated traveler. I inquired if there were many instances of avowed change of religion, and was answered in the negative. A few of the Latinski, exasperated by the capacity of their spiritual masters, or with the hope of future profit, had adopted the turban, but among the Mussulmans and Pravo Sclaves not a case had occurred within the recollection of my visitors.

Now all these things were told to me, in my own room, by respectable and intelligent tradesmen, unembarrassed by the presence of any Moslem official, or, so far as I know, of any possible "informer," for there was not even an interpreter there, as nearly all of them spoke Italian fluently. I believe, then, that they were sincere and truthful, according to their lights, and I have arrived at the conclusion that Christian discord has fully as much as Moslem misrule to answer for in the misery of the Bosnian Province, whose sole hope of regeneration lies in annexation to some civilized power able as well as willing to enforce local reforms. Oriental visitors when they once sit down seem to take root, and I was heartily tired of my guests, when a Cavass came to summon me to the Caimacam's presence. Here I found several Mohammedan notables, with stories of insurgent atrocities, bearing, with necessary variations of names and motives, a strong family resemblance to those already told me by the Christians; but in spite of cunning alterations, no doubt was left in my mind that whatever cruelties had been perpetrated by Despotovich, they were at the very worst but reprisals. Here, also, was Osman Agha, who is to command to-morrow's raid; a good-looking soldier, lately arrived with the Asian troops, whose squadron of nizam or regular cavalry is to form the nucleus of the force. The Agha was quiet and dignified and evidently overawed, for, as I soon found out, Riza Ali Pasha had been calling upon his imagination and had exaggerated my importance to increase his own.

THE CAMPAIGN OF TERROR.

ACTIVITY OF THE DEMOCRATIC MURDER CLUBS IN LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI—REPORT OF THE MILITARY COMMANDER AT MONROE, LA.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Private and official intelligence received here shows that the same system of terrorism that Wade Hampton and his followers had been practicing with impunity in South Carolina, prior to the arrival of United States troops in that State, prevails in Mississippi and Louisiana. Dispatches received to-day state that an armed body, consisting of about five hundred men, prevented Congressman Lynch, of Mississippi, from addressing a Republican meeting on Saturday last at Port Gibson. The hooting, yelling, and riotous demonstrations of the armed mob made it impossible for Mr. Lynch to address those who had assembled to listen to him, and he was forced to abandon the stand and advise the people to go home.

Capt. Hale, of the Sixteenth Infantry, commanding the United States troops at Monroe, La., makes the following report to the War Department about affairs in his vicinity: "Matters in remote parts of Ouachita Parish are somewhat unsettled. Almost daily complaints are made to me by negroes of being driven from plantations and from employment, either because they had attended Republican meetings, or because of their refusal to unite with Democratic clubs. Many of them complain of having been treated with personal violence, and some of having had their cabins broken open and gun-shots fired into them. From careful observation, I am induced to believe that it is the determination of the majority of the white people here, as well as elsewhere in the State, to elect the candidates of the Democratic State and Parish tickets at all hazards, and that the success of their candidates on the national ticket is to them only a matter of secondary importance."

Capt. Hale also reports that, a short distance from Monroe, two disguised white men fired upon and instantly killed Prince Johnson, a colored preacher, and seriously wounded another colored man named Eaton Longwood. At the time of the murder, Johnson was standing on the porch in front of his house, with his infant daughter in his arms, and Longwood was employed in his field loading seed cotton. Two physicians, residing in the locality of the murder, whose services were solicited for the wounded man, refused to attend him. The road was found picketed with armed men, who refused to permit Longwood's brother to visit Monroe to obtain surgical aid. In consequence of threats made by the mob to do further violence and murder, Capt. Hale detailed a force to guard the house of Longwood. Capt. Hale's reports were transmitted through the regular military channels.

RESULT OF THE RAILROAD STRIKE.

THREE PASSENGERS KILLED AND SEVERAL WOUNDED.

Master Mechanic Williams ran a train out from Communipaw during the afternoon, with passengers for Roselle, Westfield, Dunellen, and Plainfield. The cars were crowded with people who had been detained in New-York by the stoppage of the trains. During the passage the engine ran off the track, and was turned over on its side. Two cars followed the engine, and the the others were also thrown from the track. As nearly as could be ascertained last night three passengers were killed, five were dangerously, and nine slightly, wounded.

GOV. HAYES TO VISIT THE CENTENNIAL.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—A letter from a member of the staff of Gov. Hayes, of Ohio, was received by Director General Goshorn to-day, announcing that the Governor would leave Columbus this (Tuesday) evening, and expected to arrive at the Transcontinental Hotel to-morrow afternoon. He will be accompanied by his personal staff and ex-Gov. Noyes. It is understood that the purpose of Gov. Hayes' visit is simply to enable him to see the Exhibition.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24.—Gov. R. B. Hayes and party left here to-night in a special car for the Centennial Exposition.

THE YELLOW FEVER.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 24.—The total number of interments to-day was seven, of which five were from yellow fever. Four of the burials were of colored persons.

THE CONTEST IN NEW-YORK.

ERIE COUNTY.

THE POSITION OF THE GERMANS—A DEMOCRATIC TRICK EXPOSED—THE REPUBLICANS UNITED AND DOING EXCELLENT WORK—BUSINESS MEN COMING OUT FROM THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

From Our Special Correspondent.

BUFFALO, Monday, Oct. 23, 1876.

It has long been a source of intense grief, and not unfrequently of despair, with the Democracy of Erie County, that they could not get the large German population of the City of Buffalo to indorse their principles or vote their ticket. In spite of all their persuasive arts and misrepresentations, they have been unable to hoodwink the honest and intelligent Germans of this city, and three-fourths of them have persisted in voting with the Republicans. It is owing in a great measure to their steady support that the Republican majorities of Erie County for several years past have been so large. The Democrats have tried all sorts of clap-trap devices to win them over, without avail. But when they started the cry of "Tilden and reform," and "economy," and "reduced taxes," and all that, they thought they had them sure. And they probably would have got a large share of them had not the real characters of the men they put forward to represent their "reform" been so promptly exposed. But when the Germans discovered that the Presidential candidate of these loud-mouthed reformers, while accumulating a fortune of millions in railroad swindling and jobbery, had all the time been cheating the Government out of its just taxes, and committing perjury to conceal his dishonesty; when they discovered further that the great "Reformer's" favorite candidate for Governor, and now running for Lieutenant Governor—bearing a German name, but having neither the birth, instincts, habits, or principles of a German—had been guilty of the petty swindle of charging the Government for mileage on official journeys that were never made, and were impossible to be made, they turned away from the new gospel of the Democratic Party, and made up their minds that "Tilden and Reform," like all the other rallying cries of the Democracy, was a cheat and a fraud. The Democrats of Erie County were very much mortified at their failure to catch the German vote with this "reform" dodge, but they resolved not to give it up yet. "We must contrive somehow or other," they whispered among themselves, "to touch them on the lager-beer question. A German," they said, "votes on lager, and on nothing else, and if we can make him believe that the Republicans are against him on that, we have him." A conference of leading Democrats in Buffalo was held, and this is the scheme they concocted:

There exists in Buffalo an association, called the "Law and Order Society," organized for the purpose of prosecuting violators of the Sunday liquor law. The society is composed of Democrats and Republicans in about equal numbers, but the attorney employed by the society is a cunning and unscrupulous Democrat. The City Government, including the Police, whose business it is to enforce the Sunday liquor law, is in the hands of the Republicans. There has been no occasion, of late, for any special vigilance in the enforcement of the law, and even the "Law and Order Society," if left to themselves, would not, probably, have deemed it necessary to take any special action at this time. But the Democratic politicians of Buffalo, including the attorney above mentioned, suddenly became horrified at the great scandal arising from a few lager-beer saloons in the outskirts of the city being allowed to do business on Sunday. All at once the law must be enforced or Democratic morals would suffer. If enforced, it must be done by Republican officials, and in that case Republicanism will suffer. That was the way they reasoned. What they did was to get the attorney of the "Law and Order Society" to apply for a mandamus compelling the Police Commissioners to enforce the law. The mandamus, being backed by the necessary affidavits, could not be refused, and the Police Commissioners were obliged to enforce the law. The raid on the lager-beer saloons was made last Sunday, and there has been great excitement among the Germans ever since. Their excitement, however, does not begin to equal that of the Buffalo Democracy. Buffalo presents the first instance on record of Democracy rejoicing over the suppression of the liquor traffic. Had the raid been on whisky, instead of lager-beer, I doubt whether even the anticipated German vote would have reconciled them to the loss of their Sunday drinks. As it is, they think they have captured the Germans in a body, and they have been boasting ever since Sunday week that they are going to carry Erie County for "Tilden and Reform." They are going to be mistaken. The trick was "too thin." Germans may be fond of their lager and their Sunday amusements, but they are not quite the idiots that the Democrats think they are. The proofs are ample that the whole thing was a "put up job" of Democratic politicians here, to gain the German vote, and when the facts come to be known it is believed that the Democracy will lose by the operation.

At present, however, it has doubtless temporarily injured the prospects for a large Republican majority at the coming election, and the Democrats are elated accordingly. Last year the Republican majority in Erie County was a little over 3,000, but at that time there was great disaffection among the Democrats on local nominations, and many did not go to the polls Republicans differ very widely in their estimates of the majority they are to get on the Electoral and State tickets this Fall, some putting it as high as 3,500, and others as low as 1,000. The difference arises mainly from the present uncertainty with regard to a portion of the German vote, arising out of the facts above narrated.

The shrewdest judges, however, do not, any of them, put it at less than 1,500, and from that up to 3,000. There never was a better feeling or better organization in the party here than now, or greater confidence in the success of the ticket in this State. Senator Rogers, who has been on the stump almost every night for the last two weeks, tells me that at no time, not even during the war, did he ever see so large and enthusiastic audiences as come out at the meetings in this campaign. This is the testimony of all the speakers I have seen in all parts of the State. The mass meetings in this City during the past week, when Carl Schurz spoke, and afterward when Blaine and Phelps were here, surpassed anything of the kind ever seen in Buffalo.

Another very encouraging sign, which has been very marked here and elsewhere during the past two weeks, is the large number of business men and capitalists who are coming out from the Democratic Party and announcing themselves for Hayes and Wheeler. One of the largest manufacturers in Buffalo, well known as a Democrat, lately came forward and voluntarily put his name down to a liberal subscription to the Republican campaign fund. Business men say that with the manifest tendencies of the Democratic Party and the encouragement that their success would give to the lawless element in the South, they can have no confidence in the future peace and stability, and consequently no encouragement to invest their money in business enterprises if the Democratic Party should come into power. A gentleman in the little town of Olean, Cattaraugus County, told me that he knew of $175,000 lying idle in that village awaiting the result of the Presidential election. If Hayes and Wheeler were elected it was to be immediately invested in a new industry there, and not otherwise. In all the large cities this same view of the situation has recently been taken, capitalists tell me, and there is no class of people in this country so deeply interested in the success of the Republican ticket as the mechanics and laborers who are asked to vote for Tilden and Hendricks on account of the "hard times." The Republican candidate for Congress in this district, Hon. E. G. Spaulding will be elected beyond question by 3,000 majority, notwithstanding the Democrats have nominated an able and popular young lawyer, named D. N. Lockwood, against him. There is no doubt either of the election of Mr. E. C. Sprague, whom the Republicans have nominated to succeed Senator Rogers. Of the members of the Assembly from this county, five in number, the Republicans are pretty certain to elect J. N. Dennis (a new man) in the Second District; E. D. Gallagher (re-nominated) in the Third District, and Lyman A. Parker (a new man) in the Fourth District. Charles A. Orr, the nominee in the Fifth District may be defeated. In the First District the Republicans will nominate their candidate next Wednesday. This is a Democratic District. Last year the Republicans only elected two out of the five members.

The Democrats are making a hard fight for the Sheriff of this county, and, in order to catch the German vote, have nominated a wealthy brewer here, named Haberstro; but the Republican candidate Hon. W. W. Lawson, ex-Assemblyman, is equally popular with the Germans and his chances are equally good, if not better.

There is a Peter Cooper Club in Buffalo, organized to afford a shelter for anti-Tilden Democrats, but it is not expected to poll a very large vote. Most of the "crow-eaters" have been whipped into the support of the "old fraud"—at all events they are professing to support him, though it is believed that many of them will quietly "knife him" on election day. The Democrats are playing the game of "brag" all along the line since the October elections, in hopes of inspiring confidence in their followers and discouraging Republicans. Tilden has sent out word to all his henchmen to loiter around bar-rooms and talk about 75,000 majority, and they are doing it faithfully. When asked by a Republican to bet on that sum, or even 10,000, they suddenly become very moral and "are not betting men." But they have no objection to "take a drink"—if a Republican will pay for it.

COLUMBIA COUNTY IN LINE AGAIN.

THOROUGH AND VIGOROUS ORGANIZATION OF THE REPUBLICANS—SHAM REFORM REPUDIATED—TILDEN'S SHABBY TREATMENT OF HIS BEST FRIENDS—NO MISTAKES MADE BY THE REPUBLICANS—IRREPROACHABLE NOMINATIONS THROUGHOUT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HUDSON, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876.

Whether it is because of the familiarity of the citizens with Tilden's peculiar characteristics, or whether because the residents of Columbia County feel that public attention is directed to the native locality of the Democratic candidate for President, I know not, but certain it is that in no county in this State is opinion more thoroughly aroused or the Republicans more active in the canvass than in this one. A bitter and aggressive war has been waged here for the past two months, and if the public mind has not been well informed on the questions of the campaign it has not been from the want of either political oratory or newspaper discussion. Every village in every town in the county boasts its Hayes and Wheeler and Morgan and Rogers flag-pole, and every cross-roads settlement has already had two or three neighborhood meetings, addressed in most instances by local speakers, an able and numerous corps of which has been at the disposal of the local committees. This work has been done in a systematic manner. Each town has a Republican club, well officered, and some of the more populous towns have a club in every village. Every detail of the canvass has been carefully looked after by active and enthusiastic Republicans, who are in earnest in the matter, and I feel sure not a vote will be lost on election day for want of systematic organization. The early estimates of the canvass show numerous accessions to the ranks of the Republicans from the opposition, and in no single instance have I learned of a Republican being seduced from his allegiance by the delusive and false promises of Tilden's sham reform. The opposition to Tilden from prominent Democrats is open and undisguised, and although every effort has been made to heal the breach, the rupture is as wide as ever, and will produce fruit at the polls on election day that will not advance the cause of Tilden.

The hopes of the Democrats of this county, Dutchess, and Putnam, comprising the Thirteenth Congressional District, were all fastened upon the event of the nomination of Hon. John O. Whitehouse to Congress. Had this occurred, and had he accepted, the "untertified" anticipated the introduction into the canvass of a financial feature that would well accord with the idea of Democratic reform. Notwithstanding the protestations of Mr. Whitehouse, the convention went through the form of nominating him. He persisted, peremptorily, in his declination, and after casting about for a week looking for a victim the convention reassembled and set up as a mark to be shot at J. Mansfield Davies, of Dutchess, who for the past two Winters was a frequenter of the lobbies at Albany in the interest of some special legislation that needed the aid of "skilled talent."

Hanging around the edges of discussion of the Congressional question of this district are some singular features, chief among which is the position of Mr. Whitehouse. Few men have obtained more prominence in the political matters of this State than he, and in an incredibly short space of time. Few men, also, in that period have been better abused than he. He is spoken of by those who know him as strong in his friendships and unrelenting in his dislikes, earnest in his purposes, and possessed of the courage and the fertility of resource to execute them. He ran for Congress in 1874, and carried this district for Tilden by a majority of nearly five thousand. To him, and him alone, belongs the credit of the immense majority Tilden received in this district. Puffed up in his own conceit, Tilden thinks to this day that the people were in love with him, and that the great vote in this locality was a testimonial of their affection for him. He will, I doubt not, continue thinking so until the 7th day of November next, and, when too late will learn that it was the man he has since humiliated more than once that gave him the majority he received here in 1874. It is an open secret that Tilden, surrounded by his "kinsmonoons," has ignored Whitehouse and insulted him by a studied disregard of his wishes during the past two years. People who are fond of prying beneath the surface can readily find a cause in the facts here recited for Mr. Whitehouse refusing to again lend himself to a ticket bearing the name of Tilden.

The candidacy of Gen. John H. Ketcham, the Republican candidate for Congress, is one that has aroused the greatest enthusiasm in the district. His conduct of the affairs of the District of Columbia, under many adverse circumstances, embarrassed by the hostility of the Confederate Congress last Winter which threw every obstacle in his path, has been worthy of all praise. His renomination by acclamation by his constituents for the sixth time shows the unswerving confidence they repose in him, and the hold he has upon their respect and esteem. His long experience in public life has given him a national reputation unsullied by any act that he or his district need regret. As a gallant soldier, as a conscientious public officer, and as one who, as a Representative, gives his whole time to his official duties, the country has reason to rejoice that his presence may be counted on as certain in the next Congress to oppose an unflinching front to rebel war claims or raids of whatever nature upon the public treasury. Gen. Ketcham's election is certain. He will sweep the district, which may also be set down for Hayes and Wheeler, by a majority that will be as astonishing as gratifying to every Republican.

In the First Assembly District yesterday, Stephen W. Ham, of Hudson, was nominated for the Assembly. Mr. Ham was Sheriff of the county a few years ago, and the nomination is conceded to be one that is not only strong in itself, but that will very materially strengthen the general ticket. In the Second Assembly District, Hon. John T. Hogeboom has been nominated for the Assembly. The ringing voice of this veteran in politics has been heard all over the county in this contest, excoriating sham reformers and vindicating the Republican cause with convincing logic and eloquence. Mr. Hogeboom's election is regarded as certain. In the First District it will require a sharp contest, as it is a Democratic stronghold; but the Republican candidate is one of the kind who never tire, and well-informed observers predict his success. The county ticket, headed by Hon. George H. Power, who last year carried the First Assembly District, is an admirable one, complete in all respects—just the ticket to bring out the Republican vote at the polls. I do not see that the Republicans of this county have made a single mistake. They are united, full of courage, possessed of an admirable organization, well-disciplined local committees, and filled full of the enthusiasm that presages victory. I feel sure that you will see the result of their work at the polls on election day.

AN EARNEST CAMPAIGN IN THE NORTH-EASTERN COUNTIES—GEN. KILPATRICK ON THE AUSABLE RIVER—MEETING AT SCHENECTADY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

AUSABLE FORKS, Oct. 24.—Gen. Kilpatrick spoke to a large audience at Plattsburg last night, and addressed a grand mass-meeting at this place to-day, the people coming by hundreds from great distances, some as far as thirty miles. This was the greatest meeting ever held on the Ausable River. The General's speech was eloquent and convincing beyond anything our people had ever before heard. Our people are aroused and will give a good account of themselves in November. It is the opinion of the most careful observers that Clinton and Essex Counties, and, in fact, the entire north-eastern portion of our State, was never so thoroughly in earnest as in this campaign. We are living over again the glorious Republican days of the Lincoln canvass of 1860.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SCHNECTADY, Oct. 24.—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held here to-night. Gov. Harriman and Hon. John H. Littlefield addressed the meeting. The Fifth Ward Albany Glee Club was present and greatly entertained the audience with their songs. The Republicans are very confident and working well.

TOMPKIN'S COUNTY REPUBLICANS — GEN. SHERIDAN AT ITHACA.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ITHACA, Oct. 24.—An immense meeting was held here to-night, the occasion of the appearance in Ithaca of Gen. George A. Sheridan and Col. Carter, both of Louisiana. The streets were paraded by a large number of uniformed men mounted and on foot, and bearing torches. Wilgus Hall, the largest public room in this vicinity, was literally packed during the addresses, which continued for over two hours and a half. The audience were deeply interested throughout the entire meeting by the impassioned and irresistible eloquence of the speakers. The meeting broke up with immense cheering, in which all heartily joined. The whole affair was the most enthusiastic and completely successful of the kind held in this section since the close of the war. It was under the auspices of the Young Men's Hayes and Wheeler Club, and reflected equally the energy of its conductors, and the enthusiasm and spirit of the Republicans of this place. It is a token of the glorious account Tompkins County will give of herself two weeks from to-day.

THE HOSTILE INDIANS.

THE MALCONTENTS AT RED CLOUD AGENCY SURROUNDED AND DISARMED—RED CLOUD DEPOSED AS CHIEF AND SPOTTED TAIL CHOSEN TO SUCCEED HIM.

CHEYENNE, Oct. 24.—Gen. Crook, being satisfied that Red Cloud's and Red Leaf's bands of Sioux were about to depart, with a view of joining the hostiles in the North—they having refused to comply with the orders to come into the agency to receive rations, and stubbornly remaining in camp on Shadron Creek, from whence it is positively known they were in communication with the Northern Indians, and receiving into their camp such as came in—he, without awaiting the arrival of Gen. Merritt's troops, determined upon disarming them, and at daylight on the morning of the 23d inst. Gen. McKenzie, with eight companies of the Fourth Cavalry, one battalion of which was commanded by Major Gordon, and another by Capt. Mauk, successfully surrounded these two bands, consisting of 300 lodges, and captured bucks, squaws, and ponies, without firing a shot, and marched them into the agency. After having been disarmed and dismounted, Spotted Tail, who has evinced unswerving loyalty to the whites, was made head chief and Red Cloud deposed. Spotted Tail, with Little Wound, have promised to furnish Gen. Crook with all the warriors he may need to cooperate with him in the coming campaign, which will be inaugurated at once. Gen. Crook feels that a great object has been attained in this last movement, and that we shall now know our enemies from our friends.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The following telegram from Gen. Sheridan was received this afternoon by Gen. Sherman:

CHICAGO, Oct. 24, 1876.

The following dispatch just received from Gen. Crook:

CAMP ROBINSON, Oct. 23, }
VIA FORT LARAMIE, Wyoming, Oct. 24. }

Red Cloud's and Red Leaf's bands were successfully surrounded last night, disarmed, and their ponies taken from them this morning. I have had difficulty in this matter, for the reason that since the hostiles commenced scattering, these Indians have also scattered, locating their camps further from the Agency and evidently communicating with and receiving the hostiles who came in. I am glad to report complete success, and that it was accomplished without firing a shot. Thanks are due to Col. MacKenzie, under whose personal supervision this movement was conducted, and to Major Gordon, Fifth Cavalry, and Capt. Mauk, Fourth Cavalry, who commanded the battalions. I had a satisfactory council with Spotted Tail, and am satisfied that he is the only important leader who has had the nerve to be our friend, and have therefore put him in charge, as Head Chief of all. The line of the hostile and the peaceably disposed is now plainly drawn, and we shall have our enemies only in the front in future.

Col. Merritt made his scout, developing several trails running into the agency, and is now near here. I could not wait for his command to get into position, as the Indians were about to leave. Col. Merritt's command will be here to-morrow, when I shall organize the new expedition, and leave with it at once. I feel that this is the first gleam of daylight we have had in this business. CROOK.

P. H. SHERIDAN, Lt. Gen.

POLITICAL NOMINATIONS.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.

INFORMAL BALLOT FOR STATE SENATOR IN THE FIFTH DISTRICT—NOMINATIONS FOR ALDERMEN.

The Republicans of the Fifth Senatorial District held a convention last evening in the Bleecker Building, to nominate a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Hon. James W. Booth, deceased, and two candidates for Aldermen. Mr. Hugh Gardner was selected to act as Chairman and Mr. Harry Glassford as Secretary. An informal ballot was taken for Senator, and the result was that Mr. Frederick A. Seward received 28 votes out of 40, and Mr. Andrew Jackson Campbell 12. It was then moved that the formal and final ballot on the candidate for Senator be postponed until 9 o'clock on Thursday evening next, and the motion was carried. A vote was then taken on candidates for Aldermen, and Messrs. John P. Morris and John De Vries were finally nominated.

Mr. John P. Morris is well known. He is about fifty years of age, a native of New-York, and has lived all his life in the Fifth Senatorial District. His birthplace was on the spot which is now the corner of Sixth avenue and Washington place, but which was at that time in the suburbs of the City. His business has been always that of a grocer. He was elected an Alderman in the great reform movement of 1871, securing the indorsement of the Committee of Seventy, and has held that office continuously ever since.

Mr. John De Vries is a native of Holland, born in 1833. He came to this country in 1848, and has lived in New-York State since that time. His trade is that of a printer, and by industry and careful attention to business he has accumulated a fortune. He conducts a large job printing establishment at No. 114 Wooster street. Mr. De Vries has never held office in the public service, but has always taken a great interest in politics. His first vote was cast for the nominees of the Republican Party, and he has never voted any other ticket.

The delegates to the Aldermanic Republican Convention of the Seventh District met at No. 453 Fourth avenue last evening. On motion, Merritt Wickham was chosen Chairman. The intention of these present, as expressed at the outset, was that only one Alderman should be nominated in the district, which is entitled to two. The object of this was to secure the election of this one candidate in whose favor the combined strength of the Republicans of the district should be exerted. Shortly after the beginning of the meeting attention was called to the fact that some of the outside organizations in the district were desirous of combining with the Republicans. On motion, therefore, a committee, composed of one member from each of the Assembly District delegations, was chosen to confer with the outside organizations, with a view to nominating two Aldermen. The convention was then adjourned until Monday evening, when the nominations will probably be made.

The Fourth District Aldermanic Republican Convention met last evening at No. 205 Grand street, Mr. John Simp

POLITICAL MISCELLANY.

A LETTER FROM TILDEN.

THE SOUTH'S LOSSES IN THE WAR—CLAIMS SHOULD BE SCRUTINIZED "WITH JEALOUS CARE."

NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1876.

To Hon. Abram S. Hewitt:

SIR: I have received your letter informing me that Republicans high in authority are publicly representing that "the South desire, not without hope," to obtain payment for losses by the late war, and to have "provision made for the rebel debt and for the losses of slaves."

As the payment of such losses and claims was not deemed important enough to deserve the notice of either convention at the time it was held, you also ask me to state my views in regard to their recognition by the Government.

Though disposed myself to abide by the issue as made up already, I have no hesitation to comply with your request.

The fourteenth amendment of the Constitution expressly provides as follows:

"The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States, nor any State, shall assume or pay any debt or obligation, incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave, but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void."

This amendment has been repeatedly approved and agreed to by Democratic State Conventions of the South. It was unanimously adopted as a part of the platform of the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis, on the 28th of June, and was declared by that platform to be "universally accepted as a final settlement of the controversies that engendered civil war."

My own position on this subject had been previously declared on many occasions, and particularly in my first annual Message of Jan. 5, 1875.

In that document I stated that the Southern people were "bound by the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth constitutional amendments; that they had joined at National Conventions in the nomination of candidates and in the declaration of principles and purposes which form an authentic acceptance of the results of the war, embodied in the last three amendments to the organic law of the Federal Union, and that they had, by the suffrages of all their voters, at the last National election, completed the proof that now they only seek to share with us, and to maintain the common rights of American local self-government, in a fraternal union, under the old flag, with "one Constitution and one destiny."

I declared at the same time:

"The questions settled by the war are never to be reopened. The adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments to the Federal Constitution closed one great era in our politics. It marked the end forever of the system of human slavery, and of the struggles that grew out of that system. These amendments have been conclusively adopted, and they have been accepted in good faith by all political organizations and the people of all sections. Let the chapter; they are and must be final; all parties hereafter must accept and stand upon them, and henceforth our politics are to turn upon questions of the present and the future, and not upon those of the settled and final past."

Should I be elected President, the provisions of the fourteenth amendment will, so far as depends on me, be maintained, executed, and enforced in perfect and absolute good faith. No rebel debt will be assumed or paid. No claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave will be allowed. No claim for any loss or damage incurred by disloyal persons from the late war, whether covered by the fourteenth amendment or not, will be recognized or paid. The cotton tax will not be refunded. I shall deem it my duty to veto every bill providing for the assumption or payment of any such debts, losses, damages, claims, or for the refunding of any such tax.

The danger to the National Treasury is not from claims of persons who aided the rebellion, but from claims of persons residing in the Southern States or having property in those States, who were, or pretended to be, or who for the sake of aiding claims now pretend to have been, loyal to the Government of the Union. Such claims, even of loyal persons, where they are from acts caused by the operations of war, have been disowned by the public law of civilized nations, condemned by the adjudications of the Supreme Court of the United States, and only find any status by force of specific legislation of Congress. These claims have become stale and are often tainted with fraud. They are nearly always owned in whole or in part by claim agents, by speculators, or lobbyists, who have no equity against the tax-payers or the public. They should in all cases, be scrutinized with jealous care.

The calamities to individuals which were inflicted by the late war are, for the most part, irreparable. The Government cannot recall to life the million of our youth who went to untimely graves, nor compensate the sufferings or sorrow of their relatives or friends. It cannot readjust between individuals the burdens of taxation hitherto borne or of debts incurred to sustain the Government, which are yet to be paid. It cannot apportion anew among our citizens the damages or losses incident to military operations, or resulting in every variety of form from its measures for maintaining its own existence. It has no safe general rule but to let by-gones be by-gones, to turn from the dead past to a new and better future; and, on that basis, to assure peace, reconciliation, and fraternity between all sections, classes, and races of our people, to the end that all the springs of our productive industries may be quickened, and a new prosperity created in which the evils of the past shall be forgotten. Very respectfully yours,

SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

POLITICS IN BROOKLYN.

SECEDING FROM BOSS M'LAUGHLIN'S COMMITTEE.

Fifteen members of the Executive Committee of the McLaughlin branch of the Kings County Democracy met last night at No. 110 Montague street, Brooklyn, and resolved to withdraw from the committee. Their names are as follows: A. Van Wyck, M. McGregor Stuh, R. M. Williams, H. E. Worth, C. W. Pleasants, W. E. Southwick, J. H. Blakemore, Brewster Kissam, Franklin Beemis, T. W. Jones, J. H. Anderson, Frederick Wittse, J. T. Barnard, and S. B. Barnum. These gentlemen represent a portion of what is known as the reform element in the Democratic Party of Kings County, and it is expected that some forty or fifty more of the same class of members will resign also, including Col. A. C. Davis and Mr. S. P. Freeman. The reasons given by the seceders for their action are as follows: "They say that when they entered the General Committee it was understood that Mr. McLaughlin had retired from the direction of political matters; but that they had found out from the results of late conventions that his influence was as controlling as ever, and had resulted in the nomination of men for responsible offices who, on the ground both of public and private character, are utterly unworthy of confidence. They pledge themselves to support the national, State, and legislative tickets of the Democracy, but refuse longer to be the slaves of Boss McLaughlin.

Herman Cottrell was last night renominated for Alderman by the Republicans of the Seventeenth Ward.

THE ANTI-TAMMANYITES.

MEETING OF THE SUBCOMMITTEES—PROSPECTS OF A COMBINATION WITH OTHER ORGANIZATIONS OPPOSED TO JOHN KELLY.

Considerable interest was exhibited in local political circles yesterday in reference to the meeting yesterday afternoon of the subcommittees of organizations seeking to form a combination against the ticket which has been nominated by John Kelly. The subcommittees met at 4 o'clock, at Schmenger's Hotel, No. 200 Third avenue. There was a full representation, as follows:

Anti-Tammany—Hon. Emanuel B. Hart, ex-Sheriff James O'Brien, Judge Henry Murray, Col. Michael C. Murony, and John Russell.

Independent Citizens' Party.—Ex-Alderman Henry Clausen, Jr., Charles H. Swan, L. M. Dorscher, William V. Smith, and John D. Crimmins.

German-American Independent Organization.—Judge Marcus Otterbourg, Fred. Theodore Windenskicze, Julius Bien, Moritz Ellinger, and Edward Tausen.

Mr. Clausen presided and Mr. Dorscher acted as Secretary. A general interchange of views was given, to the effect that appearances were favorable for a combination, but that as the Republican County Convention would not meet until this evening no official information of what the Republicans would do could be received until their county convention acted. Mr. Clausen, the Chairman of the subcommittees, was authorized and requested to communicate with the Republican County Convention this evening, and ask that it appoint a committee to meet with the sub-committees assembled yesterday afternoon, at an adjourned meeting of the sub-committees to be held at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, at the Astor House, to which time and place the meeting adjourned.

After the adjournment Messrs. Hart and O'Brien, and other members of the sub-committees, gave it as their opinion that very favorable progress was being made, leading to a combination on a strong county ticket of all the elements opposed to Tammany Hall.

HON. CARL SCHURZ IN NEWARK.

The Academy of Music, Newark, was crowded to its utmost capacity by the Germans of the city last evening, to listen to an address in that language by Hon. Carl Schurz. Mr. Schurz was warmly received and frequently applauded. He reviewed the issues of the campaign with his usual eloquence. The various political organizations had a large torch-light parade in the city during the evening. Estimate places the number of men in line at 8,500. The clubs marched through the various streets of the city, and, in front of the residence of Hon. Cortlandt Parker, with whom Mr. Schurz spent the night, the processionists were reviewed by the ex-Senator and several prominent Newark gentlemen.

A DISGUSTED TAMMANYITE.

RESIGNATION OF A MEMBER OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE FROM THE TWENTY-FIRST DISTRICT.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 22, 1876.

Hon. John Kelly, Chairman Committee on Organization of the Tammany Hall General Committee:

SIR: I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the Tammany Hall General Committee of the Twenty-first Assembly District. Permit me briefly to state my reasons for so doing—remarking that since I cast my first vote, now some eighteen years since, I have been a firm adherent of the Tammany Hall organization, always amenable to its discipline, but reserving the rights always to express my convictions freely and fully. Since my refusal to follow the policy pursued by ex-Senator Hugh H. Moore, (the recognized leader of the District General Committee) and my opposition to the cabal formed in the General Committee of the district led by Mr. Moore, having for its object your overthrow, as explicitly stated to me by Mr. Moore in a conversation at the Eastern Boulevard Club-house in June last, wherein he solicited my co-operation "to beat this man Kelly," and which I then and there refused, I have, in conjunction with some twenty-three of my associates in the General Committee, opposed the un-Democratic mode of conducting the affairs of the district as practiced by Mr. Moore. On Saturday evening, the 21st inst., being a duly accredited delegate to the Tammany Hall District Aldermanic Convention, held at Brevoort Hall, I was, at the door of the room wherein our Assembly district delegates were in caucus, confronted by Mr. Matthew H. Moore, brother of the ex-Senator, who refused me admittance unless I pledged myself to remain silent and not oppose the nomination of his brother, Hugh H., for Alderman, which nomination, he stated, was "all fixed." Upon my refusal to surrender my rights as a Democrat and a delegate, and assuring him of my purpose of expressing my preference for the candidate of my choice, (who, I may remark, was not his brother,) and, notwithstanding my demand for admittance, I was emphatically informed by the stalwart Matthew that I could not enter. Feeling my inability to cope physically with the muscular brother and representative of the "leader" of the district, and feeling also that a personal encounter in the presence of a political organization which has for its recognized head an individual who opposes, in the person of his relative, physical force to the free expression of opinion in a Democratic convention, would be a surrender of manhood, of Democracy, and of the rights of an American citizen, I am forced to sever my connection with the General Committee as now represented by the "Moore brothers," whose actions, strange though it seem, appear to meet your approval. Respectfully your obedient servant,

JOHN M. COMAN,
Attorney and Counselor at Law, No. 515 East One Hundred and Nineteeth street.

ANDREW H. GREEN FOR MAYOR.

THE WORKING MEN IN MASS-MEETING NOMINATE THE COMPTROLLER.

The hall of the Cooper Institute was crowded last evening by working men in obedience to an advertisement calling upon the working classes to "attend a mass-meeting in the interest of efficient and honest administration of Municipal affairs." Previous to the commencement of the proceedings there were circulated in the hall printed copies of a small pamphlet headed "Reform and Better Times," which contained a full report of the reply of Mr. Andrew H. Green on being tendered the nomination for Mayor of the City by the Citizens' Independent Committee, on Oct. 12 inst. Mr. R. K. Power presided and made the opening speech, and stated that they had met for the purpose of considering the claims of Mr. Green for the Mayoralty. He defended Mr. Green from the charge that he was hostile to the interest of labor, and proceeded to refer to his action in connection with the so-called up-town "improvements," which had been carried on at a scandalous cost, while the streets in the lower part of the town were in a disgraceful state. He ventured to say that 10,000 working men could be profitably employed for six years in the improvement of these streets. Such necessary improvements would be advocated by Andrew H. Green. [Applause.] Mr. E. H. Graeme was appointed Secretary of the meeting, and read a series of resolutions calling for an honest administration of City affairs, and nominating Andrew H. Green for the Mayoralty. The resolutions were put to the meeting and carried. Mr. John Quinn then addressed the meeting, and described himself as a member of the stokers' organization. He denounced in impassioned terms the past and present system of making nominations for Municipal offices in the City; a system of rewards for political subserviency or for the purpose of plunder; a system which had brought eternal disgrace upon this City, the first city in the country. A. H. Green was the only man before the public who had the will and the power to carry through reform in the finances of the City, and he would be elected. [Applause.] The next speaker said the hope for reform lay in the election of Mr. Green. [Applause.] Mr. William Cashin denounced the nominee of Tammany Hall as a man who had, when on the Board of Supervisors, allowed gross swindling to be perpetrated without a protest. Addresses were also made by Mr. W. S. O'Brien, and others, after which the meeting adjourned.

HOME WORK.

Hon. John Cochrane, Gen. A. N. Cole, Hon. Samuel J. Glassey and others will address a mass meeting of the Seventeenth Ward Hayes and Wheeler Campaign Club on Friday evening next, at No. 385 Bowery.

A mass meeting of the United Republican Association of the Eleventh Assembly District will be held at Bethel Hall, No. 106 West Thirtieth street, on Thursday evening, Oct. 26. Eminent speakers will address the meeting.

At a regular meeting of the Martin D. Tyner Independent Campaign Club of the Seventh Ward, held on Monday evening, it was resolved to support Andrew H. Green for Mayor, Bryan Reilly for Coroner, and Lawrence G. Goulding for Alderman.

A Republican mass-meeting will be held at the Cooper Institute this evening, at which addresses will be made by Hon. Alphonso Taft, Attorney General of the United States, and Mr. Murat Halstead, editor of the Cincinnati Commercial. Hon. Sam. W. Stoughton will preside.

The New-York City Auxiliary of the National Reform League, which has branches in all of the Assembly districts of the City, and is composed largely of influential independent citizens, met on Saturday evening last, and a provisional committee was empowered to act as a conference committee to consult with other organizations with a view to securing the nomination of the best available candidates for the various Municipal offices, without respect to their party connection.

The Eighteenth Assembly District Republican Association met in its head-quarters, at No. 453 Fourth avenue, last evening, and the members, after receiving their equipments, paraded through the district. Over five hundred men were in line, wearing caps and capes of red, white, and blue colors, and carrying torches and transparencies. A fine band of music marched in front of the procession and enlivened the celebration with some patriotic and other popular airs. Col. Thomas B. Odell was in command of the organization, and proved very efficient. Great enthusiasm was manifested along the route of the procession.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at Crawford, N. J., on Monday evening, in the new Republican Wigwam. The principal speaker was Capt. A. J. Ricks, of Ohio, for many years a resident of Tennessee, during which time he was the well remembered correspondent "Omega" of THE TIMES. He explained fully the danger to the country, from the restoration of the Democratic Party to power, and demonstrated that the Southern Democracy was the controlling element in the Democratic Party, and if that party obtained control of the Government, the Democrats of the South would insist upon the payment of claims amounting to over two thousand millions of dollars.

NEW-JERSEY ASSEMBLY NOMINATIONS.

John Egan was yesterday renominated for the Assembly at Elizabeth, N. J., by the First District Democratic Convention, which met there. In the Second Assembly District Democratic Convention, Charles Leo Abry, of Crawford, was nominated. The Democrats of the Third District, in Jersey City, have nominated Charles L. Krugler for Assembly.

CAMPAIGN OF THE GREENBACK PARTY.

The Greenback County Convention met in Science Hall last evening, and was called to order and presided over by William A. A. Carsey, President of the Independent Labor Party. Mr. Carsey was called out, and said that the Greenback Party was "the working man's party, and that if it did not succeed now it would four years hence. It was time now that the working men made their numerical power felt, and he believed they intended now to be counted for the right." [Applause.] Jacob Cohen, ex-candidate for Supervisor, ascended the platform to make a "few introductory remarks," but was greeted with such overwhelming applause that he gave up the attempt, and, in lieu of a speech, he distributed a $2 bill on "The Bank of Bread" to each of the delegates. John W. Crump nominated James Gordon Bennett for Mayor, and a discussion ensued, showing that a large minority of the Convention were in favor of placing a full county ticket in the field and nominating Mr. Bennett as its head, but it was finally resolved to appoint a committee to confer with all organizations opposed to Tammany Hall in maturing an organization against the Kelly ticket.

Peter Cooper and Gen. Samuel F. Cary, the Greenback candidates for President and Vice President, had a consultation yesterday with the Greenback leaders in this City and vicinity, at No. 162 Broadway. Both candidates seemed to be in excellent spirits, and said that all things considered, they were very well satisfied with the progress of the campaign thus far.

SPEAKING ON LONG ISLAND.

GREAT MEETINGS IN SUFFOLK COUNTY—STEWART L. WOODFORD ANNIHILATES EX-REBEL FELLOWS.

RIVERHEAD, Oct. 24.—Hon. Stewart L. Woodford spoke to an audience of 1,500 people at the Court-house this evening, making one of his best oratorical efforts. His answer to the Democratic cry of "Federal interference" in South Carolina was admirable and carried the audience by storm. Gen. Woodford spoke at Southold in the afternoon, and was literally forced from there and taken by his comrades in arms to Riverhead, in order to reply to the speech of Col. John R. Fellows, the ex-rebel, last evening. The Union soldier answered the Confederate completely. The meeting was called upon a few hours' notice, and was the greatest political gathering held in Suffolk County for years. Look out for a good report from Suffolk County in November, for the Republicans are thoroughly alive to the magnitude of the struggle before them.

THE OHIO ELECTION.

OFFICIAL RETURNS OF THE VOTE FOR SECRETARY OF STATE BY COUNTIES COMPARED WITH THE RESULT FOR GOVERNOR IN 1875.

The following is an abstract by counties of the vote of Ohio for Secretary of State, compared with the result for Governor in 1875:

Counties	1876. Barnes, Rep.	1876. Bell, Dem.	1875. Hayes, Rep.	1875. Allen, Dem.
Adams	2,494	2,271	1,853	2,249
Allen	2,337	3,235	2,151	2,920
Ashland	2,257	2,864	2,250	2,600
Ashtabula	6,474	2,332	6,092	1,962
Athens	3,240	2,152	3,192	2,410
Auglaize	1,242	3,045	1,101	2,851
Belmont	4,806	4,644	4,514	4,588
Brown	2,894	2,634	2,353	3,677
Butler	3,943	5,763	2,935	5,200
Carroll	1,972	1,479	1,890	1,453
Champaign	3,411	2,738	3,102	2,620
Clarke	5,007	3,495	4,389	3,329
Clermont	3,645	4,093	3,480	4,036
Clinton	3,391	1,910	3,154	1,938
Columbiana	5,160	3,941	4,940	3,974
Coshocton	2,401	3,048	2,329	2,913
Crawford	2,233	4,146	2,064	3,834
Cuyahoga	17,906	14,560	17,012	10,966
Darke	3,550	4,531	2,929	4,233
Defiance	1,421	2,720	1,218	2,483
Delaware	3,140	2,793	2,835	2,708
Erie	3,175	3,149	2,891	2,657
Fairfield	2,714	4,447	2,630	4,183
Fayette	2,304	1,853	2,246	1,871
Franklin	7,391	9,215	6,842	7,951
Fulton	2,567	1,531	2,303	1,312
Gallia	3,068	2,226	2,908	2,388
Geauga	2,851	773	2,666	736
Greene	4,283	2,417	4,141	2,208
Guernsey	3,007	2,300	2,824	2,431
Hamilton	27,553	23,495	24,916	23,621
Hancock	3,778	3,151	2,559	3,233
Hardin	2,747	2,690	2,527	2,608
Harrison	2,457	1,949	2,324	2,039
Henry	1,448	2,324	1,333	2,005
Highland	3,278	3,113	3,169	3,215
Hocking	1,305	2,175	1,394	2,089
Holmes	1,164	2,956	1,059	2,838
Huron	4,421	2,947	3,873	2,687
Jackson	2,490	2,017	2,494	2,207
Jefferson	3,898	3,573	3,723	2,896
Knox	3,010	3,256	2,885	3,182
Lake	2,852	1,138	2,678	1,120
Lawrence	3,773	2,998	3,736	3,099
Licking	3,851	5,334	3,617	5,142
Logan	3,115	2,139	2,896	2,102
Lorain	5,159	2,600	4,767	2,097
Lucas	6,426	4,532	5,865	4,481
Madison	2,137	2,084	2,113	2,028
Mahoning	3,790	3,512	3,788	3,947
Marion	4,788	2,467	1,554	2,306
Medina	2,986	2,116	2,859	1,960
Meigs	3,804	2,633	3,433	2,843
Mercer	1,014	2,545	1,000	2,560
Miami	4,219	3,486	4,006	3,239
Monroe	1,217	3,259	1,016	3,129
Montgomery	7,773	7,992	6,914	6,014
Morgan	2,272	1,991	2,204	2,004
Morrow	2,386	2,032	2,136	2,006
Muskingum	5,079	5,288	4,888	5,218
Noble	2,088	1,923	2,104	2,037
Ottawa	1,300	2,163	1,062	1,781
Paulding	1,185	1,120	1,144	1,130
Perry	2,072	2,799	1,853	2,798
Pickaway	3,217	3,197	2,397	3,444
Pike	1,406	1,964	1,330	1,940
Portage	3,633	2,919	3,402	2,859
Preble	2,914	2,501	2,611	2,359
Putnam	1,403	2,938	1,304	2,746
Richland	3,525	4,253	3,285	4,050
Ross	4,042	4,256	3,990	4,216
Sandusky	2,914	3,530	2,669	3,353
Scioto	3,244	3,101	3,279	3,020
Seneca	3,827	4,493	3,321	4,015
Shelby	1,857	3,784	1,757	2,701
Stark	6,142	6 624	6,085	6,340
Summit	4,839	3,727	4,623	3,523
Trumbull	5,950	3,144	5,653	3,301
Tuscarawas	3,352	4,324	3,259	4,048
Union	2,784	2,007	2,596	1,952
Van Wert	2,201	2,247	2,108	2,233
Vinton	1,417	1,810	1,497	1,906
Warren	4,069	2,337	3,688	2,513
Washington	4,090	4,218	4,144	4,230
Wayne	3,888	4,449	3,847	4,301
Williams	2,618	2,467	2,399	2,262
Wood	3,864	2,933	3,531	2,808
Wyandot	1,902	2,483	1,735	2,305
Total	317,856	311,220	297,817	292,273

At the late election 1,863 votes were cast for E. S. Chapman, Prohibitionist. Republican majority, 4,773; plurality, 6,636. In 1875 the Temperance candidate for Governor received 2,593 votes. The Republican majority was 2,951 votes; Republican plurality, 5,544.

For Judge of the Supreme Court, Washington W. Boynton, Republican, had 318,772; William E. Finck, Democrat, 309,033; D. W. Gage, Prohibitionist, 2,065; Republican plurality, 8,839; majority, 6,774.

A Democratic paper in Ohio prints the following, describing it as a very important private circular being sent out from Republican head-quarters in Columbus:

STATE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE ROOMS, Oct. 16, 1876.

DEAR SIR: Through you we desire to congratulate the Republicans of your neighborhood on the result of the recent election in Ohio. The entire Republican State ticket has been elected by majorities ranging from 6,500 to 9,000, and there has been a gain of five members of Congress in this State. We must not, however, slacken our efforts for the November election, for our majority is small when the large vote polled is considered. A change of but three votes in each township and ward from the Republican Party to Tilden would lose us the State. We do not expect that this will occur, but you will easily see how important it is that every effort possible should be made by the Republicans. We, therefore, ask that you consult with the Republicans of your township or ward, go to the polls early with them on the 7th of November, stay with them all day and poll every vote that you can get for Hayes and Wheeler. If we all do our duty Ohio will turn up 40,000 majority for Gov. Hayes. Thankful for your past efforts in behalf of our party, we are, sincerely yours,

A. T. WIKOFF, Chairman.
J. C. DONALDSON, Secretary.

A TILDENITE RETRACTS.

The Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist says that the following correspondence "explains itself." For once we can agree with it:

AIKEN, S. C., Oct. 21, 1876.

To the Editor Augusta Constitutionalist, Augusta, Ga:

SIR: I have the honor to request, that the enclosed copy of a letter, received this day from St. Julian Yates, your correspondent, be inserted in the columns of your paper. Mr. Yates, in a letter from Aiken, S. C., Oct. 17, 1876, made statements for which he apologized in the enclosed. The insertion of the within is but doing justice to myself and your correspondence. I am sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant, CHARLES B. HINTON,
First Lieutenant Eighteenth Infantry.

(Copy)
AIKEN, S. C., Oct. 21, 1876.

Lieut. C. B. Hinton, Eighteenth United States Regiment of Infantry:

SIR: Acting hastily upon information which I received from others, I sent a dispatch to a journal, which reflected somewhat harshly upon your conduct as a United States officer while in command of a detachment sent there for the purpose of preventing disturbances at the Radical meeting. I am satisfied now that my information was erroneous, and that I have done you injustice, and I take this, the earliest opportunity, of expressing to you my regrets trusting that the friendly relations which heretofore existed between you and our people, will not be altered by my individual error.

I am, sir, yours very respectfully,
(Signed.) ST. JULIAN YATES.
A true copy: L. S. AYRES, First Lieutenant Eighteenth Infantry.

THE MISSISSIPPI PLAN.

The Columbus (Miss.) Index in a recent issue says: "As we mentioned in a former issue, our State is to be overrun with radical speakers, exciting the passions of the negroes and urging them to acts of violence. We urge upon our people to attend their meetings, and if they will not divide the time with our speakers, let them be denounced as they deserve to be. We are willing to listen to a fair and candid discussion of any and all questions, but when a speaker departs from the line of argument, and enters the field of abuse and vilification, it is asking too much of a people to submit to it."

The above may well be supplemented with the following from the Holly Springs (Miss.) South of the 12th inst.:

"An excellent plan for making the campaign more effective has been suggested by Maj. W. M. Strickland, and seems to meet with much favor. It consists in the organization of a body of a hundred or more mounted men to canvass the county thoroughly ten days just preceding the election, visiting every precinct with music and artillery, and holding at least one meeting every day. On plan could be better devised to arouse enthusiasm, and precautions could be taken to prevent any disorderly conduct."

GOV. MORGAN.

THE ABSURD CHARGE THAT HE OWNED SLAVES IN CUBA.

From the Auburn Advertiser, Oct. 23.

The following letters, which we have procured, will explain themselves, and be found valuable information upon a much-misstated subject:

AURORA, Oct. 21, 1876.

Editors Daily Advertiser:

Statements have been industriously circulated by the malicious, and to some extent believed, that Gov. Morgan had at some period purchased a mortgage in the Island of Cuba, and purchased an estate and 150 slaves. Knowing Gov. Morgan's abhorrence of slavery, against which for more than a quarter of a century I have known him to labor earnestly and for its abolishment, I thought the absurd charges were not worth the trouble of denying—until now. No man in the City of New York has a more enviable reputation, standing as a merchant and gentlemen of the strictest integrity, than Mr. Terry. His statements will not be challenged.

EDWIN B. MORGAN.

NOS. 54 AND 56 EXCHANGE PLACE, NEW-YORK, Oct. 14, 1876.

Hon. E. B. Morgan, Aurora, N. Y.:

MY DEAR SIR: Your letter of Oct. 13 is before me, stating that the story about slaves in Cuba is producing some prejudice among the denomination of Friends and other opponents of slavery. I have been a partner of Gov. Morgan for thirty-two years, comprising all the time that he has transacted business with Cuba. Neither he nor the firm has ever owned a slave, or ever advanced money upon any plantation or slaves there, or held either as security for any purpose whatever. The Mr. Morgan alluded to in some of the western papers as having transacted business for the Government is not Gov. E. D. Morgan. Neither he nor his firm ever purchased or sold, or were ever interested in the purchase or sale of, any vessel for or to the United States Government. I would also add that the numerous political attacks made upon Gov. Morgan's business career during this campaign, all of which I have probably read, are as void of truth as those here referred to. I write you this without Gov. Morgan's knowledge. Very truly yours,

JOHN F. TERRY.

TRENOR W. PARK'S TESTIMONY.

THE $25,000 IN DISPUTE WERE FOR ADVANCES MADE FOR LEGISLATION—AND TILDEN AND HIS BROTHER CONTRIBUTED.

The following testimony is that of Trenor W. Park, in the case of Oliver W. Barnes against George H. Brown and others. It indicates that the $25,600 in dispute were for advances made to influence legislation, and Mr. Tilden and his brother contributed:

Q.—Had you ever made any advance to the New-York Central Underground Railway Company?

A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—When and where?

A.—When I was absent; when I returned from Europe after this legislation; after this contract was made; I don't know anything about the contract in suit; I was told by my associates that these advances were necessary to procure certain legislation at Albany; I never was informed of the amount expended, but that we had contributed so much of this fund by Mr. Duncan; it was done in my absence; it was said it was a claim against the New-York City Central Underground Railway, and they recognized it as such.

Q.—Was Mr. Duncan interested in the New-York City Central Underground Railway at all?

A.—He was only interested in that as he was interested in the New-York, Boston, and Montreal Railway, Harlem Extension.

Q.—Was Mr. Duncan interested in the New-York City Central Underground Railway?

A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Had you paid any money to the Underground Railway Company?

A.—I understood that this money was to—

Q.—Had you paid any money to the Underground Railway Company?

A.—No, Sir, except it was paid from this fund.

Q.—What fund?

A.—The fund that was held by Mr. Duncan.

Q.—That fund was furnished by whom?

A.—Six-tenths by me, I think; one-tenth by Mr. Seligman; one-twentieth by Mr. Duncan; one-tenth by Samuel J. Tilden; one-tenth by Mr. Tilden's two brothers; one-twentieth by Mr. Baxter, and one-tenth by Oliver Charles.

Q.—All these men were interested in a line of railroad that was to be constructed to run to Canada?

A.—No, Sir; they were interested in a line of railroad that was constructed from Chatham Four Corners to Rutland, Vt.; this fund belonged to that road.

Q.—That was to be part of a consolidated road?

A.—Yes.

Q.—The Tildens were interested in that?

A.—The same road from Chatham Four Corners to Rutland that was built—120 miles; we owned all that road; I think we owned all the stock.

Q.—This fund that was put in Mr. Duncan's hands, was that the fund of the railway company?

A.—No, Sir; it was a fund that belonged to the owners of the railroad company in that proportion, and I think we held—owned—the rolling stock; we owned it individually, and it was from this fund that this advance was made to the Underground Railway Company.

Q.—Was there any resolution of the Board of Directors of the Underground Railway that they had the money?

A.—No, Sir,

Q.—Did you ever pay any of it?

A.—No, Sir.

Q.—You don't know that they ever had it?

A.—They admitted that they had it.

Q.—Do you know that they had any parties—who were paid out of that sum, as you understood it, which went to Albany to procure amendments to the charter?

A.—I didn't understand that our parties had anything to do with Albany at all. They paid the money to the Underground Railway Company. The purpose for which it was used, as I understood it, was to pay Legislative expenses for procuring amendments to the charter.

Q.—When that fund was raised you had the same understanding?

A.—I was not here, and had no understanding about it. I was in Europe.

Q.—When the fund was originally put in Mr. Duncan's hands, as you heard?

A.—Yes. The fund had been there for years.

By Mr. Miles—Had nothing whatever to do with the Underground Railway Company?

A.—No, sir.

By Judge Nelson—When you got back from Europe you were informed of what had been done with that fund?

A.—I was informed that Mr. Duncan had advanced $25,000 from the fund owned by these parties, in which I had a six-tenths interest—that the purpose of that was to secure to the Underground Railroad an interest in New-York, a connection with the New-York, Boston and Montreal line, in which we had an interest, to get an inlet into the City of New-York from Vermont.

Q.—Then the only claim you had against that company was for your interest in that money?

A.—They had made a bill to represent services; at their request I made each one. I changed it afterward. I changed it from "services" to make it read "for advances"—either I did, or some one else did for me.

Q.—You announced at that time that this money was to come back from the New-York, Boston and Montreal Railroad Company?

A.—Yes, Sir.

Cross-examined by Mr. Chittenden: Q.—Were you called at any time for what purposes this $25,000 had been paid?

A.—I was told, among other things, $10,000 was paid to Judge Hilton for going to Albany to see about this matter. I don't think any other specific name was mentioned to me.

Q.—I understand that you held this $25,000 as a proper claim against the Underground Railway Company?

A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—For which they issued stock, and for that stock you were paid $25,000 by the New-York, Boston and Montreal Railroad Company.

A.—Yes, Sir.

Re-direct by Judge Nelson: Q.—Do you mean that you sold this stock to the New-York, Boston and Montreal Railroad Company?

A.—I should like to explain the—

Q.—Do you mean that you sold this stock to the New-York, Boston and Montreal Railroad Company? Answer yes or no.

A.—Well, it you want such an answer, I say no.

Q.—State now how you did it.

A.—Why I did it was—I was to receive stock—receipt the bill. They delivered me stock with the assurance that I could get the money, and I did get the money. I didn't lose anything, and I didn't make anything by it, and the claim was an honest one.

Cross-examined by Judge Fullerton: Q.—When you took this bill as you have stated, and received the stock, you receipted the bill against the New-York City Underground Railway Company?

A.—I think I did; I would not accept the bill for services I had not rendered—never claimed that I had.

By Judge Nelson: Q.—"Services" were left in the bill?

A.—No, Sir; they were erased and marked "for advances."

HOW THEY FIGURED IT.

The Denver (Col.) Tribune says: "The Democratic tables of election returns that have been made up from Colorado were made to show the desired result by a very simple device. The size of the Democratic majority that it was desired to show—whether it should be 100, 200, 500, or 1,000—was first determined. The Republican majority in Boulder was reduced, the Democratic majorities in Las Animas and Huerfano were increased, and Lake, Grand, and the San Juan counties put down for whatever Democratic majority was necessary, and the computation was made, and the required majority was produced every time, with all the certainty and exactness of one of Samuel J. Tilden's income returns showing the amount of his net receipts for the year. Sometimes the method would be varied by serenely placing Conejos with 150 majority in the Democratic column. But the estimated Democratic majorities in the San Juan country have been the great reliance of the Democratic mathematicians."

GENERAL TELEGRAPH NEWS.

THE EARL OF DUFFERIN AT OTTAWA.

RESULTS OF HIS VISIT TO BRITISH COLUMBIA—HIS IMPRESSIONS OF THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION—HIS GRATIFICATION WITH HIS RECEPTION IN THE UNITED STATES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24, 1876.

To the address of welcome presented to the Governor General by the Corporation of Ottawa, his Excellency replied, that it was with no ordinary emotion he accepted the kind welcome tendered by the people of the capital. His visit to British Columbia had been both agreeable and instructive, and, although he could scarcely hope that his presence in that Province had done much toward allaying the controversy which, as they were aware, existed between the Government of the Dominion and the local administration, he could not help thinking, however, that his visit might be regarded as an undoubted pledge of good will and affection felt by the people of the Dominion toward British Columbia—a feeling that could not but prove beneficial in its effect. He was glad to say, that from the moment he landed in that Province to the time of his departure the people vied with one another in expressions of loyalty.

His Excellency then proceeded to congratulate the people of Canada on the satisfactory part they had taken in the Centennial Exhibition, and assured them that the effect produced was most marked, Canada's pre-eminence in many cases being universally acknowledged. There was a greater satisfaction when awards were declared by the Judges, and the Canadian exhibitors were found victorious in so many departments. Apart from the pride they might take in their exhibition we had reason to be proud also of the part taken by Great Britain and her colonies, in fact, the empire at large. It was a pleasure to see the magnificent display of her native treasures, surrounded as they were by those of her colonies. To that display the Americans attribute the success, in many respects, of their Exhibition. The generous feeling which prompted England to take so prominent a part, would draw more closely the bonds of friendship and unity, on which the peace and prosperity of the two countries depend. Any one, while taking a walk through the length of the Exhibition building, whether he was a Canadian, an Englishman, an Australian, or an American, must have felt proud to think that he belonged to the great Anglo-Saxon race, whose language is spoken by one-third of the human race, and who have been able to found

ENGLISH SPIRITUALISTS.

PROSECUTION OF HENRY SLADE IN LONDON.

AN AMERICAN IN THE BOW STREET POLICE COURT—THE PROSECUTING WITNESS UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION—EXHIBITION OF SLATE WRITING BY A NOTED CONJUROR—SUPERNATURAL AGENCY MUST BE PROVED.

The trial of Henry Slade, and Jeffray Simmons, the Spiritualists, previously summoned on a charge of being rogues and vagabonds, and also on a charge of conspiracy to obtain money by false pretences, was resumed at the London Bow Street Police Court on Tuesday, the 10th inst., before Mr. Flowers, Magistrate. Mr. George Lewis appeared to conduct the prosecution, and Mr. Moulton for the defense. There was a great attendance of mediums and believers in Spiritualism. A full report of the day's testimony would fill a page of THE TIMES, hence only the following abstracts from the proceedings can be given: Prof. E. Ray Lankester was the first witness on the stand, and his cross-examination was resumed.

* * * * * * * *

You stated in the letter that the first message you got upon the slate was written by Dr. Slade underneath the slate?—I wrote something more than that. I said I had the strongest reason to believe that it was the case.

Did you not distinctly say in your letter that the message was written underneath (the slate?—I stated that I believed so.

Now do you say that that "believe" [a word contained in the letter,] has anything to do with it?—It qualifies the statement.

Mr. Lewis asked that the detached sentences of the letter should not be read, and said to Mr. Munton—If you were to treat this gentleman with a little more courtesy it would be better. [Applause.]

Mr. Munton—I don't want any lessons in courtesy from you, Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis here read the chief portions of Mr. Lankester's letter.

Mr. Munton read from the letter the allusions to the delay in producing the writing, which said, inter alia, "This delay did not occur when Slade wrote with the finger of the hand by which he held the slate." Now, do you venture to assert that that "I believe" had anything to do with it?

Witness—I had the intention of qualifying a statement. I am not certain, but I believe it was done in that way.

What do you mean by having said on the last occasion that you would not pledge yourself that the writing occurred underneath the slate—had you changed your opinion since you wrote the letter?—I told you upon the last occasion that I had reason, from conversations I had had with another person, to suppose that the first message might have been written in a different way.

Do you assume that you had fallen into an error?—I might have fallen into an error.

Do you venture now to say that the writing was underneath the slate? I have told you I cannot say definitely; I think it is extremely probable that it was underneath the slate; it is perfectly true that I cannot tell which side of the slate the writing was on.

Mr. Munton, reading: "The slate is so closely applied to the table that no hand or finger could possibly get between them or write"—you will pledge yourself therefore that the writing was not between the slate and the table?

Witness—I say that no hand or finger could have got between to effect the writing. * * *

You state it was impossible for a hand or finger to get between the slate and the table. If you are in doubt that the writing was on the under surface, is not that an answer to your assertion of imposture? No; because there are other means of writing by a pencil though a finger could not get between the slate and the table. Two means occur to me at this moment; one is that of a piece of pencil held in the under side of the table, and the other having a small piece of pencil on a long nolder inserted between the table and the slate. * * *

I ask you whether you now say that the parenthesis "I believe" had anything to do with the general statement that the message was written on the underneath side of the slate? I think it qualifies what I wrote. "I believe" shows that one was as liable as to the exact method.

Notwithstanding that you were in doubt, did you instruct your solicitor to state here on the last occasion positively that that was how the message was produced? You have the letters before you.

You stated on the last occasion that it did not follow because a pencil was placed on the upper surface that the message was actually written with such a piece of pencil. Has any one before you think any experienced conjurer, as Dr. Slade has been called, would do such a trick as that—to put a piece of pencil on the top and produce writing at the bottom? I do.

Would not that excite suspicion? Not necessarily.

To a "skilled observer?" I am not here to appear as a "skilled observer." The slate is turned round by sleight of hand, and it is difficult to say upon which side of the slate it was written.

Did you observe the sleight of hand in connection with the slate? The nature of sleight of hand—if there is sleight of hand—prevents you observing. [Laughter.]

* * * * * * * *

When Dr. Slade placed the slate in position, was he holding it with the right or with the left hand? With the right hand.

Then with which hand do you say he wrote the message? He wrote the message with the right hand.

While he had the slate in that hand? Possibly he may have done so; he may have written on his knee.

While he was holding the slate? While balancing it on his knee; I think he was balancing it on his knee and yes still writing.

You have said that the message was brought slowly up and that you soon saw words on the upper surface. When the slate was placed in position did you hear on this occasion what you have said you heard on other occasions—a scratching similar to writing? Yes, I heard the writing upon the knee.

Now, having heard the writing on the knee, did you hear the simulated writing or "scratching" when the slate was placed in position? Yes.

Well, why not say so in your evidence in chief? It don't know that I did not say so.

Mr. Lewis—He did say so; he even took a slate and scratched it with his finger by way of illustration.

The Clerk of the Court referred to the evidence, from which it appeared that the witness had stated that he heard a "scratching on the slate. * * *

Were both his hands under the table together? Both his hands would be hidden by the table.

Do you think the writing at any time occurred when both his hands were on the table? Yes.

How long do you think the longest message took to write? Three or four seconds.

And that sometimes he wrote with one hand under and sometimes with both hands under the table? Yes.

Would not that be the most absurd imposture? It was most absurd.

Do you think that is the way he has been deceiving people for fifteen years? No, I don't think it is the only way. There are many other ways. * * * The table was produced in court, amid much amusement. It appeared to be an ordinary kitchen table, with four legs and two flaps, and, when extended, was about four feet square. It had the ordinary framework around the central portion of the table or legs to the depth of some six or eight inches. When the flaps were extended it would appear to an ordinary sitter to be devoid of any framework.

Have you any reason to suppose that was not the table you saw? I have no reason to suppose that it is.

Be kind enough to look at the table.—Witness having carefully examined and measured the table said, "I could not swear it was or was not. The flaps are the parts at which we were sitting, and their supports are extraordinary.

Mr. Flowers.—Are the flaps supported in the usual way?

Mr. Munton.—They are not exactly, and I will explain that presently.

The Magistrate.—It is certainly an extraordinary table. I never saw a table the flaps of which were supported in this way.

The table was turned over and examined, when it appeared that a single bracket, working on a pivot, opened out from the inner frame-work of the table for the support of each flap.

Mr. Maskelyne was also allowed to examine the table, and at the close of his inspection he said, with a tone and manner which excited much merriment in court, "It is a very remarkable table."

Mr. Munton—I vowed that gentleman to some over and look at the table, but I must protest against his making any observation of that kind.

* * * * * * * *

Have you heard that the sound of writing on the knee has frequently been heard by inquirers into this subject at times when no writing was subsequently discovered?—I have not.

Mr. Lewis objected to questions of that nature as irrelevant to the issue.

Mr. Flowers said that the defendant professed that the writing was done by the deceased Mrs. Slade. [Laughter.]

Mr. Lewis.—And farther, that from the position and the acts of the defendant that he did it himself.

Mr. Munton.—I am not called upon to show that this was done by supernatural agency.

Mr. Flowers.—I think you are. [Laughter.]

Mr. Munton.—If the defendant saw the writing of Mrs. Slade, I don't know that I am bound to show that it was not. I think the defendant believed it, and that is enough for me.

Mr. Flowers—The question is simply did the defendant fraudulently induce people to come by pretending to do a thing which he did not. I do not wish to say too much on the matter, for this matter may be called almost a new religion, and I do not want to hurt the feelings of any one who believes in it.

Mr. Munton.—I am sure, Sir, you will appreciate the position in which I am placed.

Mr. Flowers.—I never knew an advocate in a more difficult position. [Laughter.]

* * * * * * * *

Mr. Munton.—Now, when you snatched the slate away from Dr. Slade said to you, "We will try again," then he got the slate under the table and said, "The spirits are a long time coming;" that you said, "Yes," and he said, "If you held the slate perhaps they will write more distinctly." Was the slate before that in position under the table? No, it was not in position on that occasion.

Then how do you explain his remark "that the spirits were a long time coming?" I am not called upon to explain that, but my explanation is that he does not put the slate in position until he is aware that the spirits are present.

Did you hold the plate? I met it as he placed it in position at the corner of the table, and snatched it away.

Was that not, according to your evidence, after it had been there the fraction of a second? As it came to the corner of the table I met it and snatched it away.

That was not after it was assumed that writing had commenced?—No. I mean it was in the position where he ordinarily places it, and that it had not been there the fraction of a second.

I ask you whether the slate was not in position for some space of time?—No, it was not. * * *

Mr. Flowers.—Do you admit, Mr. Munton, that there was no writing or message on that slate before it touched the table?

Mr. Munton—No; I do not admit that (Laughter). It may be that writing was produced—

Mr. Flowers—The course of your cross-examination would seem to indicate that the slate was perfectly clean when it went under the table; but that in the short time which elapsed before it was seized, a message was produced by the spirits, who, of course, can do a great deal when they do come. (Laughter). I should like to know whether that is the case for the defendant. I should like to know whether I am going to try a question of spirits or not (laughter).

Mr. Munton—I understand the contention to be that the writing occurred on this occasion between the time when Dr. Slade commenced to move the slate toward the table and the time when it was snatched away from him by Mr. Lankester. The question by which the court has really to decide is whether this is an imposture or not.

Mr. Flowers—That is the point; that is the proper way to put it.

At this stage of the proceedings Mr. Lewis called attention to a number of hats which had been placed on Mr. Slade's table, and said, "Gentlemen had better remove their hats." The gentlemen in question, who did not see the joke, at once removed their hats.

Mr. Flowers—"The spirits are very quiet here." [Loud laughter.] * * *

Do you say that in visiting Slade you parted with your money without representation?—If there had not been a representation I should not have gone to the performance.

What representations?—That the thing was done by spiritual agency.

By whom was that representation made?—Made by Slade, as reported to me. I did not consider when I got into Slade's apartments that I was bound to pay him the séance fee. I should not have considered the message from "Allie" worth a sovereign. [Laughter.] I went to Slade's on the representation that the writing was effected by spiritual agency. That representation was not made to me by either Slade or Simmons. I know that among Spiritualists the untrustworthiness of spirit messages is recognized. I know that to be a fact which they cannot deny.

Do you know that there are many people who admit the phenomena, but don't attribute them to spiritual agency?—No. I never knew precisely the difference between the two classes of persons. Putting aside the hypothesis of trickery, I do not consider the subject of these phenomena worthy of investigation.

You say you were not at all prejudiced?—Prejudiced is an uncertain word. I had arrived at no conclusion, having had no opportunity of testing the matter.

Throughout that séance you were on a sharp look out for any indication? Yes. * * *

Mr. John N. Maskelyne was then called and examined by Mr. Lewis. You carry on a business at Egyptian Hall, I believe? Witness—Yes.

What do you call yourself? I am a jeweler, a watch-maker, and a conjuror. [Laughter.]

How long have you been a conjuror?—For something like fourteen years—professionally, I mean. I have been an amateur conjuror from eight years of age.

Have you visited either of the defendants?—I have not.

Have you observed the table which has been produced here to-day?—I have glanced at it.

Is there anything peculiar about it?—I should say it is a very convenient table for "business." [Laughter.] It appears to me, from my knowledge of how the trick is managed, that the table has been slightly altered since Mr. Slade used it, and before it was brought into court. Mr. Maskelyne here left the witness box and went forward to the table for the purpose of pointing out some peculiarities in its construction. Upon his commencing to do so, however, Mr. Munton said he objected altogether to Mr. Maskelyne doing so. The witness had said he had never seen Dr. Slade's performance, and yet he came forward to tell them how it was done.

Mr. Maskelyne—I am going to show you how I can do it, if you will allow me. [Laughter.]

Mr. Munton—The question is not whether you can do it, but how Dr. Slade did it. Mr. Maskelyne proceeded to direct special attention to the long moveable bracket beneath the table by which, he said, almost any size of slate could be supported. He suggested that the end of this bracket had been recessed to support the slate, but that the recess had been cut off before the table was brought into court. He never saw an ordinary table made in that way. Witness added: With the exception of this special feature in the manufacture of the table for supporting the slate, there is nothing extraordinary in the table. [Slate produced.] I should say that Slade would use a larger slate than this. Tricks may be performed by a slate—they are useful in a variety of ways to a conjuror. I have had experience in slate-writing ten or twelve years ago. I practiced a little slate-writing.

Is it possible for writing to be on the slate and yet be invisible? Quite possible.

Have you a slate there? Witness produced a slate, upon which Mr. Flowers expressed a doubt whether this was the right sort of thing to introduce into a court of justice.

Mr. Lewis said he was going to show that what Slade professed has been done by spirits, could be done by any conjuror. Experiments are permitted day after day in courts of law to demonstrate facts, and that was all he proposed to do. The whole of the cross-examination has been to show that Dr. Slade was in a position which would render it impossible for him to do it, and his object was to show that it could be done.

Mr. Flowers—What you want to show is that it can be done in one place as well as another?

Mr. Massey—Unless Mr. Maskelyne has been there to see Dr. Slade how can he explain these things? We have no means of testing the applicability of these experiments.

Mr. Flowers—It won't take long.

Mr. Lewis—It won't take two minutes.

Mr. Maskelyne, who was in the witness box with a slate before him, said: It is a very good trick [laughter], and the point is this. It seems impossible that a man with a heavy slate can hold it and produce writing with the same finger beneath the slate. It is, however, very easy, especially if there is a slight projection or peg beneath the table, or cross piece, as in the table in court, to push the slate against and to help to support it. The slate can then be supported by the thumb, and the whole of the fingers left at liberty. The best way, however, of holding the pencil is—not under a finger-nail, for that is impracticable—by an apparatus like this (producing a little thimble with attached pencil fastened by elastic beneath his sleeve, which disappeared of itself when let go.) With this instantaneously fixed on the end of his finger he held the slate before him with the left hand and resting the thumb of the right hand on one side, and having the fingers loose on the other side, rapidly wrote a few words, which, when the slate was handed up to the bench, Mr. Flowers read, amid great laughter, to be "The spirits are present." The peculiarity of writing in this way is that the lines are necessarily somewhat curved. In producing such writing under a table the operator would, of course, say, rubbing it out, would say, "Now we will try again." Then he would place the other side of the slate against the table and say to his visitor, "You hold the corner." Of course the point of the thing is that he turns the slate over beneath the table, and then after it has been held close against the table, the writing appears again on the upper surface of the slate.

Mr. Lewis—Is it difficult for a clever conjuror to change the side of a slate in the way you suggest?—There is no difficulty at all.

Mr. Maskelyne proceeded to write upon the slate the words "The spirits are present," and then to rub them out with a damp sponge. He then carefully dried the slate, which appeared free from any writing whatever; but in the course of a few minutes the message which he had apparently obliterated distinctly reappeared. In performing this trick, Mr. Maskelyne explained that he had not written upon the slate with a common slate pencil, but with what some of the comic journals would call a "Slade pencil." [Laughter.] The defendant, Simmons, seemed desirous of examining the slate, when the message, which had been for a few minutes invisible, reappeared, but Mr. Maskelyne quietly remarked to him, "Oh, you know all about it, Sir, surely." [Laughter.]

Mr. Munton expressed the hope that some restraint should be put upon Mr. Maskelyne performing in public. [Laughter.]

Mr. Maskelyne went on to mention the case of a "medium" who, a few years ago at a séance, although both hands were held by others present, produced a long message by means of a small piece of pencil which had been concealed in the mouth by bending his head down to the slate and writing with a pencil which was held between his teeth. [Laughter.]

Cross-examined by Mr. Massey—Supposing I brought two slates to the Egyptian Hall and never let them go out of my sight, and kept my hands upon them all the time—[laughter]—under these conditions, both sides of the slate are found to be filled with writing, what would you say? Would you say that any practical conjuror would be unable to do that?—Yes, unless somebody else did it for him.

What would you say if Dr. Slade did it?—I should say that it is a very great pity that he does not always do it, [Laughter.]

Would you say that it would be impossible for him to do it?—I say it would be impossible to do it in the way you describe. I believe that any man must be deceived who fancies he sees it done in that way.

Cross-examined by Mr. Munton—After I was subpœnaed to give evidence in this case my manager inserted an advertisement in the newspapers stating that until Slade's case was disposed of I should not perform his tricks.

Did you think that a decent proceeding?—I should not have thought it decent to perform them during the time that proceedings were pending.

Re-examination by Mr. Lewis—I advertised that I would do Slade's tricks, and then when I found that proceedings were pending, I advertised that I would not perform the tricks while legal proceedings were pending. If, under the conditions described by Mr. Massey, there was any sleight of hand performed which the visitor did not perceive, that would account for the results stated.

ENGLAND AND DAHOMEY.

THEIR MILITARY RELATIONS—A PEOPLE WHO IMAGINE THEMSELVES ALL-POWERFUL.

From the London Standard.

Our military relations with the Kings of Dahomey do not stand in a very favorable light. In 1727 King Agajah made war on Savi, then a powerful kingdom, as kingdoms go in Africa, and captured forty white men, whom he imprisoned in Alladah, the Winchester of Dahomey. Again, the same King, in 1730, Testesolo, the Governor of the English fort, having offended, attacked the English town at Whydah, and put the Governor to a cruel death; and in 1732, the Jakin people having revolted and received the support of Hartog, the Dutch Governor, the Gaow or military commander in the Dahoman Army made a descent upon them, and compelled the white men to accompany him to Alladah. Mpengala, too, in 1786, made war on Porto Novo, and carried away a number of Europeans to Abomey, where they were subject to every indignity, if not murdered. Again, in Abomey there is a tree which bears as ghastly fruit the bones of a missionary, who was butchered by orders of the late King Geza, in defiance of the threats held out to him by the commander on the station. These events are daily chanted in the ears of the King and cabooceers by the national bards or Pani-gashuntoh, and under the influence of their minstrelsy, which is of course flattering to Dahoman prowess in the extreme, the excitement of the monarch and his courtiers becomes so rampant that they really believe the servile adulations of the bards, and imagine themselves the most powerful people upon earth. The English, according to their creed, ontdo them in the manufacture of guns, powder, cloth, &c.; but the Dahomans being able to purchase them are their equals, while in the field no living army could for a moment withstand the mighty Dahoman warriors and their far-famed Amazons. The defeat of the Invincibles at Abeokouta is attributed to the fact that they fought behind their walls, and that in the open field they would have been driven like chaff before the wind had they attempted to resist the Dahomans. In cabooceer surrounded by his bodyguard and mailed hand, while his soldiers gyrate around him in their war dances, believes himself to be an object of envy and terror to his enemies and of respectful admiration to Europeans. Besides this, the universal opinion that our rapid march from Coomassie was entirely owing to fear lest the Ashanti army should rally and annihilate our forces, has had its influence with the Dahomans, and, knowing that some time must necessarily elapse before any force could be brought against him, Galele sits upon his blood-stained, skull-adorned stool in the Jegbeh Palace and hurls defiance at our threats. Let us therefore hope that some means may present themselves by which our honor may be vindicated without incurring the forfeiture of the lives of the hostages now in the hands of the King. A rescue is as difficult as to appear impossible, for the King's orders are carried out with such secrecy, and such means are adopted for deceiving outsiders, that it is a question whether any but their janitors would have a precise knowledge of their whereabouts. Then, again, they are so closely guarded that, unless an unforeseen opportunity presents itself, escape is beyond possibility. Lucky, indeed, were the Frenchmen who lately escaped from Jakin assisted by their Kroomen, but we fear that for those under the custody of the Whydah cabooseers such a chance is very remote indeed. Again, if they are taken up the country it would be impossible to follow them with any hope of saving their lives, as many are the opportunities afforded for escapement, and such is the character of the Dahoman, from the monarch to the menial, that if the pursuit were growing too hot they would remorselessly decapitate every prisoner rather than give him up, especially if such were the orders of the King. By Dahoman custom no person of royal blood is allowed to obtain a glimpse of the sea, such a thing having fatal tendency, both in Prince and people, according to the traditions of the fetiche priests. Seated, therefore, in his palace at Abomey, with drinking-cups and ornaments composed of the skulls of conquered Kings spread out before him, his ears constantly filled with sycophantic laudations of his mighty power from the Amazons of the "inside" and officers of the "outside," it is no wonder that Gelele has brought himself to believe in his own invincibility.

THE BIG GUNS OF ENGLAND.

From the London Telegraph.

Yesterday morning the Heavy Gun Committee visited Shoeburyness for the purpose of witnessing the powers of penetration of the thirty-eight-ton gun. A target, specially constructed by Messrs. John Brown & Co., of Sheffield, was put up by the Royal Engineers on the Marsh, and the gun was with great difficulty and labor carted from from its landing-place to within seventy yards of the target. This consists of three rolled iron plates, ten feet by eight feet, of six and a half inches thickness, between which were placed two layers of teak of five inches each in thickness, which were supported by piles of fourteen by fifteen inches, bolted together with three-inch bolts. Some five feet in rear was an old ten-inch target riddled with shot. Capt. Fairfax Ellis, as usual, had charge of the experimental party, and operations commenced shortly before 12 by a trial shot against a 10-inch target, with a second in the rear of four inches in thickness, with a backing of fourteen inches of teak. The charge consisted of 130 pounds of powder, and the weight of the shot was 800 pounds. It went clean through the old target, and then broke up, after striking the 4-inch one, between which there was a fairway of six feet, thus tending to uphold the theory that there should be an open space always between the outer and inner skin of a vessel. Immediately after the discharge the wound was examined by the officers present, few of whom anticipated the effect would have been so tremendous. It was ascertained that the Palliser chilled shell had cut completely through the target, and had broken up within a couple of yards of the further side, and not within the gun itself. The gas-check which was one of Lieut. Gould Adam's, lodged in the hole, and the friction was so great that it set fire to the teak backing. Portions of the base of the shell also remained, but the greater part of it was found within twenty yards of its striking object. The target itself, although well shorn up, was driven back seven inches, and the huge piles in the rear were cut through. A 12-inch target which was behind was scored all over with fragments of the shell, and pieces of the target itself were hurled fully 200 yards away from its base. The striking velocity was estimated at 1,920 feet. The wound made by the shell was exactly 12½ inches by 13 inches, and the depth to which the gas-check sank in it was 22 inches. After this trial some experiments with a new 7-pounder field gun for use in Kaffraria were conducted by Capt. O'Callaghan. The rain, however, descended so heavily that great difficulty was experienced in ascertaining the results.

INTERVIEW WITH THE GRAND VIZIER.

The correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette sends the following notes of a conversation recently held by him with the Grand Vizier, in which the Turkish Prime Minister appears to have expressed himself freely as to the conduct of the powers toward the Porte: "We have (he said) more than three hundred thousand men under arms, who live I know not how. We have been deceived by the powers, who assured us that since Servia and Montenegro had refused to follow their advice they would leave them to extricate themselves from their difficulties alone. We believed that in two weeks we should have been able to bring matters to a peaceful conclusion. But we are now fighting, not against the Principalities, but against Russia and all the Slav population of Austria. We have been as conciliatory as possible, but we we are asked to create autonomies which will simply perpetuate the insurrection. Observe that Servia will not accept the armistice, and has renewed hostilities at all points. You probably know of the propositions of the powers. They were thus conceived: 1. Status quo ante bellum for Servia and Montenegro. 2. No indemnity or augmentation of the Servian tribute. 3. Administrative autoonmy for Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Bulgaria. The Porte has accepted the two former. This is its reply to the third: 'The old order of the insurrection is a question apart. We feel assured that these provinces would not have revolted without pressure from without; but we admit that it is our misgovernment which has obliged them to rise.' As these provinces have been governed in the same manner as all the rest of the empire, the reforms ought to be extended to all our subjects indiscriminately, and to grant to special privileges to Bosnia and the Herzegovina would be to offer a premium to insurrection, and to excite the other provinces to behave in the same way. We promise and undertake to extend the reforms indicated in the Andrassy Note to all our provinces, and further, to establish a general council, one half of the members of which shall be elected for the purpose of supervising the application of the reforms."

A CHINESE MANDARIN SWINDLED.

The Paris Correspondent of the Court Circular writes: "The Chinese Mandarin, a very extraordinary envoy, Mung, has arrived on his mission to Paris. He traveled from Marseilles with his Secretaries and suite in a carriage which had been reserved for him as Ambassador. He was somewhat surprised to see a gentleman enter and bow politely to the Mandarin, explaining that he was the proprietor of the train. The Mandarin made signs, he understood no French. The only foreign tongue that he possessed was English, and that but slightly. His new friend spoke English fluently. The Chinaman, who had none of the 'cuteness of the Heathen Chinee informed his new friend that this was his first journey on a railway. He was astonished. His friend asked him whether he would like to buy the carriage in which they were riding, as well as the engine and tender. They will be extremely useful to you to drive about Paris; you will be obliged to procure such a vehicle. I will sell you this, locomotive and all, for 10,000f. The Mandarin joyfully accepted the offer, plumed himself on his 'cuteness in having made so excellent a bargain, and did not discover that he had been 'done' until he reached Paris and claimed his carriage. His friend took leave of him at the station hoping they should meet again."

FROM THE FOREIGN MAILS.

AN AMUSING MATRIMONIAL HOAX.

HOW A GLASGOW MERCHANT WAS IMPOSED UPON—SEARCHING AFTER A WIFE IN MANCHESTER.

From the Liverpool Post.

In spite of the many exposures of applicants for the marriage state through advertisements, and the hoax which is so often played upon them, another dupe has been found in Manchester in the person of a Glasgow merchant. It appears that some few weeks ago an advertisement appeared in the columns of the Manchester Examiner and Times of a certain "middle-aged gentleman who would like to correspond with a lady of highly respectable parentage, with a view to matrimony. A photo required, which would be honorably returned." So read the advertisement of the wife-seeker, and in connection with it a number of young "gentlemen" met at one of the Manchester hotels, and they decided to engage the services of several amateur actors and actresses to carry the hoax into effect. A Miss Sherbourne, of London, was employed to carry on the correspondence, and in answer to her letter the advertiser forwarded the following:

GLASGOW, Oct. 2, 1876.

MY DEAR: I am pleased to note in your letter that you trust this affair is not a hoax. I pledge my word as a gentleman of the most honorable Scottish birth, and holding one of the highest positions in commercial circles as a merchant in this city, that I shall treat your correspondence honorably, hoping the day is not far distant when I may claim you as my wife. I have had twenty-three applications to my advertisement, but I fear many of them were jokes, and your wish is no greater than my own that this shall be a bona fide 'transaction,' if such can be said of our correspondence." The letter went on to state the large amount of money the writer was worth. "His independency had been gained, and he only waited for a wife to crown his joys." Several letters passed on each side, which were always addressed to the Postoffice, and eventually, the merchant being convinced of the earnestness of Miss Sherbourne in the matter, proposed to meet her in Manchester, and after a week's stay in the city he suggested that they should get married. The young lady replied that she and her father would be most happy to meet him, and arranged that his visit should be on Saturday last. An amateur actor, Mr. J. Stoddart, of Manchester, had been engaged to personate old Mr. Sherbourne, and on Saturday last the pair awaited at the Victoria Railway Station the arrival of the Glasgow merchant. A signal of recognition having been previously given, the parties were soon together and safely seated in a waggonette, which was waiting outside the station gates. The would-be husband appeared to be a gentleman of about forty-six, of highly respectable appearance, and was accompanied by a confidential valet, who seemed to look with great suspicion upon the "venerable old gentleman and his lovely daughter," as the merchant styled them. An adjournment was made to the Queen's Hotel, and after a few of the sights of the city had been seen, it was suggested that they should "homeward fly," which was accordingly done. In a short time the merchant was safely deposited at the supposed residence of the Sherbournes, in Plymouth Grove, near Longsight. Here the gay party received a cordial welcome from some twenty "guests," who had assembled to meet them, and everything passed on very smoothly until after dinner. The entertainer proposed the health of Mr. Sherbourne in a very flattering manner; but as it had been arranged that the fun of the evening should commence at this juncture, Mr. Sherbourne, instead of replying, threw off his disguise, much to the intense amusement of the company and the dismay of the merchant, who accused those present of being totally unfit to move in the circles of life which they seemed to belong. If it was money they wanted he would give it to them, and threw on the table some $80. He then made for the door, but this was found to be fast, and as he stood near uttering vengeance against all, a string was pulled, overbalancing a large quantity of flour from off a shelf on the top of the door, and which completely covered the unfortunate Scotchman. He picked up his hat—into which had previously been poured some paraffine oil—and as he placed it upon his head the oil streamed down his face and neck. While meditating over the best mode of escape a bag of flour sulphur was emptied over his head, which changed his appearance considerably. In this state he was allowed to leave the house, but was greeted outside by a number of young men with small parcels of soot, and rotten eggs were not forgotten. Before being permitted to escape, his face was rubbed with treacle, which, when combined with the flour, sulphur, and paraffine, made his features present a novel appearance. The valet came in for a share of the treacle, soot, &c., and as they made their exit from the grove both looked more like members of the "Christy Minstrels" in evening dress than a merchant and valet."

FAIR HAIR AND BLUE EYES IN GERMANY.

For a long time the idea of a German, more particularly of a German lady, was that he or she had blue eyes and fair hair. The Germans themselves have frequently protested against this sweeping assertion, and a careful examination of a German regiment or of a German school would have sufficed to show the strong admixture of black hair and brown eyes. But anthropologists went on asserting their own views, formed on what they called their own long experience, till at last the public insisted on having the matter settled by a regular census. Government agreed, and on a certain day every school in Prussia had to make a return of the black and blue and brown color of the children's eyes. Many of the pupils came home on that day, telling their parents, with a mysterious air, that their eyes and hair and skin had been examined at school. Some of the parents thought it an undue interference with their rights, but the thing was done, and angry protests against what the Government commands or allows to be done are of little avail in Germany. After a short time, the results of this anthropological commission have been published, and they are, at all events, curious, though, perhaps, not of much scientific value. The number of persons examined in Prussia amounted to 4,127,766. Out of that number, 4,070,923 were under fourteen years of age. With regard to the color of their eyes, 43·97 per cent. had blue, 24·31 per cent. brown eyes. With regard to the color of the hair, 72 per cent. had blonde, 26 per cent. brown, and 1·21 per cent. black hair. With regard to the color of the skin, Prussia has only 6·53 per cent. of brunette complexion. In Bavaria the brunette complexion claims 15 per cent., the black hair 5 per cent., the brown hair 41 per cent., the fair hair 54 per cent.; and it is argued from this that the darker complexion in Germany came from the South—rather a bold generalization, if one considers the mixture of tribes in Germany, even at so late a time as the invasion of the barbarians into the Roman Empire. The report contains a number of curious observations; for instance, that nearly one-third of the Jewish school-children are fair, which would certainly not be the impression left upon a casual spectator by the ordinary run of the Jewish population."

CRABS AND LOBSTER FISHERIES.

The London Telegraph says: "Oysters have recently been the subject of the gravest deliberations of a Parliamentary Committee, from whose report, based as it was on a really valuable mass of evidence, a satisfactory legislative outcome may ere long be expected. Meanwhile, the time of the crustacea to be overhauled has come; and on Thursday last Messrs. Frank Buckland, Spencer Walpole, and Archibald Young, the Commissioners appointed to inquire into the Crab and Lobster Fisheries of Scotland, held their first sitting for the purpose of taking evidence in Edinburg. The principal witnesses examined were fishmongers, fishermen, and lessees of fisheries; and their testimony was generally to the effect that, as respects crabs, there was at present a great decrease in their number and size, owing to over-fishing. The demand was much greater than the supply. Forty years ago a dozen crabs might be purchased "in the trade" for tenpence; but the price would now be three shillings. Lobsters, likewise, during the last twenty years, had fallen off wonfully in Scottish waters, and fish formerly worth only a shilling now fetched two shillings or half a crown. There was a general consensus that both crabs and lobsters were taken when of too small a size, and in the breeding season; but opinion varied as to the best remedies for stopping an acknowledged evil. One witness thought that there should be a gauge for crabs and lobsters, and that none of the former under six inches along the back, or of the latter none less than eight inches in length, should be taken out of the water. Another witness thought that a close time during the month of June, to be enforced for three or four years, would do a great deal of good; a third subject suggested the gauge without the close time, and some a close time and a gauge to boot. It might, perhaps, be difficult to draw a hard-and-fast line as to measurement, unless the naturalists are prepared to prove conclusively that a little crab left to itself is sure to grow into a big one; and, again, when the Commissioners have finished their inquiries, some other authorities, such as epicures and medical men, might be allowed to say a word or two on the subject. The gastronomes will point out that monstrous crabs and lobsters are apt to be tough and devoid of flavor; whereas the doctors may opine that a big shell-fish is, under any circumstances, a great evil, and that a huge crab, especially when dressed in the unscientific manner in which Britons delight, is often a fatally unwholesome delicacy. We usually eat our shell-fish at the wrong time—late at night. We use too much vinegar and mustard and too little oil in dressing them; and the poorer classes, at least, wash down their dressed crab with precisely the wrong kind of beverage—heavy beer. At the same time—albeit the doctors may shake their heads at the article altogether—it is expedient that this most popular item of food should be abundant in quantity and cheap in price; and, if the Scottish fisheries have really fallen off to an appreciable extent, it would be certainly beneficial to entorce a close time, and to adopt some reasonable gauge of measurement."

THE PRIME MINISTER AND HIS VOTE.

At the revision of the votersʼ lists for the County of Somerset, at Bath, recently, the attention of the Revising Barrister was called to the fact that Lord Beaconsfield, who was on the register as an owner of property in Bath, was no longer entitled to vote, having become a peer. The entry on the register was as follows: "Benjamin Disraeli, of Grosvenor-gate, Park lane, London; freehold house, 8 Brock street, Bath." In expunging the vote, the Revising Barrister (Mr. Lucius H. Fitzgerald) remarked that it was not every Revising Barrister who could remove a Prime Minister from a voting list by a mere stroke of the pen.

THE KEY OF THE GATE OF INDIA.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE BLACK SEA—THE BOSPHORUS AND THE DARDANELLES—ENGLISH INTERESTS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN SEA.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

There is a cardinal physical fact which may control the intercourse between Great Britain and India, and which seems to have been left out of sight by most writers in this country. It is a fact of which Russian statesmen are fully aware, and it is one deserving of the quiet attention of Englishmen. We are accustomed to regard Constantinople as a position the master of which holds the key of the Mediterranean, and thus, in case of need, can give passage to the fleets of the Black Sea, and arrest, or at least very greatly imperil, our maritime intercourse with India. This, however, is not exactly the truth. That the master of the Bosphorus holds the key of the southern entrance of the Black Sea is, of course, a matter beyond dispute. The powers directly interested in that fact are those which are dependent on the navigation of the Black Sea. In the present state of Europe it is those States and districts which find an outlet for their produce by the Danube, to whom it is of the first moment that the Bosphorus should be practically neutralized, or held by a non-aggressive power. The occupation of Constantinople by a first-class power, of possibly aggressive disposition, would be a checkmate to the Empire of Austria. It is thus a matter which chiefly concerns Austria, and not to be tolerated by that State, unless as the result of a disastrous war. But while the master of the Bosphorus can prevent a single vessel from escaping through the southern entrance of the Black Sea, he cannot send a single vessel of his own into the Mediterranean without the permission of the master of the Dardanelles. To show that this is not a mere rhetorical assertion, it is worth while to devote a few minutes' attention to the physical condition of the two intercoeanic communications in question.

The Bosphorus is a strait, the length of which the irregularities of shore makes something over forty marine miles. Narrow throughout, it is chiefly constricted at two points. At the northern entrance, opposite Fil Burnu, the width narrows to about one thousand four hundred yards. The channel is of regular form, though shelving more precipitously (under water) on the Asiatic than on the European coast. The depth, mid-channel in the Bosphorus the total width is 1,800 yards. From Seraglio Point to Leander's Tower it is only 1,620 yards. For the greatest part of this width the depth does not exceed twenty fathoms; but a depth of thirty-four fathoms is found to run through at about four hundred yards east of Seraglio Point. It is evident, therefore, that the entrance of the Bosphorus can be readily defended by torpedoes, and the northern entrance by artillery, by any power commanding the shore. At a distance of 150 marine miles southwest of Seraglio Point, a vessel navigating the Sea of Marmora arrives at the first constriction of Galipoli Strait, opposite Tchersdak. The width from Europe to Asia at this point is 3,300 yards. The greatest depth of the channel, about the middle, is forty-six fathoms. About five and one-third miles southwest of Tchersdak, we arrive at a point called the Narrows, between Kilia Bahron the European and Chanak Kalehsi on the Asiatic Coast. The extreme width at this point is 1,460 yards. The bottom of the channel declines, at first rapidly, and then more gradually, to a depth of 111 fathoms, and then more gradually, to a depth of 111 fathoms, and then more gradually, to such a depth of 111 fathoms, and then more gradually, to such a depth of 111 fathoms, and then more gradually, to such

The New-York Times.

WITH SUPPLEMENT.

NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 25, 1876.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEN. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM A. WHEELER,

OF NEW-YORK.

AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—La Fille de Madame Angot—Mlle. Marie Aimée. Matinee.—La Jolie Parfumeuse.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Life—Mr. C. F. Coghlan, Mr. James Lewis, Mr. Charles Fisher, Miss Amy Fawcitt, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Forbidden Fruit—Mr. J. Montague, Mr. Harry Beckett, Miss Ada Dyas, Miss Effie Germon.

GILMORE'S GARDEN.—Baba—Mr. W. A. Crane, Mr. V. Bowers, Miss Eliza Weathersby, Miss Minnelli.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.—Sardanapalus—Mr. F. C. Bangs, Mrs. Agnes Booth, grand ballet and chorus.

UNION SQUARE THEATRE—The Two Orphans—Mr. C. Therne, Jr., Mr. J. O'Neill, Miss Kate Claxton.

NEW-YORK AQUARIUM.—Rare and Curious Fish and Mammalia, Statuary, &c.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN.—Exhibition of Paintings. Day and evening.

GILMORE'S GARDEN.—P. T. Barnum's Museum, Circus, and Menagerie.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.—Dramatic Performance—Curiosities—Afternoon and evening.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE HALL—Annual Exhibition of Art, Science, and Mechanics.

EAGLE THEATRE—Minstrelsy, Comedy, Burlesque.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Grand Novelty and Variety Entertainment.

PARK THEATRE.—Sweet Hearts and Tom Cobb.

KELLY & LEON'S HALL.—Minstrelsy and Comicalities.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Variety Entertainment.—Messrs. Harrigan and Hart.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS—Minstrelsy, Farces, and Negro Comicalities.

STEINWAY HALL.—Grand Concert—Mr. H. A. Bischoff, Mr. Frank Remmerts.

SIXTEENTH STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.—Lecture by Mr. Frederick Douglass—"Self-made Men."

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

The New-York Times is the best family paper published; it contains the latest news and correspondence. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and may be safely admitted to every domestic circle. The disgraceful announcements of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of The Times on any terms.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

Postage will be prepaid by the Publishers on all Editions of The Times sent to Subscribers in the United States.

The Daily Times, per annum, including the Sunday Edition	$12
The Daily Times, per annum, exclusive of the Sunday Edition	10
The Sunday Edition, per annum	2
The Semi-Weekly Times, per annum	3
The Weekly Times, per annum	2

CLUB RATES OF THE WEEKLY.

Five Copies (per annum)	$7 50
Ten Copies (per annum)	12 50
Twenty Copies (per annum)	22 00
Thirty Copies (per annum)	30 00

And One Extra Copy to Each Club.

For every club of fifty, one copy of The Semi-Weekly Times to the getter-up of the club.

CLUB RATES OF THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES.

Two copies, one year	$5
Ten copies, one year, (and one extra copy free)	25

New names may be added to clubs at any time during the year at club rates.

The Semi-Weekly and Weekly mailed one year to clergymen at the lowest rates.

These prices are invariable. We have no traveling agents. Remit in drafts on New-York or Post Office Money Orders, if possible, and where neither of these can be procured send the money in a registered letter.

Terms, cash in advance.

Address THE NEW-YORK TIMES, New-York City

NOTICE.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot, under any circumstances, return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

This morning The Daily Times consists of Ten Pages. Every news-dealer is bound to deliver the paper in its complete form, and any failure to do so should be reported at the publication office.

The Republican rally at the Cooper Institute to-night will form the occasion of two of the most remarkable speeches of the campaign. Attorney-General Taft is able to speak with authority and force on the recent measures taken to insure a free election in the South, and Mr. Murat Halstead, editor of the Cincinnati Commercial, will address himself to the vital question of how Democratic success would affect rebel war claims. It is unnecessary to bespeak the attendance of Republicans at to-night's meeting. Members of both parties are certain to crowd the Cooper Institute to its utmost capacity, to listen to men who in their respective spheres so worthily represent some of the highest political thought of the country.

We publish to-day a transcript from the stenographer's notes of the evidence of Mr. Trenor W. Park in regard to the fund subscribed for lobbying purposes in connection with the New-York Underground Railway Company. It will be observed that this fund, which was distinctly understood to be intended to influence legislation at Albany, was obtained to the amount of $2,500 from Mr. Tilden, and to a similar amount from his two brothers. The vague and rambling disclaimer published in the World by Mr. W. W. Niles will hardly meet the positive statements of Mr. Park, unless, indeed, it be assumed that Mr. Park, like Mr. Tilden, is not above the suspicion of perjury.

Our special correspondent who has been reporting upon the political situation in the interior of the State gives a very suggestive illustration of the sensitiveness of capital to the issue of the pending campaign. He found that in a village of Cattaraugus County $175,000 was lying idle awaiting the result of the Presidential election. In the event of a Republican victory the money was to be invested in a new industry in the village, but Democratic success would keep it still lying idle. Our correspondent finds that in the large cities a similar view of the situation is pretty generally taken by capitalists, and he very justly remarks that "there is no class of people in this country so deeply interested in the success of the Republican ticket as the mechanics and laborers who are asked to vote for Tilden and Hendricks on account of the hard times.

If our friends in the country will read our account of the measures which have been taken under Mr. Davenport's supervision to prevent fraudulent voting in this City, they will probably feel reassured about the prospect of getting a fair representation for the Republican sentiment of the State. The verification of the registry will be very searching and thorough, and it is hardly possible that any but a small portion of illegal votes will be allowed to be recorded. The chief difficulty will probably be found in detecting young men not of full age, who have been admitted to the ranks of citizenship. Some cases of the kind have already been communicated to us, and the question of age is obviously one which the United States Marshals may find it hard to test. Private citizens can render very effective aid in this part of the work, and it is obvious that the detection and arrest of a few such offenders would deter a good many others from going to the polls.

Gen. Crook has been obliged to make a sudden and somewhat unusual intervention in the domestic politics of the Indians at the Red Cloud Agency. The band at that post have lately manifested a hostile disposition; they withdrew from the agency, but took good care to send in their squaws for rations, some part of which were probably sent to the fighting Indians in the North. Gen. Crook cut off communications between Red Cloud's band and the "hostiles," as they are called, and finally brought the former back to camp, where they were disarmed and deprived of their ponies. This unexpected stroke was followed by the deposition of Red Cloud and the designation of Spotted Tail as Chief of this particular subdivision of the Sioux. Spotted Tail has uniformly manifested a friendliness to the whites, and his promised cooperation in the movement which is now preparing against Sitting Bull will be invaluable. How far he will be able to control the tribe to whose chieftainship he succeeds is not certain, but he has much influence with the Sioux. The Red Cloud Indians have been uneasy for several months, and nothing but the presence of the military has restrained them from going on the war-path.

MR. TILDEN AND THE SOUTHERN CLAIMS.

Mr. Tilden wears his quill "with a difference." Touching matters which he alone can explain, and which the public anxiously wishes to be informed about, he is obstinately silent. Touching matters of general policy, where intelligent observers can make up their minds what is likely to happen quite as well as Mr. Tilden can, he is very free with his views and promises. He has just written a letter to his faithful apologist, A. S. Hewitt, on the subject of Southern claims. It is important mainly as a concession on his part that the subject needed attention, and that he and his party cannot afford to ignore it; as a reassurance to the country, should it have the misfortune to see Mr. Tilden President, it is of very doubtful value

Mr. Tilden declares that payment of the rebel debt and of losses by emancipation is prohibited by the fourteenth amendment, and in that he is correct. He also says that this amendment has been "repeatedly approved and agreed to by Democratic State Conventions of the South." "Repeatedly" is a vague word. Our own impression is that the number of conventions that have taken such action is small. But if it had been never so large, it would be of little consequence. The Democratic Party in many of the Southern States, as we have time and again pointed out, is a party of bad faith. It has repudiated the debts of the States in which it has been in power without scruple. If Mr. Tilden wishes us to suppose that he himself thinks that the professions of a political platform would stand in the way of the South one instant, should there be any hope of getting from the National Government reimbursement for its losses by the rebellion, we must decline to do so. He is too old a politician, and he knows his men too well to seriously entertain any such opinion.

The same remarks apply to the declarations of the National Democratic Convention. Mr. Tilden says that the fourteenth amendment "was unanimously adopted as a part of the platform of the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis on the 28th of June, and was declared by that platform to be 'universally accepted as a final settlement of the controversies that engendered civil war.'" The italics are Mr. Tilden's. They are unfortunate. The fourteenth amendment was not adopted as a part of the platform at St. Louis. On the contrary, the platform was ambiguous. Its language was, "We reaffirm our devotion to the Constitution of the United States, with its amendments universally accepted," &c. It is quite open to the Southern Democrats to say that this is a pledge of devotion to the Constitution with such of its amendments only as are universally accepted, and that the fourteenth is not one of these. Such an interpretation is by no means impossible, or without plausibility; and with a vast sum of money depending on the reading of the phrase, any one can see how it would be twisted. Again, Mr. Tilden emphasizes the declaration that the amendment is declared "a final settlement." But of what? Of the "controversies which engendered civil war." This does not cover the Southern claims. The controversy regarding them did not engender civil war. Civil war engendered it. By the language of the platform, therefore, the prohibition of the payment of the rebel debt and of rebel losses by emancipation is not accepted by the Democratic Party.

What Mr. Tilden says of his intention toward the Southern claims is explicit, and is worth as much as any of his promises. But how much are they worth? A few months since Mr. Tilden gave the country, in the avowals of his Messages and in his official action on the bill compelling payments in specie in this State after Jan. 1, 1879 a pledge as solemn as any could be that he would maintain the Resumption act of 1875. But in his letter of acceptance he consented to the repudiation of that act, and his party friends did thereupon, so far as the action of the House could do it, repudiate the act. Here was a case precisely parallel to that of the Southern claims. On the one side was the good faith of the nation and the distinct commitment of Mr. Tilden by his official utterances and acts. On the other side was the pressure of his party, inspired by greed and passion, and threatening him with loss of political power unless he conceded its demands. The situation was altogether too trying for Mr. Tilden's virtue. He yielded almost without a struggle, and when he says that he shall "deem it his duty to veto" bills for Southern claims, we cannot help asking, "Will he do what he deems his duty?" Of course he will not. He could not have more imperative motives for observing his obligation than he had in the matter of the Resumption law, and then he utterly failed to respond to it. With a Confederate Congress howling at his heels, and with threats from the leaders who would hold in their hands the success or failure of his administration, he would no more stand by the promise which he now makes than he would tell the truth about his income tax. His declarations are but "sprunges to catch woodcock withal."

DEMOCRATS AS REFORMERS.

The Democratic Party has singular methods of exemplifying and vindicating its "reform" pretensions. Its candidate for the Presidency stands convicted, morally, of offenses for which less notable persons have been sent to the penitentiary. The evidence which has been adduced to fasten upon him the charges of perjury and fraud may, as yet, lack the technical conclusiveness that would be required in a court of law, but, for all the purposes of moral proof, it leaves nothing to be desired. There has been no attempt to answer the general charges, which remain absolutely untouched and unshaken. It is absurd to suppose that a man who swore falsely to save his pocket, and who availed himself of a legal quibble to cheat the Government, for a series of years, of lawful dues, can be regarded, on any ground of right or propriety, as fit to be the chief executive officer of the Republic. He is, moreover, evidently out of place as the nominee of a party intent upon purifying the Government and elevating the standard of political life. The fact is acknowledged by candid members of the party. They speak of him, in ordinary conversation, as a "fraud." They declare that they have neither respect for nor confidence in him. And yet this reforming party retains him as its candidate, publicly swears by him, and, without even attempting to purge him of very base offenses, will vote for him as though no such offenses had been imputed to him. Not one member of the party has raised his voice in condemnation of the man whose nomination, in the circumstances, is a scandal to the country, or has called upon the party to examine the accusations and to rid itself of responsibility.

The same absence of moral principle is apparent in the attitude of the Democratic Party on the financial question. No sincere hard-money Democrat will venture to declare himself satisfied with the position of the party or the manner in which Mr. Tilden has adapted himself to it. The younger Charles Francis Adams, in the North American Review, is obliged to confess that Mr. Tilden humiliated himself, and sacrificed cherished convictions, in order to commend himself to the inflationist portion of the party. Mr. Adams is not alone in the opinion. There is not an earnest Democratic friend of resumption who does not feel that the alliance of Tilden and Hendricks is, as a matter of principle, anomalous and wrong, and that Tilden has succumbed to Hendricks in shaping the financial policy of the party for this canvass. Where, however, is the Democrat with manliness enough to declare that the compromise is disgraceful and disastrous, and that in consequence of it he will withhold his vote from Mr. Tilden? Mr. Adams, as a reformer of the first water, might have been expected to repudiate what he admits to have been a sacrifice of principle. But he does not. He supports the candidate who entered into a corrupt bargain, and all the time shouts "reform" as lustily as though he were consistent and sincere. As with him, so it is with other hard-money Democrats. They are dumb dogs in the service of the party, and go with it, though the course in which it moves is exactly the opposite of what they know to be right.

A third illustration of this characteristic occurs in relation to proceedings in South Carolina. Whatever be the merits of the measures adopted by the President in compliance with the call of the Governor, there is a clear question of right and wrong at the bottom of the controversy. A conscientious Democrat having peculiar ideas with regard to the limitations imposed by the Constitution upon Federal authority, may object to the action taken in the present instance. We differ from him, but at least we must respect his opinion. But even the ingrained opponent of Federalism cannot pretend that the tactics of Wade Hampton and his party are lawful or expedient. He cannot justify the attempt to drive out of the State white Republicans, and to coerce and intimidate colored Republicans. He must concede that if the South Carolina Democrats carry out their programme, there will be an end to all semblance of political liberty in the State, and to all chance of giving effect to the constitutional amendments. But what Democrat has dared to remonstrate with his party upon the subject? Orators and editors of the Democratic school have had a great deal to say about "Federal outrages," but with regard to the outrages perpetrated in the interest of their own party they are silent. Not one of them has suggested that colored people have rights that should be respected, or that the Democratic Party subjects itself to censure when it tolerates the violence and cruelty that have been resorted to in its name.

Is all this exactly what should be looked for at the hands of reformers? Is it befitting members of a party which professes to be engaged in a "reform" campaign? The question suggests a contrast between Republicans and Democrats which detracts largely from the pretensions of the latter. There is in the Republican Party a powerful element which has never shrunk from denouncing wrong done by Republican leaders, or from protesting against the multiplication of corrupting influences in the party organization. This element asserted itself long ago with a fearlessness that was productive of beneficial results. It has been a potent, cumulative force ever since. It appealed to the moral principle of the party, and by open, persistent effort gradually gained for that principle the influence it wields. We need not depict the occasions on which it has assailed demoralizing influences and established for itself the mastery. These occasions are too recent in national and State politics to be misunderstood. They have abundantly proved that moral forces are at work within the Republican Party which may be relied upon to counteract injurious individual influence, and to hold the party to a proper use of its opportunities.

The trouble with the Democratic Party is, that its evil influences are in the ascendant, and that its reformers are powerless in its ranks. Its discipline is exacting, and fatal to the moral individuality which must reveal itself in reform movements. There are worthy, honest Democrats, of course. But they are cowed and helpless. They have no chance within the party of beating down the dishonesty which rules its councils, and they have lost heart and strength in consequence. The spirit which dominates is as indifferent to personal character in candidates as to the means by which their election may be secured. It is a degraded and degrading spirit, and one with which genuine reformers can have no sympathy.

GUMBLETON'S FRIEND.

Mr. Henry A. Gumbleton is John Kelly's nominee for County Clerk. He is now Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, and we must suppose that Mr. Kelly considers him "one of the Creator's noblest works," as well as Deputy Commissioner of Public Works. But Gumbleton was also Deputy Commissioner while Gen. Fitz John Porter was Commissioner of Public Works, and the Post, commenting upon that fact, accurately remarked that Gumbleton was really the principal of the non-resident Porter, and that the charges then made against the department—and there were many—were substantially charges against Gumbleton. All of which seems a truthful presentation of the case as regards Gumbleton, who probably felt much mortified when he saw this paragraph. For it should be borne in mind that Gumbleton is a candidate for office.

But it happens that Gumbleton has a friend. He is at present confined in the World office, where he is condemned, for dreadful crimes, to write articles about Earl Dufferin and other lords of high degree, and compose a dinner bill of fare for every day in the year. This wretched man flew to the rescue of his friend Gumbleton. Temporarily leaving his Burke's Peerage au gratin, he sat down and wrote one of those charming editorial paragraphs which are the delight and envy of mankind. For once he excluded all reference to the Dukes of Braganza, and sauce à la Hollandaise, and said that the only charge ever made against the Department of Public Works was a reduction of City laborers' wages from $2 to $1 60 per day. Therefore, so far as Gumbleton was responsible for the Department of Public Works, this stroke of policy entitled him to the support of all who favor a fair adjustment of rates of wages paid to City laborers. To say that Gumbleton, when he read his friend's paragraph, was horrified would faintly describe his emotion. The copy of the World (gratuitously circulated by the National Democratic Committee) dropped from his nerveless grasp, and he sought his friend in the editorial rooms of that journal.

Gumbleton found his friend dividing his attention between Debrett's instructive work on the genealogy of the English nobility and the preparation of an omelette aux champignons. The Tammany candidate for County Clerk dashed his hat on the table and shrieked, "Call you this backing of your friend?" or words to that effect. The mild-eyed, melancholy tuft-hunter replied: "A capital paragraph, and couched in superb English." Gumbleton was aghast for a moment. Then he cried in wonder, "But don't you see that these confounded laborers will all refuse to vote for me if they knew that I was the man who reduced their wages? Oh, idiot! this is too, too much!" It was in vain that Gumbleton's friend reminded Gumbleton that John Kelly had kicked John Morrissey out of Tammany Hall for protesting against the reduction of the laborer's wages. The instant rejoinder of the candidate for County Clerk was: "Oh, you don't know anything about politics! Didn't Kelly afterward declare that he strongly disapproved of the reduction? And here you have gone and recommended me as the man who was really responsible for that reduction." Then Gumbleton put his head in his hands and groaned in agony of spirit.

The result was that Gumbleton's friend published a card for him in the World next day, and the Sunday bill of fare in the kitchen column showed signs of mental distress. In his card, Gumbleton was made to declare that he was not in favor of paying City laborers the same wages which were paid to other laborers. He was not that kind of a man. He was not responsible for the action of the Department of Public Works, for opposing which Kelly had put Morrissey out of Tammany Hall. Gumbleton was not in favor of saving money in any way, nor in favor of breaking down the distinction between men who worked on a City job and men who did not. In short, Gumbleton was in favor of getting votes, and it was a frightful blunder for his friend to urge, above all other things, that he had lent himself to any schemes of retrenchment in office. The World printed this appeal to a generous and day-laboring public, and has not dared to say "Gumbleton" from that day to this.

"The pity of it," as the World would say, is that Gumbleton, while he was about it, did not elucidate that great riddle in Democratic local politics—the reduction of the laborers' wages. When the reduction was made, John Kelly justified it as a stroke of statemanship. When Morrissey protested against it, he was excommunicated from Tammany Hall, and the World and Tribune said "served him right." Afterward, when the laborers withheld their votes, Kelly threw the blame—for it was no longer a credit—on Mayor Wickham, and that functionary shouldered the burden over to the Department of Public Works, of which Porter was then the figure-head and Gumbleton was the principal. Now, on the eve of an election, the World blandly compliments Gumbleton as the author of the reduction of wages—an act of which these eminent statesmen have all washed their hands, one after another. Gumbleton's friend thought he knew all about it when he gave that anxious candidate due credit for the performance. But Gumbleton swears that he wants no such indorsement as this from his friends. He is not in favor of economy, nor retrenchment, nor reform, nor anything else but the votes of—well, everybody.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Some months ago a woman in New-Jersey became the astonished mother of a novel and intricate infant. Ostensibly the infant was a girl, but it was fitted up with a double set of arms, and an extra leg. It would naturally be supposed that the mother of a child so unique and interesting would have been extremely proud of her acquisition, and would have promptly made arrangements to place it in Barnum's circus, or in some other exhibition where it would do the most good. Nevertheless the woman was greatly dissatisfied, and took the ground that inasmuch as she had not ordered a four-armed and three-legged infant, she was under no obligation to receive it. After a few weeks spent in bewailing her fate and upbraiding her innocent and dismayed husband, she finally announced that she had decided to send the child to a surgeon in order to have it made over so as to resemble the usual style of child. It was generally supposed that she had carried out this resolution, but as time went on and the infant was not returned, the neighbors began to suspect that either the surgeon had an uncommon number of children on hand waiting to be repaired, or that he had met with some unexpected difficulty in remodeling so complicated an infant, and had, in fact, irretrievably damaged it. As it subsequently appeared, the surgeon was free from all blame, and had never even seen the child; for the accidental discovery of its remains in a well adjoining its mother's house made it reasonably certain that the captious and dissatisfied woman had actually thrown her child away. Such was the view taken of the matter by a local Grand Jury, and at the present moment the unhappy mother is on trial for the crime of infanticide.

It is very unfortunate that this remarkable girl was not suffered to grow up in the full enjoyment of her numerous arms and legs. Of course, being a girl she could not have utilized her wealth of limbs by becoming the rival of Mr. Talmage, but nevertheless she would have possessed great advantages over other girls in various strictly feminine paths. Her fitness for the duties of the front gate would have been wholly unrivaled, since she could have clung to the pickets with one pair of arms, and thus left the other pair free for any amiable contingencies. As a wife, she would have elicited the utmost respect on the part of her husband, since she could have held him with two hands and wielded the poker and the stove-lid with the other two. She would not have needed the services of a maid, for she could have sat perfectly passive while her extra hands performed the whole duties of her toilet, and her ability to hold four hand-mirrors in four different positions at the same time would have made her the envy of her sex. In muddy weather how daintily would the four-handed young lady have trailed up her skirts, and what a stumbling-block would she have been to the discomfited pickpocket who should have fancied that because two of her hands were buried in her muff he could snatch her purse without fear of the avenging umbrella wielded by the extra hands.

While such a girl would have had a great advantage over others of her sex in point of arms, it is doubtful whether her third leg would have proved a real blessing. In fact it would probably have been an embarrassment of riches. There is no doubt that the extra leg would be very useful to a croquet player, since it would enable her to stand firmly on two feet when pressing the third foot on her ball. With this exception, however, a third leg would be a manifest superfluity, since whatever can be done with three legs can be done equally well with two. The possession of the third leg would moreover have led to unknown complications in the purchase of shoes and shocking. These articles can only be bought in pairs, and the owner of an extra leg would suffer the anguish of having a handful of odd shoes and stockings which could neither be worn nor given away, save in rare cases when fortune might send a one-legged tramp of the proper sex and size. Of course, it would necessarily be costly to dress a four-armed girl, since she would require double the quantity of gloves, rings, and bracelets which other girls can absorb, but the purveyor of those articles would at least have the satisfaction of knowing that they would not be wasted; whereas the frightful waste entailed by the effort to keep three legs properly equipped with shoes and stockings would depress the spirits of the most liberal father or husband. Whether a third leg could be conveniently stowed away when the proprietor should undertake to put herself on a sofa, is a question with which the unruly masculine mind is incapable of grappling. We know that when a lady, made after the usual pattern, ensconces herself in the corner of a sofa, there is an instant and utterly mysterious disappearance of one foot. The ingenious theory as to the cause and character of this disappearance, which has been so ably maintained by Prof. Huxley, may or may not be true, but if it is true, it seems quite impossible that the alleged law under which the disappearance of one foot takes place would prevent the disappearance of two. However, this is undoubtedly a branch of the subject concerning which it is in the highest degree rash to formulate new theories, or to attack any theories that have hitherto been put forth, and all that we are justified in doing is to invite the attention of thoughtful women to the matter.

But of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: We might have had a girl with four arms and three legs, but it is now too late. The wasteful and extravagant mother who deliberately threw away so unparalleled a child as the one which was found in the New-Jersey well cannot escape the censure of all who are interested in the improvement of the human race. It is all very well for her to say that she did not want such a child, but she ought to have thought of others as well as herself. The world is full of ordinary children, and there is every reason to suppose that in the future, as in the past, the volume of children will be made and kept commensurate with the capacities of nurseries. Children with extra arms and legs are, on the other hand, wonderfully rare, and hence they possess an exceptional value in the eyes of all intelligent people. If the New-Jersey mother is found guilty and punished, she will probably perceive, when it is too late, the mistake which she has made, and will bitterly bewail the moment when a mere caprice, or a weak unwillingness to incur unusual expenses in shoes and hosiery, led her to deprive the world of a child which might have furnished the pattern of a new and improved race of human beings.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Tilden's "reform non-partisan Canal Commission" was disposed of this wise: First Commissioner, made Secretary of State; second Commissioner, made State Engineer and Surveyor; third Commissioner, employed as Tilden's election agent; fourth Commissioner, retired.

Search the whole State of New York, and you cannot find any appointee of Governor Tilden who is not a personal adherent and political worker for him. Under the governorship of the administrative reformer, the one qualification for office is, that the office holder shall be "a good Tilden man."

Ex-Gov. Morgan rendered most valuable services to the nation as Major General, and refused to take any of the emoluments pertaining to that office. About the same time Gov. Tilden, being in the receipt of a princely income, was swearing to false tax returns, and cheating the Treasury out of the money.

Had everybody exercised the same "great financial wisdom" during the years of the war which Mr. Tilden did, the Government would have collected just about one-tenth of the total sum of taxes. But everybody cannot make out a tax return so that $60,000 and over appear as $7,118; and it takes a "great reformer" to declare under oath that such a return is correct.

The Herald's list of possible members of Gov. Hayes' Cabinet contains just five names that are possibilities—Curtis, Bristow, Morgan, Evarts, and Judge Hoar. In the same journal's list of possible members of Tilden's Cabinet, we find the names of Hewitt, Hubbard, Morrison, Palmer, and Gordon. Which sample of Cabinet timber does the independent and non-partisan voter prefer?

The coolest specimen of Tilden horn-blowing was the claim made by the great advocate of administrative reform that he had reduced the State debt by several millions and the taxes in like proportion. The whole of the work in this direction was done by Legislatures before Tilden became Governor. The provisions they made for annually extinguishing portions of the State debt were claimed by the great reformer as his work.

When the Democratic candidate for the Presidency was in the receipt of an almost princely income he escaped payment of taxes upon it by making out false returns and taking oath that they were correct. This man who for years has by perjury and fraud evaded the requirements of the law, now seeks the office of Chief Magistrate of the nation. Of what value would be Mr. Tilden's oath to faithfully observe the laws when for years past he has been making false oaths in order to evade them?

The last Democratic candidate for the Presidency publicly said to the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency: "You are as deeply implicated," in the stuffed-ous election frauds of 1868, as though your name were Tweed, O'Brien, or Oakey Hall." This Mr. Greeley publicly declared over his own signature on Oct. 20, 1869. Did or did not Horace Greeley lie? The bright and shining Sun may cast the radiance of its light on this question.

The Mr. Tilden who publishes manifestoes about the "organization of the official class into a body of political mercenaries" to run caucuses and dictate nominations, is the same Mr. Tilden who, as Governor of New-York, has filled every office in his gift with his friends and personal adherents. When the great advocate of administrative reform was laboring to secure the Democratic nomination he had half the State officers at work in various parts of the country looking after the delegations. No one ever dictated nominations in this State more authoritatively than "Dan" Magone.

The present champion of reform and honest government, when engaged in his notorious Peninsula "consolidation" scheme, made an agreement with Mr. Charles T. Harvey, the projector of the Peninsula Railroad, to pay him $50,000 for his share in the road. The agreement concluded with the following pledge: "I hereby pledge to you my sacred honor for its faithful performance.—Samuel J. Tilden." Mr. Tilden's sacred honor does not appear to be worth much, since Harvey has not been paid to this day, and the lawyer he employed to press his claim on Mr. Tilden gave the latter the written agreement and was shortly afterward appointed to a valuable office on Mr. Tilden's railroad.

Ex-Speaker McGuire, in his speech at Syracuse in June last, made the most thorough and unsparing exposure of Mr. Tilden's robbery of the people living along the line of the Chicago and Galena Railroad which has been made in this canvass. Everybody knows the ex-Speaker to be one of the hardest Democrats in the State, but he could not swallow Tilden. He said he had been associated in politics with "the great reformer" ever since the latter had crawled into the councils of the Democratic Party, and he knew him to be a thoroughpaced humbug, canting, cowardly, full of mean tricks, and above all, constitutionally treacherous. He had been false to every pledge and every friend it was to his interest to violate or betray.

It would look well for the country to have its President appearing in a law court as defendant in a suit for the recovery of railroad bonds which he is charged with unlawfully appropriating. Mr. Tilden has shrewdly contrived, by all the methods of delay known to the law, to stave off the trial of this suit against him by the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad, and now he asks that the people suspend their judgment until the case is disposed of. This is too much. He protected his pocket at the expense of his reputation, while reputation seemed of little account compared with dollars; now that he finds a good name of more value than money, he asks to be considered honest because he has not been legally convicted of dishonesty.

It is fitting that the action of the Government to guarantee full suffrage in South Carolina should be commended by a resolution offered by a son of Alexander Hamilton. He who was peerless as a financier and peerless as a statesman has left us an example of his methods of dealing with domestic violence in a State. When the whisky insurrection broke out in Western Pennsylvania, upon the advice of Hamilton, Washington himself marched at the head of the Army as far as Carlisle, then leaving the most trusted member of his Cabinet to complete the work of pacification. It was Alexander Hamilton who said that "the first duty of a Government was to control the governed." If this wisest of our long line of statesmen were alive today, he would bring the whole power of our Army and Navy to bear to secure to American citizens in South Carolina and everywhere the right of suffrage and all constitutional rights.

If any one feels curious to know wherein consists Mr. Tilden's "great financial wisdom," as applied to railroads, one evidence of it will be found in this: when a railroad is hopelessly bankrupt, and its managers call upon Mr. Tilden to reorganize the concern, that gentleman finds some neighboring railroad which is in a solvent and healthy condition. The two are then "consolidated" by means of proxy voting. Mr. Tilden and his partners, having gone "long" on the one stock and "short" on the other, the fall in the price of the good stock, and the rise in the price of the worthless stock, which is the immediate result of the operation, makes equally their gain. The whole thing is wound up by Mr. Tilden's bill of $20,000 for professional services, and the ruin of those whose savings were invested in the solvent road—say, for instance, the Galena and Chicago.

A few months ago when a prize-fight was in progress on the soil of Kentucky, between Tom Allen and Goss, a Democratic Sheriff, with the authority of a Democratic Governor of Kentucky, called out a military company, which marched under the command of its Captain, as a military organization, to put an end to the fight. Why was not this military interference with the proper functions of the civil authorities appropriately denounced? When, however, the Government of the United States places military companies within reach of United States Marshals in South Carolina, so that they may be employed as a posse comitatus by such civil officers in cases of resistance to their authority, there is a canine chorus of Democratic howls over military interference! How is it right to use the military to enforce the laws against prize-fighting, and wrong to employ the same force to execute the laws against maiming and murdering American citizens?

A LETTER FROM GEN. MARCY.

HE ADDRESSES GEN. SHERMAN UPON HIS RELATIONS TO THE MOTH EXTERMINATOR—HE USED NO INFLUENCE AND WAS NOT HIMSELF INFLUENCED IN ANY WAY.

HEAD-QUARTERS ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES, WASHINGTON, D. C., Monday, Oct. 23, 1876.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I am informed that during our absence in California several articles appeared in your paper reflecting on the Inspector General of the Army, R. B. Marcy, in regard to his action about the somewhat famous process of protecting Army clothing against moth, mildew, &c., by the Messrs. Cowles & Co.

Officers of the Army are naturally sensitive to public and partial statements of their official action, and Gen. Marcy has appealed to me in a letter of Oct. 16, a copy of which I inclose, which letter recites the only action he was ever compelled to take in the premises, and I beg of you to give it the same publicity already given to the articles of which he justly complains.

Gen. Marcy has been in the military service for forty-four years, and now fills one of the most trusted and confidential positions in our Army. To him are daily intrusted the most delicate questions affecting the official and personal relations of our officers. The least shadow of doubt cast on his honor or integrity would impair his usefulness, and I beg of you to do him this simple act of fairness and courtesy.

His son-in-law, Gen. McClellan, is abundantly able to defend his own honor and integrity, and I venture to express the opinion that, no matter what interest Gen. McClellan may have had in the Cowles process, it would not have swerved Gen. Marcy's opinion a hairs breadth. W. T. SHERMAN, General.

HEAD-QUARTERS ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES, INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 16, 1876.

Gen. W. T. Sherman, Commanding United States Army:

GENERAL: The articles that have recently appeared in certain journals respecting the process of Cowles & Co., for the preservation of Army clothing, and which have reflected upon the integrity of my official action, may have a tendency not only to injure me personally, but to bring discredit upon the good reputation of the Army, and as this is the first instance, during a continuous service of over forty years in the United States Army, that my official probity has been questioned, it seems to be due to you as the head of the Army and my commanding officer, as well as to the service generally, that I should vindicate myself from the damaging allegations and innuendos mentioned by placing upon record a true statement of the affair.

I therefore beg your indulgence for trespassing upon your time while submitting the following narration of facts:

In December, 1872, learning that, without any previous solicitation or knowledge on my part, I had been detailed, as a member of a board to examine Cowles & Co.'s process, I at once called upon the Secretary of War, and stated to him, that as I had understood Gen. McClellan was engaged in aiding the company to get their process introduced in Europe, I requested him to relieve me from the detail, which he declined to do, remarking that his confidence in me was such that he did not feel disposed to change the order, and I was obliged to serve upon the board, which convened at Schuylkill Arsenal, and made a careful and scrutinizing investigation of the matter, and our report was favorable to the efficacy of the process, but we recommended that further trials should be made by subjecting the prepared clothing to the test of more time and the action of the atmosphere in various warm climates.

After our suggestions had been carried out another board was convened, in Sept. 1874, to re-examine the subject and report results, and among other instructions to this board from the Quartermaster General I find the following:

"You will also examine into the results of trials recommended by the board of which Col. R. B. Marcy, Inspector General, was President."

The conclusions of the board upon this point are set forth in the last paragraph of their report, which is as follows:

"The proceedings of the Marcy board were full and explicit to the date of its final adjournment. This board has no occasion to differ in opinion with it, but confirm and indorse all its recommendations."

In one of the newspaper articles referred to is what purports to be a copy of a letter from George W. Brega to me, which I have no recollection of having received, but I may have done so; at all events I could not have complied with the request it contains for me to "try and see the Secretary and tell him that as an old friend I send you all our case," &c., for I never spoke to the Secretary of War upon the subject save at the time I applied to be relieved from the board.

Another erroneous assertion in the same newspaper article is this:

"Had the board of which Gen. Marcy was President summoned Capt. Alligood to testify in reference to the properties of the moth exterminator it is probable the Treasury would have been protected against this wholesale pillage."

Now, Capt. Alligood was one of the first witnesses called and critically examined by the board, and although he did not think the process rendered clothing entirely proof against the attacks of moths, yet he swore that he believed it rendered it water repellent and prevented it from becoming mildewed; whereas it is stated in the same article:

"The army officers at the Schuylkill Arsenal (of which Capt. Alligood was one) were divided as to the worth of the process for repelling moths, but all agreeing that it was not water repellent."

The asseverations or insinuations contained in the articles alluded to, that I may have been influenced in my official action by pecuniary considerations, or that I made any endeavors to obtain appropriations for the company from Congress, have no foundation in fact, as neither I nor any member of my family, either directly or otherwise, have ever received one dollar from the Cowles Company's process, and I have never spoken or written a word to a member of Congress or to any one else asking, suggesting, or intimating that I or any of my friends desired an appropriation for the application of the process. All that I have ever said or done in the interest of the company is contained in the report of the board of which I was a member, and which embraces such a mass of sworn testimony in favor of the process that I am unable to conceive how any one who reads the evidence can arrive at a different conclusion from that of the board, and I have seen no sound reasons since for changing my opinions upon the subject.

May I request the General, after he has read this communication, to transmit it to the Secretary of War for perusal and for file with the records of the War Department? Respectfully submitted.

R. B. MARCY, Inspector General.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

THREATENED FINANCIAL CRISIS.

A CRASH OF THE MOST SERIOUS NATURE FEARED IN RUSSIA—THE BANKS POWERLESS—A RUSH TO SELL SECURITIES—PROFOUND PEACE AND GREAT REVIVAL IN TRADE INDISPENSABLE TO PREVENT CATASTROPHE IN AUSTRIA.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Times dispatch from Berlin states that a financial crash of the most serious character is threatening in Russia. The public besiege the banking offices to sell Russian Government and company stocks, but as a rule offers are declined. On the 18th and 19th inst. nothing was salable at any price, and worse will happen should Gen. Ignatieff's mission take a warlike character. The crisis is worst in the southwestern provinces contiguous to the possible seat of war. A conference of bank Directors a few days ago at the office of the Governor of the National Bank decided that they could do nothing to stay the crisis. Accordingly fresh issues of inconvertible paper assignats, already more plentiful than at the time of the Crimean war, are expected.

The Times to day in its financial article says only profound peace and a great revival of trade can prevent a financial catastrophe in Austria. Even with these, we doubt if the hopes of the Austrian Finance Minister can be realized—that by 1878 the end of the period of deficits will be reached.

THE TURKISH CONSPIRACY.

CONTINUED ARRESTS IN CONSTANTINOPLE—OBJECT OF THE CONSPIRATORS.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily News reports that arrests continue to be made in Constantinople on account of the last conspiracy. It is alleged that the purpose of the conspirators was to forcibly depose the reforming government. The former Grand Vizier, Mahmoud Pasha, is implicated. The members of the Cabinet were to have been seized at the moment when Gen. Ignatieff arrived at the Palace, and the Beys in Bosnia were at the same time to have made demonstrations of revolt.

SIGNS OF EUROPEAN FEELING.

ENGLISH INTERESTS IN THE EAST NOT TO BE ASSAILED—AUSTRIAN NEUTRALITY DIFFICULT TO MAINTAIN — THE GREEKS.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Nothing more is heard of the mission of the Czarewitch to the courts at Vienna, Berlin, and London. The Pall Mall Gazette says the Russian Imperial Court will return to St. Petersburg on the 17th of November. The same journal, in a leading article, says, we have reason to believe that Russia has no longer any illusions about the way her tendencies are viewed here, nor doubts that the first step which threatens our interests in the East will be answered by another for their protection.

A special dispatch from Pesth to the Daily News represents that there is intense excitement there and strong hostility to Russia. In case Russia commences war, it will be difficult for Austria to preserve neutrality.

A dispatch from Pesth says: "The Hungarian Minister of War has informed the Finance Committee that in case of need 217 000 Honved Militia could be completely equipped and mobilized within eight days."

The discussion of Eastern affairs in the Greek Chamber of Deputies has been postponed until the 30th inst., awaiting the King's return home.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Standard's dispatch from Vienna reports that the mobilization of troops in Roumania proceeds very slowly. At Jassy hardly a third of the inhabitants liable to military duty have appeared. The people seem to be utterly indifferent. The same dispatch says the resignation of the Hungarian Premier, Tisza, is mentioned as imminent, in consequence of his dissent from Count Andrassy's Eastern policy.

The Daily Telegraph's special from Belgrade says Prince Milan has received positive and formal assurance of Austria's non-intervention.

THE ARMISTICE NEGOTIATIONS.

RUSSIA SAID TO BE WILLING TO AGREE TO A PROLONGATION OF A SIX WEEKS' TRUCE—WHAT MONTENEGRO DESIRES.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople, says it is stated that Russia has already indicated her willingness to a six weeks' prolongation, if necessary, of a six weeks' armistice. It is hoped that an agreement will be reached on the basis of Turkey's acceptance of such an armistice, as announced in the semi-official statement in this morning's Post.

A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Bucharest says: "Intelligence has been received here that at a meeting of the foreign Ambassador at Constantinople, Gen. Ignatieff declared that an armistice must be conceded immediately, and that the other Russian demands would devolve for settlement upon a conference of the powers, at which Turkey would not be represented, the conference to define the meaning of the words 'autonomy' and 'guarantees.'"

A Ragusa dispatch says: "It is reported that the Prince of Montenegro has declared his willingness to accept the six weeks' armistice, but only on condition that Mostar be surrendered by the Turks."

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Times' dispatch from Vienna says Turkey has declared her readiness to accept the six weeks' armistice, provided it is recommended by all the powers. It is reassuring to hear from Constantinople that hopes of a more peaceful turn in affairs have considerably increased. This feeling is caused by the unexpectedly conciliatory attitude of Gen. Ignatieff. There has not been any trace hitherto of Russia's offering provocation with the view of bringing about a collision. On the contrary, any such intention has been distinctly and decidedly disclaimed. While affairs thus look better in Constantinople, one can trace all around Turkey the iron ring prepared by Russia, which is closing and tightening rapidly and firmly. The friendly relations between Servia and Montenegro, which had become embroiled, have been restored. Prince Nikita has promised Servia that he would in no case accept an armistice extending beyond the present year. On the Roumanian side matters have not gone so fairly. Prince John Ghika is going on a special mission to the European Courts. This seems to indicate an earnest desire on the part of Roumania to avoid, if possible, making common cause with Russia. She probably wishes to ascertain whether she may reckon on the protection of the Treaty of Paris, by which her neutrality was guaranteed. If she finds she is left to herself she will come to an understanding with Russia.

The Post's Berlin special states that the report of the Czarewitch's intended mission is declared on trustworthy authority to be entirely groundless.

SAVAGE INTOLERANCE IN TURKEY.

RENEWAL OF THE BULGARIAN MASSACRES FEARED—THE PUNISHMENT OF THE CRIMINALS A FARCE—GROWING EXCITEMENT AMONG THE MOHAMMEDANS THROUGHOUT THE PROVINCES.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A dispatch to the Times from Therapia announces that Mr. Baring, Secretary of the British Legation, is about to return from Philippopolis, being convinced that the Commission for the punishment of the perpetrators of the Bulgarian atrocities is a delusion and mockery. The worst criminals are regarded as humane, and moderate men are in disgrace. The old panic is renewed, and a most trustworthy gentleman has traveled with the utmost haste to Constantinople to inform Mr. Elliott, the British Ambassador, that the Turks threaten new massacres, and have even appointed a day for beginning the slaughter.

A Vienna dispatch to the Times says not only from Constantinople, but from all the Provinces of European Turkey, is there news of growing excitement among the Mohammedans, of conventicles held in mosques, and of armaments. The Ministry is divided against itself, and the Sultan is too inexperienced to take the leadership of affairs. Thus the position is more favorable for Russia's diplomatic action. Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople, may carry everything before him, or if he fails, may induce such an outbreak of Mohammedan feeling as might justify almost any step on the part of Russia.

CURRENT TOPICS ABROAD.

OFFICIAL DENUNCIATION, BY THE SPANISH AUTHORITIES, OF THE ZORILLA-SALMERON CIRCULAR—PROTESTANT WORSHIP IN SPAIN.

MADRID, Oct. 24.—An official note has been published here denouncing the social conspiracy and attempted insurrection organized by Senors Ruiz Zorilla and N. Salmeron. The note says four Generals, namely, Merelo, Arevro, Patino, and Acosta, have been arrested, and will be punished according to military law.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Reuter dispatch from San Sebastian says the Government note alluded to in the above dispatch has created excitement there, and numerous arrests of Republicans have been made at Saragossa, Logrono, Bilbao, and Santander. It is rumored that Ruiz Zorilla has entered Spain on the Arragon frontier.

The official Gazette of Madrid, publishes a circular strictly limiting non-conformist worship to the inferior chapels and cemeteries. The circular is especially strict in its provisions regarding Protestant schools. It prescribes that such schools shall remain subject to the direct interference of the Government, and that the schoolmasters must be Spaniards with the proper academical degrees.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Reuter's telegram from The Hague states that the Dutch Government has modified its projects of coinage reform. It now proposes, pending an international settlement of the monetary system, the maintenance of the gold and silver standard for Holland, and the suspension of the coinage of silver.

The Post reports that the master cotton spinners of North and North-eastern Lancashire met at Manchester yesterday and agreed to urge all the masters to enforce a general lock-out, as they consider the terms of the resolution adopted by the operatives on Oct. 22 unsatisfactory.

THE MILITARY OPERATIONS.

CAPTURE OF TWO IMPORTANT POSITIONS BY THE TURKS—DJUNIS IN THEIR HANDS.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A dispatch from Belgrade to Reuter's Telegram Company, dated noon to-day, says: "It is reported here that the Turks have taken Djunis and Laint Nestor. If this is true, Gen. Tchernayeff's army will be in great danger."

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The special correspondent of the Times with the Turkish Army in Servia, reports that the Turks took Djunis, on Monday, after a determined fight which lasted ten hours. More than half the intrenchments on the banks of the river, near Djunis, also fell into their hands.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times reports that the iron-clad Peter the Great was recalled at the moment it was leaving Cronstadt for the Mediterranean. It is believed that even now Russia prefers to effect the semi-independence of Bulgaria by negotiations rather than by declaring war; or that, at all events, she will endeavor to defer war until Winter.

THE WEST INDIES.

BLOODLESS REVOLUTION IN SAN DOMINGO—ESPAILLAT DEPOSED AND GONZALES CHOSEN TO SUCCEED HIM—CONSPIRACIES AGAINST CANAL IN HAYTI.

HAVANA, Oct. 24.—The English mail steamer has arrived from St. Thomas, and brings Santo Domingo dates to the 9th. A pronunciamento took place in the Capitol on the 5th inst., in favor of ex-President Gonzales. President Espaillat made no resistance. He was accompanied from his residence by the British Consul to the French Consulate, passing through the armed multitude, and not one shot was fired.

The war schooner Caporillo sailed on the 7th for Mayagnez, in the island of Porto Rico, where ex-President Gonzalez is staying, to bring him to Santo Domingo. In the meantime a provisional Government of six persons has been formed. The District of Samana and the Province of Seibo joined the movement in the city in favor of Gonzales. In the north matters continue complicated. Porto Plata is still in possession of the adherents of President Espaillat, and it is feared some disaster will occur before Gen. Luperon, commanding the place, will surrender to the new Government.

Advices from Jacmel to Oct. 10 have been received. President Boisrond Canal has publicly declared that he is aware conspiracies exist against him, and a high treasonable movement in the north was easily suppressed. The gathering of the coffee crop has been commenced.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Legislature of Vermont is to consider this afternoon a resolution approving the President's course in sending troops to South Carolina.

The Republicans of the Fourteenth Congressional District of New-York have unanimously nominated Halstead Sweet, of Orange County.

The Republican students of Yale, four hundred strong, held an enthusiastic meeting Monday night to form a Hayes and Wheeler regiment.

The Tennessee Democratic State Committee has issued an address complaining that there is too much indifference and apathy, and that the Democrats must go to work.

The Boston Transcript contends that the Massachusetts Republican nominees for Congress have been grossly misrepresented as to their opinions upon Bullerism.

Gov. Tilden is credited with uttering a threat to leave this State if he is not elected. He must not go to Georgia. People cannot vote there who have not paid their taxes.

The Orange County Republicans have made their nominations as follows: Sheriff, Charles B. Gray; County Clerk, Jesse S. Maples; Coroners, John M. H. Little and Andrew Johnson; Sessions, John E. Duryea.

The Norwich Bulletin calls upon the Republicans to emulate the activity of the Democrats in Connecticut, especially in making a thorough canvass of the State, and says that if they will do so victory is certain.

Hon. S. S. Rogers has lately been deterred from speaking by severe hoarseness, but will resume his engagements at once. To-morrow he will speak at Ogdensburg, with Hon. William A. Wheeler and Senator Edmunds.

Senator Booth was welcomed back to California with enthusiasm. He is hopeful of the results of the canvass, and as soon as he has recovered from the fatigue of the journey will take the stump for Hayes and Wheeler.

The Rochester Express urges vigorous personal work at once on the part of the Republicans of this State, especially in the country districts. Its advice is good and needed, and if it is followed, and the full Republican vote is brought out, the issue cannot be doubtful.

The Republican ticket in Putnam County is thus composed: For Member of Assembly, Hamilton Fish, Jr.; Sheriff, William A. Haight; District Attorney, William Wood, Jr.; County Treasurer, Hillyer Ryder; Justice of Sessions, John O. Bailey; Coroners, Joseph G. Cole and W. S. Crosby.

The Republicans of Essex County are to hold several meetings next week. Hon. Robert S. Hale will speak at Elizabethtown on the 28th inst., at Lower Jay Nov. 1, at Keesevile on the 2d, at Essex on the 3d, at Lewis on the 4th, and at Ticonderoga on the 6th. Francis A. Smith will speak at Scarboro Lake Nov. 2, at Pottersville on the 3d, and at Schroon River on the 4th.

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—After a good deal of vexatious litigation and delay, the United States Circuit Court has made an order that upon the payment of $50,000 cash and the execution of a properly signed bond for $550,000, the Missouri Pacific Railroad be turned over to James Baker, as Trustee for Cornelius K. Garrison, and that a deed for the property be given to him by L. D. Thompson, Master in Chancery.

JUDGMENTS IN ALABAMA CLAIMS CASES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Court of Commissions of Alabama Claims announce the following judgments: In case No. 1,397, for $190; No. 1,399, $485; No. 1,400, $250; No. 1,402, $300; No. 1,403, $629; No. 1,404, $500; No. 1,405, $275; No. 1,406, $195; No. 1,407, $140; No. 1,408, $2.0; No. 1,409, $1,000; No. 1,410, $275; No. 1,311, $245; No. 1 412, $225; No. 1,416, $500; No. 1,417, $275; No. 1,418, Thomas W. Manchester, $495; No. 1,421, $300; No. 1,421, $215; No. 1,422, $343; No. 1,424, Thomas Silva, $400; No. 1,425, $275; No. 1,426, $260; No. 1,428, $215; No. 1,430, $210; No. 1,433, $275; No. 1,434, $275; No. 1,436, $275; No. 1,437, $275. Cases Nos. 1,423, 1,427, 1 431, 1,432, and 1,438 are dismissed. The second call of the calendar progressed yesterday as far as No. 2,028 which will be the first case called to-day.

NEW-ENGLAND COLLEGE OARSMEN.

A CONFERENCE IN BOSTON TO ORGANIZE AN ASSOCIATION OF NEW-ENGLAND COLLEGE CLUBS—A CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT WORCESTER IN NOVEMBER.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BOSTAN, Oct. 24.—A conference of representatives from New-England colleges was held here to-day, for the purpose of preparing the way for withdrawal from the Rowing Association of American Colleges. Neither Harvard nor Yale was represented, but it is understood that they will come in at the proper time. It was decided to call a Delegate Convention at Worcester on the 22d of November, and to this end an address to New-England College boat clubs was adopted. This sets forth the arguments against the continuation of the existing association and against Saratoga as the place for holding the college regattas. "It is eminently desirable," the address states, "that the place of holding a regatta should be convenient of access to the members of the colleges whose crews participate. While the regatta was held at Saratoga the majority of the members of the New England Colleges were unable to attend, and after a year's preparation of their respective crews, they were debarred by distance from witnessing the race, and were necessitated to depend upon the press for their knowledge of it. Regarding the existing association, it is argued in the address that it is composed of too many colleges. It is unwieldy, and much difficulty is experienced in managing and starting the crews.

The address is signed by E. C. Carrigan, representing Dartmouth; S. W. Nickerson, representing Brown; P. L. Parrie, Bowdoin, and Sydney D. Hooker, Trinity. In the convention at Worcester each college will have one vote. In the conference the Wesleyan was not present, but telegraphed concurrence in its objects. It is the desire of the majority of those signing the address that New-London be chosen as the place for the regatta. There seems to be no doubt that all the New-England college crews will join enthusiastically in the movement, and that a New-England college regatta will be the result.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

AN EXCURSION TRAIN ON THE NEW-YORK MIDLAND RUN INTO—NARROW ESCAPE FROM A TERRIBLE CRASH—OTHER DISASTERS.

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 24.—An accident to a Centennial excursion train on the Midland Division of the New-York Midland Railroad, at Sandburgh, about twenty-three miles west of Middletown, at 8 o'clock last night, resulted in the death of one man and the quite serious wounding of six other passengers. The excursion train of twenty-eight cars, running in five sections, left Norwich at 2 o'clock P. M. yesterday, with 1,500 passengers. Section one passed Sandburgh all right. Section two, conducted by T. C. Purdy, Superintendent of the Midland Division, followed about fifteen minutes behind. For some reason unknown, Mr. Purdy stopped his train at Sandburg, and soon after gave the signal to start, but when the engineer had called the flagman in, and before the train got under headway, he again got the signal to stop, and at once called for brakes, but even before the train could be stopped, section No. 3, H. B. Tinsman, conductor, coming round a curve at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, from behind, ran into train No. 2. The fireman of train No. 3, M. Stoehr, jumped off and was unhurt. The engineer, E. McNiff, stuck to his post, and singularly escaped uninjured. The engine was totally wrecked, and the rear car of section 2 badly damaged. Two cars of section 3 were thrown from the track over an embankment sixty feet in height by the sudden stoppage of the train. Manford W. Bonner, of Adams, Jefferson County, N. Y., who was standing on the bumper of the rear end of section 2 was instantly killed; Superintendent Purdy was slightly injured. No other persons on this section was seriously hurt. On section 3 the following named persons were injured: J. A. Youngclove, of Hamilton, Madison County, seriously injured across the hips; — Limb, of Hamilton, slightly on the breast; — White, a lawyer, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Morgan, his sister-in-law, the former not severely, the latter seriously; J. W. Overton, of Adams, Jefferson County, badly cut; Mrs. F. M. Darrow and Mrs. Eaton, of the same place, not seriously. The wounded were carried to the nearest farm house, and physicians were summoned from this place. The body of Mr. Bonner was brought here, and will be conveyed, with the friends of the deceased, in a special car to Adams to-day. The wreck was cleared away by daylight this morning, and trains passed as usual. Railroad men unite in saying that they never saw a more "genuine" accident where more apparent and less real damage. The immediate cause of the accident was the ringing of the bell on the engine of section 2. By whom this was done is not known.

POTTSVILLE, Oct. 24.—This morning Edward Keany was killed on the railroad at Mount Carbon, Penn. He stepped from one track to another to get out of the way of an approaching train, and was struck by an engine coming in the opposite direction.

WAVERLY, Oct. 24.—T. Sartwell, of Randolph, N. Y., aged about fifty years, fell from the Erie train No. 12 through the road bridge at this place last night. His body was found this morning. He was on his way to the Centennial Exhibition. Money and a New-York draft for a moderate amount and a gold watch were found on his person.

THE ELECTION LAW IN MISSOURI.

APPOINTING SUPERVISORS UNDER THE UNITED STATES LAWS—DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—A few days ago a petition, signed by Hon. J. K. Henderson, Ex-Gov. Thomas C. Fletcher, Emil Praetorius, editor of the Westeliche Post; James Wirbrow, Chairman of the Republican County Committee; Ex-District Attorney Dyer, and several other prominent citizens, was sent to Judge Dillon, United States Judge of this circuit, asking that Supervisors of Election be appointed under the United States statute for the Eastern District of Missouri. Yesterday the petition was received by Judge Treat, with instructions from Judge Dillon to make the appointments asked by the petitioners. Judge Treat called into court a number of members of the Bar, among them the several signers of the petition, with the view to hearing suggestions from them. Gen. Henderson said he was convinced the elective franchise was at the mercy of ballot-box stuffers, and as the law provided for a Supervisor from each party, he favored it as a means of preserving the expression of the will of the people in freedom and security from lawlessness. He was satisfied, however, that the frauds were confined to neither party. Col. Broadhead opposed the petition on the ground that there was no law permitting the course proposed. The law was certainly an invasion of the rights guaranteed to every State by the Constitution, and he would like to see them dare to enforce it in Boston. After considerable discussion and various suggestions from different persons present, Judge Treat appointed Edmund F. Allen, one of the Commissioners of the Court, as Chief Supervisor for this District, who will report to the court the names of Supervisors for the respective districts. The matter has been the cause of a good deal of comment here, and will probably continue to be so until the close of election day.

THE WEATHER.

PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—1 A. M.—For the lower lake regions and Middle States, rising barometer, fresh and brisk westerly or north-west winds, colder, clear or partly cloudy weather followed by light rains in the former.

SUPPOSED BURGLARS ARRESTED.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The Police this morning noticed a man on Canal street whose movements seemed suspicious, and on searching the vicinity found Thomas Cole's stable-door open, and on entering, a wagon-load of dry goods and two men preparing to ship them to Nova Scotia. The goods were recovered, and Maurice Riley and James C. Cornell arrested. This morning the owner of the team and another man were arrested and held for trial.

MAIL STEAMERS TO CALL AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, Oct. 24.—The subject of making Halifax the Winter port of call for the mail steamers is agitated here. It is understood that the Dominion Line of steamers will probably run between Liverpool and Halifax this Winter, commencing on the 12th of November.

A RIFLE TARGET MARKER SHOT.

WORCESTER, Oct. 24.—George Miller, twenty years of age, employed as rifle target marker for the Worcester (Mass.) Sportsman's Club, was killed while attending a target this afternoon. He mistook the report of a shot-gun in the woods near for that of a rifle, and stepped in front of the target in time to receive a bullet through the left breast. Death resulted in about ten minutes.

"CORTICELLI" CONQUERS.

WHAT THE CENTENNIAL JUDGES HAVE TO SAY OF THE NONOTUCK'S CELEBRATED SEWING SILK AND MACHINE TWIST.

THE AWARDS OF THE CENTENNIAL Judges and Commissioners are now officially made known. Their opinion of the Nonotuck Company's famous "Corticelli" and silk-making machinery is an excellent specimen of how their most eulogistic reports are phrased. The report is appended in full.

(Official Copy.)

UNITED STATES CENTENNIAL COMMISSION, INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1876. PHILADELPHIA.—The United States Centennial Commission announce the following report as the basis of an award to the Nonotuck Silk Company, Florence, Mass., for Sewing Silks and Silk Machinery:

REPORT.

For a splendid exhibit of a variety of Sewing Silks and Machine Twist of great superiority as to strength and regularity, having extreme care in the manufacture.

Also for a fine collection of Silk Manufacturing Machinery, embracing winding, doubling, spinning, reeling-machines, and spool-priming machines, the latter of a very ingenious construction.

[SEAL.] A. T. GOSHORN, Director General.
J. R. HAWLEY, President.
Attest: ALEX. R. BOTELER, Secretary.

—Chicago Times.

THE CURIOUS PUBLIC, when they read of B. T. BABBITT'S BABY SOAP, need not suppose that this is exclusively designed for babies. It may be assumed that what's best for babies is best for all. No toilet soap in the world can compare with this for all the advantages of purity and pleasantness in use. It only needs to be tried.—Advertisement.

A SORE THROAT, or a distressing cough, is speedily cured by Dr. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT.—Advertisement.

THE HIGHEST AWARD granted any exhibitor by Centennial Exposition is given the ELASTIC TRUSS CO. for SILK ELASTIC TRUSSES. Sold only at 683 Broadway. —Advertisement

THE CHAMPION DRESS SHIELD is decidedly the best. You can get them at MACY'S or LOSSER'S.—Advertisement.

THE WEEKLY TIMES.

THE NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES, published this morning, contains:

THE LATEST TELEGRAPHIC AND GENERAL NEWS.
THE SHOT-GUN CANVASS IN THE SOUTH.
PROGRESS OF THE NATIONAL AND STATE CAMPAIGNS.
POLITICAL SPEECHES.
FURTHER EXPOSURES OF GOV. TILDEN'S RECORD.
LETTERS FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD.
EDITORIAL ARTICLES UPON CURRENT TOPICS.
AGRICULTURAL MATTER; NO. 1 FARMING; POTATOES AT THE CENTENNIAL; PUBLIC FAIRS; ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

With a great variety of miscellaneous reading matter, and full reports of FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS, the LIVE STOCK AND FARM PRODUCE MARKETS.

Copies in wrappers, ready for mailing, for sale at THE TIMES OFFICE; also at THE TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

Dr. Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—Invalids need no longer dread to take that great specific for Consumption, Asthma, and threatening Coughs—COD-LIVER OIL, as prepared by Dr. WILBOR it is robbed of the nauseating taste, and also embodies a preparation of the Phosphate of Lime, giving nature the very article required to aid the health qualities of the oil, and to recreate where disease has destroyed. This article also forms a remarkable tonic, and will cause weak and debilitated persons to become strong and robust. For sale by all respectable druggists throughout the country, and should be kept in every family for instant use on the first appearance of coughs or irritation of the Lungs. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

Experience demonstrates that Parker's GINGER TONIC is a matchless remedy for coughs, colds, and sore throat, and by reason of its tertiary influence upon the blood, through the medium of improved digestion, most serviceable to the feeble consumptive. Ask your druggist for it. HISCOX & Co., Pharmaceutical and Manufacturing Chemists, No. 163 William st., New-York.

Appropriate and inexpensive Souvenirs of a visit to New-York, in the form of BOXES OF PERFUMERY and FINE TOILET SOAP, can be found at COLGATE & Co.'s retail store, No. 1,155 Broadway, near the leading hotels.

When Refractory, the juvenile stomach may be disciplined with MILK OF MAGNESIA, which always conquers indigestion.

A $3 Felt Hat $1 90. Silk Hats $3 80, worth $6. No. 10 New Church st., up stairs.

Use Brummell's Celebrated Cough Drops. The genuine have R. B. on each drop.

To Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain, and cures wind colic.

MARRIED.

MULLINEAUX—ABINGHAN.—In New-York, Feb. 2, 1876 by Rev. Thomas Lodge Pastor of West Twenty-fourth-street M. E. Church, RICHARD H. MULLINEAUX to MARIA CARNIGHAN, both of New-Rochelle, N. Y.

STIVERS—VAN DYKE.—At Caterson, N. J., Oct. 23, by Rev. W. N. SEARLES, JAMES STIVERS to ELLA VAN DYKE. No cards.

SKINNER—RUNNIMAN.—On Tuesday, Oct. 24, by Rev. John Hall, D. D., DR. THOMAS H. SKINNER, formerly of Raleigh, N. C., to GERTRUDE L., daughter of the late Edward L. Runniman, of New-York.

DIED.

BACON.—At Riverdale-on-Hudson, Oct. 23, MARGARET ROGERS, wife of Francis A. Bacon, and daughter of the late Gen. Frederick CRAY, of Boston.

Funeral services at Christ Church, Riverdale, Wednesday, at 10 o'clock A. M. Trains leave Hudson River Railroad Depot, 30th st., 9 A. M. and Grand Central Depot, 9:10 A. M. Carriages in attendance on arrival of trains at Riverdale.

BALDWIN.—On Monday, Oct. 23, 1876, TIMOTHY BALDWIN, in the 87th year of his age.

Funeral services from his late residence, 83d st., West of Boulevard, on Wednesday, Oct. 25, at 3 P. M. Relations and friends are respectfully invited to attend without further notice.

BARNABY.—CHARLES E. BARNEY, at Homestead, Long Island, Oct. 20, aged two years and six months.

BENNET.—At her residence, No. 93 Columbia st., Brooklyn, on Sunday evening, Oct. 23, ISABEL IMLAY, wife of Ludovic Bennet, and daughter of the late William L. Imlay, of Baltimore, Md.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend her funeral at Grace Church, Brooklyn Heights, on this day, the 25th inst., at 2:30 o'clock, P. M. Relatives at residence at 2 P. M.

Of Hartford and Washington, D. C., papers please copy.

COTHEAL.—On Sunday morning, Oct. 22, CHARLES W., son of the late Henry Cotheal, in his 57th year.

Relatives and friends of the family, and of his brother, Alexander I. Cotheal, are invited to attend the funeral, from his late residence, No. 6 West 36th st., on Wednesday morning, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock.

CUTTER.—At East Lyme, Conn., Oct. 23, of peritonitis, DR. JAMES B. CUTTER, of New-York.

Funeral on Thursday at 10 A. M. Norwich and New-London boat from New-York.

HAZELTINE.—Suddenly, on Monday morning, Oct. 23, 1876, HENRIETTA B., wife of Robert H. Hazeltine, and daughter of the late William Menck.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral on Wednesday morning, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock, from her late residence, No. 32 Strong place, Brooklyn.

HAFF.—On the 24th inst., at Hempstead, Long Island, SHENEZER HAFF, in the 81st year of his age.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, Hempstead, Long Island, Thursday, 26th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M.

HOPKINS.—At Auburn, N. Y., on 23d inst., of bronchial consumption, SARA L. ("Sadie") wife of Jerome Hopkins, of New-York.

Funeral at Auburndale, Vt.

KETTELLE.—At Scituate, Mass., Monday, Oct. 23, FIDELIA KETTELLE, of Dauversport, Mass.

[N. Y. and Brooklyn papers please copy.

LANE.—Suddenly, in Brooklyn, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876, of pneumonia, NATHAN LANE, aged 61 years.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend funeral services from his late residence, No. 125 Pierrepont st., on Thursday, Oct. 26, at 4:30 P. M., without further notice.

PRIOR.—On the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 24, KATHARINE MITCHELL, wife of James W. Pryor, in the 60th year of her age.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral services at her late residence, No. 25 Gramercy park, at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning.

SAWARD.—The funeral services over the remains of GRACE FRANCES, infant child of Frederick E. and Frances Seward, will be held at St. Paul's Church, Trumbull, New-York City, on Wednesday, the 25th inst., at 12:30 P. M.

SHAW.—On Monday evening, 23d inst., ROBERT LUDLOW SHAW, in the 62d year of his age, son of the late James W. Shaw.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral on Thursday morning, 26th inst., at 10 o'clock, from his late residence No. 30 West 46th st.

SLOANE.—Oct. 23, HANNAH, wife of Edward Sloane, a native of Drumcondhill, parish of Ridesshandra, County Cavan, Ireland, in her 72d year.

Funeral at St. Ann's Church, near 5th av., Thursday, 26th inst., at 2 P. M.

SMITH.—At Jersey City Heights, on Tuesday, the 24th inst., ALEXANDER SMITH, in the 84th year of his age.

His relatives and friends are invited to attend his funeral on Thursday, the 26th inst., from the First Presbyterian Church, Emory st., Jersey City Heights, at 1 o'clock. No flowers. Montcello avenue cars from Jersey City Ferry cross Emory st.

WALKER.—On Tuesday, Oct. 24, at his residence, No. 3 Van Ness place, CHARLTON WALKER, M. D.

Notice of funeral hereafter.

WHITLOCK.—On Tuesday morning, Oct. 24, THADDEUS H. WHITLOCK, of the firm of Whitlock Brothers, Canton, Pa., aged 41 years.

Funeral from the house, Thursday, 26th inst., at 12 M., and at the M. E. Church, Purdy's Station, 1 P. M.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

ALL SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.—LADIES AFflicted with superfluous hair on the lip, cheek, chin, neck, &c., who have in vain tried the various depilatories in use for this purpose, may apply to Mme. JULIA with the certainty of guaranteed and perfect success. Mme. JULIAN has removed this disfigurement RADICALLY and PERMANENTLY in the worst possible cases, where all previous attempts had failed. Application must be made personally at her residence, No. 218 West 38th st., from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M., daily.

TREES.—NOW IS THE BEST TIME TO PLANT. Silver Maples $20; Apple-trees $20 per 100; large stock. P. H. FOSTER, Babylon, N. Y.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

UNDERSHIRTS

AND DRAWERS,

WARD'S,

381 BROADWAY, CORNER WHITE ST.

862 BROADWAY, CORNER 14TH ST.

1,121 BROADWAY, CORNER 25TH ST.

THE MESSRS. LEAVITT, Auctioneers.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY EVENINGS, OCTOBER 26 AND 27.

At eight o'clock, prompt, each day, at Clinton Hall.

WITHOUT LIMIT OR PROTECTION OF ANY KIND WHATEVER, AS PER CATALOGUE.

THE GREAT MODERN MASTERS OF EUROPE.

"The Collection of Paintings to be sold by the Messrs. Leavitt next Thursday and Friday evenings, is probably the most remarkable which has ever been offered for sale in this country. It comprises 122 works by the most distinguished modern masters of Europe."—N. Y. Times, Oct. 23.

Agrasot, Andre, Bakalowicz, Baumet, E. Blin, Bertrand, Boldini, Bruneri, Burgers, Campotosto, Casanova, Clays, Commans, Cortazzo, De Jonghe, Detti, Escosura, Fanelli, Feyen, Gonzli, Gallait, Guillemin, Inamo, Jacque, Jacets, Koekkoek, B. C., Leroy, Levy, Madrazo, Meissonier, Mouchet, Pascutti, Perrault, Piot, Plachart, Rougeron, Saintin, Schlesinger, Schreyer, Seignac, Sorol, Toulouche, Troyer, Troyon, Van Luppen, Verboeckhoven, Willems, Zamacois, and very many others.

These choice Paintings are now on exhibition, day and evening, free, at the Art Rooms, 817 Broadway.

AUCTION SALE,

in partition, by order of Supreme Court, of the lands known as the PETER A. COVERDEY estate, consisting of over 100 acres in

YONKERS,

in two parcels of over fifty acres each. The Palmer Road from Yonkers to Bronxville, and the road from Mile Square Road to Tuckahoe Road, pass through the property.

Sale to be Oct. 28, 1876, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Getty House, Yonkers, by Robert Cochran, Referee.

The property has a number of fine building sites commanding extensive views.

MITCHELL & MITCHELL,
Plaintiffs' Attorneys, No. 62 Wall st.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

The foreign mails for the week ending SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1876, will close at this office on TUESDAY at 7 A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Montana via Queenstown, on WEDNESDAY, at 7:30 A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Russia via Queenstown. On THURSDAY, at 11:30 A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Cimbria via Plymouth, Cherbourg, and Hamburg. On ATURDAY, at 10 A. M. for an open per steam-ship City of Chester via Queenstown. Correspondence for Scotland, Germany, and France to be forwarded by this steamer must be specially addressed. And at 10 A. M. for Scotland direct per steam-ship California via Glasgow, and at 11 A. M. for France direct per steam-ship Pereire via Havre; and at 11:30 A. M. for Europe, per steam-ship Mosel via Southampton and Bremen. The steam-ships Montana, Russia, and City of Chester do not take mails for Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. The mails for the West Indies via Bermuda and St. Thomas will leave New-York Oct. 26. The mails for China, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 1. The mails for Australia, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 8, 1876.

T. L. JAMES, Postmaster.

MESSRS. WRIGHT & MANSFIELD,

NO. 104 NEW BOND ST., LONDON,

Exhibitors of furniture and decorations of the eighteenth century, have been awarded them two medals and diplomas for superior design, workmanship, and finish.

Mr. MANSFIELD will be in Philadelphia in a few days to attend to those who may honor him with their favors.

SOLE LEATHER TRUNKS,

VALISES, AND BAGS.

CROUCH & FITZGERALD'S

BAZAAR DU VOYAGE,

556 BROADWAY AND 1 MAIDEN LANE.

RESTUART WILLIS, ATTORNEY AND Counsellor at Law, notary Public, No. 152 Broadway, room No. 4, New-York.

N. B.—Special attention paid to settling "estates" conveyancing, and other law matters.

GOLD PENS.

FOLEY'S CELEBRATED GOLD PENS,

NO. 2 ASTOR HOUSE,

Opposite Herald Office.

KEMP'S PARTLY-MADE DRESS SHIRTS.—The very best, six for $6; can be finished as easily as hemming a handkerchief. No. 671

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts. Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M. Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

COMPANION.—BY A RESPECTABLE ENGLISH woman to wait on an invalid lady and make herself useful; good City reference. Address A. B., Box No. 263 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAIR-WOMAN.—A RESPECTABLE WOMAN, with good reference, would go out to work by the day or week; is a good laundress; would take family washing at home. Apply No. at 636 3d av.

CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY A RESPECTABLE young woman as chamber-maid and waitress, or waitress alone; first-class City reference. Call for two days at No. 107 West 49th st., third door off 6th av., second floor.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A GOOD GIRL AS chamber-maid and waitress, or chamber-maid and fine washer and ironer; four years' reference from last place. Call or address for two days at No. 205 West 32nd st., corner Broadway. Ring Mrs. Metzgar's bell.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY a Norwegian Protestant girl, thoroughly competent, in a private family; best City reference. Address M. R., Box No. 300 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A reliable young woman; will assist with washing and ironing; best City reference. Address L. M., Box No. 281 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable Protestant girl as chamber-maid and waitress, or chamber-maid and seamstress; best of City reference. Can be seen for two days at No. 319 East 32d st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY a competent young woman as chamber-maid and laundress; best City reference. Call at No. 115 West 19th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY a young girl as chamber-maid and waitress in a private family; high references. Call at No. 32 West 28th st., present employer's.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS chamber-maid or parlor-maid in a private family; is thoroughly competent; first-class City reference. Call at No. 226 East 29th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A COMPETENT YOUNG girl as chamber-maid or laundress; can do fluting; best City reference from last employer. Call at No. 124 West 19th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG girl as chamber-maid or waitress, or would go as laundress; first class reference. Call at No. 261 6th av., rear.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable young girl as chamber-maid and waitress; best of City reference. Call at No. 122 West 20th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE GERman girl to do chamber-work and fine ironing or sewing; best City reference. Call at No. 733 2d av., between 39th and 40th sts., top floor.

CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY A YOUNG GIRL to do up-stairs work, or take care of children and make herself generally useful. Call at No. 6 East 33d st., south side.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY a competent young woman as chamber-maid and laundress; best City reference. Call at No. 115 West 19th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL OF eighteen years; understands chamber-work and plain waiting, or would be willing to care children. Call two days at No. 445 West 50th st., third floor.

CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY A GIRL TO DO chamber-work and waiting in a small private family; best City reference from last place, where she has lived many years. Call at No. 70 Charles st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A TIDY WOMAN AS chamber-maid or kitchen-work or pantry-work; wages no object; good reference. Call at 620 6th av.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN, OR to take care of children. Can be seen between 10 and 1 at No. 31 East 38th st., present employer's.

CHAMBER-MAID, WAITRESS, &c.—BY A lady for a reliable, competent girl; would take charge of children and sew. Apply at 39 East 18th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl in a private family; good City reference. Call at No. 70 West 43d st., top floor.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—IN A small private family; five years' reference from her last place. Call at No. 35 West 17th st.

COOK—WAITRESS.—BY TWO SISTERS, ONE competent cook; understands cooking in all its branches; can take entire charge of kitchen and marketing; other as waitress; understands her business thoroughly; best City references. Address T. S., Box No. 291 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—By two young girls, sisters, in a private family; one as good cook, and would assist with the washing; the other as chamber-maid and waitress; would take separate places; three years' reference from their last place. Call at No. 208 East 45th st.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—By two respectable girls, one as good plain cook and the other as chamber-maid and waitress; have no objection to the washing between them; have the best of reference. Call for two days at No. 131 West 28th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT woman; understands bread and pastry; excellent laundress; or to do general house-work; City or country; City reference. Call at No. 113 West 27th st., basement.

COOK, &c.—CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY two young girls, sisters, one as cook, washer, and ironer, the other as chamber-maid and waitress or to assist in washing and ironing family; best City reference. Call for two days at No. 23 West 44th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS ENGLISH PROTESTant; five years' City reference from last place; thoroughly understands cooking in all its branches; meats, soups, games, and jellies; is a first-class baker. Call at No. 211 West 25th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS ENGLISH COOK, WHO thoroughly understands her business in all its branches; can take entire charge of the kitchen; has the best of City references. Call at No. 409 3d av., one door from 29th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RESpectable young woman as experienced cook; good baker; good washer and ironer; City or country; City reference. Call at No. 256 West 41st st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RESpectable young girl as good cook, washer, and ironer; best City reference. Address C. B., Box No. 299 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN, A GOOD COOK and bread and biscuit maker; understands all kinds of meats, soups, and jellies; will assist with the plain washing if required. Call at No. 234 East 41st st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A girl; cook, wash, and iron; good baker of bread, desserts; fine washer; City reference. Call at No. 228 West 16th st., rear.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A competent young woman to cook, wash, and iron in a small private family; good City references. Call at No. 130 West 26th st.

COOK.—BY AN EXCELLENT COOK; WILL DO washing if family is small; good baker; best City reference. Call at former employer's, No. 114 West 16th st., near 8th av., basement door.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT ENGLISH GIRL AS cook; would assist with the washing; City reference. Call at No. 325 East 32d st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL; BEST CITY reference. Call at No. 120 West 40th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A REspectable young girl, or do general house-work in a small family; best City reference. Address K., Box No. 281 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A FIRST-CLASS private family; understands her duties in all branches; first-class City and country references. Address M., Box No. 262 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK, WHERE A kitchen-maid is kept; has good City references from present and former employers. Call between the hours of 9 A. M. and 3 P. M. at No. 39 5th av., present employer's.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN; UNDERstands all kinds of family baking; willing and obliging; country preferred; best City reference. Call at No. 134 West 17th st.

COOK.—BY A PROFESSED COOK; UNDERSTANDS French and English cooking, also bread and pastry; best City references. Call or address for two days No. 218 West 27th st., Room No. 18.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT AN EXCELLENT COOK; will do coarse washing; no objection to the country; best City reference. Call for two days at No. 150 West 28th st.

COOK.—BY AN EXCELLENT COOK AND BAKER; is willing to assist with the washing; best of reference from her last place. Call at No. 213 East 20th st., in the store.

COOK.—BY A GOOD COOK AND ASSIST WITH the washing in a private family; good City reference. Address M. C., Box No. 275 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS FRENCH COOK; A real Cordon Bleu; with City references. Address French Cook, Box No. 259 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE family; understands her business thoroughly; has best of City reference. Call or address No. 140 West 31st st.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN; UNDERstands her business; would do coarse washing; good reference. Can be seen for two days at No. 254 West 18th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A respectable young woman as experienced cook; good baker; good washer and ironer; City or country; City reference. Call at No. 256 West 41st st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RESpectable young girl as good cook, washer, and ironer; best City reference. Address C. B., Box No. 299 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN, A GOOD COOK and bread and biscuit maker; understands all kinds of meats, soups, and jellies; will assist with the plain washing if required. Call at No. 234 East 41st st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A girl; cook, wash, and iron; good baker of bread, desserts; fine washer; City reference. Call at No. 228 West 16th st., rear.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A competent young woman to cook, wash, and iron in a small private family; good City references. Call at No. 130 West 26th st.

COOK.—BY AN EXCELLENT COOK; WILL DO coarse washing if family is small; good baker; best City reference. Call at former employer's, No. 114 West 16th st., near 8th av., basement door.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT ENGLISH GIRL AS cook; would assist with the washing; City reference. Call at No. 325 East 32d st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL; BEST CITY reference. Call at No. 120 West 40th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A RESp

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

VARIOUS SUBJECTS DISCUSSED.

THE TIMES AND DR. TALMAGE.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

THE TIMES devotes so much space to Dr. Talmage; its references are so distinct in their substance and in their spirit; they have extended over so long a period of time; they are so unjust in their statements, so satisfactory to the basest classes, so distressing in their consequences to many suffering and estimable women and men, and so different from the course of the paper toward most other subjects, that I solicit the insertion of some words upon the wrong, as I regard it, which is being done your journal and the clergyman of whom, without his knowledge, I am writing. Dr. Talmage is the Pastor of and preacher to a direct congregation of 5,000 persons. They represent, by the ordinary rates of one to four or five—20,000 persons resident in Brooklyn, New-York, and Jersey City. His sermons are printed verbatim every week in journals in the United States which have an aggregate circulation of half a million copies, and in journals in Great Britain which have an aggregate circulation of over thirteen hundred thousand copies. One is thus within bounds in stating that at least 2,500,000 persons are regularly reached by his words. The figures used are those which represent the lowest claims made on behalf of the circulation of the papers, and which grow out of the minimum proportion of subscribers to readers. He is now forty-two years old, and has been in Brooklyn seven years, in which time two churches have been virtually rebuilt, by enlargement, to meet the demands for sittings created by his preaching, and two great edifices have been erected outright, the last the largest Protestant church in the Union, succeeding one destroyed by fire, and which was itself larger than any that had been in this country before it.

During these years the net gains in membership have been as remarkable as the increase in attendance. The number of members signing the call seven years ago was nine hundred. The present membership is over twelve hundred, and the average of accessions since a permanent church home was secured has been over four hundred a year. Deaths and changes of residences constantly depolete all church-rolls. The depletion is rarely inferior to the accessions. There are forty churches in Brooklyn which have no more members than they had sixteen years ago; there are not a few which have less. The number annually received into the Tabernacle has in different years considerably exceeded the aggregate accessions to all the other churches of the Presbytery of Brooklyn. Along with the Tabernacle has grown its Lay College, from which more than one thousand trained laymen have gone out for evangelical work, a large number of whom have entered the regular ministry of every orthodox denomination.

These facts prove the possession and exercise of unusual qualities; the ability to gather and impress great numbers; the ability to incite them to great works; an unequaled amount and progress of results. Time enough has elapsed, too, to show that the influences rest on a permanent foundation. I know that these facts are such as entitle themselves to the notice of any student of events. I believe their nature and effects merit the respectable consideration of respectable newspapers. They are embodied in this communication, that THE TIMES readers may discover that considerable development of things they approve of has occurred in a quarter, which has suffered much misinterpretation at your hands. The measure of the work thus outlined, the manifold details of it which have not been suggested, but which suggest themselves to all church-going readers, can be let stand as all the answer necessary to be made to much of a criticism which is more kind and favorable toward frivolous, evanescent, and even vicious forces than just to a Protestant church and a Protestant preacher.

As to the Christian at Work matter and Dr. Talmage, every stricture of THE TIMES has been the product of an adoption of the statements made against him, and nothing in the news or opinions columns of your paper has indicated that Dr. Talmage's statements have been considered at all. They were in no degree printed as news. In brevier you have assumed that everything charged against him was true, and that everything he has rejoined is not. The facts are just these: Dr. Talmage and the proprietors were formally to part company Nov. 6. After this agreement the proprietors conveyed their property to another secretly, and with the presumable intent of dropping Dr. Talmage out, without notice, suddenly, before the time agreed on, and in a way that would have injuriously and unjustly affected him. He learned of this conspiracy, as I do not hesitate to call it, and dropped himself out on the very last day in which the proprietors he was serving were the proprietors! He was to edit their paper, not another's. They made it over to another, and did not mean he should knew that he had been sold out of his place before the time mutually agreed on for his retirement. He retired by his own act simultaneously with those who had designed to precede him, just long enough to leave him in the lurch. He was quick enough to counteract an unfriendly and covert movement against him. That is his offense. On ceasing to be editor he printed a valedictory statement that he had ceased to be editor. That is his crime. That is all he did, and as to the advertisement of the Advance he neither put it in nor knew that it was put in. This is not assertion merely. I know, in all that the word implies, that what I say is true concerning the advertisement. THE TIMES can doubtless keep on commenting upon a version of the occurrences different from this, but this is the complete and solely truthful version.

The change of name business is just as simple. The proposition of last March was this: In case the Christian at Work Company failed, and that paper stopped, to get out a duplicate without the loss of a week, the duplicate to be called Christian Work, leaving out the "at," as being an awkward word in an imprimature. This proposition was made entirely contingent, and for the purpose of securing subscribers to the Christian at Work from the loss of the papers for which they had paid a year in advance, on the strength of the fact that Dr. Talmage was the editor of the paper. It was designed to proceed to the full consent of the Christian at Work people to the modification of that name and to settle with them for the subscriptions, turning over to them all the moneys that had come in before the change should have taken place, and arranging to assume all the expenses and receipts after the proposed change. The mailing list was only mentioned, and it was openly mentioned, as a means to secure every subscriber from a stoppage of the paper in March would injure could be assuredly guaranteed a paper of the kind he had paid for for the rest of the year. My knowledge on this matter is also personal and complete, because my counsel was solicited at the time and upon the facts just as I here give them. I may also add that Mr. Hallock, who seems so shocked at the proposition of a change of name, six months after he entertained it, has been in friendly relations with Dr. Talmage ever since; but I err in this; he ceased friendly relations the day after the Doctor left the Christian at Work, and to be precise as to time, it was the evening of the day after, and, to fix the date by an event, it was just after he offered Dr. Talmage, and the latter declined, a contract guaranteeing him $5,000 a year if he would resume his relations to the Christian at Work under Mr. Hallock's provisional proprietorship. In that interview, on learning the causes impelling Dr. Talmage to his retirement, Mr. Hallock approved of it and of the manner of it, and he was also made the bearer of this offer from Dr. Talmage to Mr. Remington: Mr. Remington to select any five evangelical ministers he pleased, as a board, to consider the facts in the case of the retirement; Dr. Talmage to justify his action to the minds of every one of these five ministers, or failing to satisfy any one of them, to make apology and reparation all round, in such a one might prescribe. A franker, and I will add more verdant and more ingenuous offer I never heard of, but it has not been accepted, for reasons only known to the Remingtonian mind.

I have written more than I meant to write, but see nothing that I can shorten. I have given the facts of Dr. Talmage's work and of his relations to the paper in the matters as to which he has been criticised. These facts must be relied upon to portray a very earnest, very peculiar, and a very square man in his true lights and proportions. The ultimate verdict of his own age upon the genius, courage, and Christian consideration of the man is not doubtful, but from the very quality and pace of his gifts the opinions of the day are divided. He must grow up to justice through misinterpretation and caricature, in themselves a proof of the vigor of the man, for they are less vigorous who escape them. It is absolutely true that all who know him and are not in themselves mean or crooked, like him. THE TIMES is neither, but it does not know him. I hope what I have stated will make a great journal and a great man better friends or "better strangers."

ST. CLAIR MCKELWAY.

NO. 400 CLAREMONT AVENUE, BROOKLYN, Monday, Oct. 23, 1876.

WASTE OF WATER.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A waste of Croton is wicked at any time, and when we are on the verge of a water famine, as we are now, it is criminal. At the corner of Thirty-fifth street and Twelfth avenue, opposite the market, stands a hydrant, and for three weeks, to my personal knowledge, it has been so that boys and men could unscrew the faucet and set the water to running, and the most of the time it is left running. Police are ordered to stop the waste, which they can only do by standing over an open hydrant with a club. Why on earth the hydrants are not secured so that they can't be opened by any one desiring to do so is a mystery. There are several on the line of the North River in the same way. One more I can locate corner of Thirteenth avenue and Bogart street. Mr. Campbell Commissioner of Public Works, has been notified of this twice, but he chooses to build a new reservoir at an expense of $20,000,000 to supply this waste rather than have the hydrants secured against it.

HAYES & WHEELER.

NEW YORK, Sunday, Oct. 22d, 1876.

THE BROOKLYN RING TICKET.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The cowardice of the so-called "independent press" of this ring-ridden city obliges me to ask leave to address a few words of warning to my fellow-citizens of Brooklyn through the medium of your able, honest, and anti-ring paper, THE TIMES. The following is a list of the Ring candidates, misnamed "Democrats," of whom I desire to express myself in brief, not with any personal feeling, but solely from their record in the past:

CONGRESSIONAL.

Fourth District—A. M. Bliss.

COUNTY.

Register—William Barre.
County Clerk—John Delmar.
Surrogate—A. H. Dailey.
Commissioner of Charities—Bernard Midas.
Justice of Sessions—Andrew McKibben.

CITY.

Controller—William H. Burrell.
City Auditor—William S. Searing.

ASSEMBLY.

Third District—John J. Shanley.
Seventh District—C. L. Lyon.
Ninth District—John McGroarty.

How oddly must the howlers of "third termism" feel in view of this ticket, where there is not even the plea of acceptable service from the many-term and much-impugned men on this list?

A. M. Bliss, a renegade Republican, better-known as Archi. an unworthy time server and sycophant. A. H. Daily, ditto, William Barre, originally Barry, is liberal if nothing else, since his friends assert that he divides the salary and spoils of the office he inherits from Boss McLaughlin with that worthy statesman, John Delmar—some sixteen years since this worthy Judge drove a milk wagon and ran with the machine, in which latter position he was intrusted with some funds, the property of fellows, and which ill-natured parties assert, he did not deposit in the right place. Some eighteen months since the Grand Jury of this county did indict, foolishly, perhaps, the Judge, for sequestring or retaining the fines and penalties collected in his court (Frst District Justice of the Peace) but a very inconvenient District Attorney never gave the poor Judge an opportunity to establish his innocence—something happened to the indictment. Again, an unreasonable contractor, whose pay clerk was perhaps more artful than honest, had the latter arrested with a sum of money on his person, which the good Judge very properly took into his keeping for safety, and such was his anxiety to further the ends of justice "and all that," that he (to his own great inconvenience, no doubt,) retained the money for over two years, and only parted with it after the importunate owner had brought suit in a much Superior court, which, strange to say, strongly reflected on the conduct of the good Judge: while deciding against him, and ordered the money paid with what lawyers call a threat.

E. Midas looks somewhat like a son of the Flowery Kingdom, and though he was a Charity Commissioner for some years, he never needed that he should be impressed with the idea that charity begins at home, for it is now admitted by those opposed that he has bestowed more care in that direction than strict justice demanded.

Andy McKibben's virtues and judicial abilities are best known in the suburbs where his knowledge of the law has been exemplified in the trial and happy disposal of causes appertaining to the trespassing rights of hog and goat; and, on the whole, all the nominees may, without much sarcasm or exaggeration be called Reiserm, and are no doubt for the Tilden, Tweed, and Hendricks ticket.

R. B.

REV. E. W. FLOWERS AND GOV. TILDEN.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your issue of last Saturday, 14th inst., you published a letter from Rev. E. W. Flowers, of Detroit, relative to his interview with the then Chairman of the Democratic Committee, the present Gov. Tilden. The name of the author of that letter instantly revived in my mind many recollections of the past, among which were the incidents narrated in the communication alluded to. I was well acquainted with Mr. Flower while in New York, and with the facts published, except that I know of the conversation between himself and Gov. Tilden only by the statement he made of it to me immediately after it took place. When he found there was little opportunity at the time to be employed in any other department, he informed me of his purpose to leave New York, and return to his home in the West to put into execution his cherished intention of entering the ministry of the Episcopal Church, to which he belonged.

For nearly three years during the war I had frequent intercourse with the patients in the Central Park Hospital, (formerly St. Vincent's Seminary, and now the restaurant at the upper end of the Park,) and among them remember with admiration and high regard the young and intelligent soldier from Lansing, Mich. I preserved three volumes of Autograph Sketches of the "Boys in Blue," and on turning to one of them I find the following entry made by Mr. Flower:

UNITED STATES GENERAL HOSPITAL,
CENTRAL PARK, NEW YORK, Jan. 27, 1868.

* * * * * * *

E. W. Flowers, of Company E, Eighth Regiment, Michigan Volunteers, residence, Lansing, Ingham County, Mich., was wounded near Spottsylvania Court-House, Va., May 21, 1864. Had my right leg amputated below knee at North Anna River, Va., May 24, 1864. Was transferred thence to Port Royal, Va., and from there to Washington, D. C.; was confined in Finley United States General Hospital for two months; received a furlough and was subsequently transferred to this hospital, and at this date am, through the mercy of a merciful God, in a fair way of recovery. [I have omitted from the entry a kind, personal allusion, not necessary to be quoted.]

Mr. Flowers, after his wound was entirely healed and his artificial limb was supplied, was discharged, and found employment, as stated in his letter. The refusal to continue him in his clerkship by the Chairman of the Democratic Committee deprived the Government of a worthy and noble young servant, who preferred to maintain his principles and his convictions rather than to seek his temporary interest; but it was probably the instrument of giving to the Church a consistent and honored standard-bearer in the conflict with sin and corruption, political as well as moral.

I feel it a privilege to add this slight testimony to the history of Mr. Flowers' patriotism and unswerving fidelity to duty, and trust that his future will be as bright as has been the past.

WILLIAM OLAND BOURNE.

NEW-YORK, Monday, Oct. 16, 1876.

HONEST POLITICIANS.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The 7th of November is drawing near and America, like England at Trafalgar, expects every man to do his duty. Every man should feel that he has a duty, and conscientiously, and as under oath, should vote for the man he deems best fitted to fill the post of President. Don't let us content ourselves with "shirking," and, neither of the candidates perhaps, being to our mind, think the best way to get out of the muddle will be to vote for neither party. No one pretends to think that either of them is perfect, but one may be better than the other. I was much amused at a question asked the other day by a little child, "Is Grant as good as Washington?" "Nothing like as good," was the reply. "Why," said he, with an innocent, surprised face, "did he ever tell a lie?" His ignorance was not much greater than that of some men—pity his innocence does not go with it. Some men really seem neither to know nor to care who the Presidential candidates are, or what becomes of the country; that is, they know, for they can't help knowing, but they don't care, and thus leave a clear field and plenty of favor to needy politicians who rush in where honest men fear to tread. Many men in their knowledge of the subject and interest in it resemble the ancient worthy who thought that because he had the disease of which Washington died he must needs have the Constitution of the United States. It is a marvel to me that our American men take so little interest in politics. They can discuss the questions of the day over their walnuts and their wine, but they don't get beyond discussing them. No honest man, no gentleman, seems to care enough for his country to be willing to put his own hand to the plow. Fools and knaves, patriotically the knaves, throng our public places, and are willing enough to partake of the loaves and the fishes. "Every man has his price," is their motto, and they hang together, knowing that they deserve to hang separately. Far away seems the time when a celebrated political party took its name from the initial letters of its motto, "We hope in God." Nowadays politicians in general neither "hope in God," fear God, nor keep his commandments. And to think that it should be so now, at a time like the present, when in the mighty pressure of our country onward, talent and integrity, strong minds and honest hearts, are more than ever needed to serve and shield her. Very fitting, very well deserved is the Greek idiotes, from which the English word idiot is derived, signifying a man who takes no interest in politics. For there are honest men to be found among us without Diogenes and without his lantern—men uniting the gentleman, the scholar, and the Christian; able, if they were only willing, to come up to the help of the nation, and to make America a name and a praise in the whole earth. But they will not come because politician has become a by-word and a reproach synonymous with every kind of low dishonesty. So much the more are they needed, like Herculss, to clean the Augean stables, and to prove to the world that a man can be a politician and yet keep his integrity; that he can be a politician and yet, like Bayard, be "without fear and without reproach;" a pure patriot, an incorruptible statesman, an earnest, resolute, whole-souled Christian. Oh, what a glorious future might be before us! CUMÆA.

A HINT TO JUSTICES GOEPP AND SINNOTT.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I notice that Justices Charles Goepp and James P. Sinnott, both of the Marine Court of this City, seem to employ most of their time in writing political pamphlets in the interest of the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Without commenting at all upon the indecency of judges coming down from the bench to trail the ermin in the "dirty pool of politics," I must say that these gentlemen could be much better employed in performing a duty to the public for which they are paid the handsome salary of $10,000 per annum. What, with writing long-winded political essays and pedantic decisions upon questions of little or no importance, and having only in view the frequent appearance of his name in the Law Register, with a problematical J attached thereto, Mr. Justice Goepp manages to fritter away time which should be devoted to clearing off the over-burdened calendars of the Marine Court. Yet Justice Goepp cannot plead ignorance of the fact that his court, which is valuable only to the public because it has heretofore been speedier in granting trials to litigants than the other courts, is shamelessly behind in its work, since it is but a few months since he said in deciding against a motion to advance a cause on the calendar, that there are several thousand causes on the calendar which will never be reached. We hope the next Legislature will help this court to reach these hopeless causes, but in the meantime, I submit that it is the duty of the Justices of the court to devote their time to grant all possible relief, rather than to waste it on political pamphlets.

A VICTIM OF TARDY JUSTICE.

NEW YORK, Monday, Oct. 23, 1876.

JAMES LICK'S ECCENTRICITIES.

The San Francisco Chronicle says: "When John Lick, the son of the great philanthropist, came to this city some time in the last decade, he entered into many of his father's plans, and intended to remain here. James took the young man to his agent's office, E. W. Leonard, and introduced him as his son. John had grown up in Pennsylvania with his mother, and not many persons at that time knew that Mr. Lick had a son. The fact was, therefore, one of considerable amazement to Mr. Lick's friends. How much of John was consigned by his father to pick several bushels of quinces and apples from an orchard that Mr. Lick then owned on the outskirts of the city, but was particularly instructed not to sell the fruit. John did as directed, and harvested the quinces and apples. Four weeks afterward Mr. Lick found the fruit in his store-house complete ruined by decay. He then escorted John for not disposing of it, and a fierce quarrel ensued. This was one of the petty quarrels that finally separated Mr. Lick and his son, and sent the latter back to Lebanon in anger. In his later years he was possessed of a very querulous and irritable disposition, and as he used the emphatic words of the English language very freely, his personal attendants' positions were not easy ones to fill. It is stated that he has employed and discharged as many as a dozen persons in a week. His female nurse, Mrs. Messiter, was one who, perhaps, better than any one else, knew how to humor him, and even she was discharged and reengaged several times.

EFFECTS OF THE ARCTIC DISASTER.

The New-Bedford (Mass.) Mercury of Monday says: "The disaster to the Arctic whaling fleet, though very great, does not nearly approach in magnitude that of 1871, when nineteen vessels belonging to this port were abandoned, with eleven from other ports. The valuation of the New-Bedford vessels lost at that time was reported at $1,090,000. The probability is now that, as a rule, the vessels are better insured than they were at that time. As to the effects of this disaster, the opinions of the best judges are somewhat divided. It is clear enough, however, that the prices of whalebone must advance. The stock now in the country is about thirty thousand pounds, and as the price has of late been slowly advancing, it cannot fail to go still higher. It is not expected that the prices of oil will be so much affected. Sperm-oil can hardly feel it, and while a small advance may be looked for in whale-oil, there are so many substitutes for it which can be used on a pinch that the rise in this would not be great. The bone now on hand amounts to about ten thousand barrels. The prices of menhaden and other fish-oils may also be slightly affected. It must be remembered, however, that in the natural course of trade the oil taken by these lost vessels would not reach the market for some months yet. Another result will probably be a material rise in the value of whale-ships. These vessels can hardly be replaced by purchase, and new ones cannot be built for the amount at which they are valued. Some of the captains of these whalers evidently anticipated the possibility of having to spend the Winter in the ice, from the fact that they asked for extra fares of bread and molasses, and an extra quantity of coal. This was given them by their agents, and the owners of some of the ships inform us that enough has been put on board to keep all those left with the ships till Spring."

BREAKING A PROBATED WILL.

The Philadelphia Telegraph says that there is under argument in that city before the Judges of the Orphans' Court, in banc, a curious will case. Joseph Chambers died in 1875, and his will, drawn in 1873, was presented to the Register by his executors and his heir-at-law, and was admitted to probate. This will provided a legacy of $1,000 to a relative, his gold watch to a friend, and the balance of his estate, probably $1,000 in value, to a Mrs. Clark. The executors went on with their duties, and filed their first account, when there were some receipts presented to the auditor for payments on which the testator had advanced to a gentleman. The executors rejected the receipts on the ground that the signatures to them were forged. It was demanded that the will, which was and had been a paper of record for more than a year, should be produced to demonstrate the genuineness of the signature to the receipts, but when produced there was an entire dissimilarity in the name of "Joseph Chambers," as appended to both. The parties holding the receipts, after demonstration were the next-of-kin, commenced a contest of the will as a forgery; but as it had already been admitted to probate, the burden of proof was laid on them. They brought oral and documentary evidence to support the charge that the signature to the will was not in the handwriting of the deceased. The executors, represented by J. B. Colohan, produced an equal, if not greater, quantity of testimony of relative business men, documents, &c., to prove its genuineness. Unfortunately, the subscribing witnesses, who saw the will signed, cannot be found.

HOW THE WAR MIGHT HAVE BEEN AVERTED.

A gentlemen, recently returned to Washington from a trip through the New-England States, relates to the Chronicle the following:

"Stopping over night at a hotel in a New-Hampshire town he found the usual political discussion being waged warmly between a Democrat and a Republican in the reading-room, the former a Wall street broker from New-York, and the latter an Englishman, who had served through the war. Words ran high, and the debate became lively. Every issue was discussed, from Calhoun's first speech to Tilden's income-tax, and among others the hanging of John Brown at Harper's Ferry. As they warmed up things became very personal, the broker declaring that the Englishman had no right to meddle anyhow, and he had better go back to his Queen, the latter retorting that he had gained a right by raising his arm in defense of the country, and would soon be citizen in England and come here to be a true citizen than born here and be a traitor. Here the Democrat ventilated himself of the opinion that every Republican ought to have been treated just as John Brown was, and then rushed off to his room, his antagonist following a few minutes later. A goodly number of the town lawyers had been attentive listeners, and a few minutes after the gladiators had departed an old fellow, evidently the spokesman of the party, raised his voice: 'Now, them fellows is purely too one-sided. I'm a Demyerat, but I takes a mod'rit view of the question. This is my opinion, and I've said it more'n a thousand times: It was right and proper that John Brown should've been hung; but there's Harper's Ferry just as guilty; he should'a been hung too, and then we wouldn't 'a had no war.'"

OREGON SALMON.

The Portland Oregonian says that during the present fishing season there have been eighteen salmon canneries on the Lower Columbia River, and that they have put up 423,730 cans. Of these, over 400,000 cases contained four dozen one-pound tins, and the remainder consisted of two-pound and two-and-a-half-pound tins. The season opened at about $1 30 for one-pound tins, and the same are now held at $1. 80. Last March it was estimated that from 500,000 to 600,000 cases would be packed. Over 100,000 cases have been shipped direct from Astoria to England in the past three months. Receipts at San Francisco since Jan. 1 aggregate 289,200 cases, most of which has come to hand in the past few months, and nearly all of which has been reshipped.

THE PATHWAY TO THE POLE

THE ARCTIC FLOOD GATE OF THE GULF STREAM.

GERMAN EXPEDITIONS—GRAND PROBLEMS TO BE SOLVED—IMPASSABLE BARRIERS OF FROZEN WATER—ICEBERGS OF HUGE PROPORTIONS—THE GULF-STREAM CURRENTS—HOW THE ISTHMUS OF PANAMA AFFECTS THE INHABITANTS OF EUROPE.

From the London Spectator.

Mr. Van Campen deserves the thanks not only of his own countrymen, but of all those interested in Arctic research, for the wise efforts he is making to draw fresh attention to the subject. The immediate object of the pages before us [The Dutch in the Arctic Seas: By Samuel Richard Van Campen,] is to rekindle Dutch enthusiasm concerning one field of heroic adventure in which in bygone days no one surpassed them, and then to use the enthusiasm so kindled to stir up the Dutch Government to undertake the sending out on a voyage of discovery an Arctic expedition similar to our own. Of course, with regard to the whole question of Government expeditions of this kind, there is a good deal to be said for and against. On the one hand, we have men like Lamont, with surely no small amount of practical and hardly-acquired wisdom to bring to bear on the question, asserting that if the Pole is to be reached it will probably be by men who in small vessels and for private ends are content year after year to go on pounding away at the ice. Dutch whalers as early as 1655 and 1676, if their records may be looked upon as reliable, sighted higher points of latitude than the second German expedition. Collinson, Ommanney, McClintock have all declared, on the other side, for the necessity that such expeditions, if they are to be successful, should be under naval discipline and Government control. Yet the late Admiral Osborn, whose opinion must be allowed all weight, while stating very distinctly that "an exploration of the Polar area should always be sent under naval auspices and naval discipline," and adding, "I have no faith in purely private expeditions on such a service as this I advocate," is compelled elsewhere by his sense of justice to admit that "Columbus would never have reached the new continent, the immortal Cook could never have made his voyages round the world, the illustrious names of Franklin, Ross, and Parry would not have been added to the rolls of fame, if past Admiralities had been wanted for to organize scientific research and geographical exploration." The fact is there is room enough and to spare for both kinds of enterprize. It is a generous rivalry, and we are glad to see the question become one of rivalry between nations; and, though inclined to indorse Mr. Van Campen's opinion that England having undertaken to go to the North Pole, she will do it, we should be well content to see by half a boat's length only. Meanwhile, the question before us, of what Holland can and will do in the matter, is one full of interest. We shall endeavor as briefly as possible to give a resumé of the leading suggestions in the work before us.

To force a passage to the east by the northward, and thus obtain greater facilities for trade with China and Central Asia, was following the example of the early Dutch adventurers. Men like Barents, martyrs for this idea, did not die altogether in vain. It is nearly three hundred years since Barents discovered Spitzbergen, with its 30,000 square miles of earth, in which there is not sustenance enough for one human being, and succeeded in rounding the north-east point of bleak Novaya Zemlya, a feat which was not again accomplished till 1871. But the object of all former Dutch expeditions was a purely commercial one, and nature rarely renders up her secrets thus. Suddenly the magnitude of the question from another point of view has burst upon the world. Here are 2,500,000 square miles of the earth's surface to be explored, and locked among its mysteries the shortest route from Europe to Asia, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but holding also other problems in solution, as the equatorial and polar currents, the influence of the atmospheric condition of the polar area on the climate of Europe, the exact configuration of our globe, with many a difficult secret in the phenomena of magnetism, not even possibly in the science of ethnology. Here, then, is a field where the heroes of science of every race may go in and win, and here the indomitable race to whom difficulty and hardship are but new incentives to action may well claim a place. The nation which does not only dream of draining the Zuyder Zee, but makes that project a feasible one, which she is forthwith to take in hand, adding thereby six per cent. in productive acreage to her national area, is not to be daunted by difficulties when she has an enterprise in hand. The question of the existence of an open sea at the pole, and "the question as to the presence at the northern axis of our globe of those mighty currents"—"the warm rivers of the sea"—which are known to exert so marked an influence on climate in other parts of the world, are certainly among the grand problems to be solved by the minute investigation to be looked for from future Arctic exploration. And in pursuance of this thought, Mr. Van Campen taxes next into consideration what special route it will conduce most to the interests of science that a Dutch expedition should follow. And clearly one of the objects he himself has most at heart is to test the practicability of a passage to the Pole, borne, as it were, on the current of the Gulf Stream; and this suggestion alone opens up a question which we commend to our readers, but with which it is very difficult in our limited space adequately to deal. Whence comes the current our British expedition is gone to meet? How does it reach the circumpolar region in such a state that it carries before it, on its return circuit, such enormous masses of ice? The answer Mr. Van Campen returns to that question is this: "The Gulf Stream that washes the coast of Britain, saving us from the rigors of a Labrador Winter, passes up between Novaya Zemlya and Spitzbergen, bearing driftwood, the marine plants which only grow in mild temperatures, and innumerable other of its treasure-stores, and deposits some of these on far northern coasts; while other tribute is found more to the west, thus pointing out to all theoretical appearance a channel poleward." "A learned American reviewer" is quoted by our author as noticing that a branch of the Gulf Stream turned to the Arctic regions by way of Spitzbergen, "thus indicating to the explorer the true way to the Pole as unerringly as the wild buffalo of the West points out to the hunter by its beaten paths the easiest and best routes through the Rocky Mountains; yet strange to say, all the Polar navigators, from Parry to Dr. Kane, have ignored this fact, and sought passages to the Pole in vain far to the westward, by way of Davis Strait and Baffin's Bay. While nature has been beckoning them on to the true thermal gateway to the pole, they have cast their eyes in a different direction, and wandered about in culs-de-sac, only to be baffled and wearied and driven back by impassable barriers of ice." We give this suggestion as Mr. Van Campen gives it, for what it may be worth, but we are inclined, with him, to add Lieut. Maury's testimony to the fact that from the Gulf issues a ceaseless and mighty flow of water to the tropics, carrying with it icebergs of huge proportions—proportions so huge as to defy computation. The figures given seem absurd. Take the one instance he gives of the berg which bore the Resolute and cast it 1,200 miles to the south, and which was computed to be 300,000 square miles in area, (an area about equal to a Prussia and a half,) which surely can have never been explored and its extent determined by the crew of a single vessel.) Evidently we try in vain to estimate what must be the flow of water from the south which, "wedging itself into this space around the Pole, ejects such masses out of this space as easily as the steam-driven piston of the engine throws its jet d'eau." Surely, says Mr. Van Campen, the current that is equal in its power to the accomplishment of these stupendous mechanical operations can bear any vessel that will take advantage of its existence as near the Pole as a ship can approach, when steaming against the volume of its returning waters, by that examination adjourned with costs. See memorandum.

MARINE COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Chief Justice Shea.

Dumont vs. Westcott.—Ordered that plaintiff file security for costs.

Motions Granted.—Corlis vs. Worl, Strange vs. Fisher.

Blake vs. Duff.—Report and account of Receiver, with order of his discharge.

Stackpoole vs Vernan.—Motion granted.

Orders Granted.—Harris vs. Tilton; Morton vs. Rossi; Gannon vs. Kidd; Whaley vs. Gregory; Epstein vs. Samuells; La Cour vs. Farrell; Johnson vs. Jackson; Brown vs. Farley; Petters vs. Noah; Brinck vs. Fay; Petters vs. Thompson; Moore vs. Cassin; Salomon vs. Perry.

COURT CALENDARS—THIS DAY.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Held by Barrett, J.

Nos.	Nos.
87—Brewster vs. Cole.	235—Nosser vs. Buenkel.
88—Bell vs. Conover.	249—Perault vs. Turner.
155—Wormser vs. Hoffman	250—Kidd vs. Bristow.
172—Parker vs. Dumas.	255—Arthur vs. Kennedy.
190—Tarbell, &c., vs. Britton.	261—Hoagland vs. Waring.
196—Bryan vs. The Paoli Belt Co.	269—Hill vs. Keith.
201—Platt vs. Degraauw.	273—Faye vs. Oehlers.
220—Allen vs. Chamberlain.	279—Spaulding vs. Martin.
234—Kidd vs. Bristow.	281—Molonghney vs. Kerwin.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Held by Davis, P. J., Brady and Daniels, JJ.

Nos.	Nos.
210—Clusman vs. The Long Island Railroad Co.	138—The People ex rel. Smith Rankin vs. Tax Commissioners.
211—Alexander et al. vs. Brown et al.	139—Byrnes vs. The Tax Commissioners.
212—Littauer vs. Goldman.	140—The People ex rel. Kenworth vs. The Tax Commissioners
153—The Mayor vs. The North Shore and S'n Island Ferry Co.	141—The People ex rel. Corning et al. vs. The Tax Commissioners.
175—Weeks vs. The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co.	142—The People ex rel. Shippen et al. vs. The Tax Commissioners.
186—The National Bank vs. Carll.	143—The People ex rel. Roach vs. The Tax Commissioners.
206—Whiteside vs. Hyman.	144—The People ex rel. The Cen. R. R. Co. of N. J. vs. The Tax Commissioners.
214—Hoe et al. vs. Hussey et al.	213—The Western R. R. Co. vs. Bayne et al.
215—King vs. Bulsse.
146—Matter of Keegan.
147—The People ex rel. The Gallatin Nat. Bank et al. vs. The Tax Commissioners.
—Breer et al. vs. Penneman et al.

NOTICE.—The Committee on Character meets at 3 o'clock P. M.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Held by Van Vorst, J.

Nos.	Nos.
98—Devoe vs. Boyd et al.	524—Nicoll vs. Scrymser.
146—Curry vs. Witters.	529—Cegger vs. Mears et al.
322—Dambmann vs. Schulting.	549—Waterbury vs. Bouker et al.
474—Uhl, &c., vs. Millhauser.	610—Pike vs. Seiter et al.
475—Uhl, &c., vs. Larkin et al.	621½—Josephthal et al. vs. Heyman et al.
477—Bruns, Jr., vs. Boehm et al.	629—Uhl, &c., vs. Huzner, &c.
487—Phillips et al. vs. Hyman	631—Watry et al. vs. Duncan et al.
499—The Mutual Life Ins. Co. vs. Trask et al.	632—Knowlson et al. vs. Betts et al.
577—Valentine, &c., vs. Haydecker	45—Angell, &c., vs. Crawford, Jr., et al.
502—Cameron vs. Mitchell et al.	223—Wheeler vs. Duffy.
506—Chl. &c., vs. Scharsberg et al.	530—Smith vs. Lewis et al.
520—O'Conner, &c., vs. The Mayor, &c.	537—Same vs. Same.
	278—Laugdon vs. Gray.
	279—Same vs. Same.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART 1.

Held by Donohue, J.

Nos.	Nos.
1947—Marks vs. Green.	1967—The Rogers L. & M. Works vs. The St. L. M. & R. R. Co.
2135—Mulry vs. The Mayor, &c.
1939—Bainbridge versus Bronne et al.	3663—Bates et al. vs. The Mayor, &c.
1535—Sloane et al. versus Gaudet et al.	1885—Peck et al. vs. Salisbury et al.
1563—Ball et al. vs. Belden et al.	1993—Fitts et al. vs. Onderdonk.
1519½—Kobbe vs. Price.	2037—Randel, &c., vs. Cox.
1486—Gibbs vs. Hichborn.	2243—Martinez versus Del Santo.
1489—Same vs. Same.
1703—Blaschect vs. Phillips.	1867—McCarthy vs. The D. C. and D. Sugar Ref. Co.
1059—Eckert et al. vs. Chaffee et al.	1699—Chandler vs. Callender.
2225—Kirby vs. The N. Y. Cen. & H. R. R. R. Co.	569—Lynch vs. Kieran.
1617—Miller vs. Miller.	1989—Schaeffer vs. Gibson
1148—Laughran, Jr., vs. Matthews et al.	1047—Berghaus versus Schlumpf.
2011—Redman vs. King.	2165—Dommedieu versus Wing et al.
2065—Laserewitsch vs. Monagnin.	3681—Irving vs. The Mayor, &c.
1611—Dickinson versus Dudley.	1111—Wilkinson et al. vs. Noble et al.
2117—Taylor vs. Surget.	3435—Campbell, &c., vs. Burchard.
1985—Jennison vs. Conner, &c.	2249—The New-York State Loan and Trust Co. vs. Kneeland.
2107—Toffey et al. vs. Williams.	3218—Kennedy vs. The Mayor, &c.
1723½—Bruce et al. vs. Sorvell.
1329—Sheen vs. Crawford.
1350—Partridge vs. Thayer

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART II.

Held by Lawrence, J.

Nos.	Nos.
6662—Roller vs. Goldfinger.	958½—Forrester et al. vs. The Mayor, &c.
738—Wagner vs. Lewis et al.	514—Carrington et al. vs. Hard et al.
2343—Hillenbrand vs. The Mayor, &c.	248—Rogers et al. vs. Phillips et al.
348—Baldwin vs. Mehrbach.	2603—O'Gara vs. Kearney, &c.
2593—Lynch vs. The Mayor, &c.	2614—Avery et al. vs. Conner, &c.
1320—Fort vs. Harriott et al.	915—Dowling vs. The Mayor, &c.
1036—Schall et al. vs. Collier.	1654—Von Gerichten vs. The Mayor, &c.
2110—De Lavalette vs. Wendt, &c.	1258—Ogden vs. Van Moera.
378—The Guardian Mutual Life Ins. Co. vs. The Atl. Nat. Bank.	696—The La. Nat. Bank vs. Schuchard.
1062—Solomon vs. Barr.	872—Jones vs. Julian.
956½—Connolly et al. vs. The Mayor, &c.	740½—Edwards vs. Lawton.
957½—Wynkoop vs. The Mayor, &c.	658—Vance vs. Luke.
	1040—Gilbert et al., vs. Marsh, &c.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART III.

Held by Larremore, J.

Case on—No. 1,078½—Bumstead, &c., vs. Hoadley.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Adjourned for the term.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Held by Curtis, C. J.

Case on—40—Spader vs. New York Elevated Railroad Co. No day calendar.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Held by Sanford, J.

Nos.	Nos.
299—Welsh vs. The Ger. Am. Bank.	331—Boyce vs. Wright.
175—Morgan versus McVickar.	6—Waverly vs. The Western Trans. Co.
350—Barras vs. Bidwell.	329—Demuth vs. The Am. Institute City of N. Y.
363—Meyer et al. vs. Ortgies et al.	333—Bohemnon vs. Barlow et al.
269—Abecasis vs. Orgy.	296—Hean vs. The Hudson R. R. R. Co.
379—Johnson vs. Luxton.
626—Stretch vs. Wolfet al.
630—Canzi vs. Connor, Sheriff.	321—McCloy vs. Calahan.
	335—Cecil et al. vs. Beed.

COMMON PLEAS—EQUITY TERM.

Held by Van Brunt, J.

No day calendar.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Adjourned for the term.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

Held by Van Brunt, J.

18—Gniterman vs. Liverpool, N. Y. & P. S. S. Co.	846—McDonald vs. The Irving Nat'l Bank.	500 Lake Shore.....	62¼
167—Meyerhoff vs. Fiske.	347—Siegler vs. Slocum.	100 do.....	62⅜
361—Klein vs. Marschutz.	784—Abrahams vs. The Mayor, &c.	100 do.....	62¼
122—Stevenson vs. Hopkins.		100 do.....	62⅜

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART III.

Held by J. F. Daly, J.

968—Neligh vs. Hall.	827—Heidie vs. Boyd.	100 do.....	62⅜
813—Britton vs. Hastings.	1013—Schwatzler vs. Hill.	100 do.....	62⅜
839—Slimm vs. The Mayor, &c.	814—Slimm vs. North.	100 do.....	62⅜
	912—Gerber vs. Peter.	100 do.....	62⅜

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Held by Aiker, J.

Nos.	Nos.
1862—Rosenthal et al. vs. Leopold.	4946—Cohen vs. McCallum.
1871—Rorenthal et al. vs. Stern.	4806—The Bd of Com'rs of Pilots vs Dibbell.
1700—Read vs. Russ, Jr.	4983—Schaefer vs. Stegmeyer.
1698—Rose et al. vs. Russ.	5000—Spenzeman, &c., vs. Belnert et al.
1861—Vom Briesen versus Wulfung.	5001—Brueck vs. Connor.
1882—Cassidy vs. Bongrand.	5003—Schaefer vs. Gaff
1885—Reeb vs. Krause.	5004—Ruppert vs. The Knick. Life Ins. Co.
1886—McParland, versus Crump.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

Held by Goepp, J.

Nos.	Nos.
4752—Statler vs. Smith.	4430—Cian Ranald vs. McDonald.
4772—Robertson vs. Unger.	4670—Newman vs. Miller et al.
4974—James et al. vs. Hymans.	4090—Bonaffon vs. Chamberlain.
3342—Goldzier vs. Young.	4312—Doolittle versus Schwartz.
4725—Lorillard vs. Connor et al.	4804—Bougrand vs. the Ætna Insurance Co.
4903—King vs. Arch.	4906—Emanuli vs. Smal et al.
4390—N. Y. Col. of Veterinary surgeons vs. Dickel.	4916—McClure vs. Phillips.
7301—Ringe vs. Mittnacht et al.	4926—Fairchild vs. Knowlton.
4562—Pforzheimer vs. Tucker.	3209—Fuller vs. Sternfels et al.
4616—Kiefler et al. vs. Hiller et al.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART III.

Held by Sinnott, J.

Nos.	Nos.
653—Hugert vs. Brennan.	7140—Herriott et al. versus Post.
8040—Zelinka vs. Schreiber.
8810—Remy vs. Magron.	6645—Maier et al. versus Springer.
8960—Timm et al. vs. Munsinger.	6646—Maier et al. vs. Donovan.
2315—Crane vs. Walker.	7294—Kehr vs. Covert.
5976—Kohn vs. Marks.	7201—Connor vs. Elwell et al.
7166—Center vs. Smith.
7318—Grier vs. Robertson.	7200—Bacharach et al. vs. Hebeler et al.
8521—Auris, &c., versus Schroetter.	7714—Shook vs. Ban.
8696—Pforzheimer versus Stevens.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PART I.

Held by Sutherland, J.

Michael McGuire, homicide, continued. | Charles K. Beckwith, embezzlement.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PART II.

Held by Gildersleeve, J.

Henry P. Antes, grand larceny.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

SALES AT THE STOCK EXCHANGE—OCT. 24.

SALES BEFORE THE CALL—10 A. M.

$5,000 Un. Pac. 1st..	105¾	100 Cent. of N. J.....	35½
5,000 H. & St. J. 8s, con..	81½	300 do.....	35¼
13,000 do.....	81¾	200 do.....	35⅛
210 Del. & Hud.....	74¾	100 do.....	36
500 Pacific Mail.....	25¼	1000 do.....	35¾
100 do.....	25⅛	700 do.....	36
700 do.....	25	400 do.....	36⅛
1200 do.....	25⅛	300 do.....	36¼
400 Western Union..	71⅞	300 do.....	36¼
300 do.....	71⅞	300 do.....	36¼
100 do.....	71⅞	200 do.....	36⅛
600 do.....	72	100 do.....	36
500 do.....	72⅛	100 do.....	36⅛
1300 do.....	72¼	100 do.....	36¾
500 do.....	72¼	100 Han. & St. Jo....	16
1700 Erie Railway..	11⅞	do.....	16¼
1000 do.....	11¾	do.....s3.	16¼
800 do.....	c. 11⅝	do.....b30.	16¼
200 Rock Island.....	101⅞	100 do.....	16
100 Michigan Cen..	b3. 48	200 H. & St. Jo. Pref.	31
100 do.....	48¼	100 do.....s3	30¾
300 do.....	48¼	300 St. Paul.....	28¾
200 do.....	b3. 48¾	200 do.....	28⅝
400 do.....	48¼	100 do.....	28⅝
100 do.....	48¼	200 St. Paul Pref.....	59¾
100 do.....	c. 48¾	200 do.....	59⅝
400 Toledo & Wab...	6	100 North-western..	40⅜
100 do.....	6⅛	100 North-west. Pref..	62¾
400 Lake Shore.....	60⅜	200 Del., L. & W.....	77⅛
500 do.....	60⅝	do.....	78
1200 do.....	60⅝	700 do.....	78¼
800 do.....	60¾	300 do.....	78⅜
1300 do.....	60⅞	200 do.....	78¾
2500 do.....	61	300 do.....	78⅝
100 do.....	c. 61	200 do.....	78⅝
1700 do.....	61⅜	100 do.....	c. 78⅝
2600 do.....s3.	61⅜	100 Ohio & Miss...s3.	11⅜
1000 do.....	61¼	100 do.....	11⅜
2800 do.....	61⅜	100 do.....	11⅜
2200 do.....	61⅜

GOVERNMENT STOCKS—10:15 AND 11:30 A. M.

$2,000 U. S. 6s, '81, c.	112⅛	$60,000 U. S. 5-20C., '67.....	112 13/32
25,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65.....	b.c. 112½	7,000 U. S. 5s, 10-40, C.....	112 15/32
8,000 U. S. 5-20 R., '65.....	112⅜	10,000 do.....	112 13/32
10,000 U. S. 5-20 C., '65, N.....	112 25/32	7,000 U. S. 5s, '81, C.	112½
		7,000 U. S. 5s, '81, R.	101 11/16
		3,000 U. S. 6s, C.	112

FIRST BOARD—10:30 A. M.

$1,000 Tenn. 6s, N....	44	100 Ill. Cen.....b.c.c.	83¾
2,000 Va. 6s, C, ex m. c.	68⅜	25 Panama.....	b.c. 127
8,000 do.....	68¾	200 C. & N. W.....b.c.	40⅜
1,000 Mo. 6s, 1877..	103⅜	200 do.....b3.	40⅝
2,000 N. J. C. 1st, N.	110¾	600 C. & N. W. Pf.b.c.	62⅞
2,000 N. J. C. 1st, C.	83¾	100 do.....	62¾
4,000 L. & W. B. C.	69	100 Mich. Cen.....b.c.	88⅜
10,000 C. & N. W. Con.	104⅝	1400 do.....	88⅜
1,000 N. W. Un. Tel. G.	86½	200 do.....c.	88⅜
1,000 do.....	95¾	200 do.....	88½
10,000 M. & St. P. 7s, '71.	101	200 do.....	88⅜
2,000 Erie 2d.....	102¾	200 do.....s3.	88⅜
10,000 C. & I. 1st, N.	110¾	600 do.....b3.	88¾
2,000 C. Pac. G. bds.	109¾	600 do.....b3.	88¾
2,000 Un. Pac. 1st..	105⅜	200 do.....	88⅞
5,000 L. & N. con. '98.	92	200 do.....	89
4,000 Alb. & Sus. 2d.	101	200 do.....	89¼
1,000 O. & M. 2d.....	87½	1100 do.....	89¼
25 Bank of Republ...	72	300 do.....s3.	89⅛
35 Fourth Nat. Bk.	90	300 do.....	89
100 Mariposa.....b.c.	6¾	100 Chic. & R. I. b.c.	s3. 102
100 do.....	s3. 6¾	100 do.....	103¼
100 Preferred.....	13¾	10 Mor. & Essex.....	104¾
207 Mariposa Pf. b.c.	6⅝	5 N. Y., N. H. & H. b.c.	150½
20 do.....	7	200 Cen. of N. J.....b.c.	36⅝
100 N. Y. C. & H.....b.c.	104½	100 do.....	36⅝
100 Del. & Lack. C.....	77¾	100 do.....	36⅜
100 do.....	b.c. 75	100 do.....	36¼
800 W. Un. T.....b.c.	72⅜	100 do.....s3.	36¼
100 do.....b3.	72⅜	100 do.....s30.	32⅞
100 do.....s3.	72	100 do.....	30½
100 do.....	c. 72	100 do.....	30½
100 do.....	72	100 do.....	30½
200 do.....	72¼	100 C., M. & St. P.b.c.	28¾
1100 do.....s3.	72⅜	100 do.....	28½
900 P. M. S. S. C.....b.c.	25⅜	100 do.....	28⅝
200 do.....b3.	25⅛	100 do.....s3.	28⅜
200 do.....c.	25⅛	900 do.....	59½
100 Erie Railway.....b.c.	11⅝	100 do.....	59⅝
25 do.....	11¾	100 do.....s3.	59⅝
100 do.....	11⅝	100 T., W. & W.....b.c.	6¾
50 Clev. & Pitt. G. b.c.	89½	500 do.....	6¾
25 do.....	89	200 do.....b3.	6¾
600 L. S. & M. S. b.c. b3.	61½	700 do.....	6¾
2600 do.....	61¾	400 Del., L. & W. b.c.	78¾
200 do.....s3.	61¾	100 do.....b3.	78¾
1300 do.....c.	61¾	300 do.....	78½
100 do.....	61¾	200 do.....	78⅝
300 do.....b3.	61½	100 do.....	78⅝
100 do.....	61¾	100 do.....s3.	78⅝
500 do.....	61¾	400 do.....	78⅝
500 do.....	61¾	200 do.....	78⅜
1200 do.....	61⅝	200 do.....s3.	78⅜
1200 do.....	61⅞	100 Han. & St. Jo. Pf.	29
900 Erie Railway..	b3. 11⅞	50 St. Paul.....	28⅞
1500 do.....	11⅞	200 do.....	29¼
20 do.....	12⅛	200 do.....	29¼
100 do.....b3.	11⅞	200 do.....	28⅞
50 Tol. & Wab.....	6	100 do.....b30.	28⅞
100 do.....b30.	6¼	100 do.....s3.	29⅛
300 Mich. Central....	50¼	200 do.....	29¼
100 do.....	50¼	200 St. Paul Pref....	60
1000 do.....	50¼	700 do.....	60¼
1100 do.....	50¾	300 Del., Lack. & W..	78¼
100 Union Pacific....	63	200 do.....	78⅜
100 North-western..	40¾	200 do.....	78½
500 North-west. Pref.	62¾	100 do.....	78⅜
100 do.....	63½	500 do.....b3.	78¾
400 Pac. R. of Mo....	4	700 do.....	78¾

SALES FROM 2:30 TO 3 P. M.

$51,000 Mo. K. & T. S. F. A.	59	500 Lake Shore.....	62¼
5,000 B. C. R. & M. 1st.	39½	800 do.....	62¼
1600 Pacific Mail.....	25⅜	500 do.....	62⅜
100 do.....s3.	25⅜	100 do.....s3.	62⅜
500 N. Y. C. & Hud..	105¼	600 do.....b3.	62½
400 West. Union.....	72⅜	500 do.....s3.	62½
1700 do.....b3.	72½	300 do.....b3.	62⅜
1300 do.....	72⅜	200 do.....s3.	62½
400 do.....b3.	72⅝	100 do.....	62⅜
300 do.....s3.	72⅝	600 do.....b3.	62½
300 do.....	72⅜	400 do.....	62⅝
100 do.....	72¾	100 Cen. of N. J.....	36½
600 do.....	72¾	100 do.....	36⅝
2600 do.....s3.	72¾	100 do.....	36¾
100 do.....	c. 72¾	100 do.....	36⅝
1700 Erie Railway..	11⅞	100 Kansas & Texas..	8
1000 do.....	11⅞	50 Chic. & Alton.....	100
1000 do.....s3.	11⅞	50 Han. & St. Jo.....	15⅞
800 do.....	c. 11⅝	100 Han. & St. Jo. Pf.	29¼
200 Rock Island.....	101⅞	50 St. Paul.....	28⅞
100 Michigan Cen..	b3. 48	200 do.....	29¼
100 do.....	48¼	200 do.....	29¼
300 do.....	48¼	200 St. Paul Pref....	60
200 do.....	b3. 48¾	100 do.....	60¼
200 do.....	48¾	300 Del., Lack. & W..	78¼
100 do.....	s2. 265	10 Ohio & Miss.....	11⅜
1000 do.....b3.	25⅝	100 do.....	11⅜
100 do.....	25⅞	50 North-western....	40⅛
500 do.....	25⅞	100 do.....	40⅜
50 do.....	25⅝	100 do.....	40¼
100 Erie Railway.....s3.	11⅝	100 North-west. Pf. b3.	63
300 do.....	11⅝	100 Central of N. J....	36¾
100 Mich. Central.....	49	200 do.....s3.	36⅝
200 do.....	49¼	500 do.....	36½
200 do.....s3.	49¼	200 Tol. & Wab.....	6¼
300 do.....	49¼	500 Del., Lack. & W..	78⅝
100 do.....	49⅛	100 do.....c.	78⅝
200 do.....	49½	200 do.....	78⅜
200 do.....	49⅝	200 do.....	78¾
200 do.....	49⅝	100 H. & St. Jo. Pf.	29
100 St. Paul.....	28⅝	300 do.....	29
100 Illinois Central..	83¼	100 H. & St. Jo. Pf.	28⅞

SECOND BOARD—1 P. M.

$3,000 M. & St. P. 1st, La C. Inv.....	102⅞	400 L. S. & M. S. b.c. b3.	61⅝
11,000 O. & M. 2d.....	58	7 0 do.....	61⅞
100 Del. & H. Can. b.c.	76	600 do.....	61⅞
100 do.....s56.	74	100 do.....	62
100 Mariposa.....b.c.	6	600 do.....	61⅞
200 W. U. Tel. b.c. s3.	71¾	1030 do.....	62
5,000 do.....	72⅜	1000 do.....s3.	62
800 do.....	72⅜	3200 do.....	62⅜
200 do.....b3.	72⅜	3100 do.....	62¼
2000 do.....	72½	100 C. & N. W. b.c. c.	40¾
1500 do.....	72½	100 do.....	40¾
400 P. M. S. S. Co. b.c.	25⅜	200 do.....	40⅝
800 do.....	25⅜	200 do.....	40⅝
1000 do.....b3.	25⅜	500 C. & N. W. Pf. b.c. b3	63
1000 do.....b3.	25¼	200 do.....	63
350 N. Y. C. & H. b.c.	105	200 do.....	63¼
1000 Erie Railway b.c.	11¾	200 do.....	63¼
2000 do.....	11⅞	600 do.....	63¼
100 Illinois Cent. b.c.	83½	300 Tol., W. & W. b.c. s3	6¼
200 C. R. of N. J. b.c.	36⅝	500 do.....	6¾
1000 Chic. & R. I. b.c.	102⅝	200 C., M. & St. P. Pf. b.c.	59¾
100 Mich. Cen. b.c. s3.	49¼	500 do.....	59⅞
100 do.....s7.	49¾	300 do.....s3.	59⅞
100 do.....	49¾	100 do.....	60
300 do.....	49¾	100 do.....	59⅞
300 do.....b3.	49½	100 do.....	60
100 do.....	49½	200 Del., L. & W. b.c.	78
100 do.....	49⅝	100 do.....	77¾
700 do.....	49⅞	200 do.....	77¾
200 do.....	49⅞	200 do.....	78⅛
100 do.....	50	300 do.....	78¼
1300 do.....	50⅛	800 do.....	78¼
100 do.....	50¼	100 do.....s10.	78⅝
100 C., C. & I. b.c.	103	200 Ohio & M. b.c. b3.	11½
200 C., M. & St. P. b.c.	28⅞	100 Han. & St. J. Pf. b.c.	29
300 do.....	29	100 Morris & Ess. b.c.	94⅜
100 do.....s3.	29	200 do.....	94½
100 do.....	29⅛	100 St. L., I. M. & S. b.c.	13¾
200 do.....	29¼	100 do.....	13¾
600 do.....	29½	10 N. Y., N. H. & H. b.c.	151½

TUESDAY, Oct. 24—P. M.

The Stock speculation to-day was active and excited and characterized by a tone of great strength. The leading feature of the market was the buoyancy of the Western railroad shares. The causes underlying the recent marked improvement in this class of stocks have been heretofore alluded to in this column, chief among them being the revival in general business and the active movement of grain from the West to the seaboard, which naturally brought with them an immense increase in the carrying trade. Another element in the confidence which has distinguished the purchasing movement in these shares is the impression generally prevailing among operators, growing out of the recent conference of freight agents at Detroit, that the railroad strife, if not formally, is at least virtually terminated, and that an advance in rates may be looked for at any moment. That the companies have concluded to abandon the ruinous policy of cutting under each other in rates is conceded on all hands, and indeed it was about time they should do so, when, as is the case with Lake Shore and other roads, shippers are offering a premium for preference. The certainty that a general European war, though its outbreak may be delayed temporarily by the efforts of diplomacy, will occur in the near future, also tends to impart strength to the grain carrying roads, as with the Russian ports closed an immense demand for our breadstuffs and other products would arise. The improvement in prices ranged from ¼ to 2⅜ ₱ cent., Michigan Central, Lake Shore, Delaware and Hudson Canal, and Western Union leading the advance.

The entire business for the day aggregated 169,645 shares, of which 62,870 were in Lake Shore, 28,825 in Western Union, 17,500 in Michigan Central, 10,200 in Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 10,150 in Pacific Mail, 8,890 in St. Paul, 8,500 in Erie, and 7,700 in New-Jersey Central. Lake Shore advanced from 60⅜ to 62⅜, and Michigan Central from 48 to 50⅜, closing at 62½ and 50⅜ respectively. New York Central advanced from 104½ to 105¼, and Rock Island from 102 to 102¼, on small purchases. The Granger shares were irregular in the early dealings, but afterward became strong, and North-western common rose from 40¼ to 40½, preferred from 62¾ to 63⅜, St. Paul common from 28½ to 29½ and the preferred from 59½ to 60¼. Erie sold up to 11⅞ for the common, the preferred being bid for at 24. Ohio and Mississippi ranged between 11⅜ and 11⅝, Pacific Mail between 25 and 25⅜, and Wabash between 6 and 6⅜. Hannibal and St. Joseph common advanced to 16½ and the preferred to 31, but the former subsequently yielded to 16 and the latter to 29. Union Pacific sold at 63, and Illinois Central at 83½@83¾. C. C. C. and I. advanced to 43. Western Union opened at 71¾@71⅞, and advanced steadily to 73. Among the coal shares New-Jersey Central opened at a decline of 1⅛@1¾ ₱ cent., touching 35¼, on the strike among the employes of the company; but later recovered to 36¾. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western advanced from 77¾ to 78¾, and Delaware and Hudson Canal from 74½ to 76¾. Sales of Morris and Essex were made at 94½@94¾. Express shares were dull and steady.

The money market was easy early in the day at 2@3 ₱ cent. on call; but an active demand sprang up late in the afternoon, and rates advanced to 5@6 ₱ cent. When this demand was satisfied, a reaction to 2 ₱ cent. took place. Prime mercantile paper was quoted at 4½ to 6 ₱ cent.

The national bank notes received for redemption at Washington to-day amounted to $600,000. The following were the rates of domestic exchange on New-York to-day: Savannah, ¼ off; Charleston, plentiful, buying freely, 5-16, selling, ⅛ par; Cincinnati, moderate demand, 100 discount; St. Louis, 50 to 100 discount; New-Orleans, commercial ¼, bank 3-16; and Chicago, quiet, 80 to 100 discount.

The foreign advices report a firm market at London for consols and United States bonds, which closed generally at about last evening's quotations, namely: Consols, 94⅞ for both money and the account; United States 1865s, (old,) 103; 1867s, 108⅛; 10-40s, 107⅞@108, and new 5s, 105⅞—an improvement of ⅛ ₱ cent. in 10-40s and new 5s. Erie was steady at 10¾. The Bank of England lost £31,000 bullion on balance to-day. Rentes at Paris closed a shade lower than on yesterday, at 104f. 65c. At Frankfort United States new 5s were steady at 101¾.

The sterling exchange market was steady on a small business, and rates were without essential change. The nominal asking quotations were $4 83½ and $4 85½, with sales at $4 82½@$4 82¾ and $4 84½@$4 84¾ for bankers' 60-day and demand bills respectively.

Speculation in the Gold-room was tame, owing to the absence of any fresh disturbing rumors regarding the Eastern question. The market was somewhat weaker in tone on the announcement that the Treasury will to-morrow begin the prepayment, without rebate, of the interest due Nov. 1 on the public debt, amounting to about $11,000,000. The opening quotation was 109¾, at which and 109⅞ all the transactions were made, the market closing at 109⅞. On gold loans the rates ranged from flat to 2 ₱ cent. per annum for borrowing. The steamship Mosel, which arrived from Europe to-day, brought £39,000 in gold coin from London.

Government bonds were firm and in fair demand. The changes were only ⅛ per cent. either way, and generally in an upward direction. The new 4½ per cents, registered, sold up to 110⅝. Six ₱ cent. bonds to the amount of $250,000 were withdrawn from the Treasury at Washington to-day and 4½ per cents substituted. Railroad bonds were strong, and in some cases ¼@¾ per cent. higher than on yesday. Hannibal and St. Joseph convertibles rose to 81¾, Chicago and Northwestern consolidated gold coupons to 95¾, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Lacrosse Division, to 102⅞, Central Pacifics to 109½, and Ohio and Mississippi seconds to 58. Union Pacific firsts sold at 105¾, Fort Wayne firsts at 120, and New Jersey Central firsts, new, at 110½. Sales of Canada Southern firsts, coupon, and of Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota firsts were made at 56½ for the former and 39½ for the latter. State bonds were quiet and steady.

The exports of domestic produce from the port of New-York to foreign ports for the week ending this date were $3,678,068, against $3,983,536 for the corresponding week in 1875, and $4,743,516 in 1874. The total exports of produce from the port since Jan. 1, this year, were $217,672,278, against $205,602,077 for the corresponding period in 1875 and $240,355,478 in 1874.

UNITED STATES TREASURY, NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1876.

Gold receipts.....	$539,417 83
Gold payments.....	79,467 16
Gold balances.....	50,347,815 69
Currency receipts.....	1,205,846 25
Currency payments.....	762,944 83
Currency balances.....	41,418,001 25
Customs.....	235,000 00

CLOSING QUOTATIONS—OCT. 24.

	Monday.	Tuesday.
American gold.....	110	109⅞
United States 4½s, 1891, coup.....	110¾	110¾
United States 5s, 1881, coup.....	114½	114½
United States 5-20s, 1867, coup.....	115½	115⅜
Bills on London.....@4 82½@4 83¼	$4 82½@$4 82¾
New-York Central.....	104¾	105¼
Pacific Mail.....	25	25⅜
Milwaukee and St. Paul

SHIPPING.

CUNARD LINE B. & N. A. R. M. S. P. CO.
NOTICE.

With the view of diminishing the chances of collision the steamers of this line take a specified course for all seasons of the year.

On the outward passage from Queenstown to New-York or Boston, crossing meridian of 50 at 43 latitude, or nothing to the north of 43.

On the homeward passage, crossing the meridian of 50 at 42, or nothing to the north of 42.

FROM NEW-YORK FOR LIVERPOOL AND QUEENSTOWN.
RUSSIA....WED., Oct. 25|ALGERIA....WED., Nov. 8
SCYTHIA....WED., Nov. 1|BOTHNIA....WED., Nov. 15

Steamers marked * do not carry steerage passengers.

Cabin passage, $80, $100, and $130, gold, according to accommodation. Return tickets on favorable terms. Steerage tickets to and from all parts of Europe at very low rates. Freight and passage office, No. 4 Bowling Green.

CHAS. G. FRANCKLYN, Agent.

PASSENGERS PER STEAM-SHIP RUSSIA
embark from the Cunard Wharf, foot of Grand st., Jersey City, at 10:30 A. M., on WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, 1876.

CHAS. G. FRANCKLYN,
No. 4 Bowling Green, New-York.

WHITE STAR LINE.
FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL, CARRYING UNITED STATES MAIL.

The steamers of this fine take the Lane Routes recommended by Lieut. Maury, U. S. N., going south of the Banks on the passage to Queenstown all the year round.

ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1:30 P. M.
BRITANNIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 11, 1:30 P. M.
GERMANIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 25, at noon
ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Dec. 2, at 5:30 A. M.

From White Star Dock Pier No. 52 North River.

These steamers are uniform in size and unsurpassed in appointments. The saloon, staterooms, smoking and bath rooms are amidships, where the noise and motion are least felt, affording a degree of comfort hitherto unattainable at sea.

Rates—Saloon $80 and $100, gold; return tickets on favorable terms; steerage, $33.

For inspection of plans and other information apply at the Company's offices, No. 37 Broadway, New-York.

R. J. CORTIS, Agent.

ONLY DIRECT LINE TO FRANCE.
THE GENERAL TRANSATLANTIC COMPANY'S MAIL STEAMERS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND HAVRE, Calling at PLYMOUTH (G. B.) for the landing of passengers.

Cabins provided with electric bells. Sailing from Pier No. 48 North River, foot of Barrow st., as follows:
FRANCE, Trudelle.....Saturday, Oct. 28, at 7:30 A. M.
ST. GERMAIN, Mesnonnet.....Saturday, Nov. 4, at 2 P. M.
PEREIRE, Dantz.....Saturday, Nov. 11, at 7 A. M.

PRICE OF PASSAGE IN GOLD, (including wine,) first cabin, $110 to $120, according to accommodation; Second cabin, $75; third cabin, $40. Return tickets at reduced rates. Steerage, $23, with superior accomodation, including wine, bedding, and utensils without extra charge. Steamers marked thus* do not carry steerage passengers.

The passengers of ST. LAURENT are requested to be on board on TUESDAY, Oct. 24, at 5 P. M.

LOUIS DE BEBIAN Agent, 55 Broadway.

LIVERPOOL AND GREAT WESTERN STEAM COMPANY. (LIMITED.)
LIVERPOOL, (Via Queenstown.)
CARRYING THE UNITED STATES MAIL.
TUESDAY.
Leaving Pier No. 46 North River as follows:

NEVADA.....Oct. 31, at 3 P. M.
WISCONSIN.....Nov. 7, at 9:30 A. M.
WYOMING.....Nov. 14, at 3 P. M.
DAKOTA.....Nov. 21, at 9 A. M.
IDAHO.....Nov. 28, at 2:30 P. M.

RATES FOR PASSAGERS REDUCED.

Steerage, $26: intermediate, $40; cabin, $55 to $80, according to state-room. Offices, No. 29 Broadway.

WILLIAMS & GUION.

ATLAS MAIL LINE.
BIMONTHLY SERVICE TO JAMAICA, HAYTI, COLOMBIA, and ASPINWALL, and to PANAMA and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall). First-class full-powered iron screw steamers, from Pier No. 51 North River.

For KINGSTON (Jam.) and HAYTI.
ATLAS.....Nov. 1
CLARIBEL.....About Nov. 20

For HAYTI, COLOMBIA, ISTHMUS OF PANAMA, and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall.)
ANDES.....Nov. 4
ALPS.....Nov. 20

Superior first-class passenger accommodation.
PIM, FORWOOD & CO., Agents,
No. 56 Wallst.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE.
SAILING FROM PIER NO. 29 NORTH RIVER, TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS, and SATURDAYS at 3 P. M., FOR CHARLESTON, S. C., FLORIDA, THE SOUTH, AND SOUTH-WEST.

CLEOPATRA.....TUESDAY.....Oct. 24
HAMPTON.....THURSDAY.....Oct. 26
CARLETON.....SATURDAY.....Oct. 28

SUPERIOR PASSENGER ACCOMMODATIONS.

Insurance to destination one-half of one per cent.

Goods forwarded free of commission. Passenger tickets and bills of lading issued and signed at the office of

JAMES W. QUINTARD & CO., Agents,
No. 177 West st., corner Warren.
Or W. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 6 Bowling Green.
Or BENTLEY D. HASELL, General Agent
Great Southern Freight Line, 317 Broadway.

ANCHOR LINE U. S. MAIL STEAMERS.
NEW-YORK AND GLASGOW.

California, Oct. 28, 1 P. M. | Victoria, Nov. 11, 1 P. M.
Ethiopia....Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Bolivia....Nov. 18, 7 A. M.

TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, OR DERRY.

Cabins $65 to $80, according to accommodations; Intermediate, $35. Steerage, $28.

NEW-YORK AND LONDON.

Australia, Oct. 28, noon. | Angola, Nov. 18, 7 A. M.
Elysia, Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Utopia, Nov. 25, 11 A. M.

Cabins $85 to $70. Steerage, $28. Cabin excursion tickets at reduced rates. Drafts issued for any amount at current rates. Company's Pier Nos. 20 and 21, North River, N. Y.

HENDERSON BROTHERS,
Agents, No. 7 Bowling Green.

NORTH GERMAN LLOYD.
STEAM-SHIP LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, SOUTHAMPTON, AND BREMEN.

Company's Pier, foot of 20th., Hoboken.

MOSEL.....Sat., Oct. 28 | RHEIN.....Sat., Nov. 11
WESER.....Sat., Nov. 4 | ODER.....Sat., Nov. 18

RATES OF PASSAGE FROM NEW-YORK TO SOUTHAMPTON, HAVRE, OR BREMEN.

First cabin.....$100 gold
Second cabin.....60 gold
Steerage.....30 currency
Return tickets at reduced rates. Prepaid steerage certificates, $32 currency. For freight or passage apply to OELRICHS & CO., No. 2 Bowling Green.

NATIONAL LINE, Piers Nos. 44 and 47 N. River.
FOR LONDON.

Canada.....Saturday, Oct. 28 at 2 P. M.

FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.

Italy.....Oct. 28, 2 P. M. | England....Nov. 11, 1 P. M.
Spain.....Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Egypt.....Nov. 18, 7 A. M.

Cabin passage, $55, $60, or $70, currency. Return tickets, $100, $110 or $120, currency. Steerage passage, $26, currency. Drafts issued from £1 upward at current rates.

Company's office, No. 69 Broadway.

F. W. J. HURST, Manager.

RED STAR STEAM-SHIP LINE.
Appointed to carry the Belgian and United States mails. The following steamers are appointed to sail

TO ANTWERP.

From Philadelphia. From New-York.
VADERLAND.....Nov. 11|SWITZERLAND.....Nov. 23
FEDERLAND.....Dec. 5|KENILWORTH.....Dec. 16

Rates of passage in currency:

First Cabin, $80; Second Cabin, $60; Steerage, $26.

PETER WRIGHT & SONS, General Agents, Philad'a.
No. 42 Broad st., New-York.
JOHN McDONALD, No. 8 Battery place, New-York.

INDIAN LINE.—MAIL STEAMERS.
FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.

CITY OF CHESTER, Saturday Oct. 28, at 1 P. M.
CITY OF RICHMOND, Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7 A. M.
CITY OF BERLIN, Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 A. M.

From Pier 45 North River.

CABIN, $80 and $100, Gold. Return tickets on favorable terms. STEERAGE, $23, Currency. Drafts issued at lowest rates.

Saloons, State-rooms, Smoking, and Bath-rooms amidships. JOHN G. DALE, Agent.
Nos. 15 and 33 Broadway, N. Y.

FOR SAVANNAH, GA., THE FLORIDA PORTS, AND THE SOUTH AND SOUTH-WEST.
GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE, CENTRAL RAILROAD OF GEORGIA, AND ATLANTIC AND GULF RAILROAD.

WEDNESDAYS AND SATURDAYS.

S. LIVINGSTON, Capt. MALLORY, WEDNESDAY, Oct. 25, at 5 P. M., from Pier No. 16 East River, at 3 P. M.

MURRAY, FERRIS & CO., Agents,
No. 56 Wallst.

SAN SALVADOR, Capt. NICKERSON, SATURDAY, Oct. 28, from Pier No. 43 North River, at 3 P. M.

GEO. YONGE, Agent,
No. 409 Broadway.

Insurance on this line ONE-HALF PER CENT. Superior accommodations for passengers.

Through rates and bills of lading in connection with Central Railroad of Georgia, to all points.

Through rates and bills of lading in connection with the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad and Florida steamers.

GEORGE YONGE,
Agent Central Railroad of Georgia,
No. 409 Broadway.

PANAMA TRANSIT AND PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP LINES.

FOR CALIFORNIA, JAPAN, CHINA, AUSTRALIA, NEW-ZEALAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA, OREGON, &c.

Sailing from Pier No. 42 North River.

For SAN FRANCISCO, via ISTHMUS OF PANAMA
Steam-ship ACAPULCO.....Tuesday, Oct. 31

Connecting for Central America and South Pacific ports.

From SAN FRANCISCO to JAPAN and CHINA.
Steam-ship CITY OF TOKIO.....Wednesday, Nov. 1

From San Francisco to Sandwich Islands, Australia, and New-Zealand.
Steam-ship CITY OF SYDNEY.....Nov. 8

For freight or passage apply to
WM. P. CLYDE & CO., Gen'l. Agents, 6 Bowling Green.
J. BULLAY, Superintendent
No. 6 Bowling Green. Pier 42, N. R., foot Canal st.

NEW-YORK, HAVANA, AND MEXICAN MAIL S. S. LINE.
Steamers leave Pier No. 3 North River at 3 P. M.

FOR HAVANA DIRECT.
CITY OF NEW-YORK.....Thursday, Oct. 26
CITY OF HAVANA.....Saturday, Oct. 28
CITY OF VERA CRUZ.....Wednesday, Nov. 8

FOR VERA CRUZ AND NEW-ORLEANS,
Via Havana, Progreso, Campeachy, Tuxpan, and Tampico.
CITY OF MEXICO.....Saturday, Nov. 4

For freight or passage apply to
F. ALEXANDER & SONS, Nos. 31 and 33 Broadway.
Steamers will leave New-Orleans Oct. 22 and Nov. 12 for Vera Cruz and all the above ports.

NEW-YORK AND HAVANA DIRECT MAIL LINE.
These first-class steamships sail regularly at 3 P. M., from Pier No. 12 North River, as follows:

COLUMBUS.....WEDNESDAY, Nov. 1
CLYDE.....SATURDAY, Nov. 11

Accommodations unsurpassed. For freight or passage apply to WM. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 6 Bowling Green. SAKELLER, LULING & CO., Agents in Havana.

SHIPPING.

STATE LINE.
NEW-YORK TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, DUBLIN, BELFAST, AND LONDONDERRY.

These first-class full-powered steamers will sail from Pier No. 42 North River, foot of Canal st.

STATE OF NEVADA.....Thursday, Oct. 26
STATE OF INDIANA.....Thursday, Nov. 2
STATE OF GEORGIA.....Thursday, Nov. 9
STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA.....Thursday, Nov. 16

And every alternate Thursday thereafter. First cabin, $60, $65, and $70, according to accommodations; return tickets, $110, $125. Second cabin, $45; return tickets, $80. Steerage at lowest rates. Apply to

AUSTIN BALDWIN & CO., Agents,
No. 72 Broadway, New-York.

STEERAGE tickets at No. 45 Broadway, and at the company's pier, foot of Canal st., North River.

WILSON LINE FOR SOUTHAMPTON AND HULL.
Sailing from Pier No. 53 North River, as follows:

NAVARINO.....Oct. 28|WITHELLO.....Nov. 18
COLOMBO.....Nov. 4|HINDOO.....Dec. 2

First cabin, $70, currency; second cabin, $45, currency; excursion tickets on very favorable terms. Through tickets issued to Continental and Baltic ports. Apply for full particulars to CHARLES L. WRIGHT & CO., No. 56 South st.

HAMBURG American Packet Company's Line, for PLYMOUTH, CHERBOURG and HAMBURG.

CIMBRIA.....Oct. 26|POMMERANIA.....Nov. 9
GELLERT.....Nov. 2|SUEVIA.....Nov. 16

Rates of passage to Plymouth, London, Cherbourg, Hamburg, and all points in England. First Cabin, $100 gold; Second Cabin, $60 gold; Steerage, $30, currency

KUNHARDT & CO., C. B. RICHARD & BOAS,
General Agents, General Passenger Agents,
61 Broadway, N. Y. 61 Broadway, N. Y.

RAILROADS.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW-JERSEY
—ALLENTOWN LINE.—Ferry stations in New-York, foot of Liberty st. and foot of Clarkson st., up town. Freight station, foot of Liberty st.

Commencing Oct. 2, 1876—Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., as follows:

5:40 A. M.—MAIL TRAIN for Easton, Belvidere, Bethlehem, Bath, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamanend, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Carbondale, &c.; connects at Bound Brook for Trenton and Philadelphia at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

7:15 A. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

8:45 A. M.—MORNING EXPRESS, daily, (except Sundays,) for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Harrisburg, and the West. Connects at Easton for Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Towanda, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Danville, Williamsport, &c.

*1:00 P. M.—Express for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Hazleton, Reading, Columbia, Lancaster, Ephrata, Pottsville, Harrisburg, &c.

4:00 P. M.—For High Bridge Branch, Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, and Mauch Chunk; connects at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

*4:30 P. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

5:15 P. M.—For Bound Brook.

5:30 P. M.—EVENING EXPRESS, daily, for Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Towanda, Reading, Harrisburg, and the West.

*8:30 P. M.—For Easton.

Boats leave foot of Clarkson st., up-town, at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05, 10:05, 11:35 A. M.; 12:50, 1:50, 3:20, 4:20, 5:20, 6:20, 7:20, 8:20, 10:05, 11:50 P. M.

Connection is made by Clarkson Street Ferry at Jersey City with all trains marked *.

For trains to local points see time-table at stations.

NEW-YORK AND LONG BRANCH DIVISION.
ALL-RAIL LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ASBURY PARK, AND SOUTH.

Time-table of Oct. 2, 1876: Trains leave New-York from foot of Liberty st., North River, at 8:15, 11:45 A. M., 4:45 P. M.

From foot of Clarkson st. at 11:35 A. M., 4:20 P. M.

Stages to and from Keyport connect at Matawan Station with all trains.

NEW-YORK AND PHILADELPHIA NEW LINE.
BOUND BROOK ROUTE.

For Trenton, Philadelphia and the Centennial.

Commencing MONDAY, Oct. 9, 1876, trains Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., at 5:40, 6:45, 7:45, 9:15 A. M., 1:30, 5, 6:30 P. M.

Leave foot of Clarkson st. at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05 A. M., 12:50, 4:20, 6:20 P. M.

Leave Philadelphia from station North Pennsylvania Railroad, 3d and Berks sts., at 7:30, 9:30 A. M., 1:30, 3:20, 5, 8:30 P. M. Leave Centennial Grounds at 7:15, 9:15 A. M., 1:15, 3, 4:50, 6:10 P. M.

PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CARS are attached to the 7:45 and 9:15 A. M. trains from New-York, and to trains leaving Centennial Grounds at 4:50 and 6:10 P. M.

All trains connect at Trenton Junction to and from Trenton.

Leave Trenton for New-York at 5:45, 8:15, 10:20 A. M., 2:19, 3:45, 5:45, 7:20 P. M.

Rates for passengers and freight as low as by other routes.

CENTENNIAL PASSENGERS delivered at the main entrance to the Centennial Grounds.

H. P. BALDWIN,
Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.
GREAT TRUNK LINE AND UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

Trains leave New-York, via Desbrosses and Cortlandt Street Ferries, as follows:

Express for Harrisburg, Pittsburg, the West and South, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, 9:30 A. M., 6 and 8:30 P. M. Sunday, 6 and 8:30 P. M.

For Williamsport, Lock Haven, Corry, and Erie at 2:40 and 8:30 P. M., connecting at Corry for Titusville, Petroleum Centre, and the Oil Regions.

For Baltimore, Washington, and the South. "Limited Washington Express" of Pullman Parlor Cars daily, except Sunday, 9:30 A. M.; arrive Washington, 4:15 P. M. Regular at 9:40 A. M., 2:40, and 9 P. M. Sunday 9 P. M.

Express for Philadelphia, 7:30, 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30 2:40, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8:30, 9 P. M. and 12 night. Accommodation 7 A. M. and 4:10 P. M. Sunday 8 A. M., 5, 6, 7, 8:30, and 9 P. M. Emigrant and second class 7 P. M.

For Centennial Depot at 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30, 3, and 4 P. M. On Sunday 8 A. M. Returning, leave Centennial Depot at 7:15, 8:15, 10:30 A. M., 12:30, 4:45, 5:30, 6, 6:30, and 7:05 P. M. On Sunday 7:20 A. M. and 7 P. M.

For trains to Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway, Princeton, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Flemington, Belvidere, and other points, see local schedules at all Ticket offices.

Trains arrive from Pittsburg, 2:20 and 10:30 A. M. and 10:20 P. M. daily; 10:10 A. M. and 6:50 P. M. daily, except Monday. From Washington and Baltimore, 8:30, 9:40 A. M., 4:10, 5:10, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 8:30, 9:40 A. M. From Philadelphia, 8:05, 6:20, 6:30, 9:40, 10:10, 11:20, 11:50 A. M., 2:10, 3:50, 4:10, 5:10, 6:10, 6:50, 7:35, 7:40, 8:40, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 8:05, 9:20, 6:30, 9:40, 10:10, 11:50 A. M., 6:50 and 10:20 P. M.

Ticket Offices—Nos. 526 and 944 Broadway, No. 1 Astor House, and foot of Desbrosses and Cortlandt sts., No. 4 Court st. Brooklyn, Nos. 114, 116, and 118 Hudson st., Jersey City. Emigrant Ticket Office, No. 8 Battery place.

D. M. BOYD, Jr., General Passenger Agent.
FRANK THOMSON, General Manager.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL AND HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.
—After Sept. 18, 1876, through trains will leave Grand Central Depot:

8:00 A. M., Chicago and Northern Express, with drawing-room cars through to Rochester and St. Albans, Vt.

10:30 A. M., special Chicago Express, with drawing-room cars to Rochester, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls.

11:50 A. M., North-ro and Western Express.

3:30 P. M., special Albany, Troy, and Western Express. Connects at East Albany with night express for the West.

4:00 P. M., Montreal Express, with sleeping cars from New-York to Montreal.

6:00 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Watertown and Canandaigua. Also for Montreal via Plattsburg.

8:30 P. M., Pacific Express, daily, with sleeping cars, for Rochester, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Cleveland, Louisville, and St. Louis. Also for Chicago, via both L. S. and M. C. Railroads.

11:00 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Albany and Troy. Way trains as per local Time Table.

Tickets for sale at Nos. 252 and 413 Broadway, and at West Shore Express Company's offices, Nos. 7 Park place, 785 and 942 Broadway, New-York, and 333 Washington st., Brooklyn.

C. B. MEEKER, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.
ARRANGEMENT OF PASSENGER TRAINS, April 16 1876.

Leave depots foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses sts., at 7 A. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Beaver Meadows, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Mount Carmel, Shamokin, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, &c., connecting with trains for Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West.

12 M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, &c., making close connection for Reading, Pottsville, and Harrisburg.

4 P. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, and Mauch Chunk, stopping at all stations.

6:30 P. M.—Night Express, daily, for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West. Pullman's sleeping coaches attached.

General Eastern office corner Church and Cortlandt sts. CHARLES H. CUMMINGS, Agent.

ROBERT H. SAYRE, Superintendent and Engineer.

ERIE RAILWAY.
Summer Arrangement of through trains, 1876. From Chambers Street Depot. (For 23d st. see note below.)

9:00 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Cincinnati and Chicago Day Express. Drawing-room coaches to Buffalo and sleeping coaches to Cincinnati and Detroit. Sleeping coaches to Chicago.

10:45 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Express Mail for Buffalo and the West. Sleeping coach to Buffalo.

7:00 P. M., daily, Pacific Express to the West. Sleeping coaches through to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cincinnati, and Chicago, without change. Hotel dining coaches to Cleveland and Chicago.

7:00 P. M., except Sundays. Western Emigrant train.

Above trains leave Twenty-third Street Ferry at 8:45 and 10:15 A. M., and 6:45 P. M.

For local trains see time-tables and cards in hotels and depots.

JNO. N. ABBOTT, General Passenger Agent.

NEW-YORK, NEW-HAVEN, AND HARTFORD RAILROAD,
After June 11, 1876, trains leave Grand Central Depot (42d st.) for New-Canaan Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 4:40, and 5:45 P. M.; Danbury and Norwalk Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 3:15, and 4:40 P. M.; Naugatuck Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; Housatonic Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; New-Haven and Northampton Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; for New-York at 8:05 A. M. and 1 P. M. Boston and Albany Railroad at 8:05 and 11 A. M., 3 and 9 P. M., (9 P. M. on Sunday;) Boston (via Shore Line) at 1 and 10 P. M., (10 P. M. on Sundays.)

West trains as per local time tables.

J. T. MOODY, Superintendent New-York Division.
E. H. REED, Vice President, New-York.

WICKFORD RAILROAD ROUTE TO NEWPORT, R. I.
—Passengers for this line take 8:05 A. M. train from Grand Central Depot, arriving at 4:18 and 8 P. M., at Newport.

THEODORE WARREN, Superintendent.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PERFECTION!

BOKER'S BITTERS.
No. 78 John st., New-York. Post Office Box No. 1,029.

L. FUNKE, Jr., SOLE AGENT.

BAKERS' AND CONFECTIONERS' TOOLS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
Bread Troughs, Peels, New Year's Cake Prints and Rollers, Springerle's Fort, Moulds, &c. Every tool necessary for bakers and confectioners. WILLIAM HART, Manufacturer, 34 Catharine st., New-York City.

CANCER.—NEW TREATISE; HOW CURED WITHout knife or poisonous minerals. Dr. STODDARD, No. 8 West 14th st., New-York.

STEAMBOATS.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
TO CENTENNIAL TRAVELERS.

PEOPLE'S EVENING LINE.
ONLY $1 FIRST-CLASS PASSAGE ON STEAMERS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND ALBANY.
HUDSON RIVER R. R. TICKETS TAKEN FOR PASSAGE AND STATE-ROOM BERTH.
Centennial Excursion Tickets Taken for Passage and Cabin Berth.

Boats leave daily (Sundays excepted) at 6 P. M. from Pier No. 41, foot of Canal st., near Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, connecting at Albany with morning trains for Chicago, Saratoga, and all points North and West.

STATE-ROOMS WARMED BY STEAM,
MEALS ON THE EUROPEAN PLAN.

STONINGTON LINE
FOR BOSTON AND ALL POINTS EAST.

Elegant steamers RHODE ISLAND and NARRAGANSETT leave Pier No. 33 North River, foot of Jay st., at 5 P. M., NOT A TRIP MISSED IN SEVEN YEARS.

Tickets for sale at all municipal ticket offices. State rooms secured at offices of Westcott Express Company, and at No. 363 Broadway.

PROVIDENCE LINE.
Steam-ships Elsinore and Galatea, leave Pier No. 27 North River, foot of Park place, at 4:30 P. M. Freights via either line taken at lowest rates.

D. S. BABCOCK, Pres. L. W. FILKINS, G. P. Agent.

SEA BIRD,
Capt. H. B. PARKER, will run between New-York (foot of Franklin st., Pier No. 35) and Red Bank, as follows:

LEAVE NEW-YORK.	LEAVE RED BANK.
Wednesday 26, 9:00 A. M.	Wednesday, 25, 1:30 P. M.
Thursday, 26, 10:00 A. M.	Thursday, 26, 2:00 P. M.
Friday, 27, 10:30 A. M.	Friday, 27, 2:30 P. M.
Saturday, 28, 3:00 P. M.	Monday, 30, 6:00 A. M.
Monday, 30, 2:30 P. M.	Tuesday, 31, 6:30 A. M.
Tuesday, 31, 2:30 P. M.

ALBANY AND TROY BY DAY BOATS
A. C. VIBBARD AND DANIEL DREW.—Leave Vestry Street Pier at 8:30, and 24th st. at 8:30 A. M., landing at Newburg and Poughkeepsie only. Connections at Albany with new train at 8 P. M. for the West, over New-York Central, arriving at Buffalo at 7:10, Suspension Bridge 8:30, and Niagara Falls at 9:20 the following morning. Continuous trains on Lake Shore and Canada Southern Roads. To Newburg or Poughkeepsie and return the same day at excursion rates.

FORNEW-HAVEN, HARTFORD, SPRINGFIELD, WHITE MOUNTAINS, MONTREAL, AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS.—Steamers leave Pier No. 22 East River (Fulton ferry) at 3 P. M. (23d st. E. R., 3:15 P. M.), and 11 P. M., connecting with special trains at New-Haven, for Hartford, Springfield, &c. Tickets sold and baggage checked at No. 944 Broadway, New-York, and No. 4 Court st., Brooklyn. Excursion to New-Haven and return, $1 50.

FOR NORWALK DIRECT.
Connecting with Danbury, Norwalk and New-Haven Railroads. By steamer

AMERICUS,
daily, (Sunday excepted,) from Jewell's Dock, Brooklyn, at 5:30 P. M.; Pier No. 47 East River, at 5:45 P. M., and foot of 33d st., East River, at 3 P. M.

Fare, 35 cents: excursion tickets, 50 cents.

OLD-ESTABLISHED LINE FOR STRYVESANT, CATSKILL, AND INTERMEDIATE LANDINGS.—Steamer ANDREW HARDER, from Franklin st. Pier 33, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. Steamer MONITOR, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 5 P. M.

FOR BRIDGEPORT AND ALL POINTS ON Housatonic and Naugatuck Railroad.—Fare $1. Steamers leave Catharine slip at 11:30 A. M.

BANKRUPT NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of GEORGE PETERMAN, bankrupt.—In bankruptcy.—This is to give notice that the second and final general meetings of the creditors of the above-named bankrupt will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy, to be holden at No. 4 Warren street, in the City of New-York, in said district, on the sixth day of November, 1876, at one o'clock P. M., before James Isaiah, T. Williams, Esquire, the Register of said Court in Bankruptcy in charge of the above entitled matter, pursuant to an order of said Register, for the purposes mentioned in Sections 5,092, 5,093, 5,094, 5,095, 5,100, and 5,101 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, title "Bankruptcy," that I have filed an account of my receipts and payments as assignee of the estate of said bankrupt with the said Register, and that at said meeting I shall apply to the court for an allowance and settlement of my said account, and for a discharge from all liability as such Assignee, in accordance with the provisions of said Section 5,096.—Dated this 23d day of October, 1876. FERDINAND KURZMAN, Assignee.

IN BANKRUPTCY.—IN THE DISTRICT COURT of the United States for the Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of HENRY A. GARRETT, JAMES H. CLARKE, FREDERICK A. WHITNEY, EDWIN D. GRISWOLD, bankrupts.—Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in said court by Henry A. Garrett, residing in said district, duly declared a bankrupt under the act of Congress of March 2, 1876, for a discharge and certificate thereof from all his debts and other claims provable under said act, and that the 16th day of November, 1876, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the office of Henry Wilder Allen, Esq., Register in Bankruptcy, No. 162 Broadway, in the City of New-York, is assigned for the hearing of the same, when and where all creditors who have proved their debts, and other persons in interest may attend and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.—Dated New-York, on the 21st day of October, 1876. GEO. F. BETTS, Clerk. THORNDIKE SAUNDERS, attorney for plaintiff 170 Broadway. o25-law3wW*

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of BERNARD BERMAN and ELIAS OLE-RICK, Bankrupts.—In Bankruptcy.—Southern District of New-York, ss.—The said bankrupts having applied to the court for a discharge from their debts, and each of them having applied for a discharge from his debts, by order of the court notice is hereby given to all creditors who have proved their debts, and other persons in interest, to appear on the eighth day of November, A. D. 1876, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at Chambers of the said District Court, before Isaac Dayton, one of the Registers of the said Court in Bankruptcy, at his office, Number 322 Broadway, in the City of New-York, Room Number 6, and show cause why the prayer of the said petition of the bankrupts should not be granted, and why a discharge should not be granted to the said bankrupts and each of them.—Dated New-York, 6th October, 1876. GEO. F. BETTS, Clerk.

o11-law3wW*

IN BANKRUPTCY.—IN THE DISTRICT COURT of the United States for the Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of WILLIAM G. BARNEY, bankrupt.—Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in said court by WILLIAM G. BARNEY, in said district, duly declared a bankrupt under the act of Congress of March 2, 1867, for a discharge and certificate thereof from all his debts, and other claims provable under said act, and that the fifteenth day of November, 1876, at 12 o'clock M., at the office of James P. Dwight, Esq., Register in Bankruptcy, No. 7 Beekman st., in the City of New-York, is assigned for the adjourned hearing of the same, when and where all creditors who have proved their debts, and other persons in interest, may attend and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted.—Dated New-York, on the seventeenth day of October, 1876. GEO. F. BETTS, Clerk.

o18-law3wW*

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE THAT ON THE 23d day of October, A. D. 1876, a warrant in bankruptcy was issued against the estate of ABNER L. RAYMOND, of New-York City, in the County of New-York and State of New-York, who has been adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition; that the payment of any debts and delivery of any property belonging to such bankrupt to him or for his use, and the transfer of any property by him are forbidden by law; that a meeting of the creditors of the said bankrupt, to prove their debts, and to choose one or more Assignees of his estate, will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy, to be holden at No. 129 Fulton street, in the City of New-York, before Edgar Ketchum, Esq., Register, on the 4th day of November, A. D. 1876, at twelve o'clock M.

OLIVER FISKE, United States Marshal.
As Messenger, Southern District of New-York.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New-York.—In the matter of FRANK WRISLEY and JOHN L. WRISLEY, bankrupts.—In Bankruptcy.—Before John Mitchell, Register.—To whom it may concern: The undersigned hereby gives notice of his appointment as Assignee of the estate of Frank Wrisley and John L. Wrisley, of New-York, in the County of New-York, and State of New-York, within said district, who have been adjudged bankrupts upon their creditors' petition by the District Court of said district.—Dated at New-York City, the 26th day of September, A. D. 1876.

JOHN C. PREMER, Assignee.
No. 319 Broadway, New-York City.

o11-law3wW*

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the District of New-Jersey.—In the matter of WILLIAM H. SUTTON, of Jersey City, N. J., bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.—The undersigned hereby give notice of their appointment as assignees of the estate and effects of the above-named bankrupt, who has been adjudged bankrupt on petition of his creditors.—Dated at Jersey City, October 21st, 1876.

HORACE R. GREEN, 116 Church st., N. Y.,
GEORGE D. PITKIN, 35 Murray st., N. Y.,
o25-law3wW* Assignees.

IN BANKRUPTCY.—DISTRICT OF NEW-JERsey, ss.—At Newark, on the 9th day of October, A. D. 1876.—The undersigned hereby gives notice of his appointment as Assignee of JEREMIAH D. POINIER, of Newark, in the County of Essex and State of New-Jersey, within said district, who has been adjudged bankrupt upon his own petition by the District Court of said district. E. N. MILLER, Assignee, &c., o11-law3wW* No. 782 Broad st., Newark, N. J.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

PURSUANT TO AN ORDER OF OWEN T. Coffin, Surrogate of the County of Westchester, notice is hereby given, according to law, to all persons having claims against the estate of ISAAC M. SINGER, late of the town of Yonkers, in said County, deceased, to present the same, with the vouchers thereof, to the undersigned, executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, at his office No. 206 Broadway, New-York City, Room No. 25, on or before the 27th day of July, A. D. 1877.—Dated this 17th day of July, A. D. 1876. DAVID HAWLEY, Executor.

jy19-law6mW*

MARBLE MANTELS.
GRATES AND FENDERS.

The largest assortment of Grates and Fenders ever offered in this market, finished in every style. Low and Half Low Down Grates, with dumping attachment, a specialty. A large variety of Gas Logs, fancy nickel-plated Andirons, Fire Irons, Coal Vases, Folding Screens, &c. Liberal discount to the trade. Old grates altered to low or half low down. CONOVER, WOOLLEY & CO., No. 368 Canal st., New-York.

MARBLE and MARBLEIZED MANTELS at greatly reduced prices; also, monuments, head-stones, plumbers' and furniture slabs, marble counters, and tiling. A. KLABER, 184 & 186 East 18th st., near 3d av.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES is located at
No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts.
Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

A PRIVATE FAMIL

FALSE REGISTRATION.

THE WORK OF VERIFICATION.

THE STEPS TAKEN BY THE CHIEF SUPERVISOR OF ELECTION TO DETECT AND PUNISH ELECTION FRAUDS—INSTRUCTIONS TO HIS ASSISTANTS—THE FRAUDULENT NATURALIZATION PAPERS OF 1868.

The work of verifying the registration of voters for the coming elections was begun and nearly all completed yesterday. The remainder of it will be finished to-day. The returns or results of the verifications in most of the Assembly districts of this City were placed in the hands of John L. Davenport, the Chief Supervisor of Election, last evening. Mr. Davenport made careful investigations of some of the reports last night, and will go on with this work to-day. These verifications will form the basis or ground on which warrants will be issued for the arrest of persons attempting to vote illegally. Chief Supervisor Davenport addressed the following communication or letter of instruction to each of his aids on Monday:

First—The verification or the present registration in your Assembly district will be made on Tuesday, Oct. 24, and you are required to take charge of the same.

Second—Inclosed you will find extracts from the national laws bearing upon this subject, copies of which you will furnish the Supervisors and Marshals employed in the work of verification. You will instruct them that where they experience any difficulty in obtaining correct information they will furnish the parties with a copy of these extracts, and call their attention to the provisions of the law.

Third—I also inclose you explicit instructions for the verifiers, a copy of which you will furnish each Supervisor and Marshal engaged in the work.

Fourth—The verifiers will be required to work until the verification is completed. They are not to be released from work upon the completion of a single election district, but if work remains to be done, are to be removed between the hours of 9 A. M. and 6 P. M. of Tuesday, Oct. 24, and in such districts as they may be assigned by you.

Fifth—It is the desire of the Chief Supervisor to complete the work of verification in a single day, but in some Assembly districts this may not be accomplished, and in such case the work will be continued on Wednesday. Great care should be taken to have it carefully done.

Sixth—All Supervisors and Marshals engaged in this work will be paid therefor the sum of five dollars per day.

Seventh—Aids are requested to read with care the instructions to the verifiers, and to impress upon them a strict compliance therewith.

Eighth—You will find herewith four printed copies of each days' registry. One of them has certain names erased therefrom. As to those persons no inquiries need be made. By dividing these books you will be able to give each verifier such portion thereof as you may desire. You will, however, see to it that the portion given each man is made to compare, when given him, with the copy from which the erasing has been done by me.

Ninth—You also have forwarded herewith "slips," upon which the verifiers will make their reports where parties are not found. These "slips" as they are returned will be attached to the list of registered persons furnished the verifiers, and returned to the Chief Supervisor as soon as completed, as in the case of Supervisors' books. Respectfully yours,

JOHN I. DAVENPORT.

The matter of investigating attempted election frauds, whether by means of false papers or fictitious residences, has been gone into very thoroughly, and will still be looked into between the present date and that of the elections. Between 800 and 1,000 men were engaged in the work of verification yesterday, and on election day fully 1,100 United States Deputy Marshals will be in attendance at the polls. Besides these latter, there will also be the Supervisors and Republican Inspectors of Election, who are expected to be vigilant in guarding against frauds. Already the names of about one thousand two hundred suspected men are on the lists as of persons who will attempt to cast illegal votes. In case the verification of the registry fastens guilt upon these men, warrants will be immediately issued for their apprehension, and will be retained by the Government officers until the men attempt to vote. They will then be arrested, taken before a magistrate, and committed. Others, not at present suspected, but who will appear so by the results of the verifications of the registry, will also be dealt with in like manner. During yesterday inquiry was made concerning each of the 117,000 persons thus far registered, and similar investigation will be made of those hereafter registered. The following is the text of the letter addressed to Supervisors of Elections and Deputy Marshals.

First—Section 2,026 of the United States Statutes makes it the duty of the Chief Supervisor of Elections to verify the names of such persons as have registered, and whose right to register he doubts, by "proper inquiry and examination at the respective places by them assigned as their residences." You have therefore been furnished with the names of registered persons as to whom inquiry and verification is desired by the Chief Supervisor.

Second—In making your inquiries, you are to ascertain whether persons by these names now reside in the places from which they have registered—whether they so resided there on the days of Oct. 10 and 18—whether they resided there on or before the 7th of October—and in general terms about how long they have resided there. You will also ascertain whether these registered persons are over the age of twenty-one. All facts respecting the location of the houses, the numbers of the streets and the persons for whom inquiries are made, which would be of value to the Chief Supervisor in arriving at a full and clear understanding as to the condition of each registered person, must be forwarded with your reports.

Third—By section 5,523 of the national laws, it is made a misdemeanor for any person to refuse to answer, or refrain from answering, or in answering to knowingly give false information in respect to any inquiry lawfully made. Where you experience any difficulty in these respects you will warn the persons by whom you are refused information of these provisions of law and their liability thereunder.

Fourth—By section 5,522 it is made a crime for any person, whether with or without State authority, to obstruct, hinder, assault, or otherwise interfere with you, and any one who so acts is liable to instant arrest without process. By the same section it is made the duty of every person, when called upon by you, to aid and assist you, if aid and assistance are required. The Policeforce have been instructed to render you aid and assistance, and while it is believed you will not find it necessary to call for such aid, you will not hesitate to do so promptly if you need it.

Fifth—Supervisors and Marshals engaged in verifying the registry will bear in mind that they are sworn officers of the Government, and may be required to make oath to the accuracy of their reports. The greatest care should be taken to have them correct in every particular.

Sixth—All inquiries must be made in a quiet and gentlemanly tone, and no impoliteness or discourtesy must be exhibited toward any person. Be patient and courteous but earnest, energetic, and firm.

Seventh—In the lists furnished you for verification you will find various names erased. As to such names you need make no inquiry. Wherever you find that the registration of a person as to whom you are to inquire is correct, you will erase the name by drawing a pencil line through the same. Wherever you find such registration incorrect, you will note upon the slips sent you the facts ascertained by you.

All your reports and papers will at once, upon completion, be turned over by you to my aid in your Assembly District.

JOHN I. DAVENPORT,
Chief Supervisor of Elections.

Chief Supervisor Davenport has also designed a measure for the prevention of fraud, by means of which each person, who will, may do efficient service in bringing to justice the rascals in the employ of Tammany Hall politicians who are seeking to prevent an honest vote. To this end Mr. Davenport has caused the entire registry of the City to be printed, according to Assembly districts; copies of these will be furnished to all at a merely nominal price—just sufficient in fact to pay for their production. By obtaining copies, honest voters in each Assembly district will be able to pick out persons who are not entitled to vote at the elections, either by reason of false naturalization papers, or by reason of a lack of residence. After discovering any such case, the men will only have to furnish the authorities with the name of the offender, and he will be properly dealt with. In regard to the matter of fraudulent naturalization papers obtained through Judges Barnard, Cardozo, and McCunn in 1868, Mr. Davenport stated to a TIMES reporter yesterday that about sixty thousand such papers had been issued. In 1872, by persistent work, the number of such papers outstanding had been reduced to 18,000, and this latter number has been much lessened since 1872. Very many of them have been already seized and destroyed this Fall, and Mr. Davenport expresses the belief that in a short time all of the fraudulent papers obtained in 1868 will have been destroyed. He is at present engaged in preparing and printing lists of all such papers, in order to guard against their being used at the coming elections. The officers will be furnished with copies of these for use. A large number of these bogus papers recently seized are at present in Mr. Davenport's hands, and form a fitting commentary to the professions and specious pretenses of the Tammany Hall Democracy in this City. Some of those whose papers have been seized, make all manner of petitions to Chief Supervisor Davenport to have their papers returned them. In some cases, too, the petitions are reinforced or supplemented by letters from friends. One of such cases is a rather peculiar one, and is given: It appears that a man named Thomas Ryan attempted to register a few days ago, and was not only deprived of the right of registration, but of his papers as well. Thereupon one A. H. Cardozo, a friend of Ryan's wrote a letter to Mr. Davenport, asking that the man have his papers restored to him. This Mr. Cardozo stated that he had known Ryan for twenty-four or twenty-five years in this country, and also knew that Ryan had been naturalized about twenty years ago. The papers were lost, however, and Ryan had gone about eight years ago to Charles E. Loew, the County Clerk and had obtained duplicate papers. Mr. Davenport, in response, told Cardozo that the taking away of the papers was quite correct, since twenty years ago the Supreme Court did no naturalization, and the County Clerk, being Clerk of the Supreme Court, could issue no duplicate papers, since no original papers could have been obtained in the Supreme Court. The only year in which the Supreme Court did naturalization was in 1868, when Judges Barnard and Cardozo sat on the Bench. Mr. Ryan, it is sufficient to say, did not get his papers back.

FRAUDS IN BROOKLYN.

NEARLY FIVE THOUSAND CASES OF FRAUDULENT REGISTRATION REPORTED—MEASURES TAKEN TO DETECT AND ARREST ILLEGAL VOTERS.

Notwithstanding the fact that nearly five thousand cases of alleged fraudulent registration have been reported to the Chief Supervisor of Election in Brooklyn, that official, in common with others who have large experience in detecting election frauds, holds the opinion that the actual fraudulent vote cast on election day will be comparatively small. The name and address of every person who has registered in Brooklyn so far, has been furnished to the United States Deputy Marshals and Supervisors of Election in each district, and the registry lists will be verified whenever there is the least doubt of the right of the person registering to vote or register by visits to the residences given by those suspected. For all those who are suspected warrants will be issued and placed in the hands of the United States Deputy Marshals for execution on election day. Already a large number of warrants have been issued for persons charged with fraudulent registration, but as yet only one arrest has been made. The difficulty of arresting a person who registers under a fictitious name, or who uses the name of a legal voter before election day, is very great. The registers cannot, where so many people register, give a description of those who are suspected of registering fraudulently, and it is only on election day, when the would-be voter gives the name and address which was registered, that he can be identified or not to belong to him, that an arrest can be made. Particular attention has been paid by the Supervisors of Election to registration in the old wards, for reasons already explained in THE TIMES. In these wards the registration is, as a rule, greater than in the even wards, but while the evidence of colonization so far obtained is uncontrovertible, it is also a fact that many of the odd wards show, by reason of their location, a greater increase of population than the wards designated by even numbers. In the Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-first, and in the Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, and Twenty-fifth Wards the increase ought to be greater than in the other wards which are older, and because of their position less likely to obtain accessions of population.

That a large number of persons had registered fraudulently in Brooklyn and Long Island City is true beyond question, but such precautions have been taken as will, it is believed, prevent them from voting on election day. It is quite probable that a number of arrests will be made to-day, and it is certain, if the guilty persons can be found, that in a short time a very large number will be taken into custody on charges of registering fraudulently. On the last day of registration the inmates of the Alms House and other charitable institutions controlled by the Democrats were allowed to register. These people, in the opinion of the best lawyers, had no right to vote. A complete list of those who have registered has been obtained, and all the votes will be challenged. This morning a meeting will be held of the Presidents of all the ward Republican clubs, at which measures will be adopted for scrutinizing the registry lists and making a house-to house canvass in every election district in the City. The meeting is called by Major Weeks, and will be held at Republican Head-quarters, on Court street. The local committees will go all in their power to aid the Supervisors of Election and United States Deputy Marshals in detecting fraudulent registration.

The Board of Registration met yesterday and completed the registry lists. The lists will be distributed to-day. On Saturday, Nov. 4, the board will meet to revise and correct the registers, receive testimony, and arrange the challenges at the polls.

The following table shows the registration in Brooklyn on Monday last, the total registration for this year, and the total number registered in each ward in each of the years 1875, 1874, and 1872:

Wards	Registration Oct. 23.	Total Registration This Year.	Registered in 1875.	Registered in 1874.	Registered in 1872.
1....	910	3,798	2,443	2,695	1,561
2....	494	1,877	1,674	1,954	1,749
3....	886	3,401	2,945	2,434	2,105
4....	691	2,771	2,079	2,070	2,515
5....	975	3,767	3,162	3,000	2,373
6....	1,761	5,919	4,593	4,465	4,992
7....	1,479	5,333	4,318	4,161	4,665
8....	783	2,989	2,580	2,338	2,550
9....	747	2,863	2,223	2,033	2,224
10....	1,133	4,868	3,921	3,775	3,555
11....	1,062	4,069	3,432	3,313	3,883
12....	918	2,915	3,647	3,279	3,403
13....	1,169	4,337	3,255	3,55	3,741
14....	1,516	4,712	4,.53	3,817	3,675
15....	1,138	4,212	3,240	3,100	3,439
16....	2,139	5,898	4,340	3,904	4,749
17....	1,475	4,979	3,323	3,617	3,581
18....	1,068	3,469	2,469	2,123	2,046
19....	1,512	4,420	3,018	2,844	3,072
20....	1,049	4,698	3,704	3,034	4,110
21....	1,041	4,895	3,377	2,692	6,005
22....	1,063	3,739	2,959	2,721	2,043
23....	532	2,304	1,659	1,443	.....
24....	303	1,224	1,069	776	.....
25....	850	2,8.8	2,063	1,522	.....
Total.	27,290	98,367	75,551	70,4.8	76,131

The registration for this year is 22,716 over that of 1875, and 22,236 in excess of the registration of 1872.

FOLLOWING TAMMANY'S EXAMPLE.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

There will be illegal voting at Hunter's Point, Long Island, on the 7th of November, unless great care is taken to prevent it. A contractor, or one who has from eighty to one hundred men under him, boasts that he will make them tell, and intimates they will vote in more than one place. He said so while talking to, as he supposed, a Democrat, and offered to put him "through," as he said, if he would come from Flushing and vote at Hunter's Point on the day of election. I cannot give names, as I would like to, but I believe there is a plan to vote early and often, according to Democratic policy, at Hunter's Point on Nov. 7. REPUBLICAN.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876.

EXAMINE THE REGISTERS.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

On examining the Book of Registry left at the place where I registered my name as a voter, I find my address entered as being on the block below where I reside, which I, of course, will have corrected. I send you this that you may warn voters to examine the books for like mistakes. J. M. C.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876.

THE ACADEMY OF SCIENCES.

The Council of the New-York Academy of Sciences met on Monday night at Mott Memorial Hall, Madison ave., and passed a resolution thanking the managers of the New-York Aquarium for their kindness in offering rooms with scientific facilities to the Academy, and accepting their offer for the evening of Oct. 30. The section in Biology will assemble on that evening in the rooms of the Aquarium, and will listen to an address on Fish Culture by Prof. Fred. Mather. Other interesting exercises will take place.

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.

Ann McCann, aged 101 years, died on Sunday last at No. 89 Tenth avenue, from general debility, resulting from her advanced age. The deceased was born in Ireland, and came to this country about three years ago. Her remains were removed to Philadelphia for interment.

WAITING FOR THE TRAIN.

THE CENTRAL NEW-JERSEY STRIKE.

GREAT INCONVENIENCE AND DISCOMFORT TO PASSENGERS—A FEW TRAINS RUN YESTERDAY—THE CAUSE OF THE STRIKE NOT DEFINITELY STATED—AN AGREEMENT MADE WITH THE MEN.

At 12 o'clock on Monday night, as stated in THE TIMES of yesterday, all the locomotive engineers on the Central Railroad of New-Jersey, to the number of about one hundred and fifty, struck work, and those actually engaged in running trains left their engines at the different points on the line at which they happened to be at that hour. Much trouble and inconvenience were necessarily caused to passengers along the whole route, as they were compelled to lie over at the different stations until morning, and then seek other ways of reaching their points of destination. Persons residing on the line and doing business in New-York, and holding commutation tickets, were also delayed and annoyed by the sudden cessation of the traffic, and, wherever it was practicable, took the Pennsylvania Railroad trains in order to get to New-York. All the commuters from Elizabeth, Newark, and intermediate points, some twenty-five hundred in number, were carried by the Pennsylvania Railroad on their original tickets, by an arrangement between the managers of that road and the Central of New-Jersey. Placards notifying the passengers of this arrangement were posted in the several depots and stations. Beyond Elizabeth, in the direction of Bound Brook, the difficulties encountered by passengers who were compelled to take the early trains in order to reach New-York in time for business were much greater. Vehicles of all descriptions were called into requisition to carry them to Elizabeth, where they could take the cars of the Pennsylvania Road. Some, however, who were not fortunate enough to secure places were compelled to go on foot, and one enterprising party, who succeeded in chartering a hand-car, made the passage to Elizabeth on time. The sudden and unexpected addition to the passenger list of the Pennsylvania Road did not add to the comfort of the regular passengers, as may be imagined, all the cars being densely crowded on the way from Elizabeth to this City. Passengers holding tickets for Philadelphia over the Bound Brook route, and who desired to leave on the morning trains, also fared badly. Several hundred of them went to the Jersey City station and waited a long time, hoping that some means would be devised to send them on their journey. On this side of the river a large crowd also assembled, and on becoming convinced that no trains would be sent out over the Central New-Jersey, repaired to the office of the company, in Liberty street, to inquire what the company proposed to do in the way of forwarding them to their destinations. Upon being told that arrangements for their transportation had been made with the Pennsylvania road, a number of the passengers repaired to the ferry at the foot of Cortlandt street, but on presenting their tickets were again disappointed, some mistake having arisen. At length, a train having arrived from Philadelphia, it was announced that it would return at eleven o'clock, after considerable delay an engine and nine cars were dispatched for that city, leaving the depot at 11:45 A. M. Another train was dispatched for the same place at 1:30 P. M., arriving on time. At 4:30 P. M a local train was sent to Elizabeth, and at 5 and 6:30 P. M. trains left for Philadelphia on the regular time schedule. During the afternoon there was little or no excitement either at the depot or at the company's offices, the news of the strike having become generally known.

A TIMES reporter called at the offices of the company yesterday afternoon to ascertain the cause of the strike. Mr. James A. Falkner, Secretary to the President, said that he could not tell what the cause was. The President, Mr. E. Cook, Knight, was then in Philipsburg, at the head-quarters of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and was in conference with the strikers, with a view to settling the difference, whatever it might be. In reply to a question as to whether the trouble had arisen from any reduction in the wages of the men, Mr. Falkner said emphatically that it had not. On Aug. 1, he said, the wages of the employees of the road excepting those of the firemen and engineers had been reduced ten per cent., and it had been agreed that, should any reduction be contemplated in their case they should have one month's warning. The present Superintendent of the road, Mr. R. E. Ricker, was much opposed to any reduction of their wages, but as Col. Moore, the present Consulting Engineer of the road would take his place the first of the ensuing month, the proposed change might have had some influence in bringing on the strike, although he knew no reason why it should. Col. Moore had been on the road for years, and was liked by the men. Mr. Falkner further said that he had understood that there had been some misunderstanding with the engineers in regard to the difference in the pay for running light and heavy engines, but he did not know exactly what had induced the trouble. The following letter was then handed him for the comfort of the passengers and had made arrangements with the Pennsylvania and Lehigh Valley Roads to take their tickets for all points that could be reached over their lines.

The few engineers who could be seen at Jersey City yesterday were very reticent, evidently having agreed among themselves to keep their own counsel. From what one of them said, however, it was gathered that their complaint against the company was, that they had attempted to reduce their wages ten per cent. without any previous notice. He intimated that on Wednesday last, when the engineers and firemen went to receive their pay, they found that they were paid just ten per cent. less than the sum they were entitled to. They had determined to resist the reduction, and hence the strike.

Although the officers of the road yesterday expressed much confidence in their ability to secure the services of a sufficient number of skilled engineers within a day or two, others equally well acquainted with railroad matters seemed to think differently. A gentleman who was well informed on the subject, in reply to a question as to whether 150 engineers not of the Brotherhood could be secured within forty-eight hours, said that he did not see where they were to come from. This society or brotherhood, he said, was one of the strongest organizations of the kind in this country, and had a membership of over ten thousand. It had branches in every State, and almost the whole of the guild belonged to it. The men generally, were well paid, and constantly employed, and the organization was consequently wealthy, and could afford to oppose even a strong corporation. At a late hour in the afternoon Mr. Falkner received the following telegram from Mr. E. C. Knight:

PHILLIPSBURG, Oct 26.—Have arranged with all parties; go into operation at once.

The strike is, therefore, over, and by to-day all trains will be again running on regular time.

QUIMBO APPO'S CRIME.

INQUEST IN THE CASE OF JOHN H. KELLY—THE PRISONER COMMITTED TO THE TOMBS.

The jury in the case of John H. Kelly, who was killed by the Chinaman, Quimbo Appo, at the Howe Lodging House, No. 192 Cantham street, on Friday night, assembled at the Coroner's office yesterday, and, after hearing the testimony of several witnesses, rendered a verdict against the prisoner. Appo, who was represented by counsel, was conveyed from the Tombs by two officers, accompanied by several sympathizing fellow countrymen, who evinced much interest in the proceedings. Charles Hamilton, the night clerk at the lodging-house, who was the first person called to the stand, testified substantially that on the night of the homicide he, hearing the noise of scuffling on one of the upper floors of the house ascended the stairs to ascertain what was transpiring, and on reaching the top of the second flight saw Kelly and Appo engaged in an altercation; the witness endeavored to separate the combatants, but Kelly would not desist in his assault on Appo, whom he kicked and struck repeatedly; Appo retreated to the first floor, followed by his assailant, who again struck the Cunaman while the latter was seated on a bench near the head of the stairs; finally Appo turned upon his tormentor and made several passes at him, at which Kelly, raising his arms, exclaimed, "My God, I am stabbed!" Kelly then ran up stairs, and as he turned to ascend, Appo made a pass at his back, but the witness did not see any weapon in the hands of the Chinaman. Few Saylor, an inmate of the house, gave a similar account of the tragedy, and added that when Kelly was in the act of ascending the stairs after Appo had made the passes at him, a large quantity of blood was visible on Kelly's shirt-sleeve, and large drops were afterward found on the stairs. Isaac Dodge, the house steward, testified that when Kelly cried out that he was stabbed Appo ran down stairs to the street and retreated in the direction of Mott street, followed by the witness, who pointed him out to Officer Hogan, of the Sixth Precinct. The patrolman arrested Appo and arraigned him before Capt. Lowery, who locked him up. While Capt. Lowery was testifying to the manner in which the body of Kelly was borne to and received at the station, and to the fact that the search made by himself and his officers for the knife used by Appo, a messenger from the lodging-house informed Coroner Hunt Lyman that an employe of the house, while sweeping the room in which the deed was committed, had found the weapon under a settee. The weapon proved to be an ordinary one-bladed pen-knife, the blade of which was rather rusty, and marked by spots resembling congealed blood. The finder of the knife, Thomas F. Peacock, stated that when he found it under the settee the blade was open, and had the appearance of being stained with blood. After a brief address to the jury by the Coroner, who condemned the action of Justice Duffy in committing the prisoner and witnesses, and thus interfering with the jurisdiction of the Coroner, the jury retired for deliberation. They returned to the court-room, after a brief absence, with a verdict to the effect that the deceased died of hemorrhage, caused by wounds inflicted with a sharp instrument in the hands of Quimbo Appo, and they did not believe that the prisoner had sufficient provocation to justify the use of a deadly weapon. Appo was then committed to the Tombs.

THE PARK BANK DEFALCATION.

SIXTY-SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS STOLEN BY ELLIS—MEASURES TAKEN TO SECURE HIS CAPTURE—THEORIES REGARDING THE THEFT.

The defalcation of Thomas Ellis, the late Paying Teller of the National Park Bank, proves to have been much larger than at first reported. It was supposed on Monday that $33,000 in bills only had been stolen; but when the gold account was balanced in the afternoon it was discovered that $30,000 in gold certificates were also missing, making the total loss $66,000. The bank officials have taken vigorous measures to catch the defaulter, and are confident that he will not be able to hide much longer. The matter has been placed in the hands of Detective Sampson, and he has been busy investigating several supposed clues. Photographs on postal cards have been extensively circulated, and his description has been telegraphed to every city in the United States and Canada. The Directors met yesterday, and took the necessary measures for prosecuting the search. In regard to the bond for $10,000 given by Mr. Ellis, it is believed to be perfectly good, the bondsman being Mr. L. S. Lenhein, of Great Bend, Penn. At the bank yesterday everything proceeded in the usual manner, and there was no excitement whatever on account of the defalcation, which is comparatively small in proportion to the assets of the bank. One of the officials, in response to inquiries, said he did not believe that Ellis had lost the money in speculation in Wall street, or in gambling. He thought that he took the money at a grab, having committed some irregularity in his position which he expected would be discovered when his accounts were examined. This might be done in the credit accounts, the monthly returns of which are now coming in. When pressed by inquiries from the bank's correspondents he may have seen that he could not delay the matter longer and disappeared. After all the returns are in they will show whether this has been the case.

Mr. James L. Worth, the President of the bank, said last night in conversation with a TIMES reporter, that the defalcation, as far as ascertained, amounted to $66,000, and that would probably be the total. Of this sum, $36 000 was in legal tenders and the remainder in gold certificates. The latter were not missed until Monday afternoon, when the gold account was balanced. The legal tenders were found to be short when the assistant counted the cash in the morning, and it was not until then that the defalcation was noticed. Mr. Ellis's absence was supposed to be merely temporary, when he was not at his post at the opening of the bank on Monday morning. The Teller's accounts were very simple and it did not take long to examine them. In regard to his old desk, as Note Teller, it might be that he had appropriated some of the funds of the bank to his own use—not more than $5,000 or $10,000 however—and this would be discovered as soon as all the correspondents were heard from. Mistakes were always occurring in credits, and in proving them any discrepancy would be discovered within a week or two. He might have falsified a credit, some time ago, and when he changed his position, fearing that it would be discovered, replaced it by a part of the $36,000 which he had taken. If such was the case, on Saturday he suspected that his irregularities would be found out, for he had a conversation with the clerk at his old position, and then left and went around to the desk where the money was and took it unobserved. It was all in large bills of $500 and $1,000. There is another singular point in connection with it which was made known yesterday afternoon. The Teller went to one of the clerks and asked him to cash a check for $45 on the First National Bank of Brooklyn, and to charge it to his account over there. He informed the clerk that he was short of money and needed it very much. The check was cashed and to-day it was returned by the bank, he having no funds there, and his brother clerk had to lose the money. He no doubt had a motive in this, and in was done probably to give the impression that he was poor and did not have the money he had stolen.

The Board of Directors met in the morning and the matter was informally talked about and further measures taken to apprehend the dishonest Teller. In addition to the notice of the reward of $5,000, a full description of the fugitive had been sent by telegraph all over the country, and this afternoon postal cards with his photograph upon them were sent to every post-office, and as they can easily be seen, it will be difficult for him to escape detection. He is as marked a man as Tweed, and if he is seen once he will not be forgotten easily. He is short, stout, and very good-natured, and has a swaggering way about him. He is probably either in this City or near here. There were a number of rumors yesterday as to his whereabouts, but none of them proved true on investigation. He owned a horse and wagon and was a frequent driver on the Coney Island road, and visited disreputable places there. Of course if this had been known before he would not have held his position, as bank clerks on his salary cannot afford such expensive luxuries as a horse and wagon. His conduct at the bank was always exemplary. He had been brought up from boyhood in the bank, gradually advancing from a messenger to his position of Paying Teller, during twenty years of faithful service.

MORTALITY STATISTICS.

The following report on the mortality in this City during the past week was presented at the meeting of the Board of Health yesterday:

"During the week ending Oct. 21, 467 deaths were registered in this bureau, being an increase of 31, as compared with the previous week. The actual mortality for the previous week was 435, which is 63.6 below the average deaths for the corresponding week of the past five years, and represents an annual death-rate of 21.21 per 1,000 persons living, the population estimated at 1,054,243. There was an increase of 2 deaths from small-pox, 5 from measles, 2 from scarlatina, 1 from whooping-cough, 1 from typhus fever, 1 from typhoid fever, 5 from cancer, 24 from phthisis, pulmonalis, 5 from bronchitis, 9 from pneumonia, 1 from marasmus and scrofula, 1 from hypercephalus and tubercular meningitis; and a decrease of 3 from diphtheria, 2 from puerperal diseases, 4 from diarrhœal diseases, 1 from disease of the heart, 2 from Bright's disease, and 4 from diseases of the nervous system, during the past, compared with the preceding week. The diseases which were most prominent in causing death during the past week were: Pathisis pulmonalis, 100; pneumonia, 41; nervous diseases, 32; diarrhœal diseases, 27; diphtheria, 24; pronchitis, 22; diseases of the heart, 22; Bright's disease and nephritis, 17, or a percentage of 60.6 of the total mortality was from these eight causes. Malarial fevers caused 5 deaths, typhoid fever, 4; typhus and cerebro-spinal fever, 1 each; membranous croup, 12; scarlatina, 9; small-pox, 2; measles, 5, and whooping cough, 4."

IMPORTANT TO HOUSE-HOLDERS.

The following communication from the Sanitary Superintendent is of importance to house-holders:

HEALTH DEPARTMENT, SANITARY BUREAU,
NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1876.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

So long as many houses in the City have no water in the cellars, closets, and bath-rooms on their upper floors, there is great danger lest sewer-gas may find its way into rooms through the empty traps. I would respectfully ask that the attention of the public be called to the importance of keeping the traps supplied with water during the hot season, as carefully collected experience having shown that fatal diseases are induced, or at least aggravated, by the presence of exhalations from sewers. Very respectfully,

WALTER D. F. DAY, M. D.,
Sanitary Superintendent.

EVADING THE QUARANTINE LAWS.

At the meeting of the Board of Health yesterday a communication was received from the United States Consul at Bordeaux, conveying the information that on Sept. 25 the American bark J. K. Welden had left that port for New-York without a Consular bill of health. The Captain, John A. Colson, had one sick person on board at the time and refused the bill of health offered by the Consul, remarking that the officers at this port were all very particular in enforcing the laws, and he would get through Quarantine somehow. The communication was referred to Dr. Vanderpoel, the Health Officer of the port.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN CRICKET MATCH.

The annual contest between the American and English players, chosen from the clubs in and around New-York, will take place to-morrow, on Camp Washington Ground, Staten Island, commencing punctually at 10 o'clock. The American twelve will comprise the following: Messrs. J. T. Souther, (Captain,) Stevens, Moore, Sprague, Cashman, Bussier, Roomson, Hinchcliff, Satterthwaite, Diser, Talbot, and Holman. The English team will be selected from the following: Messrs. Bance, Whetham, Gibbes, Giles, (prof.,) Brewster, (prof.,) Roberts, Greig, Makin, Graham, Richardson, Mostyn, Hooper and Sleigh. The match will be for the benefit of W. Brewster, the professional to the Staten Island Club.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

The Board of Apportionment will take up the estimates for 1877 to-day.

The receipts for taxes on real and personal estate on Monday amounted to $898,038 68.

The work on the East River Bridge yesterday consisted of adjusting the "carrier" cable to the New-York anchorage.

It has been decided to refit and generally improve the court-rooms of the Tombs, with especial reference to obtaining better ventilation.

The anniversary of the New-York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society will be held in St. Thomas' Church, Fifth avenue and Fifty-third street, on Sunday evening next at 8 o'clock.

John Higgins, fifty years of age, was found dead in his bed-room, at his residence in West Ninety-second street yesterday. It is supposed that he was accidentally suffocated while intoxicated.

The striking 'longshoremen gathered in large numbers about Pier No. 9 North River, yesterday, and it required the assistance of the Police to clear the sidewalks. In other respects the men were orderly.

A child one year and ten months old, named Vincent Bonce, died yesterday, at the residence of his parents, No. 883 Second avenue, of burns received by his clothes taking fire during the absence of his mother.

Controller Green will pay the semi-annual interest on the City debt on Nov. 1. The debt amounts to $116,250,121 86, and the interest to $3 373,823 40. Of the latter sum, $705,690 42 is payable to the Sinking Fund. On the same day the Controller will redeem City Park Improvement fund stock to the amount of $2,500,000.

The corner stone of the new Hahnemann Homeopathic Hospital, on Fourth avenue, between Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth streets, will be laid to-morrow afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. Addresses will be delivered by Hon. Salem H. Wales, William Cullen Bryant, Hon. Isaac H. Bailey, Peter Cooper, Rev. Dr. Taylor, and others.

It is stated that a number of the depositors of the Mechanics' and Traders' Saving Institution, which was declared hopelessly insolvent in July, 1874, have agreed to commence legal proceedings against the Trustees of that institution, believing that these gentlemen are liable for the losses that have been sustained by the depositors. It is understood that the depositors have engaged counsel whose advice in the matter they are now awaiting.

BROOKLYN.

Theodore Bush, a German, aged fifty-seven years, dropped dead yesterday of heart disease while at work in the Evergreen Cemetery.

The Presbyterian Assembly of Brooklyn has confirmed the resignation of Rev. Dr. Seaver from the First Presbyterian Church in Henry street.

John How, a two-year old son of John L. How, of No. 81 State street, died Monday from the poisonous effects of carbolic acid which he had swallowed.

Rev. Father Gleason, the Indian missionary, celebrated his golden wedding last evening at his residence, No. 447 Gates avenue. His friends were present in large numbers.

August Dunbar, a Swede, aged thirty-six years, was arrested at a late hour Monday night, in Hart's alley, whither he had pursued his wife and fired three shots at her. He was arraigned before Justice Walsh yesterday, and held to answer a charge of felonious assault.

Frank W. Stone, whose mother keeps a boarding-house at No. 267 Washington street, was before Justice Riley, yesterday, on a charge of stealing $450 worth of jewelry from Miss Annie Mary Tiffany, the actress, some five or six weeks ago. He pawned some of the jewelry when he first stole it, and went to Detroit and Chicago, where he pawned the rest of it, and remained until he spent the proceeds, when he returned to Brooklyn, and was arrested by Detective Looney.

NEW-JERSEY.

Patrick Carr, convicted at Paterson, N. J., of murder in the second degree in killing his wife, was yesterday sentenced to twenty years in the State Prison. He is now seventy years of age.

William R. Drake, ex-cashier of the German National Bank in Newark, has been arrested and held on his own recognizance, to answer the charges of embezzlement, falsification of accounts, &c., preferred against him by the bank.

A conference of Congregational Churches of New-Jersey will be held in the Auburn Street Church, Paterson, commencing this morning at 10 o'clock. Twenty-three churches will be represented by Pastors and delegates.

In the Passaic County Court of Sessions yesterday, William Collier, a well-known resident of Paterson, was found guilty of stealing Henry Hobbs, who recently held the position of agent for the Erie Railway Company at that station. Collier sent a letter to Chief Bowman, charging Mr. Hobbs with being a thief and a gambler, and also with defrauding the company. The defendant was bailed to appear for sentence.

Edward Broderick, and another lad whose name has not been ascertained, became involved in a quarrel while playing marbles on Jewett avenue, Jersey City Heights, Monday afternoon, and the other boy knocked Broderick down. His head struck against a sharp stone and he received injuries of a very serious character. The injured lad was carried to his residence in an unconscious condition, and medical aid was summoned. His assailant will probably be arrested.

There is a serious difficulty between the Fire and Police Departments of Hoboken, which may eventually result in the disbandment of the former unless some compromise is effected. The difficulty originated at a recent fire, when Officer Kirion arrested some firemen without cause. Charges were preferred against the officer, but the Police Commissioners exonerated him. The firemen are very indignant, and a mee ing of Washington Hook and Ladder Company, No. 4, has been called for Friday evening to take into consideration the propriety of disbandment. A similar feeling is said to exist throughout the department, so that serious trouble is anticipated.

Burglars are operating at Union Hill. On Monday night the residence of Henry Albing, corner of Main street and New-York avenue, was entered and robbed of valuables worth $30. Subsequently Charles Wurtz's Hudson County Hotel was broken into and robbed of $200 in money and a quantity of cigars and liquors. A few nights ago, Michael Henry's residence was entered, and $119 taken from the pocket of his pantaloons which were lying on a chair by his bedside. The money belonged to the Dennis McGrath Battery, of which Henry was Treasurer. John Brady, one of the famous Modoc gang, has been arrested on suspicion, and committed to the County Jail to await trial.

ROUGH WEATHER AT SEA.

Officers of all the incoming vessels report very rough weather during their respective voyages. Fears are entertained for several vessels which have been overdue for some days. The schooner Taunhan experienced a south-west gale off Savannah, which split her foresail and sprung her maintopmast and gaff. The British steamer Navario encountered heavy north-west gales with heavy head sea when off the western bank of Newfoundland. In latitude 40° 32', longitude 68° 29', a whole cargo of petroleum barrels marked "Kings County Oil Refining Company" was passed. They apparently belonged to some vessel in distress. The brig R. W. Messer, from Inkerding, had westerly winds all the passage, and was detained eighteen days at Newfoundland. Capt. Pocock, of the Australian bark Anu, had heavy westerly gales during the entire passage. The White Star steamer Adriatic, Capt. Perry commanding, was detained several hours off Sandy H

The New-York Times.

VOL. XXVI.....NO. 7837. NEW-YORK, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1876.—WITH SUPPLEMENT. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

THE NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

PRESIDENT WOOLSEY SPEAKS FOR HAYES AND WHEELER.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION IN NEW-HAVEN—EX-PRESIDENT WOOLSEY MAKES THE FIRST POLITICAL SPEECH OF HIS LIFE—THE MERITS OF THE CANDIDATES, THE FINANCIAL, CIVIL SERVICE, AND SOUTHERN QUESTIONS ABLY DISCUSSED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NEW-HAVEN, Oct. 25.—The Republicans of New-Haven held a large and enthusiastic rally at Music Hall this evening, which was presided over by ex-President Theodore D. Woolsey. Many college professors and other prominent citizens occupied seats on the stage, and the large hall was crowded in every part. At 7:30 a regiment of Boys in Blue, numbering about five hundred, and composed entirely of students of Yale, wearing blue capes and bearing torches and banners, marched from the college to Prof. Woolsey's house, and escorted him to the hall. Upon being introduced to the assemblage, Dr. Woolsey was received with most enthusiastic cheering, lasting several minutes, after which he said:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I have been, I believe, now a citizen of New Haven for five and forty years, and this is the first time in the course of my life that I have presided at a political meeting or addressed one, and I do it now partly for this reason: I feel that I am what may be called a silent citizen, who was not a politician, who has been neglecting a duty in times past, and so in this late time of my life, in this latter period, I mean to try to repair the damage in the past period, I may have done by silence. Then again, I have had the honor for the first time in my life to be nominated for an office, and I feel called upon to do so—the office of Presidential Elector—an office which I accepted with some pleasure, because it had scarcely any work and no pay, and very little responsibility. [Laughter.] Very little responsibility because it seemed to me unlike an office of a representative in the Legislature, as it is assumed that those who may be chosen have nothing to do except express the choice of those who had chosen them or might choose me. Now, I come to you and have a few words to say. In the first place, I will say that I have had, as I think you must have, confidence in those gentlemen who have been nominated by the Republican Party to represent Connecticut in the executive offices, Mr. Henry C. Robinson and Mr. Frederick J. Kingsbury. [Cheers.] I have no new occasion for speaking of them because they were nominated last Spring, but I may say that no gentlemen in this State could have, and as I think ought to have, the confidence of every one of our citizens more than these two, whom I have known from the time of their college life onward. I rejoice to be able to say of the gentlemen who have been put forward by the Democratic Party that they are estimable, and so is the present Governor. I could wish that Connecticut had done all its work in choosing its Representatives in the same way. I could wish that while it was choosing its best officers to fill her own offices it had put its best foot forward in the Capitol at Washington. [Applause.]

And now, gentlemen, need I be called upon to say anything of those men who are to fill the most solemn political responsibility which can be taken by any man in this world? I mean Mr. Hayes, and the candidate of the opposite party. Mr. Hayes, in my view, is a man who has, wherever he has been placed, borne a noble part. He has never, that I am aware of, put himself forward, never engineered for an office. He has, so far as I understand from my friends in Ohio, always been sought for rather than sought a place; content to remain a private man and not looking for it as a supreme good to be placed in seats of power. He played a noble part in his position in the Army. He played a most honorable and useful part in his position as Governor of Ohio, and I must feel confident that if elected he will play a noble and independent part in the Government of the United States. [Applause.]

What shall I say of Mr. Tilden? I don't mean to say anything against him or his character, except so far as one or two particular points are concerned, in which I feel I have the right to criticise him, as any man would criticise. I feel that Mr. Tilden has sought the office with uncommon anxiety. [Laughter.] I don't remember of any President who seems to me to have pursued his object, so far as I can understand, with greater assiduity, greater ability and determination than he has shown. I have of Mr. Tilden to say, that I cannot myself—and I presume you will agree with me—I cannot feel that he is quite the safest man to choose on account of his opinions in regard to the nature of the Union. Gentlemen, we have come to the conclusion that this is not a mere league of States, but that it is a nation; and if we have not come to this conclusion, we have come to the conclusion which Gen. Jackson established when he was President of the United States, and to which a large part of both party adheres—but as I understand Mr. Tilden is a little shaky in this particular, and I want to see, as long as there is any danger from the opposite opinion, a man in office with firm convictions and quick conscience, who will put down, as Gen. Jackson was prepared to do, anything that looks like rebellion in the United States. Another point in regard to Mr. Tilden. I don't like his position in respect to the repeal of the Resumption act—the repeal of the act in which the date 1879 is mentioned. Now, it may be that this is nothing but a sham, as he says. Is it not something to give the promise of the United States? Is it not a point of great importance that in this year of 1879, when it comes, we shall witness the repeal? Did not the British Parliament vote five years before that in a certain year the resumption of specie payment should take place? When I look at the motives of Mr. Tilden, I feel that is was intended as a kind of a plaster to unite the two parts of the Democratic Party—those who wanted specie payments and those who don't want it—and in this way it was not an entirely sincere and upright stratagem. So much I have to say in regard to Mr. Tilden. In regard to his character I have not a word to utter. There are points of much more importance than those. What are these points? You agree with me that there are three points which I hardly need but glance at, because they are familiar to you, and because other gentlemen who are to succeed me, will expound them better than I can. First, what I have just now referred to—the resumption of specie payments. Now I believe, with all the light I can get from a science which I have taught for five and twenty years—political economy—firmly believe, that this is all-important, both for the moral interests and the financial interests of the country. And now we are going through a slow fever. The country is passing through this, and if we go backward in the attempt to cure ourselves of inflation, there would be another misery to be passed through. Upon this point all men almost, at least in the Eastern part of the country, of all parties, agree. But what I ask now is, can the Democratic Party be trusted absolutely to carry through measures which will issue speedily in specie payments and good, sound currency? Can they be trusted? What is the motive of the present House of Representatives in passing the act endeavoring to repeal the date clause of the Resumption act? Did they do it because they thought it was a sham, a sham imposing upon the community, upon the United States, upon the people—or did they want to have full scope given for inflation? Which was their desire? Let those gentlemen in the Democratic Party who voted against the repeal reply. I think they may tell you that their colleagues were against specie payments.

And now I come to a delicate point; one which was not thought of at the beginning of the canvass—that is, the condition of the South. The question forces itself upon my mind—as it does, I think, upon many of you—in the present attitude or feeling of the South, is it wise, or salutary, or safe, to commit the interests of the country to a party in which they largely predominate? Is it wise, salutary, or safe? I have no malignity against the Southern States. I am sorry to say that our Government has managed the affairs of these States with lamentable folly; but when we are in a movement, amounting in some places almost to a frenzy, and men collude to divide the races, and manipulate with keen calculation to bring the sceptre back to that territory, is it safe? I have no objection to their having offices and power, but I ask if now, before the war has done its work, and when we have immense obligations still unfinished resting on us as to a race redeemed from bondage, is it safe to give the Government into their hands?

The third point—What is meant by reform? What do you mean by it? What do the Democratic Party mean by it? I say the Democratic Party mean by it, that there shall be a general sweeping out of all officers of the other party. If they are unworthy, I say let them be swept out. I don't want to see any man retained who is unfit, or any man excluded for party sake if fit for office. At this stage I shall make a remark which may not be acceptable to all of you, of this character. It is one that commends itself to me, as expressing this important matter, as a true expression of it. It is that in the Southern States offices are filled, not by native-born citizens, but by others. Now, I do hope that if the Republican Partyshall prevail, that the moderate measures will prevail, and that everywhere, in all offices that are not strictly political, there will be a distribution of the fittest men, whether Democrats or Republicans,—[Cheers.]—to every one that can and will do the best they can in the civil service of the country. I believe if this was done it would tend more to promote peace and good feeling than anything else perhaps that could be devised. I believe that if Gov. Hayes is put into office he will do this.

What shall we say of reform in the civil service? Was it ever thought of in the Democratic Party? Was not the reward of political services by office, were not all these corrupting measures and influences devised in that Party? And if the Republican Party have followed them, they have followed them with slow pace, and not with the same vigor with which the system was once thought of. You will admit that this is a great point. The question now is in this country whether the present distribution of offices, down to the smallest Postmastership off in Minnesota or Colorado—I say whether the principle of strict party lines is not corrupting us to the very core, and whether there ought not to be a most determined effort on the part of the Republican Party to erase and to drive out this evil from the practice under the Constitution. I feel this is an object of immense difficulty. The Senate will not allow it if it can be done. There is now such a system of distribution of offices that the President is shackled, and it will require all the energy and urgency of the best newspapers and the urgency of the best men to bring about the time when in the civil service the continuance in office of those men who have acted well, and when the selection of men not on account of politics but on account of merit, shall be regarded as the standing law in this country, and this I hope may be carried.

At the conclusion of Dr. Woolsey's remarks, the audience greeted him with loud cheering. Other addresses were made by ex-Gov. Van Zandt, of Rhode Island, and Major Ribbetts, of New-London.

RECEPTION TO GOV. R. B. HAYES.

ARRIVAL OF GOV. HAYES AND PARTY AT THE CENTENNIAL GROUNDS—A RECEPTION TENDERED HIM BY OHIOANS—TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—The reception of Gov. Hayes in this city this afternoon was entirely informal. The Governor arrived at the Centennial railroad depot on the 4:15 train. He was accompanied by Mrs Hayes, his son Webster C. Hayes, Ex. Gov. E. F. Noyes, and Mrs. Noyes and several gentlemen of his staff. At the depot, Director Gen. Goshorn, who is also an Ohio man, was waiting to receive the Governor, and on his arrival escorted him to the Trans-Continental Hotel, where a suit of apartments had been engaged. When it became known that the Governor had arrived, a large crowd of people swarmed into the hall of the hotel, hoping to catch a sight of the successor to President Grant; but his Excellency was fatigued, and retired to his room for rest. During the evening a large number of visiting Ohioans organized themselves into an impromptu delegation, and called upon the Governor to pay their respects. The Governor received them in his parlor, and at the repeated request of some of the members of the delegation, he consented to hold an informal reception. When this was announced, there was a rush for the parlors, and for an hour or two a continuous stream of people poured through the rooms, and the distinguished gentleman was put through the ordeal of universal hand-shaking. About half the visitors were ladies. Mrs. Hayes was present throughout the reception, and her charming manner to all visitors was a subject of admiring comment. Gov. Hayes looked remarkably well, was in the best of spirits, and chatted pleasantly with everybody on everything, always excepting politics. No formal speeches were made by any one.

To-morrow Gov. Hayes will hold a reception at the Ohio State Building, and in the evening a reception will be given him by the Union League Club, at their club-house on Broad street. There are thousands of Ohioans in the city, and it is confidently expected that the cash admissions to the grounds to-morrow will reach 170,000. The Ohio Commissioners talk about having their State represented by 300,000 visitors. During the day, and up to 7:15 the evening, thirty-five trains, carrying 23,000 Ohioans, arrived at the Centennial and West Philadelphia depots. Many more arrived after that hour, and additional thousands are expected to-morrow morning. The formal reception will begin at 11 o'clock A. M., at which hour Gov. Hayes and staff, with a number of Ohio State officials, will be received at the main entrance of the Exhibition Building by President Hawley and Mr. Welsh, who will escort the party to the Ohio Building. Here Gen. Hawley will deliver an address of welcome to which Gov. Hayes will respond. After this the general reception will take place.

Gov. Hartranft will be present at the Exhibition to-morrow to receive the merchants' delegation. The Centennial oration of Vermont will also be delivered in the Judges' Hall. The day will be a memorable one in the annals of the Centennial, and probably the largest number of visitors ever present in one day will be recorded.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25.—At the municipal election in this city to-day, for members of the first branch of the City Council, the Democrats elected their candidates in eighteen of the twenty wards, the Reform candidate being elected in the first and the Republican nominee in the sixteenth. The same branch in the last Council stood 10 Democrats and 10 Republican and reform. The Democrats also elected their candidate for the second branch to fill a vacancy from wards fifteen and sixteen; a Democratic gain. Quiet and good order prevailed throughout the city, no disturbance occurring at any precinct. The vote was comparatively small, only about forty-three thousand votes being polled. The Democratic majority will be about six thousand

THE CAMPAIGN OF TERROR.

THE DEMOCRATIC MURDER CLUBS.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE MURDERS IN OUICHITA PARISH IN LOUISIANA—HOW A RESOLUTE COLORED REPUBLICAN WHO DESIRED TO ESTABLISH A SCHOOL FOR COLORED PEOPLE WAS DISPOSED OF—SHOT AND DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED AND SURGICAL AID PROHIBITED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The following are further extracts from the dispatches received at the War Department from Capt. Hall, commanding United States troops at Monroe, La., which show the feeling existing in that section among the Democrats toward citizens identified with the Republican party, and the determination of the whites to carry the election at all hazards:

"The few law-abiding, respectable and well disposed white men of the Republican Party living here express grave apprehensions of trouble, and seem to feel that their tenure of life is insecure. Referring to the murder of Bernard H. Dinkgrove, of this place, in August last, and to assertions made by the partisan press and by the people that his assassination was the result of a personal feud, and done from motives of revenge, they privately express utter disbelief, and say that Dinkgrove had maintained great influence over the colored people, and that had he been as prominent and influential in the Democratic as he was in the Republican Party, he would not have been killed.

In a dispatch dated Oct. 11, Capt. Hale gives further details of the murder of Primus Johnson, colored preacher, and Eaton Logwood, than those published in THE TIMES on Wednesday. Capt. Hale writes:

The two disguised and armed white men appeared from behind the bank of a bayou near the road, advanced to a picket-fence in front of, and at about fifteen yards distance from, the house, and resting their guns across the fence, one of them addressed Logwood, saying; "Eaton, old fellow, is that you? —— ——, you, I have got you now," aiming his gun at Logwood while saying so. Logwood attempted to escape by running, but was shot by the disguised man referred to just as he [Logwood] was about to run around the corner of his house, a full load of buckshot entering his back, neck, and shoulders, inflicting very dangerous wounds. At about the same time, or an instant later, Primus Johnson, while yet standing on his gallery and holding his child in his arms, was shot by the other disguised white man, and died within a few moments. The two disguised white men, after saying that "if they had not fixed it all right they would return and finish it," walked slowly along the road, crossed into the field, went down to the bayou, crossed on a log, after which all trace of them was lost. A number of wagons loaded with cotton passed the house a short time before and just after the shooting; those passing just before the murder was committed were stopped by these armed and mounted white men at Shoran Bridge, which is some distance beyond Logwood's house, toward Monroe. The armed men thus picketing the roads interrogated the drivers of the wagons, asking "whose were the teams," and on being informed that they belonged to Mr. Tidwell and Mr. Swan, (two white planters on the island,) permitted them to pass. Two physicians living on the island when sent for refused to visit Logwood. A brother of Logwood then started to Monroe for one, and while on the way was stopped by two mounted white men and questioned as to his business, and his person was searched for arms and papers, and when he told them he was going for a doctor, they asked him if it was for Eaton Logwood, and told him if it was he could not go. But he succeeded in getting away from them and reached town, but none of the physicians here could be induced to go out. Logwood had also sent a message to Mr. John H. Dinkgrove, Deputy United States Marshal and attorney at law, that he wished to see him as to matters pertaining to his property, but Dinkgrove, considering the mission too dangerous, declined going. These facts were communicated to me at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and after consultation with Mr. Hardy, the District Attorney, who considered it important to obtain Logwood's dying declaration, (he was then thought to be mortally wounded,) I sent a detachment of eight men under command of Lieut. McCauley, Thirteenth Infantry, accompanied by the District Attorney, to Logwood's house. They reached Logwood's about 10 P. M. and found a large crowd of colored people there, all of whom were completely cowed and subjugated and in constant apprehension of the return of the murderers to carry out the threats made in the morning. The facts as herein given are taken from Logwood's declaration, and from the testimony of the two women, wives of Logwood and Johnson, both of whom were present and witnessed the shooting.

Logwood states that, judging from the size, appearance, dress, walk, and voice, the person who shot him is Robert Logan, a white man and plantation-owner living at Bayou de Siard, and one of his neighbors. He also states that W. I. Theobald, a white planter and his neighbor, and who is also Captain of one of the Democratic rifle clubs on the island, has repeatedly threatened his [Logwood's] life; and it is declared by the witness that two or three weeks ago Theobald and George Phillips (son of Capt. Phillips) and who is commander of another island rifle company) searched through Logwood's house, announcing their intention to kill him. * * * Logwood and Johnson were both resolute and intelligent men; both owned small farms, and were making good crops. By their joint efforts they had erected a building near their house, which was used as a school for colored children and also as a church. A short time ago this building was set on fire in the night-time and the roof and the inside finishing burned; the walls being of green logs did not burn. Logwood says it was set on fire in the expectation that he would rush out to extinguish it, and that he would then have been shot had he done so, but he did not go out. He was a strong, influential, and intelligent partisan of the Republican Party, and was especially obnoxious to resident Democrats on the island.

THE MISSISSIPPI RIFLE AND SHOT-GUN CLUBS — A REPUBLICAN MEETING IN CLAIBORNE COUNTY BROKEN UP, AND THE NEGROES DISPERSED AND PURSUED TWO MILES.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 25.—The Jackson (Miss.) Clarion on Monday contained the following in reference to the riot on Saturday at Port Gibson:

PORT GIBSON, Miss., Oct. 21, 1876.

To J. Z. George:

It is Lynch's day here, and there is much excitement. Spratt, saying he was Deputy Marshal, started toward town with an armed body of negroes. Our Sheriff met them with a posse and ordered their dispersion, claiming the right to keep the peace in his county. The Marshal disbanded after a parley. None of our people are armed.

VERTNER.

[Second Dispatch.]

PORT GIBSON, Oct. 21.

J. Z. George:

The Spratt negroes fired from an ambush on a few of the Sheriff's posse two miles from town, doing no damage except to horses. The whites returned the fire, wounding one and capturing several negroes, the balance escaping into the swamp. After reinforcing we followed, but have not caught up as yet.

JACKSON, Oct. 24.—The representations that the negroes were the aggressors in the Claiborne County riot are utterly without foundation. United States Deputy Marshal Spratt, who arrived here last night, reports that prior to the day for which Lynch was guessed to speak at Port Gibson the indications were that he would not be permitted to do so. Deaths'-heads and cross-bones, with the date of the meeting on each side, were placarded over the county. Democratic clubs assembled and armed under the pretense of preserving the peace. One hundred "White-Liners" acted as Sheriffs and policemen. The colored people were not permitted to carry arms to the meeting. Having been promised protection by the Sheriff, they left their arms two miles from town. At the commencement of the meeting Lynch was grossly affronted by Democrats, and declined speaking under the restrictions imposed by them. A notorious colored Democrat, under a number of indictments, was put forward by the Democrats. When the colored people began to disperse, they were pursued by the Democratic mob with arms and effectually stampeded. They were hunted like partridges, but the object apparently was not to murder but intimidate them, so they would abandon their determination to register and vote. They were pursued two miles, when, reaching their guns, they fired on the whites. Two horses of the whites were wounded. One negro was wounded, and several arrested and lodged in Port Gibson Jail.

This is the first Republican meeting attempted to be held in Claiborne County. Deputy Marshal Spratt reports terrorism throughout the county, and says the Republicans cannot vote unless protected by United States troops. A company of troops is now stationed at Port Gibson, but the commanding officer did nothing to preserve the peace.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA MURDERS.

WHOLESALE DENIAL BY CITIZENS OF CHARLESTON—THE DEMOCRATIC MURDER CLUBS LAWFUL AND INNOCENT ORGANIZATIONS—GOV. CHAMBERLAIN'S ORDER FOR THEIR DISBANDING PARTISAN.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 25.—The President of the Chamber of Commerce has united with the Methodist, Catholic, and Episcopal Bishops, and the leading Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist, and Jewish ministers, and the Presidents of all the national and other banks in Charleston in the following address on the condition of South Carolina:

To the People of the United States:

Well founded apprehensions that the civilization of our State is in danger of being utterly overthrown, and an overruling sense of duty to ourselves and posterity and the country at large impels us to make an authentic statement of our actual condition to the American people, in the hope that it will induce them to extend us their sympathy and aid in this distressing exigency of affairs. There is so much at stake that we cannot afford to be silent or to withhold any effort that may possibly be of avail. For ten long weary years the white people of South Carolina have endured a condition of things which any Northern State would have been tempted to throw off in two years at the point of the bayonet if it could have been done in no other way. They bore and forbore in the hope that some returning sense of justice or happy stroke of fortune would bring relief; but no such sense of justice or happy stroke came to their relief, and hope sickened and died away in their hearts. At last they determined by a natural impulse and a natural and uncontrollable instinct of freedom, to make one supreme effort for their redemption, but to make it under and within the law. Those who hold authority here having, through party affiliation, access to the highest organs of political power in the country, and to the equally powerful organs of the partisan newspaper press, have subjected this people to the vilest misrepresentation and the most cruel slanders. Some of these we desire to correct.

It is not true that the white people of South Carolina are disloyal or disaffected toward the United States Government. On the contrary, they are loyal and well affected toward it. They obey it at home, and would defend it promptly from foreign aggression.

It is not true that South Carolina or any of its counties are in a state of insurrection or domestic violence against the Government of the State, or that law and process cannot be duly enforced within her territorial limits, or that there is any lawful cause or occasion whatever for the Federal Government to interfere for the protection of the State Government against the violence of her citizens.

It is not true that the white people of the State are hostile to the colored people, or have any desire or disposition to abridge or infringe upon their political or civil rights. On the contrary, in their conventions, and in the speeches of their candidates for six years or more, the most public and solemn pledges have been given that all the rights of the colored people shall be respected and protected. The colored people should know that these pledges will be faithfully kept.

It is not true that the few rifle clubs in the State are combinations of men against the law, or that they are engaged in forming some peaceable citizens and intimidating others, or that they cannot be controlled or suppressed by the ordinary course of justice. The President has been deceived. These clubs existed with the knowledge and recognition of the Governor. Not one of them ever acted in defiance of law or against the Government or constituted authorities. The hostility to them or Gen. Chamberlain and his conductors is recent; it is political, and is designed to affect the coming election.

It is not true that in the recent race-collisions the white people have been the aggressors. Their forbearance, as in the Charleston riot, the unprovoked Cainhoy massacre, and the still more recent assassination of a white citizen in Edgefield, has been wonderful. The truth is that the leaders of the colored people, fearing that the day of their power is drawing to a close, have excited their ignorant dupes, have supplied them with arms, have aroused their fears for the loss of their liberty, and have thus encouraged them to commit deeds of violence.

We may also affirm some things which are true. It is true that there is in the State a most active, earnest and excited canvass to overthrow corrupt rule and re-establish an honest State government. This is a legitimate and lawful object, which should command the sympathy and support of every lover of his country. It is not treason to defeat Chamberlain, nor is it insurrection to elect Hampton. It is true that while the white rifle clubs are ordered by the Governor and the President to disband and disperse, the colored Militia of the State are allowed to remain in organization and in possession of their arms and to attend political meetings in military order, with rifles and other arms. The object of this discrimination is as obvious as is the comparatively defenseless condition in which it places the white populations. We simply ask what would the people of New-York or Massachusetts think or do upon a like application of the bayonet policy to them under such circumstances?

Fellow-countrymen: We have sought to place before you briefly and in true colors the condition of South Carolina, the wrongs of her people, their patient forbearance, and their new-born hopes. Not long ago Gov. Chamberlain, in a transport of truthful and genuine enthusiasm, proclaimed to the people of the country the startling fact that the civilization of the Puritan and the Cavalier, of the Roundhead and Huguenot is in peril in South Carolina. He spoke these words under the influence of his better angel, for truer words he never spoke, and they are as true now as then. The peril is far greater now than then, for when the worst and most degraded elements of society enter into or control a Government, is there not much reason to apprehend some catastrophe which we hardly dare to contemplate?"

Signed by S. Y. Tupper, President Charleston Chamber of Commerce; W. M. Wightman, Bishop Methodist Episcopal Church South; C. B. W. Lowe, D. D., Bishop Diocese of South Carolina; P. N. Lynch, D. D., Bishop of Charleston; John Forrest, D. D., Pastor First Presbyterian Church; G. R. Brackett, Pastor Second Presbyterian Church; J. L. Girardeau, D. D., Professor Theological Seminary; J. A. Chambliss, Pastor Citadel Square Baptist Church; L. Muller, D. D., Pastor St. Matthew's Lutheran Church; W. S. Bowman, Pastor Wentworth Lutheran Church; P. F. Stevens, Presbyter Reformed Episcopal Church; W. B. Yates, Chaplain to seamen; David Levi, minister Congregation Bethlehem; C. O. White, President People's National Bank; A. S. Johnston, President Bank of Charleston N. B. A.; L. D. Mowry, President Union Bank; Jacob Sinsli, President Germania Savings Bank; E. H. Frost, President South Carolina Loan and Trust Company; Albert Lengnick, President People's Bank of South Carolina; F. R. Robertson, Vice President Carolina Savings Bank.

THE CANVASS IN TENNESSEE.

REPUBLICANS ACTIVELY AT WORK—A GAIN OF ONE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMAN PROMISED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Mr. Brownlow, of Tennessee, a son of Parson Brownlow, arrived here to-night, and reports that an active canvass is being made in Tennessee by the Republicans. Mr. Thornburgh is now the only Republican member of Congress from Tennessee, but Mr. Brownlow says that in November the Republicans will certainly re-elect Thornburgh and elect Judge Randolph, in the First District, over McFarland, the present Democratic member. There is also a good prospect to elect the Republican candidate in the Memphis District.

THE CONTEST IN NEW-YORK.

GOOD NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE STATE.

GRAND DEMONSTRATION IN POTSDAM—THE SHAM REFORMER'S RECORD IN THE ASSEMBLY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

POTSDAM, Oct. 25.—The grandest political demonstration witnessed here in many years, honored the arrival and speech of Hon. L. Bradford Prince in this village last evening. An immense torchlight procession, with a brass band and martial music, paraded the principal streets, which were lined with thousands of people to witness the fine display. After the procession, 2,000 people crowded into the Town Hall to hear Mr. Prince, and many hundreds were turned away unable to gain admittance. Mr. Prince spoke with effect for nearly two hours. He met the Democracy on their own ground of reform, and described Tilden's remarkable record while a member of the Assembly. Out of fifteen hundred and sixty-eight votes taken during the session, Tilden was absent or dodged fourteen hundred and sixty-one times. He did not vote on a single reform measure but once, and then on the wrong side, and during the entire session this great canal reformer did not interest himself in, nor vote on a single measure affecting the canals. Nor should Gov. Tilden have the credit of breaking up the canal Rings. The people did that in 1874 when they adopted the Seventh amendment to the Constitution, which says hereafter no extra compensation shall be paid to any contractor. That deprived the Ring of the power to rob it, and it fell to pieces of itself. The speaker was well received, and will do great good here.

THE SUCCESS OF THE TICKET IN LIVINGSTON COUNTY—SPEECH BY HON. CHARLES S. FITCH, OF ROCHESTER.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

GENESEO, Oct. 25.—As the campaign draws to a close, the interest of the people in the success of the ticket becomes intensified. There was another rousing rally here last night. Hon. Charles S. Fitch, of the Rochester Democrat, spoke to a large audience at the Court-house. Extensive preparations had been made, and delegations from abroad were present. A Rochester band and the Avon Military Band furnished the music for the torchlight parades. Transparencies inscribed with "Ballots not Bullets," "Equal Rights to All Men," and the significant words upon a barrel, "S. J. T.—1860—X," appeared in the long procession. After a few stirring remarks from Gen. Wood, as Chairman, Mr. Fitch addressed the meeting on the national questions of the campaign. He reviewed the history of the Democratic Party, exposed the fallacy of its pretensions and its antagonism to the doctrine of equal rights to all men, arraigned Gov. Tilden, disclosed his sham reform measures, his unpatriotic words and acts, his jobbery and income frauds, and closed with an earnest appeal to all who valued their rights to stand firm, support the whole ticket, and by their votes declare that safety for our institutions was only to be had by the perpetuation of Republican doctrines and principles. The meeting was a grand success, and will be followed by daily discussions throughout the county until the close of the campaign.

PATRIOTIC CITIZENS RIDING SIXTY MILES ON HORSEBACK IN SEARCH OF THE TRUTH—HOW AN OLD DEMOCRAT TREATED HIS ONLY SON.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PORT HENRY, Oct. 25.—The greatest political demonstration ever witnessed in Northern New-York took place here to-day. Over 8,000 persons were present. Special trains ran from the north and south, and many came by wagons and on horseback as far as sixty miles. Gen. Hammond came with 600 of his old cavalry. Gen. Kilpatrick was the orator; although ill and almost worn out, he spoke for over two hours. Hundreds of men of all nationalities were present, and so skillfully did Gen. Kilpatrick present the issues, so admirable was his whole discourse adapted to our people, that hundreds of votes, we feel confident, were secured. Count Port Henry Republican, and Essex County good for 1,500 majority.

This morning Edson Harper, a young Republican, was discharged by his own father, William Harper, a livery-stable keeper and a Democrat, at Keeseville, because he joined the Republican club and attended Gen. Kilpatrick's meeting yesterday at An Sable Forks. Old man Harper is a violent Democrat, and over his stable waves a flag with the motto "Tilden and Reform."

THE FEELING IN CHENANGO COUNTY—AN ABLE SPEECH BY JUDGE A. W. TENNEY, OF BROOKLYN.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NORWICH, Oct. 25.—The largest and most enthusiastic meeting of the campaign has just closed. The torchlight procession preceding it was large, and comprised clubs from several adjoining towns. It was everywhere greeted with illuminations and fireworks and the utmost enthusiasm. Long before the procession reached the Opera-house, the place was full, and fully one thousand people were unable to gain admission. Judge A. W. Tenney, of New-York, was the speaker, and for two hours he held his vast audience with his eloquence. His speech tells already, and many Democrats, in the light of the facts as he presented them, declare their purpose to vote for Gov. Hayes. Judge Tenney is a host in himself, and is doing a great work for the good cause. His first speech here, four years ago, prepared the way for him now, and he was greeted by citizens from all parts of the county.

A PATRIOTIC GATHERING AT HORNELLSVILLE—SPEECHES ENTHUSIASTICALLY APPLAUDED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HORNELLSVILLE, Oct. 25.—Ten thousand of the patriotic people of Steuben and Allegany Counties assembled here yesterday to take part in the greatest gathering ever held here or in this county. The people came from every village and cross-roads to prove that they still stand by the principles of the Republican Party and that they intend to bury Tilden and Hendricks out of sight. The vast crowd was addressed in the afternoon by Senator C. P. Vidder and by Hon. Joseph J. Couch. A splendid torchlight procession was organized in the evening in which were hundreds of horsemen. A large crowd convened at the opera-house after the parade to hear Gen. Clark E. Carr, of Illinois. The speeches were enthusiastically applauded and the mass-meeting was a grand success. One transparency announced "Allegany County good for 3,000 Republican majority."

FIVE THOUSAND PERSONS ASSEMBLED AT SPRING VALLEY—A PROCESSION THREE MILES LONG.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NYACK, Oct 25.—The Republican mass-meeting at Spring Valley to-day was a grand success. There were about five thousand persons present, and a procession of carriages nearly three miles long. Addresses were made by Gen. Sickles and Hon. John Oakey.

A LARGE MASS-MEETING IN WHITEHALL—WASHINGTON COUNTY AROUSED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WHITEHALL, Oct. 25.—This evening the Republicans held a large mass-meeting at Hall's Opera house. At an early hour the people began to assemble, and long before 8 o'clock 1,500 persons had filled the house to overflowing, hundreds being unable to gain admission. Part of the assemblage came by steamers along the lake shore, and others by wagons from long distances. At 8 o'clock Gen. Theodore B. Gates, of Brooklyn, opened the meeting with a very eloquent discourse. He was followed by Hon. Martin I. Townsend, of Troy, after which music was discoursed by the Whitehall Glee Club and by a cornet band. Great enthusiasm prevailed, and Washington County will show a larger Republican majority this November than ever before.

A LARGE WIGWAM CROWDED WITH GERMAN REPUBLICANS — EX-SPEAKER M'GUIRE'S OPINION OF GOV. TILDEN.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ELMIRA, Oct. 25.—The large Republican wigwam in this city was filled to-night to hear Major J. C. F. Bayland, of New-York. The audience was composed principally of Germans, who were addressed in their own language. The United States was compared to the present German Empire, and the practical results of the State Rights doctrine of the Tilden and Southern Democracy to the condition of the German States before their consolidation. Following in the English language the speaker contrasted the recent speech of ex-Speaker McGuire, in this city, indorsing Tilden, with his speech last June at Syracuse, in which he warned his hearers not to be misled as to Mr. Tilden's real purposes by his incessant talk about reform. "I tell you," said McGuire, "this man Tilden is not to be trusted. He is treacherous, and his reform you will find is simply self-seeking." The Democratic meeting here to-night, addressed by Hon. John Bigelow, was a flat failure, less than three hundred persons being present.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT ROCHESTER—SPEECH BY GEN. SHERIDAN, OF LOUISIANA.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 25.—The most enthusiastic meeting of the campaign in this part of the State was held in the City Hall this evening. Gen. G. A. Sheridan spoke for an hour and a half to an audience of at least three thousand. The speech was full of telling points, eloquent in the highest degree, and was received with the deepest attention and quite frequently rapturously applauded.

A LARGE DEMONSTRATION AT OYSTER BAY—MEETINGS IN THE AFTERNOON AND EVENING — SPEECHES BY GEN DIX, GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, AND OTHERS.

The Hayes and Wheeler Campaign Clubs of the town of Oyster Bay held a mass-meeting in their mammoth tent at Oyster Bay village yesterday afternoon and evening. the evening meeting being the largest ever held in the town. The afternoon meeting was called to order by Hon. James W. Beekman in a few well-timed remarks. He introduced, as the first speaker, ex-Gov. Dix, who was received with much applause. He spoke for unward of an hour and a half.

In the evening Mr. George William Curtis and other prominent Republicans spoke.

EASTERN PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

THE PORTE'S CONDITION FOR AN ARMISTICE—DEPRESSION IN BELGRADE—APATHY OF THE SERVIANS IN THE PROGRESS OF THE WAR—AN OPPORTUNITY FOR PEACE PROPOSITIONS FROM RUSSIA.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Times' dispatch from Vienna confirms the statement that the Porte had informed Gen. Ignatieff of its readiness to consent to a six weeks' armistice if all the powers wished it. The correspondent adds: "There would have been no difficulty in fulfilling this condition, but it turns out that the Porte still insists on the stipulation that the powers pledge themselves to prolong the armistice if peace is not made within the original period. In spite of Ignatieff's conciliatory attitude little hope is entertained that Russia will accept this condition. It may, however, be expected that the Porte has not said its last word."

The Belgrade correspondent of the Times telegraphs as follows: "There has not been since the beginning of the war such depression as now exists, not only in Belgrade, but throughout Servia. All ranks of people would most gladly welcome peace. It now appears that the Servians, with the view of intimidating the Turks, have purposely exaggerated the number of Russian volunteers. Not more than 10,000 having really arrived in the country. The apathy shown by the Servians concerning the progress of the war is something that, under similar circumstances, could scarcely be found in any country of the world. Although the reports of the capture of Djunis have been current twenty-four hours, not a single Servian manifests the least curiosity about it. Yet the feeling of coming disaster is general. If Djunis really is taken Russia might well avail herself of her present influence to bring about an immediate peace; and from what I hear, I shall not be surprised if she makes the attempt. Without her assistance, Servia must, to all appearances, very soon succumb."

All the correspondents agree as to the collapse of the spirit of the Servian population. They also confirm the news that a battle was progressing yesterday before Deligrad. From the fact that fighting is still going on in that direction it is inferred that perhaps the Turks have not yet gained possession of Djunis.

TURKEY AND THE OTHER POWERS.

MURDER OF A TURKISH OFFICIAL — GEN. IGNATIEFF PRESENTS HIS CREDENTIALS AT CONSTANTINOPLE — SENTIMENT IN FRANCE—BRITISH TROOPS FOR MALTA.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A dispatch from Paris to Reuter's Telegram Company says: "Intelligence has been received here that the Turkish Consul and his wife at Tiflis, the capital city of Georgia, in Asiatic Russia, have been assassinated."

A St. Petersburg dispatch says: "It is stated that that assassination of the Turkish representative at Tiflis was not due to political motives."

Several more arrests have been made in Constantinople in consequence of the conspiracy to assassinate the Grand Vizier and Midhat Pasha.

Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador to Constantinople, presented his credentials to the Sultan yesterday, and subsequently had a private interview with him.

The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon says: "We are informed that M. John Lemoinne has severed his connection with the Journal des Débats, because he wished to advocate the partition of Turkey as opposed to the policy of England, while the proprietors of that paper, including M. Léon Say, the Minister of Finance, are opposed to that position."

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Financier says: It is understood, in view of the possibility of further are these politicians who profess to be about to restore the national credit? They are the same Democratic leaders who sixteen years ago went out of power, and who had reduced the credit of this great country, in a time of profound peace, to such a pass that its six per cent. bonds were sold by Mr. Buchanan to pay debts incurred during his administration, at twelve per cent. discount. At such rates they were peddled in Europe, to pay, not a war debt, but a peace debt, incurred, not by preceding Administrations, but by that which was then in power. That was the credit of the Government under the last Democratic Administration. Six per cent. bonds at twelve per cent. discount. They were sold for eighty-eight cents on the dollar. The same kind of bonds which these Democrats under Buchanan sold for twelve per cent. discount are now quoted in the market at from fifteen to twenty-six per cent. premium, depending upon the time that they have to run—with twenty years to run they sell as high as twenty-five or twenty-six per cent. premium. The difference between Democratic and Republican credit is not less than twenty-five per cent. in favor of the Republicans. These are the men who propose to restore the public credit. But it was not one week after that resolution was thus put forth, at St. Louis, before the Government had negotiated $300,000,000 of its four and a half bonds at par; and even these four and a half per cent. bonds now bear a premium in the market. When was the credit of this Government as high before? Never. No Democratic Administration ever approached it, or ever will; and no Republican Administration has ever before made so favorable a negotiation. The truth is that the credit of the country never stood so high before. Yet these worst of all financiers ask to be trusted with the Government that they may reform its credit.

THE SINS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The Republican Party (whatever else may be said of it,) has been, and is, true to the interests of the country. It has met the great and unprecedented obstacles to the success of the Government. It has met great and unprecedented questions in administration, and has solved them all. It carried the war successfully through; it called forth the patriotism of the country, and guided it to a successful result. It met the questions of reconstruction—great, difficult, original—and solved them, one after another, bravely, and, as the judgment of the country now decides, wisely. In all these great measures it has met the decided opposition of the Democratic Party. When the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments were adopted, it was done in the face of the opposition of all that class of politicians who to-day make the Democratic Party, among whom are the candidates for President and Vice President on the Democratic ticket. They pronounced these amendments invalid, unconstitutional and void. They opposed their adoption, and when adopted, pronounced them void and unconstitutional. The Republican Party has acted in good faith. It has adopted all its measures boldly, and has succeeded in them all. The Democratic Party, on the other hand, occasioned the war by its corrupt alliance with the slave-holding faction. It opposed the war, and declared that there was no power to coerce a sovereign State and prevent its seceding from the Union. The Democratic Party upheld State Rights, and declared that the Constitution was a compact, from which any State could secede. It opposed all the war measures and all the measures of reconstruction; and in the last year of the war—in 1864, on the 29th of August—the Democratic Party seemed to have a revival. These politicians were filled with a new hope; and when they assembled at Chicago, they resolved that this war had been waged four years in vain, was a failure, and ought to be abandoned. It should be borne in mind that in that Convention the present Democratic candidate for President, Samuel J. Tilden, was a member. It should also be borne in mind that he was also a member of the committee which drafted and reported that resolution, and that he voted for the resolution. It should be remembered that when the resolution that resolution was adopted the greatest battles of the war had already been fought. Forts Donaldson and Henry had been taken, the line in Kentucky had been broken, the enemy driven back from the Ohio, the battles of Gettysburg and Antietam had been fought and won, and the great campaign of Vicksburg had been triumphantly ended. New-Orleans had been taken, the Mississippi had been opened from the Ohio to its mouth, and our ships had free passage in that river. The battles of Mission Ridge, Shiloh, and Corinth had been fought, and Sherman had made his way from Chattanooga to Atlanta. Grant had fought it out all Summer on the line from the Rappahannock to the James, investing and holding Richmond and Petersburg within his grasp, from which they never escaped. And yet, then, in that last year of the war, after all these great achievements, after the forts which had been betrayed and surrendered to the enemy at the beginning had all been recovered, then they sent forth this resolution to discourage our men in the field and to encourage the enemy. For they knew that that resolution, while it would reach our army and while what great peril it could do to discourage the soldiers in the field in enduring the hardships of war, would not be limited in its circulation to our side of the line, but would cross over and say to the rebels "hold on, hold on; we will yet find a way to relieve you of your embarrassment, and make terms of peace which shall save your honor." Nothing more treasonable happened on either side of the line during the memorable history of that war.

HAYES AND TILDEN CONTRASTED.

And while Tilden and Hendricks were at Chicago, concocting and voting for this resolution of discouragement to our army and encouragement to the army of our enemies, where was Rutherford B. Hayes? He was in the field, where he had been from the beginning of the war, risking his life for the life of the country. He was on the Shenandoah under Sheridan; and fortunately it so happened that on that memorable last week of the month of August, 1864, these two candidates each drew his own picture in indelible colors. Tilden drew his in that resolution that the war was a failure and ought to be abandoned. It so happened that at that time the Second District of the State of Ohio had nominated Gen. Hayes for Congress, and a friend had written to him notifying him of that fact, and urging him to get a furlough that he might aid in the canvass. On the 24th of August, 1864, he wrote the following characteristic letter:

CAMP OF SHERIDAN'S ARMY,
NEAR CHARLESTON, Va., Aug. 24, 1864.

FRIEND S.: Your favor of the 7th came to hand on Monday. It was the first I had heard of the doings of the Second District Convention. My thanks for your attention and assistance in the premises. I cared very little about being a candidate, but having consented to the use of my name, I prefer to succeed. Your suggestion about getting a furlough to take the stump was certainly made without reflection. No officer fit for duty, who, at this crisis, would abandon his post to electioneer for a seat in Congress, ought to be scalped. You may feel perfectly sure I shall do no such thing. We are, and for two weeks past have been, in the immediate presence of a large rebel army. We have skirmishing and small affairs constantly. I am not posted in the policy deemed wise at head-quarters, and can't guess as to the prospects of a general engagement. The condition and spirit of this Army are good and improving. I suspect the enemy are sliding around us toward the Potomac. If they cross, we shall pretty certainly have a meeting. Sincerely, R. B. HAYES.

Here we have Gen. Hayes "in the immediate presence of a large rebel army," watching for a decisive engagement and expecting it, unwilling to leave his place for civil promotion, showing a zeal and patriotism worthy of universal admiration. On the other hand, we have Mr. Tilden evidently associated with and sharing in proceedings which tended to divide our country in that great struggle; looking anxiously for some method by which to relieve the rebels from their embarrassment, sympathizing in their cause rather than in our own. There are some things which a great people can forgive, but can never forget; and this is one. When, in a great crisis of the fate of the country, when a great and perilous war is pending, a man prominent in the community sympathizes with the wrong side against his country, (though it may be by mistake,) it can never be forgotten, when he asks to be made President of the United States.

THE ALLIANCE BETWEEN THE DEMOCRACY, THE SOLID SOUTH, AND THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The Democratic Party, in their platform at St. Louis, resolved "that reform can never be effected but by making it the controling question at the election, and lifting it above the two false issues with which the Republicans have sought to smother it"—first, the false issue of the school question; second, the false issue of a solid South. Why, do these politicians find it necessary to insert in this first issue, "without largesses from the Treasury to any." Who has made "largesses from the Treasury to any?" Not the Republicans. They always opposed anything of that kind; but the Democrats have made largesses out of the public Treasury of New-York to an immense amount for sectarian schools, and, therefore, this was as much as to say, "Although we have done this thing before, we never will do it again. You may trust us." Upon these two issues, which they call "false"—the common schools and the solid South—they expect to obtain more electoral votes than upon all other issues. By the well-understood sympathy between the Democratic Party and the Confederate South, they expect to receive the solid vote of the South, made solid by fraud and intimidation of Republican voters, irrespective of any political principle whatever. Their alliance with the South is essentially corrupt. It has no regard to any political principle. It is founded upon understood mutual good offices—that the Democratic Party shall promote the interests of the Confederate South, and the Confederate South shall contribute to the power of the Democratic Party.

Now, the second "false issue" they call the "bloody shirt." It is simply a question whether the Republicans of the South shall be permitted to vote, or whether, by murder, intimidation, and fraud, they shall be deprived of that privilege. The white-line Democrats of the Southern States (formerly slaveholders and owners of the principal part of the property of that country) have made up their minds that this is the white man's Government, and that the negroes, although made free by the thirteenth amendment, citizens by the fourteenth, and voters by the fifteenth, shall nevertheless not be permitted to vote unless they vote the Democratic ticket. They are determined that they will give to the Democratic Party the solid vote of the South. They have great and overshadowing motives for carrying out that arrangement. They have promised the Democrats of the North the solid South, and they succeed in reducing the negro voters to subjection, intimidating them and compelling them to vote the Democratic ticket or none at all, then they will have a political power greater than they had before the war. Then five negroes were counted as three citizens, while now five negroes are counted as five citizens. They would gain, then, by the emancipation and constitutional amendments, two-fifths more power than they had before, creating a more formidable aristocracy than ever existed before in this country. If they can reduce the negroes to a solid Democratic vote at this one election, and secure the State Governments as well as the United States Government all into the hands of the Democracy, they expect to hold a permanent lease of power in the politics of the Southern States; and at no future election will the Republicans stand any chance at all in any Southern State, but the solid South and the corrupt Democratic Party will govern the country. This is one of the great motives on the part of the ambitious leaders of the South.

THE DEMOCRATIC OUTRAGES IN THE SOUTH.

It is the policy of the Democratic Party (who are determined by all the means within their reach, right or wrong, to get into power) to deny the means which are used by their Southern allies to make the vote of the South solid. They deny intimidation and violence and fraud; and however much, and however clearly, it is proved, it is stoutly denied and discredited. But, nevertheless, it is true. Nothing in history was ever better proved. Nothing is more unquestionable than that the white leaders of the South are intimidating the colored voters, and the Republican voters, whether white or colored, threatening them, murdering them, driving them away from the country, or compelling them to vote the Democratic ticket, and, in truth, making it unsafe for either white or colored people to live in the South unless they shall consent to vote the Democratic ticket. It is not a pleasant thing to dwell upon; it is not a pleasant thing to charge upon a great party such violation of all principle either of humanity or of constitutional law; but, nevertheless, it is our duty in this canvass, in order to prevent the dangerous consequences which would succeed to such a combination—such a corrupt and unprincipled combination—I say it is our duty to present the evidence and state the facts on the subject. Information comes daily to the Department of Justice of the wrongs and outrages committed against the Republicans by the Democratic Party of the South. Yet this is denied on the part of the Democrats of the North. They disbelieve, they disapprove on that subject is that when a party persistently expresses disbelief of the fact of these outrages when well proved, it must be upon the principle that they have come to the conclusion of the Ku-klux Klans, that this should be a white man's Government, that the negro should not be permitted to vote, and that the end justifies the means," however barbarous the means may be. Now, they deny the facts. As we go into the estimating of the evidence of the facts we should consider the purpose of the South as evidenced by her representatives and by her press; and in order to show what we ought to expect, I must read a few paragraphs showing what was in the minds of the ruling people of that part of the country before the war began, and in the early stages of it. In the first place I will refer to the testimony of Hon. Robert Toombs, formerly Senator from Georgia in the United States Senate, a truly representative man of the governing class in the South. He, in a speech delivered to the Legislature of Georgia on the 25th of January of the present year, said:

"We got a good many honest fellows into the first Legislature, but I will tell you where we got them there. I will tell you the truth. The newspapers won't tell it to you. We got them there by carrying the black vote by intimidation and bribery; and I helped to do it. I would have scorned the people if they had not done it. The people are the sovereign. Do you suppose I am serving you or me? It takes the highest order of intellect to govern the people. And these poor wretches talk of governments! Why, they could not perpetuate their own negro power. In the counties where the whites were in the majority they did not preserve their power and perpetuate their rule. My remedy helped to break that up. We carried them with us by bribery and intimidation. I advised it, and paid my money for it. You all know it, but won't say it."

From the Meridian Mercury of Nov. 20, 1875, is the following extract. The Meridian Mercury, I ought to say, is the leading prominent paper of the Democratic Party:

"We have to contend with the blunder of the fifteenth amendment, while it stands, as best we can. Ridiculous appeals to the reason and judgment of the negro have been the cause of incalculable injury in the inflation of his vanity, and making him believe that he was of real consequence as a governing element in the body politic. Now that the negro in this State is down, and his personal self-conceit knocked out of him, it is probable that it is time for the white people to impress upon him that the white people in future will control the politics of this State, and that he should keep himself in his proper sphere, and leave to the intelligent white man the exclusive statecraft for the best interest of both races. Impress him continually with the idea of his unfitness for the ballot, and that his proper place on election day is away from the polls."

Another extract is from the Okolona (Miss.) States of Nov. 25, 1875:

"The Radical Party of Mississippi contend that intimidation won the white-line victory. It is not the first time, neither will it be the last time, in which intimidation has been successfully used. The white man has been intimidated in time past, and we wonder which has the best of the bargain. We are so situated that we are obliged to fight the devil with fire. Let the white man, then, be not afraid to intimidate evildoers. Intimidation is legitimate—perfectly legitimate."

THE MISSISSIPPI PLAN RECOMMENDED.

We find in the Mobile Register, the leading paper of Alabama, of Aug. 10, 1876:

"There is a majority of 30,000 negroes over the white vote of the State, which is no larger than that which the Mississippi Democracy so triumphantly overcame a year ago. The same obstacles and the same incentives exist in South Carolina as exist in Mississippi, and an effort made in the Palmetto State like that which crushed Mississippi in the hands of the patriots may well result in a deliverance no less successful and joyous. The convention which recently sat with closed doors and nominated Lieut. Gen. Wade Hampton, of Confederate fame, for Governor, decided to carry the Mississippi plan into immediate and effective operation. According to the census of 1875 the white population of the State was 350,000 and the colored population 572,000, giving a colored majority of 222,000. The colored voting majority is about 44,000."

The Democratic papers of each of the Southern States have plainly declared their purpose to carry the negro vote by intimidation and bribery and fraud, or whatever means are necessary to the great end of making the South solid for the Democratic Party. Having declared that purpose, we are not to be surprised when confronted with evidence of the fact, as it is, that they send messages to the North now that they are quiet and peaceful, and the same policy is pursued among the Democrats of the North by discrediting all reports of violence. But that violence exists, or did exist prior to the issuing of the recent proclamation, is beyond all question. Cruelties, equal to any ever committed in the civilized world, are proved over and over again in many parts of the Southern States. Whenever it is necessary to intimidate and drive away from the polls colored Republicans, there is found in the South violence, intimidation, and bribery. The case of Hamburg, in South Carolina, is in point. It is more notorious than many, because the principal actor in it was a man of great notoriety, Gen. Butler. But the case is typical of those which are happening every day in other parts of that State. Here was a street 150 feet wide, passable in every part of it. A little company of colored men were drilling in the middle portion of it. Two young men drove up in a buggy, and insisted upon going right through the centre, ordering the company to break ranks for that purpose. After a short parley the company did open and let them go through; and yet those young bloods went to the Justice and entered a complaint against this company for obstructing highways, and the case was set for trial—not that any trial was anticipated, but this was made an occasion for bringing in four or five hundred mounted men—armed white men, "rifle clubs"—to slaughter and intimidate the colored men in that vicinity. They brought over a cannon and planted it against an armory in which the colored people had sought refuge. They drove them out and took their arms, which they had no more right to take than they had to steal. They took the most prominent of these men, led them away one after another like sheep, and shot them down in the immediate vicinity. These armed white men kill the colored men and steal their property, and yet it is impossible to bring them to justice. Such is the state of the public mind in that section of the country. It is not necessary that I should enumerate, for it would be tedious, but I refer to and numerous instances of murder and intimidation have taken place in Mississippi, in South Carolina, in Florida, in Texas, and in Alabama.

THE PRINCIPLES OF THE KUKLUX KLAN STILL PREVAILING.

The tenor of the accounts which we have received from all the Southern States in which elections are important, and where the Republican voters are numerous, indicate that the principle of the Kuklux Klans still prevails in that section of the country. That principle is, that the white man shall govern the country; that this is a white man's Government; that the negro shall not be permitted to have influence by his vote. To accomplish this purpose the Confederate Democrats of the South have formed an alliance with the Democracy of the North to accomplish the purpose of overwhelming the colored vote, and substantially annulling the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States. To understand the spirit of this combination I knew of a better method than to recur to the organization of the Kuklux Klan, which was tolerated and encouraged in the South, and which could only have been checked or suppressed by the interposition of the National Government. The State Judiciary was found entirely inadequate to protect the colored people against the outrages and murders committed by that organization. It is to the courts of the United States, and the District Attorneys and other officers connected with such courts, that we are indebted for the detection and bringing to justice of some of the Kuklux ruffians. They proceeded with more secrecy than the organizations which are now operating in that country but with the same general purpose and with about the same recklessness of life and incredible cruelty toward the negro. The United States Attorneys succeeded in employing a detective, who joined one of the Kuklux organizations, and went through all the ceremonies and thus became possessed of all their secrets as well as the membership of those organizations to a very large extent, and when the District Attorneys had made numerous arrests of members of the associations, and made them aware of his knowledge of their secret proceedings and organization, there were some who turned State's evidence. Many convictions resulted, checking, if not entirely suppressing, their operations for a time. There is no doubt that these organizations had for their purpose the suppression of the negro vote, and perhaps there is no better index to the general object of the Kuklux Klan, and of the parties now operating in the South to deter the colored men from voting, than the oath which was taken by the members of the Kuklux organization, and I therefore give a copy of the "oath of the second or supreme degree" of that organization:

I, A. B., in the presence of Almighty God, and these my friends here assembled, kneeling, at this altar, with my right hand resting on the holy Bible, and my left washed in the blood of a traitor, and resting upon the skull of his brother in iniquity, and being fully impressed with the sacredness of this act, do solemnly swear that I will uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States, as it was handed down by our forefathers, in its original purity; that I will reject and oppose the principles of the Radical Party in all its forms, and forever maligain and contend that intelligent white men shall govern this country, and I furthermore swear that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the Order of the Constitutional Union Guards, and will never make known, by sign, word or deed, any of its secrets now about to be, or that may hereafter be revealed to me; that I will obey all it precepts, mandates, orders, instructions and directions issued through the Commander, and aid and assist the brethren in carrying out and enforcing the same; and that I will keep secret, even unto death, the plans and movemen s of this society. I furthermore swear to obey the South Commander in the Camp, in preference to any known law, precept, or command that ever was, and defend the brethren, if need be, with the sacrifice of my life. I swear that the enemies of the white man's race, and the white man's government, and the friends of negroes equality, shall be my enemies, and that I will uphold and defend the white man's Government against all comers, whether in the name of radicals, negro-worshippers, carpet-baggers, scallawags, or mules in hand. I swear to forever oppose the social and political elevation of the negro to an equality with the whites, and that I will come at every hour of the moon to execute the trust confided to me by the Commander and the brethren. I further swear that, in case of our being interrupted in the establishment of the principles for which we are contending, that I will regard no oath that will conflict with those of the members of this Order, but under all circumstances will stand to the end of my blood and death. I furthermore swear that I will not give the signal cry of distress, only when in real distress, and that I will yield my life, if necessary, in aid of a brother giving the double cry of this degree. Lastly, I swear that I this white skull and this blood, that should I ever prove unfaithful in any particular to the obligation I have now assumed, I hope to meet with the fearful and just penalty of the traitor, which is Death! Death! DEATH! at the hands of the brethren, so help me God.

The consciences of these men seemed to be seared, so far as wrongs heaped upon the colored race were concerned, and the same seems to be the case at the present time. The murder of a half-dozen negroes makes no impression—in many cases is not noticed in the newspapers; while the killing of a white man creates as great sensation in that country as in other countries.

GOV. CHAMBERLAIN'S STATEMENTS OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA OUTRAGES.

Probably there is no more authentic account of the condition of that part of the country at the present time in relation to these violent outrages than that given by Gov. Chamberlain. Gov. Chamberlain has had great experience in the South. He is a man of very great intelligence, of superior education and ability; a just man, who has sought by all means to conciliate the extremes of society in the State of South Carolina; has instituted important reforms in the Government of that State; has been a good Governor, by the acknowledgment of the Democratic Party; has not been an extreme party man, but a reliable man, and a man so just and discreet in his conduct of the affairs of that State, and in his treatment of the different political parties, that a considerable portion of the Democratic Party had contemplated voting for him as Governor. But at the present time I have no doubt a sense of honor has been checked, by reason of his interposing to prevent the perpetration of outrages upon the colored people by the whites. He has been renominated for Governor by the Republicans, and is now their candidate. But the purposes of the Democratic Party are not answered by having such a man for Governor. They are determined to place the power of their State Government in the hands of the Democratic Party, in order to give to that party a solid South, and to give to it the predominating power over the country, through the Democratic Party, constituting a majority of the Democratic majority. But we may rely upon the statements of Gov. Chamberlain. We are indebted to him for the first and thorough investigation in a manner in which the outrages were committed upon the negroes at Hamburg, and for the statement of the principle of action by which it was committed, and of the true relation of the Confederate Democrats with the Republicans in South Carolina. Evidence was taken sustaining what the Governor stated in his communication to the President of the United States on that subject. He forwards the evidence on which his statements are based, and from the testimony of the Democrats, such as that at Hamburg, while they are not approved by the better class of white men, are not so far disapproved as to be prevented, or as to secure any active measures toward the prevention of the recurrence of them, and that all such outrages in South Carolina encourage the Democratic Party and depress the Republicans; that the outrages are on the part of the Democratic Party, and that there are no measures taken to check or prevent a recurrence of such outrages. There is no sympathy expressed for the colored people who are slain or outraged. And now, as we draw nearer to the election, the plans of the dominating race become more manifest. They have formed "rifle clubs" in all the counties of the State, as we are informed by Gov. Chamberlain; and these "rifle clubs" are intended to awe and terrify the colored race to such an extent as to prevent them from voting any other than the Democratic ticket. These "rifle clubs" consist of great numbers of men armed and mounted, and they pass from town to town, or from precinct to precinct, and the purpose is to prevent any Republican meeting from being held, and to control it if held. They come mounted and armed to every Republican meeting that is appointed, demand half the time, surround the stand with these horsemen armed and in a threatening attitude, demand half the time at the point of the musket, and when they obtain it allowing the Democratic side to harangue the negroes as much as there assembled, but forbidding and preventing any free speech on the part of the Republicans, the purpose being by every means to intimidate and prevent any free conference of the Republicans previous and preparatory to election; to inspire the negroes with fear and terror by their constant presence at every meeting, riding up and down in the country. Everywhere their presence on horseback armed is a menace; and however they may smile and pretend that they do not mean to intimidate, the very fact that they are riding about armed at public meetings called by the Republicans, demanding half time and creating great disturbance so as to prevent any useful effect from the discussion, is evidence of their violent, unlawful, insurrectionary, and outrageous character. The State Government is wholly unable to restrain them. They are forbidden by the statute law. They have been forbidden by the Governor of the State. They defy all attempts to try them. The number of negroes that have been slain by these men is pretty large; but no one has ever been held to any accountability in any court. They have mainly escaped responsibility to the United States Courts on the ground that murder and assault and battery, as well as robbery and most other felonies, are State wrongs, and that those who commit them are not responsible to the United States Government; that they are offenders against the Government of the State, and that therefore it is only in the courts of the State that the offenders are responsible; and it is only recently that any man in any of these States has been held responsible or convicted for killing a negro. The result is that the negroes are in a pitiable condition. They are like sheep exposed to the ravages of of wolves. Unless they defend themselves, or have the United States Government to defend them, they have no chance of escape by any other means than agreeing to vote the Democratic ticket, for whatever white man chooses to kill them is free from all responsibility. It is far worse now than in the time of slavery, because it these negroes were owned there would be a sort of protection to them, as property of their owners, against the violence and destruction of murderers. But, now, as they are owned by nobody, they are the property of nobody, and nobody is interested to protect them. But as they can vote, the members of the Democratic Party, against which they would naturally vote, are interested to kill them, unless they can intimidate them and keep them from the polls. Intimidate is the term by which those who are encouraging these outrages in the South—the denial of the existence of any such condition of things—would be unsurpassed impudence, were it not that they are in pursuance of a plot by which to secure the solid South to the Democratic Party. The terror inspired in the minds of the negroes by the consciousness of the truth of the statement is distressing, and this is the case not only with the negroes but also with the white men who are disposed to do justice.

THE PLAN IN MISSISSIPPI.

It is to be borne in mind that this dominating class in whose interest, if not by whom, these outrages are committed, and are being daily committed, own all the railroads, or control them, and control the telegraph service of that part of the country, and are possessed of nearly all the property of the country, so that they have favors to give and favors to withhold from the negroes, by which they can influence their action in a very great degree, without reference to threat and violence. It is for this reason that all the accounts of outrages that occur in that country are told by themselves through the telegraph wires, and that the final and authentic accounts which we receive of the outrages that are committed are almost entirely different from the first statements which appear by the telegrams. By their superior wealth and control of the means of transportation and communication the dominating class are able to concentrate their power at any given point and overcome the colored people, commit outrages which cannot be resisted and move from point to point. Hence they are ready at all times to overawe any loose meeting of the Republicans, and the impertinence, the insolence, and the violence with which they have exercised that control in preventing any free discussion by the Republicans at their meetings, has been simply intolerable. It has been insufferable, because there has been utterly uncontrolled, and uncontrollable, by any authority of the State Government. This insolence has been exercised against the Governor himself. Wherever he has spoken, or attempted to canvass the State, he has been met by this same insolence, which has prevented him or any one else from having any reasonable hearing whatever. The result of this whole discussion is, "Shall the fifteenth amendment be given up?" Shall the right of suffrage be taken from the negro? Shall the Southern white men, who formerly owned the negroes and wielded a political power on account of such ownership, limited by three-fifths of their number, be allowed now, by the suppression of the colored votes, to wield two-fifths more power on their account than they could have done before the war, holding them as slaves? It is the simple question, shall we give it up, and let the principle that this is the white man's Government be carried out in the South by ignoring and overturning the rights of the colored man? We are brought to that question now We this crisis. If the Democratic Party can seize by force the political power in South Carolina, as it has already done in Mississippi, and possess all the machinery of the State Government, with the purpose which that party have, it is clear that the right of the negro to suffrage is gone. And it comes to be a great question, both in and out of the country, of a consummation of villainy will be upon the destiny of this Nation in the future, and what steps the present Government ought to take to prevent it.

THE REBEL WAR CLAIMS.

The rebel war claims which have been presented for allowance to the House of Representatives in Congress have been so far recognized that members of the House have introduced bills for their allowance and payment, and these bills have been referred to appropriate committees. There have been introduced bills of a general nature, under which claims of a class could be allowed and paid, and bills for the payment of special claims. The amount of the claims for which provision is thus sought to be made is immense, and would nearly if not quite duplicate our war debt. Nor do these claims generally fall under the fourteenth amendment, which is appealed to as a protection against them. The fourteenth amendment guards against appropriations for the payment of the value of slaves made free, or for debts "incurred in aid of rebellion." These claims are for the use of property occupied by the United States Army while on rebel territory, and for supplies taken for the Army. These claims are not forbidden by the Constitution, but only or an act of Congress, which can be repealed or changed by Congress. Of this proposed legislation now pending before Congress there are twenty-seven bills of a general nature and about three hundred and fifty for the allowance and payment of private claims for damages by the United States, going virtually upon the idea that the army when in the Confederate States was a trespasser and that the Government should pay the damages. One bill proposes to refund to the claimants $68,072,000 collected as the internal revenue tax on cotton in 1863 and subsequently. Another is, H. R. No. 533, by Hon. W. W. Wilshire, Arkansas: "To facilitate the adjustment and settlement of claims of citizens of the United States for stores and supplies taken or furnished during the rebellion for the use of the army of the United States;" including the use and loss of vessels and boats, by authorizing suits to be instituted in the United States Court in the district wherein the property was taken or used, such suits to be tried "by said courts in the same manner and by the same rules of evidence as that now prescribed by law for the trial of civil causes in the Circuit Courts of the United States;" that is, by juries of the vicinage. Judgments rendered by said courts to be paid out of a general appropriation for such claims by the Secretary of the Treasury—the Southern Claims Commission to be abolished, and with it all tests of loyalty.

No man can tell what would be the amount of claims which could be presented under this bill, if it should become a law, and I know of no Constitutional provision which would prevent its becoming a law. Another is: H. R. No. 1674, by Hon. W. M. Levy, of Louisiana, and H. R. No. 1883, by Hon. F. H. Hurd, of Ohio, propose to reopen the Court of Claims to claimants for the proceeds of captured and abandoned property, without regard to loyalty; and the former also provides for abolishing the Southern Claims Commission, and referring to said court all claims for stores and supplies taken from citizens of the insurrectionary States, including use and loss of vessels and boats, rent and occupation of houses and buildings, and such stores as lumber, tobacco, sugar, &c., without respect to loyalty of claimant. Another bill refunds $2,492,110 collected as direct tax in the Southern States, and remits a larger amount due, but not collected. I mention these only as specimens of the bills of a general nature. It is not necessary to give any of these of a private nature. It is enough to know that three hundred and fifty of them already been introduced and are pending before Congress. It is estimated that these claims and those which belong to the classes covered by this proposed legislation amount to more than $2,500,000,000; and if they shall be let in, it is impossible to fix a limit. Estimates in such cases generally fall short of the reality.

Whereas, It has been made known to me by written and sworn evidence that there exists such unlawful organizations, combinations, and assemblages of persons in the Counties of Aiken and Barnwell, that it has become impracticable, in my judgment as Governor of the State, to enforce by the ordinary course of judicial proceeding the laws of the State within said counties, by reason whereof it has become necessary, in my judgment as Governor, to call forth and employ the military force of the State to enforce the faithful execution of the laws; and

Whereas, It has been made known to me as Governor that certain organizations of men exist in all the counties of the State, commonly known as "rifle clubs;" and

Whereas, Such organizations and combinations of men are illegal and strictly forbidden by the laws of the State; and

Whereas, Such organizations and combinations of men are engaged in promoting illegal objects and in committing open acts of lawlessness and violence;

Now, therefore, I, Daniel H. Chamberlain, Governor of said State, do issue this my proclamation, &c.

The petition of the Governor to the President of the United States informs him that "insurrection and violence exist in the Counties of Aiken, Barnwell, and Edgefield, against the peace and Government of this State to such an extent that I am unable with any means at my command to suppress the same; that the Legislature of the State is not now in session and cannot be convened; wherefore, by virtue of the power in me vested by the Constitution and laws of this State, and in accordance with the provisions of article 4, section 4, of the Constitution of the United States, and of section 5,297 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, I do call upon you to aid me in suppressing said insurrection and domestic violence by the powers conferred upon you by the Constitution of the United States."

The petition on account of which the proclamation to which I have referred, and both show that these outrages continue wholly uncontrollable by any power in the hands of the Governor, and amount to utter subversion of legal authority in the State. No man is better able, from his experience as well as his discretion and judgment, to state the truth on this subject than Gov. Chamberlain, having himself attempted to canvass the State and been overawed and prevented from doing so by these armed organizations, which are expressly forbidden by the statutes of the State, organizations which are persistently used for the purpose of intimidating the Republicans and preventing them from holding political meetings or enjoying free discussion on political subjects. The Governor has issued his proclamation, and has gone to Aiken, Abbeville, at Newberry, at Midway, and at Lancaster, in all of which meetings these rioters, on horseback, armed, were present and overawed the assembly and suffered no free discussion, heaping insult and menace upon the Governor and those who were with him, utterly destroying the usefulness of the meeting so called, and intimidating and terrifying the colored people with fear. These occurrences, and such as these, have given the Governor a personal knowledge which gives weight to his testimony. Upon this statement and this evidence the President issued his proclamation commanding the perpetrators of violence, and the unlawful organizations, to disperse and disband, and summit themselves to the law and be peaceful citizens, and caused an order to be issued for the sending such force of troops as should make effectual his proclamation.

There can be no doubt of the sufficiency of the facts stated by the Governor to justify his demand. But there is not only no ground to question the truth of the Governor's statement, but the evidence of their truth is proved from other and independent sources, as has already been shown. If we had not the numerous murders recurring from day to day, and the frightful intimidation to the white as well as colored Republicans, and it we had not the evidence from the press and otherwise that the Democratic Party of South Carolina were determined to adopt the shot-gun policy of Mississippi, we should, nevertheless, have abundant evidence, from the embodiment, mounting, and arming of the rifle companies in all the counties of the State, which are and have been formed in violation of the express laws of the State, and which ride up and down in the country attending political meetings of the Republicans, and are present a standing menace, and causing riot and disturbance at the meetings, wholly inconsistent with any free discussion of political subjects, and evidently intended to intimidate the Republicans, and having that effect. These lawless and threatening armed bodies of men are defiant of the authority of the Governor of the State and of all legal control. They override all law, and whom they will they abuse and insult, and whom they will they kill. Now, upon this call from the Governor of South Carolina how else could the President act than as he did? If any man thinks that Gen. Grant will shrink from the performance of a high duty because it is difficult or perilous, such a man does not comprehend the character of the President. No man and no President ever had more respect to the just rights of the States, or was ever more reluctant to send military forces into their confines. But in the present case he had no choice. The case, proved to his entire satisfaction, required that he should use the power in the hands for the restoration and preservation of the public peace, and to protect the weak and peaceable citizens against the ruffianly strong, who were rising against the authority of the State. With this sigh but plain duty before him, independent of and absolutely without regard to party politics, the President acted for the public good. The policy of the Democratic leaders to discredit all statements of facts showing violence and outrage and intimidation, is not at all unlike that which was persistently adopted in the time of the Kuklux Klans, which committed untold horrors. The Democratic leaders, both North and South, denied the existence of such organizations, and derided the narratives, as they now deride the bloody shirt. Nor was there moral force enough in any Southern State to detect and punish any of the guilty in any State court. It was reserved for the United States officers to detect and bring to justice the members of these associations of fiends. When those clubs were revealed, with all their guilt and cruelty, the community which had discredited their existence, and had failed to bring them to justice, had no longer the effrontery to defend them. So now the Democratic leaders discredit everything relating to the cruelties and intimidation of the Whitelin ers and the "rifle clubs;" they hold them to be the mildest mannered and most innocent of men, who are only going about to preserve the peace, and taking their guns along to prevent the negroes from being rude. The facts are too plain to admit of doubt in the mind of any man who regards evidence.

MR. MURAT HALSTEAD'S SPEECH.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: The October elections this year have not decided the November election. That has been referred to New-York. I am here to speak of a matter of business connected with the election, and the letter from the Democratic candidate for the Presidency published this morning certifies the importance of that business. I propose to speak of the public peril—of the war claims of the solid South—of the new Southern Confederacy, with the Democratic Party as its claim agency, demanding indemnity for conquest, and threatening a disputed Presidential election, which would reduce the American Republic to the grade of Mexico. I propose also to show that the Southern claims are greater in proportion than the national debt, and that the idea at the root of the matter is the adoption of the Confederate system of finance—the issue of legal-tender paper to pay the claims, a policy that would reduce the finances, the credit, the bonds of the nation to a level with those of the Southern Confederacy—the level of hopeless bankruptcy. I propose to speak, too, of the reorganization of the Confederate Army, equipped with pocket pistols and shot-guns, to disregard the only condition enforced by the nation when the Confederacy was crushed by military force—that of manhood suffrage—and by disfranchisement by the deadly Derringer, carry the Republican States of the South for the Democratic Party. Mr. Tilden, as anyone can see by the first page of the last issue of Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, is a gentleman in the bloom of early manhood, standing in an attitude that recalls the first Napoleon, before the door of the Treasury. I am at a loss to know whether it is Mr. Tilden's apparent youth and innocence, or his probable excess of occupation preventing the study of the subject, that has caused his singularly complete misapprehension of the extent and character of the Confederate war claims, and of his own relations to them. As for the restraints that he assumes to impose upon himself, in the letter in which he testifies to the critical importance of the war claims urged by the united South, the gentleman has forgotten that no longer ago than in the first week of August he reminded his countrymen, when accepting the nomination of the St. Louis Convention that "experience had repeatedly exposed the futility of self-imposed instructions by candidates." It must have been an imperative sense of the necessity of saying something, and that quickly, that overcame what we may assume was the natural reluctance of Gov. Tilden, after announcing the futility of self-imposed restraints, in such cases, to make proclamation of the restraints that he presumes he imposes on himself. He tells us what he will do, if he is elected President, respecting the provisions of the fourteenth amendment, which do not apply to the Southern claims that we are talking about. We refer to claims for damages to Southern property—claims that property was taken for the use of the Army. And the truth is, if we are living under a confederate form of Government—if the national soldiers were trespassers upon the soil of seceded States—the Confederate war claims are just, and ought to be paid.

The sensibility of Gov. Tilden on this subject is worthy of all praise, but we must take his word for it that such a self-imposed restraint has been shown by experience to be futile. There is one restraint in which I have confidence, and only one, and that is to restrain the Governor of New-York from becoming President of the United States. The Governor of Ohio is the better man for the place. He was himself a trespasser on Southern soil when it was made sacred by secession, and if he is elected President we shall not be troubled by the Confederate war claims.

THE SOLID SOUTH DEMANDING INDEMNITY FROM THE NORTH.

When Germany crushed the military Empire of France she demanded an indemnity for her trouble. The conqueror gathered the spoil with the glory. The American Republic trampled down the Southern Confederacy, and the Confederates, revived and restored to citizenship, feel that justice requires in their behalf a reversal of all the precedents of warfare, and are confidently requiring, as a peace offering from those who overcame them, compensation for losses suffered—the infliction upon the conqueror of a fine for the damages that impoverished the vanquished. This may be described as a novelty, and it adds a fresh point to Wellington's famous remark that next to defeat the greatest misfortune is victory. The Confederates are quite right about it, however, if they are sound in their theory of the form of our Government; and if the Democratic Party has any principle, we understand it to be that the Southern Confederacy was right and the National Government wrong in the beginning, the course, and the end of the war. If the national soldier was a "trespasser" wherever he touched the sacred soil of a sovereign Southern State that, in the exercise of her highest capacity, had withdrawn from the Union—and I understand there is distinguished Democratic authority for this proposition in the State of New-York—we cannot, of course, get out of the responsibility of paying for all the mischief done, without sneaking out negatives richer than they ever dared to dream of winning by successful war. Truly, peace hath her victories no less renowned than war.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE WAR CLAIMS ON THE WEST VIRGINIA ELECTION.

The rivers of West Virginia unite her with Ohio and the mountains divide her from Old Virginia, but in the late election neither the rivers nor the mountains could restrain her, and she gave herself utterly to the ancient régime. She had no reason to complain of the Republican Party within her borders. While the Republicans were in power her affairs were well managed. When the war was over and gentle peace had fully returned, the Confederates were all enfranchised and the people had a "change." Everything was lovely and of good report, but, as usual, the Democratic Party had to come into power. It was "the gaunt wolf waiting at the door" of the State. But there is no reform to speak of in connection with the "change." On the contrary, West Virginia has been as badly governed ever since as she could well have been if the carpet-baggers were in authority and the scalawags had given their whole attention to public business. Just now, if the people there wanted a change and reform and economy, they would have to try the Republican Party; and other things being equal they would do it gladly, for there is nothing that so cures a State of longing for Democratic reformation as a brief trial of it. It was not the sins of the Southern Confederacy, or of the Democratic Party, per se, that fixed the place of West Virginia in the Tilden column. It was the overbearing influence of the Southern war claims that controlled the State. Here is an extract of a letter from Grafton, West Va., stating the facts, and I beg that you will give it your most considerate attention, for it is from a citizen of intelligence and responsibility. He says:

"In the payment of such claims (Southern war claims) West Virginia is more largely interested, in proportion to population, than any other State; and it is because it was believed these claims would be paid by the United States if Tilden's elected, that the State voted so largely Democratic the other day. This is the secret of the result; this is the bottom fact of the situation in this State. In all the strong Democratic counties there are men of influence who have 'claims.' They have worked for Democratic success as statesmen, with Texas bonds in their pockets; worked for 'annexation,' and for the $16,000,000 bill. There's millions in it.' Right here in this town I know of men who have these claims for property destroyed or captured, who worked most earnestly and voted for the Democratic ticket on the avowed ground that a Democratic success in the United States would assure the payment of their claims. But for their influence, the Republican gain here would have been even greater than it was. One of these 'claims' is for between $7,000 and $8,000 for property destroyed and taken by the Union army; another is for $2,000 and odd for similar damages and fifteen slaves set free. And so on, all around, from hen-roosts to immortal intellects. Every one of the owners of these 'claims' is an ex-rebel sympathizer at best. You can judge, hence, how it is as to the strong rebel country, where hatred of the Union is not disguised, and where pretty much everybody is thirsting for revenge. There the enthusiasm in behalf of 'Southern claims,' in behalf of making the Yankee pay and lease every rebel's claim, is simply irrepressible. It is not attempted to be concealed, as it is here. And it was this which swept all the frontier counties like a tornado—only this and nothing more."

The writer of this letter inclosed it with a note of identification, and used this language:

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that I have given the true reason for the Democratic victory in this State. The immense danger thus threatened by the Southern claims is not at all appreciated by the North. If it were, there would be no possibility of Tilden getting a single Northern State."

During the recent canvass in Ohio, when the Democrats noticed the question of the Southern war claims, they, as a rule, asserted that there was a constitutional amendment that prohibited the payment of those claims. You are aware that the fourth clause of the fourteenth amendment is the only one that has any relation to the subject, and that it refers to the payment of the debts "in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States," and to "compensation for slaves," and is not applicable at all to claims for damages.

SPECIMENS OF THE SOUTHERN WAR CLAIMS.

War claims are among the worst results of war, for they cannot be cured like wounds inflicted in the blows of battle. They are cancerous and of ceaseless malignancy in growth. We must be at pains to see of what items those we are discussing consist, and how they develope like tumors. Here is—

"Claim No. 3,107.—(Before the Claims Commissioners and disallowed.)—Jan. 18, 1875.—Referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed. Marie P. Evans, of Orleans Parish, Louisiana. Total amount claimed in original petition, $272,590; in amended petition, $495,355."

Here are specifications as follows:

No. 1. 925 hhds. centrifugal sugar, of average weight 1,300 lb. net ₱ hhd., being 1,072,500 lb at 25c. ₱ lb.....	$268,125
No. 2. 400 bbls. golden syrup (molasses) at 40 gallons ₱ bbl., making 16,000 gallons at $1 50 ₱ gallon.....	24,000
800 bbls. sugar-house molasses, at 40 gallons ₱ bbl., making 20,000 at $1.....	20,000
No. 3. 1,000 empty bbls. at $2.....	2,000
No. 4. 3,000 cords of dry wood at $5.....	15,000
No. 5. 1,217 mules at $200.....	243,400
No. 6. 15 wagons at $150.....	2,250
No. 7. 3 carts at $75.....	225
No. 8. 3 drays at $75.....	225
No. 9. 3 gas tanks (iron) at $100.....	300
No. 10. 26,000 bushels corn (in ear) at $1.....	26,000
No. 11. 374 tons fodder (corn blades) and hay at $25.....	9,350
No. 12. 5 horses at $200.....	1,000
No. 13. 5 bbls. brandy at $400.....	2,000

The number of the items is thirty-two; of these, No. 31 is for 145,000 fence rails, made of the most beautiful and expensive timber in the world, no doubt. The only thing that should surprise us in the bill of particulars is that the sixty-two mules were not put at $1,000 each. The moderation of the claimant has not, however, been appreciated, for the claim is in the list of the disallowed. The first time it was presented the sum total was but $273,590. The amended petition is for $495,355. The effect of not paying in the first place is a large growth of 500 hogsheads of sugar in the first claim to 1,109 hogsheads in the second, while the price of the sugar expanded from $200 per hogshead to $325 per hogshead. The 830 cords of wood alleged, in the bill of particulars of 1871, to have been taken, grew to 3,000 cords in 1873. Forty mules, at $150 each, had multiplied to sixty-two mules, at $200 each. Five thousand bushels of corn were developed into 26,600 bushels; 500 pounds of bulk pork in 1871 grew to 5,000 pounds in 1873; and if Tilden is elected there is no reason to doubt that each item will be multiplied by ten, so that we shall have to pay for 50,000 pounds of bulk pork, and so on through the list. Take another example:

No. 14,103.—Charles G. Kerr, Fitzhugh Lee, and George W. C. Lee, Executors of Anna M. Fitzhugh, late of Alexandria County, Va., deceased.—Claim filed May 20, 1872. Value of 125,000 cords oak and pine timber cut and taken from the estate of Ravensworth, Fairfax County, by orders of various Quartermasters, in 1861-2-3-4-5, at $3 per cord, $375,000."

The entire Ravensworth property, 7,826 acres, was assessed at $78,260 before the war and since, and the Claims Commissioners report the assessed value to be about two-thirds of the actual value; but here are $375,000 worth of wood cut off a tract of land worth at most $100,000, and the value of the land not in the least impaired. The miracle of the leaves and fishes cannot be said to rank with this achievement. Take the claim of Mrs. Annie Whitmore, of Whitfield County, Ga., a bill for whose relief was kindly presented by Hon. Benoni S. Fuller, of Indiana. The amount of this claim is $340,494. Here are specimen points:

1 horse, which was by good judges estimated..	$2,300
35 horses, $150.....	5,100
12 young mules, $175.....	2,100
1,500 bushels corn, $1 50.....	6,375
50 tons fodder, $15.....	750
10 tons hay, $20.....	200
200 acres corn fodder.....	240
20 head beef cattle, $50.....	1,000
262 bales of cotton, 500 pounds per bale, taken for hospital purposes, $1.....	131,000
1,338 bales of cotton, 500 pounds per bale, $1.669,000
4 parlor sets—1 garnet velvet, 1 satin, 1 silk, $50 each.....	1,200
1 parlor set, black mohair.....	200
1 parlor set, green silk velvet.....	400
1 parlor set, plaid, stripe, blue, red, and green cretonne.....	350
1 piano, Chickering, rosewood.....	600
1 piano, Steinway.....	800

The spirit of "conciliation, economy, and reform" displayed in putting down only seven parlor sets of furniture—one a garnet velvet, and another a green silk velvet—and of estimating an invaluable horse at $2,300 only—should be highly esteemed. Mr. Fuller was reelected to Congress substantially on the merits of this claim, in a strong Democratic district in Southern Indiana, and his public career promises to be a brilliant success. Among the bills presented to the present House of Representatives by Mr. Bright, of Tennessee, we will look at two clipped from a list of some hundreds of the same general character:

"A bill to pay the Presbyterian Church of Murfreesboro, Tenn., $10,000; said church having been used as a hospital and wantonly destroyed by the rebels.

A bill to pay Thomas Hoard $58,995 for supplies taken and used by the army of the United States from the farm of said Hoard (the battle-ground of Stone River), near Murfreesboro, Tenn."

It is stated by soldiers familiar with the place that the Presbyterian Church at Murfreesboro was not worth more than $5,000 when new, and that it was first occupied and damaged by the Confederates, who used it as a hospital until driven from the town. The bill for damages done on the battle-ground of Stone River implies that the national troops were the only ones who disturbed the valuable property in that quarter, but the history of the battle does not quite corroborate this flattering presumption. However, if the national soldiers were trespassers throughout the war, the bill is accounted for, and ought to be paid. The next thing, perhaps, will be a bill from the old proprietors of the ground in and about the Andersonville Prison pens for the trees destroyed by the prisoners in their efforts to shelter themselves from the sun and the rains. If we guide our feet by the lamps of the Democracy, and sleep their peculiar paths of peace, what objection can be made to that bill? Persons affirm, however, that such bills are absurd and incredible, and that payment is impossible; and those who have attempted to impress upon the public the seriousness of the Southern prosecution of war claims have been hooted as phantom fighters.

PROOF THAT THE DEMOCRATS WILL URGE THE WAR CLAIMS OF THE SOUTH.

Let us see if there is not every possible proof that could be given in advance of the accession of the Democratic Party to power, of the certainty that those very claims will be sharply pressed, by a formidable force. Missouri leads the way in this action. She created a War Claims Commission in 1873; and Gov. Woodson, in his annual message to the General Assembly, Jan. 6, 1875, says:

"There were presented to the Board of Commissioners 11,061 claims, amounting in the aggregate to $4,844,362 29. Seven thousand five hundred and fifty-four of those claims were allowed during the time in which the board had the right to sit, and certificates have been issued therefor aggregating the sum of $2,382,132 67. At the expiration of the time fixed by law for the adjustment of the claims pending before them, there were a great many claims unacted upon, to prevent a physical impossibility for the Commissioners to examine and pass upon all the claims filed within the time prescribed by the act."

This is the first crop, so great that the handling of it was a physical impossibility. As for moral possibilities, any sovereign State can swing millions of them. If the Solid South succeeds in its enterprise, employing the Democratic Party to capture the Government, there will be a succession of crops, each larger than all the preceding. In the State of Georgia the preparation of claims is such a business that blank forms to facilitate the work are circulated all over the State, and are an indispensable article of stationery. A citizen of Hamilton County, Ohio, and a Democrat, recently returned to his home from Alabama, where he has interests, and related that when he told the Alabamans that he would go for Tilden, they talked to him in such style that he thought it his duty as a good citizen to vote the Republican ticket. They denounced the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments as the Constitution as "bayonet amendments." They all said that the Yankee armies had marched across their farms, and had a stereotyped way of closing, "I have my bill made out, Sir, and if there is any justice in this country, I'll get every dollar of it." There is no numbering these bills, and the appointed time for pressing them to payment is when the Democratic Party takes possession of the Government. All the war claims that we have heard of are but the first drops of the shower, and the Southern sky is full of rain. After the election of Tilden—if that is to be—comes the Deluge. So impatient were the claimants that they could not wait for a propitious time to reduce their hopes to legal writing. They have been for years making careful surveys, with a view to sapping and mining their way into the national Treasury; and recently they have been vigorously at work upon a concerted plan of siege, prepared, it is evident, by skilled engineers, who have looked over the whole ground and marked out the approaches.

DEMOCRATIC ACTION IN CONGRESS.

Mr. Ritchie, of Maryland, April 13, 1872, made a speech in which he arraigned the act of July 4, 1864, "which provides for the payment of Southern claims on proof that the property was actually taken and used by the United States Army, and that the claimant was loyal to the United States." The grounds of his sensitive antagonism to the act were thus defined:

First—Because the proof required is too strict.'

Second—Because it does not provide payment for property damaged and destroyed.

Third—Because said act requires proof of loyalty.

On which subject he says:

"In the bill I have submitted proof is required only of the justice and validity of the claim. This may be restricted as a material omission by the majority of the House, and if its disposition is such that no additional facilities will be accorded to claimants, unless the qualification referred to is added, I would suggest that the bill is within the power of this House for such amendment as it may insist upon. I can only say for myself, that in the light of my sworn obligation to support the Constitution, as I understand that fundamental charter also as our power and the rights of the citizen, I would not recognize in any legislation of my offering a discrimination so false in principle, so pernicious in example and so unjust in operation."

It will be noted that this gentleman had constitutional scruples on the point of requiring proof of loyalty! Come down to a later day and a programme more comprehensive: On the 30th of June, 1876, Mr. Cable, of Virginia, reported from the House Committee on War Claims the bill (H. R., 3,627) for the relief of Pickrell and Broocks, of Virginia. This bill was recommended by the War Claims Committee, and appropriates the sum of $3,524 75 to pay these claimants, the net proceeds of tobacco taken from them at Wilmington, N. C., March 21, 1865. The claim is not of great proportions, but the distinguished gentleman from Virginia improved the occasion by laying down general principles of astounding magnitude. He says that as one of the claimants had received a special pardon from President Johnson, and the "amnesty" come within the provisions of the several proclamations and general pardon of amnesties, the proof of such pardon is equivalent to affirmative proof under the statute of captured and abandoned property, that the party never gave aid and comfort to the rebellion." When we consider the source and the official promulgation of this sweeping report, we are bound to regard it as good Democratic doctrine. It is recent, and fresh and it is strong. It is that when Andrew Johnson forgave a rebel his sins thenceforth the rebel was truly loyal, and always had been so in the eye of the law! This is certainly the most marvelous regeneration of which there is any account in the books, sacred or profane. Mr. Cabell's report from the Committee on War Claims goes on to announce that in reference to property taken from Southern owners by the Union armies, "the United States Government stands in the position of a trustee for the owner." I need not pause to speak of the scope of this proposition. It rolls over the whole case as the waters cover the great deep, and all the leviathans of the Confederacy can sport therein. We will next examine—

"House Resolution No. 553, by Hon. W. W. Wilshire, Arkansas, to facilitate the adjustment and settlement of claims of citizens of the United States, for stores and supplies taken or furnished during the rebellion, for the use of the Army of the United States, including the value of vessels and boats, by authorizing suits to be instituted in the United States Court in the district wherein the property was taken or used, such suits to be tried by said courts in the same manner and by the same rules of evidence as is now prescribed by law for the trial of civil causes in the Circuit Courts of the United States."

This would refer each batch of claims to the citizens of the neighborhood that was despoiled, a scheme that would fully meet the requirements of Mr. Cabell, of Virginia, that would avoid lacerating the susceptibilities of Mr. Ritchie, of Maryland, and that would prevent any severity of strain upon a Confederate general who might be Mr. Tilden's Secretary of War. Mr. Wilshire would abolish the Southern Claims Commission, and all tests of loyalty, and pay the damages assessed by juries out of a general appropriation. Of course, he has entire confidence in the spirit of reform and economy and wise finance, that has always animated the juries of Arkansas.

SOUTHERN SCHEMES TO MAKE TIMES GOOD.

There are so many resolutions having this general direction and bearing, introduced into the House at its late session, that I can not attempt reference to them all, but as we must notice the scheme of the Hon. Haywood Y. Riddle, of Tennessee, to make money plenty and times good in the South without further labor by the inhabitents, the following is quoted:

"House Resolution No. 871, by Hon. H. Y. Riddle, of Tennessee, provides that the testimony of 'any reputable citizen' shall be admitted by the Court of Claims and War Department as effectually establishing the fact of appropriation of property for the use of the United States."

This not only discards the idea that loyalty has anything to do with war claims, but makes one oath by a rebel sufficient to establish effectually a claim. But Mr. Riddle's brightest achievement, looking to the prosperity of his section without toil or spinning, is in the introduction, Feb. 28, 1876, of a bill to open the Treasury of the United States to make money plenty in the South—a bill referred to the Judiciary Committee, not, of course, to be reported until it can be favorably moved on. It is—

"H. R. 2,364. A bill directing compensation for the use and occupation of property by the United States Army during the late war:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby authorized to make reasonable compensation to all citizens of the United States for the use and occupation of their property by the United States Army, or any part thereof, during the late civil war, in the same manner and under the same regulations, as compensation is now allowed for Quartermaster stores used by said Army; provided, however, that the affidavit of the claimant, supported by the competent testimony of any reputable citizen, shall be sufficient proof to establish the fact of the use and occupation of such property by said army. But it is not the intention of this act to limit the parties to the amount of proof herein specified, but any other competent testimony may be had to establish the fact of the use and occupation and the rental value of the property occupied."

Mr. Riddle is running for re-election to Congress, and this bill is the principal plank in his platform. It is a popular plank. He addressed the people of Jamestown, Tenn., Sept. 23, and claimed that all losses caused by Federal troops or by the Federal Government and its paid allies, that is, "all the Southern people are now loyal," and that no distinction should be made in the settlement of claims against the Government, but everybody should be paid, and pledged himself to work to that effect. His meetings have recently been attended by a thoughtful reporter, but he declines to speak where there is such an institution. He need not talk any more to his constituents, however. They fully understand him. His district is the Fourth Tennessee, and his popularity—growing out of his celebrity as the advocate of war claims, on the ground that all citizens are equally loyal and always have been, and that there can be no just distinctions in the law—is so great that he has no opposition. Hon. R. H. Cox, who attempted to compete with him, has retired from the canvass. The report that we quote of Mr. Riddle's Jamestown speech is from a business letter, and that gentleman's great popularity was announced in the remark that the payment of war claims, according to his policy, would "make money plenty and times good in the South." The people of New-York may be interested to mark this and inquire at whose expense the benefactions are to flow from a pecuniary horn of plenty, and who is to have the "usufruct" of the horn?

THE COURSE OF SOUTHERN CONGRESSMEN.

Mr. Ritchie, of Maryland, complained, twelve years ago, that the proof required on Southern claims was too strict, and that damaged property could not be included, while the crowning trouble was an unconstitutional requirement that loyalty should be shown. Mr. Cabell, of Virginia, from the Committee on War Claims of the present House, reports that the pardon of a rebel is affirmative proof that he was always loyal, and declares that the United States Government is in the position of a trustee of the Confederate claimants for property taken in the war. Mr. Wilshire, of Arkansas, would facilitate the settlement of claims by trials by jury, so that the tracks of our Armies should be followed by juries of the respective neighborhoods through which they passed, agreeing upon damages to be distributed among themselves. Mr. Riddle, of Tennessee, would take testimony in claims cases without giving consideration to the question of loyalty, and he would allow compensation to all citizens of the United States for the use and occupation of their property by the Union Army, upon the proposition that all discriminations in the law against disloyalists are unjust and offensive. Taking together Mr. Ritchie, of Maryland; Mr. Cabell, of Virginia; Mr. Wilshire, of Arkansas, and Mr. Riddle, of Tennessee, it is but just to these gentlemen to say that they seem to have left little in the nature of preliminaries to look after, and there never has been a whisper that they did not have the warm approbation of the folks at home. The record of Mr. Riddle in Congress seems to his constituents a very handsome one. He is credited with a good phrase asserting universal loyalty and equal rights for all in war claims. There is no better Democratic doctrine than his, for the practical application of it is that wherever the national armies marched there is a Confederate harvest to be gathered. And it would be well if those cool and learned gentlemen who effect to sneer away this aspect of the claims question, would kindly condescend to tell the people of New-York what argument or attribute the Democratic Party has, that would be likely to withstand the pressure in the grand South, as it is defined to the legislation that Mr. Riddle has proposed. If we begin by admitting that the Union was a confederacy—that the election of Lincoln was an offense—the Southern campaigns John Brown raids on a large scale—and the abolition of slavery and the enfranchisement of the freedmen, capital outrages—we must end by placing the South on an equality with the North in money matters; that is, we must pay the Southern war debts and claims of every name and nature. Or, from our standpoint, we must pay for the war over again, and something more, for the South was the greater sufferer, and if we would conciliate on the basis of having done a wrong, we must not complain if we have to pay an indemnity equal to the damage we have done.

THE PURPOSE OF THE SOUTH.

The Southern people say they desired to go apart and were compelled to remain. They say to us

"You marched through our country destroying our property, and we were unable to retaliate. You doubled your money in bonds, while we lost all that we put into our bonds; and you gave the blacks the right to confiscate, through taxation, the little we had when the war was over. You forced us into the Union, and we propose to stay. Now we are as loyal as you are—as good as you are. We are poor. Above all things we need money. Here are the bills for the ruin that you brought! If we are equals under the law, the payment of the claims is but fair—and then why should not our crippled boys have pensions as well as yours?" They need the money badly enough. They believe they ought to have it. Is it public policy to pay it? Only a fraction of it could come from the South itself. Do you, here in New-York, think it will be in the interest of reform, and especially economy, to pay your share of it? Are you unwilling to be taxed to this end? Would you prefer to go with the Greenbackers and issue legal tenders to meet all Southern demands, make money plenty, and give us another experience of war times in Wall street? If not, you should take care not to go with the solid South—the new shape of the Southern Confederacy—in this critical campaign. The Southern excitement touching war claims is not as yet very noisy, but it is intense and profound. It has been restrained by every prudential consideration that could influence men convinced that they have been wronged and resolved to be righted, and yet it is submitted there is ample testimony before the country to determine the action of prudent citizens. It were easy to specify circumstances in corroboration of the proof until you would carry with the recital. A Southern Republican, writing from the State of Mississippi, Oct. 3, 1876, to Hon. Warner M. Bateman, District Attorney of the Southern District of Ohio, says:

"If we should attempt to organize our party in this State, and advocate the support of Hayes and Wheeler, it would cause riot and bloodshed all over the State, for the White Line rebels are determined to carry the State, though we have a majority of 20,000 at a fair election. Any excuse to deprive Republicans of their rights as American citizens is a source of great consolation to the White Liners."

The writer adds, it is the purpose of the controlling spirits of that State to "remunerate themselves out of the public Treasury for losses sustained by the war." It is impossible to exaggerate the grave fact, what may not be expected in the dry wood? Can any people having saving common sense afford to disregard these claims, the certainty and immensity of which are attested by proposed legislation, maniestly prepared to remove all the safeguards of the Treasury, while they are notoriously backed by the passionate and exacting public opinion of the section whence they spring? So unequivocal are the declarations and so positive in the grave face, that may not be expected in the dry wood? Can any people having saving common sense afford to disregard these claims, the certainty and immensity of which are attested by proposed legislation, manifestly prepared to remove all the safeguards of the Treasury, while they are notoriously backed by the passionate and exacting public opinion of the section whence they spring? So unequivocal are the declarations and so prodigious are they, (the aggregate represented in the various bills of special and general legislation exceeding two thousand five hundred millions of dollars,)—so distinct are the principles upon which they are based, and so consonant are those principles with the character of the party that must take the responsibility of them—while the line of argument by which they are justified is marked out quite to the horizon—that fair notice has been served upon the country that they are to be prosecuted with the entire strength of the united South. And it is distinctly indicated that the price of the Southern support of the Democratic Party is the service of the party as the claim agency for that section. The only question in its sectional aspect, as local politician of the North is that the party would, if placed in control of the Government, be responsible to the country for the success of the Administration, and could not consent to consider the war claims in the shape and to the extent that we suggest. It is thus assumed, in the first place, that the Democratic Party is, where the solid South is concerned, a free agent. I do not believe it is so. The South has the force of a clear purpose, an inflexible will, an unappeasable animosity, and the habit of command, as well as a hungry sense of a right to have a square meal at home; and it will have, as it has had, its way with the party.

THE INEVITABLE RESULTS OF DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS.

It is said that the Democratic Party would quickly destroy itself by taking up the Southern claims, and must, in cold-blooded reason, be credited with too strong an instinct of self-preservation to swiftly rush to certain slaughter. But this identical party, backed by a majority merely in the South, withstood for years the odium of the Fugitive Slave law, and the ruling caste in it at last felt strong enough to repeal the Missouri Compromise and attempt the nationalization of slavery. Give these partisans the whole South, with its enlarged representation—every Congressional district—and place in their hands the Army for reorganization, with the chance of restoring the Confederate leaders to their old regiments, let them rebuild the Navy and use the vast civil patronage of the Government, extravagantly extended as it has been in the last sixteen years; add to this the "solid vote" that the Catholic Telegraph of Cincinnati last year promised the party; let one wing of the Democratic Army rest upon Richmond and the other upon Rome, and reckon upon the arts of demagoguery that would harness in one team the issues of Civil Service Reform and Communist schools—and we are not sure but the Democracy—always the regulars in our politics and never subjected to discipline more thoroughly than now—could defy the power of enlightened public opinion for a tedious term of years. It is quite certain that if this powerful party is placed in possession of the General Government by the casting vote of the State of New-York one week from Tuesday next—and that is precisely the contingency that the people of this State should have in mind—no matter how profligate and reckless the Administration might be, it could not be overthrown without a long and stormy, and perhaps a dangerous struggle. Give the Democratic Party New-York, and with the help of New-York it may grasp, and there would prevail through the whole range of official life, and in the ranks of the long array of those who get their living out of politics, an intolerant assertion of party infallibility. The despotism would be of iron grip, and any attempt to disturb it would be denounced as rosm fling old fashioned Bourbonism in its sectional aspect, as threatening another incendiary raid upon the Holy Confederacy of the Solid South, and as a reckless assault upon the sacred peace of the sunny land that reposes under the undisputed sway of pocket firearms. I trust we shall not now or ever try the costly experiment of committing the country to this course. But there are good citizens who, desire to take this crisis quietly, who are making themselves content with saying that the shrewd men at the head of the Democratic party are too cautious to impose the taxes that would be required to raise the money to pay the Southern war claims. It has not perhaps occurred to them—though many of them, no doubt, take a deep interest in the speedy resumption of specie payments—that the claimants might be content with "more greenbacks." They have not seen that the Rag-baby and the solid South with her solemn claims were made for each other. They have not studied the history of the Ohio campaign of 1875, when the inflationists—the saving salvation of the country, as they termed it—started with the expectation of sweeping the country, putting forth as their platform the Confederate system of finance—the very system that made money so abundant in the South, while the Southern armies were still strong, that a pair of boots cost a thousand dollars. The inevitable way to pay the Confederate war claims is with legal-tender paper. Those claims fortuitously offer the solution of the difficulty of the rag-money maniacs in distributing new issues. Bales of thousand-dollar notes will be wanted to pay the toll of our armies on the turnpikes in the sacred soil, and to compensate those who were conquered for all the cost and sorrows; and as the cost of producing a thousand-dollar note is not greater than that of a dollar note, we shall have big money printed and with it celebrate our "wise finance" to the ends of the earth. We shall put the stamp of the United States upon all the paper that the emergency, which can always be found, calls for. In the language of the immortal inflationists of Ohio we shall "make the volume of currency equal to the wants of trade." This will give all the gamblers and speculators, and all the ravenous beasts of prey that consume the substance of the industrious and the poor, a harvest of spoil and a carnival of indulgence; but there will be plenty of money in the land at last, and the South will "get even" with the North for the war. The finances of the United States will be equalized with those of the Southern Confederacy. Confederate bonds and national bonds will belong in a common abyss. The era of the perfect equality of citizens and sections will come—when we are all falling into the bottomless pit of bankruptcy together.

TILDEN NOT CAPABLE OF CONTROLLING HIS PARTY.

Would Gov. Tilden, as President of the United States, consent to such a catastrophe? I am not here to speak of the personal character of Gov Tilden. I suppose he is as well known in New-York as Gov. Hayes in Ohio, and I leave him to you. Grant him all the good qualities his friends believe him to possess, and he could not be the master of the Democratic Party. There is a stupendous devil in that party that will not be mastered. As to civil service reform, a Democratic President could not resist the demand to turn everybody out, to make room for as many of his party as possible; and it is unreasonable to hold that the public business could be seriously thought of. Why, if there was to be a Democratic President inaugurated, the crowd of office-seekers around the public buildings in Washington would be like that of the sight-seers at the Centennial on Pennsylvania's day. Fancy an old gentleman like Governor Tilden, not feeble, perhaps, but certainly not robust, resisting the mad onset of this hungry multitude, in the name of civil service reform! The attrition would be too great for any human endurance. It is remarkable in our annals that there has more than once been a dramatic removal of a President who stood in the way of the pronounced policy of the most advanced thinkers of the party of the Solid South. Gen. Harrison, having John Tyler behind him, was speedily taken hence. Gen. Taylor, after the development of his opposition to the Cotton State conspirators, was suddenly called away. James Buchanan was poisoned with the rats at the National Hotel, but through strength of constitution was spared to see that the nation had no right to preserve itself, and his death was good while the country was ready to perish. If Gov. Tilden entered into an unseemly antagonism with the more active and potent influences of his party, I apprehend that his strength would soon be shaken and fretted away in the severe friction of his position, and might fail him altogether; that he would be as unable to withstand through a Presidential term of office the contending patriots as Harrison was, or that he might find a midsummer's cherry-pie lunch as fatal as Taylor found it. Even if Gov. Tilden means real reform we know that his party does not, and so great an interest should not hang by the thread of one life. And if Tilden were not, where in the world could his party find a Reformer? The people of New-York are now, I think, enamored of the "wise finance" of the Governor of Indiana, where the doctrine is taught that the leaves of the sycamore, with the United States stamp upon them, are "real money." Gov. Seymour recommends the people to elect a Democratic President, by way of keeping up a division of responsibility in the departments of the Government. Fear, if the experiment were tried, that the result would not approve his judgment. It is hard to separate Senates from Executive power. The Senate of the United States would be moved as by the attraction of gravitation to harmony with the White House.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS IN DANGER.

Then the Supreme Court is not the invulnerable barrier against Executive usurpation and sectional aggression that it stands for in the popular estimation. A very respectable minority of the Judges are Democrats. Others are approaching the time of life when not only retirement is thought of, but provision is made for it. The extent of the country and the accumulation of business suggest reorganization and an increase in the number of the Judges. A Democratic President and House would have the Senate and the Supreme Court also within two years, if not earlier. And who can believe that in this case—with the united and determined Confederate South as the bottom fact and the impelling force of the party in power—the amendments to the Constitution could stand? The equality asserted by the politicians of the South—the equality of the rebellion with the authorities, the equal rights in their father's house of the Confederate with the National soldiers, the equal rights of the States that seceded with those that adhered, the personal susceptibilities of the Southern leaders, the policy of the Feast of the Fatted Calf—do not mean anything less than that the war amendments should be read from the Constitution. It is not "the Constitution as it is" that commands the veneration of the Democratic Party. It is the old Constitution—the Constitution as it was, over which they asserted an exclusive right of interpretation, that they revere and would restore—and that they would again construe in their own old way. Then we would all be "loyal," except those who smote sovereign States to the dust, and they, declared the murderers of States and the minions of despotism, might at last be forgiven by the exalted Confederates. They could only be forgiven, however, on the ground that their errors were involuntary, that their trespasses upon sacred soil must be charitably charged to youthful enthusiasm and the listless ignorance of the Constitution. And we should all be called to remember that the great and only exponents of that instrument dwell in the South, entitled to the dignity of a dynasty in the rare enjoyment of restoration to their dominions. There is no capacity within the Democratic Party to resist the programme of the Solid South, for, as they concede its justice, the assertion of its inexpediency must be in vain.

GOV. HAYES' CAREER IN THE FIELD AND IN POLITICS.

The change that the people desire is a change for the better—a reformation, not a revolution—and the economy called for could hardly be found in doubling the national debt. I believe we could count upon a wholesome change—upon an economical, honorable, high-minded Administration, if Gov. Hayes were elected President; and I feel it may be worth while, under the circumstances, to speak of my personal knowledge of the man. I have been acquainted with him about a quarter of a century, and he improves upon acquaintance. He and I lived in the same ward for several years, and belonged to the Cincinnati Literary Club—the only society of which, outside of college and army associations, he ever was a member. The story that he was a Know-Nothing, repeated in various forms, does not resemble the truth in any shape it has taken. I was in consultation with him in March, 1856, in organizing a people's movement, the primary object of which was the defeat of the Know-Nothing Party in Cincinnati. We met in the office of Stephen Molitor, the leader of the Liberal Germans at that time, and though it is more than twenty years ago, I remember the apt remark of Hayes, as some of those enlisted with us were willing themselves to be candidates, that the people would probably be more impressed with the fitness for office of a man if he was not himself active in making the ticket. He was to have been called to preside at the meeting that we appointed to present the cause of reform to the people, but the Know-Nothings took possession of the hall by a concerted movement of delegations from their lodges; and they had only this measure of success to console themselves withal, for they were defeated in the election in the April following, and their prestige in Cincinnati was broken. When Col. Hayes came home after the battle of South Mountain, badly wounded, with his shattered arm in a sling, he was asked to attend a public meeting to aid in getting his ward "out of the draft." He at first declined to go, but as the meeting insisted, he consented, and was called upon for a speech. His opening remark was that it had been his preference, glad as he was to see those about him, not to be present on that occasion, for he was not certain that he sympathized with the object for which they assembled. The first duty of the people was to fill up the wasted ranks of the Army. If the object of the meeting was to send to the field the number of men that the order for the draft called for in the ward, he was heartily with them; but if it was the policy to clear the ward on paper, without reference to the number of recruits furnished, he did not desire that they should succeed. It was immediately accepted as that the object of the meeting, and at last all that the able bodied men of the ward should escape the draft, but to send the material for good soldiers to the front! It would not have been suspected by any one looking in upon the meeting, that the wounded officer in weather-beaten blue clothes—a common soldier's blouse with a war-worn eagle and shoulder straps—who, with his left hand, kindled as he spoke, and a voice with the ring of martial music in it—was a man likely to be accused of lacking a will and ways of his own. Many earnest people have for some years made a close study of civil service reform, and the theory is generally accepted that this sort of reform at least is desirable. The language of Gov. Hayes in accepting the Cincinnati nomination is on this subject singularly explicit, and those who had given the methods of the reform their choicest attention were struck with the fact that the Republican candidate for President had been thinking out for himself. And so he had. He commenced the work of civil service reform in his first term as Governor of Ohio. Understanding experimentally the question, the words of his letter of acceptance sped to the centre of the mark like rifle balls, showing the "white disk" at every shot. One of his well-taken points, after his first election, to consult the wishes of his constituents, was that the capitol of the State should have representation in its executive boards. In 1870 he urged upon the Legislature the passage of a law incorporating this "measure of reform," and the law was secured and is retained, proving highly useful. He carried the principle of minority representation into his appointments of public boards and officers, and did it to an extent that made enemies in his own party. He has pursued the same policy in his third Gubernatorial term, reappointing nine Democrats, appointees of Gov. Allen, to salaried positions in the penal and benevolent institutions of the State. In making out the Supreme Court Commission, he appointed three Democrats, and when the Republican legislature created a Police Board in Cincinnati the Governor appointed a Democrat on the Board; and he has had a clever facility in finding a few places for Liberal Republicans, who are not now, I understand, in possession of a party of their own. Those who have known Gov. Hayes longest, and have had the closest opportunities for observation, are the most positive of his friends in the judgment that if he is elected President he will have a very large influence in the administration. There is already an outcry from the South that those who are unwilling to concede that the war was a failure talk in a narrow and bitter; and they are supposed to have inherited the sectional opprobrium once attached in the conceit of the Confederates to the opponents of the extension of slavery—yet there has been nothing since Lincoln at Gettysburg, in better temper, or with finer insight, or in happier phrase, than the passage relating to the South in the letter of Gov. Hayes accepting the Cincinnati nomination. His sense of justice and sentiment of generosity—a brave man's respect for the brave, a strong man's sympathy with misfortune—shine through the clear sentences, and taking him all in all, I feel warranted in hopefulness that if he becomes our Chief Magistrate, we may find in him the gift of statesmanship for the healing of the nation.

THE DUTY OF THE CITIZENS OF NEW-YORK.

Citizens of the State of New-York, the lesson of the war that never should depart from us is, that the American people have no exemption from the ordinary fate of humanity. If we sin we must suffer for our sins, like the Empires that are tottering and the nations that have perished. Sixteen years ago we were drifting into war, and, though the current was like the Niagara rapids, few among us felt that it was irresistible, and saw the shores of the land of peace and plenty recede, or heard the swelling roar of the cataract. Whither are we drifting in these Indian Summer days? Upon what portentous stream is the Ship of State? Is it sailing—

"Through channels measureless by man,
Down to a sunless sea?"

There is in the prescribed form of counting the electoral votes cast, or certified to be cast, for President, an uncertainty that, in the state of the country, may be fitly described as a peril. The Houses of Congress are already at variance. They quarreled on this subject when the Republicans had a majority in both and the vote of the disputed State made no difference in the counted result. The joint rules, including the twenty-second, have been abolished, and there is only the constitutional provision as a guide. In a contingency that is not only not impossible, but not improbable, there is certain to be a disagreement involving a disputed Presidential election, which would be a calamity without precedent and beyond calculation. Thoughtful citizens long ago, feeling this possibility as a palpable though dark terror, have prayed that the Presidential elections might always be decisive—and God grant that they may! But we are pressing closely upon the danger in the dark. The October elections have not, as in other days, settled the question of the Presidency. What if the November election also should be inconclusive? What if the result of the contest of Tilden or Hayes for Presidents rested upon a Southern State; upon Mississippi or South Carolina, with the Derringer in one and the bayonet in the other; and the heated politicians, gathered at Washington and

The New York Times.

WITH SUPPLEMENT.

NEW-YORK, THURSDAY, OCT. 26, 1876.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEN. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM A. WHEELER,

OF NEW-YORK.

AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Life—Mr. C. P. Coghlan, Mr. James Lewis, Mr. Charles Fisher, Miss Amy Fawcitt, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Forbidden Fruit—Mr. J. Montague, Mr. Harry Beckett, Miss Ada Dyas, Miss Effie Germon.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—Baba—Mr. W. A. Crane, Mr. V. Bowers, Miss Eliza Weatherby, Miss Minnelli.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.—Sardanapalus—Mr. F. C. Bangs, Mrs. Agnes Booth, grand ballet and chorus.

UNION SQUARE THEATRE.—The Two Orphans—Mr. C. Thorne, Jr., Mr. J. O'Neill, Miss Kate Claxton.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Little Nell and The Marchioness—Miss Katie Putnam.

NEW-YORK AQUARIUM.—Rare and Curious Fish and Mammalia, Statuary, &c.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN.—Exhibition of Paintings. Day and evening.

GILMORE'S GARDEN.—P. T. Barnum's Museum, Circus, and Menagerie.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.—Dramatic Performance—Curiosities—Afternoon and evening.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE HALL.—Annual Exhibition of Art, Science, and Mechanics.

EAGLE THEATRE.—Minstrelsy, Comedy, Burlesque.

PARK THEATRE.—Sweet Hearts and Tom Cobb.

KELLY & LEON'S HALL.—Minstrelsy and Comicalities.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Variety Entertainment.—Messrs. Harrigan and Hart.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS.—Minstrelsy, Farces, and Negro Comicalities.

STEINWAY HALL.—At 2 P. M., Symphony Concert, (Rehearsal.)—Theodore Thomas, Director.

This morning THE DAILY TIMES consists of TEN PAGES. Every news-dealer is bound to deliver the paper in its complete form, and any failure to do so should be reported at the publication office.

Unable to answer the charge of defrauding the Government by false returns of income, Mr. TILDEN has inserted in his letter on the rebel war claims, a plea somewhat similar to that put in on his behalf in answer to the suit of Messrs. POTTIER & STYMUS. He says: "The Government can not readjust between individuals the burdens of taxation hitherto borne, or of debts incurred to sustain the Government which are yet to be paid. * * * It has no safe general rule but to let by-gones be by-gones." Mr. TILDEN should not be too sure about that. The Statute of Limitations may be a good enough plea to keep a tradesman out of his dues withal; a debt due to the Government is always a debt, as he will probably find after the 7th of November.

We need not do more than call the attention of our readers to the remarks of ex-President WOOLSEY, which will be found in another column. His eminent position as a thinker on public questions, his perfect independence, and the sincerity and simplicity which have marked his course, will give his opinion great weight. He states briefly but clearly the gist of the controversy between the Democratic and the Republican Parties, and his reasons for supporting the candidates of the latter. We commend his forcible reasoning to those for whom the erratic dogmatism of Prof. SUMNER may have had some attraction.

The Republican nominations for Assembly in the interior of the State have, for the most part, been made. They embrace a very large proportion of new names, but so far as we are able to judge, the quality of the nominations is rather above the average. There are, it is true, one or two names which we should gladly have seen dropped, but on the other hand, the services of some of the best men of previous legislatures are likely to be retained. Mr. GEORGE B. SLOAN, of Oswego, has been renominated, as also Mr. HAMILTON FISH, Jr., of Putnam. The first of these represents the highest type of mature legislative experience and of that moral influence over his associates which comes from unblemished character and pure motives. The latter is one of the best examples of how our young men of character and education can fulfill the demands of public life, and how little force there is in the objection that politics do not furnish a fitting arena for the ambition of the better class of Americans.

When Mr. SMITH ELY, Jr., ran for Congress in 1870, the Tribune made this curious comment on his nomination: "His reward for ten years' unsparing warfare against the Ring is the Tammany nomination in the VIIth District." If TWEED "rewarded" Mr. ELY as he did NATHANIEL SANDS and other members of the Citizens' Association, he certainly treated him better than KELLY has done. Mr. ELY's respectability will hardly serve to sustain the load which has been placed on him of an unscrupulous time-server like CALVIN, a political rowdy like CROKER, an ignorant ward politician like WOLTMAN, or a characterless party hack like GUMBLETON. As if the County ticket were not sufficiently overweighted, Tammany has succeeded in touching, if possible, a lower depth in its nomination for Congress of "NICK" MULLER, ex-emigrant-runner, and ANTHONY EICKHOFF, ex-Coroner and place-hunter generally. The fact is, the entire Tammany nominations are an insult to the character and common sense of this community, and can only succeed by the worst elements of the population being allowed to assert their supremacy. Lack of harmonious action among the opponents of Tammany Hall would be the most effective way of bringing about this undesirable result.

In addition to his other claims to public support, Mr. DELANO C. CALVIN stands on the record as an ardent admirer of WILLIAM M. TWEED and the Tammany sachems of 1870. Mr. CALVIN wrote a very gushing letter of acceptance in reply to TWEED'S invitation to be present at the Tammany Hall celebration of the Fourth of July, in the hey-day of the power of the Ring. He was "honored"—the italics are his own—by the invitation which had been sent him, and he looked forward with the keenest delight to the prospect of meeting "with men of like sympathy to commemorate our deliverance from Colonial bondage, from national disruption, from Radical domination in the Empire State, and from Municipal servitude." Mr. CALVIN is as servile a lackey of KELLY as he was of TWEED, and he has his appropriate reward.

During the lull in the political affairs of Eastern Europe, conspiracy and assassination naturally rise to the surface. It is said, however, that the assassination of the Turkish Consul and his wife, at Tiflis, was not due to political complications, as though this crime were one of those every-day incidents which have no special significance at this time. The conspiracy to kill the Grand Vizier and MIDHAT PASHA has been the occasion of many arrests, and the discovery of the plot only uncovers a portion of that desperately wicked substratum of Turkish society which is the weakness of the whole system. The investigation into the Bulgarian outrages has already turned out to be a farce, and nothing can be expected in that direction from the Turkish Government. It is even suspected that new enormities are about to be committed; and the whole Moslem population of Turkey is in a state of inflamed excitement. The Russian policy at this moment appears to be that of waiting. It is evident that a long armistice will finally be agreed upon; but all vital questions will remain as far from a settlement as ever.

Shorn of some gratuitous impertinences, we publish a letter from Mr. JULIAN HAWTHORNE in regard to our statement that his story entitled "The Rose of Death," republished in the Sunday edition of THE TIMES, was a reproduction, in a slightly altered form, of a story called "Otto of Roses," which had some five years ago been sold to Messrs. HARPER & BROTHERS. Mr. HAWTHORNE does not dispute the statement, but attempts a defense of his literary honesty which we commend to the notice of those whom it may concern. THE TIMES has no controversy with Mr. HAWTHORNE on this subject. Our explanation of the matter was made in obedience to a courteous request from Messrs. HARPER that the substantial identity of the two stories should be pointed out. When Mr. HAWTHORNE says that we did not credit the story to the Cornhill Magazine he makes a palpable misstatement, as he will find by a reference to THE TIMES of Sept. 17. When he cautions us against reproducing any more of his stories without his permission, he takes quite unnecessary trouble. It is not our custom to infringe the copyright of our neighbors, and it is tolerably clear from Mr. HAWTHORNE'S statement that we should be likely to do so in republishing any of the stories which Mr. HAWTHORNE proposes to "touch up" for the English market.

THE SOUTHERN CANVASS.

The Northern citizen reads with a feeling of disgust the accumulating evidence as to the means to be employed in this City and Brooklyn for breaking down the Republican majority throughout the State. He sees that the franchise becomes valueless and the election a mockery, if by perjury and personation the conditions of naturalization may be frustrated, and tens of thousands of fraudulent voters may be enabled to cast ballots for TILDEN and the Democracy. If an honest man, whatever his own partisan affinities may be, he denounces as a disgrace and as a danger to representative institutions the attempt fraudulently to create majorities and to determine the composition of the Federal Government.

What would be said, however, if the Democratic managers in New-York resorted to still more desperate methods of effecting their purpose? Let us suppose that fraudulent naturalization, and fraudulent registration were insufficient for their purpose, and that more violent tactics alone could save them from defeat. They have a vast horde of ruffians at their command, and these they organize and drill and arm in contravention of the law. The organizations are called "Tilden Rifle Clubs," or "Tammany Tigers," and they are used to interrupt and scatter Republican meetings, to assail and injure Republican speakers, and to intimidate and deter peaceful Republican citizens from registering or voting. What would be the result? There would be terrible strife and bloodshed. The Democratic managers would pay the penalty with their lives, and their ruffians would be driven into the East River, or shot down like dogs.

But the hypothesis is too extravagant for serious consideration? As regards New-York, it is. Transfer it to the South, and what in this latitude would be scouted as too monstrous to be possible, becomes demonstrable fact. Our people are angry at the bare chance of being beaten at the polls by crowds of Democratic hirelings, not entitled to vote. Their grievance, however, is a bagatelle compared with the outrage inflicted upon Republican majorities in South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. Each of these States, if the majority of its citizens could have their way, would be as surely Republican as Maine or Vermont. If the Democrats carry them, it will be by employing the very tactics which, as applied to New-York, seem absolutely incredible. What would be put down and punished here as murder or insurrection, is there a recognized part of the Democratic programme. With its operation in South Carolina our readers are by this time partially acquainted. The fullness of the horrible system which the Democrats have there organized never can be realized outside of the State. We of the North catch glimpses of it as through a glass, darkly. These glimpses, however, are more than sufficient to prove that no more infamous devices were ever invented for defeating the majority and investing the minority with power in local and national affairs. There is some reason for hoping that the satanic machinery constructed and set in motion to secure the State for TILDEN and HAMPTON has been summarily stopped by the interference of Federal authority. The armed bands, valorous enough in the pursuit of defenseless negroes, or howling and shooting on the outskirts of a Republican meeting, discreetly avoid collisions with Federal troops. Whether the presence of the latter at this stage of the canvass will neutralize the terror inspired by unpunished violence and the systematic exercise of brute force, remains to be seen. The fact which admits of no dispute is that but for the military power of the National Government there would not be even the semblance of a free election in South Carolina. A Republican majority of thirty or forty thousand would disappear before the intimidation, the cruelties and violence, the corrupt and tyrannous use of influence, on which the Democrats have relied for success.

The action of the President and the movement of troops have brought us face to face with the condition of affairs in South Carolina. The same condition prevails almost everywhere in the South. Attorney General TAFT, in his speech last night, declared that the Department of Justice daily receives reports of wrongs and outrages from all parts of the South. The Kuklux organization may no longer be intact, but its methods and purposes are practically retained by the Democratic clubs and combinations at this moment in full play. Their controlling idea is that colored men are not entitled to a voice in the Government, and that since it is impossible at present formally to disfranchise them, the next best plan is to compel them to act with the Democrats or to withhold their votes from the Republicans. And the Attorney General, with the precise knowledge incident to his position, asserts that this purpose is adhered to throughout the South with a uniformity and recklessness which virtually render the fifteenth amendment a dead letter. He might, indeed, have adduced the case reported from Mississippi yesterday. The Republicans had arranged for a meeting in Claiborne County; the Democrats resolved that it should not be held, and their armed clubs assembled to give effect to their declaration. The Republican speakers were assaulted and silenced, and the assembled negroes were driven from the place of meeting. Lives were lost in the fighting which ensued; the negroes, hunted into swamps, are at the mercy of the ruffians who pursue them. It is not difficult to believe, in the presence of an occurrence like this, that the Republicans will be unable to vote unless protected by United States troops. And Claiborne County is simply an example of the ruthless and disloyal despotism which prevails over nearly all the State.

The Attorney General says truly that this system, abominable as it is, has been again and again applauded by conspicuous Southern Democrats on the platform and in the press. Hereabout the Democrats deny everything. But we have the assurance of TOOMBS that the means now employed in Mississippi and South Carolina enabled the party in Georgia to acquire its present ascendency; we have Mississippi journals justifying intimidation and force as legitimate; we have Alabama journals pointing to what has been effected in Georgia and Mississippi as reasons for the adoption of similar agencies in other Southern States; and we have, from all of them, the avowal that the South will thus be made a unit in support of TILDEN for the Presidency. It is worse than folly to sneer at exposures of this order of things, or to set aside, as a mere partisan trick, the frequent reference made at the North to the vital issues which are involved in the struggle of Southern Republicans for the commonest rights of citizenship.

A NEAR VIEW OF THE REBEL CLAIMS.

Mr. MURAT HALSTEAD last evening told the meeting at Cooper Institute what he thought of the nature and prospects of the Southern claims. On this subject he may fairly be called an expert. His paper, published in a city having a large trade with the South, is required and enabled to obtain specially accurate information as to the temper and opinions of that section. Mr. HALSTEAD is an Independent, with a touch of the Ishmaelite, in politics, and even when he has given the Republican Party the benefit of his keenest criticism, he has never lost sight of the peculiar relations of the South to the United States Treasury. During the last four or five years he has paid particular attention to the schemes for expending Government money on Southern transportation lines, and has fought them with the vigor that is fed by thorough knowledge. And he has always recognized the fact that the most formidable element of strength in the inflation movement lay, not in the fanatical delusion of the West, but in the feeling on the part of the South that only through inflation could that section ever hope to attain to the satisfaction of its enormous demands. When, therefore, Mr. HALSTEAD presents a candid and explicit statement of what may be expected from a Democratic victory in the direction of Southern claims, he is entitled to the respect which well-established impartiality and extensive information deserve.

No one who has watched the course of the native white politicians of the South in the Presidential contests since the close of the war can have failed to notice their singular unanimity in supporting the Democratic Party through all its devious turnings. Whatever that party may have professed, the ex-Confederates have never changed their attitude toward it. In 1868, when the Northern Democrats tried to persuade us that Mr. SEYMOUR was entitled to confidence as a "great war Governor," the South did not object. In 1872, when the Democratic candidate was a pronounced Republican, the South accepted him more implicitly than the Democrats of the North and West. This year, the only question they asked at St. Louis was, Will Mr. TILDEN win? and they were perfectly willing to give up Mr. HENDRICKS, their first choice, when told that his war record was too highly flavored. All that they desire is Democratic success. What do they expect to gain from that, no matter who is the nominal representative of the party? This question Mr. HALSTEAD answers. They expect to get payment for the greater part of the damage inflicted on them by the United States Government during the war. Doubtless, sectional animosity has much to do with their attachment to the Democracy; they are faithful to the party that has been faithful to them. Race prejudice too is involved, for they can rely on a Democratic administration to look on unperturbed while the negroes are "taught to keep their place." But more imperative, more practical, more universal with them, touching more closely the springs of individual action, and awakening a profounder feeling, is the expectation that, with a Democratic victory will come compensation from the National Treasury for their terrible losses.

The feeling is as natural as it is powerful. No one can contemplate the condition of the white people of the South since the war without a sentiment of pity. The war left them in poverty—not in commercial distress only, not embarrassed and depressed only, but in actual poverty. The money which each section lent its Government was largely represented by bonds. Those of the Union, from the surrender at Appomattox, continued to increase in value, and the income from them became more and more certain. Those of the South were wiped out, and with them went the millions that had been staked on the success of the rebellion. Every family in the broad region over which the Confederacy had extended felt the blow, and nearly all, in addition to the humiliation and grief of defeat, were brought face to face with a poverty which has ever since compelled them to a hard and doubtful struggle. It is not strange that the Southern whites are so nearly unanimous in desiring the success of a party from which they expect relief in this trying situation.

And certainly that they have reason to rely on a Democratic administration to bring them such relief was very clearly shown by Mr. HALSTEAD last evening. Mr. RITCHIE, a Democrat from Maryland, has expressly declared that to distinguish loyal and disloyal in paying for property taken by the Union Army is "a discrimination false in principle, pernicious in example, and unjust in operation." The War Claims Committee of the House, through Mr. CABELL, of Virginia, reported in favor of paying a claim, one of the parties of which was held to be loyal because he had been pardoned by ANDREW JOHNSON. And the committee—not one member, notice, nor a minority, but a regular standing committee—reported that in reference to property taken from Southern owners by the Union Armies, "the United States Government stands in the position of a trustee for the owner." On this remarkable pretension Mr. HALSTEAD very justly remarks: "I need not pause to speak of the scope of this proposition. It rolls over the whole case, as the waters cover the great deep, and all the leviathans of the Confederacy can sport therein." Mr. WILSHIRE, a Democrat from Arkansas, proposed to refer the Southern claims to the United States courts in the districts where the property was taken, the claims to be decided by local juries—a process which would relieve Mr. TILDEN of all necessity of vetoing bills on the subject. And finally, Mr. RIDDLE, a Democrat from Tennessee, has introduced a bill for paying any claim which is established by "the affidavit of the claimant, supported by the competent testimony of any reputable citizen." These are the various forms which, up to this time, the Democratic idea of paying for Southern losses has taken. It is obvious that they all spring from a firm conviction of the justice of the claims and a resolution to satisfy them from the Treasury at the earliest possible moment.

The defense of Gov. TILDEN against the allegation that his party will pay the rebel claims is disingenuous. He says that the payment is prohibited by the fourteenth amendment. The answer is that, first, the Democrats have not accepted, and do not accept, the fourteenth amendment, and second, that if they did, that amendment does not forbid the payment of the claims for property taken or destroyed by the Union Armies. And when Gov. TILDEN says that if the people will only give him a chance, he will veto the payment of the claims, the answer is that the Democrats can put the proposition in such a shape that he cannot veto it; that, if they did not, they could as easily compel him to accept it as they forced him to accept the repudiation of the Resumption act; and, finally, that it is very much safer to elect a President under whom the question cannot arise.

MECHANIC ARTS AT THE EXPOSITION.

It is said that the exhibitors in Machinery Hall, at the Centennial Exposition, are preparing to associate themselves in a permanent organization. To the casual observer this will seem a laudable undertaking. There is no apparent good reason why a large number of people, from various parts of the Republic, and from different countries, should not establish an association like this. The objects of such a union suggest themselves very naturally, and we can understand that mutual benefits, as well as international friendships, might grow from the proposed organization. But we must expect that a combination of machinists would at once meet with the criticisms and objections of those who have æsthetic reasons for their opposition. Indeed, some superfine people object to the material portion of the Exhibition as a whole, and to the machinery department especially. It is complained that we have made material prosperity our sole good, and that just when we were learning wiser ways the great Exhibition opened its doors and invited us to contemplate for one whole Summer our exceeding greatness and glory in material things. Here and there we find people who have carefully avoided the Exhibition because they were afraid that their senses might be captivated by the glamour which an ardent patriotism has thrown over the brave show of the products of the loom, shop, and anvil. One of these fastidious non-observers has expressed himself as of the opinion that there were never before gathered in one place "so many sewing-machines, reed-organs, pianos, tables, chairs, china-wares, silver-plated tea-pots, patent plows, and the hundred thousand other things that are on exhibition there." We can imagine how this critic will scorn the idea of an association of machinery exhibitors.

Another gloomy person thought it a striking comment on our barbarism—to put it forcibly—that we were obliged to hire a foreigner to give the music at the opening of the Centennial show. And another waxes lachrymose over the fact that the exhibit of pottery shows nothing fine from American wheels, though the clays and kaolins of our own land are as good as any beneath the sun. Of course, in this way one may go over every department of art and find abundant reason to deplore our backwardness. It may as well be confessed that much of the fine work in silver, gold, gems, and bronze, as well as much that is "high art" in textile fabrics and in furniture, is as purely imported as though it had passed through the Custom-house and had been duly appraised and taxed. For all purposes of argument or illustration, we may acknowledge that the workmen who have fashioned the artistic objects, and the artists who designed them, are not of native growth or education. The exhibit may be called American, but the paternity is undoubtedly foreign. In silver-ware, especially, we have little American taste and skill to boast of, though one class of critics applauds and another derides this particular branch of "material prosperity." All this, and more, may be granted, and still the Exhibition may be considered a real and permanent benefit to our people. The gentle souls who lament the necessity of trip-hammers and patent plows may groan over our deficiencies in what are called the highest arts of civilization, but the Exhibition was not designed to show our progress in plow-making to the neglect of painting and sculpture. In other words, the Exhibition, while it does bring to the front the perfection which we have attained in manufactures and the ruder arts, is no less eloquent concerning the departments of human activity in which we have small attainments. If the sewing-machines and pianos speak for themselves to our glory, the statues and paintings are no less conspicuous by their absence. We doubt, very much if any thoughtful American goes away from the Exhibition with a consciousness that this is the greatest country in all creation, because of the wonderful array of plated teapots, patent churns, and washing-machines which he has seen.

Possibly we have no reason to be proud of the advancement which we have made in the so-called highest arts of civilization. Nevertheless, it may be humbly claimed that we have done passably well, considering all things. We are very young. To be sure we brought with us to this savage continent the experience and example of our European ancestors, who had had as an heir-loom the priceless acquisitions of ages. But what with felling forests, building roads, towns, and cities, subduing wildernesses and exterminating savages, we have been excessively busy during the single century of our national existence. And it may be added that the first ten years of that eventful period were wasted in a long and exhausting struggle with our mother country, who objected to our setting up in life for ourselves. To find fault with us for our crude forms of civilization and our devotion to material prosperity, is like scolding a boy because he prefers the circus to the opera, and has no appreciation whatever of the delicate pleasures of the palate which soothe the declining years of his grandfather. The Exhibition, too, is not purely American. English iron, French bridge-building, and Spanish leather are conspicuous features of the material exhibits of which some people affect to think lightly or with regret. It is not certain that our Exhibition is especially strong in the material classes, as compared with London, Paris, and Vienna. At any rate, it was a good thing to bring so many nations together. Let us be glad that we are nearly done with felling the forests, and that a patient study of the arts is coming with our national manhood.

TALMAGE AND TRUTH.

In yesterday's TIMES there appeared a long letter in defense of Mr. TALMAGE, written by one of the officers of his congregation, and asserting that THE TIMES has "assumed that everything charged against him was true, and that everything he has rejoined is not." It is not the habit of this journal to found its criticisms of objectionable persons upon mere assumption, and its readers may be very certain that no criticism which could injure the reputation or lessen the influence for good of any Christian minister has ever appeared or will ever appear in its columns, unless the facts in the case fully justify such criticism. If Mr. TALMAGE or his friends will point out one false accusation which has been made against him in this journal, they will then have some ground for asserting that THE TIMES' strictures are based upon assumption instead of fact. This has not yet been done, and will not be done, for the sufficient reason that the facts completely sustain whatever THE TIMES has said.

It has been charged that Mr. TALMAGE while editor of the Christian at Work abused the trust reposed in him by surreptitiously inserting in its columns a notice of his resignation, accompanied with a puff of the rival paper to which he intended to transfer his services. In order to make sure that this device to injure his employers and benefit himself would succeed, he directed the foreman of the Christian at Work to keep the presses running all through the night of Oct. 9, and to thus place the edition before the public in advance of the usual time of publication and before the proprietors could interfere. At the same time an advertisement of TALMAGE'S new paper was placed in a conspicuous position in the last page of the Christian at Work, which was designed to allure the subscribers of the latter paper to transfer their patronage to the former.

That TALMAGE was guilty of this dishonorable trick he does not deny. The writer of the communication which appeared in yesterday's TIMES does, however, deny that TALMAGE caused the insertion of the advertisement on the last page. It is, to say the least, extremely improbable that the foreman of the paper inserted an advertisement of more than half a column in length without the authority of the editor; but whether he did or not is a minor matter. TALMAGE'S so-called valedictory, which he admits was inserted by his own order, was a free advertisement of the Advance, and as such was an effort to benefit that paper at the expense of TALMAGE'S employers.

In the Advance of last week TALMAGE defends himself by saying that his withdrawal from the Christian at Work was "no sudden change." "My final resignation was made Oct. 6, when I wrote I would sever relations with the Christian at Work one month from that day; but last Monday I found that the Christian at Work had been surreptitiously and without my knowledge sold to the publisher of a Unitarian paper, with an impression on the part of the purchaser that I would go with it. After that surreptitious act I considered my obligations to the paper had ceased at once and forever." Were this true it would constitute no defense for the abuse of a fiduciary position; but it so happens that it is not true. TALMAGE did not resign his position on the 6th of October. On the 9th of the month, at 12 o'clock at night, he mailed a letter dated Oct. 5, in which he resigned his position as editor. This letter was mailed, as the Post Office stamp shows, two hours after he had inserted his valedictory in the Christian at Work. Moreover, it was directed to the then chief stockholder of the paper at his residence at Ilion, N. Y.—although the stockholder was then in this City, as TALMAGE must have known—and was not received by him until the 14th. TALMAGE, in his defense, seeks to convey the impression that he had resigned prior to his surreptitious insertion of his valedictory card. The facts conclusively show that his resignation was mailed two hours after he had thus abused the confidence of his employers.

Another false impression sought to be conveyed by TALMAGE is that he resigned because the Christian at Work had passed into the hands of the Unitarians. In the same number of the Advance, from which quotation has just been made, he says: "The latest news is that the purchase of the Christian at Work by Mr. HALLOCK, of the Liberal Christian—a Unitarian journal—has gone into effect. How he will consolidate papers of such diverse characters remains to be seen." Now, the sale of the Christian at Work took place after, and not before TALMAGE'S withdrawal, and the gentleman to whom it was sold is a member of an orthodox Congregational Church, who has engaged Rev. Dr. TAYLOR to edit the paper. The only trace of truth in TALMAGE'S assertion is the fact that a year ago the gentleman in question was connected with the publication of the Liberal Christian. When TALMAGE wrote the paragraph above quoted he knew that the present proprietor of the Christian at Work was not a Unitarian; that he was not the publisher of the Liberal Christian; that he had engaged an eminent orthodox minister as the editor of his paper, and that no one dreamed of consolidating it into the Liberal Christian. Moreover, Mr. TALMAGE had repeatedly urged this alleged "Unitarian" to buy the Christian at Work and retain him as its editor. In view of these facts the public can judge what term is alone fit to characterize TALMAGE'S assertions and insinuations.

Now, these are facts, and not assumption; and when THE TIMES charges TALMAGE with dishonorable conduct and subsequent perversion of the truth, it does so not by ignoring his defense, but by simply exposing its real character. It is evident that his conception of what constitutes honorable conduct and strict veracity is as vague as his conception of inspiration. Last Sunday he introduced TUPPER to his congregation by asserting that the latter's "poetry" was "inspired by GOD," thus putting TUPPER on a level with the prophets and evangelists, and ranking his rubbish with the holy Scriptures. Such a man is obviously out of place in the pulpit of a Presbyterian church. We may overlook his vulgarity, ignorance, and folly, although they tend to bring religion into contempt with the young and thoughtless, but his whole conduct, in connection with his withdrawal from the Christian at Work is of a nature which deserves to be exposed and condemned. Christianity suffers, not by the exposure of such a man, but by his presence in the pulpit and the approval and support given him by Christian men who are ignorant of his real character. So far from injuring the ministry or the cause of Christ by exposing TALMAGE, the journal which performs that important duty is rendering a substantial service to the religion which inculcates honesty and veracity, and which forbids men to abuse trusts committed to them, or to bolster up their sinking reputations by bearing false witness against those whom they have injured.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

"I have reformed the corrupt administration of your State Canals," says Gov. TILDEN to a delegation of admirers who have waited upon him; and then to one of his reform officials, "Put 200 men to work on that lock. The county is dangerously close."

The only constitutional question on which Mr. TILDEN ever gave an opinion, was as to the right of secession. This was given in what has been called the "Kent letter," written in October, 1860. In this document, he declared that "the Republican Party had no moral right" to elect a President; and argued that the nation had no right to coerce South Carolina, or even defend its own forts.

Gov. HAYES does not blow his horn as a reformer, but he has so improved the prison system of Ohio that the prisons are not only self-supporting, but pay the State $100,000 annually. When a bill was passed by the Legislature of this State authorizing the employment of convicts and paupers in the penal institutions of New-York, Gov. TILDEN vetoed it, and talked about a "red spectre" to honest workmen.

It cannot be denied by any informed person that but a few years ago a majority of the Democratic Party favored the Pendleton plan of indirect repudiation. In other words, this majority, through its press and speakers, robbing the men whose money saved the Republic. The distinction in principle between robbing the friend who trusted us with his money in our dire necessity and robbing a bank, is not clear to the finite understanding.

Here is the record of Governor HAYES' "inexperience," to which Governor TILDEN has alluded and his friends are constantly clamoring about: Five years' active service in war, in all grades from a second lieutenant to a major-general; four years a member of Congress; nearly six years Governor of Ohio; and in the department of law, an eminent lawyer says of the two candidates, "the studies of Mr. HAYES were more comprehensive, and his practice has been far more general, than that of Mr. TILDEN."

On the 17th of June of last year the Democratic State Convention of Ohio, which met at Columbus, adopted a platform which the Cincinnati Commercial characterized as a "declaration of war upon the national credit." It added, "The programme of repudiation is made particularly clear." A few weeks later the Chicago Times said: "If Allen be elected, the immediate effect is very sure to be a prodigious rise in the threatening and dangerous tidal wave of inflation and repudiation. The political tradition which goes by the name of the Democratic Party will be forthwith pervaded in every part by an active and aggressive repudiation sentiment." And yet this journal has combined with the Allen repudiationists to elect Hendricks and Tilden. However, the threat of repudiation from the third State in the Union will, according to Mr. Belmont, probably tend to improve the public credit.

Was it in his character as a reformer that Gov. TILDEN vetoed the Convict Labor bill last session? Was he looking for the votes of the intelligent classes, or making a bid for those of the ignorant and prejudiced, when he vetoed a bill to make the thieves and vagabonds the County of New-York supports do something to earn the bread they eat? Even Gov. TILDEN'S ingenuity failed to supply him with a good reason for vetoing this excellent measure. In the weakest document which ever came from his pen, he driveled about the spectacle of a thief being made to earn his living appearing as a "red spectre" to honest workmen.

During the years that Gov. TILDEN was an influential member of the Democratic organization in this City, the following reforms were brought about, viz: In 1857, the reorganization of the Police force; in 1865, making the Fire Department a paid organization; in 1866, the Excise laws, the best the City ever had, and which Tammany Hall swept away when it obtained complete control; in the same year, the over-throw of the corrupt old Tammany Health organization; lastly, in 1873, the Police Justice Bill. Every one of these measures has been of immense benefit to the City, and to every one the "life-long reformer" was either actively or passively opposed.

For twelve years the whole pack of Democratic inflationists and rag-money madmen in the West have been howling about the 'sharks and shylocks of Wall street," by which they meant the bankers, capitalists, and men of wealth of New-York. Such lunatics as Dan VOORHEES and the Wash McLEANS have made it their daily occupation to cast the vilest terms of reproach upon the security-holders and solid men of this City, and have represented them to be the worst enemies of the people. It would only be exhibiting "the proper resentment of a gentleman" if our moneyed men would teach their Western defamers a lesson in political economy and polite manners at the same time by repudiating their chosen candidates, Hendricks and Tilden. This would be a fair exchange of favors,

The fox-like cunning of Tilden appears in no trick or campaign dodge so distinctly as in his sudden sealing of the lips of last-ditch Democrats and conspicuous unrepentant rebels. After the St. Louis Convention, the mouths of Toombs, Jefferson Davis, Ben Hill, Tucker, and Hamburg Butler were as closely closed as if a padlock had been fastened upon each particular mouth, and the keys carried in the cautious candidate's pocket. If so improbable a thing should happen as Tilden's election, we shall suddenly find Loomis tearing the old flag to tatters; Davis demanding a vindication of his treasonable course; Ben. Hill proving that Andersonville was the most perfect type of Soldiers' Home; Tucker demonstrating that under a strict construction of the Constitution, a petty official of Virginia has the reserved right to rifle the United States Mails, and the chivalrous assassin Butler, insisting upon the right to shoot negroes as a Southern privilege and pastime.

In political management, organization is everything. To thoroughly organize is to win a victory in advance. The proper unit of organization in a city is not the ward but the block or square. The Republican Committees in each large city of the State should select at once four active Republicans to serve as Election Day Committeemen for each block. Their duty should be to make themselves acquainted with the names of the legal voters in the block or side of the block in which they live, with a view of challenging all voters who claim to reside in blocks where they have no legal residence. These subcommittees men should act in co-operation with the Supervisor of Elections and his deputies, to whom they can render aid which will be invaluable. It will be a heavy load upon the consciences of Republicans if, through their inertness, a corrupt man should be elected President of the United States through fraud.

We are constantly hearing about Mr. TILDEN'S great public experience and Gov. HAYES' inexperience. Here is the record of Mr. TILDEN'S career, as given by a gentleman well qualified to speak on the subject: "He has never spoken in the Federal Courts; he has never been a member of the House of Representatives; he has never been thought of for the Senate; he has never had any experience in any executive department; he has no practical knowledge of naval or military affairs; he has not had the slightest experience in diplomacy; he has never so much as resided a week in Washington, to gain even an external familiarity with the vast and complicated official life of which it is the centre; he has never written a paper of any sort (until his Presidential campaign was decided upon) that showed any fair claim to a knowledge of any branch of public administration. He has simply been for a year a member of the New-York State Assembly, and for more than a year and a half Governor of New-York. He was once in a Constitutional Convention."

OBITUARY.

RANSOM H. GILLET.

Hon. Ransom H. Gillet, of Lebanon Springs, N. Y., died at Washington, D. C., last Tuesday evening. The deceased was born in New-Lebanon, Columbia County, in this State, Jan. 27, 1800, and was consequently in his seventy-seventh year. In early life he worked on his father's farm in the Summer, and at lumbering in the Winter season. In the Winter of 1819 he was employed in teaching school in St. Lawrence County, and with the money thus earned was enabled to attend the St. Lawrence Academy during the Summer months. In 1821 he entered the law office of Hon. Silas Wright, at Canton, still continuing to support himself by teaching. After his admission to the Bar, Mr. GILLET removed to Ogdensburg, where he remained for about twenty years. In 1827 he was appointed an Inspector of the State Militia, and was in 1830 appointed Postmaster of Ogdensburg, which office he held for three years. He was a member of the Baltimore Convention which in 1832 nominated Gen. Andrew Jackson to the Presidency, and in the same year was elected a Representative in Congress. In 1834 he was re-elected, and served as a member of the Committee on Commerce. In 1837 President Van Buren appointed him a Commissioner to treat with the Indian tribes in this State, in which service he was engaged until in 1839. In 1840 he was a delegate to the Baltimore Convention which renominated Martin Van Buren, after which he resumed the practice of law, and was so engaged until 1845, when President Polk appointed him Register of the Treasury, in which office he served until 1847. He was then appointed Solicitor of the Treasury, where he continued to serve until late in 1849, when he resumed the practice of law in this City. In 1853 he was appointed Assistant to the United States Attorney General, in which office he continued until 1858, when President Buchanan appointed him Solicitor of the Court of Claims. Mr. GILLET was the author of The Life and Times of Silas Wright, and other standard works.

LEWIS HOPPS.

Mr. Lewis Hopps died at his residence Saturday, Oct. 21, after a short illness. He was a prominent member of the Republican Party and an active worker in the ranks. He was born in Westchester County in 1831, but, removing in early life to New-York, became active in politics and was a prominent member of the old Fire Department. His loss will be severely felt by the Republicans in his district as well as by his numerous friends, to whom he was bound by more than ordinary ties of confidence and affection.

OBITUARY NOTE.

Mr. Nathan Lane, an old and esteemed merchant of this City, died suddenly on Monday at his residence in Brooklyn. Mr. Lane was born in the village of Red Mills, Putnam County, Oct. 12, 1815. At the age of twenty-one, he entered into partnership with Mr. Edward A. Lambert, in the stationery business, at No. 69 Wall street, where he had been successfully engaged for the last forty years. He was the brother of George W. Lane, City Chamberlain, under Mayor Havemeyer. His funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 125 Pierrepont street, Brooklyn, at 4:30 P. M., to-day.

THE REUNITED METHODISTS.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 25.—A large number of Methodist ministers and laymen, representing the Northern and Southern branches of the Church, held meetings here to-day for the establishment of more fraternal feelings between the two sections of their denomination than have prevailed since 1844. Bishops Foster, of Massachusetts; Kavanaugh, of Kentucky, and other representatives of the Northern and Southern divisions, delivered addresses, thanking God that a union has occurred after thirty-two years of separation in the largest ecclesiastical denomination of the United States.

VERIFYING THE REGISTRY.

PURGING OF FRAUDULENT NAMES.

ABOUT 5,000 CASES ALREADY DISCOVERED —ALPHABETICAL LISTS OF THE NAMES BEING MADE—TYPICAL CASES OF PERSONS WHO HAVE MOVED, ARE DEAD, OR DO NOT RESIDE AT THE PLACES INDICATED.

Some of the beneficial results of the revision and verification of the registry of voters in this City were made manifest yesterday on the examination of the reports from the various election districts by Chief Supervisor Davenport. One very curious point has been especially noted, and that is the astonishing number of persons who have moved or are about to move from the districts in which they have registered. The average of such persons is about four to each election district, or about twenty-five hundred in all. Besides these, numerous cases have been discovered of registration by persons under age, or persons not having resided in the State the requisite length of time. With these, too, come the cases of persons whose names appear on the lists as living at low lodging-houses in the lower portion of the City, and of others who register from numbers in certain streets which have no such numbers. The work of verification, though not entirely or completely done as yet, still shows that the names of about five thousand persons appear on the registry thus far, the possessors of which are for one reason or other not entitled to vote. The completion of the work will doubtless increase the number of such persons. Alphabetical lists are now being prepared, under Mr. Davenport's supervision, of the names of persons found not entitled to vote by reason of non-residence, insufficient length of residence, minority, removal, and death. In the cases of removal, as in the cases of death, the precautions taken are much needed. Even where persons have moved from the residences from which they were registered, and have not given notification at the place of registry, and do not really intend to violate the law by voting, there is still the danger to be apprehended, since other persons will attempt to vote on their names. That this is no idle fear will be seen from the fact that many persons are registered in districts from which they moved many months, and in some cases over a year, ago. The names, too, have been put on the registry lists of persons who have been dead for months. It must not be forgotten that the 5,000 names referred to above, which have been obtained in the verification of the registry by the United States Deputy Marshals, do not comprise the whole number of the persons suspected of attempting fraud. Allowance has to be made and precautions will be taken to prevent voting on the part of persons who have obtained their naturalization papers through fraud. Ten thousand or more of such papers are still in existence, and attempts may, and probably will, be made by persons to vote on the strength of them. To check such endeavors the printed list of the bogus papers made out in 1868 will be used.

In glancing over the reports made by the aids to the Supervisor yesterday, it was curious to note the subterfuges and devices employed by persons. A few typical cases are appended. Thus, one man registers from a noted house of prostitution in West Thirty-first street. Four men register as living at No. 258 West Twenty-seventh street, who do not reside there. Three persons are registered from No. 22 East Twenty-fourth street, though the house at that place is closed, and has a notice of "to let" on its walls. One man registers from No. 304 Ninth avenue, when in reality there is no such number on the avenue. Two persons put down as at No. 327 West Twenty-ninth street, do not reside there. In West Twenty-eighth street a man is registered who died a few months ago, while in the Fourth Assembly District occurs the registration of a man who has been dead for three years. A man is registered from No. 211 West Eighteenth street who left that place six months ago. In West Twenty-fifth street is the case of a man who has been in the country only nine years, and has papers from the Supreme Court dated in 1868. In the Eleventh Assembly District also attention has been called to the existence of a club of young men under age, all of whom have registered. Inquiry made at the house of a member of the club shows that he was under age, and further investigation will be had. In West Twenty-second street is the case of a man who has only resided five months in the State and whose name appears on the registry. At No. 349 West Nineteenth street is the case of one under age, and another of the same kind occurs in West Seventeenth street. A person named Thomas Fry registers as of No. 250 West Seventeenth street, whereas no such person resides there. On the registry, as of No. 253 West Eighteenth street, occurs the name of Patrick Dacey, white, while in reality no white person of that or any other name resides there. From No. 249 West Twenty-fifth street are the cases of two persons who have moved to Brooklyn. Thomas Leigh, who registers as at No. 30 Bowery, does not live there. Two men are registered from No. 243 Mulberry street who are not to be found at the place in question. One Martin E. Black registered from No. 190 Bowery, which is tenanted by nobody except a colored man who sleeps there occasionally when he comes in from the country. John McIntyre, who moved, two or three weeks ago, from No. 82 Mulberry street, appears on the registry as from that place. Two men, who are vagrants, appear as residing at No. 8 Centre street. In the Fifth Assembly District occur the names of five men as residing at a hotel. Inquiry showed that the only claim to residence on the part of the men was in their occupying chairs in the bar-room. One case appears of a man who registers as from the fourth story of No. 12 Roosevelt street. The Marshal on reaching the place discovered that the house was a lodging-house only two stories in height. Three men living in Thirteenth avenue, between Bethune and Banks streets, register as residing in an unoccupied storehouse in West Twelfth street. A man is registered from No. 12 Morton street who never lived there. Michael Welsh registers from No. 629 Greenwich street, but has not lived there for some time. A man's name is on the registry as residing at No. 136 Perry street. At the number indicated, however, there is only an untenanted stable. One case occurs in the Fourth Assembly District in which three persons are registered from a house which burned down three months ago. Two men register from No. 808 Greenwich street, one each from Nos. 773 and 798 Washington street, and from Nos. 80 and 86 Horatio street, none of them residing at the respective places. One Thomas Keleoyne is registered as from No. 317 West Fourth street, but does not live at the place, and is not known in the neighborhood. The same is true of Eugene H. Lecour, who is put down as from No. 137 West Tenth street, and of John Gallagher, of No. 357 West Fifteenth street. William L. Macauley appears as residing at No. 35 Barrow street, but there is no such number in the street, and No. 33 Barrow street is a large tenement-house, in which no person of the name resides. One Shepherd Robinson, colored, is set down as residing at No. 20 Cornelia street, but neither he nor any other colored person resides at the place. Samuel Ferguson does not reside at No. 16 Eighth avenue, though his name so appears on the registry. Another man is registered as from No. 583 Hudson street, but investigation showed that there is no such number on the street, and the man himself is not known in the neighborhood. One man appears as from No. 45 and another from No. 15 Perry street, neither of them residing at the respective places. Three men register from No. 199 Washington street, though neither resides there. Cases where persons do not reside at the places from which they appear to have registered also occur at No. 43 Bowery, No. 45 Rivington street, Nos. 326 and 295 Broome street, No. 110 Chrystie, No. 95 Eldridge, Nos. 71 and 95 Forsyth, No. 109 Orchard, and many other places. At No. 126 Forsyth occur the cases of two men; one of these has moved, the other is not a voter. In the Eighth Assembly District alone over one hundred cases of false registration are reported. The house at No. 341 Stanton street is occupied by one John Smith, and eight persons are registered from it. The place is reported as a bucket shop. One case occurs in Vandewater street, in which three persons appear as residing in a house from which they were ejected some time ago. Fourteen persons are registered as residing in the lodging-house at No. 149 Chatham street, but the names of the men are not on the hotel register of the place. From No. 18 Roosevelt street Charles Schwab registers. He has been in the country only four months. In James street is the case of a man living in Brooklyn; at No. 37 Oliver street occurs the case of a man who has been dead three months; one person under age registers from No. 94 Roosevelt street, and another from No. 70 New Chambers street. John Conroy registers from No. 525 Pearl street, but has not resided there for a year past.

Mr. D. W. Wright, Republican Supervisor of the Seventh Election District of the Third Assembly District, in verifying the registration list yesterday, was unable to find Thomas Dodd, who gave his residence in a basement of a building which has no basement. At No. 66 Prince street the proprietor refused to give him any information as to the residents of the building, one of the persons he was searching for being registered from the second story of that house.

Some of the work done, and notably so that in the Fourth and Sixth Wards and other places in the lower part of the City, will be carefully gone over again. In the meantime the number of those seeking naturalization is increasing. About one thousand persons have been naturalized thus far during the present week. The most of the work has been done by the Superior Court, to which the Tammany Hall Committee is now sending the majority of its customers. A United States Marshal is in attendance in the State courts, however, and is keeping a sharp lookout for attempted frauds.

THE WORK IN BROOKLYN.

The Republicans have just completed the verification of the first two days registry, and are now at work on the third. Evidence of fraud in nearly twelve hundred cases has been discovered and furnished to the Chief Supervisor of Election. Information was obtained yesterday tending to show that a number of men from Philadelphia had registered in this city. Committees have been set to work in all the odd-numbered Wards to ascertain the names of the "thirty-day" men colonized by the Democrats. Under the United States law, all of these who have moved into the odd numbered wards merely for the purpose of gaining a technical residence and voting on election day can be arrested and indicted for conspiracy to defeat the free expression of the will of the people at the ballot-box. No means will be left untried to prevent illegal voting on election day.

AMUSEMENTS.

GENERAL MENTION.

The arrival at Boston of Mme. Januauschek is reported.

The afternoon and evening performances at the Academy of Music, in aid of the Catholic Orphan Asylum, occur to-day. We refer the reader to another column for the list of attractions—one of the most liberal and comprehensive ever prepared.

The tenor Mazzoleni, Mme. Ortolani-Brignoli, a boy pianist, Master Mazzoleni, who is said to be possessed of extraordinary talent, Mr. Arbuckle, and several artists of good repute, will take part in Mr. Fryer's fourth Sunday concert at Booth's Theatre.

Miss Jane Coombs has joined the company at the Fifth Avenue Theatre. Miss Fanny Davenport reappears at that house in "As You Like It," on Nov. 11. The recovery of Mr. Stephen Fisk is also to be recorded—with pleasure—while summarizing the tidings from Mr. Daly's establishment.

The public rehearsal previous to Mr. Thomas' first symphony concert occurs at Steinway Hall this afternoon. Berlioz's dramatic symphony called "Romeo and Juliet," Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, and Schubert's fantasy in C, opus 15, arranged for piano and orchestra by Liszt—Mme. Schiller being the pianist—will be interpreted.

Miss Neilson arrived from Europe, yesterday, by the Cunard steam-ship Scythia. She is in excellent health. Her representations in the United States under the management of Mr. Max Strakosch, commence at the Walnut Street Theatre, in Philadelphia, on Monday next, and they will introduce the artist to the American public in several Shakesperean rôles which she has not yet essayed. Miss Neilson is not likely to perform in this City until Spring—a fact which will no doubt be generally regretted.

The Aimée Opera Bouffe troupe gave its final performance, previous to departing for Havana, at the Academy of Music, last evening. "La Fille de Mme. Angot" was sung. The representation was one of much greater interest and merit than its predecessors, for M. Raoult, who is seldom heard to advantage, proved to be an exceedingly good Ange Pitou, and four clever personations, supplied by M. Duplan, M. Reine, M. Branclart and Mlle. Gueymard, were enjoyed in addition to Mlle. Aimée's Clairette. The company sail for Cuba to-day; on their return to New York, three months hence, they will make known "La Petite Mariée," "La Boulangère a des Ecus," "La Reine Indigo" and several other novelties.

A programme of Wagner music was yesterday evening interpreted at Steinway Hall by Mr. Thomas' orchestra. It included the introduction to "Tristan und Isolde," "Der Ritt der Walkuenen," and the "Fire Scene" from "Die Walküre," all of which numbers have been played again and again by Mr. Thomas' forces; and it made known, besides, the "Schmeizlied" and "Schmiedelied," from "Siegfried." Herr Biechoff was the vocalist throughout the selections from "Siegfried," and very hard and thankless was his task. The "Song of the Sword" is illustrative enough as part of the opera, but in the concert-room it is mere clangor. It was clear, too, through its interpretation, last night, that the "mystic gulf" into which Herr Wagner plunges his band is essential to no slight proportion of his work. During the representations at Bayreuth the 112 executants never once drowned the singers' tones, while, last night, the audience was often literally deafened. No one need be told that Herr Wagner knows how to write for an orchestra, but there is such a thing as too sonorous instrumentation—too sonorous, be it said, when the composer's intentions are not respected in every detail.

MR. JULIAN HAWTHORNE AND HIS STORIES.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I learn by a paragraph in your issue of Sept. 19 ult., that you are aggrieved by the discovery that a story of mine, contributed by me to the Cornhill Magazine, and republished in the literary department of THE TIMES, had already appeared some years previous in New-York. You call me a "versatile" person, and make severe reflections upon the "sharp practice of selling the same wares twice." You gave the story in your Sunday issue as if it were contributed by me directly to you, and did not credit it to Cornhill at all. * * * I submitted my story to the editor of the Cornhill, advising him that the idea upon which it is founded had been before treated by me; and further observing that after doubting whether or not to throw it into the form of a short novel, I had finally decided to fix it in its present form. And this form, let me say, is widely different from that of the earlier version in Harper's Bazar. The whole subject has been conceived afresh; the tone and sentiment are modified; much new matter is added, much omitted; while of what remains scarcely a paragraph in the two versions is identical. It was altered, moreover, not from any motive of concealment—on the contrary, I purposely adhered as nearly as possible to the original form—but in accordance with the demands of maturer critical and intellectual experience. And had the earlier version, as it stood, satisfied my later judgment, I should have forborne to offer it for republication only because it embodied no literary advance or improvement—wherefore no end except a pecuniary one would thereby have been served. I am not superior to pecuniary considerations; but neither am I so portent with me as to incline me to foist stale work upon the public, or to descend to empty and gratuitous self-repetition.

* * * * * * * * *

Let me add that in the course of the next few months I intend publishing in English magazines, several short stories, some of which own a more or less distant relationship to tales printed some years since in America. I would counsel you not to "republish" these stories in THE SUNDAY TIMES. Hereafter, however, should they be collected in a volume for English circulation, you will be free to make what extracts you may choose, since the copyright will then belong to the English publisher, and not to your obedient servant,

JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

THE ANTI-TAMMANYITES.

The Anti-Tammany Conference Committee met yesterday afternoon, in Irving Hall, Ira Shafer presiding. Hon. Emanuel B. Hart, Chairman of the Sub-Conference Committee, reported that good progress was being made in the effort to form a coalition against Tammany Hall, and an adjournment was taken pending the action of the Republican County Convention.

THE BALTIMORE RACES.

TOM OCHILTREE AND PAROLE BOTH DEFEATED.

FOUR FINE CONTESTS OF SPEED ON THE PIMLICO RACE-COURSE — ALL THE FAVORITES BEATEN — THE DIXIE STAKES WON BY A FIELDER — ADD'S GREAT TRIUMPH IN THE TWO-MILE STRUGGLE.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25.—At the Pimlico Race-course to-day the track was heavy, the attendance good, and the weather cloudy and cold. The first race was a dash of three-quarters of a mile, for maidens of all ages. Before the start, Lorillard's entry, Doswell's entry, Rappahannock and Sunbeam were the favorites. There was a good start when Danville led off, with Gale second, Surge third, and the others well together. At the quarter Courier took the lead, with Old Socks second, Danville third, and Sunbeam fourth. At the half-mile Courier had gone to the front, and on the lower turn Sunbeam took the second place. Down the home-stretch the running was good, Sunbeam going to the front, with Waller second, Danville third, and Courier, Rappahannock, Gale, Odd Socks, Surge, and Star of Elkhorn in the order named.

SUMMARY.

FIRST RACE.—Dash of three-quarters of a mile for maidens of all ages; entrance $15; purse $250; entrance money to the second horse.

Sunbeam, Barrett	1
Waller, Goodwin	2
Danville, Swim	3
Courier	0
Rappahannock	0
Gale	0
Odd Socks	0
Surge	0
Star of Elkhorn	0

Time—1:21½.

For the second race, before the start, Lorillard's entry was the favorite, selling even against the field. There was a fine start, when Parole led off, with Sultana second, Heretog third, Algerine fourth, Vigil fifth, and Shirley sixth. At the quarter Sultana went to the front, and there was no other change until they reached the three-quarter pole, when Parole again ran to the front. In that position they passed the judges' stand, and ran to the quarter on the backstretch, when Vigil went to the front, with Parole second, Heretog third, Algerine fourth, Shirley fifth, and Sultana last. Around the lower turn Parole again took the first place, but was closely pressed by Vigil, and Heretog was at his flank. On the homestretch Vigil made a brush and took the lead, with Parole second, Heretog third, followed by Algerine, Shirley, and Sultana, in the order named, and thus the race was finished.

SUMMARY.

SECOND RACE—Dixie Stakes, for three-year-olds, two miles, $300 subscriptions, $100 forfeit; Messrs. A. B. Lewis & Co. to add $2,000; Club to add $2,000, of which $1,200 to the second horse, and $800 to the third. Sixty-four nominations.

D. McDaniel's (James A. Grinstead's) b. c. Vigil, by Vigil, dam Reagan, by Lexington	1
P. Lorillard's br. g. Parole, by imp. Leamington, dam Maiden, by Lexington	2
B. G. Thomas' b. c. Heretog, by imp. Australian, dam Dixie, by imp. Sovereign	3
Doswell & Camm ch's b. c. Algerine, by Abd el Kadir, dam Nina, by Boston	4
P. Lorillard's b. g. Shirley, by Lexington, dam Miss Carter, by Sovereign	5
A. Belmont's (John Hunter's) b. f. Sultana, by Lexington, dam Mildred	6

Time—3:41½.

WINNERS OF THE DIXIE STAKE.

Year.	Winner.	Sire.	Wt.	Starters.	Time.
1872.	Hubbard	Planet	110	9	3:36½
1873.	Tom Bowling	Lexington	110	4	3:38
1874.	Vandalite	Vandal	107	15	3:35½
1875.	Tom Ochiltree	Lexington	110	10	3:42½
1876.	Vigil	Vigil	110	6	3:41½

The stake was called the Dinner Party Stake in 1870, and was won by Preakness; in 1871 it was called the Reunion Stake, and was walked over by Harry Bassett.

In the third race Cloverbrook, who was the favorite, led off in the start, with Bombast second, Oriole third, Princeton fourth, and Susquehanna fifth. As they started, so they ran to the quarter-stretch, but in the back-stretch, Princeton lapped Cloverbrook. On the lower turn, Susquehanna ran to the front, with Bombast second, Cloverbrook third, Princeton and Oriole following. Down the back-stretch the racing was very fair, and Susquehanna came to the score a half-length ahead of Bomoast, who led Princeton one length, with Cloverbrook fourth, and Oriole last.

SUMMARY.

THIRD RACE.—Central Stakes, for two-year-olds; $50 subscription, play or pay, $600 added, of which $100 goes to second horse. One mile.

A. Belmont's ch. f. Susquehanna, by Leamington, dam Susquehanna	1
P. Lorillard's b. g. Bombast, by Bonnie Scotland, dam Gemma, by Jack Malone	2
D. McDaniel's b. c. Princeton, by Oak Hall, dam Imp. Wombat	3
E. A. Clauch's ch. c. Cloverbrook, by Vauxhall, dam Hanina	0
Oden Bowie's ch. f. Oriole, by Kingfisher, dam My Maryland, by Brown Dick	0

Time—1:49¾.

The fourth race was a greater surprise than even the preceding ones. Tom Ochiltree was the favorite at $250 to $95 against the field. Add took the lead, with Athlene second, Tom Ochiltree third, Partnership fourth, and Paladin fifth. At the quarter, Paladin had run to the second place, and Athlene fell off the rear; and at the half mile Add led Tom Ochiltree three lengths, who was two lengths ahead of Paladin. There was no further change to the three-quarter, when Partnership ran to the second place and Paladin went back to the fourth. The heat was then between Tom Ochiltree, Add and Partnership, the others being out of the race. Coming into the homestretch, Tom Ochiltree went to the front, with Partnership second, and Add third, and thus they passed the score.

For the second heat Tom Ochiltree stood still better in the pools; but Add again led off, with Partnership second, and Tom Ochiltree third. There was no change of position until the first mile was accomplished, when Partnership went to the front, with Add second, and Tom Ochiltree brought up the rear. At the quarter it was evident that Tom Ochiltree had gone up, and the heat was finished by Add leading Partnership five lengths, and Tom Ochiltree distanced. Add then galloped over the course and completed the race.

SUMMARY.

FOURTH RACE.—Two-mile heats, for all ages; maidens allowed, if three years, 3 pounds; if four years, 7 pounds; if five years and upward, 12 pounds; purse, $600 for the first horse, $100 for the second.

Add, by Revolver, dam Skylight	3	1	1
Partnership, by Asteroid, dam Katona	2	2	0
Tom Ochiltree, by Lexington, dam Katona	1	dis.

Time—3:47¾, 3:46¾.

POOL-SELLING IN BALTIMORE.

The pools on to-morrow's races were sold at Barnum's and Johnston's to-night as follows:

FIRST RACE.—One Mile.—Piccolo, $30, $25; Inspiration, $16, $11; Palladeon, $6, $5; the field, consisting of Hookirk, Problem, and Matador, $4, $4.

SECOND RACE.—Mile Heats.—Virginia, $100, $85; Grit, $71, $66; May D., $35, $31; Lusmore, $28, $25; Outcast, $25, $16; Ambush, $16, $12; Cyclic, $10, $12; Red Coat, $9, $12; Courier, $8, $8; Hatteras, $8, $7.

THIRD RACE.—The Handicap Stakes.—Burgoo, 115 pounds, $46, $45; Shylock, 114 pounds, $36, $35; Big Sandy, 118 pounds, $27, $22; Shirley, 100 pounds, $10, $10; Mary, 92 pounds, $10, $10; Rappahannock, 99 pounds, $5, $8; Paladin, $4, $5.

FOURTH RACE.—Steeplechase.—Resolute barred out; Leo, Hammer, $125 and $30; Risk, $100 and $25; Doubtful, $50 and $12; Lorena, $28 and $6.

THE VALLEY STREAM MYSTERY SOLVED.

The mystery connected with the murder of little Maggie Bauer has at last been cleared up. A man named McConochie, who was arrested some weeks ago on suspicion of being the perpetrator of the crime, on being taken from the Queens County Jail to the scene of the murder yesterday, was overcome with terror, and made a full confession. He said that when the murder was committed on Aug. 14, he was in a corn-field, when Maggie went to show Kate Hoffman the way through the woods to the Valley Stream Depot. He saw them both go by the field; he watched Maggie's return, and as she got opposite to him he sprang out and seized her by the throat to prevent her from making a noise, the poor child meanwhile, crying, "Ma! Ma!" After choking Maggie he carried her through the corn-field and attempted to violate her person. During the recital of the horrible narrative, the mother of Maggie, who was present, sprang at the prisoner and grasped him by the throat, and would no doubt have cooked him to death, but for the interference of the officers. At Valley Stream Depot, when McConochie's confession had been noised about, a crowd gathered, and procuring a rope, threatened to lynch the prisoner, which was only prevented by the determined resistance made by the officers having him in charge. He was finally returned in safety to his cell at Jamaica. McConochie is twenty-seven years old and a native of this country.

ASSEMBLY NOMINATIONS.

The delegates to the Third Assembly District Republican Convention of Westchester County met yesterday in Union Hall, Pleasantville. The name of Gen. James W. Husted was offered, and no other candidate being proposed, his nomination was made by acclamation. If elected this will make the ninth term Gen. Husted has represented his district in the Assembly.

Peter Fogerty was last night nominated for the Assembly by the Independent Democrats of the Third Assembly District of Kings County.

Stephen J. O'Hare was last evening nominated for Assembly by the Eighteenth Assembly District Tammany Hall Convention.

Francis M. Tichenor, a lawyer, has received the Democratic nomination for Assembly in the Second District of Essex County, N. J.

The Democratic nominations for Assembly in Union County, N. J., are John Egen, First District; Charles Lee Avery, Second District; Cornelius A. Runkle, Third District.

CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATIONS.

GEN. SICKLES DECLINES THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION IN THE NINTH DISTRICT, AND IT IS GIVEN TO MR. GEORGE W. DA CUNHA.

The Republican delegates to the Ninth Congressional Convention met last night at Republican-Hall, No. 352 West Thirty-fifth street, ex-Alderman S. V. R. Cooper in the chair; Counselor Nathan Lewis acting as Secretary. Col. George M. Dusenbury, of the committee to inform Gen. Daniel E. Sickles of his nomination as Representative for Congress, reported that the General declined the nomination on the ground that by the Constitution of the United States he, as a military officer is ineligible to the office. The convention then proceeded to make nominations. Mr. George W. Da Cunha, of the Fifteenth Assembly District, was nominated by acclamation. The convention then proceeded in a body to the house of the nominee, who, being informed of the nomination, accepted the same in a happy speech. Speeches were made by Prof. Hunt, Alderman Cooper, William Peterkin, William N. Loew, and then the convention adjourned sine die, with the assurances of having made an excellent nomination.

Mr. George W. Da Cunha, the Republican nominee for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District, was born in 1838 in the Island of Madeira, while his parents were traveling abroad. When thirteen years of age he came to this City to receive his education, and seven years later left school to study the profession of architect. While pursuing his profession the rebellion broke out, and his sympathies were at once enlisted with the Northern cause. The call for Northern troops came while he was yet waiting an opportunity to give patriotic expression to his loyalty to the Government, and within three days he had disposed of his entire business, organized a company, and started for the battle-field. When the great Union meeting was held in Union square, in 1861, his voice was added to the many rinding appeals then uttered for the preservation of the Union. He had been in active service but a short time when his regiment successfully passed a competitive examination, and was made part of the Engineer Brigade of the Army of the Potomac, and thereafter served under the command of Gen. Newton, whose name is honorably associated with the recent engineering triumph at Hell Gate. During his three years' connection with the brigade he never lost a single day's service, and when he returned in 1864 he had won the rank of captain. After his return he resumed his profession as architect, and has continued it ever since. A thorough gentleman in his bearing, and generous in disposition, Mr. Da Cunha has won an enduring popularity among the residents of his district, and will undoubtedly poll a large vote.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

Ex-Mayor John W. Hunter was yesterday nominated to Congress by the McLaughlin Democrats of the Third Congressional District of Kings County.

The Anti-Tammany Congressional Convention in the Fifth District, last evening nominated Col. Michael C. Murphy, by a vote of sixty-two to twenty-two for ex-Justice Edward Hogan. Col. Murphy served in the Union army during the rebellion, and has represented the First Assembly District three times in the State Legislature.

On motion of Dr. Feodore Mierson, the Anti-Tammany Congressional Convention of the Tenth District last evening nominated Abram S. Hewitt.

SCHOOL SUITS.—Large stock at greatly reduced prices. BROKAW BROTHERS, Fourth avenue, opposite Cooper Institute.—Exchange.

THE RETORT GAS HEATER, made by the RETORT GAS STOVE COMPANY, of Providence, R. I., completely revolutionizes the art of making gas heaters, being constructed on a new and scientific principle. Before ignition the gas passes into a retort, where it is heated and expanded. This renders it capable of uniting with the necessary quantity of air, and makes the combustion perfect, not a particle or unconsumed gas, smell, or smoke being emitted. It is economical, as it requires but two-thirds as much gas as other heaters, while comparative tests show an increase in radiation of three hundred per cent in favor of the RETORT.—Advertisement.

THE OLD QUAKER that assumed a need in the perfumed young dandy to cover up something unpleasant was half right. No reason is B. T. BABBITT. For he makes his BABY SOAP seem less, that his great may not be contrasted with that of persons who make the sever ge toilet soap. "BABY SOAP" only needs to be tested to drive all others from use in the chamber and bath-room. It's the purest and best of soaps for all classes of people.—Advertisement.

THE HIGHEST AWARD granted any exhibitor by Centennial exposition is given the ELASTIC TRUSS Co. for SILK ELASTIC TRUSSES. Sold only at 683 Broadway. —Advertisement.

POND'S EXTRACT for Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Burns, and all inflammation. Its wonderful curative influence is long maintained.—Advertisement.

A Case of Consumption and one of Whooping-cough Cured.—The following, from a highly respectable gentleman, speaks for itself:

KEYPORT, N. J., May 20, 1868.

GENTLEMEN: This certifies that I was for many years afflicted with a disease of the lungs, until I became so weak that I was with difficulty I could walk. My cough during this time was very severe, causing me frequently to raise great quantities of blood, attended with pr ine night sweats. After using various remedies to no purpose, I was advised by WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. I did so, and before using the first bottle I was entirely restored to perfect health and strength. I would also mention that this Balsam cured a little girl of mine of a severe attack of whooping-cough, when her life was given over by the physician and all other remedies had failed.

JOSIAH HOFF.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Sudden Changes of the Weather often cause Pulmonary, Bronchial, and Asthmatic troubles. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES will allay irritation which induces coughing, oftentimes giving immediate relief.

Parker's Hair Balsam is the Best and Cleanest preparation ever made for restoring Gray Hair to its original color, and for renewing its life and beauty. It removes dandruff and stops the hair falling. It is entirely harmless and free from those impure ingredients that render many other preparations injurious.

It would be ridiculous for those who use SOZODONT to decry it, for the moment they open their mouths the sweetness of their breath would contradict the manner of their tongues. It removes discolorations, imparts a glistening whiteness to the enamel, and renders the decomposition of the teeth impossible.

First Premium

Awarded by Centennial Exposition to ELECTRO SILICON. The best article for cleaning and polishing silverware and household utensils. Sold by druggists, house-furnishers, jewelers, and grocers.

Everdell's, 302 Broadway.—Wedding, ball cards, or acts of fancy or foreign note paper; lowest prices. Established 1840.

Use Brummell's Celebrated Cough Drops. The genuine have C. H. B. on each drop.

A $3 Felt Hat $1 90. Silk Hats $3 80, worth $6. Also 10 New Church st., up stairs.

To Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain, and cures wind colic.

MARRIED.

FUSSELL—FOWLER.—On Oct. 11, 1876, at Baltimore, Md., by Rev. Hobart H. Smith, assisted by Rev. Y. Peyton Morgan, MORDECAI T. FUSSELL, of New-York, to ISABEL S. FOWLER, of Baltimore.

FUSSELL—FARRELL.—On Oct. 24, 1876, at the residence of the bride's parents, Newark, N. J., by Rev. Dr. Fish, R. THOMAS FUSSELL to Miss LAURA A. FARRELL.

LODER—HILL.—At the residence of the bride's parents, East Pitchester, Conn., Wednesday, Oct. 25, by Rev. S. M. Hammond, Geo. S. LODER to IDA G., only daughter of Sylvester Hill, Esq. No cards.

MOORE—REED.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Oct. 25, by Rev. James S. Ramsey, H. CHARLES MOORE, of Springfield, Mass., to JENNIE LU GAN REED, of New-York City.

☞ Springfield papers please copy.

STEWART—WILSON.—On Wednesday, Oct. 25, at Trinity Chapel, by Rev. C. S. Brewster, of Rye, N. Y., Mr. FRANK H. STEWART, of White Plains, N. Y., to MARY L., eldest daughter of Thomas B. Wilson, of New-York.

☞ Burlington, Vt., papers please copy.

DIED.

BALDWIN.—On Monday, Oct. 23, 1876, TIMOTHY BALDWIN, in the 87th year of his age.

Funeral services from his late residence, 83d st., west of 3d av., on Thursday, Oct. 26, at 3 P. M. Relations and friends are respectfully invited to attend without further notice.

BARNETT.—CHARLES E. BARNETT, at Hemostead, Long Island, on Oct. 25, aged two years and six months.

BEMEN.—At Ridgewood, N. J., ELIJAH T. BEMAN.

Funeral services at the house of his son, C. Bemen, Ridgewood, Tuesday, 28th inst., 3:30 P. M. Trains leave foot of Barclay and Christopher sts. at 2 P. M. Carriages at depot. Remains will be taken to Cypress Hills for interment.

BLACK.—Oct. 25, 1876, JAMES WHITLOCK, second son of James and Rebecca Black, aged 9 months and 25 days.

Funeral from the residence of his parents, No. 442 West 33d st., on the 26th inst., at 1 P. M. Relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

BOWDEN.—On Wednesday, Oct. 25, ROSE, wife of Andrew Bowden, in the 31st year of her age.

Funeral from her late residence, No. 362 West 32d st., on Saturday, at 12 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

CARROLL.—At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on the 13th inst., Mrs. CAROLINE M., daughter of the late Hon. Amos Abbott, of Andover, Mass., and wife of Rev. George R. Carroll.

GODON.—At San Rafael, California, on the 22d of September, 1876, FREDERICK WILLIAM GODON, M. D., only son of Rear Admiral Godon, U. S. Navy.

HAFF.—On the 24th inst., at Hemostead, Long Island, EBENEZER HAFF, in the 81st year of his age.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, Hemostead, Long Island, Thursday, 26th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M.

HOPKINS.—At Haledon, N. J., on 22d inst., of bronchial consumption, SARA L. ("Cielly") wife of Jerome Hopkins, of New-York.

Funeral at Burlington, Vt.

LANE.—Suddenly, in Brooklyn, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876, of pneumonia, NATHAN LANE, aged 61 years.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend funeral services from his late residence, No. 125 Pierrepont st., on Thursday, Oct. 26, at 4:30 P. M., without further notice.

LORTON.—On Wednesday, Oct. 25, Mrs. SARAH LORTON, in her 80th year.

Funeral service will take place at her late residence, No. 241 West 47th st., on Friday, at 9 A. M. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. Interment at Tarrytown.

MERRILL.—At New-Bedford, Mass., Oct. 18, 1876, MARY C., wife of Capt. Edward Merrill.

MOORE.—On Wednesday, Oct. 25, at her residence, Leonia, N. J., CLARISSA VREELAND, widow of the late Samuel J. Moore, in the 76th year of her age.

Notice of the funeral hereafter.

PRYOR.—On the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 24, KATHARINE MITCHELL, wife of the late James W. Pryor, in the 69th year of her age.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral services at her late residence, No. 25 Gramercy Park, at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning.

SHAW.—On Monday evening, 23d inst., ROBERT LUDLOW SHAW, son of the late James W. Shaw, in the 62d year of his age.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend his funeral on Thursday morning, 26th inst., at 10 o'clock from his late residence, No. 38 West 46th st.

SMITH.—At Jersey City Heights, on Tuesday, the 24th inst., ALEXANDER SMITH, in the 84th year of his age.

His relatives and friends are invited to attend his funeral on Thursday, the 26th inst., from the First Presbyterian Church, Emory st., Jersey City Heights, at 1 o'clock. No flowers. Monticello avenue cars from Jersey City Ferry cross Emory st.

TAYLOR.—On the 24th inst., at Portland, Conn., CHARLES GUSTAVUS TAYLOR, of this City, in the 61st year of his age.

WALKER.—On Tuesday, Oct. 24, HAMILTON WALKER, M. D., son of John Walker, Esq., of Buenos Ayres, South Am rica.

Services at the residence of his father-in-law, George Starr, Esq., No. 3 Van Ness place, on Thursday, at 4:30 o'clock P. M. The remains will be taken on Friday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, to Green-Wood for interment.

WHITHAUS.—Interred in Green-Wood on Wednesday, Oct. 25, the still-born son of G. Henry and Emma L. Whithaus.

"Our little star now shines above."

WHITLOCK.—On Tuesday morning, Oct. 24, THADDEUS H. WHITLOCK, of the firm of Whitlock Brothers, Croton Falls, N. Y., aged 41 years.

Funeral from the house, Thursday, 26th inst., at 12 M., and at the M. E. Church, Purdy's Station, 1 P. M.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

IMPORTED

NECK WEAR,

FALL STYLES.

WARD'S,

381 BROADWAY, CORNER WHITE ST.

862 BROADWAY, CORNER 14TH ST.

1,121 BROADWAY, CORNER 25TH ST.

AUCTION SALE,

in partition, by order of Supreme Court, of the lands known as the PETER A. COWDREY estate, consisting of over 100 acres in

YONKERS,

in two parcels of over fifty acres each. The Palmer Road from Yonkers to Bronxville, and the road from Mile Square Road to Tuckahoe Road, pass through the property.

Sale to be Oct. 28, 1876, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Getty House, Yonkers, by Robert Cochran, Referee.

The property has a number of fine building sites commanding extensive views.

MITCHELL & MITCHELL,
Plaintiffs' Attorneys, No. 62 Wall st.

MISSING—REWARD $1,000.

Since Saturday evening, Oct. 21, 1876, Mr. PHILIPP OTTMANN, age 44, height 5 feet 6 inches; large dark eyes, perfect teeth, healthy complexion, and full, round face; dressed in dark plaid suit, brown overcoat and Derby hat. A reward of $2,000 will be paid for his recovery alive, and all information regarding him will be liberally paid for.

WILLIAM OTTMANN,
Fulton Market, or No. 423 East 83d st.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

The foreign mails for the week ending SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1876, will close at this office on TUESDAY at 7 A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Montana via Queenstown. On WEDNESDAY, at 7:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Russia via Queenstown. On THURSDAY, at 12:30 P. M., for Europe per steam-ships via Plymouth, C

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following business was transacted at the Exchange yesterday, (Wednesday,) Oct. 25:

Benjamin P. Fairchild, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, H. A. Braun, Esq., Referee, sold a four-story brick double-tenement house, with lot 25 by 103.3, on East 13th st., north side, 271 feet east of Avenue A, for $7,750, to Frederick Adler, plaintiff in the legal action.

Scott & Myers, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, T. C. Cronin, Esq., Referee, sold two five-story and basement brown-stone-front houses, with lots, each 25.6 by 100, on Avenue A, west side, 25.8 feet south of 74th st., for $25,050, to Catherine Gosta, plaintiff.

R. V. Harnett, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, Maurice Leyne, Esq., Referee, sold a two-story brick, stable, with lot 25.3 by 110.6, No. 72 Prince st., south side, 25 feet west of Crosby st., for $12,000, to the United States Life Insurance Company, plaintiff in the legal action. The same auctioneer, under the direction of William M. Berger, Esq., Assignee, sold two five-story and basement brick houses with lots, each 25 by 100 Nos. 1,085 and 1,087 1st av., west side, 50.5 feet north of 59th st., for $29,010, to James McGinnis, a party in interest. Also one five-story brick double tenement-house, with lot 25 by 100.5, No. 319 East 60th st., north side, about 375 feet west of 1st av., for $74,505, to James A. Dressler, a party in interest.

E. A. Lawrence & Co., by order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, B. C. Chetwood, Esq., Referee, sold five lots, each 25 by 100.5, on East 98th st., south side, 110 feet east of 3d av., for $8,000, to M. Sheehy, a defendant in the suit.

Peter F. Meyer, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, H. D. Purroy, Esq., Referee, sold two lots, each 25 by 99.11, on West 134th st., south side, 125 feet east of 12th av., for $1,950, to F. W. Beckhaun.

Bernard Smyth, also under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, John Hays, Esq., Referee, sold one lot, 25 by 100, on 5th av., north-east corner 114th st., for $5,950 to Lespinasse & Friedman; one lot, 25 by 100, on 5th av., east side, adjoining above, sold for $3,850 to S. S. Higgins; two lots, each 25 by 100, on 5th av., adjoining above, sold for $7,600 to Lespinasse & Friedman; one lot, 25 by 100, on 5th av., adjoining above, sold for $4,000 to James Buckley; one lot, 25 by 100, on 5th av., adjoining above, sold for $3,800 to Coudert Bros.; two lots, together in size 50 by 100, on 5th av., south-east corner 115th st., sold for $9,850 to Lespinasse & Friedman; and one lot, 25 by 201.3, on West 115th st., south side, 100 feet east of 5th av., sold for $4,800 to same buyers.

William Kennelly, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, C. E. Minor, Esq., Referee, sold eight lots, together in size 201.3 by 100, on 10th av., block front, between 123d and 124th sts., for $16,750, to G. W. Sells; also, four lots, together in size 100 by 100, on 10th av., north-west corner 123d st., for $7,000, to G. W. Sells. The same auctioneer, under a similar court order, J. Grant Sinclair, Esq., Referee, sold a plot of land, 140 by 110 by 80.4 by 144.1 by 143, on Prescott av., north-west corner Bolton st., $3,925, to J. M. Dyckman, plaintiff.

James Kelly, under a Supreme Court, in foreclosure, J. C. Bushnell, Esq., Referee, sold two lots, each 25 by 99.11, on West 160th st., south side, 600 feet west of 10th av., for $4,000.

A. J. Bleecker & Son also, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, Maurice Leyne, Esq., Referee, sold a plot of land, 275 by 242 by 93 by 458, on King's Bridge road or Broadway, west side, 9,038 feet north of the south line of 155th st. Also, a plot of land, 50 by 240 by 67 by 240, on King's Bridge road or Broadway, adjoining above, Washington Heights, for $41,330, to D. L. Solomon, plaintiff in the legal action.

The Receiver's sale by Blackwell, Riker & Wilkins of houses, with lots, on Lexington av. and 47th st., was adjourned for one week.

TO-DAY'S AUCTIONS.

To-day's sales, all at the Exchange, are as follows:

By James M. Miller, public auction sale of the following improved property: One five-story brick building, with lot 25 by 100.6, No. 33 Baxter st., north side, 85.5 feet west of Park st.; one similar house, with lot 16 by 100.6, No. 41 Baxter st., west of the above; one three-story and basement brick house, (front) and carriage-house (rear) with lot 33 by 98.9, Nos. 215 and 217 East 36th st., north side, 200 feet east of Third av.; one four-story brick store and dwelling (front) and four-story brick building, with lot 24.9 by 80, No. 985 3d av., north-west corner 57th st.; two three-story frame houses, with plot of land 208.6 by 54.4 by 200.9 by 84.11, on Hudson River Railroad, east side, whole front between 64th and 65th sts., also Brooklyn property, comprising a two-story and attic frame house, with two lots, each 25 by 59.8, Nos. 296 and 298 Flushing av., south side, 530 feet east of Bushwick av. Also Supreme Court foreclosure sale, D. P. Ingraham, Esq., Referee, of one lot 27.11 by 88.5 by 25.8 by 99.11, on Broadway, east side, 20.7 feet north of 77th st.

By Peter F. Meyer, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, John N. Lewis, Esq., Referee, of a house with lot 18.11 by 100.5 on East 55th st., north side, 268.11 feet east of 3d av.

By Bernard Smyth, foreclosure sale, Court of Common Pleas, R. M. Henry, Esq., Referee, of one lot 24.8 by 100, on 7th av., east side, 74.1 feet north of 34th st.

By R. V. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, F. P. De Forest, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 22.2 by 70, on 4th av., west side, 42.2 feet north of 85th st.; also, a house, with lot 18.1 by 102.3, on East 85th st., south side, 162.7 feet east of 4th av.

By William Kennelly, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, R. F. Farrell, Esq., Referee, of one lot of 25 by 75 on 6th av., west side, 24.11 feet north of 121st st.

By D. M. Seaman, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, George W. Lord, Esq., Referee, of a house, with lot 24.8 by 75, on 10th av., west side, 49.5 feet north of 33d st.

EXCHANGE SALES—WEDNESDAY, OCT. 25.

NEW-YORK.

By R. P. Fairchild.

1 four-story brick double tenement-house, with lot, East 13th st., n. s., 271 ft. e. of Avenue A, lot 25x103.3 ..... $7,750

By Scott & Myers.

2 five-story and basement brown-stone-front houses, with lots, Avenue A, w. s., 25.8 ft. s. of 74th st., each lot 25.6x100 ..... $25,050

By R. V. Harnett.

1 two-story brick stable, with lot, No. 72 Prince st., s. s., 25 ft. w. of Crosby st., lot 25.3x110.6 ..... $12,000

By E. A. Lawrence & Co.

5 lots, East 98th st., s. s., 110 ft. e. of 3d av., each 25x100.5 ..... $8,000

By Peter F. Meyer.

2 lots, West 134th st., s. s., 125 ft. e. of 12th av., each 25x99.11 ..... $1,950

By Bernard Smyth.

1 lot, 5th av., n. e. corner 114th st., 25.11x100 ..... $5,950
5 lots, 5th av., adjoining above, each 25x100.. 10,250
2 lots, 5th av., s. e. corner 115th st., 50.11x100 9,850
1 lot, East 115th st., s. s., 100 ft. e. of 5th av., 26x201.8 4,800

By William Kennelly.

8 lots, 10th av., whole front between 123d and 124th sts., 201.3x100 ..... $16,750
4 lots, 10th av., n. w. corner 123d st., 100.11x100 7,000
1 plot of land, Prescott av., n. w. corner Bolton st., 140x100.10x80.4x144.1x143 3,225
1 plot of land, Prescott av., w. s., adjoining above, 125x130x125x140 2,225

By James M. Miller.

2 lots, West 160th st., s. s., 200 ft. w. of 10th av., each 25x99.11 ..... $4,000

By A. J. Bleecker & Son.

1 plot of land, King's Bridge road or Broadway, w. s., 9,038 ft. n. of the n. line of 155th st., Washington Heights, 275x242x93x458; also, plot of land, adjoining above, 50x240x64x240 ..... $41,330

RECORDED, REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

NEW-YORK.

Tuesday, Oct. 24.

Spofford av., n. s., 250 ft. w. of Brown av., 20.6 x100, 23d Ward; C. M. Cassilon to J. O. Hare.
38th st., n. s., No. 208, 21x100; E. Conner to S. Beer $208
66th st., n. s., 90 ft. w. Lexington av., 12.6x100.5; R. Edwards and wife to T. J. McKee.
Henry st., n. s., lot No. 16, 24x78.7; R. Edwards and wife to T. J. McKee 13,000
Same property, T. J. McKee and wife to E. Edwards 9,000
66th st., n. s., 90 ft. w. of Lexington av., 12.6x100.5; T. J. McKee and wife to E. Edwards.
3d av., w. s., 98 ft. s. of 40th st., 11.3x80; C. H. Cousins and wife to J. F. Malcolm.
49th st., n. s. 255.6 ft. w. of 3d av., 20.5x100.5; T. J. McCahill, Executor, to D. Fitzpatrick.
Madison st., n. s., 23x100; M. B. O'Donnell, Executor, to C. P. Williams 9,150
Madison st., s. w. cor. Clinton, 68.3x24.7; M. B. O'Donnell, Executor, to J. P. Williams.
Mulberry st., No. 39, 25.3x100.5; same to same 10,000
123d st., n. s., 236 ft. e. of 2d av., 18x100.11; M. B. O'Donnell to C. J. Williams 10,000
110th st., n. s., 150 ft. w. of 2d av., 16.8x100.11; also 110th st., n. s., 183.4 ft. w. of 2d av., 16.8x100.11; A. P. C. Remmerts and husband to J. L. Satterlee.
110th st., n. s., 100 ft. w. of 2d av., 33.4x100.11; A. P. C. Remmerts and husband to E. V. Satterlee.
110th st., n. s., 233.4 ft. w. of 2d av., 33.4x100.11; Jane L. Satterlee and husband to A. P. C. Remmerts.
34th st., n. s., 100 ft. e. of 11th av., 99.9x125; also 11th av., e. s. between 34th and 35th sts., 24.8x100; J. Taylor to O. M. Taylor.
Washington square, north, No. 2, leasehold; J. S. Boyce, Referee, to J. L. Quener.
Eldridge st., n. s., 131.7 ft. e. of Grand st., 19.1x88; J. C. Bushnell, Referee, to J. E. Kelch.
124th st., n. s., 94 ft. w. of 1st av., 18.9x100.11; Jacob Sloope, Referee, to D. McMullen.
34th st., n. s., 100 ft. e. of 11th av., 125x98.9; also, 11th av., e. s., between 34th and 35th st., 24.8x100; James Taylor and wife to J. Taylor.
27th st., s. s., 440 ft. w. of 6th av., 20x98.9; J. Wiley, Referee, to J. Straus.
Front st., e. s., No. 24, 21.9x69.1; J. H. Williams and wife to M. B. O'Donnell.
La Fayster st., n. s., 48.8½ ft. e., lot 31; J. H. Williams to M. B. O'Donnell.
112th st., n. s., 136.8 ft. e. of 4th av., 18.9x100.11; T. Wandell, Referee, to J. Hagan.
6th av., w. s., 164.3½ ft. n. of Carmine, 10.10x100.8; 6th av., w. s., 71.3 ft. n. of Carmine, 17.10x100; E. M. Waters, Referee, to A. S. Murray.
5th av., e. s., 75 ft. n. of 93d st., 25.2x102.2; J. M. Levy, Referee, to M. H. Coddington.
42d av., n. w. s., 100 ft. n. e. of Devoe, 43.8x199, 23d Ward; W. G. Conner, Sheriff, to A. J. Bowne.

CITY REAL ESTATE.

AN ELEGANT FOUR-STORY BROWN-STONE house for sale (in fee) below 42th st., within one door of 5th av.; built by the owner for his own use, in the best and most substantial manner; arrangement attractive and novel; finished in hard woods and in fine order throughout. Altogether one of the best houses ever offered for sale. The furniture can be had if desired. Possession in a few weeks. For further information apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., 3 Pine st.

FOR SALE OR TO LET, FURNISHED FOR THE WINTER OR LONGER.—The first-class four-story high-stoop brown-stone house, No. 14 East 31st st., close to 5th av.; size about 21.6x75; price, $32,500; rent $325 per month; terms of sale very easy, as a large portion can remain on bond and mortgage if desired. Apply to HOMER MORGAN, No. 2 Pine st., or H. R. DREW & CO., No. 3 West 23d st.

A FULL-SIZE FOUR-STORY STONE RESidence, 48th st. and 5th av.; a bargain. No. 4 Pine st. and No. 33 East 17th st. W. K. STEVENSON, JR.

COUNTRY REAL ESTATE.

ORANGE, N. J.—COUNTRY HOUSES, LANDS, and village lots for sale; a great variety. Also, furnished and unfurnished houses to let for season or year, by WALTER E. SMITH, formerly Blackwell & Smith, Orange, corner of Main and Cone sts.

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

M. A. J. LYNCH & SONS, Auctioneers, Office 10 Pine st.

THE VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY on north-west corner of Broome and Mulberry sts., will be sold at auction on Tuesday, Oct. 31, 1876, at 12 M., at Exchange salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in following parcels: Corner parcel, 55.6, on Broome st., 116 feet on Mulberry st., with four brick buildings thereon, Nos. 30 Mulberry st., adjoining above, 25x75, with brick building thereon; lot on Broome st., adjoining same, 25x98.9x104.6, with brick building thereon.

DWELLINGS TO LET.

AN ELEGANT EXTRA-WIDE FIVE-story English basement house, on 20th st., near 5th av., to rent. It is fully and handsomely furnished and complete in all its appointments. Will be rented to a private family only. Apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

TO LET.—AT NO. 121 EAST 53D ST., FOUR rooms on first floor, with basement, kitchen, and bath-room; in good order, and with all improvements; rent reasonable to a nice family of adults only. See owner on premises; no bill up.

AT $3,500 PER ANNUM.—TO RENT, THE handsomely-furnished four-story high-stoop brown-stone house, No. 133 East 36th st. Apply to E. H. LUDLOW & CO., No. 3 Pine st.

APARTMENTS.—TENTERDEN, NO. 263 WEST 25th st.—For small families; brown-stone; light; ventilated; Oriel windows; Jackson's grates; elegant gas-fixtures; spacious garden; $480 to $600; janitor.

A NICE SECOND AND THIRD FLOOR—GAS and water, walls painted, brown-stone front, for $18 and $22; No. 730 Greenwich st., near Bank. Inquire on the premises.

A CONVENIENT, UNFURNISHED HOUSE to let in West 21st st., near 6th av.; good neighborhood; three-story, high stoop; moderate rent. OGDEN & CLASH, Broadway, corner 17th st.

ONLY $225 A MONTH FOR A BEAUTIFULLY-furnished and frescoed 55th st. medium-sized dwelling, near 5th av. Permits at No. 4 Pine st. and No. 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, JR.

TO LET—A GENTEEL FURNISHED HOUSE, AT Dobb's Ferry, near station; a fine opportunity; rent very low. Apply to F. REED, No. 119 Broadway.

TO LET—TWO LARGE SUITES IN THE NEW AND elegantly-finished French apartment house, corner of 40th st. and Park av., facing the Park.

FLATS—EIGHT AND TEN ROOMS EACH, FROM $25 to $65 per month; all improvements; best in the City for the price. Apply at No. 1 037 3d av.

TO LET.—NOS. 33 AND 66 WEST 45TH ST.; IMMEDIATE possession; open to-day.

STORES, &C., TO LET.

TO LET—AN OFFICE IN THE TIMES BUILDING, second floor, 23 feet by 23 feet, in good condition, suitable for a lawyer's office. Apply to GEORGE JONES, Times Office.

TO LET FOR BUSINESS PURPOSES—LOFTS in 13th st., between 3d and 4th avs., with or without power; also, second floor at No. 114 East 14th st.; suitable for an office. Inquire at F. GROFE & CO., on the premises.

TO LET OR LEASE—THE STORE, BASEMENT, and dwelling-house, No. 251 4th av., corner 20th st.; separate or together, with immediate possession. Apply at No. 103 Fulton st., of PETER A. H. JACKSON.

REAL ESTATE WANTED.

ANY PARTY HAVING AN IMPROVED piece of real estate for sale that does or will produce 10 per cent. or 7 per cent. net, amount not over $100,000, or two pieces of $50,000 each, may find a purchaser by addressing L. E. H., box 3,707, New-York Post office.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES,

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at

No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts.

Open daily, Sundays included, from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

CHAR-WOMAN.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG Cgirl by the day; would do any kind of housework; understands fine washing and ironing; good reference. Call at No. 235 West 46th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl as chamber-maid and waitress, or as waitress in a large family; is thoroughly capable in either capacity, and has best of City references. Can be seen to-day and to-morrow, between 9 and 12, at her present employer's, No. 369 Lexington av.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A GOOD GIRL AS chamber-maid and waitress, or chamber-maid and fine washer and ironer; four years' reference from last place. Call or address for two days at No. 205 West 52nd st., corner Broadway. Ring Mrs. Metzgar's bell.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable young girl, in a small family, or take charge of children; best City reference. Address F. G., Box No. 328 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable girl as chamber-maid and waitress or assist with children; can give reference. Call at No. 117 Charles st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEWING OR FINE Washing.—By a Protestant girl; best City reference. Address A. D., Box No. 279 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl as chamber-maid and waitress; would sew and mind children; City reference. Call at No. 423 West 30th st.

CHAMBER-MAID OR PARLOR-MAID.—BY a young girl, in a private family; is thoroughly competent and obliging; first-class City reference. Call at No. 226 East 29th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEWING.—BY A Protestant girl as chamber-maid and do sewing; good reference from last place; no objection to the country. Call at No. 3 East 12th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS OR Do Sewing.—By a Welsh Protestant girl in a private family; City or country. Address A. J., Box No. 304 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAMBER-MAID AND DO PLAIN SEWING.—By a young girl, or as waitress, in a private family; City references. Call or address No. 377 6th av., in milk store.

CHAMBERMAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl, or chambermaid and washing and ironing; has first-class City references; no objection to the country. Call at No. 441 West 33th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY a young German girl as chamber-maid and seamstress, or parlor-maid; best City reference. Call at No. 14 West 44th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG woman; or will do house-work; can be highly recommended; City or country. Call at No. 64 Leroy st., room 8.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A FIRST-CLASS CHAMber-maid and waitress or seamstress with excellent City references. Address E. R., Box No. 279 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY a competent young woman as chamber-maid and laundress; best City reference. Call at No. 115 West 19th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL OF eighteen years; understands chamber-work and plain waiting; would be willing to care children. Call for two days at No. 445 West 50th st., third floor.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS Cchamber-maid or laundress; best City reference. Call or address No. 225 East 22d st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable girl; good City reference. Apply at No. 314 West 39th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A respectable young girl in a private family; good City reference. Call at No. 70 West 43d st.

CHAMBER-MAID, &c.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS Cchamber-maid and waitress; good City reference. Call at No. 407 4th av.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young girl as chamber-maid and waitress; best City reference. Call at No. 210 East 45th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A young Swedish girl. Call for two days at No. 321 East 24th st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND DO FINE WASHING. —By a young woman; has good City reference. No. 130 West 20th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A YOUNG WELSH girl, or will take care of a grown child. Call at present employer's, No. 55 West 17th st.

CHAMBER-MAID.—BY A RESPECTABLE SWEDish girl as chamber-maid and plain sewer or nurse. Apply at No. 116 East 11th st.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID.—BY TWO SISTERS Together in a private family; one is an excellent cook, washer, and ironer; other as chamber-maid and waitress; willing to assist with the wash; six years' City reference. Call at No. 409 East 12th st., in the bakery.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT WOMan from Canada as first-class cook; good reference. Call at No. 248 West 27th st.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

COOK AND LAUNDRESS.—CHAMBER-MAID and Waitress.—By a lady from two girls, whom she can highly recommend; one as good plain cook and laundress, the other as chamber-maid and waitress, or would do the entire work of a small family. Call or address for two days No. 19 West 32d st.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITress.—By two girls; one as good cook; is a good bread and biscuit maker; and the other as chamber-maid and waitress; has no objection to the washing between them; has the best of references. Call at No. 131 West 28th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS ENGLISH PROTESTant; five years City reference from last place; thoroughly understands cooking in all its branches; meats, soups, games, and jellies; is a first-class baker. Call at No. 311 West 25th st.

COOK.—BY A PROTESTANT GIRL AS COOK; makes excellent bread and biscuit and pastry; will assist with washing; country preferred; excellent reference. Call at No. 310st 31st East., second floor, back.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN (AMERICAN PROTestant) as good plain cook, washer, and ironer, or would do general house-work, in a small family; good reference; country preferred. Call at No. 117 West 26th st., Room No. 10.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL TO DO Cplain cooking, washing, and ironing, or general house-work, in a small family; best City reference. Address M. D., Box No. 297 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS PROTESTANT COOK Cin either City or country, with her kitchen-maid or where a kitchen-maid is kept. Address Protestant Cook, Box No. 302 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK—KITCHEN GIRL—WAITRESS, &C. —A lady going to Europe wishes to find situations for three good servants, who can go together; mistress or pantry and parlor maid. Apply from 11 A. M. till 2 P. M. at No 2 West 48th st., corner of 5th av.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID, AND WAITRESS. —Two girls to go together or separately, one as good cook, and the other as chamber-maid and waitress; have excellent references. Call at No. 117 West 41st st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS ENGLISH PROTESTant; thoroughly competent; understands all kinds of family dishes and desserts; good City reference. Address K. Box No. 705 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE MIDDLE-AGED Cwoman as good cook and baker; understands her business; has no objection to City or country; has over two years' reference. Can be seen for two days at No. 96 9th av.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT WOMan as first-class cook; leaves on account of family going to Europe; over four years' reference. None but first-class families need apply at No. 151 East 31st st., between Lexington and 3d avs., first floor.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS GERMAN COOK; thoroughly understands her business in all branches; first-class family; City references. Apply at No. 198 East 10th st.

COOK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS THOROUGH French cook in a private family; best City reference from last place. Call at No. 307 3d av., between 37th and 38th sts., in grocery store.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN AS FIRSTclass cook in a private family; is a good baker and understands her business in all its branches; best City reference. Call at No. 42 East 32d st.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT WOMAN AS PROfessed cook; understands her business; is a good baker; she prefers a home to wages; best City reference. Call at No. 109½ West 15th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE ENGLISH GIRL AS Good cook with the washing and ironing in a private family; best City reference. Call at No. 333 6th av., between 23d and 24th sts.; ring first bell.

COOK.—FIRST-CLASS; IN A PRIVATE FAMILY; Understands family cooking; no objection to country; Brooklyn preferred; five years' City reference. Call at No. 1,207 broadway, ice-cream saloon.

COOK.—FIRST-CLASS; UNDERSTANDS ALL KINDS Of cooking, pastries, desserts, bread, and biscuits; good City reference. Call at No. 693 6th av., between 39th and 40th sts., bakery.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A Competent young woman, or will do cooking and assist with the washing and ironing; good City reference. Call at No. 116 West 10th st.

COOK.—BY AN ENGLISH WOMAN AS GOOD Oplain cook; understands baking; assist with the coarse washing; best City reference. Call at No. 249 East 47th st., near 2d av.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PROTESTANT Cwoman; good plain cook; willing to assist in washing; good City reference from first-class families. Call at No. 114 West 50th st.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT PROTESTANT WOMAN Cin a small family; understands all kinds family cooking; best reference. Call for two days. No. 217 East 20th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE PERSON AS COOK; Cthoroughly competent in all its branches, in a private family; five years' City reference; Call at No. 663 6th av.; ring second bell.

COOK—CHAMBER-MAID.—BY TWO GIRLS; One as first-class cook; other as chamber-maid and waitress; willing and obliging; four years' reference. Call at No. 118 West 20th st.

COOK.—BY A COMPETENT YOUNG WOMAN AS Cook; understands all kinds of good cooking; is good baker; good city reference. Call at No. 63 West 44th st.

COOK.—BY AN EXPERIENCED WOMAN, IN A Private family; understands all kinds of baking; best City reference from her last employer. Call at No. 345 West 40th st., between 7th and 8th avs.

COOK.—BY FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE Cfamily; is willing and obliging; best City reference. Call at No. 686 6th av., between 39th and 40th sts.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A young girl in a private family; good City reference. Call at No. 145 East 32d st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A young girl; is willing and obliging; best City references. Call at No. 219 East 29th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK; TEN YEARS' reference; understands baking and larding. Call at No. 641 6th av., up stairs.

COOK, AND ASSIST IN WASHING.—BY A young woman; best City reference; City or country. Call at No. 154 West 28th st., third floor, front.

COOK AND ASSIST IN WASHING.—BY a young woman; City reference. Call at No. 10 West 44th st.

COOK.—BY A FIRST-CLASS COOK IN A PRIVATE family; good City reference from last place. Call at No. 101 West 14th st., near 6th av.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A Respectable girl; best City reference. Call at No. 554 7th av.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN AS FIRSTclass cook; understands her business in all its branches; good baker. Apply at No. 236 West 35th st.

COOK, WASH, AND IRON.—BY A RESPECTable Protestant girl in a small private family; has the best City references. Call at No. 163 East 32d st.

COOK, &c.—BY A RESPECTABLE YOUNG GIRL IN a private family to cook, wash, and iron; good City reference. Call at No. 329 East 34th st.

COOK AND ASSIST WITH WASHING.—Best City reference from her last place. Call at No. 142 West 28th st.

COOK.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL AS GOOD Family cook; good bread and biscuit maker; best City reference. Call at No. 22 Downing st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER; best City reference. Call at No. 158 West 28th st

COOK.—BY A GOOD COOK; UNDERSTANDS ALL sorts of cooking; assist with washing and ironing; best City reference. Call at No. 244 East 44th st.

COOK, WASHER, AND IRONER.—BY A COLored woman; City reference. Call at No. 30 West 3d st.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN; work by the day or week; understands dress making; is a good cutter on Wheeler and Wilson machine; City reference. Call for two days at No. 339 East 34th st.

DRESS-MAKER.—BY AN EXPERIENCED dress-maker, who has been engaged in some of the leading establishments in New-York, a few customers at her home; a perfect fit guaranteed; charges very moderate. Call at 21 Clinton place, near Broadway.

DRESS-MAKER.—GOING OUT BY THE DAY; would like to have a few more engagements in private family; good fitter and trimmer. Call at No. 123 West 24th st.; ring bell No. 6.

DRESS-MAKER.—A COMPETENT DRESS maker wishes a few more engagements in a private family by the day or week. Call at No. 474 3d av., near 32d st.

GOVERNESS OR COMPANION.—BY A LADY of experience in both capacities, in the south as governess, or companion in good references. Address A. B. C., Box No. 324 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

HOUSEKEEPER.—BY A LADY AS HOUSEkeeper, or the care of an invalid lady; a pleasant home for the Winter the only compensation desired; references exchanged. Address A., Box No. 293 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY TWO RESPECTABLE young girls; thoroughly understand their business, to do the work of a private family, together; best City reference. Call at No. 1,164 2d av., first floor, front.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN TO DO House-work in a small private family; good washer and ironer and plain cook; City or country. Call at No. 1099 1st av., for two days.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A GIRL TO DO HOUSEwork; is a good washer and ironer; good reference. Apply at No. 318 East 34th st., top floor.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A YOUNG GIRL TO DO General house-work in a small private family; City reference. Call at No. 85 Horatio st.

HOUSE-WORK.—BY A COMPETENT YOUNG Girl to do house-work in a small family; best City reference. Call at No. 124 West 19th st.

LADY'S MAID.—BY A FRENCH LADY'S MAID with City references; understands hair dressing; good seamstress; can operate on Wheeler & Wilson machine; would take care of young Miss. Address L. S., Box No. 300 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

LADY'S MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY A respectable Protestant girl, and would assist with chamber-work; understands all kinds of family sewing; is a good operator; best references. Call at No. 41 West 55th st.

LADY'S MAID.—BY A FRENCH WOMAN; FIRSTclass; does not speak English. Address W. C., Box No. 301 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

LADY'S MAID AND SEAMSTRESS.—OR DO Light chamber-work and sewing; good City reference. Call from 10 to 3 at No. 134 West 20th st.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

LAUNDRESS—CHAMBERMAID.—BY TWO young girls, one as laundress, or would do cooking, washing and ironing; the other as chambermaid and laundress, together preferred; best city references from last place. Can be seen two days, at No. 418 East 16th st.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL AS laundress or to assist in chamber-work; has the best of City reference from her last place. Can be seen at No. 207 West 26th st., apply for two days, one pair of stairs, front room.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A PROTESTANT YOUNG woman as first-class laundress in a private family; best City references given. Seen at No. 620 6th av., in store.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS FIRSTclass laundress, and would assist in chamber-work; good City reference. Can be seen for two days at No. 117 West 26th st., Room No. 2.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A GOOD LAUNDRESS, A place in the City has two years' references. Address Laundress, Box No. 258 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A FIRST-CLASS LAUNDRESS, with the best of City references; is thorough and experienced. Address Laundress, Box No. 317 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A RESPECTABLE GIRL (A Welsh Protestant) as a first-class laundress; best of City reference. Address A. D., Box No. 322, TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS FIRSTclass laundress; willing to assist with chamberwork; is willing and obliging; good City reference. Call at No. 211 East 38th st., between 2d and 3d avs.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A FIRST-CLASS LAUNDRESS, for would do chamber-work; best of City reference from her last place. Call at No. 958 3d av., corner of 58th st.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A SCOTCH WOMAN AS FIRSTclass laundress; has lived in good families; good City reference. Call or address No. 143 West 28th st.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS LAUNdress; thoroughly understands her business; best references. Call at No. 117 West 41st st.

LAUNDRESS.—BY A YOUNG GIRL AS FIRSTclass laundress; reference from last place. Call at No. 326 East 22d st.

LAUNDRESS AND CHAMBER-MAID.—BY a competent girl in a private family; willing and obliging in every respect. Call at 263 West 32d st.

NURSE.—BY A WELL-RECOMMENDED SWISS person, as nurse in a respectable family to a young baby; can take whole charge from its birth; has 12 years best City reference; City preferred. To be seen at No. 450 6th av., between 27th and 28th sts., 1st floor, left hand bell.

NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS OR CHAMber-maid and Seamstress.—By a young girl; operates on Wheeler & Wilson's machine; best City reference. Call at No. 649 2d av., between 35th and 36th sts.

NURSE.—BY A FIRST-CLASS GROWN CHILD'S nurse; excellent seamstress; best of City references; from Philadelphia. Address Philadelphia Seamstress, Box No. 310 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NURSE.—BY A THOROUGHLY COMPETENT young girl as nurse and assist with other light work; no objection to the country, or will go South with a family for the Winter; several years' excellent City reference. Call or address No. 136 West 25th st.

NURSE.—BY A YOUNG WOMAN AS INFANT'S OR child's nurse; is also an excellent seamstress and has best of City reference. Can be seen to-day and to-morrow, between 9 and 12 A. M., at her present employer's, No. 369 Lexington av.

NURSE.—BY AN AMERICAN GIRL AS CHILdren's maid; is competent to take entire charge of an infant from its birth; can furnish the best of City reference. Call or address No. 150 East 42d st.

NURSE.—BY A WOMAN LATELY LANDED FROM England, as nurse; is well educated; reference from former employers. Address No. 106 East 33d st., corner of 3d av.

NURSE.—BY A COMPETENT NURSE TO TAKE care of children or the entire charge of a baby and do plain sewing; best City reference. Call at No. 419½ 6th av.

NURSE.—BY AN ENGLISH PROTESTANT GIRL as infants' nurse; would take care of growing children; City or country; best City references. Call at No. 332 6th av.

NURSE.—BY A LADY FOR A NURSE WHO HAS lived with her for two years, and is fully competent to take entire charge of an infant from its birth. Call from 10 to 1 o'clock at No. 8 East 24th st.

NURSE.—BY AN ENGLISH PROTESTANT GIRL lately landed; no objection to go South. Address S. F., Box No. 285 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NURSE.—BY AN ENGLISH PROTESTANT GIRL as infant's nurse; can take whole charge of a baby; best City reference. Call for two days at No. 227 West 31st st.

NURSE.—BY A FIRST-CLASS, PROTESTANT, INfant's nurse, with excellent City references. Address Protestant, Box No. 300 TIMES UP TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NURSE AND SEAMSTRESS.—BY A RESpectable young woman as nurse and seamstress, or would do chamber-work; good reference. Call for two days at No. 117 West 26th st., Room No. 2.

NURSE.—BY A LADY GOING SOUTH, FOR HER nurse, who is a most worthy person. Address for two days, K. B., Box No. 303, TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, NO. 1,257 BROADWAY.

NURSE, &c.—BY AN EXPERIENCED, CAREFUL woman; would take care of an invalid or keep house for a widower without children.

THE STATE OF COLORADO.

FORK BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE.

THE COMPOSITION—THE GREAT REPUBLICAN MAJORITIES IN BOTH HOUSES—A CODE OF LAWS TO BE ENACTED—THE UNITED STATES SENATORIAL ELECTIONS AND THE CANDIDATES—PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS—THE CONGRESSIONAL DIFFICULTY OVERCOME.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DENVER, Col., Tuesday, Oct. 17, 1876.

The first Legislature of the new State of Colorado will convene at Denver on Wednesday, the 1st day of November. The session will probably last sixty days. The State Constitution provides that after the first session the meetings of the Legislature shall be on the first Wednesday of January, once in two years, and the session shall be limited to forty days. The body about to meet consists of twenty-six members in the Senate and forty-nine in the House. Politically, the Senate consists of nineteen Republicans and seven Democrats; and the House, thirty-two Republicans and seventeen Democrats. There will be two or three contests. In one of the Senatorial districts there is a tie. The Democratic canvassing board threw out the vote of one precinct in order to give their candidate a majority. The matter will be investigated, and probably the Republican candidate will get his seat. The Senate will then stand twenty Republicans and six Democrats. The term of office of Senators is four years, and of Representatives two years.

There will be a good deal of work for this first Legislature. A code of laws will have to be formed, and all the details of a new government got into place. The State Constitution has some important safeguards in legislation. No act shall take effect until ninety days after its passage, unless in cases of emergency. No bill introduced after the first twenty-five days of the session shall become a law. The passage of any law not general in its provisions is prohibited.

Among the first duties of the Legislature will be the selection of two United States Senators. The first choice will undoubtedly fall upon Hon. Jerome B. Chaffee, formerly Delegate to Congress, and for years identified with the leading interests of Colorado. It is generally conceded among the leaders of both parties that the selection of Mr. Chaffee is a fit recognition of his labors in behalf of admission and his important services to Colorado. While the choice of one of the Senators will be so easily and almost unanimously decided, there appears to be considerable uncertainty as to who will carry off the second honors. It has all along been supposed that ex-Gov. John Evans would be a formidable candidate. He is a man well known and of great influence both at home and abroad, and has been the brains and backbone of some of Colorado's most important railroad and other enterprises. But he has lately signified his intention to keep out of politics. Had he consented to run, he might have proved something of a contestant to Mr. Chaffee's claims. The rest of Coloralo, as a matter of course, will not readily give Denver both of the United States Senators. So we find the various sections showing up their candidates. South of the "Divide," Hon. W. S. Jackson, of Colorado Springs, late Treasurer of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, is strongly urged; while Hon. George M. Chilcott, once a Delegate to Congress from Colorado, has also a strong backing. The mountain districts also have their claim, and it is believed that Hon. Henry M. Teller, of Central City, though not now an open candidate, will make a strong and perhaps successful run for the prize. Judge Moses Hallet, of Pueblo; Gen. Cameron, of Greeley, and Prof. T. N. Haskell, of Denver, are admitted as among the possibilities. In fact, Colorado, like every new State, has a surprising list of candidates "ready to be offered."

The selection of three Presidential Electors will be one of the important duties of the Legislature. As that body is largely Republican, the choice will secure the three electoral votes of Colorado to Hayes and Wheeler.

The new State Government will be inaugurated after the canvass of the votes, which takes place on the 25th inst., and on the 1st of November all the State officers will enter upon the discharge of their duties. Denver is to be the seat of government until 1880 when the question of a permanent capital will be submitted to a vote of the people. It not likely that any strong rival for the honor will spring up in the coming three years. But combinations may be formed that will take the prize away from Denver, as was almost done at the last session of the Territorial Legislature.

We are in a muddle over our Representative to Congress. The new Constitution provides that the election of a Representative to Congress shall take place on the day of the general election, Oct. 3, 1876, and the Secretary's proclamation was so made. Afterward he thought he discovered that an election could legally be held on that day only for a Representative to the unexpired term of the Forty-fourth Congress, and that another election for Representative to the Forty-fifth Congress must be held on Nov. 7, in accordance with the law of Congress, which provides that "the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in the year 1876 is established as the day in each of the States and Territories of the United States for the election of Representatives and Delegates to the Forty-fifth Congress; and the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in every second year thereafter is established as the day for the election in each of said States and Territories of Representative, and Delegates to the Congress commencing on the 4th day of March next thereafter." The Acting Secretary of the territory accordingly issued his proclamation calling for an election, to be held on Nov. 7, to choose a member of the Forty-fifth Congress. Neither party seemed satisfied with this new turn of affairs, and took the ground that the act providing for the admission of Colorado, passed March 3, 1875, authorized the Constitutional Convention to fix a day for the election of a Representative to Congress, and that the act of March, 1875, amended or repealed the act of 1874, so far as Colorado is concerned, in the first election. The Democrats were particularly bitter over the call for another election, and charge that it was a Republican trick to get another chance, in case they were defeated in the October election. Disregarding the proclamation for a second election, both parties held their conventions, made their nominations for both terms of Congress, and on election day a part of the Democratic State ticket as voted read: "For Representative to the Forty-fourth Congress, Thomas M. Patterson; For Representative to the Forty-fifth Congress, Thomas M. Patterson." The Republican ticket had James B. Belford named in the same way.

After election it was found that the Republicans had swept the field. Disregarding their former position, after recovering from their rout the Democrats began diligently to prepare for another election. The Republican Central Committee, after looking up the law thoroughly, took the ground that an election, if held on the 7th of November, would not be legal, and that it would be taxing the State with a needless expense of from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars. And, further, if another election were required, that the Legislature about to meet could make provision for it. The Chairman, therefore, issued an address to the Republicans of the State, under date of Oct. 14, saying that "in view of these reasons and for others which might be enumerated, it has been determined by the Republican State Central Committee to decline any and all participation in the election called for the 7th of November, 1876. And as we are authorized to announce that Judge Belford declines to have his name presented again for the suffrages of the people at this proposed election, we recommend to the Republicans throughout the State to take no part therein whatever." The Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, under date of Oct. 16, issues an order to Democrats to go to the polls on Nov. 7 and vote for Representative to Congress, and referring to the Republican attitude that there is no authority for the election, and that no canvass will be made of the returns, says: "Whether this is intended as an argument or a threat, we neither know nor care, but we propose that an election shall be held on the 7th day of November, and that if the Republican officials refuse to canvass, certified copies of the returns will be preserved, and the question submitted to a different and higher tribunal." And the Democratic organ yesterday calls upon the "unterrified" to "bury the wounded, take care of the dead, fill up the canteens and the torches, close up the lines, and go at it again"

The whole matter seems to have received its quietus, however, this morning by a proclamation from the Territorial Secretary's office, that it appears upon further examination that there is no law or statute authorizing the proposed election for Member of the Forty-fifth Congress, and giving notice to the Sheriffs of the several counties that the proclamation and election notice are withdrawn, and that no election will be held on the 7th day of November.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

A HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED AUTOGRAPH LETTER FROM THE MARTYRED PRESIDENT.

From the Springfield (Ill.) Journal.

Below we print a remarkable and characteristic autograph letter of President Lincoln, addressed to the late Col. Robert Allen, a former well-known citizen of Springfield, and which, so far as is now known, has never before been in print. It was recently presented by Col. Allen's son, Major Robert Allen, to Mr. J. C. Power, Custodian of the Lincoln Monument, who has had it framed with the design of depositing it in "Memorial Hall," at the base of the monument, with other relics of the martyred President. It bears date over forty years ago, and was written by Mr. Lincoln when he was a candidate for the Illinois Legislature, he being then only twenty-seven years of age. Search has been made in the files of the Journal of that time for a reply to this letter, but neither the letter itself nor the reply—if any was ever returned in writing—has yet been discovered. The fact that Mr. Lincoln and Col. Allen, though opposed in politics, remained close personal friends thereafter would indicate that there must have been some misrepresentation in the report which came to Mr. Lincoln of the statements of the latter, and this having been explained, there was no occasion for the publication of the letter or the reply to it. The letter itself shows how jealous Mr. Lincoln was at that day at once of his own good name and of the interest of the State, and affords a clue to the reputation which in higher positions he afterward won as an honest man and unselfish statesman and patriot:

THE LETTER.

NEW-SALEM, June 21, 1836.—DEAR COLONEL: I am told that during my absence you passed through this place and stated publicly that you were in possession of a fact or facts which, if known to the public, would entirely destroy the prospects of N. W. Edwards and myself at the ensuing election; but that, through favor to us, you should forbear to divulge them.

No one has needed favors more than I, and generally, few have been less unwilling to accept them; but in this case, favor to me would be injustice to the public, and therefore I must beg your pardon for declining it. That I once had the confidence of the people of Sangamon is sufficiently evident, and if I have since done anything which, by design or misadventure, which, it known, would subject me to a forfeiture of that confidence, be that known of that thing and conceals it, is a traitor to his country's interest.

I find myself wholly unable to form any conjecture of what fact or facts, real or supposed, you could have in view to operate to my injury; you will not object, I suppose, to my asking that you will at least permit me for a moment to doubt that you at least believed what you said. I am flattered with the personal regard you manifested for me, but I do hope that, on more mature reflection, you will view the public interest as a paramount consideration, and, therefore, determined to let the worst come. I assure you that the candid statement of facts on your part, be they what they may, shall never break the tie of personal friendship between us.

I wish an answer to this, and you are at liberty to publish both if you choose. Very respectfully,

A. LINCOLN.

COL. ROBERT ALLEN.

EX-GOV. CLAFLIN'S ACCEPTANCE.

Ex-Gov. William Claflin, in his letter accepting the Republican nomination for Congress in the Eighth District of Massachusetts, says: "In accepting the nomination with which I am honored, I desire to say that the platform of principles put forth by the National Republican Convention at Cincinnati meets my cordial approval, and especially do I concur in those resolutions which relate to the securing to every American citizen his political rights, to a resumption of specie payments, civil service reform, and the promotion of American industry. A return of permanent prosperity can only be assured by putting our currency to the world's standard, and the sooner that is accomplished the better for all classes of the community and all sections of the country. A repeal of the clause fixing the time of resumption in the act passed by Congress can out have a most disastrous effect upon the reviving business of the country. All the elements of doubt and uncertainty, so harassing to the mercantile community, will necessarily enter into every enterprise. Capital, now cautiously returning to the channels of trade, will again be hoarded till a more stable condition of things presents itself, and values become regulated by demand and supply. The revival of business, now cheering the people, will be suddenly checked, and widespread disaster and suffering will be sure to follow. A country franchise with so much evil should be most firmly resisted. Every one desiring purity in election and fidelity in public trusts must hail with satisfaction the awakening of public attention to the necessity of reform in the civil service. As long as men are rewarded for partisan service by public office so long will the country be put to continual shame by the misdeeds of its appointees. I shall cordially and earnestly support, if elected, every measure tending in any degree to raise the civil service above the partisanship to which it has hitherto been subjected. These questions are of great interest to the country, but by far the most important is that of the future administration of the Government. The decision is to be made on the 7th of November whether it shall be in the hands of those who saved the Union, gave liberty to four million slaves, and placed the nation among the most favored of the world, or whether it shall be in the hands of those who sought to divide the Union, to continue human slavery, and establish an oligarchy absolute and tyrannical at home and constantly dreaded abroad. Beaten in the contest of arms, they now seek by combination to array the whole South on the side of the Democracy under a standard-bearer from the North, whose name and influence could not be brought to the side of the Union at the opening of the war, and who, near its close, acted with a committee which reported to the Democratic Convention that the 'war was a failure.' The triumph of the Republican Party is the triumph of freedom, order, and progress; the triumph of the Democratic Party is the crushing of the negro, the defeat of resumption and civil service, the inauguration of doubt in the political, and dismay in the business world. The nomination of Rutherford B. Hayes and William A. Wheeler is an assurance of the intention of the Republican Party, if it prevails, to administer the Government upon the soundest principles, and their election cannot fail to produce the best results attainable under our political system."

WITHDRAWING LEISCRELY.

The Elko (Nev.) Independent tells the following: "While traveling through Arizona in 1849 with an exploring party, we made our camp one evening near a canyon, the bottom of which was covered with fine sand that had drifted from the neighboring plains. While employed in arranging our camp, the botanist of the expedition, Dr. B., wandered some distance in pursuit of plants. He returned shortly and reported that there were Indians near at hand. He was as cool as a cucumber, and didn't show a sign of anxiety or alarm. In answer to our nasty inquiries, he replied that while he was engaged in examining a fossil specimen, he heard a grunt behind him, and on looking around discovered an Indian who had seized his gun, which had been placed against a rock. The Indian drew a bead on him, and in retaliation he drew his revolver and sighted the Indian, retreating at the same time toward the cañon, which was close at hand. Neither fired. On reaching the cañon he walked leisurely into camp. A party immediately set out to determine the possibility of danger, and discovered two Indians and a squaw. After capturing them they examined the vicinity in which the Doctor had met with his remarkable adventure. They found his footprints, which signified a cautious retreat to the cañon. But alas! for the frailty of human nature; his footprints in the cañon were eight feet apart, by measurement, and not exactly indicative of the leisurely manner in which he had approached the camp. The Doctor acknowledged the corn, and remarked that he was about as leisurely as he ever wished to walk under similar circumstances."

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

THE HAHNEMANN HOSPITAL.

LAYING OF THE CORNER-STONE OF THE NEW BUILDING WITH MASONIC CEREMONIES—ADDRESSES BY P. G. M. ELLWOOD E. THORNE, WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT, AND OTHERS.

The corner-stone of the new Hahnemann Hospital, homeopathic, on Fourth avenue, between Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth streets, was laid yesterday according to the impressive rite of the Masonic order. The ceremony was performed under the direction of P. G. M. Ellwood E. Thorne, officiating Grand Master of Masons of the State of New-York. When the stone had been laid, the assemblage proceeded to one of the rooms of the Normal College, close by, where a sketch of the institution was read by Commissioner Salem H. Wales, and addresses were delivered by William Cullen Bryant and Rev. Dr. Taylor. A letter was read from Mayor Wickham, expressing his regret that he was unable to be present, and also from Mr. Isaac H. Bailey, Commissioner of Charities and Correction. The Grand Lodge of Freemasons was organized as follows: Ellwood E. Thorne, Grand Master; James E. Morrison, Deputy Grand Master; Mortimer C. Addoms, Senior Grand Warden; Charles K. Hyde, Junior Grand Warden; John F. Baldwin, Grand Treasurer; James M. Austin, M. D., Grand Secretary; Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., Grand Chaplain; John C. Burke, Grand Marshal; C. H. Ludwig, Grand Standard-Bearer; W. L. Gardner, Grand Sword-Bearer; E. L. Gaul, Charles E. Blumenthal, M. D., and W. T. Anderson, Grand Stewards; John Phillips, Grand Senior Deacon; Isaac Tischman, Grand Junior Deacon; Johnston Fountain, Grand Pursuivant; John Hoole, Grand Tiler.

Mr. Sinclair Tousey, in the absence of Mr. William Orton, President of the Board of Trustees, opened the proceedings. He said it was deemed fitting that the corner-stone of the building should be laid by the oldest of all benevolent institutions.

Mr. Ellwood E. Thorne, P. G. M., said that from time immemorial it had been the custom of the Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons to lay, when requested, the corner-stones of buildings erected for the worship of God, for charitable objects, or for the administration of justice and free government, but of no other buildings. That corner-stone they might, therefore, lay in accordance with their laws, and they gladly did so, testifying their obedience to the law and to show publicly their regard for all that is done to relieve the distressed, and their respect for the Government under which they lived.

The laying of the stone was then proceeded with according to the elaborate and impressive forms of Masonry. At the conclusion of the ceremony Grand Master Thorne spoke substantially as follows: We have assembled here in the face of open day, and have laid with solemn and significant rites the corner-stone of a building projected for a noble purpose, and which is here to be erected as a landmark of the generosity of a number of our fellow-citizens. On this stone, now firmly placed, tried by the plumb, the level, and square, emblems of morality as unyielding as the stone which lies before us, overspread with corn and wine and oil, typical of the nourishing resources and comforts with which the Most High has endowed the children of men, and consecrated with prayer, will soon be erected a cost y edifice designed for the relief and care of the sick and maimed, and where by skilful practice, nursing and kindly treatment, great relief from pain and suffering may be attained—possibly cures effected—rendering those who are so fortunate to again battle with life's cares and responsibilities. May this stone, mute and inanimate though it be, ever be armed with the panoply of truth, and as a watchful sentinel guard the building against the approach of corruption, dishonesty, and all wrong. And may the building when completed be indeed an asylum—a place of refuge from disease and suffering; and may the true spirit of living kindness abound and so imbue the hearts of those who shall have charge of its inmates, that through its blessed influence the invalid may be strengthened and encouraged, and speedily restored to health and friends. Brethren, we have completed, with feelings of joy and gladness, the duty assigned us in the presence of a number of distinguished fellow-citizens, and with praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God have inaugurated the building of a charitable edifice with the impressive ceremonies we have been favored to perform. I trust the lessons which they are intended to convey to the initiated, and bear ever in mind the true principles in their exemplification. They teach us, as Masons, to be men of honor and integrity, men of conscience; to properly respect the rules and established customs of the land; to maintain by precept and example the good order of society, and promote peace and harmony among our fellow-men. And now brethren, as we are about to separate from this place, let us carry with us the good impressions of the hour, and so cultivate them that they may bear good fruit in the future to the honor of Masonry and to the glory of the Supreme Architect who rules and governs all.

In the hollow of the corner-stone were deposited the publications of the day, the by-laws of the institution, and other documents. The Grand Marshal having declared that the stone had been found square, level and plumb, true and trusty, and laid according to the old customs of Masonry, the Grand Lodge and the rest of the assemblage proceeded to one of the rooms of the Normal College, where the proceedings were continued.

Mr. William Cullen Bryant spoke in the first instance. After congratulating the audience on the undertaking, of which the proceedings of the day formed a part, he declared that of all modes of charitable relief, the support of public hospitals was one of the worthiest and most necessary. He quoted from the Eleventh Book of "Paradise Lost" Milton's description of a Lazar House, and referred to the fact that the highest stages of Greek and Roman civilization there were no such institutions as hospitals. Before the Christian era, he said, they had no existence. It was the religion of love and sympathy that brought in the hospital, and gathered into its friendly wards and laid on its comfortable beds, waited upon by experienced nurses, those who otherwise might have languished and perished by the wayside.

Commissioner Salem H. Wales next read a sketch of the hospital, and Rev. Dr. Taylor made some remarks, in which, apart from any homeopathic considerations, he approved of the establishment of such institutions on Christian and charitable principles. At the conclusion of his address, the proceedings terminated.

AUCTION SALES OF SCRANTON COAL.

Messrs. John H. Draper & Co., auctioneers, disposed of 100,000 tons of Scranton coal by auction yesterday, for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, at the offices of the company, No. 26 Exchange place. A large number of buyers were present, and the bidding was so spirited that the sale occupied less than a hour. The coal was of the following grades: Stove, 40,000 tons; grate, 25,000 tons; egg, 24,000 tons; steamboat, 10,000 tons, and chestnut, 5,000 tons. The steam-boat coal was first put up, and sold at $2 97½, $2 96, and $2 95, opening and closing at $2 97½, a shade increase over the previous sale, at which it sold at $2 87 to $2 95. The grate coal sold at $2 82½ and $2 80, a marked decline from the last sale on Sept. 27, when it brought $2 97½ per ton. Egg coal brought $3, $2 95, $2 94½, and $2 90, against $3 15 and $3 30 at the same last month. Stove coal sold at $3 75, $3 65, and $3 62½. In September it brought $3 90 and $4. Chestnut coal was in good demand and sold at $3 77½, $3 81, and $3 82½, an increase over the prices of the previous month, when it was sold as low as $3 20 and $3 32½. The cause of the heavy decline in some grades is said by dealers to be owing to the difficulty in receiving it early enough for a good market. It will probably be several weeks before some of the coal will reach this City, when a decline in rates may reasonably be expected. Dealers do not anticipate any permanent advance in the rates until a general revival in the manufacturing business is manifested. As gas-burning stoves are coming to be the favorite mode of heating apartments, it is thought that the slight increase in the price of chestnut coal is due to this circumstance, as this class of coal can best be used in that kind of stoves.

SALE OF VALUABLE PAINTINGS.

Mr. Richard V. Harnett, auctioneer, yesterday sold at auction the valuable collection of paintings, bronzes, articles of vertu, and household effects of a gentleman lately residing at No. 18 East Fortieth street. A fine large bronze centrepiece of rare workmanship brought $300, and two small companion pieces, "Fisherman" and "Fisherwoman," brought $51 each. A group, "Happiness," was sold for $130, and "Confidence" brought $120. The bidding for the oil paintings, which were of a very high class, was not keen, and some of the more valuable, notably, "A Moonlight view of the Bay of Naples," by Achenoach; "A Scene in the Orient," by Lidtz, and a superb specimen of Jacobson, "Scene in Norway," were not sold. The more valuable of the paintings disposed of were, "Cattle Scene," by W. T. V. Starkenborgh, $65; "The Proposal," A. Fitzpatrick, $50; "Plowing in Norway," Benard, $50; "Providing Breakfast," Toussaint, $80; "The Dead Bird," I. Hübner, $105; "A Morning Cream," W. Werner, $115; "Raspberries," G. H. Hall, $33; "Strawberries," G. H. Hall, $33; "Supper," P. Toussaint, $106; "Quail," A. F. Tait, $42. The furniture, which was of a very high class, brought good prices.

TRANSATLANTIC MAILS.

The following steamers have been appointed to convey the Transatlantic mails during the month of November, 1876, and will sail from New-York on the days designated: Scythia, Nov. 1; Gellert, 2d; City of Richmond, Ethiopia, France, and Weser, 4th; Wisconsin, 7th; Algeria, 8th; Pommerania and Mosa, 9th; Britannic, Victoria, Labrador, and Rhein, 11th; Wyoming, 14th; Bothnia, 15th; Suevia, 16th; City of Berlin, Bolivia, and Oder, 18th; Dakota, 21st; Abyssinia, 23d; Lessing, Rotterdam, and Switzerland, 23d; Germanic, Alsatia, Canada, and Hermann, 25th; Idaho, 28th; Russia, 29th; and Wieland, 30th. The Marathon, Batavia, China, and Parthia will sail from Boston, respectively on Nov. 4, 11, 18, and 25. From Philadelphia, the Ohio will sail on the 21st; Pennsylvania, 9th; Vaderland, 11th; City of New-York, 16th; Indiana, 23d; and Illinois, 30th. From Baltimore, the Lessing, Braunschweig, and Nürnberg will sail, respectively, on Nov. 2, 16, and 30.

TRIAL OF WILLIAM A. FOWLER.

TESTIMONY OF EXPERTS SHOWING THE EXORBITANT PRICE PAID FOR WORK ON THE HEMPSTEAD RESERVOIR.

The trial of William A. Fowler on the charges preferred against him by Mayor Schroeder was resumed at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Common Council Chamber of the Brooklyn City Hall, before the Board of Aldermen of the City of Brooklyn. Three witnesses only were examined, most of the time of the session being devoted to the introduction of documentary evidence. S. P. Algee was the first witness. He said that he was a contractor and resided in Fulton, N. Y.; was at present engaged in filling the streets of Long Island City; had built several railroads, and was engaged in contract work in various parts of the country; was interested in the manufacture of excavating machinery; was familiar with the prices of excavation; had been to Hempstead Reservoir, and thought the work could have been done in 1871-2 for twenty cents per cubic yard, and leave a margin for handsome profit to the contractor. Witness said the price he had received for excavating the bed of the St. John's River was ten cents per yard, and for the Midland Railroad the price received was eighteen cents per cubic yard. That was in 1872.

Thomas P. Simpson, of Montclair, N. J., was then called. He said he was a railroad contractor, doing business in Liberty street, New-York; he was a contractor and had done a large amount of work on the Lehigh Valley Railroad and on the Lehigh Canal; built thirty-five miles of the New-Jersey Central Railroad, and also forty-two miles on the Montclair Railroad; had been to the Hempstead Valley, and was familiar with the value of labor in 1871-2. The value of excavation in that valley would depend upon where the soil was taken from and where left; if taken out of a space of 218 acres, and dumped on the bank, it would be worth about thirty to thirty-five cents per cubic yard; would not make much difference whether it was done with machinery or otherwise; excavating under water would have been worth seventy-five to eighty cents, without machinery, and if compelled to dredge it out; concrete would be worth from $5 to $5 50 per cubic yard; brick work, such as would naturally be put in such a place—good, hard-burned brick—would be worth $9 to $10 per cubic yard; gravel taken out of the excavation, screened, and put into the bank, would be worth about 80 cents per cubic yard; for piling, spruce or pine, driven 16 feet deep, $30 to $38 per thousand; if tongued and grooved, would be worth $2 per thousand more. Witness would have been glad to have done the work on the reservoir for 30 cents per cubic yard, in 1871-2. That price paid Kingsley & Keeney was 55 cents.

On cross-examination, the witness said he had not been at the Hempstead Reservoir, but had been in the neighbourhood, and through the valley.

Patrick Hanlon was the next witness. He said that he had been forty years in Brooklyn, and twenty-five years a contractor, mostly in the City of Brooklyn; had been a foreman on works in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and on Long Island; had seen the Hempstead Reservoir, and would have taken that work in 1871-2 at thirty cents, and considered it a fair contract.

On cross-examination, witness said that he received fifty-one cents for filling Union street, Brooklyn, and if he had got $1 51, it would not have paid him. He was now at work excavating on the Hempstead Reservoir, at twenty-two cents per cubic yard.

At the conclusion of this witness' testimony, counsel for the prosecution called up the order of proceedings interrupted by the adjournment Tuesday night, and introduced documentary evidence in support of the fact that Mayor Kalbfleisch sent another Message to the Common Council Dec. 5, 1870, vetoing the resolution previously passed by the Common Council to increase the water supply of Brooklyn, and also that the resolutions were passed over the Mayor's veto Dec. 12. The resolutions provided for a reservoir of 1,000,000,000 gallons capacity, at a cost not to exceed $1,400,000, and for the issuing of bonds to pay the cost. Much other documentary testimony bearing upon the early history of the reservoir was then offered in evidence, including the original bids for the contract to build the Hempstead Reservoir. They were the bids made by the five contractors, in response to the invitation of the Board of City Works, which, it will be recollected, were never advertised for in any public manner, and which have been the cause of so much complaint. These five contractors were White, Wells, Freel, Kingsley & Keeney, and McDonald. The total bid of each contractor was as follows: J. E. White, $1,445,367 50; H. S. Wells, $1,490,555; Edward Freel, $1,377,400; Kingsley & Keeney, $1,361,725; Joseph McDonald, $1,494,185.

Mr. Daniel Northrup was then recalled by Mr. De Witt, and asked to produce the original specifications upon which the bids for the work were made, and his attention was called to a difference between the specifications sent to Kingsley & Keeney, and those sent to the other contractors, by which those sent to Kingsley & Keeney provided that all in matters of difference between the contractor and the city, the dispute should be settled by the Chief Engineer, while in others there was the interpolation of an extra printed slip, which provided that in case of any dispute, the matter should be left to arbitration, one arbitrator to be selected by the contractor and the other by the Board of City Works. Mr. Northrup testified that, so far as he knew, these slips were furnished to all the bidders for the work. It appeared that the extra printed slip in regard to arbitration was in the contract made with Kingsley & Keeney, though not in the specifications. The hour of adjournment, 5:30 o'clock, having arrived, the board adjourned until 3 o'clock P. M. to-day.

THE MECHANICS' AND TRADERS' SAVINGS INSTITUTION.

Mr. William J. Best, Receiver of the Mechanics' and Traders' Savings Institution, in reply to Superintendent D. C. Ellis, on the insolvency of that institution, disclaims the idea of being inimical to the Superintendent, but asserts that an opportunity shall be afforded him to meet the charge of allowing the bank to be mismanaged. "For years past," says Mr. Best, "banking has been a special study with me, and when I accepted the receivership of this bank I determined to thoroughly examine the details of its management from its beginning to its ignoble close." He also says that Mr. Ellis seems to be unwilling to bring the matter to the attention of the Legislature so soon as that body convenes, the record which he has made in his official relation to the bank, demanding a full investigation by authorities competent to decide the questions at issue.

WADE HAMPTON ON THE TROOPS.

Wade Hampton seems to have two tones to his voice. The Charleston News and Courier, one of his supporters, brings us a long report of a speech made by him on the 18th inst. at Edgefield, S. C. In that speech he said: "Even this very mail brings a proclamation from President Grant that he proposes to place this State under martial law. Every lawyer knows he has no right to do so, but you know how often he has violated the most solemn compacts. They hope now, by scattering troops throughout the State, to bring about a collision, and give a pretext to bring more troops to see that the Board of Canvassers will count us out and make us lose the victory we have already won. You must recollect that when you placed us in command you promised to follow our instructions. We have more information than any one of you can possess. Therefore when we give you advice we do it knowing what will ensure to your good. Our advice is for you to go on, defend yourselves, as you have a right to do, it attacked, but avoid more. If the Radicals choose to divide time with you, do so; if not, let them speak without interruption. That is the policy which we have agreed upon." In the same speech he said: "I was very glad to see the other day that you had welcomed the United States troops. They are not disposed to fight us now. They have seated their swords and are not disposed to draw them against the God-given rights of American freemen. If you treat them properly, and show them that you are fighting for liberty and constitutional Government, for which we all fought 100 years ago, you remind them that they are our soldiers as much as the soldiers of the North. If you tell them these things very United States soldier that comes here will be our friends and help us to preserve the peace. We only desire to preserve the peace, and I would be willing to see the United States soldiers at every precinct in South Carolina, and I told Gen. Ruger so when I saw him the other day."

Another speaker at this meeting said that "the man in this election who votes against the interest of the people [that is, who votes against Tilden, 'the people' including only the whites, in the estimation of the Hamptonites,] should be kicked out of the country."

ILLEGAL USE OF A FRANK.

The Burlington (Iowa) Journal says: "Hon. W. S. Haymond, M. C., sends to Nils P. Lundeen, of this city, a package, under Mr. Haymond's Congressional frank, which purports to be, as witnessed on the cover and on the wrapper, 'Part of Congressional Record, free.' Mr. Haymond is a Democrat and a reformer, and he would not be for a great deal, if the truth would serve, as to suppose any better. But Nils Lundeen, of No. 608 Maiden lane, Burlington, Iowa, being an intelligent man, and an honest man, is not a Democrat, and doesn't train with that crowd. He opens the 'part of Congressional Record' franked to him, and he finds a letter from Judge Caton, the friend of Abraham Lincoln, to Abe Hewitt, the muleteer, a Democratic campaign document; and a Tilden editorial from the Nation, another precious Democratic document, and a letter to Abe Hewitt, muleteer, from Manton Marble of the New-York World, and some other trash, tacked on to a bit of Hewitt's tiresome talk about Tilden, and all this a reformer calls 'part of the Congressional Record.' And then the most singular 'part of the Congressional Record' is appended, which reads as follows: 'Doc. No. 8. Read and hand this to your neighbor.' If you need more, apply, stating nature of document and quantity desired, to National Democratic Committee, Box No. 3,637, New-York.' So it is the National Democratic Committee, the 'reformers' par excellence, who are sending out Democratic campaign documents under Congressional franks. This is on a par with all Democratic ideas and practices of reform, loading the United States mails with partisan literature and evading the payment of postage thereon. It is on a par with all of Mr. Tilden's sham reform record. These rogues should be careful, and not send any more of their Democratic trash to a Swedish address in Burlington. The compatriots of Gustavus V. 83 are all Republicans, and have no use for such stuff as Democratic campaign literature."

DEATH FROM STARVATION.

From the London Echo.

It is a distressing fact that, in this land of plenty, deaths from starvation should occur. What invented story, for instance, can be more surprising and touching than the history and death of Arthur French as evolved at the inquest held by Dr. Hardwick, on Tuesday last? Aged sixty-five, French formerly held a good position in Dublin, but became reduced in circumstances. His grandfather was aide-de-camp to the Duke of Kent, father of her Majesty, his uncle being a Colonel Commandant of a regiment of Dragoons. He became so poor that he determined to go to London, and about six weeks ago started on the journey, accompanied by his two sons. On reaching Liverpool they could only afford railway fare to Birmingham, the remainder of the journey to London being performed on foot. Much hardship was endured on the road, and, after a week's walking from Birmingham, the old man's condition being very weak. They slept in common lodging-houses several nights. French, the elder, growing exhausted and ill, he applied for admission to the Royal Free Hospital, but was not taken in. He next applied for admission to the Holborn Work-house Infirmary with a like result. He then applied to a doctor, who advised him to go to St. Pancras Work-house, but on the way thither he fell down in the street from exhaustion, and had to be assisted to his destination by one of his sons, where both were readily received. The old man told his melancholy history to the doctor, but was unable to take the food and nourishment offered him. He said he had not had enough, to eat for a long time, and for some days had scarcely tasted anything. He gradually sank and died in the course of a few days. A post-mortem examination showed that it was a real case of starvation.

ONE MAN REFUSED REGISTRY.

The Washington Chronicle of Tuesday says: "Mr. Farlan, a clerk in the Sixth Auditor's office, went to New-York City to register on the 18th inst., but was not permitted to perform this duty of all New-York citizens, so imperative at this important juncture. The Democratic Board of Registers refused to allow his enrollment upon the specious plea that he was not entitled to register because he had moved his family from New-York to this city. The extreme 'thinness' of this disgraceful decision is apparent at a glance. For years New-York City had been this gentleman's legal residence, and he had never voted at his residence therein. The State laws cannot be construed so as to afford this arbitrary and unjust decision the slightest color of right. It is neither law nor equity. The Democratic officials resorted to this miserable quibble, well knowing that when refused the exercise of his unquestioned right he could hardly afford the expensive process of compelling his enrollment, which he could only do by proving his citizenship in the State courts and obtaining a mandamus therefrom. They well knew, moreover, that even if the complainant could afford the cost of the suit he would not have time to institute it, his time being limited to the brief leave of absence allowed to Government employes for voting; hence, it was practically a debarring from the rights of citizenship and the absolute loss of a vote to the Republican party. The Democratic officials in New-York City are throwing every possible obstacle in the way of the registry of Government employes from here, as they know full well that a clerk's time is limited, and that every vote thus debarred counts in their favor."

THE LOST WHALERS.

The New-Bedford Mercury prints the following as the opinion of one of the most experienced shipmasters of New-Bedford regarding the possible fate of the abandoned ships and men: "I have read the reports (as far as published) very carefully, and can see no reason for alarm at all in regard to those men that stuck by their ships. The ships were abandoned only twenty miles from the land, and were drifting slowly with the pack ice to the south-east, nearing the land every day. The heavy gales of September always blow from the north-east to east north-east, and that is blowing on the land from four to six points of the compass. There is no doubt in my mind that the ships, or most of them, will succeed in getting into Smith's Bay, probably about forty or fifty miles from where they were left. There the shores are lined with drift wood, and seal, white bears, deer, and abundance of sea fowl are to be found. There, I think, whales will be plenty up to about the 1st of October. The natives are kind and hospitable, and will help the men all they can. There is abundance of provision on board of the abandoned ships to last those men twelve months or more. The only fear that I have for those men is that they will eat their usual food of bread, flour, salt provisions, &c., and bring on the scurvy. They will not suffer for food, clothing, or lights and fires. Wood and water are plenty. My opinion is that part of those ships will be saved, (if not this year, the next,) for they will be in that part of the Arctic that is least disturbed by gales and currents. No doubt some of the officers of the ships are among the fifty brave men that stopped in the Arctic hoping to bring their ships to port." The Mercury says, however, that there are men of experience who differ materially from these views.

CHURCH AND PRAYERS AT HARVARD.

The Faculty of Harvard College have lately made the following regulation: "Seventy-two unexcused absences from prayers in the course of the academic year, (with the exceptions enumerated below,) shall be allowed to each student without penalty; but the allowance of seventy-two shall be reduced to sixty for students regularly excused from Monday prayers. Students at any time excused or generally excused from attendance at prayers his allowance of absences for the year shall be diminished at the rate of two for every week that he is temporarily excused, and the usual allowance shall be reduced pro rata for students who have been temporarily absent from college: Provided, that not more than one-third of the allowance shall be taken before Christmas, and not more than two-thirds before April."

All students, except Seniors, are now required to attend service every Sunday morning at some one stated place of worship. Formerly a student might go where he pleased, provided he certified at the end of the year that he had been to church at least once every Sunday. The withdrawal of this privilege is considered a hardship by many. Students are still permitted to spend Sundays with their parents if they desire.

SHE WOULDN'T SPEAK TO HIM.

From the Chicago Journal.

When a young Chicago man came down stairs the other morning he remembered that his wife, who was preparing breakfast, had not spoken to him when she got up, and so he cheerfully said: "Good morning, little lady."

Not a word came in reply.

"Good morning," said he again, in a higher key, thinking that she might not have heard him before.

"Um—'m—'m," was all that escaped from her sealed lips, as she kept on with the work.

"Why under the sun don't you answer me?" exclaimed the surprised husband; "what's the matter? what have I done to offend you?"

"Um—'m—'m," was still the only sound elicited.

"Look here!" then exclaimed the husband, as he jammed up and knocked over a cup of coffee; "I don't swallow a mouthful of this breakfast until you tell me what's the matter."

"What's the matter?" echoed she, suddenly turning upon him with flashing eyes. And then, she continued: "John Adell Smithson, the next time that I dream I see you kissing another woman, I—I—I will leave this house!—boo-hoo!"

STRANGE CASE OF HYDROPHOBIA.

The Troy Times of Monday says: "Fourteen years ago John Preston, who now resides on Burlington street, West Troy, was bit

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.
Held by Sanford, J.

Nos.		Nos.
209—Welch vs. The Germ. Am. Bank.		331—Boyce, Trustee, &c., vs. Wright.
475—Morgan, Adm'r, vs. McVicker et al.		6—Warner vs. Western Trans. Co.
250—Barrae, Adm'r vs. Botwell.		329—Dennin vs. The American Institute.
263—Weyer vs. Peet et al.		333—Bohannon vs. Barlow et al.
269—Abeasis vs. Gray et al.		296—Henn, Adm'r vs. Hudson R. R. Co.
870—Johnson vs. Luxton.
326—Screrch vs. Wolfe et al.		321—Mellvaine vs. Cadahan.
330—Canzi vs. Conner, Sheriff.		335—Cecil et al. vs. Reed et al.

COMMON PLEAS—EQUITY TERM.
No day Calendar.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART II.
Adjourned for the term.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART II.
Held by Van Brunt, J.
Case on — No. — — Schott vs. Wright. No day Calendar.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART III
Held by J. F. Daly, J.

Nos.		Nos.
963—Neligh vs Hall.		1013—Schwetzler vs. Hill.
818—Ritton vs Hastings.		814—Simon vs. Norgin.
827—Hardie vs. Boyd.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.
Held by Alker, J.

Nos.		Nos.
4306—The Bd of Com'rs of Pilots vs Dubbell.		5007—lear vs. Cunningham.
4700—Read vs. Russ, Jr.		5003—Haswell vs. Lombard.
4698—Roae et al. vs. Russ.
4371—Rosenthal et al. vs. Stern.		5009—Miller vs. Cunningham et al.
4946—Cohen vs. McCallum.		5010—Boyd vs. Green.
4550—Lowinson vs. Oppenheimer.		5013—Zelb vs. Horgan et al.
4991—Clapp vs. Leubusch.		5014—Sparks vs. Davenport.
5005—Callaghan vs. Lynch		5015—Same vs. Same.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.
Held by Goepp, J.

Nos.		Nos.
47.2—Roberts vs. Usher.		4653—Denzer et al. vs. Coleman.
4974—James et al. vs. Hyfield.		4923—Pickard et al. vs. Hudd.
8342—Gallagher vs. Young.
4725—Lowitski vs. Connor et al.		4970—Frankfeld vs. Warwick.
4390—Asst. Col. of Veterinary Surgeons vs. Pickel.		5016—Sparks vs. Davenport.
7301—Ringe vs. Mittnacht et al.		5019—Delt l vs. The Mayor, Aldermen, &c.
4477—Ecker et al. versus Ernst.		5020—Knapp et al. vs. Vassar.
		5021—Banta vs. Forster.
		5022—Hearn vs. Hurd.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART III.
Held by Sinnott, J.

Nos.		Nos.
3040—Zeitska vs. Schreiber.		7714—Shook vs. Rau.
5810—Ramy vs. Magron.		6423—Fisk vs. Frask.
3315—Crane vs. Walker.		7009—Metzinger vs. Weide.
7166—Perry vs. Wolff.		7103—De Forest vs. Christie.
718—Grier vs. Roserson.		3688—Rathbun et al. vs. The Citizens' Steamboat Co. of Troy.
4521—Aurio, Adm'r, vs. Schroetter.
1598—Werthemier versus Seevers.		8303—Dix vs. Tobias.
1645—Mater et al. versus Springer.		8472—Gillies vs. O'Sullivan.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PART I.
Held by Sutherland, J.
Charles R. Beckwith, emoezzlement.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PART II.
Held by Gilbertsleeve, J.
Henry P. Anties, grand larceny (continued.)

CROWNING THE ROSE QUEEN.

The Paris correspondent of the London News writes: "The coronation of a Rosière at Puteaux presented some very novel features. Mlle. Hummel, the new Rose Queen, is twenty-eight years old, and as she is a Protestant the ceremony of placing on her head the traditional wreath and giving her a purse filled with gold coins was purely civil. It took place at the Mayoralty, in the presence of the Municipal Council and of a large and highly respectable assembly, which followed the Rosière and her family from the Reformed Temple. M. Deschanel, Deputy of the Arondissement, presided, and delivered a lecture replete with charming atticisms on the rôle of women in the household and in society. The only limit he would place on their claim to equal rights was the conscious ness each woman has of what she can best do. It was complained that women conspired with the priests against civil and religious liberty. The reason was that they were illiberally used by the clergy. Do so as far as possible, by the Legislature, he added. Francillon, the godmother, presented Mlle. Hummel, a tall, healthy-looking blonde, with the usual trinkets, to which she added a handsome family decoration, exercising her more that it would be transmitted as an heirloom to her future descendants. With the Rosière on the platform were Senators Carnot, Bertaux, and Arago; Deputies Spuller, Targé, and Joly; Prefect Rouville, Lodes, and Pressensé. A wealthy anti-Catholic member of the Municipal Council took on himself the expense of the banquet and of the ball and of the fireworks which followed the ceremony. Mlle. Hummel is supporting her aged grandfather and blind mother, so the municipality did not insist on her being married immediately. After the cessation of the great people who came to witness the fête were conducted by the Mayor to the Rose Queen's Cottage, where they admired highly the polished furniture and the antique delf which have been four generations in her family."

ANTIQUITY OF MAN.

A correspondent writes to the London Times: "Mr. Sydney B. J. Skertchly, of Her Majesty's Geological Survey, who is stationed at Brandon, Suffolk, has recently discovered some flint implements in that neighborhood, in beds formed before the close of the glacial period. One was picked out of the beds in a pit at Culford, Suffolk, and two others were dug out of like beds in a pit at Botany Bay, on the Norfolk side of Brandon. It was not till Mr. Skertchly himself found another implement at Culford, and saw the boulder-clay above the bed from which he extracted it, that the importance of the discovery dawned upon him. Alongside the boulder implement he found the deposit of broken and scraped mammalian bones and some fresh-water shells. These bones were all in a circumscribed area. A jawbone containing teeth had been forwarded to London to be examined. Underneath the bones the clay was found to be burned. Mr. Skertchly's explanation is that we have here preserved the one solitary instance in the whole world of camping-ground of paleolithic men, and this camping-ground occurred below the boulder-clay which belonged to the earliest part of the glacial period. These remains were thus earlier than anything previously discovered. Tracing the boulder-clay and the beds beneath across the country, he saw that the implements found at Botany Bay were of the same age. The men who lived before the boulder-clay appeared to him to be more in musically connected in time with the men of the pala-lithic gravels lying upon the boulder-clay than were the latter with the men of the neoli hic age, who scooped out those ancient flint mines near Brandon called 'Grimes Graves.'"

CONTEMPT OF COURT IN FRANCE.

A curious case of contempt of court was disposed of in the Appeal Court at Douai recently. A workman named Bernard made an application against a sentence of six months' imprisonment passed on him for throwing down some fences on his employer's property. His argument was that he had pulled down a number of palings to revenge himself upon his master, who had dismissed him from the employment. This, witness said, was the only reason for this step." said Bernard. "was that I was a Republican and he is a Bonapartist." Naturally, the prisoner's defense was not held to be sufficient to justify him in destroying property, and the Judges confirmed the decision of the Police Court. It was at this point that Bernard rose and shook his fist in the faces of the Judges, exclaiming: "This is the kind of thing we must expect so long as we are tried by a pack of scoundrels." The Public Prosecutor instantly demanded the application of the law of contempt of court, and in addition of two years' imprisonment was made to the original sentence.

A VERDICT AFTER THREE TRIALS.

The Utica Observer says: "Our readers will doubtless remember the suit of James H. Woodford, a brother of the Canastota incendiary, against David A. Rasbach, the Cashier of the Canastota National Bank. This action was brought by Woodford to recover damages sustained on account of an alleged malicious prosecution. In May, 1873, Rasbach entered a complaint before Commissioner Denison, of this city, charging that Woodford, who was then a bank-rupt, had committed fraud, in violation of the forty-fourth section of the Bankrupt act, in procuring and retaining property, and his property for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. Woodford was arrested, imprisoned, and subsequently held to bail upon these charges and an indictment procured against him. He was afterward tried in the United States District Court at Auburn, in November, 1873, and acquitted. Shortly after Woodford's acquittal a suit remedy was brought, and has been several times tried. The last trial ended at Morrisville yesterday afternoon, after occupying the Court since Monday. The jury, after a short absence, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $9,899."

VERDICT AGAINST A RAILROAD.

A jury in the case of H. Barrett Levan against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, came into the Court of Common Pleas, Judge Briggs, Philadelphia, on Saturday, and rendered a verdict of $8,500 against the company. Mr. Levan was a passenger on a train recently, and being unable to obtain a seat in one of the regular cars, sat down in a sleeping car, and was ejected therefrom by the employes of the company.

UNPLEASANT TO THE LANDLORD.

The Boston Courier says: "An agent was sent to collect the rent of a tenement, the occupant of which was some four months in arrears. He was met with a pitiful tale of the scarcity of money by the matron of the household, and, to use her own words, she did not know where to get a dollar, and indeed she did not know when she could pay either in whole or in part. The conversation then turned on other topics, and before the messenger had departed she invited him to see some lovely things she had just brought from the Centennial."

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

SALES AT THE STOCK EXCHANGE—OCT. 25.

SALES BEFORE THE CALL—10 A. M.

100 Del. & Hud.	76½	1300 Mich. Cen.	50⅝
100 do	60. 74¼	250 do	50⅝
200 Western Union	73⅞	100 do	50⅝
4,000 do	73	200 do	50⅝
4000 do	72⅞	400 do	50¾
500 do	72⅞	100 do	50⅝
500 do	73	200 do	50⅝
1000 do	60. 72¾	100 do	51⅛
500 do	73⅛	200 do	51⅛
1500 do	72⅞	100 do	51⅜
200 do	73	100 do	51⅜
600 do	73⅛	100 do	51⅜
2100 do	73¼	100 do	52
4 0 do	63. 73⅜	500 do	51⅞
900 do	63. 73¼	400 do	52
100 Pacific Mail	29⅜	100 do	52⅛
10 do	29⅝	300 do	52⅛
400 do	63. 29¼	200 do	52⅛
600 do	29¼	500 do	51⅞
200 do	63. 29⅜	400 do	52⅛
700 do	29⅝	500 do	51⅞
300 do	29⅝	1000 do	51¾
500 do	29⅝	1000 Lake Shore	62⅝
300 do	29¾	1000 do	62¾
300 N. Y. C. & H.	100½	100 do	62¾
30 do	100⅝	1000 do	62⅝
50 do	100⅝	1000 do	62
100 Rock Island	102⅜	1000 do	61⅞
100 do	102⅝	1000 do	61¾
100 do	63. 61¾	1000 do	61⅞
500 Del., L. & W.	78⅝	1000 do	63. 62
50 do	78⅝	1200 do	63
913 do	78⅝	1000 do	63. 63¼
200 North-western	48⅜	500 do	62¾
200 North-west. Pf.	63½	500 do	63. 63⅜
5.0 do	63⅝	500 do	62½
100 do	63¾	200 do	62
100 do	63. 63¾	100 do	61⅞
100 do	63. 63¾	500 do	62⅝
200 do	63	100 do	62⅝
500 Ohio & Miss.	11¾	100 do	63
100 do	11⅝	1000 do	63⅛
1000 do	11⅝	1300 do	63¼
200 Erie Railway	11⅝	500 Cent. of N. J.	57
1000 do	11⅝	100 do	57⅛
4 0 do	63. 11⅝	100 do	57⅜
20 do	11⅝	100 do	57⅜
700 do	11⅝	100 do	57⅜
100 Han. & St. Jo.	15½	100 do	57¼
100 do. & St. Jo. Pref.	29¼	100 do	57⅜
800 St. Paul	29⅛	100 do	57½
400 do	28¾	100 do	57⅝
200 St. Paul Pref.	6	500 do	58
200 do	59⅞	100 do	58¼
200 do	59⅜	300 do	58¼
2.0 do	59⅜	100 do	58½
100 do	59⅜	100 do	58¼
900 do	60	800 do	58¼
300 Tol. & Wab.	6¼	300 do	58

GOVERNMENT STOCKS—10:15 AND 11:30 A. M.

$20,000 U. S. 6s '81.		$10,000 U. S. 5-20 R.
R.	b.c. 117½	'65	b.c. 109⅝
5,000 U. S. 5-20 R.		5,000 C. S. 5-20 R.
'65, N	b.c. 112½	'67	b.c. 115¼
35,000 do	112⅛	55,000 U. S. 6s, '81,
10,000 U. S. 5-20 C.		R	b.c. 113
'67	115⅜	1,700 do	b.c. 113¼
2,000 do	12.115⅜

FIRST BOARD—10:30 A. M.

$2,000 Mo. 6s, L. B.	67⅜	300 C. & N. W.	b.c. 40½
2,000 Ex. 7s, consol.	90⅜	100 do	40¼
7,000 N. W. C. G.	95⅜	100 do	40¼
1,000 C. & N. W. con.	104⅜	100 do	40¼
5,000 L. & W. B. C.	70	100 C. & N. W. Pf.	69⅜
2,000 Ex. 7s, consol.	90⅜	100 do	69⅜
1,000 C. & N. W. con.	104⅜	100 do	69⅜
5,000 L. & W. B. C.	70	100 do

SHIPPING.

CUNARD LINE B. & N. A. R. M. S. P. CO.

NOTICE.

With the view of diminishing the chances of collision the steamers of this line take a specified course for all seasons of the year.

On the outward passage from Queenstown to New-York or Boston, crossing meridian of 50 at 43 latitude, or nothing to the north of 43.

On the homeward passage, crossing the meridian of 50 at 42, or nothing to the north of 42.

FROM NEW-YORK FOR LIVERPOOL AND QUEENSTOWN.

*RUSSIA....WED., Oct. 25|ALGERIA....WED., Nov. 8
SCYTHIA....WED., Nov. 1|SCOTHNIA....WED., Nov. 15

Steamers marked * do not carry steerage passengers. Cabin passage, $80, $100, and $120, gold, according to accommodation. Return tickets on favorable terms. Steerage tickets to and from all parts of Europe at very low rates. Freight and passage office, No. 4 Bowling green. CHAS. G. FRANCKLYN, Agent.

WHITE STAR LINE.

FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL, CARRYING UNITED STATES MAIL.

The steamers of this line take the same Routes recommended by Lieut. Maury, U. S. N., going south of the Banks on the passage to Queenstown all the year round.

ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1:30 P. M.
BRITANNIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 11, 1:30 P. M.
GERMANIC.....SATURDAY, Nov. 25, at noon
ADRIATIC.....SATURDAY, Dec. 2, at 5:30 A. M.

From White Star Dock, Pier No. 52 North River, foot of Canal st.

These steamers are uniform in size and unsurpassed in appointments. The saloon, staterooms, smoking and bath rooms are amidships, where the noise and motion are least felt, affording a degree of comfort hitherto unattainable at sea.

Rates—Saloon $80 and $100, gold; return tickets on favorable terms. Steerage, $28.

For inspection of plans and other information apply at the Company's offices, No. 37 Broadway, New-York.
R. J. CORTIS, Agent.

ONLY DIRECT LINE TO HAVRE.

THE GENERAL TRANSATLANTIC COMPANY'S MAIL STEAMERS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND HAVRE, Calling at PLYMOUTH (G. B.) for the landing of Passengers.

Cabins provided with electric bells. Sailing from Pier No. 43 North River, foot of Barrow st., as follows:

FRANCE, Trudelle.....Saturday, Oct. 28, at 7:30 A. M.
ST. GERMAIN, Recluoux.....Saturday, Nov. 4, at 2 P. M.
PEREIRE, Daguet.....Saturday, Nov. 11, at 7 A. M.

PRICE OF PASSAGE IN GOLD, (including wine,) first cabin, $110 to $120, according to accommodation. Second cabin, $75; third cabin, $40. Return tickets at reduced rates. Steerage, $25, with superior accommodation, including wine, bedding, and utensils without extra charge. Steamers marked thus* do not carry steerage passengers.

The passengers of ST. LAURENT are requested to be on board on TUESDAY, Oct. 24, at 5 P. M.
LOUIS DE BEBIAN Agent, 55 Broadway.

LIVERPOOL AND GREAT WESTERN STEAM COMPANY. (LIMITED.)

LIVERPOOL, (Via Queenstown,)

CARRYING THE UNITED STATES MAIL.

TUESDAY.

Leaving Pier No. 46 North River as follows:

NEVADA.....Oct. 31, at 3 P. M.
WISCONSIN.....Nov. 7, at 9:30 A. M.
WYOMING.....Nov. 14, at 3 P. M.
DAKOTA.....Nov. 21, at 9 A. M.
IDAHO.....Nov. 28, at 2:30 P. M.

RATES FOR PASSAGERS REQUIRED.

Steerage, $26: intermediate, $45; cabin, $75 to $80, according to state-room. Offices, No. 29 Broadway.
WILLIAMS & GUION.

ATLAS MAIL LINE.

BI-MONTHLY SERVICE TO JAMAICA, HAYTI, COLOMBIA, and ASPINWALL, and to PANAMA and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall). First-class full-powered iron screw steamers, from Pier No. 51 North River.

For KINGSTON (Jam.) and HAYTI.

ATLAS.....Nov. 1
CLARIBEL.....About Nov. 20

For HAYTI, COLOMBIA, ISTHMUS OF PANAMA, and SOUTH PACIFIC PORTS (via Aspinwall).

ANDES.....Nov. 4
ALPS.....Nov. 20

Superior Instalments, with spacious saloon amidships.
PIM, FORWOOD & CO., Agents,
No. 56 Wall st.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE.

SAILING FROM PIER NO. 29 NORTH RIVER, TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS, and SATURDAYS at 3 P. M., FOR CHARLESTON, S. C., FLORIDA, THE SOUTH, AND SOUTH-WEST.

CLEOPATRA.....TUESDAY.....Oct. 24
CHAMPION.....THURSDAY.....Oct. 26
CHARLESTON.....SATURDAY.....Oct. 28

SUPERIOR PASSENGER ACCOMMODATIONS.

Insurance to destination one-half of one per cent.

Goods forwarded free of commission. Passenger tickets and bills of lading issued and signed at the office of
JAMES W. QUINTARD & CO., Agents,
No. 177 West st., corner Warren.

Or W. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 6 Bowling Green.
Or BENTLEY D. HASSELL, General Agent.
Great Southern Freight Line, 317 Broadway.

STATE LINE.

NEW-YORK TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, DUBLIN, BELFAST, AND LONDONDERRY.

These first-class full-powered steamers will sail from Pier No. 42 North River, foot of Canal st.

STATE OF NEVADA.....Thursday, Oct. 26
STATE OF INDIANA.....Thursday, Nov. 2
STATE OF GEORGIA.....Thursday, Nov. 9
STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA.....Thursday, Nov. 16

and every six-mate Thursday thereafter. First cabin, $80, and $90, according to accommodations; return tickets, $110, $125. Second cabin, $45; return tickets, $80. Steerage at lowest rates. Apply to
AUSTIN BALDWIN & CO., Agents,
No. 72 Broadway, New-York.
No. 45 Broadway, and at the company's pier, foot of Canal st., North River.

ANCHOR LINE U. S. MAIL STEAMERS.

NEW-YORK TO GLASGOW.

California, Oct. 28, 1 P. M. | Victoria, Nov. 11, 1 P. M.
Ethiopia....Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Bolivia....Nov. 18, 7 A. M.

TO GLASGOW, LIVERPOOL, OR DERRY.

Cabins $65 to $80, according to accommodations; intermediate, $50; steerage, $28.

NEW-YORK AND LONDON.

Australia, Oct. 28, noon. | Anglia, Nov. 18, 7 A. M.
Alyssa, Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Utopia, Nov. 25, 11 A. M.

Cabin, $85 to $70; Steerage, $28. Cabin excursion tickets at reduced rates. Drafts issued for any amount at current rates. Company's Pier Nos. 20 and 21, North River, N. R.
HENDERSON BROTHERS,
Agents, No. 7 Bowling Green.

NORTH GERMAN LLOYD.

STEAM-SHIP LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, SOUTHAMPTON AND BREMEN.

Company's Pier, foot of 20th st., Hoboken.

MOSEL.....Sat., Oct. 28 | RHEIN.....Sat., Nov. 11
WESER.....Sat., Nov. 4 | ODER.....Sat., Nov. 18

RATES OF PASSAGE FROM NEW-YORK TO SOUTHAMPTON, HAVRE OR BREMEN.

First cabin.....$100 gold
Second cabin.....60 gold
Steerage.....30 currency

Return tickets at reduced rates. Prepaid steerage certificates, $32 currency. For freight or passage apply to
O. & L. RICHARD & CO., No. 2 Bowling Green.

NATIONAL LINE. Piers Nos. 44 and 47 N. River.

FOR LONDON.

Canada.....Saturday, Oct. 28 at 2 P. M.

FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.

Italy.....Oct. 28, 2 P. M. | England....Nov. 11, 1 P. M.
Spain.....Nov. 4, 7 A. M. | Belgium....Nov. 18, 7 A. M.

Cabin passage, $55, $60, or $70, currency. Return tickets, $100, $110, or $120, currency. Steerage passage, $26, currency. Drafts issued from £1 upward at current rates.

Company's office, No. 69 Broadway.
P. W. J. HURST, Manager.

INMAN LINE.—MAIL STEAMERS.

FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.

CITY OF CHESTER, Saturday Oct. 28, at 1 P. M.
CITY OF RICHMOND, Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7 A. M.
CITY OF BERLIN, Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 A. M.

From Pier 45 North River.

CABIN, $80 and $100, Gold. Return tickets on favorable terms. STEERAGE, $28. Currency Drafts issued at lowest rates.

Saloons, State-rooms, Smoking, and Bath-rooms amidships. JOHN G. DALE, Agent,
Nos. 15 and 33 Broadway, N. Y.

PANAMA TRANSIT AND PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP LINES.

FOR CALIFORNIA, JAPAN, CHINA, AUSTRALIA, NEW-ZEALAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA, OREGON, &c.

Sailing from Pier No. 42 North river.

For SAN FRANCISCO, via ISTHMUS OF PANAMA.

Steamer CITY OF PUEBLA.....Tuesday, Oct. 31

connecting for Central America and South Pacific ports.

From SAN FRANCISCO to JAPAN and CHINA.

Steam-ship CITY OF TOKIO.....Wednesday, Nov. 1

From San Francisco to Sandwich Islands, Australia, and New-Zealand.

Steam-ship CITY OF SYDNEY.....Nov. 8

For freight or passage apply to
WM. P. CLYDE & CO., or H. J. SULLAY, Superintendent,
No. 6 Bowling Green. Pier 42, N. R., foot Canal st.

FOR SAVANNAH, GA.,
THE FLORIDA PORTS,
AND THE SOUTH AND SOUTH-WEST.

GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE, CENTRAL RAILROAD OF GEORGIA, AND ATLANTIC AND GULF RAILROAD.

WEDNESDAYS AND SATURDAYS.

SAN SALVADOR, Capt. NICKERSON, SATURDAY, Oct. 28, from Pier No. 43 North River, at 3 P. M.
GEO. YONGE, Agent,
No. 409 Broadway.

GENERAL BARNES, Capt. CHESEMAN, WEDNESDAY, Nov. 1, from Pier No. 46 East River, at 3 P. M.
MURRAY, FERRIS & CO., Agents,
No. 62 South st.

Insurance on this line ONE-HALF PER CENT. Superior accommodations for passengers.

Through rates and bills of lading in connection with Central Railroad of Georgia, to all points.

Through rates and bills of lading in connection with the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad and Florida steamers.
GEORGE YONGE,
Agent Central Railroad of Georgia,
No. 409 Broadway.

NEW-YORK, HAVANA, AND MEXICAN MAILS. S. LINE. Steamers leave Pier No. 3 North River at 3 P. M.

FOR HAVANA DIRECT.

CITY OF NEW-YORK.....Thursday, Oct. 26
CITY OF HAVANA.....Saturday, Oct. 28
CITY OF VERA CRUZ.....Wednesday, Nov. 8

FOR VERA CRUZ AND NEW-ORLEANS, Via HAVANA, Progreso, Campeachy, Tuxpan, and Tampico.

CITY OF MEXICO.....Saturday, Nov. 4

For freight or passage apply to
ALEXANDRE & SONS, Nos. 51 and 53 Broadway.
Steamers will leave New-Orleans Oct. 22 and Nov. 12 for Vera Cruz and all the above ports.

NEW-YORK AND HAVANA DIRECT MAIL LINE.

These first-class steamships sail regularly at 3 P. M., from Pier No. 13 North River as follows:

COLUMBUS.....WEDNESDAY, Nov. 1
CLYDE.....SATURDAY, Nov. 11

Accommodations unsurpassed. For freight or passage apply to WM. P. CLYDE & CO., No. 6 Bowling Green. McKELLER, LULING & CO., Agents in Havana.

SHIPPING.

WILSON LINE FOR SOUTHAMPTON AND HULL.

Sailing from Pier No. 53 North River, as follows:

NAVARINO.....Oct. 28|OTHELLO.....Nov. 18
COLOMBO.....Nov. 4|RHINDOO.....Dec. 2

First cabin, $70, currency; second cabin, $35. Clarence: excursion tickets on very favorable terms. Through tickets issued to Continental and Baltic ports. Apply for full particulars to CHARLES L. WRIGHT & CO., No. 56 South st.

HAMBURG American Packet Company's Line, for PLYMOUTH, CHERBOURG and HAMBURG.

CIMBRIA.....Oct. 26|POMMERANIA.....Nov. 9
GELLERT.....Nov. 16|SILESIA.....Nov. 16

Rates of passage to Plymouth, London, Cherbourg, Hamburg, and all points in Europe: First cabin, $100 gold; Second Cabin, $60 gold; Steerage, $30, currency.

KUNHARDT & CO., C. B. RICHARD & BROS.,
General Agents, General Passenger Agents,
61 Broad st., N. Y. 61 Broadway, N. Y.

RAILROADS.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW-JERSEY.

PHILADELPHIA AND NEW-YORK LINE.—Ferry stations in New-York, foot of Liberty st. and foot of Clarkson st., up town. Freight station, foot of Liberty st.

Commencing Oct. 2, 1876—Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., as follows:

5:40 A. M.—MAIL TRAIN for Easton, Belvidere, Bethlehem, Bath, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Tamanend, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Carbondale, &c.; connects at Bound Brook for Trenton and Philadelphia at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

7:15 A. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

8:45 A. M.—MORNING EXPRESS, daily, (except Sundays,) for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Allentown, and the West. Connects at Easton for Manch Chunk, Tamaqua Towanda, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Danville, Williamsport, &c.

*1:00 P. M.—Express for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Hazleton, Reading, Columbia, Lancaster, Ephrata, Pottsville, Harrisburg, &c.

4:00 P. M.—For High Bridge Branch, Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, and Manch Chunk; connects at Junction with Del., Lack. and West. Railroad.

*4:30 P. M.—For Somerville and Flemington.

5:15 P. M.—For Bound Brook.

*5:30 P. M.—EVENING EXPRESS, daily, for Easton, Belvidere, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Towanda, Reading, Harrisburg, and the West.

*8:30 P. M.—For Easton.

Boats leave foot of Clarkson st., up-town, at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05, 11:35 A. M.; 12:50, 1:50, 3:20, 4:20, 5:20, 6:20, 7:20, 8:20, 10:05, 11:50 P. M.

Connection is made by Clarkson Street Ferry at Jersey City with all trains marked *

For trains to local points see time-table at stations.

NEW-YORK AND LONG BRANCH DIVISION.

ALL-RAIL LINE BETWEEN NEW-YORK, LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, SEA GIRT, AND SQUAN.

Time-table, of Oct. 2, 1876: Trains leave New-York from foot of Liberty st., North River, at 8:15, 11:45 A. M., 4:45 P. M.

From foot of Clarkson st. at 11:35 A. M., 4:20 P. M.

Stages to and from Keyport connect at Matawan Station with all trains.

NEW-YORK AND PHILADELPHIA NEW LINE. ROUND BROOK ROUTE.

For Trenton, Philadelphia and the Centennial.

Commencing MONDAY, Oct. 9, 1876, trains

Leave New-York, foot of Liberty st., at 5:40, 6:45, 7:45, 9:15 A. M., 1:30, 5, 6:30 P. M.

Leave foot of Clarkson st. at 6:35, 7:35, 9:05 A. M., 12:50, 4:20, 6:20 P. M.

Leave Philadelphia from station North Pennsylvania Railroad, Front and Berks sts., at 7:30, 9:30 A. M., 1:30, 3:20, 5, 6:30 P. M. Leave Centennial Grounds at 7:15, 9:; 5 A. M., 1:15, 3, 4:50, 6:10 P. M.

PULLMAN DRAWING ROOM CARS are attached to the 7:45 and 9:15 A. M. trains from New-York and to trains leaving Centennial Grounds at 4:50 and 6:10 P. M.

All trains connect at Trenton Junction to and from Trenton.

Leave Trenton for New-York at 5:45, 8:15, 10:20 A. M., 2:1), 3:45, 5:45, 7:20 P. M.

Rates for passengers and freight as low as by other routes.

CENTENNIAL PASSENGERS delivered at the main entrance to the Centennial Grounds.
H. F. BALDWIN,
Gen. Pass. Agent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD. GREAT TRUNK LINE AND UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

Trains leave New-York, via Desbrosses and Cortlandt Street Ferries, as follows:

Express for Harrisburg, Pittsburg, the West and South, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, 9:30 A. M., 8 and 8:30 P. M. Sunday, 8 and 8:30 P. M.

For Williamsport, Lock Haven, Corry, and Erie at 2:40 and 8:30 P. M., connecting at Corry for Titusville, Petroleum Centre, and the Oil Regions.

For Baltimore, Washington, and the South. "Limited Washington Express" of Pullman Parlor Cars daily, except Sunday, 9:30 A. M.; arrive Washington, 4:15 P. M. Regular at 9:40 A. M., 2:40, and 9 P. M. Sunday 9 P. M.

Express for Philadelphia, 7:30, 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30 2:40, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8:30, 9 P. M. and 12 night. Accommodation 7 A. M. and 4:10 P. M. Sunday 8 A. M., 5, 6, 7, 8:30, and 9 P. M. Emigrant and second class 7 P. M.

For Centennial Depot at 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8 8:40, 9:30 A. M., 12:30, 3, and 4 P. M. On Sunday 8 A. M. Returning, leave Centennial Depot at 7:1 , 8:15, 10:50 A. M., 1, 1:5, 3, 3:30, 4:45, 5:30, 6, 6:50, and 9:05 P. M. On Sunday 7:20 A. M. and 7 P. M.

For Long Branch, Elizabeth, Rahway, Princeton, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Flemington, Belvidere, and other points, see local schedules at all Ticket offices.

Trains arrive: From Pittsburg, 3:20 and 10:30 A. M. and 12:10 P. M. daily; 10:10 A. M. and 6:30 P. M. daily, except Monday. From Washington and Baltimore, 3:30, 9:40 A. M., 4:10, 5:10, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 3:30, 9:40 A. M. From Philadelphia, 5:05 1:20, 4:30, 8:05, 9:10, 10:40, 11:20, 11:50 A. M., 2:20, 3:30, 5:10, 6:10, 6:50, 7:35, 7:40, 8:40, and 10:20 P. M. Sunday, 5:05, 8:20, 8:30, 9:40, 10:10, 11:50 A. M., 6:50 and 10:20 P. M.

Ticket Offices—Nos. 526 and 944 Broadway, No. 1 Astor House, and foot of Desbrosses and Cortlandt sts.; No. 4 Court st., Brooklyn. Nos. 114, 116, and 118 Hudson st., Hoboken. Depot Jersey City. Emigrant Ticket Office, No. 8 Battery place.

D. M. BOYD, Jr., General Passenger Agent.
FRANK THOMSON, General Manager.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL AND HUDSON RIVER RAILROAD.—After Sept. 18, 1876, through trains will leave Grand Central Depot:

8:00 A. M., Chicago and Northern Express, with drawing-room cars through to Rochester and St. Albans.

10:30 A. M., special Chicago Express, with drawing-room cars to Rochester, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls.

11:50 A. M., North-rn and Western Express.

3:30 P. M., special Albany, Troy, and Western Express. Connects at East Albany with night express for the West.

4:00 P. M., Montreal Express, with sleeping cars from New-York to Montreal.

6:0 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Watertown and Canandaigua. Also for Montreal via Plattsburg.

8:30 P. M., Pacific Express, daily, with sleeping cars, for Rochester, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Cleveland, Louisville, and St. Louis. Also for Chicago, via both L. S. and M. S. Railroads.

11:00 P. M., Express, with sleeping cars, for Albany and Troy. Way trains as per local Time Table.

Tickets for sale at Nos. 252 and 413 Broadway, and at 4 and 7 Astor House company's offices, Nos. 7 Park place, 785 and 942 Broadway, New-York, and 333 Washington st., Brooklyn.

C. B. MEEKER, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

ARRANGEMENT PASSENGER TRAINS, April 16 1876.

Leave depots foot of Cortlandt and Desbrosses sts., at 7 A. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Hazleton, Beaver Meadows, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Mount Carmel, Shamokin, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, &c., connecting with trains for Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West.

12 P. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Hazleton, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, &c., making close connection for Reading, Pottsville, and Harrisburg.

4 P. M.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, and Manch Chunk, stopping at all stations.

6:30 P. M.—Night Express, daily, for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Sayre, Elmira, Ithaca, Auburn, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and the West. Pullman's sleeping coaches attached.

General Eastern office corner Church and Cortlandt sts. CHARLES H. CUMMINGS, Agent.

ROBERT H. SAYRE, Superintendent and Engineer

ERIE RAILWAY.

Summer Arrangement of through trains, 1876. From Chambers Street Depot. (For 23d st. see note below.)

9:00 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Cincinnati and Chicago Day Express. Drawing-room coaches to Buffalo and sleeping coaches to Cincinnati and Detroit. Sleeping coaches to Chicago.

10:45 A. M., daily, except Sundays, Express Mail for Buffalo and the West. Sleeping coach to Buffalo.

7:00 P. M., daily, Pacific Express to the West. Sleeping coaches through to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cincinnati, and Chicago, without change. Hotel dining coaches to Cleveland and Chicago.

7:00 P. M., except Sundays, Western Emigrant train.

Above trains leave Twenty-third Street Ferry at 8:45 and 10:15 A. M., and 6:45 P. M.

For local trains see time-tables and cards in hotels and depots.

JNO. N. ABBOTT, General Passenger Agent.

NEW-YORK, NEW-HAVEN, AND HARTFORD RAILROAD,

After June 11, 1876, trains leave Grand Central Depot (42d st.) for New-Canaan Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 4:40, and 5:45 P. M.; Danbury and Norwalk Railroad at 8:05 A. M., 1, 3:15, and 4:40 P. M.; Naugatuck Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; Housatonic Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; New-Haven and Northampton Railroad at 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M.; for Newport at 8:05 A. M. and 1 P. M.; Boston and Albany Railroad at 8:05 and 11 A. M., 3 and 9 P. M., (9 P. M. on Sundays;) Boston (via Shore Line) at 1 and 10 P. M., (10 P. M. on Sundays.)

Way trains as per local time tables.

J. T. MOODY, Superintendent New-York Division.
E. M. REED, Vice President, New-York.

WICKFORD RAILROAD ROUTE TO NEWPORT, R. I.—Passengers for this line take 8:05 A. M. and 3 P. M. express trains from Grand Central Depot, arriving at 4:18 and 8 P. M. at Newport.

THEODORE WARREN, Superintendent.

ELECTIONS.

OFFICE OF THE ERIE RAILWAY COMPANY, NEW-YORK, Oct. 26, 1876.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Erie Railway Company for the election of Directors, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting will be held at the office of the company, No. 187 West st., on TUESDAY, the 28th day of November next. The polls will be opened at 10 o'clock A. M., and remain open till 2 o'clock P. M. of that day.

The transfer-books of both common and preferred stock will be closed after business hours on Saturday, the 28th inst., and remain closed until Wednesday, the 29th day of November next.

By order of the Board,
A. R. MACDONOUGH, Secretary.

NEW-YORK MINING COMPANY, NEW-YORK, Oct. 26, 1876.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of this company for the purpose of electing directors, and for the transaction of any other business that may be brought before them, will be held at the office, No. 125 Front st., on MONDAY, the 6th day of November next, at 12 o'clock.

The polls will be open from 12 to 1 o'clock.
W. H. FLEMING,
Secretary.

OFFICE OF THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, No. 61 LIBERTY STREET, NEW-YORK, Oct. 21, 1876.

AN ELECTION FOR DIRECTORS OF THIS Company will be held at the office on MONDAY, the 6th day of November next, from 12 to 1 o'clock P. M.
WM. RAYNOR, Secretary.

FINANCIAL.

VERMILYE & CO. BANKERS

16 and 18 Nassau st., New-York.

DEALERS IN ALL ISSUES OF GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
NEW-YORK CITY
AND BROOKLYN BONDS,
BUY AND SELL ON COMMISSION
RAILWAY STOCKS, BONDS, AND GOLD.

INTEREST ON DEPOSITS.

WASH'N R. VERMILYE, DONALD MACKAY
JAS. A. TROWBRIDGE, LATHAM A. FISH

FISK & HATCH, BANKERS,

No. 5 NASSAU ST., NEW-YORK.

We give particular attention to DIRECT DEALINGS IN GOVERNMENT BONDS AT CURRENT MARKET RATES, and are prepared, at all times, to buy or sell in largeor small amounts, to suit all classes of investors. Orders by mail or telegraph will receive careful attention.

We shall be pleased to furnish information in reference to all matters connected with investments in Government Bonds.

We also buy and sell GOLD and GOLD COUPONS, COLLECT DIVIDENDS and TOWN, COUNTY, and STATE COUPONS, &c., and buy and sell, ON COMMISSION, all MARKETABLE STOCKS AND BONDS.

In our BANKING DEPARTMENT we receive deposits and remittances subject to draft, and allow interest, to be credited monthly, on balances averaging, for the month, from $1,000 to $5,000, at the rate of three per cent. per annum, and on balances averaging over $5,000, at the rate of four per cent.

FISK & HATCH.

Detroit, Monroe and Toledo R. R. Co.'s FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

DUE 1906. Interest Seven Per Cent., due February and August. Total issue, $934,000 on 62 miles of road, WITH NO OTHER DEBT OF ANY DESCRIPTION.

PRINCIPAL and INTEREST GUARANTEED by the LAKE SHORE and MICHIGAN SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

A LIMITED AMOUNT FOR SALE BY

CHASE & ATKINS, Bankers,

NO. 18 BROAD STREET, N. Y.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL

IS PREPARED TO ISSUE

CIRCULAR NOTES
AND
LETTERS OF CREDIT

TO TRAVELERS,

available in all parts of the world.

RICHARD BELL,
CHAS. F. SMITHERS, } Agents.
NOS. 59 AND 61 WALL ST.

DELAWARE BRIDGE COMPANY,

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.

TOTAL ISSUE $350,000.

Interest 7 per cent., payable April and October.
PRINCIPAL DUE OCT. 1, 1915.

A portion of the Delaware Bridge is under lease to the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad Company, (United Companies of New-Jersey,) for 995 years, at an annual rental of $24,000.

For sale by
DAVIDSON & JONES,
Nos. 59 and 61 Wall st.

HOLDERS OF THE WESTERN EXTENSION Bonds of the New-York and Oswego Midland Railroad Company are hereby notified that their bonds must be deposited with GEORGE W. PARKE, Secretary, at No. 25 Nassau st., New York City, on or before Nov. 1, 1876, in order to get the benefit of the purchase at foreclosure sale.

GEORGE OPDYKE,
ROBERT WHITEHEAD, } Committee.
WM. H. GUION,

NEW-YORK, Oct. 23, 1876.

Policy Holders in the NEW-YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

can learn some interesting and confidential information, important to them, concerning that company by sending their names, address, number of policies, and amounts of insurance to INVESTIGATOR, Lock Box No. 4,475 New-York City Post Office.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO., NO. 59 WALL ST.,

ISSUE COMMERCIAL and TRAVELERS' CREDITS AVAILABLE in all PARTS of the WORLD.

DIVIDENDS.

THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK, NEW-YORK, Oct. 20, 1876.

DIVIDEND OF THREE AND ONE-HALF per Cent., free of taxes, has been declared on the capital of this bank, payable on and after Nov. 1. The transfer books will be closed from this date, and reopen on the 2d November.
E. WILSON, Cashier.

UNION NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1876.

DIVIDEND.—THE DIRECTORS OF THIS BANK have declared a dividend of Four per Cent. from the earnings of the last six months, payable on the 1st day of November next.

JAMES M. LEWIS, Cashier.

MICHIGAN STATE TREASURER'S OFFICE, LANSING Oct. 25, 1876.

THE INTEREST DUE NOV. 1, 1876, ON the War Bounty Loan Bonds issued by the State of Michigan, will be paid at the American Exchange National Bank in the City of New York.

WM. B. MCCREERY, State Treasurer.

THE NOVEMBER COUPONS OF THE REAL ESTATE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, guaranteed by the Mercantile Trust Company, will be paid at the office of the company, Equitable Building, No. 120 Broadway, on the 1st day of November next.

LOUIS FITZGERALD, President.

MECHANICS' AND TRADERS' NATIONAL BANK, CORNER BOWERY AND BROOME ST., NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1876.

A DIVIDEND OF FOUR PER CENT. HAS been declared on the capital stock of this bank, payable on and after the 1st day of November next.

GEO. W. YOULE, Cashier.

MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK, NEW-YORK, Oct. 23, 1876.

A DIVIDEND OF FOUR PER CENT. ON THE capital stock of this bank has been declared, payable to shareholders on and after the 1st day of November next.

N. AMEMAN, Cashier.

THE COUPONS OF THE BLEECKER Street and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company Bonds due July 1, 1875, January and July 1, 1876, will be paid on presentation at No. 168 West 44th st. by

JOHN M. HARLOW, Trustee.

NEW-YORK, October, 1876.

PACIFIC BANK, NEW-YORK, Oct. 17, 1876.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS HAVE THIS day declared a quarterly dividend of Three per Cent., payable on and after the 1st day of November next.

R. BUCK, Cashier.

SAVINGS BANKS.

UNION DIME SAVINGS BANK,

Nos. 396 and 398 CANAL ST., corner of Laight st.
Open daily, 10 to 3, and Monday evenings, 6 to 7.

ASSETS OVER TWELVE MILLION DOLLARS.

SURPLUS OVER ONE MILLION, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

N. J. HAINES, President.
G. S. CHAPIN, Treasurer. T. FLOYD JONES, Secretary

NEW-YORK SAVINGS BANK, 5TH AV., CORNER OF 14TH ST.—Interest commencing from the 1st of each month. Assets, $3,610,937 91. Surplus, $481,647 50. RICHARD H. BULL,
C. W. BRINCKERHOFF, Secretary. President.

HOTELS.

BUCKINGHAM HOTEL,

Cor. 5th av. and 50th st.

GALE, FULLER & CO.,

Proprietors.

HOTEL ROYAL.—RESERVOIR PARK AND 40TH st., a very quiet, select family hotel with restaurant of unsurpassed excellence. Liberal arrangements made for the Winter.

RESTAURANTS.

L. DELMONICO

WILL OPEN HIS

NEW RESTAURANT,

112 & 114 Broadway,

ON THURSDAY,

OCTOBER 26TH

BOARDING AND LODGING.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at
No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts.
Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

A SMALL PRIVATE FAMILY OF ADULTS will let the whole or a part of the well-furnished second story of their own house, very near 5th av., above 42d st., to a gentleman and wife, or to one or two gentlemen; board, appointments, and social surroundings of the highest class. Address Box No. 3,446 Post Office.

NO. 70 IRVING PLACE, GRAMERCY PARK.—Second floor, three rooms handsomely furnished; also extra large hall rooms with fires; house location and table first-class; terms moderate; references exchanged.

NO. 28 WEST 12TH ST., WEST OF 5TH AV.—With board, handsomely furnished rooms, large and small, suited for a family or party of gentlemen; house and table first-class.

HANDSOME, NEWLY-FURNISHED SUITES of rooms, with board; also single rooms and elegant house, in a desirable location, near station of elevated railroad. No. 347 West 34th st.

NO. 54 EAST 49TH ST.—A PARTY OWNING their house have a second floor also other rooms, en suite or separately, with excellent board; references.

NO. 6 EAST 32D ST.—HANDSOME ROOMS; parlor floor; second floor, four light rooms; third floor, front, with board; private table if desired; terms reasonable.

FIFTH AV., NO. 224, OPPOSITE HOTEL BRUNSWICK.—Parlor and second floors; single rooms for gentlemen, with breakfast; terms reasonable to parties making permanent arrangements.

NO. 13 PARK AV., NEAR 35TH ST.—A handsomely-furnished floor, en suite or separately, with board; private table and grate fires if desired; references.

TWENTY-FIRST ST., NO. 53 EAST.—Elegant rooms with private family on the third and fourth floors, with or without breakfast: references exchanged.

THIRTY-FOURTH ST., NO. 158 EAST.—A handsomely-furnished south room; also a large hall-room, with unexceptionable board; family private.

SEVENTEENTH ST., NO. 61 WEST.—Entire second floor; also third floor room, with the best of board for parties desiring a refined and permanent home.

NO. 354 WEST 23D ST.—LARGE SECOND story front alcove room handsomely furnished, with first-class board, in private family; all conveniences; references.

NO. 26 WEST 16TH ST.—ROOMS, SINGLE OR en suite; rooms for gentlemen; private table or table d'hôte; house and appointments thoroughly first class; reference.

BOARD—WELL FURNISHED ROOMS, single, double, or en suite, and elegant general parlor. No. 13 West 29th st., second door from Gilsey House.

NO. 33 WEST 24TH ST.—HANDSOMELY FURnished front sunny room, with small room attached, to gentleman and wife or single gentlemen, with or without board.

MRS. J. B. REID, NO. 17 EAST 31ST ST., Madison and 5th avs., offers a delightful suite, second floor, with private table; highest reference.

THIRTY-SIXTH ST.—A FINE SUIT OF TWO or more handsomely furnished rooms to rent, with board. No. 214 Madison av., corner 36th st.

NO. 74 WEST 35TH ST.—SUITE, THREE rooms, second floor, with excellent board; also single room, third floor; moderate terms; references.

NO. 4 EAST 10TH ST., ONE DOOR FROM 5TH AV.—Parlor and second floors, with private table.

NO. 48 EAST 21ST ST.—LARGE EXTENSION room on first floor with board; references exchanged.

NO. 27 WEST 31ST ST.—A THIRD FLOOR AND other rooms to let, with or without board; references.

TWENTY-FOURTH ST., NO. 134, EAST.—Well-furnished rooms to let, with superior board, at moderate prices; references.

MRS. SUMNER, NO. 22 EAST 35TH ST., has still three large rooms vacant; private table if desired.

NEAT, NEWLY-FURNISHED ROOM, FRONT, large size, first floor, fine location good attendance, fire, gas, &c.; price, $12. No. 44 East 19th st.

A SUITE OF LARGE, SUNNY ROOMS; other rooms; good table; moderate prices; references. No. 107 West 44th st.

NO. 19 EAST 48TH ST.—SECOND AND FOURTH story rooms to let with board; references exchanged.

NO. 35 MADISON AV., OPPOSITE THE SQUARE.—A parlor and bedroom to let, with board, to a gentleman and his wife, or two gentlemen.

THIRTY SIXTH ST.—TWO OR MORE ROOMS handsomely furnished to rent, with board. No. 214 Madison av., corner 36th st.

NO. 20 WEST 32D ST.—HANDSOMELY-FURnished suite of rooms, and first-class table; terms moderate.

NO. 50 WEST 28TH ST.—TO LET, TWO large sunny rooms

AN INSURANCE FAILURE.

THE CONTINENTAL COMPANY IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER.

AN ORDER FOR A RECEIVER GRANTED ON THE GROUND THAT THE COMPANY'S REAL ESTATE AND MORTGAGES HAVE DEPRECIATED—THE RESERVE FUND NOT KEPT UP TO THE STANDARD—A RESUMPTION OF BUSINESS EXPECTED.

The announcement made yesterday afternoon of the probable insolvency of the Continental Life Insurance Company, of this City, a corporation which has, almost from the first days of its existence, enjoyed the reputation of being among the first of its class, created no little excitement in financial and insurance circles. It appears that about a month ago one of the stockholders, Mr. John O. Hoyt, arrived at the conclusion that the assets of the company, consisting for the most part of real estate and mortgages on real estate, had depreciated in value to so great an extent that it would be unsafe for it to continue operations, and through his attorneys, Messrs. Sewell & Pierce, presented a petition to Judge Calvin E. Pratt, of the Second Judicial District, at a Special Term of the Supreme Court held in Brooklyn, asking for the appointment of a Receiver. The petition set forth that these assets had, for some time prior to the commencement of the action, been rapidly depreciating in value, until at the present time the real estate was worth little more than half what it cost, and that some of the mortgages held by the company were utterly worthless. It was further asserted that the company had violated the laws of the Insurance Department of this State in not keeping invested the proper reserve fund. On these representations being presented to the court an order was granted directing the defendant to show cause why its affairs should not be placed in the hands of a Receiver. This was on Oct. 9, and at a subsequent date the company appeared in court by its counsel and requested an adjournment of the proceedings. Other adjournments were afterward had until yesterday, when, on the application of Mr. Hoyt, Mr. John J. Anderson was appointed Receiver without opposition, the officers of the company hoping that by a judicious cutting down of the expenses, and a proper and careful handling of the assets, they could in a short time resume the regular order of business. The Receiver yesterday afternoon filed the required bond, amounting to $200,000, and about 3 o'clock entered the office of the company, at No. 26 Nassau street, and took formal possession of its affairs.

Regarding the present condition of the company's assets and liabilities nothing could be learned, and at the office, the officers being temporarily absent, their subordinates were somewhat reticent. The Secretary, Mr. J. P. Rogers, however, spoke highly of the merits of the Receiver, and said that his appointment was the result of a compromise with the stockholders who had brought the suit for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the company, and that he had no doubt they would soon be able to resume operations. Mr. John J. Anderson, the Receiver, was visited by a reporter of THE TIMES, to whom he stated that he knew nothing whatever about the affair until Tuesday afternoon, when he was called upon and requested to serve. He had conversed since taking possession of the affairs of the company with its principal officers, and should judge from the information they had given him concerning its condition that there were good reasons to look forward to a resumption of business at an early day. It appeared to him, however, that at the present time the company did not have the full reserve fund required by the rule of the Insurance Department. On the other hand, if its affairs were in such a condition that they would have to be wound up, it was not likely that any loss would be sustained by the policy-holders. The company's net assets at the beginning of the present year were, he understood, according to the sworn statement of the officers, over $6,000,000, and if $4,000,000 could be realized out of these, there would be no losses, so far as he could judge.

The Continental Life Insurance Company was organized on May 10, 1866, with a capital of $100,000, which has not since been increased. It was eminently successful during the first five or six years of its existence, under the administration of its then President, the late Justus Lawrence, who was succeeded by Mr. Luther W. Frost, the present incumbent. The statistics given below, which are extracts from the sworn reports of the officers to the Superintendent of the New-York State Insurance Department, will show the amount of business transacted by the company during each fiscal year from the time of its organization down to the end of 1875, together with the assets and liabilities at the end of each year, as well as the surplus:

Year.	Total Income. Dollars.	Total Disbursements. Dollars.	Assets.	Liabilities Exclusive of Capital. Dollars.	Surplus as to Policy Holders. Dollars.
1866...	73,300	56,155	295,848	110 353	185,495
1867...	1,016,121	196,562	906 158	675 340	230,818
1868...	1,038,810	365 617	2,067,178	1 615,067	452,071
1869...	1 549,153	676,305	3,500,103	2,915 038	585,065
1870...	2,059 843	1,283,319	4,505 235	4,124,172	381,068
1871...	2,690,776	1,948 537	4,932 487	4,412,831	619,656
1872...	3,064,277	2,018,843	5,942,823	5,420,067	522,825
1873...	2,638 500	1,164,439	6,353,694	5,823,444	530,250
1874...	2,707,627	2,252,043	6,473,159	5,747,405	725,754
1875...	2,438,467	2,021,532	6,229,485	5,504,053	725,433
Total..	19,459,874	13,836,343	.....	.....	.....

In the beginning of the present year the company reported 24,178 policies in force, the amount insured being $51,179,234. At the same time the following report of its assets was submitted:

Real estate, cost value	$688,482 24
Real estate mortgages	1,301,377 50
Loans in stock collaterals	309,635 00
Premium notes	1,937,700 05
United States bonds, cost value	543,424 12
Yonkers bonds, cost value	10,750 00
Cash in office and bank	452,479 37
Net assets	5,243,798 28
Other assets	985,336 55
Total	$6,2 9,134 83

As these statements show, the company's business has been a progressive one, and it will appear from them that the insolvency, if it is insolvent, must certainly be caused by a depreciation in values. Mr. Hoyt, in his complaint, does not allege that the officers have in any way misappropriated the funds of the company, but merely that under the rule of the department, they have not a sufficient reserve fund. This rule is an arbitrary one, and for the benefit of those who do not know its provisions, it may be stated that it is made necessary for a company to keep sufficient money, at 4½ per cent. interest, to pay all claims against it. Its capital is merely nominal. The Receiver will enter at once upon the duties of his office, and will present his report to the court at the earliest moment possible.

THE BLANC TRAGEDY.

THE MOTIVE FOR THE DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE REVEALED—BLANC'S WIFE UNFAITHFUL—SHE RESOLVES TO LEAVE HIM AND IS KILLED.

The motive which prompted Jules Blanc, the blind Frenchman, to murder his wife and child and at the same time to terminate his own existence, was revealed for the first time last evening at the inquest held at the Twentieth Precinct Station by Coroner Ellinger. The most important evidence adduced was given by the old man, Jean Boulay, Blanc's uncle, the testimony of the other persons examined being principally descriptive of the manner in which the tragedy was discovered. The following is Jean Boulay's statement made through an interpreter:

I reside at No. 201 West Thirty-third street; the deceased was my nephew; we lived together during the sixteen years immediately preceding his death; we emigrated from France about five years ago, and lived at No. 201 West Thirty-third street a little over a year; M. Blanc, who was married ten years ago, was at one time an officer on board a French merchant ship, but his more recent calling was that of a professor of music; M. Blanc and his wife lived happily together up to within a week of the tragedy, when Mme. Blanc informed her husband that she loved somebody else; I slept in a small bed-room; Blanc and his wife occupied a bed-room adjoining the kitchen, which kitchen and a small bed-room separated them from me; when the affair occurred I was in my bed; I heard the reports of the pistol and the moaning, but no cry for help reached my ears; did not hear them quarrel at any time; about a week after Mme. Blanc confessed to her husband that she loved somebody; he requested her to accompany him to Africa, and she at first consented, but afterward expressed an objection to going; M. Blanc never received a letter informing him of relations existing between his wife and another man; the revelation was made to me naturally by Mme. Blanc herself, who assured her husband that thenceforward they could only live as brother and sister; previous to that Blanc did not complain to me of coldness on the part of his wife, and I am certain he did not interpose any objection to her accompanying the Aimée troupe to Philadelphia; Mme. Blanc had been on the stage in conjunction with the Aimée Troupe two seasons; I never heard Blanc mention the name of Relue, the member of the Troupe, who, it was rumored, had been intimate with Mme. Blanc.

Mlle. Marlea, a former member of the Aimée troupe, was asked by the Coroner whether she was acquainted with the man Reine, and having answered in the negative was not examined further. At this juncture Coroner Ellinger addressed the jury, saying that in his judgment the evidence of Jean Boulay had revealed the motive of Blanc, and that, therefore, additional testimony would be superfluous. The jury concurred in that opinion, and without retiring rendered verdicts to the effect that Blanc committed suicide by inflicting a pistol-shot wound in his head; that Marie Blanc, the wife, came to her death by a pistol-shot wound through the head at the hands of her husband, and that Emil Blanc, the child, also died from the effects of a pistol-shot wound in the head at the hands of his father, Jules Blanc.

THE CENTRAL NEW-JERSEY STRIKE.

TERMS OF THE COMPROMISE AGREED TO BY THE STRIKERS—TRAINS RUNNING REGULARLY—THE ACCIDENT NEAR PLAINFIELD—A MISPLACED SWITCH THE CAUSE.

All the trains on the New Jersey Central Railroad resumed their regular trips yesterday morning. The strike is the subject of general discussion among the patrons of the road, and while a few sympathise with the engineers and approve their action, the majority are inclined to condemn them for the great inconvenience they caused. One of the engineers, who seems to speak authoritatively, says that the officers of the road received due notice that the strike would take place, but took no action, and even refused to hold an interview with the Committee of Engineers. The terms submitted to President Knight by the committee, and accepted by him, are as follows:

First—On and after Oct. 1, 1876, the rate of wages for all engineers who have been in the service of the company a term of two years shall be $90 per month for 2,600 miles or less. All miles run in excess of 2,600 shall be paid for pro rata, except coal and freight on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Division, which shall be 2,080 miles per month, or eighty miles per day.

Second—All firemen, promoted by the company to the position of engineers, for the first year shall receive $75 per month for the same services, and pro rata for extra mileage. For the second year they shall receive $85 per month, and pro rata for extra mileage. The oldest engineers in the service of the company to have the preference of engines and trains, when competent and worthy, and in case of a surplus the oldest in the company to have the preference of work.

It has been ascertained that the accident which occurred on Tuesday night was caused by a misplaced switch. An examination of the switch showed that it had been purposely misplaced, as it was blocked with a large piece of wood, and the rod supporting the signal lamp had been twisted so as to display the green light indicating safety The switch is at Evona, two miles west of Plainfield. As stated yesterday, the train was run by C. G. Williams, master mechanic at Communipaw, with R. J. Schwackhammer, master of bridges, serving as fireman. When the locomotive ran off the track at the misplaced switch the foremost car struck the tank and the second plunged over it into the tank. William Reilly, a brakeman, who was standing on the front platform, was instantly killed. The train was composed of nine cars, three of which were telescoped and completely wrecked. Three others were partially wrecked, and the remaining three did not leave the track. Besides Reilly, the only immediate victim of the catastrophe was Nathaniel Deuick, who died of his injuries in about fifteen minutes. He was a Mason, and resided at Dunellen. Of the remaining twenty-one persons who were injured, three will probably die. Col. A. Schenck Ten Eyck, of Somerville, was badly injured on the head. William Flynn was severely injured, and removed to Plainfield. A passenger named Phillips was so seriously injured that he could not be taken home, and was cared for at a farmhouse near the scene. John A. Clune, on White House, sustained very serious internal injuries. John G. Schenck, of Neshanic, was badly wounded, and Mr. Appleby, of Dunellen, had his leg fractured. The others escaped with slight bruises and scratches. Suspicion very naturally pointed to the striking engineers as the cause of the accident, but no positive proof of any complicity on their part could be obtained. Some of the company's officers profess to believe that the engineers are entirely innocent, but they have been unable to obtain any information pointing to the guilty parties. A rigid investigation will be made by the authorities.

DEMOCRATS FOR HAYES.

MASS-MEETING OF INDEPENDENT VOTERS—SPEECHES BY HON. ISAAC I. HAYES, EX-JUDGE DITTENHOEFER, AND OTHERS.

A mass-meeting of the Independent Democrats favoring the election of Hayes and Wheeler was held in the open air, at the corner of Third avenue and Twenty-fourth street, last evening, under the auspices of the Sheridan Shook Association. Over the speakers' stand hung a handsome Hayes and Wheeler banner, and a band of music furnished a select programme between the speeches. Mr. John J. Scannel presided and introduced Dr. Isaac I. Hayes as the first speaker. Dr. Hayes said that Gov. Tilden claimed to be a reformer over all reformers. What had this reform Governor done? He had not saved any money to the State; the claim that he had saved nearly $7,000,000 was a pure fiction. People were apt to overlook the fact that the Legislature and not the Governor made the tax levy. The Governor had had nothing to do with it. The Republican Legislature of last Winter reduced the taxes over $6,000,000, as compared with the previous year; the canal frauds had in no way been broken up by Gov. Tilden, and the breaking up of the Tweed Ring was not due to him. The speaker spoke at length on the financial question, claiming that the present was no time to change the Administration. That the Republican Party had managed the finances skillfully was shown by the fact that while the national debt had been reduced the rate of interest had undergone a corresponding reduction. Throughout the world the national credit had been established in a manner equal to that of any foreign nation. Elect Mr. Hayes, said the speaker, and this condition of things must continue, and business will revive; elect Tilden and the lack of confidence prevailing during the past three years will surely be prolonged. He touched briefly on the labor question, assuring the audience that it was independent of legislation, and that the laboring men prospered when general business prospered, and the one condition would not be independent of the other. The country was now doing business on a more careful basis, and the speaker trusted that a good time was come.

Messrs. Frank Shafer and James S. Thayer made brief addresses, after which ex-Judge Dittenhoefer made the closing speech of the evening. Mr. Dittenhoefer said he was opposed to Tilden because the great leader of the Democratic Party in this City, John Kelly, had said that Tilden was unfit to be nominated to that high office, and would not carry the State. Judge Sanford E. Church, now the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, had said that Tilden was not the proper man for Governor of New-York, and Horatio Seymour, Jr., had declared that the nomination of Tilden would be a disgrace to the party. Erastus Brooks, had published in the Express, day after day, statements that Tilden would never be elected. Judge Hiram Grey, President of the Democratic Convention, had opposed the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden for President. In fact, said he, every man of prominence in the St. Louis Convention was opposed to Tilden on good grounds, and why should they retract the sentiments held by them at that time, when there had been no change in Tilden.

The speaker was greeted with a storm of cheers, and the Chairman declared the meeting adjourned. Among those present on the stand were Messrs. John D. Lawson, Cornelius M. Van Cott, Sheridan Shook, and others.

THE BROOKLYN REPUBLICANS.

LARGE MEETING IN THE MORGAN WIGWAM—SPEECHES BY HON. S. B. CHITTENDEN AND GEN. STEWART L. WOODFORD.

A large and enthusiastic Republican mass meeting was held last night in the Morgan Wigwam, corner of Clawson and Putnam avenues, Brooklyn, under the auspices of the Hayes and Wheeler Minute Men of the Seventh Ward. Speeches were made by Hon. Eugene D. Berri, the Republican candidate for County Clerk; Hon. S. B. Chittenden, Republican candidate for Congress in the Third District, and Gen. Stewart L. Woodford. Mr. Chittenden said there was not an intelligent man in the country who would not vote the Republican ticket if he had been situated as he had been for the past eight months. The honor and the dignity of the nation were dependent upon the success of that party. The foundation of the campaign, as conducted by the Democrats, was Republican corruption and hard times. They seemed to forget that the hard times were the direct result of the war to subdue treason. Mr. Tilden was put forward as a hard-money man yet Gov. Allen was stumping the country for him, and Tilden was himself associated on the ticket with a repudiationist. Gen. Woodford in his address said that the great central ideas of the present contest were the financial situation, the proper methods of administration, and the Southern question—the relations which the people of the States lately in rebellion sustained toward the Government. The financial question was an important one, because business could not rest upon a sound basis as long as the national credit was in doubt. Besides the stability of insurance companies and national banks depends upon the national credit. A blow at that was a blow at the interests of every merchant, mechanic, and laboring man in the country; and this was just where the Democratic Party could not be trusted. The first gun that was fired at Sumter was the first blow that was struck at the national credit, the second blow was in 1862, when George H. Pendleton led the Democratic minority in Congress in opposition to the [illegible] issue of greenbacks, on the ground of unconstitutionality. Gen. Woodford referred to the opposition of the Democratic Party to the Resumption act, and to the address of Tilden, the professed champion of hard money, in consenting to its repeal. The popular doubt of the course of the country in regard to finance was what caused the depression in business. A gold basis would insure an honest administration of the Government. Gen. Woodford closed with a reference to the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution, which he declared must be sustained and kept inviolate.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

LETTER FROM THURLOW WEED ON THE SITUATION—APPOINTMENT OF A COMMITTEE ON NOMINATIONS—COMMUNICATIONS FROM OUTSIDE ORGANIZATIONS.

The Republican County Convention met last evening at Republican Hall, Thirty-third street, near Broadway, and was called to order by Mr. Jacob M. Patterson, Chairman of the Central Committee. Hon. Benjamin K. Phelps was unanimously elected Chairman. Before taking his seat he said that he did not believe that there was a gentleman in the convention who was not fully alive to the responsibilities imposed upon them to discharge their duty as citizens. The eyes of the citizens of the City, the State, and the whole country were turned upon them to see that they were entering upon the duties to be performed by them wisely, and none but good candidates should be selected for the local offices. Mr. Alonzo B. Cornell moved that article 14 of the constitution of the Central Committee be enforced in the admission of delegates. That article provides that no person shall be eligible as a delegate who, directly or indirectly, holds any office (other than that of Notary Public) under Democratic authority. The Chairman sustained Mr. Cornell in the point raised, and decided that if any delegate should be objected to on that ground that the convention would be called upon to act in the matter. The roll of delegates from various Assembly districts and wards was then called. Substitutes presented themselves for several delegates elected at the primaries who were unable to attend the convention, and, being the choice of the Republicans of their districts, they were admitted. When the name of the venerable Thurlow Weed was called as a delegate from the Seventh Assembly District, the Secretary read a letter from him, as follows:

NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1876.

DEAR SIR: I am constrained by continued ill-health to resign my seat as a delegate in the Republican County Convention. I do so with much regret, for on no occasion during my whole political life has my solicitude for the success of the Republican Party been as great as it is now. The duties devolved upon your Convention are responsible and difficult. Questions of policy will arise, in the decision of which your calmest consideration and best judgment will be required. In all probability the vote of our State will decide our Presidential election, and upon the vote of our City hangs the result in the State. While we all earnestly desire good City government, few, if any, will be willing to achieve that end at the expense of our State and National tickets. I have full confidence, therefore, that in your action upon City and County nominations questions of paramount importance will not be disregarded.

Very truly yours, THURLOW WEED.

Mr. Cornelius M. Van Cott was substituted in Mr. Weed's place. Hon. Chester A. Arthur made a brief speech, in which he said that in view of the importance of the convention's duties it was necessary to proceed with great caution in the making of nominations. The Gubernatorial and national ticket must not be lost sight of. The local situation was full of embarrassment, and the convention must move carefully. He therefore moved that a committee, consisting of one delegate from each district and the two wards, should be appointed by the Chairman, to report at the next meeting of the convention on Tuesday evening next on nominations. The resolution was adopted, and the following committee was appointed:

Districts.	Districts.
1.....Michael W. Burns.	13.....Charles S. Spencer.
2.....Pierre C. Vanwyck	14.....Joseph C. Pluckney
3.....Thomas F. Geary.	15.....Henry G. Leask.
4.....George W. Weed.	16.....Frank E. Howe.
5.....Abraham Lent.	17.....Joel W. Mason.
6.....Robert Moore.	18.....Chester A. Arthur.
7.....John D. Lawson.	19.....Richard H. Greene.
8.....John J. O'Brien.	20.....Willard Bullard.
9.....Gilbert J. Hunter.	21.....Rufus E. Cowing.
10.....Henry H. Haight.	22d W'd.James B. Murvin.
11.....George Bliss.	24th W'd.J. Thomas Stearns.
12.....Joseph Archbold.

and the Chairman of the Convention.

The committee will meet at Republican Hall this evening. Communications here received from L. M. Dolscher of the Independent Citizens party; Henry Clausen of the Conference Committee of the American Independent German American Organization, and Independent Citizens party, and the Greenback and Liberal Republican parties. The different communications were referred to the Committee on Nominations. The Convention then adjourned to meet next Tuesday evening.

BROOKLYN DEMOCRATS.

THE REFORMERS DENOUNCING THE ONE-MAN POWER—AN ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE OF KINGS COUNTY, IN WHICH "BOSS" M'LAUGHLIN IS SHOWN IN HIS TRUE COLORS.

The following manly address to the people of Kings County has been issued by the gentlemen who, until yesterday, were known as the Reform element in the "regular" Democratic General Committee. The address explains itself:

To the Democrats and the People of Kings County:

When, one year ago, the people of this county declared they would no longer submit to the determination of the one-man power, Mr. Hugh McLaughlin, thus judged and condemned, announced his surrender of party control and retirement from active participation in politics.

Upon the faith of that announcement the undersigned, with others, earnestly desiring to elevate and purify our party management, and to reclaim thousands of Democrats who had been disgusted and alienated by the scandalous rule of this man, entered the General Committee and the counsels of the party.

The results may be briefly stated. They found that Mr. Hugh McLaughlin's nominal retirement was practically a continuance of his dictatorship; that the control of the organization and of the party conventions was as complete and thorough as before; that he, not the party, named the nominees; that the party patronage, upon which depends his power, was still in his hands; that every effort in the direction of reform was thrott led by him; that the expression of honest convictions was met by menace; that independent action was severely punished; that the exercise of individual judgment meant to him treason; that the new element in the committee was simply utilized as a veneering to screen these facts from the people, and that instead of accomplishing reform they were but strengthening and perpetuating the power which the people desired to destroy.

Satisfied that no good purpose could be subserved by further efforts within the General Committee, the undersigned have resigned their membership, and in so doing call upon the people of Kings County, irrespective of party, in the interests of good government, to rebuke in the coming election an emphatic judgment against the one-man power in our local politics. But one more victory by the people and for the people is needed to overthrow this abomination.

Let no Democrat in this emergency fear to strike a blow for reform in our local affairs by reason of any considerations attaching to our National and State tickets. The complete success of these tickets in our county can only be endangered by a corrupt administration of our party. Reform is our watchword, not only in national but local politics, and our cause will be best commended to the people by reform in our midst.

Augustus Van Wyck, Twenty-third Ward.
C. W. Pleasants, First Ward.
N. McGregor Skeer, Seventeenth Ward.
Rufus M. Williams, Fourth Ward.
A. C. Worth, Twenty-fifth Ward.
W. C. Smithwick, Tenth Ward.
J. H. Bakemore, Seventh Ward.
A. B. Gwathney, Ninth Ward.
Brewster Kissam, Twenty-first Ward.
Franklin Beames, Twenty-second Ward.
Fred. W. Jones, Twentieth Ward.
J. H. Anderson, Twenty-first Ward.
Fred. Wiltse, Thirteenth Ward.
E. B. Barnum, Twenty-third Ward.
John T. Barnard, Twenty-third Ward.

The utmost consternation prevails in the ranks of the McLaughlinites at the defection of the men who gave an air of respectability to the party in Brooklyn. Many of the "Boss's" followers, already fearing defeat, have commenced to revile their leader. Just what action will be taken by the bolting members cannot be definitely ascertained at present, but it is tolerably certain that they will vote the local ticket nominated by the Republicans and Independent Democrats. It is understood that a number of the Reform Democrats who were admitted to the General Committee by McLaughlin last year, and who have not yet resigned, will formally withdraw at a meeting of the Kings County Democratic General Committee to be held to-night.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS FOR ALDERMEN AND SUPERVISORS.

The following nominations for Aldermen and Supervisors were made last evening by the Democrats in Brooklyn:

Wards. Aldermen.	Wards. Supervisors.
1.	2. John Gallagher.
3. David M. Cottrell.	4. George Lexton.
5. Thomas Sheylin.	6. John Byrne.
7. Frederick W. Phillips.	8. Daniel Ryan.
9. William H. Murtha.	10. John T. Moran.
11. William Shipman.	12. John Curran.
13. Anson Fergusson.	14. James Tiernan.
15. John P. Ormsby.	16. Joseph Burger.
17. John A. Connolly.	18. George Brown.
19.	20. Americus B. Hubbard.
21. Martin W. Bruns.	22. Abraham Mandeville.
23.	24. William H. Eleman.
25. James T. Mason.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

Prof. Griffis, author of The Mikado's Empire, will lecture this evening in St. James' M. E. Church, Harlem, on "Inside Japan."

The Twenty-seventh and Ninth Regiments, and also the Separate Troop Cavalry, have applied to the Board of Aldermen for armories.

Members of the Cheap Transportation Association and of the Produce Exchange will attend the Centennial Exhibition on Thursday next.

To-morrow, Friday, will be the third day for registration in this City. Republicans who have not already registered should not fail to do so to-day.

We have received $2 from Field & Son for the relief of Gustave Ballon, the wounded gunsmith, and also $2 from "W." for the same purpose.

A boy, five years of age, named John Daly, of No. 454 West Forty-fifth street, died yesterday from the effects of burns received by falling into a bon-fire two weeks ago.

The first of the free lectures of the season at the Temple Ahwarth Chered, corner Lexington avenue and Fifty-fifth street, will be delivered to-night by Rev. Dr. A. Huebsch.

Controller Green signed warrants yesterday for various accounts, amounting in the aggregate to $2,016,896 78, and transmitted the same to the Mayor for his countersignature.

George A. Horn, aged four years, while at play yesterday in the neighborhood of his parents' residence, Woodlawn Heights, north of Central avenue, fell into a spring and was drowned.

Controller Green has paid the sum of $182 40 to Messrs. Kealey and Dilks, two detectives attached to the Central Office, being the amount of expenses they incurred in bringing the Ring forger Woodward from Chicago to this City.

The Board of Apportionment yesterday commenced the work of examining the estimates for 1877. They will hold several sessions, in order to decide what amount should be allowed for the maintenance of each department next year.

The Park Commissioners, at their meeting yesterday, adopted a plan for widening and improving Third avenue from the northern boundary of the Twenty-third Ward to Fordham station, a part of the avenue which has hitherto been a mere country road.

Philip Ottmann, a man aged forty-four years, has been missing from his home since last Saturday evening. Any information as to his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his relatives at No. 423 East Eighty-third street, who offer a reward of $2,000 for his recovery.

William Maxwell, aged sixty, a real-estate agent, who resided in Third avenue, between One Hundred and Thirty-seventh and One Hundred and Thirty-eighth streets, died suddenly yesterday in the coal office of Handibode & Johnson, at One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and Mott avenue.

Berchard A. Reinhold, a druggist, doing business at Forty-first street and Third avenue, has been missing since Saturday evening last, and fears are entertained that he has met with an accident or been foully dealt with. Being a gentleman of quiet habits and comfortable circumstances, no reason can be assigned for his disappearance.

A rather tall, middle-aged man, with dark hair, is going about victimizing citizens by claiming to be the brother-in-law of some of their friends, and telling a plausible story about having been robbed as he was getting on a train. His latest victim is Mr. Lyman, one of the Fishery Commissioners of Massachusetts, whom he told that he was a brother-in-law of Hon. R. B. Roosevelt.

At an informal meeting of residents of New-Jersey Mr. William O. McDowell was elected Secretary of the New-Jersey Association. The object of the association is to secure an expression of opinion as to the best method of having Jersey City made a port of entry and of advancing the commercial and manufacturing interests of the State. Explanatory circulars have been sent throughout the State asking the co-operation of interested citizens.

The Fall reception of the New-York Press Club takes place this evening, and a pleasant time is expected, beginning at 8 o'clock P. M. The musical programme will be under the direction of a distinguished artist. Mr. John Brougham will recite his own production, "The Hymn of Princes;" Mr. F. C. Bangs will recite Shakespeare's "Seven Ages of Man," and Mr. Charles Roberts, Jr., will recite "The Spanish Duel," by J. F. Walker. A number of prominent guests are expected. The reception is in charge of a committee composed of Messrs. C. King, Charles H. Bladen, William H. Stiner, Valentine Hammann, J. C. Hennessy, and T. H. Hamilton.

BROOKLYN.

John M. Brandon, of No. 469 Adelphi street, was robbed of a watch and $17 in money late on Tuesday night, while asleep on a Fulton ferry-boat.

United States Marshal Biggart yesterday arrested Adam Hinderman, of Bliss ville, Long Island, on a charge of attempting to leave the county after having given bail to appear for trial on a charge of carting illicit whisky.

The motion to appoint Commissioners to appraise the damages for land to be taken on Lafayette avenue, for the use of the Queen's County Railroad, was yesterday granted by Judge Gilbert, in the Supreme Court, Kings County.

In the trial of Peter Brown, yesterday, in the Court of Sessions for manslaughter in the fourth degree, for the killing of Patrick Harney, Sept. 29, during an altercation in a liquor saloon on Main street, the jury rendered a verdict acquitting the prisoner, on the ground that he acted in self-defense.

Mrs. Edith Free yesterday brought suit against her husband, Samuel Free, for limited divorce, on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. Free is a clerk in the Fire Office, and receives a salary of $1,500, and $300 pension money. The parties were married in 1865, and have had three children; only one, however, a girl three years old, is now living.

A special meeting of the Kings County Bar was held yesterday in Part II. of the Kings County Court-house for the purpose of paying proper tribute of respect to the memory of their late associates—Mr. E. L. Sanderson and Mr. Charles Condit. Judge Gilbert presided. Appropriate resolutions were adopted, and remarks made by Judge Brdseye, Mr. William Cott, a former partner of Mr. Sanderson, Messrs. Lowery, Benedict, and others.

John A. Hoyt, a stockholder in the Continental Life Insurance Company, of New-York, yesterday made application to Judge Pratt for the appointment of a Receiver for that company, on the ground that it is insolvent, and that it has violated its charter by investing its reserved funds. Judge Pratt granted the motion, and appointed John J. Anderson, of New-York, Receiver. Mr. Anderson filed his bond in the sum of $200,000

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Yesterday afternoon George Bell, of Wells avenue, Yonkers, was bitten by a rabid dog.

Hon. Clarkson N. Potter will deliver the oration before the Westchester County Historical Society on the occasion of the celebration of the centennial of the battle of White Plains, on Saturday next. The society is arranging for other appropriate exercises, including a procession from the camping ground of Washington to the scene of the battle on Chatterton Hill, in which the Fifth Brigade of the Fourth Division, N. G. S. N. Y., will take part.

The thieves who broke into the stable of Abram House, at Bedford, Westchester County, on Saturday night last, and stole a very valuable team of horses, a carriage, and a set of harness have not yet been discovered. They were cool scoundrels, for the reason that after harnessing the horses to the carriage they effected an entrance to the kitchen of Mr. House's residence, and regaled themselves with the contents of the larder without disturbing any member of the family.

LONG ISLAND.

Michael Spain, of Flushing, a brakeman on the North-side Railroad, was caught between two cars, at Hunter's Point, yesterday morning, and terribly crushed. His injuries are probably fatal.

Yesterday morning a sail-boat containing a man, capsized in the East River, opposite Pigeon's dock, Hunter's Point, and the man was seen struggling with the waves. Thomas Wilbur put out in a row-boat to the man's assistance, but when he arrived in the locality all traces were lost of him. A very heavy sea was running at the time, and it is feared that, becoming exhausted, the man was drowned and his body carried along with the tide.

STATEN ISLAND.

Robert McKee, of Stapleton, writes to say that he did not attempt to "shuffle off this mortal coil." The report that he attempted suicide is, he says, incorrect.

NEW-JERSEY.

The wife and daughter of John F. Foster, editor of the Newark Courier, while out riding Tuesday, were thrown from their carriage, and the latter was seriously injured.

Ellen Shelton, the colored woman who was on trial in the Union County courts for the murder of her deformed child at Elizabeth, was acquitted yesterday. The Jury was out from 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon until 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Bridget Baur, of Hoboken, who was charged by her husband with being a habitual drunkard, was committed to the County Jail yesterday for thirty days. Mrs. Baur is the woman who walked about the streets drunk for a day and a night carrying an infant in her arms. The child has since died from neglect and exposure.

Chief of Police Donovan, of Hoboken, denies that there is any serious difficulty between the Fire and Police departments. He says there was no trouble whatever until the fire at Bauman's Hotel, and then the firemen were as much to blame as the Policemen. In the meantime, it is understood that Engine Company No. 1 proposes to follow the example of Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, and call a meeting to consider the advisability of disbandment.

Thomas Mack, while drunk yesterday, on Grove street, Jersey City, attacked a boy named John Meehan with a match-axe, inflicting an ugly gash on the head. He afterward threw a large stone at another boy which narrowly missed his head. After assaulting several other persons, Mack was arrested and committed for trial.

The annual session of the Women's National Temperance Convention of the United States commenced yesterday morning in the Market Street M. E. Church, in Newark, Mrs. Annie Wittenmeyer presiding. Some addresses were delivered and considerable business of a routine character transacted. The convention will remain in session until Friday.

Mark Sandman and James Angel were arraigned, in the First District Police Court yesterday morning, on a charge of committing an atrocious assault and battery on Thomas Donohue. The complainant alleges that the two men came upon his canal-boat, which was lying at the dock, and beat him in a most brutal manner. The prisoners waived examination, and were committed for trial.

At the meeting of the Common Council of Bayonne, on Tuesday night, Councilman Lane charged that there was a looseness in the transaction of the financial affairs of the city which was very reprehensible, as well as detrimental, to the city's interest. In some instances money that was collected was retained for months before being turned over to the city. He did not wish to make any charge or intimation of dishonesty against any officer, but he thought that the city had lost thousands of dollars in the last five years by this loose method of doing business.

The Committee on Teachers and Salaries, of the Jersey City Board of Education, held a conference last night with representatives from the teachers, to consider whether something could not be done to prevent the closing of the schools on the 11th of November, as is now contemplated, owing to the appropriation for salaries being nearly exhausted. The object of the meeting was to ascertain whether the teachers would be willing to volunteer their services from the 11th of November until the 1st of December, and trust to the Legislature to enact a law next Winter providing for their compensation. The meeting was entirely secret, and the result did not transpire.

In the Hudson County Court of Sessions, yesterday, Judge Hoffman imposed a fine of $25 and costs on George Marten, the driver of a brewery wagon, for criminal carelessness in driving over a boy named Groff, and seriously injuring him. In passing sentence, Judge Hoffman said that the driver was not so much to blame, perhaps, as his employer. The fact is that the brewers compel their drivers to work too many hours. They start out at midnight and work for nineteen or twenty hours continuously. The result is that they are overcome with fatigue, and while driving through the streets they fall asleep, and the horses are left without guidance. Besides this, they make up for lost time by driving fast, and it is only surprising that accidents are not more frequent.

GREAT INVENTIONS.

Can there be a greater than that which has saved many a life and countless hours of suffering? DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR has done all this.—Advertisement.

A CARD.

TO CITIZENS AND STRANGERS.

KNOX'S FALL HAT READY

at No. 212 Broadway and under the Fifth Avenue Hotel.—Advertisement.

PASSENGERS SAILED.

In Steamship Russia, for Liverpool.—Mr. Attwell, J. A. Anderson, J. W. Anderson, Mr. Audri and son, J. Bachtold, J. D. Banks, Mrs. Belden, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Braine, Henry Broadbent, T. Chadwick, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. Clarkson, Bauver Clarkson, Miss Corbell, Miss Cox, Mrs. Anna K. Cramp and child, John M. Dasnail, Miss Blanche Davenport, Walter Derham, Rev. Dr. Devlin, Mr. Dunlop, J. W. Eatwisle, R. J. Fearon, G. Vesey Fitzgerald, José H. Galecio, Mr. Garland, A. Giger, Mr. Gyles, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hall and child, Gen. N. H. Harris, Miss N. Harris, A. Henderson, Miss Mary Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. G. Hill, T. Hiller, Thomas Hope, Mary L. Huntington, Edgar D. Johnson, James T. Johnson, Abraham Keely, F. E. Kew, F. Kuhly, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Maury, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Mills, John Mitchell, Jr., Mr. Nugent, Mrs. Pakenham, S. A. Peters, W. J. Porritt, Jr., Mrs. E. A. Post, Miss Post, Miss E. Post, M. G. Post, Henry Reid, W. C. Beecher, Mortimer Ryan, Adolph Sauer, Mr. Sauer, J. C. Seager, Mr. Shelton, Dr. Edgar Sheppard, Mrs. M. Shields, Miss Rita Shields, Miss Isabel Shields, W. A. Shields, Mr. and Mrs. Goldwin Smith, Vincent Steinlen, Frank Sutherland, Mrs. Thomas Sutherland and daughter, Miss Sunderland, Robert Terrot, Mrs. and Miss Towne, Jacob Tuckamper, R. D. Tucker, Joseph Tuckerman, E. C. Tufnell, H. Tufnell, G. W. Vail, H. G. Wheeler, C. R.

The New-York Times.

VOL. XXVI.....NO. 7838. NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1876. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

OHIO'S CENTENNIAL DAY.

GOV. HAYES AT PHILADELPHIA.

HIS VISIT TO THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION—CEREMONIES OF HIS RECEPTION—THE GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS—AN ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD—RECEPTION AT THE UNION LEAGUE.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26,.—Ohio's Day at the Centennial will be remembered as one of the most, if not the most successful, of the State celebrations. The main interest naturally centered around the reception of Gov. Hayes, and though the formal ceremonies attending this were of a brief and simple character, there was a spontaneous enthusiasm and cordiality about the whole affair which made it peculiarly interesting, and under the circumstances, was not without political significance. Though the morning was cold and raw, and a leaden sky threatened rain, the crowd of visitors were out early, and long before the hour appointed for the Governor's visit, gate A, at which he was to be received, seemed an object of absorbing interest to large numbers of patient people. Any one moving through the throng which collected here, and about the Ohio State building, could not but notice the predominance of the farming element among the visitors. The Ohio farmer was out in full force, with his wife, family, and relatives. The Ohio farmer is of robust physique, and when bent on progress is distressingly oblivious of such obstacles as other and less vigorous people. These peculiarities made it rather trying work to hold a place near the designated gate, and it was no small satisfaction that one heard the shout and the cheering which at 11 o'clock announced that Gov. Hayes had left the Transcontinental Hotel and was crossing to the entrance of the grounds. The Governor was accompanied by Adj. Gen. Carr, of Cincinnati; Gen. R. M. Mitchell, of Columbus; Col. H. T. Brinsmaid, of Cleveland; and Col. L. C. Weir, of Cincinnati. All the members of the staff were in full uniform.

On reaching the gate, Director-General Goshorn, Gen. J. R. Hawley and Hon. John Welch were in waiting to receive the party. The way was kept clear by the Police and a detachment of the Centennial Guard; but there was a rush to hear the speeches. In this the expectant crowd were disappointed, for no speeches were made. There was a general bowing, smiling, and shaking of hands all round; more cheering, waving of hats and handkerchiefs by the public; and then, preceded by the First Brigade Band, the whole party marched over to the Ohio State Building. A dense throng surrounded this, and it was not without difficulty that the way was kept clear for the procession to move. Everybody seemed determined to see the next President if he perished in the attempt, and the crushing, pushing, cheering, and the general enthusiasm, was quite alarming. With considerable difficulty the way was kept clear for the procession to pass, and while the chimes on Machinery Hall rang out a merry welcome, the distinguished visitors passed across to the Ohio State Building. Flags were fluttering from all points of the structure, the piazza in front had also been draped. The Ohio Commissioners, with their blue and silver badges conspicuously displayed, were in waiting, and Gen. McCook stood at the door to welcome his Excellency. The whole party entered without further ceremony. The crowd now began to press nearer and nearer, and gave the guard full employment to keep its enthusiasm from breaking down the temporary barriers placed around the building. Continuous shouts of "Hayes! Hayes!" were given with all the vigor of lungs strengthened by out-door life in Ohio fields. In a few minutes Gov. Hayes appeared at the east portico, and then such a roar of greeting swelled up as could be heard half a mile off. Men flung up their hats and waved canes and umbrellas with a vigor which was quite terrifying; women waved their handkerchiefs and veils; everybody cheered and shouted "Hayes! Hayes!"

When silence had been restored, Gen. Hawley stepped forward and introduced Gov. Hayes in the following brief address:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: It is my great pleasure to introduce to you his Excellency Gov. Rutherford B. Hayes, of Ohio, the Chief Magistrate of that State, and, as many of us hope, the next Chief Magistrate of the Union. [Enthusiastic cheers.] It gives me pleasure in the name of the managers of the Centennial Exhibition to extend a welcome which we feel stronger than words can express. We welcome also our brethren from the great State of Ohio. You, with generous hearts and loyal impulses, helped us in our great work, and we join with you in pledging ourselves to the continuance of the Union, the Constitution, and freedom to the whole country. When the next Centennial closes its second century of growth and prosperity, may it show a greater progress than the present even. I now introduce to you our honored guest, Gov. Rutherford B. Hayes, of Ohio.

Another round of cheering and shouting followed Gen. Hawley's address, but the noise subsided in an instant as Gov. Hayes stepped forward to speak. His address was as follows:

On behalf of the people of Ohio, I desire to make their grateful acknowledgment to all of the Centennial authorities, for the reception and cordial welcome given us. I desire also, on behalf of the State of Ohio, to express our appreciation of the honor done to us by the presence of the Centennial Commissions from foreign countries, who are here with us in their respective representative capacities; to the representatives of the Executive Department of our National Government in charge of the Government exhibits, and to the Centennial Commissioners of our sister States who have honored us with their welcome presence. Also, to the people, one and all, citizens of other States and of other lands than our own, who are here to join with us in this commemoration. The citizens of Ohio have been deeply interested in this celebration, and are greatly gratified by its success. If events are to be measured by their results, the work of the great founders of the National Government may well be commemorated by the people of all the States, and by none more heartily than by the people of Ohio. When independence was declared Ohio had no existence. Over all that is now Ohio stretched one vast unbroken wilderness. What is Ohio now? A state with 3,000,000 of inhabitants; a greater population than that possessed by all the colonies when they achieved their independence. But it is not for me, it is not for us, fellow-citizens of Ohio, to dwell on the growth, the progress, and prosperity of Ohio. A very instructive address on all these topics was delivered some weeks ago by a distinguished citizen of our State. We are here to-day as citizens of Ohio, upon the invitation of the Board of Centennial Managers of our State, to complete the commemoration exercises on our part contemplated in the original invitation of the National Commission. It is enough for us to say that we rejoice that our homes are in Ohio; it is enough for us to say that we are grateful that our lines have fallen unto us in such pleasant places, and that we have such a heritage as Ohio now is. Ohio has been signally honored by the selection of one of her citizens as the Director General of this great enterprise. We are glad to know that General Goshorn has so discharged the duties of his office that his name will be honorably remembered in connection with this Exhibition. We wish, as citizens of Ohio, to congratulate especially the citizens of Philadelphia and the people of Pennsylvania on the fortunate issue of this great enterprise. It is mainly their enterprise; upon them its great burden devolved, and to them belongs the lion's share of the glory of its great success. This Centennial Exhibition is now drawing to its close. It will not be forgotten. It will pass into history. It will live in the minds of our countrymen, linked with recollections of the fathers whose work it has so fitly commemorated. We hope that the influence of this celebration will be to extend and perpetuate the principles of our Revolutionary ancestors, and to give increased assurance to all mankind that the new nation brought forth on this continent a hundred years ago is destined under Providence long to remain the home of freedom and the refuge of the oppressed.

It is unnecessary to say that there was cheering when Gov. Hayes closed his remarks, or that it was loud and long continued. The crowd had been very attentive and quiet while he continued to speak, but it amply made up for this effort of self-restraint when the Governor bowed and retired inside. The people were not yet satisfied, and yelled and yelled again, so that he had to come to the windows on the second floor and give everybody an opportunity to get a good square look at him.

In a short time the doors of the building were thrown open for the public reception. There was a rush. Congratulating himself on being so near the entrance, the TIMES correspondent attempted to be one of the first to pay his respects to the next President. In a few brief but impressive minutes he found himself on the outside of the crowd, and strangely enough, with still some portion of his boots left. None but an Ohio farmer was equal to a charge upon that door. Gen. Hawley, however, came to the rescue, as he always does in such times as these, and by various back ways and surreptitious entries, passed inside several distressed individuals, who had fared badly in the contest at the front.

While the Governor in the main room was shaking hands with his friends at the rate, by actual count, of thirty-eight a minute, Mrs. Hayes and the charmingly beautiful Mrs. Sprague, also a daughter of Ohio, held an informal little reception in another room up stairs, at which a number of ladies were present. Only a few favored individuals were admitted here. Senator Sprague, ex-Gov. Noyes, Hon. Kilby Smith, and Hon. Ben Wade were among the little group of gentlemen who gathered in the room, and afterward old Mr. Wade seemed to hold a reception on his own account, so numerous were the gentlemen who desired to shake hands with and talk to the veteran Senator. Meanwhile the public reception went on in the main room—one incident of which was the presentation to the Governor of a beautiful bouquet of flowers—until it became evident that if Gov. Hayes was to receive everybody who came, he would probably have to be carried away on a stretcher at the close. He had shaken hands with about ten thousand people, and thousands of others were still pressing in from the outside, where the rear portion of the mass was still shouting "Hayes! Hayes!" as a hint to the Governor to come out. So the reception was temporarily interrupted, and His Excellency went up and on to the outside gallery, and the people got another good look at him. This brief respite, and the breath of fresh air, enabled the Governor to begin again. About four or five thousand more of his friends shook his tired arm, and then he gave out. The strain was too much. Gen. Hawley proposed that he speak a few words to the crowd from the gallery, and that that should close the reception. This was done. The Governor came out, bowed, and the people cheered wildly. He took off his hat, and seeing he was about to speak, there was a sudden silence. In tones which made every word distinctly heard by everyone, the Governor thanked his fellow-citizens for their attendance; said it was a great pleasure to him to see them; that he wished to do what would be satisfactory to all, but it was impossible for him to receive everyone individually. He therefore would ask to be excused from continuing the reception in the room below, and wished that that all might remember this day with as much pleasure as he should. [Loud cheering.]

The Governor then retired, and the crowd dispersed its several ways. The number of visitors to-day on cash admissions was about one hundred and twenty-five thousand.

Gov. Hayes, accompanied by Mr. Goshorn, called at the Philadelphia Municipal Building, where Gov. Hartranft and Mayor Stokely were receiving the merchants and produce men. The Governor's appearance was greeted with a tremendous outburst of enthusiasm. Loud calls were made for a speech. In response to the general and repeated demand, the Governor mounted a chair and briefly returned his thanks. "Gentlemen," said he, "I beg to tender you my profound acknowledgment for the reception you have given me to-day as the Governor of Ohio. I did not expect to meet you here, and merely called in on passing to pay my respects. [A voice—"Three cheers for Gov. Hayes," which were given with a will.] When the cheering had subsided his Excellency again thanked the gentlemen for the way they had done honor to Ohio, and with this dismounted from the chair and wedged his way out of the building.

RECEPTION OF THE GOVERNOR AT THE UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

The reception at the Union League Club in the evening was not greatly different from the public reception during the day. There was a studious avoidance of formality, and especially of speech making, only the most ordinary interchange of courtesies taking place. The Governor came to the Club-house shortly after 8 o'clock, and was received by the President, Mr. Borie. He took his place in the parlor and began handshaking, &c., as before. While this was going on, a crowd of a thousand or more collected in the street outside the Club-house, and yelled with a deafening vigor and persistency for the Governor to appear. The noise and urgency of the demand became such that something had to be done, so Mr. Borie went out on the portico and told the crowd that Gov. Hayes would be very glad to have them, one and all, come into the house and shake hands, but as this was a physical impossibility his Excellency would come out and speak to them. Mr. Borie then introduced the Governor amid loud and continued cheering. A great deal of energetic waving of hands and hats was necessary to quiet this, and when it was done Gov. Hayes said:

MY FRIENDS: You all understand that I came here as the representative of Ohio to attend the celebration at the Centennial, of what is called Ohio Day, and it gives me the greatest satisfaction to see how well Philadelphia has turned out to give éclat to that celebration. I shall go home and report how heartily you have joined with our people to make the day a success, and I assure you that the honor you have paid the State of Ohio does the heart of a Buckeye good to see.

The last phrase was delivered with an emphasis which drew a hearty cheer and much laughter from the audience, and bidding them all good night, the Governor returned inside, where the reception was resumed. It was quite informal, not even dress coats and gloves being required, and, truth to say, His Excellency's personal appearance was more informal than any of those who crowded to pay their respects to him, for he wore a dreadfully shabby coat and a shockingly bad hat, all brushed up the wrong way. A collation concluded the ceremonies of the evening, and the Governor retired early, looking, as well he might, rather fatigued with the labors of the day.

REUNION OF THE MERCHANTS.

A GALA DAY AT THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION—THE THREE GREAT CITIES UNITED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—It may seem strange, nevertheless it is a fact, that to-day the merchants of the three great cities of the Union joined hands at the Centennial, and many of them admitted the fact of never having seen the great exposition before. This was the day appointed by the Produce Exchange of New-York City, to whom belongs the honor of calling together the merchants of the United States to come forward and attest their admiration for the great exhibition. In answer to the call, there assembled some twenty-five hundred gentlemen, representing the commercial and financial interests. The New-Yorkers came here 500 strong, represented by L. G. N. Stark, President of the Produce Exchange; George C. Martin, of David Dows & Co., Secretary; and some three hundred members; the Cotton Exchange, headed by Jas. F. Wenman, President, and two hundred members; the Grocers' Exchange, F. B. Thurber, President; the Maritime Exchange, Thos. P. Ball, President, and the Cheap Transportation Exchange, B. P. Baker, President, all of whom left New-York at a quarter before eight, arrived here after 11 o'clock. Preceded by Grafulla's Seventh Regiment Band, the party proceeded to the Centennial grounds, and were conducted to the Pennsylvania State Building, where George W. Mears, Esq., President of the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange, made an address on the rise and progress of America, but most of the members being familiar with that topic, agreed that the speech was a good one, and after parading over half the Centennial grounds, arrived at the Philadelphia Municipal Building, where William M. Baugh, Esq., treated them to a repast. In addition to the gentlemen from New-York there were William Dalton, President of the Trenton Board of Trade; William W. Steel, Secretary, and about forty members; the Baltimore Flour and Cotton Exchange, Charles D. Fisher, President, with some four hundred and fifty representatives, who found their way over the route from Columbia and the Pennsylvania Railroad; a representation from the Davenport, Iowa, Board of Trade, comprising Gen. I. S. Shaw, Frank Kidd, and Col. R. M. Littler, and delegates from Savannah, Georgia, Peoria, Illinois, Chicago, Buffalo, Cincinnati and Milwaukee. The latter-named cities did not send regular delegations, but members who happened here represented the boards at this great meeting.

Mr. Stark replied to Mr. Mears' address in a few well-chosen remarks, and as the representatives had not seen a lunch for some eight hours, the hospitality of the Philadelphians was received with earnest and assiduous appreciation. The whole affair was informal, and at the conclusion of the lunch the delegates strolled through the buildings to see the sights, many, however, making it a point to pay their respects to Gov. Hayes, who was holding a reception in the Ohio State building, a few rods off.

Addresses were made to the boards by Gov. Hartranft, of Pennsylvania, Mayor Stokely, Stephen N. Winslow, Esq., and others. The great rush of the day was in getting on board the trains to reach home, the crowd in the depot being immense and the crush terrible, but, fortunately, no one was injured.

ARRIVAL IN NEW-YORK.

The merchants, after some delay, started from Philadelphia on their way homeward, arriving in Communipaw about an hour and a half behind time, the train coming with the regular 9:40 train, which was enormous, and had to be divided into four sections. While crossing to this City, Grafulla's Band played some fine selections from "La Fille de Mme. Angot," and as the ferry-boat entered the slip they played "Home Again," in which a large number of those on board joined.

THE INDIAN CAMPAIGN.

CLOSE OF THE BIG HORN AND YELLOWSTONE CAMPAIGN—THE POWDER RIVER EXPEDITION—PROSPECTS OF PEACE.

CHEYENNE, Oct. 25.—The arrival of Gen. Merritt's command at Red Cloud yesterday signalized the closing up of the Big Horn and Yellowstone campaign, which will be succeeded by the Powder River expedition, consisting of fifteen companies of infantry and eleven companies of cavalry, the latter principally of the Fourth Regiment, with a few companies of the Second and Third which have not been in the Summer campaign. All are fresh troops, and will be commanded by Gen. Crook in person. The Fifth Cavalry will have its Winter Head-quarters at Fort Russell, Gen. Merritt in command. The Third goes to Fort Laramie. Ten companies will remain at Red Cloud. Spotted Tail was formally installed Chief of the Sioux Nation by virtue of the authority of the President, and was as such accepted by all the Indians at that agency. The capture made by Gen. Merritt consisted of 500 Indians, 700 ponies, and a large number of arms. The last two named will be disposed of at auction on Nov. 2, at Fort Laramie. The moral effect of this decisive policy is wholesome, and peace promises to prevail at the agencies.

GEN. TERRY DISARMS THE INDIANS AT STANDING ROCK AGENCY.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 26.—The Pioneer Press has a special from Bismarck which says that Gen. Terry was still at Standing Rock last evening. He had succeeded in disarming all of the Indians at the agency and possessing himself of their ponies. It is believed that the Indians hid most of their arms, as they had a day's warning, and only about two hundred stand have been found, including shotguns and revolvers. About six hundred ponies were surrendered, and a large number are yet to be brought in. The Indians seem to take kindly to the move as they come to understand it, but some of them were at first inclined to resist. Gen. Terry informed them that the property would be sold and the proceeds invested in cattle and such other goods as would be useful to them. No one except Gen. Terry and those immediately connected with him have any idea whether his next movement will be toward Cheyenne or to strike the hostiles.

THE CANADIAN INDIANS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—Advices from Commissioner McLeod, at Cypress Hill, announce the arrival of a hundred men of the Mounted Police force, and two guns. They will Winter at Cypress Hill Fort, and a similar force will be stationed at Fort McLeod in view of the movements of the American Sioux. A large number of Indians have already congregated in the vicinity of both forts.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE OF TWO MURDERERS.

EGG HARBOR, Oct. 26.—This evening about 7 o'clock, as the Deputy Sheriff was making his rounds, he discovered that Hill and Fallen, the confined murderers, had been making a desperate effort to escape. They had used two old knives as saws, with which they had divided their manacles, leaving them tied upon their wrists and ankles with strings to avoid detection. Upon examination, it was discovered that they had dug a large hole in the chimney, which they had covered with a shirt. It seems that the two men had heard that a military guard would be stationed around the prison to-night, and as the presence of their spiritual adviser prevented the prosecution of their plans and they saw no hope of escape, they delivered up their tools and were again manacled. A guard of thirteen men is now stationed around the jail.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE.

ST. JOHN, Oct. 26.—An explosion to-night in a building occupied by Adam Young as a tinsmith shop fired the building. Seven men were working at the time in the fifth story, of whom Richard Nugent was burned to death, Andrew Coyle probably fatally injured and two others were burned severely.

LATEST NEWS BY CABLE.

THE HOSTILE FORCES.

THE FIGHTING ON THE MORAVA—THE MONTENEGRINS HARRASSING MOUKHTAR PASHA—REPORTED CONCENTRATION OF RUSSIANS ON THE FRONTIER DENIED.

BELGRADE, Oct. 26.—Gen. Novoseloff has asked for reinforcements for the Servian Army of the Ibar, and Col. Becker has been ordered there with fresh troops.

An official bulletin states that the Turks, on Tuesday, made a desperate attempt to break Gen. Novoseloff's lines, but were repulsed with great slaughter.

Fighting continues around Alexinatz and Deligrad.

RAGUSA, Oct. 26.—The Montenegrins have cut Moukhtar Pasha's communication with Trebinje, and invested Nicsics. Great distress prevails in Montenegro, notwithstanding the military successes, because of the necessity of maintaining a large number of refugees.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A Berlin dispatch says: "The correspondence of the North German Gazette from St. Petersburg denies the more alarming reports, such as those of the concentration of large forces on the Turkish frontier and the calling out of the reserves. The writer says the army is not yet on a war footing. Only preliminary measures have been taken, so that in case of need a considerable army could be in readiness without delay."

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Standard's dispatch from Ragusa says the complete failure of Dervish Pasha's recent attack on the southern frontier of Montenegro ends the campaign for this year, as the Winter season has commenced. Moukhtar Pasha will shortly withdraw to Trebinje. The plain around Trebinje is completely flooded. Dervish Pasha's army is thoroughly demoralized. All the Catholic Albanians who joined the Turkish standard, have returned home and refuse to relinquish the arms supplied them by the Turks. The Asiatic volunteers have peremptorily demanded to be discharged.

The Times correspondent at Belgrade says: The depression here continues. I cannot help thinking we are at the beginning of the end. If the Russo-Servian Army is left unassisted, the Turks will assuredly reach Belgrade. They are advancing slowly and irresistibly. However, unless an armistice is concluded, Gen. Tchernayeff will certainly fight to the last. There is scarcely any reason to doubt that the Servian Government has lost all control over Tchernayeff, who is completely at variance with the Minister of War. With regard to the rumors of a crisis, the correspondent says doubtless the Ministers would gladly resign if the Prince would accept their resignation, and if they could get others to replace them. But these difficulties make a change of Ministry impossible. It is generally expected here that Servia will be created a kingdom; but this anticipation only increases the growing dread of Russian patronage among the better classes of Servians. Only thirty Russians arrived yesterday.

The Times' correspondent with the Turkish army telegraphs from Nisch, Oct. 25, that the Servians on the 21st evacuated Kronik after partly destroying the place. The Turks now hold the town, and have found valuable booty there.

The Vienna correspondent of the Times confirms the capture of Djunis by the Turks. He gives a circumstantial narrative of the five day's struggle from the 19th to the 23d, inclusive, and says it was unquestionably the greatest succes during the campaign. In consequence of their defeat the main portion of the Servian Army has withdrawn to Deligrad; but a part, at least, of Horvatovitch's forces has been cut off in the direction of Krusevatz, whence it can, however, retreat by the Servian Morava to Stalatz. It is not known whether the Servians still hold on to the left bank of the Morava; but this seems to be immaterial; they cannot make a stand there, as they would be liable to be cut off from the river and forced into the angle formed by the confluence of the two branches of the Moravs. Unless an armistice is concluded, the Servians must move back their defensive line from Alexinatz and Deligrad to Parathin and Cuprija which would open the Morava Valley with all its resources to the Turks.

THE EASTERN COMPLICATIONS.

INTERVIEW OF THE RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR WITH THE SULTAN—SENTIMENT AMONG OTHER NATIONS—REPRESSING SYMPATHY WITH TURKEY IN PESTH.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 26.—The Phare du Bosphore (newspaper) of this city publishes the text of the speech delivered by Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador, on presenting his credentials to the Sultan. Gen. Ignatieff said the Czar understood the difficulties of the situation, and although he did not dissimulate his sympathy for Turkey's Sclavonic subjects, he trusted existing difficulties would be removed so that the Sultan might improve the condition of his subjects. The Sultan replied in a similarly conciliatory strain. He hoped the Czar would contribute toward facilitating reforms.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople says it is believed here that an understanding will be reached on the question of an armistice. Gen. Ignatieff, the Russian Ambassador, will have another private audience with the Sultan on Saturday.

Advices from Tefflis say the Turkish Consul General and his wife, whose assassination at that place was announced yesterday, were murdered by robbers. Russia is making every effort to discover the perpetrators of the crime.

BUSSELS, Oct. 26.—Advices received here from Vienna represent that the positions of Count Andrassy, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the whole Empire, and Herr Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, are precarious. The students of the University of Pesth, who have been forbidden by the Police to make a contemplated torchlight demonstration in honor of the Turkish Consul, have determined to disregard the prohibition. No conflict, however, is apprehended.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—A controversy has arisen between the German and Austrian newspapers in consequence of the latter's criticisms of Germany's attitude. The National Zeitung to-day, replying to an article in the Pesther Lloyd, says: "The attitude of the Hungarian press only tends to confirm Germany's cautious reserve and to justify its expediency."

BUCHAREST, Oct. 26.—A decree has been published here convoking the Roumanian Chambers in extraordinary session on the 2d of November next.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Post's Berlin dispatch states that Roumania has given assurances that her military measures are intended for no other purpose than the ordinary Autumnal practice. The six weeks armistice with a prospect of prolongation by subsequent arrangement if necessary, is now reported to be secured.

The Times Vienna dispatch announces that Prince Ghika has arrived there, and goes to England, which power his mission mainly concerns. What I hear confirms the impression that Roumania is still hesitating.

A despatch to the Times, dated Berlin, Oct. 26, 8 P. M., says there is reason to believe that Russia, being herself averse to war, is endeavoring to induce Greece and Roumania to take the field. They, however, hesitate.

MISCELLANEOUS FOREIGN NOTES.

THE RECENT CONSPIRACY IN SPAIN—CAPTURE OF A BELGIAN MURDERER.

MADRID, Oct. 26.—All the persons implicated in the recent conspiracy will be tried before ordinary tribunals. Among the documents discovered by the Government are decrees signed by Ruiz Zorilla conferring public appointments upon the intended leaders of the insurrection, and bonds redeemable after the success of the movement. All the military men arrested were on the half-pay list.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Leonard Aublain, the Belgian who escaped a few days ago from a compartment in a railway train between Ostend and Brussels, after having murdered an officer in whose custody he was being taken to Brussels, charged with robbery and murder, has been captured at Lille, France.

Silver is quoted to-day at 53⅝d. per ounce.

POLITICAL MEETINGS IN THIS STATE

THE REPUBLICANS OF ST. LAWRENCE AND FRANKLIN ACTIVE AND ENTHUSIASTIC—PARADE OF THE BOYS IN BLUE—SPEECHES BY SENATOR EDMUNDS, HON. SHERMAN S. ROGERS, AND OTHERS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

OGDENSBURG, Oct. 26.—That the Republicans of old St. Lawrence and Franklin are fully alive to the requirements of the present canvass has been shown to day by a demonstration such as has not been witnessed here in many years. From early morning the city wore a holiday appearance. All the trains arriving were crowded with people, whose sole object appeared to be to join in the demonstration. About noon a special train from Malone brought hundreds of Boys in Blue and many ladies. They were escorted to the town hall by bands of music, where dinner was served. Many of the towns of this county were largely represented by companies of Boys in Blue. At 2 o'clock the procession marched to the Fair Ground, where speeches were made by Senator Edmunds, of Vermont; Hon. Sherman S. Rogers; Hon. Clinton L. Merriam, of Lewis, and Major Brennan, of Malone. Floral Hall, which will seat 3,000 people, was literally packed. Mechanics' Hall was also crowded full, and an out-door meeting was organized. Hon. William A. Wheeler was expected, but this morning a telegram was received from his physician stating that it was impossible for Mr. Wheeler to leave home. He is confined to his room, threatened with fever, and is unable to speak aloud. Judge James, Gen. N. M. Curtis, and Gen. E. A. Merritt took an active part in the demonstration. The singing of the Malone Glee Club, which is composed of the most prominent men of that village was a striking feature. To-night the streets were thronged with thousands of people to witness the torch-light procession which was headed by Gen. Curtis, and prominent men from all parts of the county filled the ranks. Following is a partial list of the bankers, merchants, lawyers, and other influential business men of this city, who bore torches: W. H. Daniels, C. B. Herriman, James Armstrong, Dr. Bartholemew, C. A. Merriman, Stillman Foote, Joseph Brown, A. M. Herriman, J. F. Seely, Dr. Sherman, S. H. Palmer, N. H. Little, George A. Eddy, General Manager of the Northern Transportation Company; S. H. Purcell, E. N. Miriam, E. Vilas, L. D. Ralph, R. J. Atcheson, A. E. Smith, Dr. Blodgett, W. C. Alden, Senator Moore, and Hon. W. L. Proctor. The latter gentleman was successively elected Mayor of Ogdensburg four times, and it is against him that the Watertown Despatch recently issued a malicious calumny that he supported Tilden and Hendricks. The demonstration was very satisfactory to the Republicans, and St. Lawrence may be relied on next month for a majority of the old sort.

SPEECH BY GEN. N. M. CURTIS AT PLATTSBURG.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PLATTSBURG, Oct. 26.—There was a grand rally at the Court-house last evening to hear Gen. N. M. Curtis, who discussed the issues of the campaign in a masterly manner. The audience was deeply interested throughout by the eloquent and impassioned speech of Gen. Curtis.

GEN. SICKLES ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED AT MIDDLETOWN.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 26.—Of all the great meetings of the campaign in this neighborhood, that of to-night was the largest and most successful. Hundreds were unable to get within the hall. Gen. Sickles and Hon. Horace Bemis made telling speeches. The assemblage was wild with enthusiasm. Scores of veterans belonging to Gen. Sickles' old corps came out to greet him. It was nearly midnight before the meeting broke up.

JARVIS LORD'S ROAST OX—SUDDEN TURNING UP OF DEMOCRATIC NOSES—UNUSUAL SENSITIVENESS TO UNPLEASANT ODORS—RICHARD O'GORMAN IN A HIGH STATE OF EXPECTANCY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 26.—A grand Democratic demonstration, barbecue, &c., to-day drew out a considerable crowd, curiosity impelling many, especially to the barbecue, but the affair was not a success. The "roast" emitted a horrible stench from the carcass, that nauseated the people, and the beef and bread were thrown to the dogs. All appetites went up in the smoke of Jarvis Lord's sacrificial ox. "Straws" (ballots) taken at the barbecue resulted quite as much in favor of the Republican as the Democratic candidates. In the evening a tremendous effort was made to get up enthusiasm, by fife and drum, and a few mediocre fire-works A procession of about two hundred torch-bearers, with other stragglers, filled the City Hall, where R. O'Gorman entertained the audience for an hour and a half, with a tirade on the extravagance of Republican officials, and then beautifully delineating the good old times "Tilden would bring back" when "Richard would be himself again." Among other speakers, present during the day were: A. P. Laning, of Buffalo; J. W. Graves, of Medina; A. M. Keiley, of Richmond, Va.; Ike Garfield, of Syracuse, and that "eminent" reformer, "Lee." Faulkner, of Livingston. Measured by the most favorable standard the whole affair fell far short of Democratic expectations, and will have no appreciable effect on the canvass.

THE CONNECTICUT REPUBLICANS.

JUDGE DITTENHOEFER ADDRESSES A LARGE MEETING AT BRIDGEPORT.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 26.—A large Republican meeting was held here to-night to hear Judge Dittenhoefer, of New York. Among the audience were many of the prominent Germans of the town. The speaker held the attention of the large audience for over two hours. His speech was a review of the pending issues, referring especially to the Southern claims and Tilden's recent letter. He said that Tilden had had a scare, and under its influence had published a card to the public—a shrewd and safe device—for while the South will, under all circumstances, hold fast to Tilden, not believing the card was meant in good faith, it is expected that some Northern men will be caught by this new promise of the man who, to catch votes, trampled under foot his early promise in favor of upholding the Specie Resumption act. The success of Tilden does not mean so much the success of a man as of the party that must always remain what it always was—the abject slave of the South, now united and solid for the payment of their claims.

GRAND REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION IN WATERBURY—ADDRESSES BY EX-POSTMASTER GENERAL JEWELL.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WATERBURY, Oct. 26.—Congressman Kellogg presided over and ex-Postmaster General Jewell to-night addressed the largest political meeting ever held in this city. The City Hall was crowded with two thousand voters, and hundreds were unable to gain admission. Previous to the meeting there was a great torch-light parade of the Hayes and Wheeler campaign clubs. The enthusiasm was unbounded. Mr. Jewell's reception was most hearty, and he made an able speech.

MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS.

The Democratic Convention of Elizabeth, N. J., yesterday made the following nominations: For Mayor, Major W. E. Hayl Chief of Police John Kerou; Chosen Freeholders, D. O'Sullivan, Peter Eder, and T. J. Carlton; Surveyors, Joan Helmel and Patrick Sullivan.

GEN. HARRISON IN NEWARK, N. J.

THE INDIANA STATESMAN REVIEWS THE ISSUES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Gen. Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, spoke at the Rink on Washington street, Newark, N. J., yesterday afternoon. At 3 o'clock the building was filled by an enthusiastic audience. The meeting was called to order by Col. Bassett, Chairman of the County Central Committee. Oliver Johnson was elected Chairman. He introduced Gen. Harrison as a soldier, orator and statesman. Gen. Harrison said he came to show the people that neither he nor the Republican Party were dead, although defeated. They had a hard battle to fight, as the Democrats were intrenched in all the State offices, while the Republicans had to fight in the open field. Still they had occasion to rejoice. The gains were all on the Republican side and the losses on the Democratic. The Republicans gained four Congressmen and 12,000 votes. If the rest of the States do as well, Congress will be snatched from the traitors who now control it. The speaker had strong hopes of carrying Indiana. The election was lost in October through fraud, but the infamous gangs of repeaters who had swelled the Democratic majority had been driven out of the State, and would not be able to vote in November. Gen. Harrison said our educational interests were not safe in the hands of the Democratic Party, and "we cannot afford to banish modern history from the public schools to accommodate that party." Speaking of the Democracy of Reform, the speaker said that there would doubtless be some bad men in the Republican Party as well as in the Democratic Party, and there had been crimes of more or less magnitude, but they had been pointed at by the Republican finger of scorn. The Republicans would correct abuses and punish evil-doers without the aid of Democratic reformers. "Why," said the speaker, "had men creep into the church of God." The Republicans should not leave the freedmen of the South to the cruel mercy of the rebels, whose hearts already throb with the madness of joy at the news they have received of the Democratic successes in Indiana and West Virginia. In reviewing the history of the Democratic party, the speaker said that it had nursed nullification. Gen. Harrison ably reviewed the Southern question, and defended Gen. Grant's course in sending troops to South Carolina to secure a fair and peaceable election. The speaker next alluded to the numerous claims of every description which the rebels are prepared to send in in case of Mr. Tilden's election, and he showed that Mr. Tilden dare not refuse to pass them. The Republican Party, headed by Gov. Hayes, will stand between the people and this horde of hungry claimants. He showed that Gov. Tilden was no more of a reformer than a man in a crowd who joined in the cry of "stop thief." We want, he said, a President who will quietly and faithfully perform his duties without stopping to blow his trumpet.

A DAY OF THANKSGIVING.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT—THE 30TH DAY OF NOVEMBER APPOINTED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The following proclamation was issued by President Grant to-day:

By the President of the United States:

A PROCLAMATION.

From year to year we have been accustomed to pause in our daily pursuits and set apart a time to offer our thanks to Almighty God for the special blessings He has vouchsafed to us, with our prayers for a continuance thereof. We have at this time equal reason to be thankful for His continued protection, and for the many material blessings His bounty has bestowed. In addition to these favors accorded to us as individuals, we have especial occasion to express our hearty thanks to Almighty God that by His providence and guidance our Government, established a century ago, has been enabled to fulfil the purpose of its founders in offering an asylum to the people of every race, securing civil and religious liberty to all within its borders, and meting out to every individual alike, justice and equality before the law. It is, moreover, especially our duty to offer our humble prayers to the Father of all mercies for a continuance of His divine favor to us as a nation and as individuals.

By reason of all these considerations, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do recommend to the people of the United States to devote the 30th day of November next to the expressions of their thanks and prayers to Almighty God, and laying aside their daily avocations and all secular occupations, to assemble in their respective places of worship and observe such day as a day of thanksgiving and rest.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and first. U. S. GRANT,

[L.S.] By the President,
HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

CHICAGO JUSTICE.

THE JURY UNABLE TO AGREE IN THE SULLIVAN MURDER CASE—A STRONG PUBLIC FEELING MANIFESTED—JUDGE M'ALLISTER REQUESTED TO RESIGN.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The trial of Alexander Sullivan, formerly Secretary of the Board of Public Works, for the shooting of Francis Hanford, in August last, came to a termination to-day. The jury, which left the Court Room at 6 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, came into Court at 10 o'clock this forenoon and reported that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, and they were thereupon discharged. Eleven men were favorable to acquittal, and one for conviction. There has been, and still is, a very strong public sentiment growing out of this unfortunate affair, attributable largely to the religious standing of the parties immediately interested in it. Feeling has also run very high against Judge McAllister, before whom the case was tried, for his alleged rulings in favor of the acquittal of Sullivan. This afternoon numerous petitions have been circulating in all parts of the city, demanding of McAllister that he resign his position on the bench. McAllister was for years, and until last Spring, an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois.

THE WEATHER.

PROBABILITIES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—1 A. M.—For the Middle and Eastern States rising barometer, stationary or slightly lower temperature, north to west winds, and clear or partly cloudy weather, followed in the western portion of the former by slowly falling barometer and winds shifting to warmer easterly or southerly.

A REPUBLICAN BANNER DESTROYED.

As the procession was passing along Third avenue, quite a serious disturbance took places between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets, resulting in a free fight, and several persons were badly injured. During the confusion of the fight some of the torch-bearers set fire to the large banner of the Sixteenth Assembly

Chief Justice Church is found on the stump with E. K. Apgar, or any other man advocating the election of Samuel J. Tilden to the Presidency, the end of the world will not be far off.

THE HOSKINS-FLAGLER QUARREL.

NO SETTLEMENT OF THEIR TROUBLES—PROBABLE RESULTS OF THE CONTROVERSY—THE DEMOCRATS HOPE TO GAIN A CONGRESSMAN BY IT—THE EXPECTED MAJORITIES ON THE GENERAL TICKET.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BATAVIA, Monday, Oct. 23, 1876.

A newspaper correspondent, or any other man whose business it is to collect and report facts, may well despair of attempting to get at the real merits of the controversy now raging in this Congressional district, comprising the Counties of Wyoming, Genesee, and Niagara. One would think, to hear the people talk, that the fate of the universe depended on the question whether George G. Hoskins shall continue to represent the district in Congress for another term or whether he shall stay at home. The success of the Republican Party in the coming contest; the election of Hayes and Wheeler, or Tilden and Hendricks, for President and Vice President, or of Morgan or Robinson for Governor, are matters of no consequence to them compared with the petty personal quarrel that has been gotten up between Hoskins and Flagler as to which has a right to go to Congress from this district. The bitterness of the two factions not only blinds them to all considerations for the public welfare, but renders them incapable of agreeing on anything—even on historical facts, or figures, or dates. I really believe that if one party should hear that the other party had said that two and two make four they would deny it with indignation and asperse the character of the man who said it. The Hoskins party, for example, deny in the first place, the facts out of which the quarrel originated, viz., that Niagara County was entitled to the nomination because of a long-standing custom which gave the candidate for Congress to the three counties in rotation. They assert that no such custom has prevailed, either in theory or practice, since the foundation of the Republican Party or since the organization of this Congressional district. Again, the Flagler party charge that Hoskins left his seat in Congress at a critical time, and came on here and spent five weeks in canvassing for his own renomination and securing, by corrupt means, delegates to the convention; and this being one of their gravest accusations, they have suspended a huge Flagler banner across the main street in this village, inscribed with the famous quotation from Rutherford B. Hayes: "Any man who will quit his post to canvass for Congress ought to be scalped." The Hoskins party, on the other hand, deny all this, and assert that their candidate was only absent from his seat two weeks, in stead of five, and that he only came here then at the earnest solicitation of his friends, and did very little, if any, canvassing in person. And as to the "corruption," they charge it all on the other side. So, too, with reference to the offers of settlement and compromise between the two contending parties. The Flagler men say they have made three or four honorable propositions for union and harmony in the party, while the Hoskins men say they have offered none such and have rejected all honorable propositions on their side. There is only one thing asserted by one side and admitted by the other, and that is that Hoskins got what is called in a party sense the "regular nomination." The Flagler party admit that they are "bolters," and justify it on the ground that the "regular nomination" was corruptly obtained and the nominee is a corrupt man. To ask them to subscribe to the civil-service platform of their Presidential candidate, and at the same time to support George G. Hoskins, they say, is to ask what no honest man can do. They have made up their minds to "break the machine" that forces these unpopular nominations on the people, be the consequences what they may, and they say they know of no better time than the beginning of a new century in the history of the Republic to do it.

What is to be the result of the quarrel is a question on which they differ as widely as on the merits of the, controversy. The Hoskins party say they shall elect their candidate in spite of the bolt of the petty clique of soreheads, while the Flagler party are equally confident that their man will come out triumphant. The best judges on this point are probably the Democrats, for it is a skunk and woodchuck fight with them, and affords more amusement and satisfaction, in a political way, than they have enjoyed for a long time. The landlord of the St. James Hotel, who is a "born Democrat" and a good purveyor, whatever he may be as a prophet, gives it as his opinion that it will be a Kilkenny fight, resulting in a Democratic Congressman, and he is probably right. If this were all that is to come of it, it might be endured; but it is admitted that the quarrel will have an unfavorable effect upon the national and State tickets. All the energies of both parties are centred on the Congressional contest, and the Presidential canvass is almost ignored. Besides, the Flagler men say that if Hoskins is elected they would be as badly off with a Republican in the Presidential chair as with a Democrat. In the early part of the campaign a club of Boys in Blue was formed in this village, and their uniforms were purchased, but they have never had a parade, and last week they disbanded. The Hoskins men say this was because the President of the club is among the "bolters," and the other Boys in Blue refused to march under his leadership; but they do not explain why another club was not formed with a President who is not a "bolter." On the other side, the Flagler party cite this as evidence of the little attention paid to the Presidential canvass by reason of the Congressional quarrel. It is certainly to the credit of the Hoskins faction that they profess far more interest in the national canvass than their opponents do, and are working harder to secure a victory. The Flagler men predict a majority of 2,000 for Hayes and Wheeler and the State ticket in the congressional district, while the Hoskins men feel sure of 3,000 and over. The Republican majority in the District last year was about 1,700. In 1872 it was about 3,800 for Grant. The Post Master of Batavia, who is a Hoskins man, estimates the majority on the State and national tickets at not less than 500 in Niagara County, 1,200 in Genesee County, and 1,500 in Wyoming County. He estimates that of this majority Flagler will draw off about 1,000 in Niagara, 500 in Genesee, and 500 in Wyoming, leaving Hoskins a majority of 1,000 and over. The other side, however, repudiate this calculation as absurd, and say that if Flagler is not elected, Benedict, the Democratic candidate, will be.

It is conceded on both sides that the Republicans will elect their Assemblyman in Wyoming County, Arthur Clark, the last year's member; also, their candidate in Genesee County, Eli Taylor (a new man) and James W. Brown, who has been renominated in the Second District of Niagara County. The First District of Niagara is Democratic, and Mr. Bissell will probably be re-elected. With the exception of the fight on Congressman, the outlook is favorable in these three counties for the old-fashioned majorities, but unless this is settled before election day its effect can scarcely fail to be more or less unfavorable to the general ticket.

A DEMOCRATIC PARADE.

TILDEN'S TORCH-LIGHT PROCESSION

A LARGE DEMONSTRATION, BUT NO ENTHUSIASM MANIFESTED—A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF YOUTHS IN THE RANKS—HALF OF THOSE PRESENT WITHOUT TORCHES—THE PROCESSION REVIEWED FROM THE EVERETT HOUSE BY GOV. TILDEN.

A torch-light procession in honor of the national and State candidates of the Democratic Party took place last night, and was participated in by representatives from the various wards of this City and by contingents from Brooklyn and Jersey City. The demonstration was a large one, but in point of numbers and in enthusiasm it was far behind the parade of Democratic strength which occurred in 1868, and did not equal in any measure the "turnout" made six years ago when the "Ring" was in full power. The procession started from the corner of Washington place and Fifth avenue. To that place the Chief Marshal Gen. M. T. McMahon and his aids had been escorted from the Everitt House by the "Boys in Red, White, and Blue" of the Ninth Ward. At 9 o'clock the order to march was given, and the columns moved briskly up Fifth avenue. The Pioneer Club of the Ninth Ward led off, immediately behind the Police, and served as lightbearers to Gilmore's band, directly behind the band came the Chief Marshal's escort, which was formed in a hollow square about the Chief Marshal and his aids, all of whom were mounted. The first division, consisting of a delegation from New-Jersey under escort of the clubs of the First Assembly District, followed under the marshalship of Terence Duffy. The Boys in Red, White, and Blue of the Ninth District, perhaps, bore off the palm. They were in uniform, and marched under perfect drill. They had been selected with great care from several thousand applicants, their Colonel said, and he believed that there was not a "bummer" in the lot. A large number of those who participated in the procession were youths under twenty-one years of age. It was impossible to form an accurate estimate of the number of persons in the procession. There was no regularity as to the methods of arranging files and companies, and no uniformity in the distances between files and divisions. Of the latter there were twenty-three which were formed in various streets on Fifth avenue, between Washington place and Fourteenth street. Complete orders had been issued to the several Commanders of Divisions as to how they should fall in, and in what manner their companies should be arranged. But all directions were disregarded, because it was impossible to carry them out. The result was that half of the procession had no torches, and half of the remainder, like the unwise virgins of old, had no oil to burn in their lamps. Now and then a file or two of men would come along, but the good effect they produced upon the spectators was quite destroyed by the pranks of the boys, who taxed their ingenuity to the utmost to make the night one of unbounded jollity. The spaces between the divisions and the companies of the divisions were very long, giving the idea of a much greater procession in point of numbers than the facts would warrant. Taking a sweeping view of the procession from the Hippodrome roof, up Madison avenue to Thirty-fourth street, the sight was a very pleasing one; but the expectations aroused by such a view as this were sure to be dissipated by a single glance at the crowds passing down the avenue directly in front. The route of the procession was up Fifth avenue to Thirty-fourth street, through Thirty-fourth street to Madison avenue, down Madison avenue to Twenty-third street, through Twenty-third street to Third avenue, down Third avenue to Fourteenth street, through Fourteenth street to Fourth avenue, and up Fourth avenue to the Everett House, where the review by Gov. Tilden took place. The procession with difficulty made its passage at some points along the route, owing to the immense crowd of spectators that thronged the sidewalks and encroached upon the street. Thousands and thousands of people looked upon the procession. But there was no enthusiasm manifested. A few people here and there set up a timid cheer as their favorite clubs passed by their place of lookout, but for the most part the people viewed the procession with wonderful equanimity. There were no private houses illuminated, and no decorations of any kind were to be seen in front of any of the dwelling-houses along the route. The Manhattan Club burned up a few thousand feet of gas in honor of the occasion, and Tammany Hall called into use again its ancient bunting and Chinese lanterns.

THE PROCESSION AS VIEWED FROM THE EVERETT HOUSE.

The Everett House was the central, or at least the objective, point of the procession, and there of course the excitement culminated. It was overrun with marshals and aides de camp, and officials of every stamp having charge of or in some way remotely connected with the affair. The Democratic Committees, National and State, were big with the importance of the occasion, and everybody seemed to have functions of vast trust and responsibility to discharge. The plaza in Union square is a convenient place to review a large procession, but when that procession happens to be one in which torch-lights figure, and when a march from Fourteenth street to Thirty-fourth street and back is to be accomplished before the head of the procession reaches the place of review, the advantages are more than counterbalanced by the defects. It was so last evening. The procession had lost order and regularity before it came to the Everett House, and if some of the torch-bearers had their flambeaus still aflame, there were others whose light had gone down in the sockets. At this point was large, indeed, but it was a curious crowd come to see a spectacle, not an enthusiastic crowd prepared to give voice to its convictions. In truth, the long delay which it had to confront, and the rough usage to which its citizenship was subjected at the hands of the Police, were against any enthusiasm of a permanent and abiding texture. Some of them, when the lights came, had but feeble voice to spend in cheers, and most likely but slight inclination in that direction. A stand had been erected in front of the Everett House, and from this point Gov. Tilden was to see the procession pass. To this sacred ground, too, the ci polloi were admitted. The stand was surrounded with flaring beacon lights, but the great beacon light which would fain shine from the White House was not there yet, but was hiding its lustre for awhile in the Everett House. The immense crowd amused itself as best it might until the arrival of the procession. Balloons were sent up for its special delectation, promissory rockets were discharged, and some stands of fireworks in the centre of the plaza stood like a guarantee of future pyrotechnics. One of these devices showed the outline of the familiar Tilden and Hendricks faces, as seen in the campaign banners, and was intended, a wag suggested, when in full working order to represent their future state. The patience of the crowd was at length rewarded, and the sinuous line of light streamed from East Fourteenth street into Fourth avenue. Then there was commotion at the head-quarters. The Police were doubly active, the crowd pushed and swayed, and in a few minutes Mr. Tilden came from the Everett House leaning on the arm of Senator Kernan. Mayor Wickham was immediately behind, and then a long train of the members of the two committees. The procession had first filed in between the stand and the Everett House, but this was not according to the order of procession, and so it turned back again and passed on the Union square side of the stand. Gov. Tilden was immediately perched upon a little rostrum in the front, surrounded and supported by his faithful henchmen, and from this point he made his profoundest bows to the processionists, and to this point they made their obeisances. Gov. Tilden seemed "all tranquillity and smiles," but were they the tranquility and smiles of the placeman? But to that query there is no present answer. A space was cleared with difficulty by the Police, and the procession passed on in a broken and disorderly flight enough. It was composed of men and boys, but had more boys in it than men; it was uniformed and un-uniformed, with torches and without torches, with torches still lighted and with torches that had been lighted. There were black patches in the line of light here and there, and ugly gaps that defaced it a good deal. Still the bands played, fireworks were discharged, and the processionists went trooping by. For the lookers on, they were prepared for any amount of pageantry, but they had small leisure for enthusiasm, and the cheering which greeted Mr. Tilden was not such as should have come from so many throats. The extent of the procession, although its quality was not calculated to impress, was undoubtedly large, for a half hour after the front ranks had passed the stand at the Everett House the other end of it was still passing up Fifth avenue to Thirty-fourth street. It grew streams at last, and the crowd was rapidly dissolving before the long-drawn line had finished its marching. After the stand was passed the processionists moved down to Fourteenth street, where the divisions disbanded.

THE RANKS COUNTED.

A CAREFUL ESTIMATE BY AN EXPERT—ONLY 6,240 PERSONS IN THE PROCESSION.

An eye-witness stationed himself on the east side of Madison avenue, at Twenty-fourth street. At the time the last of the procession passed Twenty-fourth street, on its way up Fifth avenue, the procession had then occupied 103 minutes in passing the writer on its way down Madison avenue. A careful count was made of the number to each file, and an average established of ten to each file. In like manner, by a number of counts carefully compared with the watch, there was found to pass twelve files, or 120 persons per minute. There were numerous gaps in the procession, and many of great length. The short gaps were estimated on the basis of distance, the length of a block, 260 feet, or one-twentieth of a mile, being allowed to each minute of time, which is at the rate of three miles of travel per hour. The larger gaps were kept careful account of by the watch. Out of the 103 minutes referred to, sixty were stoppages and gaps, and but forty-three occupied by the procession in passing. During the first twenty-five minutes the lost space and time was ten minutes, or two-fifths, a higher average confidingly than for the whole 103 minutes, and from the appearance of the procession going up Fifth avenue, in sight, opposite, it was evidently quite as thin as for the last half-hour of observation, or about two-thirds waste; but allowing the same average as for the 103 minutes, and allowing the same rate of travel, three miles per hour, it would take twenty-two minutes for the remainder of the procession to reach the point of observation on Madison avenue, and of this 13 minutes could be gaps and stoppages and 9 minutes of passing people. Add this to the 43 minutes before named and you have 52 minutes of passing people at the rate of 120 per minute, or 6,240 persons as constituting the procession. Where there were wagons in the procession, or horsemen which occupied, as near as could be estimated, twice the space proportionately of the files on foot, the same were counted at half time, and all estimated the same as files on foot. This makes the estimated time of passing less than the actual time, but maintains the correct count as to the number of persons in the procession.

About one in seven was old enough to be a voter, the remainder being boys ranging from twelve to twenty years of age. Allowing every man to be a voter, there were, therefore, a little less than one thoutand voters in the procession.

BEN. H. HILL AGAIN.

HE DEFENDS AND JUSTIFIES HIS INFAMOUS SPEECH IN CONGRESS AND EXPRESSES THE HOPE THAT THE SOUTH WILL ALWAYS BE SOLID.

From the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer, Oct. 24.

Last night an immense crowd, packed from pit to dome, assembled in the Opera-house to hear Congressmen B. H. Hill. The orator was introduced by Major R. J. Moses in the most eulogistic terms, as one who had spiked the guns of Andersonville, which were "charged" by Blaine. He was greeted with plaudits, long and long. He commenced by saying he had not been to Columbus since the war. The Southern people were of one mind. All were united by a bond of sympathy, infidelity to which was the highest crime. The people needed not argument nor appeals. He proceeded to show how the Republicans had obtained power, how they had abused it and how they should be overthrown. He traced the origin of sectional parties. The North had always been on the offensive and the South defensive under the Constitution, and the Republican Party had not been approved by a majority of the people of the country. There is not a provision of the Constitution they have not violated, not an honest man they have not robbed. They enfranchised the negro to form a Republican Party in the South, but were defeated in their aims, for the blacks are voting with the South and her Congressional delegation is thereby increased. He alluded to the former representatives of the South under bayonet rule as creatures it would seem the Lord ought to apologize for making. He sketched the action of the Democratic House, demonstrating how it had saved 56,000,000 from the estimates and 30,000,000 from the expenses of last year, allowing fully all claims for interest on public debt, pensions, and all of that character. The reductions would have been greater but for the Republican Senate.

The House then commenced investigations into the corruption of the Government. He would not charge the President with dishonesty, but every trail of a notorious thief which was struck led directly to the White House. To stop this the Republicans studied a counter-move to distract attention to other topics. They desired to fire the Northern heart, to divert attention from the thieves that were preying on the Government. About the holidays, in the House was introduced the Amnesty bill, introduced into the previous Republican body, of which Mr. Blaine was Speaker. It passed the Republican House without a dissenting voice, but failed in the Senate and had to be introduced again into the House. He alluded to the fact that Blaine flaunted theatrically in the chamber a 1,500-page volume, prepared by the Republican congressional direction, which went to prove the cruelties of the South to the prisoners, and we were barbarians. He held it up defiantly and proclaimed to the world the ex-Confederacy the hight of cruelty. Blaine made a violent and brutal attack upon us, consisting of accusations every one of which was utterly false.

He, [Hill] felt bound, let come what would, to defend the honesty, bravery and manhood of the South, and he did so with but one night's preparation as it came upon him too unexpectedly. That was the most memorable night of anxiety of all of his life, but messengers from Heaven seemed to fly to him from all directions with the very data that he desired. He met his enemy in defense of the South and it had been said that he was out of time, trouble would surely be brought about. Then, in the name of Heaven, when, who will say, is the proper time? When must a man act where character is assailed? If the South consists of barbarians as they were represented by Mr. Blaine, then he didn't desire to represent them. If trouble had to come, as many insisted, then let it come, if tribe brought about by his defending the honor of his people. We would have been lost to manhood had he not done so. That speech had made the Democracy votes in the North instead of losing them. It removed the impression of cruelty to prisoners both from the North and Europe. That appeal to passion had been lost and we hear nothing of it now in the debates. The fact that more Southerners died in Northern prisons, where every appliance could be had, than Northerners in Southern prisons, where even medical stores were limited, owing to the blockade, and when the Federal Government constantly refused exchange, and even to take their men back, was proved so conclusively that the world saw and believed.

It continued to dingor on the action of the Democratic House. At this time, it had no hand and a President shielded him, and how stealing had stopped. The present party in power would strive to retain it, for they feared investigation into their misrule and plunder of the last sixteen years. They had disenfranchised intelligence and virtue in the South and endeavored to give ignorance and poverty control, but it recoiled on their own heads. He spoke to the colored people, showed them how they had been swindled under the guise of the Freedmen's Bureau and Republicans, and their interests were identical with the South, whose interest it was to protect them.

The South is now solid, and he hoped that it would everbe; and highly important it is that it should be in reference to having Democratic Congresemen. While he respected both of the nominees for this office in this district, and regarded them both as personal friends, yet he would urge upon the Democratic Party to go solid for their nominee. Risk nothing—vote for the one whom they know to be a Democrat and not of doubtful associations. It is easy for Democrats to nominate a Democrat, and Democrats vote for him, for they know on whom to rely.

He regarded as an essential point there should be a Democratic House. Its necessity has been demonstrated. He believed Tilden would be elected. The present house has caused the Republicans to abandon all their leaders and nominate a pure negative. He was honest, but a negative honest. If we should fail in electing our nominee for President, which is not probable, by all means let us have a majority of Representatives, who can always, when they fail to carry any measure, prevent the Senate and President from action.

BY MAIL AND TELEGRAPH.

Another steamer from Spain arrived at Havana yesterday with 1,000 troops.

James T. Brickett was run over and killed by a freight train near Haverhill, Mass., yesterday.

In a game of base-ball at Providence, yesterday, the Bostons defeated the Hartfords by a score of 10 to 5.

During a quarrel at Haverhill, Mass., on Tuesday last, Jacob Plauff stabbed and killed Louis Emmill. Plauff was arrested.

Edward Ryan was drowned in Warren River, Rhode Island, on Wednesday, while attempting to board a coal vessel to obtain employment.

The shipment of petroleum from Montreal is rapidly increasing, and if continued at the present rate, will soon absorb all exported from Ontario.

Frank A. Wooley was shot and probably fatally wounded on Wednesday, at Grafton, Vt., by his brother, Solon Wooley. A feud had existed between them for some time, and it was during an attempt to effect a reconciliation that the shooting occurred.

It is understood that Hon. A. D. Foster, Managing Director of the Canada Central and the Brockville and Ottawa Railways, has severed his connection with those corporations, and that Mr. Abbott, for many years connected with those roads, will probably succeed him.

In the Superior Court at Worcester, Mass., yesterday, James Reed, alias Jim Ross, alias Barton, alias English Jim, his wife, Mary Reed, alias Dublin Polly, alias Polly Ross, and Ellen Griffin, were each sent to the House of Correction for one year, for attempting pocket-picking.

A dispatch from the Magdalen Islands reports that on the 16th and 17th inst. the heaviest gale known for years was experienced. Considerable damage was done on shore, and many fishing-boats were destroyed. No wrecks have been reported. The weather on the islands continues wild, cloudy and cold, with a strong piercing wind blowing down the course, striking the drivers full in the face when going along the back-stretch, almost blinding them. The attendance was small, but the track was in excellent condition. The first event was the resumption of the 2:30 race, which was interrupted yesterday by darkness. Sooner winning the fifth heat and the race. The following is the summary:

Sooner	4	1	1	1
Scotland	5	2	1	2
Carrollton	1	3	3	3
Mattie Lyle	2	5	7	5
Nellie	3	4	4	4
Venus	6	6	6	7
Nutwood	7	7	5	6

Time—2:35½, 2:31½, 2:32, 2:36, 2:31½.

The next race was free for all, purse $2,000; $1,000 to first, $500 to second, $300 to third, and $200 to the fourth horse. There were four entries; three started. Following is the summary:

Lady Maud	1	1	1
Adelaide	3	2	2
Nettie	2	3	3

Time—2:26, 2:32½, 2:25.

THE CRICKET FIELD.

ANNUAL MATCH BETWEEN THE ENGLISH AND AMERICAN CRICKETERS.

The annual match between the English and American cricketers came off yesterday on the Camp Washington (Staten Island Ground.) The English team went to the wickets first, but were soon disposed of for 66 runs, Meeran with 16, and Greig with 11, heading the score. In the latter's score were two hits for four each, one into the bay, the other a splendid square leg hit, well worth six. The Americans, who were unfortunately short two men, only made 34, Hicks, the catcher for the Mutual Base-ball Club, making 10, although his score was attributable to his friends on the opposite side giving him some easy balls to bat. He, however, performed very well behind the wicket for his eleven. In the second innings of the Englishmen's team, Heigh made 50 in very good style; but that was of small account, as the match had already been decided on the first innings. Hincheliffe, a Paterson man, bowled very well for the American team, securing six wickets, and on the opposing side Meeran and Greig carried off the honors. The small show on the part of the American cricketers was the subject of considerable comment, as they have heretofore placed a good eleven in the field.

ENGLISHMEN.

FIRST INNINGS.

C. W. Bance, c. Hicks, b. Hincheliffe	2	c. Hicks, b. Stevens	12
J. B. Sleigh, h. w. b. Hincheliffe	0	b. Moore	50
J. B. Whetham, b. Stevens	8
R. Greig, c. (sub.) b. Hincheliffe	11
R. Hooper, b. Stevens	2
B. Mostyn, c. (sub.) b. Hincheliffe	0	not out	0
E. H. Meeran, b. Stevens	16	retired	14
S. Makin, c. (sub.) b. Hincheliffe	6
N. Graham, c. Sattle, b. thwaite	6
G. Giles, c. Stevens, b. Holman	8
W. Brewster, not out	4	b. Moore	6
Extras—Wides, 3	3	Byes, 7; wides, 5; no balls, 2	14
Total	66	Total	96

RUNS SCORED AT THE FALL OF EACH WICKET.

First.... 2 11 19 21 25 25 33 49 54 66—66
Second..50 86 96 .. ..—96

AMERICANS.

FIRST INNING.

J. R. Moore c. Whetham, b. Meeran	1
E. W. Stevens, b. Meeran	9
F. Franklin c. Whetham, b. Meeran	3
J. Hinchliffe c. Hooper, b. Meeran	1
M. H. Talbot c. and b. Greig	3
A. Holman, l. b. w., b. Meeran	3
N. Hicks b. Greig	10
M. Duer, not out	0
J. Duer c. Bance, b. Greig	0
E. Gilbert, absent	0
J. T. Soutter, absent	0
Byes, 4; leg byes, 1; wides, 1	6
Total	34

RUNS SCORED AT FALL OF EACH WICKET.

First...2 6 17 20 24 24 34 34—34

THE FOOD WE EAT.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

Lovers of half-raw beefsteak are perhaps aware that they have excellent chances of swallowing the Tænia inermis in their favorite food, the tænia being a parasite of the ox, which knows how to make itself perfectly at home in the human stomach. Nor, in spite of its distinguishing epithet, is it by any means a pleasant guest. But Dr. Normand, of the French naval medical service, has made the discovery, as he thinks, of a still more insidious enemy of man, to which he has given the pleasant name of Anguillula stercoralis. It is about a quarter of a millimetre in length, and but for its extreme leanness would be visible to the naked eye. It is absorbed into the system either in animal or vegetable food, and is believed to be the cause of the terrible disease known as the Cochin China diarrhea, which has committed fearful ravages among the French troops stationed in the East, for so long as the worm remains in the body the malady continues, and frequently ends in death. The best remedy hitherto discovered is milk, but it is far from being so efficacious as could be desired.

TILDEN AND THE REBEL CLAIMS.

Alluding to Gov. Tilden's letter concerning the rebel claims, the Syracuse Journal of Wednesday says: "If a 'solid South' and Democratic Congress demand the payment of these claims, is anybody so insane as to think that Samuel J. Tilden would stand in the way of their payment? Do our citizens forget his utterances in this city a year ago last August, when he made promises which have either been broken or never kept? We make the assertion, and can furnish the proof, that when Mr. Tilden passed through this city on his way to Buffalo, to begin 'Swinging around the Circle,' at the dining-rooms at the depot he held a consultation with a Democrat of this city, of whom Mr. Tilden made careful and minute inquiries concerning the political effect of proposed action in relation to the 'Canal Ring,' so far as his being a candidate for the Presidency might be concerned."

UNITED STATES MONETARY COMMISSION.

The United States Monetary Commission authorized by concurrent resolution of Congress of Aug. 15, 1876, is now organized, as follows:

Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada; Senator George S. Boutwell, of Massachusetts; Senator Lewis V. Bogy, of Missouri, Representative R. L. Gibson, of Louisiana; Representative Richard P. Bland, of Missouri; Representative George Willard, of Michigan; Hon. William S. Groesbeck, of Cincinnati, expert, Prof. Francis Bowen, of Cambridge, expert; Hon. Alexander Delmar, of Philadelphia, Statistician and Corresponding Secretary; George M. Weston, Esq., of Boston, Recording Secretary.

The Commission is now in session in this City, taking evidence. A subcommittee will shortly start for the Pacific coast to take evidence there with regard to the production of the precious metals in California, Nevada, &c., and in reference to other matters intrusted by Congress to the Commission.

HOW THE DEMOCRATS CARRIED INDIANA.

The Cincinnati Times makes an analysis of the Congressional vote of Indiana, and says: "The only Districts in which the Democrats made any gains were the First, Third, and Twelfth. The situation there was as follows:

Districts.	Majority. 1874.	Majority. 1876.	Dem'tic Gain.
First	337	1,569	1,232
Third	1,409	5,469	4,060
Twelfth	1,695	6,365	4,670
Total	3,441	13,403	9,962

A reference to the map will show that all the counties of the First and Third Districts lie along the Kentucky border, and that the counties of the Twelfth District lie along the Ohio border, within easy range of repeaters."

DUCK-SHOOTING IN CANADA.

The Norfolk (Canada) Reformer, of the 20th inst., says: "We noticed a couple of weeks ago that Major Walker had shot 180 ducks at Long Point, which was the largest bag ever made on the Point in one day; Col. Tisdale's 176 was the largest previously. The Colonel, however, was evidently bound not to take a back seat for any length of time. On Monday week he went at it, birds in dead earnest, and slaughtered them right and left, and at night it was found that no less than 186 ducks had fallen from the effects of his unerring aim."

ACCIDENT TO A GOVERNOR.

Gov. John Lee Carroll, of Maryland, was painfully injured on Tuesday by being thrown from a wagon. He was driving a spirited horse to a buggy, and in passing an embankment at the edge of a culvert over a small stream, two miles from Ellicott City, a dog ran suddenly at his horse, which shied, upsetting the buggy and throwing the Governor and his valet several feet down the embankment. The Governor was shocked and considerably bruised by the fall, but no bones were broken. His valet was also somewhat injured. Gov. Carroll was to have spoken at a Democratic meeting at Frederick, but on account of the accident was unable to attend.

A FOSSIL FOOTPRINT IN OHIO.

A telegram from Ripley, Ohio, to the Cincinnati Gazette, says: "The fossil foot story of an Eastern paper lately, brings before our citizens the fact of an imprint of a perfect foot in one of the stone steps in front of the telegraph office. It is in the hard limestone, and the step, about one foot in thickness, was placed there over fifty years since. The impression is about fifteen or sixteen inches in length and four in breadth, showing the perfect shape of the foot. One would naturally suppose, from its appearance, that the covering was a moccasin, such as worn by the Indians of the present day. It has always been a curiosity."

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

BECKWITH'S DEFALCATION.

THE EX-CONFIDENTIAL CLERK OF B. T. BABBITT ON TRIAL FOR FORGERY—DETAILS OF THE ALLEGED CRIME.

Charles R. Beckwith, the defaulting cashier of Benjamin T. Babbitt, the wealthy soap manufacturer, of Nos. 69 and 70 Washington street, was placed on trial before Judge Sutherland, in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, on one of the numerous indictments found against him. It will be remembered, from the revelations made at the time of Beckwith's arrest, that in the Spring of 1868 the accused had come to Mr. Babbitt in search of employment, bearing high recommendations from friends of Mr. Babbitt at Utica, N. Y. He was appointed by Mr. Babbitt to a position as clerk, and gradually advanced until he became confidential clerk and bookkeeper, and managed the entire financial business of this employer. The nature of Mr. Babbitt's business made it necessary that he should spend considerable time outside of his office, and he confided the entire charge of his moneys to Beckwith, in whom he had unlimited confidence, and in whose charge he left books of blank checks for the payment of the bills of the establishment. In 1873 Mr. Babbitt appears to have entertained some suspicion of Beckwith's honesty, and on the 19th of February discharged him. No steps, were taken, however, to ascertain whether or not he was dishonest, and the discharged cashier obtained employment in the office of the Manhattan Insurance Company, No. 62 Wall street. On Nov. 1, 1875, Detective Timothy Golden became possessed of information which convinced him that Beckwith was an embezzler to a large amount, and after conferring with Mr. Babbitt, the books of the firm were examined by an expert, and it was discovered that Beckwith had, by means of forging receipts, and making false bills and entries, embezzled sums amounting in all to over $200,000. After sufficient facts had been unearthed, Mr. Babbitt went before Judge Bixby, on Dec. 17 last, and obtained a warrant for the arrest of the alleged dishonest cashier. The warrant was given to Detective Golden to execute, and after nearly four weeks of patient watching, night and day, (Beckwith having, on hearing that his former books were being examined, obtained leave of absence on pretense of going West for the benefit of his health), the officer arrested the accused at No. 998 Sixth avenue, where he lived with his wife. Beckwith, who is thirty-five years of age, occupied a flat in the house named, and was never known to have been addicted to drinking, gambling or loose living; hence considerable speculation was indulged in as to what disposition he had made of the enormous sums he was charged with stealing. Since his arrest, in January, Beckwith has remained in the Tombs and Ludlow Street Jail, bail having been fixed at $20,000 on the criminal indictments, and $200,000 on civil proceedings instituted by Mr. Babbitt, his peculations having, after rigid examination, being found to aggregate the enormous sum of $225,000. Finally, as already stated, he was brought to trial on one of the charges against him. The accused, who is an insignificant looking little fellow, was accompanied by his wife, a fashionably-dressed woman. The prosecution is conducted by Assistant District Attorney Bell, and the defense by ex-Judge William Fullerton and Frank J. Dupignac. Mr. Bell, in opening the case, said that although several indictments had been found against the prisoner, he was only being tried now on one for forgery, and he should, therefore, confine his proof to that specific offense. He would show that on the 14th of August, 1871, Beckwith made an entry on the cash-book of $600 05 paid to John H. Poole & Co., with whom Babbitt & Co. had business, for tallow, purporting to have been received on the 4th of the same month. In the receipt and bill-books of the same date were found a receipt for the amount stated from Poole & Co., and a bill, purporting to give the weights and qualities of the tallow supposed to have been supplied. It was discovered that no such transaction had taken place between Mr. Babbitt and Poole & Co., that the receipt of the latter was in the writing of Beckwith, and the bill an old one in the writing of a clerk since deceased, which had been changed from 1870 to 1871, and otherwise altered to correspond with the entry on the cash-book. Having proved these facts he would ask the jury to convict Beckwith of forgery. Mr. Bell then examined Edward R. Barton, manager, and Frederick E. Hyde, son-in-law of Mr. Babbitt, and the court adjourned until to-day.

RECEPTION TO MR. TUPPER.

MR. WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT AND OTHER PROMINENT CITIZENS MEET THE ENGLISH POET AT DR. TALMAGE'S RESIDENCE.

The reception tendered by Rev. Dr. Talmage, last night, at his residence in Brooklyn, to Martin Farquhar Tupper, and Mr. William Cullen Bryant, was a very pleasant social affair. The large double parlors of Dr. Talmage's residence were filled. The guests began to arrive at an early hour, and the reception proper took place between 8:30 and 9 o'clock, previous to which Mr. Bryant read his poem called "Thanatopsis." The company filed into the front parlor, where each person was first introduced to Dr. Talmage, and by him presented to Mr. Tupper, Mr. Bryant, and Mr. Peter Cooper, who stood in a group in the centre of the room. After all those present had been introduced, Dr. Talmage called the company together, and asked Mayor Schroeder to preside. Mr. Schroeder made a few appropriate remarks on taking the chair. Dr. Talmage then introduced Mr. Tupper to the guests in a brief address. Mr. Tupper responded in a few remarks. He deprecated all modesty on such an occasion, and preferred to receive whatever was accorded him as a gift from God, earned, perhaps, after fifty years of earnest endeavor to do some good in the world. He complimented the American people on the improvements they had made in manners, in morals, and in religion within the past twenty-five years. He had taken note of every thing he had seen, and should always remember the uniform courtesy with which he had been treated everywhere. He had not heard a foul word anywhere, and he had been surprised at the politeness shown him in the cars and everywhere else. Mr. Bryant followed Mr. Tupper in a few remarks, after which the venerable Peter Cooper and Rev. Dr. Prime spoke briefly, and the speechmaking was concluded. Among those present were Hon. S. B. Chittendan, Silas Casey, Judge Joseph Neilson, Count Cassimer, Count Maokowski, Dr. Joseph Hutchison, Mayor Schroeder, A. S. Barnes, J. W. Hunter, Dr. Irenæus Prime, Dr. Dowling, Prof. Crittenden, Demas Barnes, Judge Reynolds, and Hon. T. P. V. Talmage. Conterno's full string band was also in attendance.

TWO NOTED CONVICTS.

THEIR CAREER OF CRIME, ESCAPE FROM SING SING PRISON, AND SUBSEQUENT ARREST.

The notorious bank robber, "Ned" Lyons, and Sophia Levy, well known to the Police of New-York as most adept and skillful pickpockets, who were sentenced to five years' imprisonment in Sing Sing Prison in 1870, and who escaped in 1872, were yesterday returned to that institution through the efforts of Detective James Jackson. The account of the career of the prisoners and their escape is interesting. On the day of Horace Greeley's funeral, Lyons, through some of his friends, had a bogus telegram sent to the agent, clerk, and Warden of the prison requesting their attendance in New-York at the funeral services. Shortly after the departure of these officials, Lyons, who was employed in some department which allowed him access to the yard, divested himself of the convict garb, underneath which he wore a handsome suit of civilians clothes, and jumping into a carriage in which were two or three of his friends, and which was in waiting in front of the prison, was rapidly driven away, and made his escape. About a week afterward, Levy, in company with one or two others, drove up in the night to the female prison in which Sophia was incarcerated. One of the number, under the pretense of bringing a basket of fruit to a sick inmate, rang the bell, whereupon, by a preconcerted arrangement, the woman Levy rushed out, and jumping into the carriage was driven away. Since the time of their escape, up to about a week ago, although every effort for their recapture had been made, no information as to their whereabouts could be ascertained. About the time mentioned two persons answering the description of the fugitives were arrested at Riverhead, Long Island, while the Suffolk County Fair was in progress, for picking pockets. On reading the description, Detective Jackson became satisfied that two of the prisoners, and immediately started for Riverhead, where, on seeing the prisoners, he instantly identified them. He was unable then to take them back to Sing Sing Prison, as they were both held by the Suffolk County authorities for the offense for which they

LAW REPORTS.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—No. 67.—Carrington vs. Eastwood.—Error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.—This was an action upon a note secured by deed of trust upon property at the time owned by Carrington, and which he subsequently sold subject to such deed of trust. The property was several times sold thereafter, before this suit, which was against Carrington, to recover without reference to the deed of trust given to secure the amount. The Court instructed the jury to confine their inquiry to the question whether there was any equity between Carrington and the party to whom he sold, and whether Eastwood had notice of it before he bought the property. Under this instruction the verdict was for the plaintiff, and it is here contended that the plaintiff below did have notice of the equity, and that, therefore, he should have had recourse to the property and not against the defendant there. E. C. Carrington for plaintiff in error; S. S. Henkle for defendant.

No. 69.—Home Insurance Company, of New-York vs. Baltimore Warehouse Company.—Error to the Circuit Court for the District of Maryland.—The chief question in this case is whether a policy of insurance issued to the Warehouse Company against loss or damage by fire on merchandise "their own or held by them in trust, or in which they had an interest or liability," contained in their warehouse, covered only property on which the defendants in error had advanced, and only to the extent of such advances, less the contributory liability of other policies on the same property payable to the defendants, whether the latter were insurances of its own or its consignor's interest. The Court below limited it to such property, less the insurances. It is here said that if no other companies had insured any of the property in question, the insurance company was not bound by its insurance of the interests of the Warehouse Company in the same property. The Warehouse Company contend that it is clear law that the general owner of property, and one having a lien on it, may each insure his own interest for his own benefit. Malben & Donaldson for plaintiff in error; Wallis & Thomas for defendants.

No. 69.—The Home Insurance Company of New-York, plaintiff in error, vs. The Baltimore Warehouse Company.—The argument of this cause was continued by Mr. J. H. Thomas, of counsel for the defendant, and concluded by Mr. Thomas Donaldson, for the plaintiff.

No. 71.—The County of Calhoun et al., appellants, vs. The American Emigrant Company.—This cause was submitted on the record by Mr. James Grant, of counsel for the appellants, and on printed arguments by Mr. C. C. Nourse, for the appellee.

72.—Justices F. Dresser, plaintiff in error, vs. The Missouri and Iowa Railway Construction Company.—This cause was submitted, on printed arguments, by Mr. James Grant, of counsel for the plaintiff in error, and by Mr. George G. Wright, for the defendant in error.

No. 70.—The County of Callaway, Mo., plaintiff in error vs. Thomas J. Tosher.—The argument of this cause was commenced by Mr. William M. Evarts, of counsel for the plaintiff in error, and continued by Mr. J. D. Stevenson for the defendant in error.

COURT OF ALABAMA CLAIMS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The following judgments for the loss of personal effects and wages by the destruction of various vessels, have been announced by the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims: No. 1,440, Kainanikee, $275; No. 1,441, Jim Tahti," $395; No. 1,442, Frank Kahlan, $275; No. 1,443, Kaheotano, $175; No. 1,444, Thomas Conner, $340; No. 1,445, Joseph Ferris, $600; No. 1,609, John Morris, $400; No. 1,752, James W. Humphreys, $275; No. 1,834, Keaupuni, $120; No. 1,833, Kailaac, $350; No. 1,836, Charles E. Rose, $325; No. 1,837, William Clarke, $800; No. 1,838, Aaimann, $225; No. 1,839, Kaunn, $168 70; No. 1,840, Kaunaka, $235; No. 1,841, Kaai, $275; No. 1,842 Kabann, $235; No. 1,844, Keaiohu, $190; No. 1,833-6, F. F. Nelson, $53; No. 2034, Kekauwa, $195; No. 2059, Lohilea, $53; No 2040, Kimokealohanui, $300; No. 2041, Kaiese, $375; No 2042, Kanaha, $215; No. 2043, Kaa-Ahna, $275. The above are all residents of Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. For the loss of same: No. 1413, Wm. H. McKenzie, New Bedford, Mass., $625; No. 2030, Kafunai, Lanai, $255; No. 2039, Alex dei Reyes Bandeion, Hilo, Hawaiin Islands, (dead); No. 1453, Antonio M. Machado, San Francisco, $270; No. 1456, Charles Faber, White Ranche, Cal., $350; No. 1458 Joseph Nicholas, Oakland, Cal., $515; No. 1472. Wm. P. Anderson, Oakland, Cal., $460; No. 1497, Wm. E. Blodgett, Bolinas, Cal., $675; No. 1901, Antonio Mandeneu, Tottleton Cal., $270; No. 1902, Frank Williams, San Andreas, Cal., $450; No. 1903, Sophronia L. Upton, Salem, Mass., $175. The first case in the call to-day is No 1567.

In the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims to-day, the following judgments were announced for loss of personal effects and wages by the destruction of various vessels: No. 1,451, Vicente Camancha, Half Moon Bay, Cal., $300; No. 1,459, George W. Aiken, San Francisco, Cal., $300; No. 1,461, Joseph Jerome, Oakland, Cal., $200; No. 1,471, Charles R. Smithers, San Francisco, $500; No. 1,472, Edward C. Wheeler, San Francisco, dismissed; No. 1,474, Elizabeth A. Handy, Administratrix, San Francisco, $375; No. 1,475, Joseph A. Manual, San Francisco, $490; No. 1,484, Charles Garver, San Francisco, dismissed; No. 1,485, Goodino Pacheco, San Francisco, $175; No. 1,494, John Adams, San Francisco, dismissed; No. 1,495, John Dow, San Francisco, dismissed; No. 1,496, John Arballa, Half Moon Bay, Cal., $275; No. 1,498, John Taffee, San Francisco, dismissed; No. 1,504, John E. Corwin, Administrator, Riverland, N. Y., $400; No. 1,254, John P. Eldridge, Barnstable, Mass., dismissed; No. 1,513, Amilio L. Francis, Old River, Cal., $1,500; No. 1,514, Andrew Beon, San Francisco, Cal., dismissed; No. 1,522, Antone Esse, New-Bedford, Mass., dismissed; No. 1,562, Joseph Miguel, New-Bedford, Mass., $420; No. 1,457, Manuel C. De Freitas, San Leandeo, Cal., $325; No. 1,500, Manuel Paz, New-Almedea, Cal., $395; No. 1,505, Michael C. Bateman, Assignee, San Francisco, for loss of merchandise by the destruction of the Commonwealth by the Alabama, April 17, 1863, $449 89; No. 1,506, Filat, Trizzy & Co., San Francisco, for loss of same by the destruction of the Tycoon by the Alabama, April 27, 1864, $2,018 09.

The call of the calendar to-morrow will commence with No. 1,674.

SUIT AGAINST A RAILROAD COMPANY.

In 1871 Mr. Jason Weeks, a gentleman seventy years of age, bought through tickets from Maine to Quincy, Ill., by way of New-York, and was obliged accordingly to make part of the trip over the New-York, New-Haven, and Hartford Railroad. On Nov. 9, in that year, he was on the last car of a train which arrived at the company's old depot at Fourth avenue and Twenty-seventh street, about 5:30 o'clock. At that time the cars were drawn by horses from Forty-second street to the down-town depot, and there not being sufficient room for the entry of two cars into the depot at one time, the one in which Mr. Weeks was seated was left standing upon the track. Being somewhat hurried he arose from his seat and moved toward the front door of the car for the purpose of seeing where he was, when he was assaulted by two or three men, one of whom pushed him backward over the stove in the corner, pulling his hat down over his eyes. Another man, who was behind the stove, held him down while his partner took from him $1,500 worth of United States bonds, after which the men made good their escape. Mr. Weeks reported his loss to the Police, but all efforts to find the thieves proved unsuccessful, and in the following January he brought suit against the railroad company to recover the amount of his loss. The suit was brought to trial and judgment was entered for the plaintiff for $16,683 47, Judge Van Brunt holding that the company was bound to exercise a reasonable amount of diligence in protecting their passengers from robbery. From this judgment the defendant appealed, and the argument on the appeal was heard yesterday before the General Term of the Supreme Court, which reserved decision.

MORGAN JONES' SUIT AGAINST THE CITY.

In 1870 the City leased the premises Nos. 106, 108, and 110 Centre street, directly opposite the Tombs, for a period of ten years, at $75,000 a year, from Morgan Jones, for a Police station, but the property was never used for that purpose. Controller Green refused to pay the rent, and Jones sued the City to recover it. The defense set up fraud in the making of the lease, but judgment was given for the plaintiff. The rent for subsequent years being refused, a second suit was begun for its recovery, and this is still pending. The matter came up yesterday before Judge Barrett, holding Supreme Court, Chambers, on a motion made by ex-Attorney General Barlow, in the City's behalf, for leave to amend the answer, by the putting in of a counter-claim for $75,000, which amount, it is claimed, is recoverable, on the ground that, because of a conspiracy between some of the City officials and Mr. Jones to defraud the City, the latter was damaged to that extent, the premises in question being a renowned house, and of no value for the purpose named. The motion was granted.

A CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Some time ago Leeny Goldfinger was arrested as he was about to leave this City for Europe on a German steamer, the order of arrest against him having been issued in a suit for the recovery of about $12,000, which suit had been commenced by Adolph Rolla, and which was yesterday brought to trial before Judge Lawrence, holding Supreme Court, Circuit, Part II. The complaint sets forth that Goldfinger was intrusted with the collection of several debts due him [Rolla] in Cuba; that, after collecting about $12,000, he converted the money to his own use, and has since refused to pay it over. The defendant claims that the expenses of collecting the money amounted to more than the sum collected, and he sets up a counter-claim for additional expenditures. The case is still on.

THE WHISKEY FRAUDS.

A decision was rendered yesterday in the United States Circuit Court, Criminal branch, by Judge Benedict, on the motion of the defendants in the case of the United States against Charles H. and William S. Miller, and four other cases for release without bail, these cases including most of the "crooked whiskey" cases in this court. Judge Benedict holds that the excuse of the District Attorney for not trying the causes at the present term of court, that one of his assistants, the only one familiar with the causes, had been temporarily disconnected from the office, was a sufficient one, and as it was not claimed that any inconvenience would follow in continuing the bail already given, the motion must be denied. He decides that the causes must be allowed to go upon the calendars of the next term, when the District Attorney will be expected to dispose of them by a trial or a dismissal of the charges.

COURT NOTES.

The second trial of Capt. Grindle, of the ship St. Mark, for alleged cruel and inhuman treatment, was postponed yesterday until next Monday in the United States Circuit Court.

William P. Dixon, the Referee appointed to audit the claims of the Receiver of the firm of Hoyt, Sprague & Co., yesterday reported a valid claim of the Continental National Bank against the firm of $21,878.

Judge Curtis, in the Supreme Court, yesterday, confirmed the report of Mr. John Barbour, the Referee appointed to take proofs in the case of Annie Ochs against Charles Ochs, granting judgment of divorce.

In the case of Quimbo Appo, the Chinaman, who is charged with the murder of Thomas J. Kelly, writs of certiorari and habeas corpus have been taken out, returnable on Saturday, on the ground that the case was one of justifiable homicide.

In the County Clerk's office, yesterday, Ephraim L. Snow and George W. Snow made an assignment to Ferdinand Stern for the benefit of their creditors. Their total liabilities are estimated at $167,559 43; nominal assets, $96,619 34, and actual assets, $53,390 13.

John Shardan, of No. 53 Division street, who on the 21st inst. was detected in the act of carrying off a roll of cloth from the store of Mayer May, No. 172 Church street, pleaded guilty yesterday in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions. Judge Sutherland sentenced the prisoner to eighteen months in the State Prison.

Daniel St. Clair, a Brooklyn burglar, who, on the night of the 11th inst., broke into the cigarstore of John I. Nusiewicz, No. 8 Market street, and stole $6 worth of property, pleaded guilty yesterday on being brought up in the Court of General Sessions. Judge Sutherland sentenced the burglar to two years in the State Prison.

A motion in arrest of judgment in the case of John Volz, the veteran "straw bail" man, convicted of perjury last week, in the United States Circuit Court, was argued yesterday before Judge Benedict. T. F. Somerville appeared for the motion, and District Attorney B. B. Foster in opposition. Decision was reserved.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, Judge Benedict rendered decision in the case of Ellias La Farge against George Haight and others comprising the Board of Registry of the Fourth Election District of the Seventh Assembly District, in which the plaintiff applied for the issuance of a mandamus compelling the defendants to register him, he only claiming the right to vote on the State and national tickets. The court denies the motion.

In the Court of Arbitration, Graham Crowell, Captain of the bark C. E. McNeil, brought suit to recover damage from Franklin Woodruff for alleged detention of the vessel beyond the ten working days allowed by the charter-party. The Arbitrator, ex-Judge E. L. Fancher, yesterday rendered an opinion in the case, in which he decided in favor of the plaintiff. It appeared that on several of the days during which the vessel was detained in port a misty rain was falling, and these he declares were not "working days."

Timothy Gallagher, a resident of Greenwich street, who claimed to have suffered loss and annoyance by the dummy engines on the New-York Elevated Railroad, brought suit against that corporation in the Superior Court, and applied for a preliminary injunction restraining them from further using the engines. The motion was argued before Judge Sedgwick, who yesterday rendered decision, in which he says that without expressing an opinion one way or the other, it seems best that no adjudication should be made until the final hearing of the case. Motion denied.

Joseph Dougherty was arrested late on Wednesday night by Officer Connor of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, as he was passing along West street, having over his shoulder a bag containing upward of 600 imported cigars, for which he could not satisfactorily account. He was kept in the station-house over night and yesterday was brought before Commissioner Shields, when a charge of smuggling was made against him. Dougherty said he was carrying the cigars for another person, but who he was or where he met him he refused to state. Dougherty was held in $750 bail, which was furnished.

A return was made yesterday in the United States District Court by Commissioner Betts on the writ of habeas corpus brought to secure the discharge of Carl Peter Meier, arrested for desertion from the Army. Meier enlisted under the name of Frost, and deserted in 1873, and was arrested a few days since by Detective Depuy. His counsel, L. W. Emerson, claimed his discharge on the ground that at the time of his enlistment Meier was under age. This was fully proved before the Commissioner, and he so reported, and Assistant United States Attorney F. W. Pullman, who appeared for the Government, consented to an order for his discharge, upon the agreement that all Government expenses should be paid by the defendant.

A WAR OF WORDS IN COURT.

The tedious trial of Henry P. Antes, charged with embezzling $266 while employed as clerk at the Erie Railroad Freight Depot, was continued before Judge Gildersleeve yesterday in Part II. of the Court of General Sessions. During the cross-examination of the accused, Col. Fellows, his counsel, asked him to state how many times the case had been upon the calendar and postponed at the request of the prosecution. Dudley Field, one of the private counsel for the prosecution, objected to the question, whereupon Col. Fellows stated that he wished it answered in order to remove any unfavorable impression which the jury might have formed in consequence of Mr. Field's remark. Mr. Field, in replying, stated that his opponent asked the question in order to get statements before the jury which were manifestly improper and should only be used in summing up. Col. Fellows, jumping to his feet, said that the motives imputed to him by Mr. Field were false, whereupon the latter replied, "Sit down, sir, I have the floor," and repeated the assertion that counsel for the defense had all through the trial striven by improper means to make speeches to the jury. Col. Fellows, who had remained standing, interrupting, said, "It is a falsehood," to which Mr. Field, in angry tones, replied, "It is cowardly, sir, to make that statement in court, and had it been made out of doors I should have taken care of it." The angry discussion was cut short at this point by Judge Gildersleeve after a vigorous use of the gavel.

A SUIT AGAINST THE CITY DISMISSED.

Thomas E. Davis brought suit against the City for the recovery of rent alleged to be due him for premises occupied by the Corporation Counsel at Nos 82 and 84 Nassau street, from Aug. 1, 1871, to May 1, 1874. There were two claims, the one brought under a continuation of the lease for $9,625, and the other for the value of the property under occupancy, amounting to between $10,000 and $11,000. The answer to the complaint was a denial of any authority to rent the property for the purposes above named. The plaintiff demurred to this answer and argument upon the demurrer was heard some time ago before Judge Sedgwick in the Supreme Court, who yesterday rendered his decision, in which he holds that the occupancy of the premises by the Corporation Counsel was his individual act, and did not bind the City. The demurrer is therefore overruled.

THE STATEN ISLAND FERRY LEASE.

Argument was yesterday heard before the Supreme Court, General Term, on the appeal from the judgment entered in the suit of the City against the North Shore Staten Island Ferry Company and the New-York and Staten Island Ferry Company, in which the plaintiffs sought to have a ten years' lease made and executed by the Department of Docks on March 3, 1874, declared null and void, the question being raised as to whether the department had the power to make at private sale and not at public auction a lease on one of the City's slips or docks, which has not been rebuilt or constructed in accordance with the plans adopted by the City under the provisions of chapter 574, Laws of 1871. The court reserved decision.

VERDICT AGAINST THE CITY.

William Mulry, a contractor who dug out the cellar of the new Jefferson Market Police Court, failed to have his bill certified by the Court-house Commissioners who were in office at the time of the performance of the contract, and their successors refused to sign it on the ground that they knew nothing about the matter. Mulry then, in order to get his money, procured a certificate from the old Commissioners, but the Controller refused to recognize it, claiming that they, being out of office, had no power to give it. Mulry brought suit against the City to recover, and the case was yesterday brought to trial in Part I of the Supreme Court, Circuit, when Judge Donohue directed the jury to find a verdict for the plaintiff for $4,966 68.

SEIZURE OF A CIGAR FACTORY.

The establishment of Isaac Lichtenstein, at No. 173 East Broadway, was seized yesterday by Deputy Collector P. R. Hanley, it being charged that he was carrying on a cigar factory without a license. He was held in $1,000 bail by United States Commissioner Shields, and Levi Kaufman and Judah Zamoso, employed in the place, were detained as witnesses, and it is expected at the examination will give testimony that will prove highly interesting as regards the illegal manufacture of tobacco in the City.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Judge Barrett.

La Farge vs. Haight et al.—Motion for a mandamus denied.

Applications Denied.—Schwab vs. Strauss and Nicholas vs. Weiderman.

Matter of Shepard.—Order Granted.

The Washington Life Insurance Co. vs. Fleichhaur.—Let the order of Oct. 24 stand.

By Judge Davis.

The Webster Loom Co. vs. Whittaker—It is doubtful whether the suit in equity on the company's bill can be properly said to be pending, as no appearance seems to have been made to it and no issue joined by answer. Under the circumstances I think the motion to stay should not be granted. If the suit in the Federal court shall be first brought to trial it will not be improper to renew this application, and I therefore deny the motion, without costs and with leave to renew it on further proofs, when the coming bill shall be brought to a hearing.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

By Judge Van Vorst.

Findings Signed.—Weiller vs. Weinheld et al., and Meyer vs. Schiffer et al.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART II.

By Judge Van Vorst.

Nicolay et al. vs. Unger et al.—Case and amendments settled. See memorandum.

SUPERIOR COURT.—SPECIAL TERM.

By Judge Curtis.

Ochs vs. Ochs.—Report of Referee confirmed; judgment for a divorce in plaintiff's favor.

Hacker vs. Hacker.—Judgment for plaintiff for limited divorce. See memorandum.

Silva vs. The Metropolitan Drug Company.—Let the minutes of the stenographers be submitted to me.

By Judge Sedgwick.

Ogden vs. Wood.—Order settled.

Gallagher vs. The New-York Elevated Railroad Company.—Motion denied, with $10 costs to abide event. See memorandum.

Davis vs. The Mayor, &c.—The demurrer should be overruled, with costs, with leave to plaintiff to withdraw it and proceed to trial upon payment of the costs. See decision.

By Judge Speir.

Schuyler vs. The Merchants' Exchange National Bank.—The papers submitted for settlement are not prepared according to the rules of this court.

MARINE COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Chief Justice Shea.

Schultz vs. Wurster.—Motion denied.

Hall vs. Templeton.—Motion to open default granted.

Schroder vs. James.—Daniel P. Hayes, Esq., appointed Receiver.

Wilkins vs. Conner.—Motion for new trial denied.

Isaacs vs. Goodman.—Motion denied. No costs.

Thacher vs. Hall.—Motion to vacate attachment denied. The defendant is a non-resident.

Orders Granted.—Koerner vs. Frachlich; Weed vs. Weed; Malamska vs. Marions; Wright vs. Geise; Adler vs. Wolff; Turner vs. Schilly; The Importers' and Traders' Bank vs. Van Winkle; Buncanan vs. Conner; Wenzel vs. Murphy.

Asheim vs. Cohen.—Order for commission granted.

Motions Granted.—McDonald vs. Kavanagh; Simon vs. Mooney.

Clement vs. Tobbit.—Receiver appointed. Application granted.

COURT CALENDARS—THIS DAY.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Held by Barrett, J.

Nos.		Nos.
227	Eliot vs. King.	156	De Embil vs. De Embil.
272	Faye vs. Oeshers.
275	Equitable Life Ass. Co. vs. Laverty.	182	Astor vs. Wing.
276	Equitable Life Ass. Co. vs. Silverman.	190	The Mayor, &c., vs. Britten.
277	Equitable Life Ass. Co. vs. Powers.	260	Shaw vs. Heymans.
285	Mordsunt vs. Niles.	264	Spratt vs. Crawford.
82	Matter of Ahlbern.	278	Stanley vs. Wood, (two motions.)
98	Neil vs. Conover.	282	The First N. B. &c., vs. Handman.
117	Firth vs. Green.	284	Cushman vs. The Thayer Manuf. Co.
121	Stanley vs. Wood, (two motions.)	286	Kidd vs. Packard.
148	Crump vs. Fay.	291	Batubridge vs. Berne.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Held by Davis, P. J., Brady and Daniels, JJ.

Nos.	Short Causes.	Nos.
47	Stanley vs. Wood, et al.	103	Lary, &c. vs. The Union Trust Co.
48	Same vs. Same.	106	Graham et al. vs. Smith, Jr. et al.
49	Same vs. Same.	107	Burke vs. Ashley.
73	Teilkampf vs. Brown, &c.	109	Nicholas et al vs. Roosevelt.
88	Taddiken vs. Cantrell	116	Matter of Striker.
89	McVey vs. Cantrell.	116½	Matter of Striker.
93	Seaver, &c. vs. The Mayor, &c.	172	Heiser vs. Asten et al.
97	Bishop vs. Davis.	349½	Errico et al vs. Brand.
98	Van Aken vs. Van Aken.	12	Matter of Zborowski.
104	Hilser vs. The Bur. & Mo. R. R. R. Co.	17	The Bank of the O. V. of W. Va. vs. Eccles.
32	The Union Con. Min. Co. of Texas vs. Rapt et al.	30	The Harlem Bank vs. Todd.
32½	Matter of Hoe et al	34	West vs. Nickerson et al.
40	Cahoone vs. Leicht.	61	Jacobs vs. Miller.
42½	Matter of the Mechanics & Traders Bank.	63	Matter of Litt man, &c.
43	Wiggins, et al. &c. vs. Phillips, et al.	64	Matter of Walsh, &c.
60	Rosenbach vs. The Man'rs & Build'rs Bank.	66	Campbell vs. Spratt.
60½	Gregory vs. Swift et al.	68	Mitchell vs. Mitchell et al.
62	Matter of Serrell, &c.	77	Kelly vs. Waterbury.
65	The Lo ner's Bank vs. Jacobs, et al.	92	Seaver, &c. vs. The Mayor, &c.
71	The Union D. Sav. Inst. vs. Samord &c	94	Bergen vs. Raymond et al.
72	Same vs. Same.	100	Matter of Hone.
74	Burnett vs. Stilling.	106	Matter of Burmeister
82	Matter of Wolkening.	115	Matter of Foster.
84	Matter of Willis.	119	The Farmer's L. & T. Co. vs. The M. St. P & R. R. Co.
94½	Eliot vs. King, &c.	126	Foley vs. Rathbone.
95½	Smith, et al. vs. Kranskoff	120½	Same vs. Same.
96	Eliot, &c. vs. King &c.	157	The People ex rel Law. vs. The Tax Comm'rs, &c.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Held by Van Vorst, J.

Nos.		Nos.
146	Curry vs. Witters.	549	Waterbury vs. Bonker et al.
322	Damimann vs. Schultig.	578	Rugen vs. Collins, &c.
474	Uhl, &c., vs. Millhauser.	711	Phelps vs. Platt et al.
475	Uhl, &c., vs. Larkin et al.	811	Like vs. Meier et al.
477	Bruns, Jr., vs. Boehm et al.	621½	Josephthal et al. vs. Heyman et al.
487	Phillips et al. vs. Hyman.	629	Uhl, &c., vs. Huzner, &c.
499	The Mutual Life Ins. Co. vs. Trask et al	632	Knowlson et al. vs. Betts et al.
506	Uhl, &c., vs. Sobarberg et al.	45	Angell, &c., vs. Crawford, Jr., et al.
520	O'Conner, &c., vs. The Mayor, &c.	278	Langdon vs. Gray.
529	Coggey vs. Mear et al.	279	Same vs. Same.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART I.

Held by Donohue, J.

Nos.	Short Causes.	Nos.
3189	Chapman vs. Wicks.	2515	Rogers vs. Walker et al.
3403	Woolsey vs. Adsit.	3569	The Middleton Plate Company vs. The Lucius Hart Manufacturing Company.
2265	Davidson et al. vs. Knowland.
3672	Mackenzie vs. Cutler.	3653	Clark vs. Levinger et al., &c.
3455	The Philadelphia Warehouse Company vs. Jones et al.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART II.

Held by Lawrence, J.

Nos.	Short Causes.	Nos.
3478	Cohn vs. Pandle.	3506	The D., L. & W. R. R. Co. vs. Daly.
3373	Schey et al. vs. Clark.	3426	Cole et al. vs. Kissam et al.
3490	Titus et al. vs. Noe.	3498	The Columbia S. G. Co. vs. Heins.
1,190	The Union Trust Co. of Conn. vs. Phipps.	3526	Gardner vs. Bertram.
3184	Cook et al. vs. Stranger et al.	3528	Brainerd vs. Bertram.
3442	Christy vs. Hazewell.	3618	Williams vs. Wood.
3880	Bechet vs. Odell et al.	3620	Rothschild versus Hooks et al.
3504	The D., L. & W. R. Co. vs. Leiss.	3334	The —— vs. ——.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART III.

Held by Larremore, J.

Nos.	Short Causes.	Nos.
3587	The First National Band of J. C. vs. Cornell et al.	3443	The National Shoe & Leather Bank vs. Wyman, &c.
3007	Hughes vs. Rubino.	3379	The Nassau Bank vs. Kiel et al.
3009	Same vs. Same.	2787	Fitch vs. Vandeveer.
3275	Hammacher vs. Francke.	2903	Whitney vs. Parker.
1349	McKye vs. Mott.
3147	The Norwalk Iron Work Co. vs. The Warring Rock Drill Co.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Adjourned sine die.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Held by Curtis, C. J.

Case on—No. 40—Spader vs. New-York Elevated Railroad Company. No day calendar.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Held by Sanford, J.

Nos.		Nos.
764	Ice et al. vs. Stevens.	938	Piagett vs. Keyser.
783	Brown vs. Ross.	681	Heidenheimer versus Mayer.
769	Heidenheimer versus Michaels et al.	995	Devlin et al. vs. Wells.
379	Lee, Trustee, &c., vs. Buckingham.	947	Roehreau vs. Wolf.
439	Lewis vs. Young.	993	The Hopkins & Dickinson M'f'g Co. vs. Russian American Manufacturing Co.
694	Postley vs. Dicket et al.
901	Walsh vs. Bigler et al.	336	Powers vs. Stillwell.
950	Glass vs. Muller et al.

COMMON PLEAS—EQUITY TERM.

Adjourned for the term.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Adjourned for the term.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

Adjourned for the term.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART III.

Held by J. F. Daly, J.

No. 813—Britton vs. Hastings.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PART I.

Held by Sutherland, J.

Charles B. Beckwith, embezzlement.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—PART II.

Held by Gildersleeve, J.

Henry P. Antes, grand larceny.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Held by Alker, J.

Nos.		Nos.
4949	Workmeister vs. Devine et al.	5029	Langan vs. Brady.
4997	Sinalon vs. McGuire.	5034	Brooks vs. Birsch et al.
4998	Same vs. Same.	5035	Dannenhauer versus Luck.
4999	Levy vs. Taylor.	5036	Sanger vs. Marks.
4861	Von Briesen vs. Wulfing.	5042	Weber et al. vs. Harrison.
5001	Brueck vs. Connor.	5043	Gotan et al. vs. Capen.
5033	Wheeler vs. Dumont	5044	Angel vs. Birdsall.
5024	Tooker vs. Wadsworth.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

Held by Goepp, J.

Nos.		Nos.
4974	Janes et al. vs. Hyams.	4932	Dongan et al. vs. Steinway et al.
4725	Lowitski vs. Connor et al.	4615	Davis vs. White.
4390	N. Y. Col. of Veterinary Surgeons vs. Bickel.	4972	Kohlbacher versus Pioch.
7301	Ringe vs. Mittnacht.	4973	Tallman vs. Beers.
4923	Pickard et al. vs. Hurd.	5045	Hartman vs. Koster.
5021	Banta vs. Forster.	5049	Merrill vs. The Sewing Mach. B. Co.
4557	Fisher vs. King et al.	5050	Jaretzkie vs. Barnett.
		5056	Keething vs. Corrigan et al.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART III.

Held by Sinnott, J.

Nos.		Nos.
8810	Remy vs. Magron.	7200	Bacharack et al. vs. Hebeler et al.
2315	Crane vs. Walker.	6118	Banfield vs. Shirach
7166	Center vs. Smith.	7321	Bryant et al. vs. The Mayor.
7118	Grier vs. Robertson.	7240	Duyckinck vs. Elder, Jr.
8521	Auris, Adm'r, vs. Schroetter.	7163	Harris vs. Wolden et al.
8396	Wertheimer versus Stevens.	7239	Gautert vs. Muller et al.
6645	Maier et al. versus Springer.	7252	White vs. Meyer.
7714	Shook vs. Rau.
7727	Snyder vs. Volkening.

THE EARTH AS A MEASURER OF TIME

DOUBTING ASTRONOMERS—THE MOVEMENTS OF THE MOON—THE EARTH'S ROTATION IRREGULAR—A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.

The following article, written by Richard A. Proctor, is taken from the London Echo at the 14th inst.: "A discovery has recently been made by Prof. Simon Newcomb, of the Washington Observatory, which tends to throw some degree of doubt on the steadiness of our earth as a measurer of time. Most persons probably know that until about half a century ago the rotation of the earth on its axis was regarded as absolutely uniform and unchanging. All other periods with which astronomers had to deal seemed to be undergoing continual fluctuations, in some cases considerable, in others slight, but always recognizable. But our earth seemed all the time to turn upon her axis with absolutely unchanging velocity. Donbt had, indeed, been suggested by some astronomers, and Sir W. Herschel had even gone so far as to suggest the possibility that, if a careful comparison were instituted between the turning motions of the earth and other planets, minute changes might be recognized. He undertook for this purpose the study of the turning motion of Mars, and beginning with an estimate two minutes in error, he set on foot an inquiry which has within the last few years led to a determination of the Martial day claiming to be accurate within less than the tenth part of a second. But this, which to the uninitiated may appear a very exact result, affords not the remotest possibility of testing our great terrestrial timepiece, whose errors have not to be measured by tenth parts of a second per day, but by hundredth parts of a second in a year. Nor was there in Herschel's time any valid reason for supposing that the earth was not properly performing her part as a time-keeper. It is true that astronomers had observed a certain hastening of the moon's motions, which they could not explain by the law of gravitation, and therefore to some degree suggestive of an error in the great terrestrial time piece by which they measured the moon's movements; for though the moon appeared to be going more quickly than usual round the earth, it might well be that the earth was turning more slowly on her axis, and so making the day longer. The case may be compared to that of a pedestrian who, measuring his rate of walking by means of his watch, should note that, to all appearance, he traversed two or three hundred yards more in an hour than when his practice began. It any doubt arose in his mind as to the way in which his watch was keeping time, and on comparing it with a standard clock he found it was losing a minute or two per hour, he would perceive that he had not gained in speed, but that his watch had simply allowed him to walk a minute or two longer each hour than he should have done. Of course, there was no possibility of testing our earth's steadiness as a time-keeper by any standard clock or chronometer, because her rotation is, in fact, the standard to which all clocks and chronometers are referred. But although Halley's recognition of the moon's apparent hastening did to some degree suggest doubts as to the earth's time-keeping qualities, yet, in the first place, the lunar movements had not been analyzed so closely as to render it at all certain that gravitation would not account for every peculiarity, and, in the second, her apparent hastening was so slight that even if it had to be entirely attributed to a gradual retardation of the earth's turning motion, it would yet indicate a change much smaller in amount than any which Sir W. Herschel could hope to measure by his proposed method.

Only a few years later, however, even this minute possible retardation was apparently disposed of. For Laplace succeeded in showing that among the various circumstances which affect the movements of the moon, there is one whose effect is at present, and for many centuries to come, will be to hasten her motion around the earth; and calculating the amount of such hastening, he arrived at the conclusion that it would almost exactly correspond with the hastening actually observed. Perhaps there is not, in the whole history of science, a more striking circumstance than this seemingly exact solution of a most difficult problem, where, in reality the solution was incorrect. To persons unfamiliar with the subject the idea will probably occur that the solution "came out" thus exactly because it was made to do so—because, in fact, the figures were forced into agreement with observation. But nothing of this sort had happened. There was Laplace's reasoning placed in full detail before the scientific world; there were all the familiar elements of the lunar motions dealt with precisely in accordance with his reasoning; every step, both of the reasoning and of the calculation, was carefully gone over by the most skilful mathematicians and computers, who one and all agreed in arriving at the same conclusion as Laplace.

It was not till a quarter of a century had elapsed after Laplace's death that our Adams, examining afresh the reasoning of Laplace, observed a flaw in one portion of it. A certain effect which Laplace had judged might be neglected, was shown by Adams to have a real and important influence on the result. In fact, whereas the original calculation by Laplace had practically accounted for the most exact observation for the entire hastening of the moon, Adams found that when due correction was made for the effect before neglected, only about half that hastening was accounted for. It will afford some idea of the difficulty of the subject to note that even when the exact spot where the flaw existed was indicated, several very eminent mathematicians (among them Adams' celebrated rival, Leverrier) could not perceive it. Leverrier declared called Adams' process "analytical legerdemain (supercherie analytique;) Leverrier said that most certainly Adams' was mistaken; and, in fine, it was not until the lamented Delaunay had verified Adams' result (already accepted by English mathematicians) that Continental mathematicians admitted its accuracy.

There thus remained an unexplained hastening of the moon's motions, which suggested a gradual retardation of the earth's rotation. Delaunay not only admitted this, but pointed out where and how the earth's turning motion might be affected, namely, by the friction of the great tidal wave which travels round in the direction opposed to the earth's rotation. A profound mathematical investigation of this point by the Astronomer Royal seemed to throw doubt on the existence of any such retarding effect, but a postscript thrown in just before the calculation was published admitted that the earth's turning must to some degree be retarded by a tid

The New-York Times.

NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, OCT. 27, 1876.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEN. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM A. WHEELER,

OF NEW-YORK.

AMUSEMENTS THIS EVENING.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Life—Mr. C. F. Coghlan, Mr. James Lewis, Mr. Charles Fisher, Miss Amy Fawcitt, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Forbidden Fruit—Mr. J. Montague, Mr. Harry Becsett, Miss Ada Dyas, Miss Effie Germon.

KIRLO'S GARDEN.—Baba—Mr. W. A. Crane, Mr. V. Bowers, Miss Eliza Weathersby, Miss Minnelli.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.—Sardanapalus—Mr. F. C. Bangs, Mrs. Agnes Booth, grand ballet and chorus.

UNION SQUARE THEATRE—The Two Orphans—Mr. C. Thorne, Jr., Mr. J. O'Neill, Miss Kate Claxton.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Little Nell and The Marchioness—Miss Katie Putnam.

NEW-YORK AQUARIUM.—Rare and Curious Fish and Mammalia, Statuary, &c.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN.—Exhibition of Paintings. Day and evening.

GILMORE'S GARDEN.—P. T. Barnum's Museum, Circus, and Menagerie.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.—Dramatic Performance—Curiosities—Afternoon and evening.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE HALL—Annual Exhibition of Art, Science, and Mechanics.

EAGLE THEATRE—Minstrelsy, Comedy, Burlesque.

PARK THEATRE.—Sweet Hearts and Tom Cobb.

KELLY & LEON'S HALL.—Minstrelsy and Comicalities.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Variety Entertainment.—Messrs. Harrigan and Hart.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS—Minstrelsy, Farces, and Negro Comicalities.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Rehearsal of the Philharmonic Society.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

The New-York Times is the best family paper published; it contains the latest news and correspondence. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and may be safely admitted to every domestic circle. The disgraceful announcements of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of The Times on any terms.

Terms, cash in advance.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

Postage will be prepaid by the Publishers on all Editions of The Times sent to Subscribers in the United States.

The Daily Times, per annum, including the Sunday Edition	$12
The Daily Times, per annum, exclusive of the Sunday Edition	10
The Sunday Edition, per annum	2
The Semi-Weekly Times, per annum	3
The Weekly Times, per annum	2

CLUB RATES OF THE WEEKLY.

Five Copies	(per annum)	$7 50
Ten Copies	(per annum)	12 50
Twenty Copies	(per annum)	22 00
Thirty Copies	(per annum)	30 00

And One Extra Copy to Each Club.

For every club of fifty, one copy of The Semi-Weekly Times to the getter-up of the club.

Address THE NEW-YORK TIMES, New-York City

NOTICE.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot, under any circumstances, return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

Register to-day, if not already registered. There is but one other day in which to qualify yourself for voting in this City, and it is always a mistake to endanger the performance of so important a duty by putting it off to the last moment. No earnest Republican can safely neglect to register this year. The election will be the most important which has taken place since 1860, and all that has been gained since that time in political progress is at stake in this contest. The party of repudiation, inflation and secession is putting forth its full strength; the party of honest money, honest union, and honest government must do the same. Register to-day.

We are glad to announce that in reply to an influentially signed requisition, Mr. William M. Evarts has consented to address a public meeting on the issues of the campaign. The address will be specially intended for the merchants and business men of New-York, and will be dilivered at the Cooper Institute, on the evening of Wednesday next. There is a large and intelligent class of voters with whom the opinions of a man like Mr. Evarts will have special weight, and we may fairly anticipate that his speech will form one of the finest intellectual efforts of the campaign.

Dr. Isaac I. Hayes and Messrs. Graef and Strahan received last night renominations for the Assembly from the Republicans of their respective districts; and Mr. Frederick W. Seward was nominated for the Senate in the Fifth District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Booth. All are nominations eminently fit to be made. The last named in particular, is a very wise selection and one likely to insure victory in a contest in which Republicans cannot afford to be beaten. There are three vacancies in the State Senate and all three seats were occupied by Republicans. As the party majority in the Senate was but six, its maintenance absolutely depends on the re-election of Republicans to fill the places left vacant by Senators Rogers, Harris, and Booth. We have no doubt that its Republicans of the Fifth Senatorial District can be trusted to do their part in retaining control of the upper house of the State Legislature.

We cannot find space for another long and rambling letter from Mr. St. Clair McKelway in defense of Mr. Talmage. We understand that Mr. McKelway does not profess to speak on the authority of the clergyman whom he thinks The Times has misrepresented and misunderstood. That being so, and as he admits that the main subject of controversy is "a matter of veracity" between Mr. Hallock and Mr. Talmage, he had better leave its further discussion to the principals in the case. To either or both of them our columns are open for statements of a reasonable length. Mr. McKelway's, unfortunately, do not possess that desirable quality.

The Commercial Advertiser gives currency to the rumor that "Hon. Smith Weed has induced a certain financial institution, of which the Democratic candidate for Governor is a trustee, to contribute $25,000 toward the election of Tilden and Robinson." It might be well for the Directors of the institution aforesaid to see that whatever grounds may exist for this rumor are promptly removed. It would be a decided mistake for this institution to permit any of its funds to be used for political purposes, and it would be no less a blunder to challenge investigation into the nature of the influence which has in the past been exercised over its affairs by Mr. Smith M. Weed. Decidedly the wisest course for the institution to pursue is to mind its own business and allow Tilden and Robinson to take care of themselves.

The Bangor Whig is in possession of a literary curiosity—The New School History of the United States. It is a text-book in use in the public schools of Virginia and in other parts of the South, prepared from the rebel stand-point, and perverting the facts of recent history with almost amusing shamelessness. The War for the Union is termed "The Sectional War," and Mr. Lincoln "the Sectional President." The right of secession is defined as a necessary part of State sovereignty, which had never been, for a moment, surrendered to the Federal government. Of Butler it is said that "he received the name of 'Beast,' and by the common consent of Europe and America that name has become historical." Robert E. Lee, on the other hand, is depicted as a hero, whose "great deeds won for him a world-wide fame, and enthroned him in the hearts of the Southern people." The assassination of Lincoln is glossed over with the remark that "Booth committed the act under the fanatical idea that the war would terminate, and the South gain her freedom, if Lincoln was killed." The pirate Semmes is praised as a distinguished naval commander; and the murderer Jackson as "a patriotic martyr," while his victim, Ellsworth, is characterized as a "famous 'rough.'" Such is history, as written for the Southern youth!

The notorious Ben. H. Hill, the apologist of Andersonville and the libeler of Northern prisons, has just repeated his speech, with malignant amplifications, amid the enthusiastic plaudits of his Georgia friends. We give in another column an outline of this characteristic specimen of Southern oratory. Mr. Hill, it will be seen, assails the North as "always on the offensive," and eulogizes the South as always on the defensive "under the Constitution." To this idea the Southern Democrat invariably sticks. The rebellion, as he states the case, was a fight for the Constitution, the rebels being the only patriots. To timid Democrats, who deprecate these frank declarations, Mr. Hill administers a rebuke. The Democratic Party, he reminds them, gains more than it loses by upholding "the honor of the Southern people"—which, in a certain sense, is true enough.

It would be interesting to know what is the present opinion of the Sun about the "judicial impartiality" of the Nation. It was exceedingly taken with the garbled and dishonest version of the case for and against Mr. Tilden which the Nation got up for the use of the Tilden Bureau, but when the Nation shows its sneaking and hypocritical affectation of fairness by pooh-poohing the charges against Mr. Calvin, the Sun will probably obtain a juster estimate of what the judicial-mindedness of that journal is worth. The Nation showed its crass ignorance of Municipal affairs last year, and deservedly incurred the contempt of honest citizens for its advocacy of Kelly and his ticket. It is beginning to show symptoms of Kellyism once more, even though his ticket is not adorned with the name of that eminent "Reformer," Mr. Peter B. Olney.

THE CONDUCT OF THE CAMPAIGN.

In the lexicon of politics, "independent" will hereafter have some new definitions. The idea originally attached to it is obsolete. It now means "carping," "querulous fault-finding," "an absurd affectation of superior virtue," "a hollow pretense of principle," and so forth. Thus, "independent journalism" signifies the newspaper service of one candidate while professing a desire for the success of his opponent—a literary habit of perverting, suppressing, suggesting, and falsifying in a manner which in other days would have been spoken of as venal and contemptible.

Now that the campaign draws toward a close, the "independent" journalist considers himself entitled to show how different the position would have been had his advice been followed from the start. Of course, he professes strong sympathy for the Republican candidates, and strong wishes for the success of their cause. Knowing on which side the intelligence and the moral forces of the country are found, he is careful not to allow Democratic proclivities to appear too plainly. He is sorry, sincerely sorry, that the Republican managers struck the wrong course, presented the wrong issues, and by sheer indiscretion have wasted their opportunities. He does not say that errors of this sort—supposing such errors to have been committed—at all change the aspect of the questions to be decided by well-informed and really honest voters; he merely hints, in a hypocritical fashion, that the Democrats have somehow got the advantage, and that the Republican Party will repent, in opposition, of their rejection of his "independent" counsel.

When through a maze of generalities we reach particulars, we discover (1) that our critic objects, without reservation or limitation, to any discussion of the character of the Democratic candidate; (2) that he would have confined the discussion to the financial question and the question of civil service reform; (3) that he would have eschewed the Southern question altogether, as one that has no bearing upon living interests, and that is distasteful to the better part of the community. A more disingenuous basis of criticism it is not possible to imagine.

The Fifth Avenue Reform Movement to which every "independent" professes allegiance, rightly made character the controlling test of a candidate's fitness. It was urged that in the present condition of parties, the man must take precedence of the platform, must himself be, in fact, a platform on which the party can safely stand. Had the Republican nominee been as vulnerable as certain of the gentlemen whose pretensions were heard at Cincinnati, the reformers might well have insisted that the party had stopped short of their standard, and had consequently forfeited their support. The nomination of Hayes averted this difficulty. The elements which effected his nomination were the best elements within the party, and the character and record of the man were in keeping with the spirit of the movement of which he became the exponent. So far the requirement of the reform conference had been met. The Democrats paid tribute to the same demand by at least pretending to rally under the banner of reform. Mr. Tilden was put forward as a reform candidate. Under any circumstances, his character would have been a fair subject of inquiry. As a reformer he challenged investigation, and it is puerile for journals like the Nation and the Springfield Republican to complain that the challenge was accepted and that the results have been unpleasant to the challenger. He is paraded as a reformer. What are his pretensions in this capacity? That is the gist of the inquiry which was instituted and which dishonest "independents" chose to call "the policy of personal detraction." Had Mr. Hayes cheated the Government or his clients, think you the Democrats would have withheld an exposure because of their dislike of personal detraction? The trumpery falsehoods they have invented furnish an answer to the question. They have made no headway against Mr. Hayes solely because his position as a man is impregnable. If Mr. Tilden has suffered, it is because he is a sham reformer—a man who has need to begin the work of reform by atoning for the frauds he has committed, and by doing justice to the clients he has wronged. We have never had an expectation that any revelation prejudicial to Mr. Tilden in any capacity would alienate from him Democratic votes. The thorough-going Democrat would vote for Mr. Stokes, at this moment of Auburn, or for Mr. Ellis, late of the Park Bank, if either of these worthies were put in the field by a regular process of party nomination. But genuine Independents and Reformers are not prepared to discard character in balancing Presidential candidates, or to ignore as mere "personal detraction" the mass of evidence that has been adduced respecting the bad faith and dishonesty of many of Mr. Tilden's transactions.

Whether too much or too little prominence has been given to finance and civil service reform, is a matter about which opinions naturally differ. Mr. August Belmont thinks that the Republicans have talked over-much in reference to the financial question, or he would have taken less pains to weaken the effects of their discussion. They fought the battle in Ohio mainly upon the financial issue; and the same issue is now kept so steadily before the business and moneyed classes, as to influence, perceptibly, the preferences of all but the pronounced partisan. The country understands that the financial difference between the two parties is the difference between a sound currency and a rotten currency; between a return to specie payments and their indefinite postponement; between the maintenance untarnished of the public faith and its subjection to the sinister rule of inflationists and repudiators. Of course, the disguised Tildenite objects to this version of the situation. He is indignant that imputations should be cast upon the integrity of his Democratic friends. They are cast effectually only because in the Republican management of the campaign the financial question has received the attention which the complaining Independents say ought to have been accorded to it. Again with regard to civil service reform. What Independent, what Democrat, has stated the merits of the question with the clearness and emphasis which mark the allusion to it in Mr. Hayes' letter of acceptance? And if it is a valid objection to the Republicans that they have discussed the question only as one of many, and not as the sole question of the canvass, what shall be said of the Democrats who have scouted the fundamental principle of civil service reform as chimerical and un-democratic?

As for the Southern question, the importance it possesses it has acquired since the campaign opened. On the part of the great body of Republicans, there was, at the outset, a sincere desire to exclude from the contest the sectional issue. It has been forced upon the country by the menacing attitude which the South has assumed, and by the fact that the main reliance of the Democratic Party is upon that section, which thus acquires control in the councils of the party, and would shape its policy if it were restored to power. The Southern Democrats must thank themselves if they are made inconveniently conspicuous in the canvass. Their purpose is to re-establish sectional domination, and the Republican Party would be false to its principles and history if it allowed the effort to pass unresisted, or were tempted by delusive promises of peace to neglect the essential conditions of national safety.

A POSSIBLE DANGER.

We pointed out on Tuesday that, in case any dispute should arise this year as to who had received the majority of the electoral votes for President of the United States, there is absolutely no tribunal with authority to determine it. Undoubtedly the framers of the Constitution supposed that they had guarded against any possible dispute on this question. They relegated to each State the appointment of Electors "in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct," leaving the State to provide also for the settlement of any difference as to the choice of Electors. Doubtless, it would be quite competent for any State to refer the question to whatever tribunal it might designate, and such action would be binding on Congress and on the country, so far as concerned the vote of that State. But, in fact, no arrangement of the kind has been made. The only regulation existing in regard to the matter is an old statute of Congress, passed in 1792, which directs simply that "the Executive authority of each State shall cause three lists of the names of Electors of such State to be made and certified, to be delivered to the Electors," and further requires that "the said Electors shall annex one of the said lists to each of the lists of their votes." These certificates establish the identity of the Electors, but that is all. If two certificates are sent in from two claimants to the Executive authority of a State, or if objection is raised to any vote for any reason, there is no means of coming to an authoritative conclusion.

Under the twenty-second joint rule there was a method of adjustment provided, and, though it was imperfect, open to much criticism, and liable to work grave injustice, it may be doubted if it was not better than nothing at all. By that rule, if a vote was objected to, each house withdrew and considered it, without debate, and voted upon it. If either house sustained the objection, the vote was not counted. This was certainly a crude way of treating the case. The objection might be arbitrary and sustained for partisan reason alone, and under its operation a State might be deprived of its vote in the Electoral College. The temptation to the House of Representatives, moreover, to raise factious objections was very great, because if by such means it was made impossible for any one candidate to have a majority, the election would go to the House for decision. But vicious as was this mode of arbitrament, it was at least a mode, and one which might, in certain not impossible contingencies, avoid difficulties of a very grave character. The joint rule has, however, been abrogated by the failure of the Senate to adopt it at the opening of the last session, and there is now no provision whatever for regulating the count of the electoral votes except the general provision of the Constitution, which is vague and defective.

A disputed election to the Presidency would be a misfortune, the extent of which no one can begin to measure. It was one of the most formidable of the dangers that presented themselves to the minds of the founders of the Republic, and the experience of the South American States shows how fruitful a source of misery and ruin such disputes may become. Our own history, happily, affords no example of them. We have had some narrow escapes, but we have never struck the rock. But it should be remembered that we have never approached the precise danger which now may be ahead of us. We have never seen a time when a contest on this point would be so complicated, would awaken such bitter passions, or would be likely to be more obstinate. Great closeness in the election would make a contest, if not probable, at least possible. If objection should be made, next February, to the counting of a sufficient number of votes to prevent either of the candidates receiving a majority, there would instantly arise pretensions, based on grounds of a certain plausibility, which no human tribunal could decide, and which would have to be disposed of, if at all, by an incredible degree of wisdom and forbearance on both sides.

To put the matter more directly before the minds of our readers, we will suppose a case similar to the one we suggested the other day. That was the case of Democratic objection to the vote of South Carolina, on the ground that the United States troops were stationed in the State at the time of the election. But objection might be made to the vote of New-York under certain circumstances. If the existence of extensive frauds were known in this State; if a policy similar to that to which the Tilden circular in 1868 was an important contribution were adopted; if it were ascertained that such a policy had reversed the actual vote of the State, and that on that vote depended the result of the Presidential election, is it conceivable that so great a crime, leading to so certain a public disaster, would be allowed to pass unchallenged? But if the result of objection were simply to throw the election into the House of Representatives, where the Democratic Party would still reap the fruits of their fraud, it is plain that the outrage would not be less. On the other hand, if the counting of the votes were delayed by such a dispute, the provision of the Constitution that the certificates shall be opened by the President of the Senate, "and the votes shall then be counted," would be practically rendered void. Again, suppose that either house should withdraw during the counting, as the only means of preventing the consummation of what it might regard as a great wrong, and the process could not be completed until the term of the President had expired, it is clear that the succession would become a centre of the most irreconcilable conflict. We have already shown that there is high Democratic authority for the view that, under these circumstances, the President of the Senate for the time being would be the acting President of the United States. But is it reasonable to suppose that the Democratic leaders, especially the desperate partisans in the South, would accept that view? If they did not, who can calculate the evil that might result?

There is one entirely sure means of preventing such a misfortune. It is to give the Republican candidate the electoral vote of New-York by such a majority as no frauds in this City or Brooklyn can overcome. We are sure of 157 electoral votes. New-York secured we should have 192. The electoral vote of South Carolina—the only one the Democrats can pretend to object to—could then be rejected and still have a clear malority for Hayes. The Republicans of New-York, therefore, have it in their power to say whether the nation shall be put beyond all possible peril of a baneful and threatening crisis. We trust that they will not be blind to the responsibility which rests upon them.

THE EASTERN WAR.

There is a capacity of fanaticism in the Mohammedans which is almost unknown to European races and religious. It was this fiery impulse, along with their remarkable ability in governing, which gave the Turks such conquest, and made them the terror of Europe for so many centuries. The old fires are now burned out; the race itself is degenerated, and is probably not capable of any great and sustained passion. Still, such impulses have a certain power from association and tradition. They may be kindled again temporarily. We should not be surprised at any moment to hear of an outburst of this ancient fanaticism among the ignorant classes of Constantinople, led by their theological leaders, the Softas, which should extend through the Empire.

Our readers must remember that the masses of the Turks know nothing of modern history or of the world outside the "Empire of the Faithful." All Christians and other races are simply Giaours and infidels. To them it is only needful to advance the Crescent, and the old career of Amurath or Bajazet could be repeated among the Sclavonic tribes on the Danube. The science and progress of the world are unknown to them. They look upon themselves as the natural masters of Asia and the provinces of Europe around the Black Sea and the Adriatic. To them the talk of peace with the infidel sounds weak and cowardly, and the yielding of provinces, especially after a victorious campaign against their old enemies, as the height of treachery and feebleness. This spirit will have to be considered in all efforts at settling the Eastern question, and we should not be surprised at its yet overthrowing all the wise schemes of diplomacy. It shows itself already in the assassination of officials; it no doubt threatens the lives of the new Sultan and his Viziers; and the foreign residents at Pera, who understand its savage nature, live in terror of it. When the plans of peace fairly unfold themselves, it will not be a surprising thing to hear of another insurrection at Constantinople, the Sultan deposed, and a general massacre of Christians attempted. The Mohammedan spirit when aroused is that of a tiger; it thirsts for blood. The massacres in Bulgaria are only a foretaste of what the Ottoman Moslems would present to the world if this fanaticism broke loose. Few people who have not resided in the East or studied Oriental history can estimate the truly savage and barbaric spirit of Mohammedanism and how utterly unsuited it is to modern conditions. Except among the half-savage tribes of Africa, and perhaps in its first preaching, this faith has been an almost unmingled curse to the world.

We have no doubt that in the negotiations which must soon take place over the new political arrangements of Eastern Europe, the tone and spirit of the Turks will most injure themselves and assist Russia. There will be some terrible outbreak, some new and combined series of brutal murders, some declaration of a "holy war" against the infidels, which will reveal to the diplomatists with what savages they are dealing, and convince them that, as a governing power, Turkey cannot remain in Europe. We have not, as our readers know, believed in the imminence of a general war; and have even doubted if there would be a war this Autumn between Turkey and Russia. Appearances point now either to an armistice or to an enforced peace during the Winter, owing to the difficulty of moving armies in those stormy and mountainous regions. Full time is thus given for negotiations. Russia may forward forces so as to compel a settlement of the points in dispute. And the position of Servia and Montenegro in determined hostility to the Porte will force the European powers to intervene. It is the interest of all Europe to prevent a war between Russia and Turkey, and to "localize" the present struggle. The threatening attitude of the Czar will only be another lever in the hands of the powers to force Turkey from her present position.

The issue of the negotiations must be the yielding of the Porte to the demands of united Europe. Still, there are various eventualities which may postpone this happy result. There may be the outburst of Mohammedan fanaticism of which we have spoken. There may be a movement of Russian ambition and excitement, which will go far beyond the limits of diplomacy, and open unknown fields of war and struggle. It is, of course, probable that the popular feeling in the Muscovite Empire may force the Government into a desperate and determined effort to drive the Ottomans from Europe and gain Constantinople. But we hear already of financial embarrassment in Russia. The country is not ready for a great war. The Czar is peaceful in his inclinations. It is uncertain what allies Turkey might have. The probability seems that the whole question may be settled by negotiation, and that the final settlement will be the formation of new Sclavonic States, paying a tribute to the Porte, but self-governing. This would come the nearest to satisfying all parties in Europe, and the Government of Turkey would have to submit.

FORGED FOSSILS.

Every one remembers the Cardiff giant, and the success which that fraudulent fossil achieved before its true character was fully exposed. It now appears that the alleged print of a human foot, which was said to have been recently discovered on a slab of Connecticut sandstone, is merely another attempt to palm off a forged fossil upon a confiding community. Not only does the print of the foot furnish intrinsic evidence that it was made by the foot of a modern Connecticut farmer, but the slab itself proves to be a lump of artificial stone. The forger first made his slab and then he put his foot in it. If he had not committed the rash mistake of using artificial stone, his deceit might have succeeded, and geologists might have accepted it as a final and fatal blow to Moses and his cosmogony.

These two instances of attempted fraud in the manufacture of fossils ought to call our attention to the fact that we are wholly at the mercy of the geologists in respect to fossils. Though the fraudulent character of the Cardiff giant and the Connecticut footprint has been discovered, how can we tell how many equally wicked forgeries have escaped detection? The geologists have the whole matter in their own hands, and if they choose to show us the handle of a tertiary tooth brush and call it the tusk of a pliocene rhinoceros, we have no means of refuting their assertion. They go up and down over the surface of the earth with their hammers and pick-axes hunting for fossils, and finding them in quantities so enormous as to necessarily awaken the suspicions of skeptical minds. They can boast that they know just where to dig for fossils, and will confidently assure a man, inside of whose house they have never ventured, that his back cellar is full of the remains of megalosurians. If they would be satisfied to exhibit only the complete skeletons of extinct animals, there would be some ground for accepting their assertions in regard to the preposterous beasts which they assure us existed in the dawn of the world's history, but when they show us a handfull of teeth, or an odd hoof, and insist that these relics form part of a lizard thirty-two hands high, and decorated with green wings and sky-blue proboscis, there is a tremendous strain on our credulity. The effrontery with which they thus request us to admit gigantic animals on the mere authority of a few inches of nondescript bone is really annoying. It is said of Cuvier that if you gave him a single thigh-bone, he would promptly construct, upon this flimsy basis, forty-seven distinct and entertaining fossil animals. Of course, this showed his ingenuity, but it also showed that paleontology affords a magnificent field for persons with a talent for constructing extinct beasts, birds, and reptiles.

No one doubts that fossils exist, and that very many of the fossils that are exhibited in our museums are genuine. The truth is, however, that the public is not in a position to discriminate between true and forged fossils, and is hence at the mercy of every unprincipled geologist. If, at the period when communication with China was extremely rare, some scientific person had obtained possession of one of those curious Chinese bottles containing a wooden ball much larger than the neck of the bottle, and that scientific person had called his strange toy a fossil, and had calculated that 3,000,000 of years must have elapsed while the glass bottle was slowly depositing itself around the ball, how could he have been satisfactorily convicted of imposing upon the public? Now, geologists are constantly finding caverns in which are deposited the bones of alleged paleolithic men. They inform us that the paleolithic man lived some 70,611 years ago, and that he usually carried a bushel of flints in his pocket, and never devoured a shoulder of mutton without subsequently engraving some amusing pictures on the clear-picked bone. How does the public know that the alleged bones of the paleolithic men are anything more than the remains of a scientific picnic, or that the accompanying flints were not placed by the scientific men themselves where they would do the most good? We have to accept all these things on the bare word of persons notoriously interested in the trade in fossils, and it would be difficult to show that we have any security whatever against paleontological frauds.

The Cardiff giant was skillfully made, and except that it was of gigantic size, there was nothing absolutely incredible in its appearance. On the other hand, skillful paleontologists have frequently made the most elaborate and impossible beasts out of plaster of Paris, and then required us to believe that these figures were exact representations of extinct animals. We know that the Cardiff giant was an imposture, but we should be called all sorts of names if we refused to believe in Mr. Waterhouse Hawkins' improved lizards and patent combined fish and serpent animals. Such animals may have existed in periods when the universe was in a chronic state of delirium tremens, but it certainly requires a good deal of faith to believe in them. And yet the very scientific person who scoffs at faith and professes to trust only to reason will thrust a shin bone six inches in length before the face of the public and remark that the man who does not believe that the bone is an icthyosaurus seventy-five feet long and eighteen feet wide is a bigoted foe of science and is the victim of the transparent falsehoods of John Milton. If we are to feel justified in believing in paleontology, we must be protected against forged fossils. We must not be left in a position where the footprints of a Connecticut deacon can be palmed off as the tracks of an extinct bird, or where the petrified ear of a Democratic statesman can be put in a museum and labeled "trunk of an extinct elephant." All genuine fossils should be stamped by the Government, and all false fossils should be destroyed and their authors condemned to hard labor in geological quarries. We shall then be able to put reasonable confidence in the "record of the rocks," and be ready to investigate the origin and history of the paleolithic man.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

"Consolidation of the Southern war claims with the national debt" is the plank in the unwritten platform on which Mr. Tilden asks the support of the "solid South."

The most striking example of Mr. Tilden's "great financial wisdom" was when he figured out that an income of at least $60,000 was only $7,118, and the best example of his "sacred honor" was when he took an oath that his figuring was correct.

See how I have reduced the debt of the State, cried the great reformer, when the State bounty debt became extinct, under the provisions of laws passed at a time when he was nothing but a railroad lawyer, cheating the National Government by false tax returns.

Mr. Tilden weeps over "the organization of the official class into a body of political mercenaries," and since he has been Governor of New York, he has not appointed to a single office under his control any but men who received it as the price, or the reward of their electioneering services in his behalf.

Mr. Tilden's followers delight to parade him as the modern political Hercules; but let any one investigate his career, and see if he has ever taken part in any great movement for reform until the end was made sure. The daring champion of reform never in all his life ventured into a contest for public good until he saw the victory was more than half won.

To see all the living members of the Sons of Liberty, Knights of the Golden Circle, White Liners, Draft Sneaks, Bounty Jumpers, Destroyers of Orphan Asylums, Incendiaries, Murderers of Negroes and Union Men, still defiant traitors, turning Reformers to restore the Ancient Purity—to contemplate such a spectacle, would split the sides of a wooden effigy.

In New-York City, where so considerable a percentage of the taxable wealth of the country lies, the payment of the Southern war claims is a sensitive and serious subject. The South, like its preferred candidate, has hitherto been more successful in escaping taxes than in paying them, so that the States not in the remotest degree beneficted, would have to foot the bills. The heaviest tax-payers may well think about these things.

Nine years ago Hon. Allen G. Thurman, now the Democratic leader of the United States Senate, ran against Gen. R. B. Hayes for Governor of Ohio, and was defeated. Thurman thinks that Hayes is a man of rather too much than too little "experience." Seven years ago Hon. George H. Pendleton, Democratic candidate in 1864 for Vice President of the United States, ran against Gov. Hayes for Chief Magistrate of Ohio and was beaten. Pendleton is of opinion that Hayes has decidedly too much experience. One year ago Hon. William Allen, a distinguished United States Senator from Ohio during Jackson's Administration, ran against Gen. Hayes for Governor of Ohio, and shared the fate of Thurman and Pendleton. Allen is not prepared to say that Hayes' experience is "a — barren ideality." In point of fact, Mr. Allen thinks that Hayes has had "too much experience in beating Democratic candidates for Governor and the Presidency."

Election Day Committees for every Ward and block in the City should be chosen at once. The time is too short to admit of delay. No organization is of any account unless it is systematic and thorough. There are hundreds whose interest and obligation it is to give their time to this important matter. It is the duty of all good citizens to do all in their power to secure an honest election, and to see that all they can legitimately influence shall deposit an honest Republican vote.

In September, 1869, Mr. Tilden publicly declared that certain canal officers he mentioned were "men of stainless probity and honor," and recommended the convention he was addressing to nominate men of the same stamp. Three or four years after, when Mr. Tilden was trading on "canal reform," and some of these same gentlemen opposed him, he discovered that they were canal thieves, public robbers, plunderers of the State, and that their opposition was grounded on fears that he would expose them.

Will Mr. Tilden, supposing he could be elected to the Presidency, administer national affairs as he did the railroads which have fallen into his grasp? Will he "consolidate" the national debt with the Southern war claims, as he "consolidated" the Chicago and Galena Railroad with the Chicago and North-western; use "proxy voting" as he did in "reorganizing" the St. Louis, Alton, and Terre Haute Railroad; and "appropriate" the bonds of the nation in the style he did the bonds of the "reorganized" road? The champion of "administrative reform" is altogether too shrewd a gentleman to be trusted. His "reform" is a very costly article to the beneficiaries of it.

Reform in the Civil Service, according to the last Democratic House of Representatives, at Washington, consists in turning out Union Soldiers and putting in their places Confederates. An admirer of assassins, Hambleton, who named his son John Wilkes Booth, was made clerk of the principal committee, and Messrs. Corcoran, Harvey and Mason were appointed resident members of the National Democratic Committee, by Mr. Lamar, the chief recommendation being that each of these Democrats had been in known sympathy with the rebellion. This is what Democrats do and will continue to do when they have the power.

Feeling certain of the votes of the Southern Democrats, Mr. Tilden, with a view of producing a favorable effect upon the vote of New-York, makes sundry promises and pledges concerning what he would and what he would not do about the payment of Southern claims if elected President. But having said in his letter of acceptance that "experience had repeatedly exposed the futility of self-imposed restrictions by candidates," he has thus himself declared the futility and worthlessness of the self-imposed restraints in his eleventh-hour promises. His Southern-claims pledges then, according to himself, are not worth the paper upon which they are written. The duplicity of this candidate is of such a monstrous kind that whether he makes two solemn public statements or two solemn oaths, he directly contradicts himself and compels us to believe that the truth is not in him. Think of such an evader of taxes and the truth filling the seat of Washington, Madison and Lincoln!

Mr. Tilden's pretended economies in the administration of the State Government will be put to the test in the next Legislature. The real reductions in taxation which have been made during his term were made by the operation of laws passed long antecedent to his term of office; but there a number of economies he claims to have made which are simply putting off the day of payment. Next Winter Gov. Tilden will not be a candidate for anything; and it will be seen how much the State has been saved by having to pay next year what it ought to have paid this. It was loudly asserted at one time that all outstanding canal contracts had been canceled, and that the fraudulent contractors would not get another cent. When the first of these—one Schaub—wanted his money he went into court, and so miserably did Mr. Tilden's Attorney General fail to make out a defense against the claim, that the State had to pay, not only the claim, but $5,000 additional to compensate the plaintiff "for unreasonable and vexatious delays."

If Gov. Tilden's reform canal officers imagine it is safe for them to use the canals for colonizing voters, they are much mistaken. It appears that they are putting large gangs of men to work at various points, where their services on election day will be most useful. The canals are full, navigation is proceeding as usual, and the excuse that the work is needed at this time is simply preposterous. Nothing has been done during the Summer, and nothing should be done until navigation has closed and the canals are emptied. This is the usual practice, but the authorities at Albany have suddenly discovered that work must be done at once. At Montezuma, in Cayuga County, a large body of laborers have been employed to "dig the prism to the depth of seven feet;" and at other places on the line of the Erie Canal more men have been engaged, who will on various pretexts be set to work in a few days. At Troy the construction of a new lock has furnished an opportunity to employ as many men as there are stones in the wall, and from a number of points on the lateral canals the same story comes of the sudden swarming of laborers wherever a look-gate needed a hinge or a cobble-stone had fallen out. The canals have done good service to Mr. Tilden in his electioneering, but this latest use of them is not likely to be tamely submitted to.

OBITUARY.

BARON VON PROKESCH-OSTEN.

A dispatch from Vienna announces the death of Baron Anton Von Prokesch-Osten, the Austrian diplomatist. He was born at Gratz, in Styria, on Dec. 10, 1795. In 1813 he entered the Allied Army, and after the capitulation of Paris became attached to the staff of the Archduke Charles, Governor of Mayence. Subsequently he held the position of Professor of Mathematics in the military school at Olmütz, and in 1818 became private secretary to Prince C. Schwarzenberg. His career as a diplomatist began in 1822. In 1833 he was dispatched to Cairo with a view to improve the relations between the Sultan and the Viceroy of Egypt, and in 1834 he was appointed Austrian Ambassador at the Court of Athens, where his persistent cunning was repeatedly foiled by the bold frankness of the British Envoy, the late Lord Lyons. In 1849 he was sent to represent Austria at the Court of Berlin, which position he held until 1852, and in 1853 he acted in the same capacity at Frankfort. He was sent to Constantinople at the close of the Crimean war, but afterward returned to Frankfort. He was the author of several works, and became well known as a numismatist. He was made noble in 1839, became a Baron in 1845, and was appointed Marshal and Counselor for the Austrian Empire.

HON. CHARLES E. DELONG.

A San Francisco dispatch says that Hon. Charles E. Delong died at Virginia City, Nev., yesterday, of typhoid fever. Mr. Delong was a lawyer by profession, and was at the time of his death about forty-five years of age. He went to California from one of the Western States while quite young, and distinguished himself in his practice at the Bar by his quickness, versatility, and readiness. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1859, and repeatedly represented Yuba County in both branches of the State Legislature. When Nevada was admitted into the Union of States, Mr. Delong removed to Virginia City, which he thereafter claimed as his place of residence. He was, in his early California days, a Douglas Democrat, as the Liberal Democrats were then called, but during the civil war he was identified with the Republican Party. At one time, he was a formidable candidate for the United States Senate against William M. Stewart, when that gentleman was elected to his second term. Subsequently, Mr. Delong was appointed Minister to Japan, which position he filled creditably from 1869 to 1873, when he was succeeded by Hon. John A. Bingham of Ohio. As a politician, Mr. Delong was active, fluent and highly popular. He had many brilliant parts, and had made the best possible use of his somewhat limited educational advantages.

THE GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—A special cable to the Evening Telegram from London, England, says: "The shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway held a meeting to-day, at which the relations with the Great Western were discussed and Mr. Childers' animadversions answered. Mr. Tyler delivered an able speech, and assured the meeting that the Board of Directors were thoroughly united. The report was unanimously adopted."

MR. TILDEN IN COURT AGAIN

SOMETHING FOR HIM TO ANSWER.

A SUIT TO RECOVER TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS "GRABBED" BY HIM IN A WALL STREET POOL—HOW HE "BORROWED" FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS OF THE CHICAGO AND NORTH-WE-TERN RAILROAD COMPANY— A NICE RECORD FOR A "REFORM" PRESIDENT.

From recent developments it would appear that the "true inwardness" of Mr. Tilden's remarkable career as a railway counsel, Trustee, and speculator has only been partially touched upon, and that when his whole record in this connection is laid bare it will startle the most hidebound of his supporters. A complaint and its accompanying affidavit which have been filed in the Supreme Court of this City in the suit of Henry H. Boody against Samuel J. Tilden and others, furnishes most interesting particulars of Tilden's connection with one of the greatest "jobs" ever "put up" in Wall street, viz., The consolidation of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad with the Chicago and Galena in 1864. It appears from the complaint that in June, 1864, Tilden, Boody, and others formed a certain "pool" for the purpose of buying up the stock of the Chicago and Galena Road and uniting it with the Chicago and North-western under one management. In the course of the operation 2,000 shares of the Galena stock were "carried" by the pool for Tilden without the latter advancing a single cent, although when the profits came to be divided he was the most eager to get possession of his share, and did actually succeed in getting $22,000 more than he was entitled to. The language of the complaint in reference to this extraordinary action on the part of Tilden is as follows:

III. That the said defendant, Tilden, as one of the associates in said joint or pool undertaking, on or about Aug. 22, 1864, though he had contributed no capital thereto, drew from said joint undertaking through plaintiff, as manager thereof, and said plaintiff, as such manager, paid to him as one of said associates, and which he received as such, the sum of twenty-six thousand dollars, ($26,000.)

* * * * * * * *

Wherefore the plaintiff demands as his relief in the premises.

First.—That an account may be taken of all said co-partnership or pool-dealings and transactions from the beginning thereof to the date of commencement of this suit (1875) and that account of the moneys and property received and paid out or retained by each of the said parties therein—the plaintiff and the said defendants (including Tilden) respectively, in regard thereto, with interest thereon—be taken.

Second.—That the respective defendants (including Tilden) be adjudged and decreed to pay to the plaintiff whatever sums, if anything shall, upon the taking of the said account, be found to be due from them to them or either of them to the plaintiff. HAWKINS & COTHRAN,

Attorneys for Plaintiff.

The only defense which could be set up against this action with any prospect of success is the statute of limitations. The other defendants are understood to have waived this plea, and indicated their willingness to submit the whole matter to arbitration. Tilden, after innumerable delays and repeated extensions of time in which to put in his answer, refuses to move in the case, and has within the past ten days procured an ex parte order of the Court, granting him a still further extension of thirty days in which to file his answer. By this equitable arrangement the whole matter is adjourned until after election, Tilden in the meantime holding the threat of "pleading the statute of limitations"—as in the case of Messrs. Pottier & Stymus—over the head of the defrauded plaintiff.

A STILL MORE SERIOUS CHARGE.

But Tilden's treatment of his partners in the Chicago and Galena "pool," although dishonorable enough, is a mere "peccadillo" compared to what followed, and which has from necessity been only partially alluded to in the complaint and affidavit. In the Spring of 1864 Mr. Boody held, as financial agent of the Chicago and North-western Railroad, the sum of $459,000 in funds of the company. Tilden came to him for the purpose of borrowing $60,000 to invest in some stock-jobbing operation, and when Boody informed him that he did not have that sum, Tilden, who was at this very time Trustee, counsel, and Director of this same company, and in his triple capacity bound to regard its property as sacred, demanded of Boody the loan of $60,000 of the company's funds held by the latter, and enforced his demand by reminding Boody that he [Tilden] had procured the deposit of money in his [Boody's] hands in the first place, and that the latter was bound in gratitude to advance it to him when called upon. Boody yielded to these solicitations, and gave him the money. In the course of several months it was paid back by Tilden, but without interest. Tilden, it is understood, also directed the use of the remaining $400,000 of the company's funds, in the carrying through of the "pool" already described. The question arises, what would a President of the United States feel himself at liberty to do with the cash intrusted to his charge, when, as a private citizen, he has personally procured the loaning to himself, without interest, and for speculative purposes, of the funds of the company of which he was the principal financial agent.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Ex-Gov. Warmoth is to take the stump for the Republicans in the Second District of Louisiana.

The Amsterdam Democrat hoists the full Republican ticket, State and national, for the first time in its history.

The New-Brunswick Fredonian claims that New-Jersey can be carried for Hayes and Wheeler by at least 3,000 majority.

Hon. John W. Foster denies that he had anything to do with the retirement of Mr. Wolcott as the greenback candidate for Governor of Indiana.

The Tildenites thought that they, too, ought to have a rally of Yale students. They tried it Tuesday, and succeeded in mustering thirty-seven.

The Burlington (Iowa) Hawkeye insists that on receipt of the war news from Europe the Tilden Guards of that city immediately disbanded and went to reading up on the military exemption laws.

The Louisiana Democratic State Committee has appealed to the business men of New-Orleans to close their stores on the day of the election, and to give all their attention to the polling of the vote.

The leader of a band in New-Haven complains that he cannot get his pay for helping the Democrats rejoice over their narrow escape in Indiana and their solid vote in Georgia. He says he only wants equal and exact justice, and if he can't get it otherwise, he will resort to the courts.

John G. Thompson has written to ex-Gov. Walker, of Virginia, a letter in which he makes the astounding declaration that the Republicans failed to increase their majority of last year in Ohio. Mr. Thompson wrote in the capacity of Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, which may explain the error.

The Republican Committee of the Sixth District of Kentucky has issued an appeal in behalf of the election of Col. J. J. Landram to Congress, and says: "Let every true man resolve at once to do his whole duty. We have a very large majority to overcome, but we will not believe that Kentucky, with her 80,000 majority for the Union in 1861, will now, in the day and hour in which the issues of 1861 are to be retrieved, forget her past history, and yield herself to those who sought the dismemberment of the nation."

The Mobile (Ala.) Register says: "It is urged that both white and colored voters go together to the polls and throw a united vote for the best interests of the South. To this we heartily agree, provided both whites and blacks shall unite on Tilden, Hendricks, and Jones. But it so happens that our colored friends wish precisely the reverse, and want us to go with them to the polls and vote for Hayes, Wheeler, and Bromberg."

Gen. Butler has printed his promised reply to Judge Hoar, and it proves to be a document of extreme length, remarkable for the sharp and pungent way in which he assaults his antagonist. He calls him an uncertain and unreliable Republican, points out how many offices he has held, in spite of his assertion that he had never held any by his own desire, and accuses him of taking retainers against the Government in railroad cases, adding that his quiver is by no means exhausted, and that he is "keeping a few arrows for the next fight."

The Elkhart (Ind.) Review glories greatly in the results in Elkhart County at the late election. It says: "She has shown, what we predicted would be made manifest, that the sham reform which had been made the policy of the party for two elections had worked out its own destruction. The people had been weighing it for two years, and it had not balanced the scales. Their verdict is before the public. In place of the Democratic majority of 264 on the State ticket, and majorities on the county ticket ranging from 100 to 290."

AMUSEMENTS.

GENERAL MENTION.

The second public rehearsal of the Philharmonic Society occurs at the Academy of Music, today, commencing at 2:30 o'clock. A smooth and forceful performance of the second act of "Die Walküre" can be expected. It should be borne in mind that repeated hearings of Herr Wagner's music are essential to its appreciation, and, hence, none of these rehearsals ought to be overlooked by persons interested in the writings of the composer of "Der Ring des Nibelungen."

The public rehearsal prefatory to Mr. Thomas' first concert took place yesterday afternoon. It was attended by one of the largest audiences ever gathered at Steinway Hall. The programme included Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, the Schubert-Liszt fantasie in C, for piano and orchestra, and Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet." Of the latter work we shall speak after its performance to-morrow evening; its first impression, as a whole, was not very favorable. On the other hand, the first part of the programme, yesterday, was delightful, for the Eighth Symphony was deliciously played, and the fantasia, with Mme. Schiller as the pianist, was full of animation, color, and variety. the final divisions being particularly well executed by the pianist.

The afternoon and evening performances given at the Academy of Music yesterday in aid of the funds of the Catholic Orphan Asylum were enjoyed by audiences that filled the house to overflowing. Representatives of most of the City theatres took part in the entertainment, one of the most amusing incidents of which was, during the afternoon, the farce of "Jenny Lind," with Mr. W. H. Crane as Granby Gag and Miss Eliza Weathersby as Miss Jennie Leathings. The affair was under the management of Mr. W. R. Floyd.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Henri Bertini, the author of numberless piano études, has just died at the age of eighty.

Mlle. Sangalli, the dancer, has returned to Paris, and will appear shortly in the ballet of "Sylvia," by M. Léo Delibes.

An old-fashioned comic drama, called "Mother Carey's Chickens," now precedes "The Great Divorce Case" at the Criterion Theatre, in London.

The reopening of the Paris popular concerts, under the conduct of M. Pasdeloup, took place on Sunday the 22d, at 2 o'clock, in the Cirque d'Hiver.

The operas in which Mme. Nilsson is to sing at the Imperial Theatre of Vienna, in January, are "The Huguenots," "Lohengrin," "Faust," "Mignon," and "Hamlet."

M. Victor Hugo appears resolved to prohibit the representation of "Lucrèce Borgia" at the Théâtre-Lyrique. Mme. Sass went herself to beseech him to give his consent, but her prayers were unavailing.

The fears that the San Carlo Theatre at Naples would not be open in the ensuing season are now dissipated, as, after long negotiations and much hesitation, M. Daniel Bortoli, impresario of the Regio Theatre at Turin, has become the director of the Neapolitan house.

Geoffroy purposes quitting the Palais Royal Theatre at the expiration of the agreement which binds him to the end of 1878, his health not permitting him to assume a regular engagement. He is now over sixty years of age, and he does not wish to undertake anything more than an exceptional part or piece at his convenience.

An oratorio, entitled "Giuditta," and written by Maestro Pacini, was interpreted at Catania, in Italy, on the occasion of St. Agatha's festa, a month or so ago. The music allotted to Giuditta was sung by Signor Maria Louise Swift, an American songstress, born in Massachusetts, we believe. Her solos were applauded to the echo.

The "Amoureux de Catharine" of M. Maréchal, which had only been represented a few times before the close of the Paris Opera-Comique, was about to reappear on the bills of that theater. The part created by Mlle. Chapuy was to be filled by Mme Puget. The revival of Felicien David's Lalla Roukh was to take place at the same theatre in a few days.

Miss Geneviève Ward is now studying under Régnier, with a view to appearing on the French stage. Meanwhile, she was to play, in Italian, Elizabeth to Mme. Ristori's Marie Stuart, at the Salle Ventadour, on Oct. 19, at a grand performance which the great Italian actress organized, at the request of the Mayor of Venice, in aid of the fund to erect a statue to the Italian dramatist Goldoni.

At the Porte St. Martin Theatre, in Paris, a new historical drama, entitled "Coq-Hardy," in a prologue and six acts, by M. Louis Davyl, has been produced with only moderate success. It is, says Galignani, a long, lumbering work, and on the first night completely tired out the audience. Since then it has been somewhat curtailed, but still drags on rather heavily. The scene is laid during the Fronde.

The disturbances at the Grand Theatre at Lyons had recommenced on the occasion of the performance of the "Huguenots," when M. and Mme. Galli were to make their third appearance. The former, a bass, was hissed and interrupted by a variety of noises, the audience being thoroughly decided in their opposition. Mme. Galli, a light soprano for grand opera, on the other hand, was duly received.

Mme. Patti, who was undecided as to whether she would be able to sing in Russia during the coming season, in consequence of indisposition, has now obtained permission from her medical advisers to fulfill her engagement. She will commence at Moscow in the second fortnight of November and afterward go to St. Petersburg, but her stay in Russia will be eleven weeks only. She will then be heard in Vienna and London, as usual.

A new drama by Mr. W. S. Wills, entitled "Jane Shore," and dealing with the adventures of that familiar personage, has been produced at the Princess, in London. The Telegraph says: As is always the case with Mr. Wills' plays, the literary merit of "Jane Shore" is considerable. The author's ear for blank verse is certainly not always accurate, and lines sometimes go tamely, but for the most part his dialogues and poetical. To what extent the fact that the play drags a little in the earlier acts is attributable to Mr. Wills can hardly be said until "Jane Shore" has been seen with a caste of more consistent strength, but it must be admitted that the dramatic construction is not faultless. On the whole, however, the drama is a remarkable one, and the magnificent scene in the fourth act would make the fortune of a far inferior production. It would require a work of altogether exceptional power to add to the reputation which has been won by "Charles I," but by "Jane Shore" this reputation will at least be sustained."

A GREAT ILLICIT WHISKY CASE.

DES MOINES, Oct. 26.—The United States Circuit Court, Judge Dillon presiding, has been engaged since the 10th inst. in trying one of the most important whisky suits ever brought in this country. In 1865 J. A. Rhomberg, a saloon-keeper of Dubuque, established a distillery there. In the Winter of 1865 he paid an assessment of $190,000 on account of frauds. In 1874 he was assessed the sum of $750,000, which he refused to pay. This suit is brought to recover the amount of his bonds $110,000. The Government is represented by the United States District Attorney, Col. Lane, of Davenport, and Col. Henderson, of Dubuque. The trial shows the immense amount of labor which has been performed by the counsel, by the Government and Revenue Agent Brown, in unearthing the frauds after a lapse of ten years. They were fortunate in procuring the book-keeper and another employe of Rhomberg, who testified to the magnitude of the frauds. Col. Henderson opened the case for the Government in an able speech, which occupied nearly eight hours. Col. Lane closed the case

THE PIANO WAR.

GEORGE F. BRISTOW, ESQ., JUDGE OF THE JURY ON MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AT THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION, EXPLAINS THE SITUATION.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 25, 1876.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Being desirous to learn the inside history of the piano awards, which are causing so much stir in the papers, and to try to unravel the mystery surrounding them, I was induced to seek Mr. George F. Bristow, the juror from New-York on musical instruments of Group No. 25, and get, if possible, a clear understanding of the matter, and as it is of considerable interest to your readers, I send you the result of my visit to Mr. Bristow, whom I found at his residence in Morrisania, where the following conversation took place.

While Mr. Bristow was exceedingly reluctant to speak of his associates, he did not hesitate to give his views of the difference of the awards in the following manner:

"You have no doubt seen the statements of rival manufacturers of piano awards in the daily press?

Bristow—Yes, sir, and being one of the jurors, have, of course, taken considerable interest in the discussion.

Who were your colleagues?

Gen. Oliver, of Salem, Mass.; Julius Schiedmayer, of Stuttgart, Germany, and Mr. Kupka, of Vienna.

Can you tell me who, of all the rival makers, did really carry off the highest honor? I see several claim it.

In order to understand it, I will have to say that this was not a competitive exhibition, and the judges had only to recommend giving awards; the medals themselves were given by the commission.

Then you did not give the awards?

No, Sir. Our duty was to examine the musical instruments, and give our reason why we recommended an award, and the report accompanying the medal is really the only thing valuable in connection with it.

Why so?

Because while we could not compare one maker's piano with that of another in our report, yet by giving the special qualities of each maker, it really amounts to the same thing at last.

That seems just where the difficulty is. No one seems to know how to make that clear, and it is for that reason I called upon you

Well, I will say, then, that when we had examined the pianos of about forty different makers, it was at once apparent that the two makers, Weber and Steinway, outranked all others to such an extent, that a resolution was offered in our committee, that these two makers stand so far in advance of the rest of the piano makers who exhibited, that we felt it our duty to especially recommend their pianos as superior to all others. But, under the rule of the Commissioners, that was not allowable; hence, we could not specially distinguish these two makers, Weber and Steinway, as they justly deserved, except in the Report.

Suppose these two makers had not been in competition?

Why, it would have been the play of Hamlet, with Hamlet left out, because from the first moment the whole interest centred on those two makers. The whole number of instruments was fine—very fine. It was such a collection of instrumentess, I dare say, had never before stood side by side in one room; but when we came to these two makers' productions, they were wonderful, and the examination altogether was, I may say, of the most severe kind.

Well the awards, as far as these makers are concerned, seem muddled; you see Weber claims a higher award than Steinway, and vice versa?

Well, when you examine the awards carefully, you will see the distinction is wisely made, and full of discrimination. Here you have Steinway's award:

'For greatest concert capacity in grand pianos, as also highest degree of excellence in all their styles of pianos, viz: Largest volume, purity, and duration of tone, and extraordinary carying capacity, with precision and durability of mechanism, also novel distribution of the strings.'

Here you have Weber's award:

'For sympathetic, pure, and rich tone, COMBINED with greatest power, as shown in the three styles, Grand, Square, and Upright Pianos, which show intelligence and solidity in their construction, a pliant and easy touch, which at the same time answers promptly to its requirements, together with excellence of workmanship.'

Now, Mr. Weber, in his card made public, hits the nail exactly on the head, by showing the difference. The Steinway is commended as the exponent of force, while the Weber instrument is commended for its human quality of sympathy, of sensibility, of a soul in the instrument, combined with greatest power.

Then you would call, and think that the Weber Piano was the best?

Weber's pianos were unquestionably the BEST PIANOS in exhibition. Weber's Grand Piano was the most wonderful piano I ever touched or heard.

Did the other judges think so, also? I think Mr. Schiedmayer favored Steinway very strongly, but if you will wait a minute I will get my book and give you the figures?

What do you mean by figures?

You see all the pianos were brought into "Judges' Hall" for examination, and we there agreed to mark in figures our opinion, and write out the report in full subsequently. Each piano was judged as to Tone, Quality, Equality, and Touch, the highest figure in each being 6, the lowest 1. Each judge made his figures on those points, and these figures were really the fundamental basis of all the awards, the corner-stone on which they all rest. All makers who reached in each point figure 3 and upward, received an award, and all below received nothing. Thus you see, the highest possible figure, adding up the numbers of each judge on each of the points, would be 24, or if all the judges agreed, the highest possible number for any instrument to reach would be 96, while those reaching 48 and upward would receive a medal, just the same.

Have you the figures of the other judges besides your own?

For my own satisfaction, before the judges separated, I asked them to give me the figures of several makers, especially on the grand pianos, and they either gave me their book to copy, or read them out to me.

Have you Weber's and Steinway's figures?

Yes, sir.

Can you give them to me?

I really think I had better not do so.

Why not?

Because I do not wish to be mixed up with the controversies of these two makers.

Well, you have already stated that Weber's Pianos were the best, and these figures certainly would be the surest test. It is not possible to express in words the superiority of one piano over another as positively and reliably as in figures.

Here then are the original figures; you can copy them for yourself.

WEBER.

	Bristow.	Kupka.	Oliver.	Schiedmayer.
Tone	6	6	6	6
Equality	6	6	6	5
Quality	6	6	6	6
Touch	6	6	6	6
Total	24	24	24	23—95

out of a possible 96.

STEINWAY.

	Bristow.	Kupka.	Oliver.	Schiedmayer.
Tone	5	6	6	6
Equality	5	6	5	6
Quality	6	6	5	6
Touch	6	6	6	6
Total	21	24	22	24—91

out of a possible 96.

Then Weber reached 95 and Steinway only 91?

Such is the fact.

According to these figures, Weber's pianos were certainly the best on exhibition!

That is beyond a question. Weber's pianos are undoubtedly the best in America, probably in the world?

Can there be any doubt as to these figures?

None whatever. I am ready to testify to them under oath.

Have you the figures of other makers?

Yes; but as the other makers do not reach near those figures, I hardly think they would relish them made public, and I certainly do not wish to hurt the feelings of any one. My aim was simply to show you that there really is no muddle."

While I really felt much obliged for Mr. Bristow's kind attention and elucidation, which I here acknowledge, and think I fully understand the matter, I hope it will be equally clear to your many readers. SPHINX.

FAILURE OF THE CONTINENTAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

A clap of thunder in a clear sky could not more have surprised the public than the simple announcement of "Failure of the Continental Life Insurance Company—Appointment of a Receiver," bulletined throughout the City on Wednesday last and telegraphed all over the world through the Associated Press. It was not credited for some time, and the office of the company, after the announcement, was besieged by eager reporters, seeking particulars. But a brief time confirmed the fact that it was but too true, and at once universal surprise, and regret were expressed from all classes, and with ominous shake of the head, the question would be asked, "Who next?"

Within an hour after the announcement of the failure of the Continental, rumor was equally current of the "Failure of the United States Life—Great Defalcation Discovered—Granting of an Injunction," &c., about which, as usual, Madam Rumor was wrong.

But one feeling of sorrow was expressed at the confirmed failure of the Continental. This was one of our enterprising, eminently successful companies. Though only organized in 1866, it had obtained a prominence and success well worthy the ambition of older companies. It had an efficient corps of indefatigable solicitors and General Agents, well located throughout the country. It had an unspotted name and unimpeachable credit. It had a board of officers pre-eminently qualified, by practice, experience, and culture for the positions they filled respectively, and whose integrity was above question. It had over $6,000,000 assets, and a surplus of over $710,000, with over $50,000,000 of insurance in force, and an annual income of over $2,500,000. It seemed to be doing a prosperous, as it certainly was doing, a large new, business. "Why, therefore, did it fail?" was the expression everywhere. Let us see.

It posessed nearly $800,000, at cost, of real estate, the present market value of which would not reach one-half of that amount. It had over $1,300,000 of assets invested on first bond and mortgage, which security, though at the time loaned was worth more than double the value of the loan, by recent reductions of values was rendered not worth the face of the loans, and on which heavy losses had been sustained. It had $1,900,000 of premium notes and loans, which were neither paid, nor available to pay losses. It found itself short of available assets, and could not secure them and maintain its "reserve." It had sustained very many heavy losses, and was troubled with troublesome State officials, who would not be postponed, but peremptorily demanded the pound of flesh required by the law, which to postpone or refuse was death. Rival interests, in some inexplicable way, had been made acquainted with these official troubles, and he times steadily drove the ship toward the rocks. The officers struggled day after day, night after night, week in and week out; counsel were summoned to avert the crisis if possible; suits, through some hitherto inexplicable influence, had been started ad infinitum. It was no use. It were mercy to cease the struggle by severing its legal existence, and thus save the company from going into the unfathomable clutches of a greedy Receiver interested in its total destruction, instead of protecting the interests of its policy-holders.

This conclusion having been arrived at, was acted upon at once, for an hour's delay might change the whole aspect of affairs, and put it beyond the power of the officers and friends of the company to save it from the disastrous consequences of a heartless Receiver. The facts being admitted, application was made before Judge Pratt, with the suggestion of a gentleman to take charge of the company, of unexceptionable integrity, Mr. John J. Anderson; the authority was at once granted, and Mr. John J. Anderson became the sole manager of the Continental Life Insurance Company.

The interests of policy-holders will now be fully protected. All losses will be duly met when due, without delay or reduction. Agents will continue to collect premiums as though no official change had taken place. In this way only could the rights and interests of the policy-holders be saved from the lawyer sharks. Under the unavoidable force of the present financial condition of the business of the country, the course adopted was not only a judicious one, but one which not to have adopted, would have been an act of inexcusable dereliction of official duty.

Policy-holders will also pay their premiums as though no change had taken place, and as soon as possible the company will readjust its investments, and it will resume its former position as one of the leading life insurance companies of the country.—Express.

SCHOOL SUITS.—Large stock at greatly reduced prices. BROKAW BROTHERS, Fourth avenue, opposite Cooper Institute.—Exchange.

THE MEDIÆVAL PAINTERS, in representing the angels, frequently conceived them as winged children. If mothers would have their children angelic in bloom and health, they should use B. T. BABBITT'S BABY SOAP, the pleasantest, purest, and best of toilet soaps. In this there is no poison. It is no less beneficial to the full grown, for it combines every valuable element.—Advertisement.

THE HIGHEST AWARD granted any exhibitor by Centennial exposition is given the ELASTIC TRUSS CO. for SILK ELASTIC TRUSSES. Sold only at 683 Broadway. —Advertisement.

Wilbor's Compound of Pure Cod Liver Oil AND LIME.—The advantage of this compound over the plain Oil is that the nauseating taste of the Oil is entirely removed, and the whole rendered entirely palatable. The offensive taste of the Oil has long acted as a prominent objection to its use; but in this form the trouble is entirely obviated. A host of certificates might be given here to testify to the excellence and success of WILBOR'S COD LIVER OIL AND LIME. But the fact that it is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty is sufficient. Sold by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston, and by all druggists.

Rupture Radically Cured by Dr. Marsh's RADICAL CURE TRUSS. Silk Elastic Stockings, Belts, &c. Shoulder Braces, Suspensories, and Abdominal Supporters. No. 2 Vesey st., (Astor House.) No Broadway branch.

Do You feel Nervous and Irritable, indisposed to exertion or action, and a prey to the freaks of a dyspeptic stomach? Then you need PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

Fortunate is the Baby Whose mother keeps MILK OF MAGNESIA in the house, since nothing so admirably regulates the digestion of a child.

Everdell's, 302 Broadway.—Wedding, ball cards, orders of dancing, foreign note paper; lowest prices. Established 1840.

Wanted, to cure a case of catarrh in each neighborhood with Dr. KARSNER'S REMEDY; to introduce it. Sample free. J. C. TILTON, Pittsburg, Penn.

Best place in New-York to buy Boots, Shoes, Gaiters, and India Rubbers for ladies, misses, gents, and boys is at MILLER & CO.'S, 3 Union square.

Use Brummell's Celebrated Cough Drops. The genuine have F. H. B. on each drop.

A $3 Felt Hat $1 90. Silk Hats $3 80, worth $6. No. 15 New Church st., up stairs.

To Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain, and cures wind colic.

MARRIED.

BEATTIE—DE LAMATER.—On Thursday, Sept. 28, at the residence of the bride's parents, this City, by Rev. Dr. White, JAMES BEATTIE to M. EMMA, eldest daughter of Benjamin de Lamater.

BURR—HARDENBERGH.—In Brooklyn, Thursday, 26th inst., by Rev. J. D. Wells, D. D., J. ARTHUR BURR to EMELINE A. HARDENBERGH, daughter of the late Joseph Seely, Esq. No cards.

KINCH—CHENEY.—At Elizabeth, N. J., Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1876, by Rev. James Montgomery, CHARLES A. KINCH, of Westfield, N. J., to CARRIE E. CHENEY.

MILLER—COOK.—At the residence of the bride's parents in this City, Wednesday, Oct. 25, by Rev. Dr. Howard, of Bath, N. Y., assisted by Rev. Dr. Miller, of Ogdensburg, Mr. ROBERT MILLER, of Bath, N. Y., to M. LOUISE, daughter of H. H. Cook, Esq.

OAKMAN—SAUNDERS.—At Pittsfield, Mass., on Wednesday, 25th inst., by Rev. Charles J. Hill, Mr. T. C. OAKMAN, of Fayetteville, N. C., to Miss MARY, daughter of Edward Saunders, Esq., of Pittsfield.

PAGE—SLAUVELT.—In New-York City, Oct. 24, 1876, by Rev. William Ormiston, D. D., CHARLES F. PAGE, of Flatbush, to HANNAH J., daughter of C. G. Blauvelt, Esq., of New-York City.

PIERREPONT EDWARDS.—WATERBURY.—On the 25th inst., at St. Peter's Church, West Chester, by Rev. C. B. Wyatt, D. D., PIERREPONT EDWARDS, Esq., British Vice Consul, to ANTOINETTE LAWRENCE, daughter of Lawrence Waterbury, Esq.

SCHWAB—WHEELER.—On Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, 1876, at St. James Church, Fordham, New-York City, by Right Rev. Bishop H. H. Clarkson, assisted by Rev. J. N. Blanchard, Rector, GUSTAV H. SCHWAB to CARLINE E. WHEELER, both of New-York.

STEELE—GOFF.—In Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 26, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Dr. C. Blodgett, assisted by Rev. Dr. N. J. Burton, Jr., T. SEDGWICK STEELE, of Hartford, Conn., and Miss SARAH C., daughter of Darius Goff, Esq., of the former place.

WHEELER—WICKES.—In Poughkeepsie, on the 25th by Rev. Dr. BRETTON, FRANCIS B. WHEELER, D. D., and CHARLOTTE PENNIMAN, daughter of Rev. T. S. Wickes. No cards.

DIED.

BARKLEY.—On Thursday, Oct. 26, 1876, of heart disease, JAMES BARKLEY, aged 67 years.

Notice of funeral hereafter.

BOWDEN.—On Wednesday, Oct. 25, ROSA, wife of Andrew Bowden, in the 31st year of her age.

Funeral from her late residence, No. 302 West 32d st., on Saturday, at 12 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

DIXON.—At Nyack, Oct. 24, CAROLINE, widow of John M. Dixon, aged 65 years.

Funeral from her late residence at Nyack, Friday, Oct. 27, at 1 P. M.

FLEMING.—At Scarsdale, N. Y., on the 26th inst., EMMA ATKINSON, relict of the late ALEX. FLEMING, of Bellows Falls, Vt., in the 82d year of her age.

☞ Vermont and Boston, Mass., papers please copy.

MARSHALL.—At the residence of her son-in-law, R. C. Miller, No. 1,100 Pacific st., Brooklyn, Tenth month, 26th, MARY B., relict of Asa Marshall, in the 73d year of her age.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend her funeral at Friends' Meeting-House, Annawalk, on Seventh day, the 28th inst., at 11 o'clock. Carriages will meet the 8:30 A. M. train from Grand Central Depot, Harlem Railroad, at Katonah.

MAXWELL.—Suddenly, at Mott Haven, Oct. 25, 1876, WILLIAM HENRY MAXWELL, in the 58th year of his age.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, Buena Ridge, on Friday, Oct. 27, at 11:30 A. M.

MILLER.—In Brooklyn, on Thursday, Oct. 26, JOHN MILLER, aged 70 years and 3 months.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend his funeral from his late residence, No. 575 Lafayette av., corner of Nostrand av., on Saturday, Oct. 28, at 2 o'clock P. M., without further notice.

MORSE.—Suddenly, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, 1876, PETER H. MORSE, in the 64th year of his age, son of the late John Morse.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend his funeral from his late residence, No. 214 West 59th st., on Saturday, Oct. 28, at 1 o'clock P. M.

MICHAELIS.—MARGARET MICHAELIS, wife of Nathan Michaelis, on Thursday, Oct. 26, in the 31st year of her age.

The funeral takes place Friday, Oct. 27, at 10 A. M., from the residence, No. 233 West 38th st.

MOORE.—On Wednesday, Oct. 25, at Leonia, N. J., CLARISSA VREELAND, widow of the late Samuel J. Moore, in the 76th year of her age.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend her funeral, from her late residence, on Saturday, Oct. 28, at 11 o'clock A. M. Northern Railroad train leaves foot of Chambers st. at 9:45 A. M.

OLSEN.—At Annadale, N. Y., on Wednesday night, the 25th inst., MARY E. OLSEN, only daughter of the late EDWARD J. OLSEN, of New-York.

Funeral service on Saturday, the 28th inst., at the Church of Saint James the Less, Scarsdale, N. Y., on arrival of the Harlem R. R. train leaving Grand Central Depot at 11:30 A. M. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

OLMSTED.—At Princeton, N. J., Wednesday, Oct. 25, GEORGE Y. OLMSTED, in the 74th year of his age.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, on Friday, Oct. 27, at 2 P. M.

ROGERS.—At Sailors' Snug Harbor, on Wednesday, Oct. 25, Capt. GEORGE H. ROGERS.

Funeral from the Chapel, on Saturday, at 10 A. M.

RICHARDSON.—In Hartford, Conn., Oct. 24, of typhoid pneumonia, ELIZABETH, wife of Prof. Leonard Woods Richardson, and daughter of Rev. D. R. Austin, of South Norwalk.

Funeral from her late residence, No. 70 Jefferson st., at 3 P. M. on Friday, the 27th. Burial private.

ROUD.—At Harlem, on Thursday, Oct. 25, SOPHIA GIRDON, wife of William H. Rudd, and daughter of the late Capt. James Girdon, of Philadelphia, in the 73d year of her age.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from her late residence, No. 25 East 133d st., on Sunday, Oct 29, at — P. M.

☞ Philadelphia papers please copy.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

UNDERSHIRTS

AND DRAWERS

AT LOW PRICES.

WARD'S.

381 BROADWAY, CORNER WHITE ST.

862 BROADWAY, CORNER 14TH ST.

1,121 BROADWAY, CORNER 25TH ST.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 19, 1876.

The foreign mails for the week ending SATURDAY, Oct. 28, 1876, will close at this office on TUESDAY, at 7 A. M. for Europe per steam-ship Montana via Queenstown. On WEDNESDAY, at 7:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Russia via Queenstown. On THURSDAY, at 11:30 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship Cimbria via Plymouth, Cherbourg, and Hamburg. On SATURDAY, at 10 A. M., for Europe per steam-ship City of Chester via Queenstown. Correspondence for Scotland, Germany, and France to be forwarded by this steamer must be specially addressed. And at 10 A. M. for Scotland direct per steam-ship California via Glasgow, and at 11 A. M. for France direct per steam-ship France via Havre; and at 11:30 A. M., for Europe, per steam-ship Manet via Southampton and Bremen. The steam-ships Montana, Russia, and City of Chester do not take mails for Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. The mails for the West Indies via Bermuda and St. Thomas will leave New-York Oct. 26. The mails for China, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 1. The mails for Australia, &c., will leave San Francisco Nov. 8, 1876. T. L. JAMES, Postmaster.

THE MESSRS. LEAVITT, Auctioneers.

THIS FRIDAY EVENING AT 8 O'CLOCK,

AT THE CLINTON HALL SALE-ROOMS.

SECOND AND LAST EVENING'S SALE OF PAINTINGS by the GREAT MODERN MASTERS OF EUROPE,

Without limit or protection of ANY KIND WHATEVER, as per catalogue.

Now on exhibition, free, at the Art Rooms, No. 817 Broadway.

HON. DANIEL DOUGHERTY, OF PHILADELPHIA, will address the citizens of New-York in the hall of the Cooper Union THIS (FRIDAY) EVENING at 8 o'clock. Hon. Hiram Barney will preside. Tickets for reserved seats may be obtained of John T. McGowan, Esq., No. 150 Broadway.

STUART WILLIS, ATTORNEY AND Counsellor at Law, Notary Public, No. 132 Broadway, Room No. 4 New-York.

N. B.—Special attention paid to settling "estates," conveyancing, and City and country collection.

ALBERT SMITH, NO. 516 6TH AV., ONE door below 31st st., New-York.—Dealer in fine Marketing, Fish, Oysters, &c. Good Beef a Specialty. City and Country Orders receive prompt attention. Branches, No. 210 West 35th st. and No. 540 9th av.

KEEPS PARTLY-MADE DRESS SHIRTS.—The very best, six for $6; can be finished as easily as hemming a handkerchief. No. 571 Broadway and No. 921 Arch st., Philadelphia.

COUGHS, HOARSENESS, AND ALL DISEASES of the throat and lungs. Speedy and certain cure. HEGEMAN'S TOLU AND LIVERWORT EXPECTORANT. Sold by all druggists. Only 50c. per bottle.

CONSTITUTIONAL DISEASES FROM BLOOD Poisons, pollution, taint, or absorption of infectious diseases, all treated upon in Dr. HEATH'S book, free to any address. Offices No. 200 Broadway, New-York.

TREES.—NOW IS THE BEST TIME TO PLANT. Silver Maple, $20; Apple-trees, $20 per 100; large stock. P. H. FOSTER, Babylon, N. Y.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEARLY READY.

DIERDRE.

JUST READY, FOURTH 1,000,

MERCY PHILBRICK'S CHOICE.

From the New-York Tribune.

It is a pleasure, in these days, to get hold of a new American novel which manifests both culture and literary skill. The author of "Mercy Philbrick's Choice" is evidently a woman (?) who looks upon authorship as something more than a pastime—a woman of clear, intelligent tastes and distinct aspirations. The refined quality of her (?) intellect impresses itself upon the story from first to last.

PRICE, $1.

Sold by all booksellers; mailed, postpaid, by the publishers,

ROBERT

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

NEW YORK, Thursday, Oct. 26, 1876.

Under resolutions recently adopted, the Produce and Cotton Exchanges were closed to-day, and the officers and members of those institutions proceeded, in a collective body, on an excursion trip, by special train, to the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. Numbers of representative merchants, from other important trade interests, joined the excursion party. As resulting from this movement, transactions, in the wholesale line, in produce and merchandize, were quite generally suspended, leaving commercial values, as a rule, nominally as last quoted. Cotton, Breadstuffs, Provisions, Naval Stores, Petroleum, and other leading articles of produce were measurably neglected. And for general merchandize, of most descriptions, very little inquiry was noted....Coffee was 1/4c. higher, with sales of 5,034 bags Rio, per Pentoppidan, on private terms; 3,000 bags do., per Lamoyne; and 5,131 bags do., per Larkin, to arrive from Hampton Roads, on private terms; and 4 at Baltimore, 1,000 bags, per Mesarnia, on private terms; Raw Sugar—Strong on the basis of 9 1/4c.@9 1/2c. for fair to good Refining, with sales of 900 hhds. Muscovado at 9 3-16c.; 2,000 hhds. Centrifugal, part at 10c.; and 5,500 bags Pernambuco at 9 1/2c. Of Linseed, 3,000 bags ex-Whittington sold at $2, gold. The auction sale of Tea went off at rather easier prices, some 3,100 pkgs. sold at 20c.@30 1/2c. for Pinganey; 34c.@64c. for Japan; 26 1/2c.@27 1/2c. for Foochow; Oolong; 18c.@36c. for Oolong; and 29c.@37 1/2c. for Congou. The receipts of the principal kinds of Produce since our last have been as follows:

Ashes, pks	40	Hemp, bales	10
Beer-wax, pks	4	Hops, bales	2,756
Beans, bush	2	Leather, sides	4,653
B. W. Flour, bags	47	Oil, bbls	50
Dried Fruit, pks	57	Lard-oil, bbls	22
Eggs, bbls	766	Butter, pks	3,164
Meal, bbls	100	Cheese, pks	7,457
Copper, cakes	318	Lard, tcs	88
Flour, bbls	1,598	Pork, pks	371
Wheat, bushels	19,923	Rice, pkgs	40
Corn, bushels	50,000	Starch, pks	35
Oats, bushels	7,500	Tallow, pks	3
Barley, bushels	9,350	Tobacco, hhds	3
Rye, bushels	8,200	Whisky, bbls	150
Grass-seed, bags	376

THE LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

BUFFALO, Oct. 26.—Cattle—Receipts to-day, 68 head; total for the week thus far, 6,307 head; 8,751 head in the same time last week, showing a decrease of 142 cars as compared with last week; no market; fresh receipts consigned through. Sheep and Lambs—Receipts to-day, 600 head; total for the week thus far, 12,400 head; 21,800 head for the same time last week; market dull and slow; 5 cars of Sheep and 1 car of Lambs were disposed of; prices full and weak at yesterday's quotations; 3 cars of Canada stock unsold; balance Western sheep shipped East to-morrow; receipts of Western Sheep at $4 35@$4 55; medium to fair quality of Canada Sheep and Lambs at $5 12 1/2. Hogs—Receipts to-day 5,500 head; 20,700 head for the same time last week; 26,300 head for the same time last year; under heavy receipts the market was dull and dragging, and prices were lower; 12 cars of Yorkers and 4 cars of heavy Hogs were disposed of; full $5 cars, mostly light weights, were unsold; quoted Yorkers fair to best at $5 50@$5 75; mostly best grades at top prices; common to medium at $5 25@$5 40; heavy hogs good to prime at $5 75@$5 90, and a few at $6; sales of Canada stock at $5 75@$5 90, and a few at $6; market closing dull at the range.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,100; shipments, 1,400; market more active and prices firmer; one drove of American, averaging 1,575 lbs., sold at $4 85; another, averaging 1,610 lbs. sold at $4 90; these are the highest figures of actual sales for some weeks; 2 cars of Canada stock sold at $4 35@$4 45; fair to good Steers, $3 50@$4 25. Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; shipments, 2,400; market steady and firm; demand good; common to extra, $5 75@$6 20; sales of good to choice at $5 80@$6. Sheep—Receipts, 1,600; market active, but a shade lower and weak; sales at $3@$4 10.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 26.—The receipts of Cattle at East Liberty to-day were 323 head, all through stock, making the total supply for the past three days 3,808 head; good to best, $3 50@$5; fair to medium, $3 50@$4 25; common, $2 75@$3 25. Hogs—Receipts to-day, 2,030 head, making the total supply for the past three days 1,068 head; Yorkers, $5 50@$5 80; Philadelphias, $5@$6 25. Sheep—Receipts to-day, 100 head, making the total supply for the past three days 1,200 head; selling at $3 50@$4.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Flour quiet, but steady; common to fancy Western Extras, $4 50@$6 25; Minnesota Extras, $6 50@$7; Winter Extras, $5@$7 25. Wheat inactive and lower; No. 1 Chicago Spring, $1 12 1/2@$1 13 1/2; No. 2 do., $1 10 1/2 cash; $1 11, November; $1 13 1/2, December; No. 3 Chicago Spring, 97c.@$1 02 1/2; rejected, 87c.@93c. Corn inactive and lower; 42 3/4c. cash; 42 5/8c. November. Oats dull and drooping at 32 1/2c., all round. Rye firmer at 61 1/2c. Barley firm at 85c. all round. Pork dull, weak, and lower; $15 75@$16. Lard dull; $9 40@$9 45, cash; $9 30, all the year. Bulk Lard dull, weak, and lower; new, $9 75 cash; $10 40, October; $9 50, November; $9 35, all the year. Bulk-meats dull and 1/4c. lower; shoulders, 6 3/4c.; sides, 8 3/4c.@9c. Whisky steady and unchanged. Freights easier; Wheat to Buffalo, 3d cash, 4 3/4d. Chicago Railroad Freights—To New-York, 20c. A rise is anticipated on account of a meeting in New-York to-day, but no official notification has been received. Receipts—Flour, 10,000 bbls.; Wheat, 73,000 bushels; Corn, 147,000 bushels; Oats, 49,000 bushels; Rye, 9,000 bushels; Barley, 32,000 bushels. Shipments—Flour, 8,000 bbls.; Wheat, 97,000 bushels; Corn, 15,000 bushels; Oats, 2,000 bushels; Rye, 400 bushels; Barley, 18,000 bushels. At the afternoon call of the board: Breadstuffs are unchanged. Pork lower; $15 35, October; $15 37 1/2 all the year. Lard lower; $9 32 1/2 all the year.

BUFFALO, Oct. 26.—Receipts—Lake—Flour, 2,500 bbls.; Corn, 27,000 bushels; Wheat, 288,000 bushels; Barley, 60,850 bushels; Rye, 1,800 bushels. Railroads—Flour, 3,300 bbls.; Corn, 11,800 bushels; Wheat, 14,000 bushels; Oats, 15,400 bushels; Barley, 5,600 bushels; Rye, 2,000 bushels. Shipments—Canal to Tide-water—Corn, 9,000 bushels; Wheat, 7,800 bushels. Interior Points—Corn, 4,185 bushels; Wheat, 24,600 bushels. Railroads—Flour, 6,000 bbls.; Corn, 21,000 bushels; Wheat, 59,000 bushels; Oats, 14,000 bushels; Barley, 5,600 bushels; Rye, 2,200 bushels. Flour quiet; sales 700 bbls. at unchanged prices. Wheat neglected; sales, 500 bushels No. 2 Milwaukee at $1 24 1/2; 1 car of Sample White at $1 31; No. 1 Spring held at $1 30. Corn quiet; sales 26,000 bushels No. 2 Mixed Toledo at 55 1/2c.@56c. Oats and Rye—Nothing doing. Barley—Light sales of State quoted at 72c.@85c.; Canada, 92c.@95c. Malt—A fair trade demand; quotations unchanged. Seeds unchanged. Highwines unchanged. Pork and Lard quiet and unchanged. Canal Freights firm; quoted at 10c. for Wheat, 9 1/2c. for Corn, 9 1/2c. for Rye, 8 1/2c. for Barley and 7c. for Oats to New-York, tolls included. Railroad Freights to New-York—Wheat, 80c.; Corn, 7 1/2c.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—Flour quiet and unchanged. Wheat inactive and lower; No. 2 Red Fall, $1 24 1/2@$1 24 1/4 cash; $1 26, November; No. 3 Red Fall, $1 14 1/4 cash; $1 18, December. Corn fairly active and a shade higher; No. 2 Mixed, 40 3/4c.@41c. cash; 40 1/4c. all the year. Oats inactive; No. 2 at 32 1/2c.@33c. Barley firm and unchanged. Rye firm and unchanged. Whisky inactive and lower at $1 10. Pork held higher at $17 25, asked; only jobbing trade. Lard quiet and unchanged. Bulk-meats quiet and unchanged. Bacon quiet and unchanged. Hogs strong; Yorkers, $5 30@$5 45; Bacon, $5 40@$5 55; Butchers' and Fancy, $5 60@$5 80. Cattle steady and unchanged. Receipts—Flour, 3,000 bbls.; Wheat, 43,000 bushels; Corn, 37,000 bushels; Oats, 6,000 bushels; Rye, 3,000 bushels; Barley, 17,000 bushels; Hogs, 1,000 head; Cattle, 1,200 head.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26.—Flour steady and unchanged. Wheat quiet and lower; Red $1 15@$1 26. Corn quiet at 47c.@48c. Oats steady at 30@38. Rye dull at 68c. Barley dull and lower at $1 05@$1 10. Pork strong and higher; market appears to be cornered; sales at $16 25@$16 50, closing with the latter bid. Lard irregular; new $9 50@$9 65; old nominally $10 00; kettle rendered 10 1/2@10 3/4. Bulk-meats dull and lower; shoulders 6 3/4c.; Clear Rib Sides 8c.; Clear Sides 8 1/4c.@8 3/4c. Bacon easier; Shoulders 7 3/4c.@7 7/8c.; Clear Rib Sides 9c.@9 1/8c.; Clear Sides 9 1/2c.@9 3/4. Whisky inactive and lower at $1 10. Butter dull and unchanged. Hogs active, firm and higher; Common Lights $5 00@$5 40; Fair to Good Lights $5 50@$5 70; No. 1 heavy $5 60@$5 85; receipts 1,418 head; shipments 805 head.

OSWEGO, Oct. 26.—Flour steady; No. 1 Spring, $7 @$7 25; Amber Winter, $7 25@$7 50; White Winter, $7 50@$7 75; Double Extra, $7 75@$8; concessions are made on round lots; sales, 18,000 bbls. Wheat firm, quiet and lower; No. 1 Hallowell Club, $1 30; No. 1 White Michigan, $1 37 1/2. Extra White Michigan, $1 42. Corn quiet at 58c.@59c. Barley in moderate demand; sales of 10,000 bushels Canada, by sample, at $1 04; 2,000 bushels do. at $1 14; 3,000 bushels do. at $1 17. Corn-meal unchanged. Mill-feed unchanged. Canal Freights higher but unsettled; asking an advance of 1c. Lake Receipts—Wheat, 24,000 bushels; Corn, 36,500 bushels; Barley, 42,000 bushels; Lumber, 693,000 feet. Canal Shipments—Barley, 95,000 bushels; Lumber, 955,000 feet. Railroad Shipments—Flour, 1,900 bbls.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 26.—Flour quiet and unchanged. Wheat opened unsettled at 2c. decline and closed firmer; No. 1 Milwaukee, $1 18 1/2; No. 2 do., $1 12 1/2; November, $1 12 7/8; December, $1 13 1/8; No. 3 Milwaukee, $1 05. Corn unsettled, opened firmer; No. 2 at 49c.@49 1/2c. Oats steady, with a fair demand; No. 2 at 32c. Rye in fair demand but lower; No. 1 at 64c. Barley scarce and firm; No. 2 Spring at 86 1/2c.@87c.; No. 3 do. weak at 49c.@49 1/2c. Provisions inactive, nominally unchanged. Mess pork, $16. Prime Steam-rendered Lard, 9 1/2c. Kettle do., 10 1/2c. Freights quiet, but steady; Wheat to Buffalo, No. 3, 3 1/2c.; wheat to Oswego, 9 1/2c. Receipts—Flour, 10,000 bushels; Wheat, 59,000 bushels. Shipments—Flour, 8,000 bushels; Wheat, 53,000 bushels.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 26.—Flour generally unchanged, but some sales rather higher. Wheat steady, with a good demand; Red, $1 19@$1 20; Amber, $1 20@$1 25; White, $1 15@$1 30. Corn quiet and unchanged. Rye in fair demand at 68c. Oats in fair demand; White, 36c.; Mixed, 34c. Pork nominal. Bulk-Meats scarce and firm; no Shoulders in the market; Clear Rib sides, 8 1/2c.@8 3/4c.; Clear Sides, 9c. Bacon steady, with a good demand; Shoulders, 7 3/4c.; Clear Rib Sides, 9 1/2c. Sugar-cured Hams, 13 1/2c. Lard in fair demand; tierces, 11 1/4c.@11 3/4c.; kegs, 12c. Whisky steady and unchanged.

TOLEDO, Oct. 26.—Flour steady. Wheat firm; No. 2 White Wabash, $1 30; No. 3 do., $1 25; No. 1 White Michigan, $1 27; Extra White Michigan, $1 30; Amber Michigan, $1 22 1/2; October, $1 22 1/2; December, $1 25; No. 2 Amber Michigan, $1 14; No. Red Winter, $1 20; No. 2 do., $1 19; November, $1 20 1/2; No. 3 Red, $1 14. Corn dull; High Mixed, 49 1/2c.; Low Mixed, new, 47c.; Damaged, new, 39c.; no grade, 47c.; new do., 44 1/2c. Oats dull and nominal. Receipts—Flour, 700 bbls.; Wheat, 36,000 bushels; Corn, 29,000 bushels; Oats, 3,000 bushels. Shipments—Flour, 600 bbls.; Wheat, 48,000 bushels; Corn, 31,000 bushels; Oats, 3,000 bushels.

NEW-ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—Corn-meal strong and higher; held at $2 75. Sugar quiet and weak; fair to fully fair, 7c.@7 7/8c.; prime, 8c.@8 1/4c.; Yellow clarified, 9 1/2c.@9 3/4c. Molasses dull, weak, and lower; fair, 55c.@56c.; prime, 55c.@57c.; choice, 58c.@59c. Other articles unchanged. Exchange—New-York, sight, 1/2 discount; Sterling, $5 29 for the bank; Gold, 110 1/4@110 3/4.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Flour quiet and unchanged. Corn firm and in fair demand; Mixed and Yellow, 63c.@66c. Oats—Low grades plenty; choice scarce; No. 1 White, 49c.@52c. Rye unchanged. Shorts, $14@$14 50; fine Feed, $15 50@$16 50. Receipts—Flour, 9,448 bbls.; Corn, 36,105 bushels; Oats, 12,600 bushels; Shorts, 10,200 bushels; Barley, 4,670 bushels.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 26.—Printing Cloths were dull and weak, with some sales reported on the basis of 4 1/4c.@4 5/8c. 30 days, for best 64x64 goods.

WILMINGTON, N. C. Oct. 26.—Spirits of turpentine dull at 32 1/2c. Resin firm at $3 50 for strained. Tar firm at $1 70.

THE COTTON MARKETS.

NEW-ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—Cotton firm; Middling, 10 3/4c.; Low Middling, 10 3/8c.; Good Ordinary, 9 3/4c.; net receipts, 3,241 bales; exports to Great Britain, 876 bales; to the Channel, 1,016 bales; sales, 3,036 bales; stock, 56,286 bales.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 26.—Cotton firmer; Middling, 10 3/4c.@10 5/8c.; Low Middling, 10 1/4c.@10 3/8c.; Good Ordinary, 9 1/4c.; net receipts, 3,521 bales; exports to Great Britain, 1,900 bales; sales, 3,500 bales; stock, 84,426 bales.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 26.—Cotton quiet and easy; Middling, 10 1/4c.; Low Middling, 9 7/8c.; Good Ordinary, 9c.; net receipts, 2,922 bales; gross, 3,074; exports coastwise, 2,438 bales; Stock, 70,061 bales; sales, 1,250 bales.

MOBILE, Oct. 26.—Cotton firm; Middling, 10 1/4c.@10 3/8c.; Low Middling, 10 1/8c.; Good Ordinary, 9 3/8c.@9 3/4c.; net receipts, 2,143 bales; exports coastwise, 1,193 bales; sales, 1,500 bales; stock, 31,507 bales.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

LONDON, Oct. 26—12:30 P. M.—Consols, 94 15-16 for both money and the account. United States Bonds—New 5s, 106 1/4. Erie Railway Shares, 10 1/2.

1:30 P. M.—Consols, 95 1/4 for both money and the account.

3:00 P. M.—Consols, 95 3-16c. for both money and the account.

3 P. M.—The proportion of the Bank of England reserve to liability, which last week was 54 3/4 P cent., is now 55 1/4 P cent. The bullion in the Bank of England has decreased £383,000 during the past week.

4 P. M.—United States Bonds, 1867s, 108 1/2; new 5s, 106 3/8. Erie Railway Shares, 10 1/4. Paris advices quote 5 P cent. Rentes at 104f. 55c. for the account.

FRANKFORT, Oct. 26.—United states Bonds—New 5s, 102.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The specie in the Imperial Bank of Germany has increased 2,783,000 marks during the past week.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The specie in the Bank of France has increased 16,563,000f. during the past week. Exchange on London, 25f 15 1/2c. for short sight.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 26—12:30 P. M.—Cotton—The market is active; Middling Uplands, 6d.; Middling Orleans, 6 3-16d.; sales, 20,000 bales, including 3,000 for speculation and export; additional sales late yesterday after the regular closing, 8,000 bales; receipts, 2,100 bales, all American. Futures steady; Uplands, Low Middling clause, January and February delivery, 5 31-32d.; also sales of the same at 6d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, February and March delivery, 6d.; also sales of the same at 6 1-32d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, March and April delivery, 6d.; also sales 5 31-32d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, new crop, shipped November and December, sail, 6d.; Uplands, low middling clause, new crop, shipped November and December, 5 31-32d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, shipped December and January, sail, 6d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, new crop, shipped January and February, sail, 6 1-16d.

2 P. M.—Cotton—Uplands, Low Middling clause, November and December delivery, 5 31-32d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, December and January delivery, 5 31-32d.; Uplands, Low Middling clause, new crop, shipped October and November, sail, 6d.

3:30 P. M.—Cotton—Estimated to-day's sales 6,200 bales for American. Produce—Tallow, 44s. P cwt.

3:30 P. M.—Cotton—Uplands, Low Middling clause, December and January delivery, 6d.

4 P. M.—Cotton—Uplands, Low Middling clause, March and April delivery, 6 1-16d.

4:30 P. M.—Lard, 47s. 3d. P cwt. for American; Bacon, 47s. 3d. P cwt. for Short Clear Middles.

5 P. M.—Cotton—Uplands, Low Middling clause, March and April delivery, 6 1-16d.

DEFECTS OF THE MODERN PRESS.

A DISCUSSION BY THE CHURCH CONGRESS AT PLYMOUTH, ENGLAND—JOURNALISM AND THE CLERGY.

From the London Telegraph.

During the recent meeting of the Church Congress at Plymouth a discussion was devoted to the reported dearth of the best kind of candidates for holy orders. On this subject the exactions of the Bishops, of the congregations, and of society are apt to differ; the qualifications thus severally demanded vary, and all combined form a composite standard of a somewhat high kind. Two other topics occupied the congress—the "alienated classes" and newspapers. One speaker complained that only five per cent. of the working men went to church. Rev. H. Hugo said that the mobs of Lancashire and London are as heathen as those denounced by St. Paul in the first chapter of the Epistle to the Romans. Some of the denunciations thus hurled at the humbler classes in the metropolis and in one of our greatest counties are too strong for quotation—the mildest are bad enough. If this clerical gentleman speak truth, the masses of our people are "filled with all unrighteousness, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents without understanding, covenant breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful." It is easy for Mr. Hugo to fling about such wild charges, but we doubt much whether his knowledge is equal to his zeal. He gave as his ideal of a sermon that it must be "short and sharp." If all that are as sharp as his, a little would certainly go a long way. No wonder that after such an outburst the Congress fell to lamenting the defects of the modern press. Nothing half as full flavored as Mr. Hugo's diatribes appears in ordinary journalism. It seems that the secular press is not religious enough for Mr. Hugo and his friends; therefore one gentleman proposed that "a penny weekly newspaper for the million" should be started, and another that it should be subsidized by the Christian Knowledge Society to the extent of ten thousand a year. There is something round and mouth-filling in both proposals; a million readers is a fine prospect for any journalist; a subsidy of £10,000 a year is also solid and satisfactory. But, in being entitled to speak with some authority on this topic, and having no enmity to the clergy, we should not advise them to desert their parsonages and pulpits for the editorial office and desk. There is a certain mysstery about every craft, and we are not sure that a journal entirely supplied with leading articles by persons formerly accustomed to writing sermons would be either an interesting or influential publication. We fear that it would require something more than the proposed subsidy to keep it long afloat. The proposer of this clerical expedition into a new field denounced a certain section of our papers as "Disgusting, Radical, and irreligious." Will the kind of vague denunciation be the model for the new editor? Could not the pious assailant be a little more distinctive in his attacks? A "Radical" may or may not be "irreligious;" a "Dissenter" may or may not be a "Radical." When, however, a whole party of men is described as at the same time "Dissenting" and "irreligious," we fear that the unfortunate gentleman who uttered the words must live in a very narrow ideal Church of his own, with the notion that all outside are something like the heathen. If he is appointed to conduct the new Church paper it will certainly be a formidable rival, not to its secular contemporaries, but to some of those clerical journals that are now distinguished for vituperation. But whether the Christian Knowledge Society will give him £10,000 a year in order that week after week he may denounce "Dissenters" as "irreligious" remains to be seen. They will probably prefer to spend the money as now on "books and novelettes and illuminated cards"—engines of conversion which Canon Erskine Clarke spoke of with some contempt.

THE GHOST OF MOHAMMED.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

The founder of Islam is displeased with the conduct of his followers, and has appeared in broad daylight before the eyes of the guardian of his tomb at Medina. The hour of the vision was 2 P. M., just as Sheik Ahmed had concluded his prayers and returned to his meditations on the Koran. What the Prophet said was in this wise:

"Ahmed Hossain, my followers are sinning. Seventy thousand of them have died lately. Of that number only seven have died in the faith. In consequence of the prevalence of such sins as lithurgy, drunkenness, murder, forgery, adultery, &c., and the neglect of fasting during Ramazan, God withheld rain. My instructions previously given have not been heeded. Kings have not ruled justly. They have all become tyrannical. It has been revealed to me that my followers do not fear the anger of God, though the Day of Judgment is nigh. I prayed for the pardon of my people. It has been revealed to me that in 1295 H. darkness will cover the face of the earth. It will commence in the beginning of Jammadoosanee and continue to the middle of Rujjub—a month and a half. During the prevalence of this dense darkness, Hazrat Immam Mehnd, the last of the prophets, will come to earth, and Hazrael will also come to take up the Koran. Whosoever will freely circulate this my revelation will be protected by me in the Day of Judgment. Whosoever doubts the revelation is an infidel and will go to hell."

Sheik Ahmed stoutly affirms his own veracity, and wishes that his face may be blackened both in this world and in the next if he is telling a lie. Of course nobody doubts the word of a lineal descendant of Mohammed. The faithful are in conclusion enjoined to fast three consecutive days, when they may partake of a little goor, the same preparation of sugar which the Thugs used to affect. Persistence in prayer, the liberal distribution of alms, and the circulation of the above document ipsy perchance, avail to turn aside the wrath of Allah.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following business was transacted at the Exchange yesterday, (Thursday,) Oct. 26:

James M. Miller, at public auction, sold the following improved property: One five-story brick building, with lot 25 by 100 6, No. 33 Baxter st., north side, 85.2 feet west of Park st., sold for $20,025 to D. Shumway; one similar building, with lot 16 ov 100.6, No. 41 Baxter st., north side, west of the above, sold for $11,500 to A. C. Williamson; one three-story and basement brick house (front) and carriage-house, (rear,) with plot of land 33 by 98.9, Nos. 215 and 217 East 36th st., north side, 200 feet east of 3d av., sold for $16,750 to David Cook; one four-story brick store and dwelling (front) and a four-story brick building, (rear,) with lot 24.9 by 80, No. 685 2d av., north-west corner of 37th st., sold for $22,500 to George Otto, Jr.; two three-story frame houses, with plot of land 20.6 by 54.4 by 200.2 by 84.11, on Hudson River Railroad, east side, whole front between 64th and 65th sts., sold for $19,100 to Jane A. Prouty. Also, a two-story and attic frame house, with two lots, each 25 by 59.8, Nos. 896 and 898 Flushing av., south side, 530 feet east of Bushwick av., Brooklyn, sold for $2,950 to David Cuhra. The same auctioneer, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, Charles Price, Esq., Referee, sold a plot of land, 36.2 by 107.2, on 6th av., north-west corner of 115th st., for $50 over the incumbrances, (amount not stated,) to John Townshend.

Bernard Smyth, under a foreclosure decree of the Court of Common Pleas, R. M. Henry, Esq., Referee, sold a five-story brick tenement-house, with lot 24.8 by 100, on 7th av., east side, 71.1 feet north of 34th st., for $31,500, to Wm. G. Lathrop, Jr., plaintiff in the legal action.

The following legal sales were adjourned: Sale by D. M. Seaman of a house, with lot, on 10th av., north of 33d st., to Oct. 30; sale by R. V. Harnett, of houses and lots on 4th av., east of 85th st., to Nov. 3; sale by Peter F. Meyer, of a house, with lot, on East 55th st., east of 2d av., to Nov. 16, and sale by Jas. M. Miller, of lot on Broadway, north of 77th st., to Nov. 22.

TO-DAY'S AUCTIONS.

To-day's sales, all at the Exchange, are as follows:

By Winans & Davies, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, William P. Dixon, Esq., Referee, of a building, with lot 25 by 137.6 by 25 by 127.6, on Broadway, east side, 93.4 feet north of 4th st.

By Peter F. Harnett, Supreme Court foreclosure sale, H. L. Cole, Esq., Referee, of two houses, with lots each 25 by 50, on Oliver st., east side, 55 feet north of South st. Also, similar sale, S. M. Morehouse, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, 50.4 by 100, on 11th av., south-east corner 60th st. Also, similar sale, T. C. Campbell, Esq., Referee, of a plot of land, 25 by 230 by 225 by 260, on West 213th st., south side, 175 feet east of 10th av.

EXCHANGE SALES—THURSDAY, OCT. 26.

NEW-YORK.

By James M. Miller.

1 five-story brick building, with lot, No. 33 Baxter st., n. s., 85.2 ft. n. of Park st., lot 2.100.8..... $29,025

1 similar building, with lot, No. 41 Baxter st., n. s., w. of the above, lot 16x100.6..... 11,850

1 three-story and basement brick house (front) and carriage-house, (rear,) with lot 24.9 by 80, Nos. 215 and 217 East 36th st., n. s., 200 ft. e. of 3d av., lot 33x98.9..... 16,750

1 four-story brick store and dwelling (front) and four-story brick building, (rear,) with lot, No. 685 2d av., n. w. corner 37th st., lot 24.9x80..... 22,500

2 three-story frame houses, with plot of land, Hudson River Railroad, e. s., whole front between 64th and 65th sts., plot 203.6x20.4x irr.x84.11..... 19,100

1 two-story and attic frame house, with two lots, Nos. 896 and 898 Flushing av., s. s., 530 ft. e. of Bushwick av., each lot 25x69.8, Brooklyn..... 2,950

1 plot of land, 6th av., n. w. corner 115th st., plot 36.2x107.2, over incumbrances..... 50

By Bernard Smyth.

1 five-story brick tenement-house, with lot, 7th av., e. s., 74.1 ft. n. of 34th st., lot 24.8x100.3 irr.x100..... 31,500

RECORDED REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

NEW-YORK.

Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Elm av., s. w. s., 24th ward; C. Clark and wife to E. B. Lawrence..... $1,000

Harlington st., w. s., 22d st., n. of sheriff st., 25x79; Mary Mosher to H. Brennich..... 16,825

City Hall place, n. w. corner Duane st., 67x75; also, City Hall place, 10.5 ft. w. of Pearl st., 20.1x100; Mary McCloskey, Cardinal, to Church of St. Andrew..... nom.

52d st., n. s., 275 ft. w. of 5th av., 20x100.4; E. S. Bryce and husband to W. L. Skidmore.. nom.

45th st., s. s., 333 ft. e. of 3d av., 27x100.4; F. Baltinger and wife to A. Bostwick..... 18,138

64th st., n. s., 200 ft. e. of 5th av., 25x100.5x irregular; J. A. Bostwick and wife to A. J. Johnson..... 230,000

6th av., w. s., 50.9 ft. n. of 23d st., 24x63; Reynolds Dessett to Lyon Mowbray et al..... nom.

Elizabeth st., w. s., 100 ft. n. of Canal st., 75x183; Alvin J. Johnson and wife to J. A. Bostwick..... 150,000

Mercer st., w. s., No. 53, 25x100; H. R. Searles to L. Strebeigh..... nom.

Same property; L. Strebeigh to F. J. Searles.. nom.

123d st., n. s., 90 ft. w. of 4th av., 20x6.11; Charles Welde and wife to J. H. Voss..... nom.

59th st., s. s., 231.3 ft. w. of Avenue A, 75x100.5; H. A. Post to E. H. Cookbum..... 27,000

Lexington av., w. s., 23.5 ft. n. of 43d st., 16.8x75; J. V. Hasen to C. T. Cromwell. 14,000

5th av., s. s., 25.5 ft. n. of 65th st., 50x100; H. Gall, Referee, to F. R. Coudert and others, Trustees..... 39,250

3d av., w. s., 101.5 ft. n. of 83d st., 25x94.7; R. H. Henry, Referee, to Mary Bechi..... 15,650

Madison av., e. s., 82.2 ft. n. of 79th st., 20x77; A. W. Lopez, Referee, to Mary McGray..... 17,000

41st st., n. s., 383.4 ft. e. of 2d av., 16.8x80.5; S. H. Johnson, Referee, to W. L. Cutting..... 1,700

36th st., s. s., 375 ft. w. of 8th av., 10.x98.9; B. C. Chetwood, Referee, to T. Stillman..... 35,650

CITY REAL ESTATE.

FIFTH AV., MURRAY HILL.—VERY DESIRABLE extra-sized house, (price low;) smaller house or country residence taken in part; others on and near 5th av. at bargains.
W. P. SEYMOUR, No. 171 Broadway.

A FULL-SIZE FOUR-STORY STONE Residence, 48th st. and 5th av.; a bargain. 4 Pine and 83 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

COUNTRY REAL ESTATE.

ORANGE, N. J.—COUNTRY HOUSES, LANDS, villa sites for sale. Also, to rent for variety of stock, furnished and unfurnished houses to let for season or year, by WALTER E. SMITH, formerly Blackwell & Smith, Orange, corner of Main and Cooper sts.

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

M. A. J. LYNCH & SONS, Auctioneers, Office 10 Pine st. THIS DAY, VALUABLE PROPERTY.—Ton north-west corner of Broome and Mulberry sts., will be sold at auction on Tuesday, Oct. 31, 1876, at 12 M., at Exchange sales room, No. 111 Broadway, in following parcels: Corner parcel, 8.6.6, on Broome st., 116 feet on Mulberry st., with four brick dwellings thereon; lot on Mulberry st., adjoining above, 25x75, with brick building thereon; lot on Broome st., adjoining same, 20x93.9x104.6, with brick building thereon.

DWELLINGS TO LET.

A SUPERIOR FOUR-STORY BRICK DWELLing, on West 12th st., complete in every respect; newly painted through st; mirrors, chandeliers, gas fixtures. Rent low to desirable tenant.
V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.,
33 East 17th st., or 4 Pine st.

APARTMENTS.—TEN-ROOMS, NO. 265 WEST 25th st.—For small families; brown-stone; light; ventilate; Oriel window; Jackson's grates; elegant gas-fixtures; spacious garden; $380 to $500; lunch.

MADISON AV., CORNER 73D ST.—ELEGANT modern residence, in complete order, $1,600. No. 4 Pine, or No. 33 east 17th st.
V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

ONLY $225 A MONTH FOR A BEAUTIFULLY-furnished and frescoed 55th st. modern-stone dwelling, near 5th av. Permits a. 4 Pine and 33 East 17th st. V. K. STEVENSON, Jr.

THREE ROOMS, THIRD FLOOR, UNFURnished, to a respectable American gentleman and wife; location central; bath and gas. No. 110 East 11th st., near 4th av.

FOR RENT—FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED, three-story high-stoop brick house, 224 10. in complete order. Apply to the owner on the premises, No. 38 East 28th st.

FLOORS, NOS. 2.0 AND 224 EAST 27TH st., six rooms; good order. Apply at No. 119 East 36th st., or at No. 220, room 11 to 1.

TO LET—THE WHOLE OR PART OF A FURnished French flat; 10 modern improvements. Address No. 105 West 44th st.; third bell.

TO LET—TWO LARGE SUITES IN THE NEW AND elegantly-finished French apartment house, corner of 40th st. and Park av., facing the Park.

STORES, &C., TO LET.

TO LET—AN OFFICE IN THE TIMES BUILDING, second floor, 23 feet by 23 feet, in good condition, suitable for a lawyer's office. Apply to
GEORGE JONES,
Times Office.

TO LET FOR BUSINESS PURPOSES—LOFTS in 13th st., between 3d and 4th ave., with or without power; also, second floor at No. 114 East 14th st; suitable for an office. Inquire at F. GROTE & CO., on the premises.

REAL ESTATE WANTED.

WANTED—TILL MAY 1, THREE-STORY HIGH-stoop house nearly furnished. Address, stating location and price, G., Box No. 230 TIMES UP-TOWN OFFICE, No. 1,257 BROADWAY.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

THE UP-TOWN OFFICE OF THE TIMES, No. 1,257 BROADWAY,

The up-town office of THE TIMES is located at No. 1,257 Broadway, bet. 31st and 32d sts. Open daily, Sundays included, from 4 A. M. to 9 P. M. Subscriptions received, and copies of THE TIMES for sale.

ADVERTISEMENTS RECEIVED UNTIL 9 P. M.

CHAMBER-MAID AND WAITRESS.—BY A neat, tidy girl; is willing and obliging; and has three years' City reference from last place. Call at No. 337 East 32d st.

CHAMBER-MAID AND LAUNDRESS.—BY a competent young woman; good reference. Call at No. 122 West 20th st.

